PSALM—NOTE ON 37:32–40 This final section assures the faithful that the LORD will not abandon them to the power of the wicked (vv. 32–33). He will ensure that both the righteous and the wicked receive their proper reward in due time (probably in the world to come, vv. 37–38; see note on v. 9).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 38. In this lament the singer lays his troubles before God, fully realizing that those troubles result from his own sin. The psalm describes anguish of body and mind, desertion by friends, and how the singer's folly has made him vulnerable to enemies. The title associates the psalm with the "memorial offering" (see note on Lev. 2:1–3).

FACT

The laurel tree (37:35) may be the sweet-bay tree, which is found all over the Mediterranean and can grow up to 60 feet (18 m) in height. Parts of the tree can be used for medicinal purposes while its leaves (bay leaves) can be used for seasoning food.

PSALM—NOTE ON 38:1–8 The singer acknowledges that he deserves his anguish because of his sin (anger, wrath, v. 1; because of, vv. 3, 5, 8).

PSALM—NOTE ON 38:9–14 The singer's friends and companions stand aloof (v. 11), thus adding loneliness to helplessness (vv. 10–11). This leaves him vulnerable to those who seek his life (vv. 12–14).

PSALM—NOTE ON 38:15–22 The singer shows true faith in confessing his sin (v. 18) and in calling the Lord his salvation (v. 22).

FACT

Snares (38:12) were traps used to catch birds and animals. Some snares used ropes or nets that would be triggered as soon as the bait was touched. Pits disguised with sticks and leaves were also used as snares. In the Psalms, snares serve as symbols of danger or death at the hands of the wicked.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 39. This psalm allows those who are suffering to express their confusion to God. The circumstances of the suffering are left vague, although there is acknowledgment of sin (vv. 8, 11). Suffering is a reminder of how fleeting human life is.

PSALM—NOTE ON 39:1–3 The singer is probably concerned with what he might say aloud in his suffering before the wicked, perhaps blaming God. But he knows he must say something, and worship is the way to do it.

PSALM—NOTE ON 39:4–6 To really understand how brief life is would protect the singer from wasting his life in pursuing wealth.

PSALM—NOTE ON 39:7–13 The singer asks God to deliver him from all his transgressions, thus admitting that he deserves God’s rebukes for sin. Look away (v. 13) asks God to turn away his angry gaze.

FACT

How long is a handbreadth? A handbreadth (39:5) was considered to be the width of the four fingers on one hand, or roughly 4 inches (10 cm).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 40. This psalm combines thanks for past mercies with a new request for God’s help.

PSALM—NOTE ON 40:1–10 The singer reflects on previous situations in which he called on God for help (vv. 1–3). These situations have reinforced the lesson, blessed is the man who makes the LORD his trust (v. 4). The song also teaches that one needs to thank God publicly for his help (vv. 3, 9–10).

PSALM—NOTE ON 40:6–8 Offering sacrifices without faith, repentance, and obedience is useless (see 50:8–15; 51:16–19; Isa. 1:11–17; Heb. 10:5–7). An open ear is one ready to listen to and obey God's words.

PSALM—NOTE ON 40:11–17 Verse 11 alludes to Ex. 34:6. Previous experiences provide assurance that, in the current difficulties (evils . . . beyond number and my iniquities, Ps. 40:12), God will again make haste to help the singer (v. 13). The faithful (all who seek the Lord) will rejoice and be glad (v. 16) when the singer tells the "glad news" in the "great congregation" (v. 9).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 41. This is a lament in which a person has fulfilled his responsibilities to the poor and yet is suffering severely. He prays for God's help and vindication.

PSALM—NOTE ON 41:1–3 The person who considers the poor is kind to them because they are fellow members of God's people (usually "the poor" in the OT refers specifically to the poor in Israel). God honors the person who shows such kindness. He delivers him, protects him and, more specifically, sustains him on his sickbed.

PSALM—NOTE ON 41:9 One expects enemies to be treacherous, but here the pain of betrayal comes from his close friend, who had received only kindness and who has now lifted his heel against the singer (see John 13:18).

PSALM—NOTE ON 41:11–12 The singer returns to the faith described in vv. 1–3. Because of his faith, he can be confident that God will continue to honor his integrity, specifically his kindness to the poor (v. 1).

Study Notes for Psalms, Book Two

Psalms PSALM—NOTE ON 42–43. While each of these psalms can be taken separately, Psalms 42–43 go well together as a song with three stanzas: they share a refrain (42:5, 11; 43:5); 43:2 is almost the same as 42:9; and they both express the longing to return to God's presence in the sanctuary (42:2; 43:3–4). The singer laments his circumstances, which keep him from attending worship and enjoying God's presence at the central sanctuary.

FACT

There were at least three known species of deer in ancient Palestine. The red deer was the largest. The male could weigh up to 500 pounds (225 kg) while the female weighed up to 350 pounds (160 kg).

PSALM—NOTE ON 42:1–5 The song begins with an expression of longing for God himself, using the image of thirst: As a deer pants for flowing streams. For the faithful, the answer to this longing comes in public worship (appear before God at the sanctuary; see Ex. 23:17).

PSALM—NOTE ON 42:6–11 The second stanza sharpens the description of the singer's situation. He is in the land of Jordan and of Hermon, far from the sanctuary in Jerusalem. He knows that God is not literally absent (v. 6), but he also feels that the sanctuary is where he meets God most fully. This stanza ends, like the first, with self-encouragement.

PSALM—NOTE ON 43:1–5 In the third stanza of Psalms 42–43, the singer asks God to vindicate him against the ungodly people (43:1; see note on 26:1–3) who torment him with their taunts (42:3). The stanza closes, like the others, with encouragement.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 44. This is a hymn for times when God's people as a whole have suffered some great calamity at the hands of their enemies. When the worshiping congregation sings this, they remind themselves of their privileged standing with God, of their obligation to faith and holiness, and of God's unfailing loyalty to his purpose for them.

PSALM—NOTE ON 44:1–8 The song opens by recalling the ways God has favored his people over the Gentiles in the past (vv. 2, 7). The people recognize that God's special provision, not their own abilities, is responsible for their well-being (vv. 3, 6). They should boast in God and give thanks to his name forever (v. 8).

PSALM—NOTE ON 44:9–16 In light of this past (vv. 1–8), the current situation is difficult to understand. God has apparently rejected his people (v. 9), no longer giving them success against their foes (v. 11).

PSALM—NOTE ON 44:17–22 The pain of the situation is especially sharp because the community claims not to have forgotten God or to have been false to his covenant (v. 17). They acknowledge that if they had done so, God would know it and would be right to discipline them. The community is not, however, claiming absolute sinlessness.

PSALM—NOTE ON 44:23–26 Remembering God's history with his people strengthens the community to pray for his aid in the present. The last word is a request for God to redeem (see note on 25:22), for the sake of his steadfast love—a request that God is sure to honor.

FACT

Forgetting the name of God (44:20). Many of the pagan religions of OT times taught that a god's power was tied directly to its name. The false prophets of Jeremiah's time believed that, if they could erase God's name from the people's memory, they would follow Baal instead (Jer. 23:26–27). However, God does not forget his people, even when they have forgotten him (Deut. 4:31).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 45. This hymn celebrates a royal wedding. It is impossible to be sure for which king in David's line the song was first composed, but it does not matter. After 2 Sam. 7:11–16, the line of David was the appointed channel through which God would bless his people and carry out his mission to the whole world.

PSALM—NOTE ON 45:1 The words of this song are addressed to the king.

PSALM—NOTE ON 45:2–9 These words speak to the king, praising him for his appearance and gracious speech (v. 2), military power (v. 3), and commitment to promoting justice (vv. 4–7a). These ideals are what lead to God's blessing for the king, and to the king's own respected position in the world (vv. 7b–9).

PSALM—NOTE ON 45:6–7 Your throne, O God. The song now speaks to God about his throne. This refers to the throne that the heir of David occupies. The psalm goes on to describe the divine ideals for a king's reign (scepter of uprightness).

FACT

Fragrant robes. The anointing of a person did not always involve the use of oil. Plant extracts such as aloe, cassia (similar to cinnamon), and myrrh were used during celebrations such as weddings and coronations. The extracts would either be oiled or brushed onto the clothes to give off a pleasing aroma. (See 45:7–8.)

PSALM—NOTE ON 45:10–12 The song turns to the bride (O daughter). Her loyalty now is to her husband (the king), no longer to her father's house. The reference to her people can simply mean the people of her hometown (e.g., 1 Sam. 9:12–13).

PSALM—NOTE ON 45:16–17 The song speaks of the king's enduring line. The marriage of a Davidic king is not a private matter. It is crucial for the fulfilling of God's promises, not simply to Israel but to the nations.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 46. The psalm is a hymn celebrating Zion as the special city. God has pledged himself to her, and through her he will bless the world. The psalm has two stanzas, marked by a refrain (vv. 7, 11).

PSALM—NOTE ON 46:1–7 The people of God are secure, even in chaotic times, because God is their refuge and strength (v. 1). God has chosen Zion to be his holy habitation (the place of his sanctuary, where his people meet him in worship, v. 4). Though the mountains be moved (v. 2), Zion shall not be moved (v. 5).

PSALM—NOTE ON 46:8–11 Since be still, and know that I am God is plural, readers should imagine God speaking these words to the nations. This will be the means by which he makes wars cease. The LORD of hosts is with us. He will ensure that the mission of Gen. 12:1–3 is accomplished.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 47. This psalm celebrates God's rule over all the earth (see note on 5:2). The promises to Abraham (47:9), that all peoples will be blessed in him (Gen. 12:3), are founded on the fact that there is only one true God. All mankind owes him love and loyalty.

PSALM—NOTE ON 47:1–4 The Lord loves Israel and gave them their heritage. They hold this special place in order to show all peoples how to fear and love God. God's subduing of the Canaanites is not his final word for the Gentiles.

PSALM—NOTE ON 47:5–7 This probably looks back to the ark going to reside in Jerusalem. Second Samuel 6:15 tells of how the ark was made to go up with a shout (see Psalm 24).

PSALM—NOTE ON 47:8–9 The psalm looks forward to the day when the Gentile princes of the peoples gather for worship as the people of the God of Abraham, that is, the people to whom the blessing of Abraham has finally come.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 48. Like Psalm 46, Psalm 48 is a hymn celebrating Zion as God's special city, which he defends for the sake of the world. It remembers some great event, in which Gentile powers had attacked Jerusalem but did not conquer it. Though material fortresses may have their place, it is crucial that God himself be the defense of his people.

PSALM—NOTE ON 48:1–3 The mention of his holy mountain and the temple (v. 9) shows that God resides in his sacred city through his presence in the sanctuary. It is the joy of all the earth, that is, of all persons everywhere who value the reality of God's presence.

PSALM—NOTE ON 48:7 Ships of Tarshish were capable of long voyages in the Mediterranean. Tarshish is probably at the western end of the sea, in modern Spain.

PSALM—NOTE ON 48:9–11 The people assembled for worship reflect on how God has displayed his steadfast love in delivering and preserving them as his people. He called them so that his praise might reach to the ends of the earth, that is, so that the Gentiles would come to know him. Daughters of Judah refers to Israel's towns and villages.

PSALM—NOTE ON 48:12–14 The worshipers know that God's people are secure. They are commissioned to tell the next generation of their security and their mission.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 49. This is a wisdom psalm. In particular, it addresses the confusion that the faithful often feel when they encounter trouble even while unfaithful people seem to get along so well. Is not God expected to show his favor for the faithful in how he treats them? The answer is that God will distinguish between the faithful and the unfaithful in what happens to them when they die (vv. 12, 20). Verses 12 and 20 are very similar, the key difference being in the words translated "remain" and "understanding," which sound almost the same in Hebrew. The element of understanding makes the difference. Those who sing this psalm will want to continue living faithfully. They will be strengthened against the temptation either to despair or to give up and join the unfaithful. See also Psalms 37 and 73.

PSALM—NOTE ON 49:1–4 The terms wisdom and understanding are used in the Wisdom Books to describe genuine spiritual perception. It is the ability to approach life from God's perspective.

PSALM—NOTE ON 49:5–12 After presenting the puzzle (vv. 5–6), the song reminds all its singers that every single person has the same end, death (vv. 7–12). The point about all dying is made in two ways: in vv. 7–9, no one can bribe death; in vv. 10–12, both the wise (who embraces God's covenant) and the fool (who stupidly rejects God's covenant) die.

PSALM—NOTE ON 49:13–20 God treats these two groups differently when they die. The unfaithful are like sheep . . . appointed for Sheol, while God will ransom the faithful person's soul from the power of Sheol (vv. 14–15). Sheol represents the grim place of destruction for the wicked, and not simply the grave (see note on 6:5).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 50. Through this psalm the worshipers announce God's standards for living as part of his covenant people. The God who summons the earth (v. 1) plans to judge his own people (v. 4). He particularly warns all who presume that the sacrificial system is a way to satisfy God without having a living relationship with him.

PSALM—NOTE ON 50:1–6 The LORD, the God of Israel, is the Mighty One, who made and rules heaven and earth. So when he speaks and summons the earth, he has the right to expect all mankind to pay attention. He especially expects it from Israel, his faithful ones, who made a covenant with him by sacrifice (v. 5; see Ex. 24:8).

PSALM—NOTE ON 50:7–15 God's people must realize that he does not depend upon sacrifices in any way (v. 8) since he owns the entire world (vv. 10–13). God wants his people to offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving and to perform vows (v. 14), both of which are kinds of peace offerings (Lev. 7:11–12, 16). Membership in God's people is about being welcome in his presence (Ps. 50:14), depending on him (v. 15), and dealing justly with others (vv. 19–20, 23).

PSALM—NOTE ON 50:16–22 The wicked here are members of the covenant people who despise the privileges and responsibilities of the covenant (vv. 16–17). The covenant should have connected them with all of God's people to tell the world of God's greatness, but instead they use their tongues for destructive purposes (vv. 18–20).

PSALM—NOTE ON 50:23 Membership in God's favored people should mean joyful delight in God's presence (thanksgiving as his sacrifice), and a just and kind life in fellowship with God's people (orders his way rightly).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 51. This is probably the best known of the "Penitential Psalms" (Psalms 6; 25; 32; 38; 51; 130; 143). According to the title, David composed this psalm after being convicted of his sins, both in committing adultery with Bathsheba and in arranging the murder of Bathsheba's husband (2 Sam. 12:1–14). At the same time, this is more than David's personal prayer. It also encourages the worshiping congregation to confess their own sins (e.g., Ps. 51:16–19).

PSALM—NOTE ON 51:1–2 The terms mercy and steadfast love, as well as transgressions, iniquity, and sin, focus on God's grace and kindness, echoing Ex. 34:6–7. The terms wash (see Ex. 19:10) and cleanse (see Num. 19:19) come from the ceremonial system, where they refer to rites that allow a person to come safely into God's presence.

PSALM—NOTE ON 51:4 Against you, you only, have I sinned. Of course, in doing wrong he has hurt others, but God is the ultimate judge of all sin.

PSALM—NOTE ON 51:5 in sin did my mother conceive me. Each worshiper can trace his sinful tendencies to the very beginning of his existence—not only from birth but even from before that, to conception.

PSALM—NOTE ON 51:6–13 One who is repentant craves a fresh sense of God's presence (vv. 8–9, 11), a deeper purification of the moral life (vv. 6, 10, 12), and a credible witness to the unfaithful (v. 13). The focus is on the inmost self, from which obedient actions flow: inward being, secret heart (v. 6); clean heart, right spirit (v. 10). The goal of this confession is not humiliation but a renewal of joy and gladness (v. 8) in God's presence.

PSALM—NOTE ON 51:9 Usually when God is said to hide his face from someone, it means that he will no longer look upon that person with favor (see 13:1; 22:24; 27:9; Deut. 31:17; 32:20; Isa. 59:2). Here the singer asks God no longer to look upon his sins. To blot out (see Ps. 51:1) is to remove completely from the record book; see Ex. 32:32.

FACT

Hyssop is a member of the mint family. Its fuzzy leaves and branches produce bunches of small white or yellow flowers. During Passover, the people of Israel used hyssop branches to place blood above their doors and on their doorposts (Ex. 12:22). In Psalm 51, hyssop symbolizes being cleansed from sin (see Lev. 14:4–6; Num. 19:6).

PSALM—NOTE ON 51:11 take not your Holy Spirit from me. Some scholars argue that here David asks God not to remove the divine anointing for kingship (compare note on 1 Sam. 16:14). But the whole tone of this psalm is that all persons are sinners and need God's mercy. The psalm intends to keep the entire congregation from ever presuming on God's grace. It does not teach that believers may in fact lose the Holy Spirit.

PSALM—NOTE ON 51:14–17 Terms in this section such as sing aloud, declare, and sacrifice point to activities of public worship. The person who has used this psalm to confess sins and to receive God's assurance of pardon is the one who can genuinely worship the gracious God of the covenant.

PSALM—NOTE ON 51:14 bloodguiltiness. Probably a reference to the slaying of Uriah (see 2 Sam. 12:9). The faithful may not have committed this particular sin, but they should be encouraged by God's forgiveness of it. If God can forgive David, he can certainly forgive anyone else!

PSALM—NOTE ON 51:16–17 sacrifice, burnt offering. These verses do not deny that the Israelites should offer sacrifices (see v. 19). Instead, they emphasize the proper attitude when offering sacrifices (a broken and contrite heart).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 52. The faithful develop confidence in God's care and protection, particularly when surrounded by ruthless enemies. The title sets the psalm during David's flight from Saul (1 Sam. 21:1–7), which led to Doeg's slaughtering the priests who had helped David (1 Sam. 22:9–19). Doeg is thus an example of the enemies the faithful might face.

PSALM—NOTE ON 52:1–4 The enemy's speech (boast, tongue, lying, words) is lies used to plot the destruction of the faithful. The enduring steadfast love of God is the answer to such evil (compare v. 8).

PSALM—NOTE ON 52:5–7 The righteous person who will trust in God (unlike the enemy, v. 7) is confident that he is always safe.

PSALM—NOTE ON 52:8–9 In contrast to the wicked who are "uprooted" (v. 5), the godly will be a green olive tree (an image of vitality and fruitfulness, see Jer. 11:16). While the enemy trusts in the abundance of his riches (Ps. 52:7), the faithful trust in the steadfast love of God forever and ever. The faithful wait for God to vindicate his name by protecting those who trust in him.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 53. This psalm is almost identical to Psalm 14. The two psalms were probably alternate versions of the same hymn before they were included in the Psalter. Both mourn the fact that mankind does not seek after God and thus God's people are treated cruelly. (See notes on Psalm 14.)

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 54. This is an individual lament, asking for God's help against those who threaten the lives of the faithful. The title connects the song to the events of 1 Sam. 23:19, where the Ziphites, among whom David was hiding, promised to hand David over to Saul. The psalm focuses on God's protection.

PSALM—NOTE ON 54:1–3 The psalm opens by describing the circumstances: ruthless men, who have no respect for God (they do not set God before themselves) seek my life. In such a case the proper appeal is to God's name (vv. 1, 6; God's name can be an image for his personal presence).

PSALM—NOTE ON 54:3 strangers. The Ziphites, who belong to Judah, are acting like Gentiles in opposing God's faithful.

PSALM—NOTE ON 54:6–7 The worshiper looks forward to continued enjoyment of God's presence and favor. The freewill offering is a kind of peace offering (Lev. 7:16), which celebrates God's goodness with a meal in his presence. The schemes of the ruthless cannot keep the faithful away from God forever.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 55. Like many other individual laments, this psalm prays for God’s help against dangerous enemies. There is a unique twist here. The danger comes from betrayal by a close friend (vv. 13–14, 20–21).

FACT

A helpful guide. The writers of the Psalms understood the importance of constant communication with God. They knew that God would hear their prayers, and they trusted him to act on their behalf. Believers today can benefit greatly by patterning their prayers after specific psalms.

PSALM—NOTE ON 55:1–3 The prayer is earnest (plea for mercy, restless in my complaint). the enemy, the wicked. These are not simply people who dislike the singer; they are enemies who will take violent measures to ruin the godly and stamp out true faith (vv. 3, 9–11, 21, 23).

PSALM—NOTE ON 55:4–8 This section describes more fully the intensity of the singer: in anguish, terrors of death, fear, trembling, and horror. If he could fly, he would take refuge in the wilderness (away from the raging in the city).

PSALM—NOTE ON 55:9–11 The singer seems to expect that the enemies will not repent of their evil (see v. 19).

PSALM—NOTE ON 55:9 divide their tongues. “Divide” is similar in Hebrew to the name Peleg, “in [whose] days the earth was divided” (Gen. 10:25). This is probably a reference to the Tower of Babel (Gen. 11:1–9), where God confused the language of the human schemers. The prayer is thus for the enemies to be prevented from working together to carry out their evil.

PSALM—NOTE ON 55:12–15 It is not a nameless enemy who is seeking to harm the faithful singer, but my companion, my familiar friend. Compare 41:9.

PSALM—NOTE ON 55:16–19 The psalmist describes both desperation (v. 17) and confidence (vv. 18–19).

PSALM—NOTE ON 55:20–21 covenant. His treacherous friend had sealed his seeming friendship with a solemn obligation; see 1 Sam. 18:3.

PSALM—NOTE ON 55:22–23 The singer addresses each of his fellow singers (your), and then God (you, O God). The reason the faithful can cast their burden on the LORD is that he can be trusted to bring judgment upon the evildoers in his own good timing.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 56. Many take this to be an individual lament, but it could also be a psalm of anticipated thanksgiving. The description of troubles and prayer changes into gratitude that God has heard and will act, as he has acted in the past. The specific troubles arise from people who aim to hurt the faithful singer, as is common with lament psalms. The title links the psalm with the events of 1 Sam. 21:10–15.

PSALM—NOTE ON 56:1–4 The singer's situation can be seen in the repetition of trample and attack. His response is seen in the repetition of trust. This enables those who sing the psalm to rightly respond when they are afraid.

PSALM—NOTE ON 56:8–11 God keeps account of the tears of his faithful ones. He is for those who trust in him.

PSALM—NOTE ON 56:12–13 The singer expresses his confidence that, if "God is for him" (v. 9), it is as good as done: God has delivered his soul from death.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 57. This is another individual lament, based on an event in David's life (probably 1 Sam. 22:1, but possibly 1 Sam. 24:3). Psalm 57 arose from Saul's persecution of David. The psalm has two sections, each ended by the refrain (vv. 5, 11), and each mentioning God's "steadfast love and faithfulness" (vv. 3, 10, drawing on Ex. 34:6). The faithful who sing this hymn can identify with David's confidence amid serious dangers. They can look beyond those dangers and seek God's honor.

FACT

Memorizing the Psalms. The poetic style of the Psalms make them easy to memorize. Throughout the centuries, many believers have memorized all 150 Psalms.

PSALM—NOTE ON 57:1–5 In the midst of dire circumstances the faithful person can cry out to God in the confidence that God hears and that he fulfills his purpose for his children.

PSALM—NOTE ON 57:3 save. See note on 3:2. His steadfast love and his faithfulness (compare 57:10) recalls Ex. 34:6.

PSALM—NOTE ON 57:6–11 The singer urges himself to praise God and to look forward to bringing testimony of God's goodness to the whole world (peoples and nations, v. 9; see Gen. 12:1–3; Ex. 19:5–6).

PSALM—NOTE ON 57:8 My glory refers to a person's best qualities.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 58. This is a community lament that God's people sing when they are confronted with injustice among their own rulers. Singing this in worship (1) helps the faithful to pray more earnestly for godly leadership; (2) helps form in the leaders themselves a true moral compass for their leadership; and (3) celebrates the prospect that—one day, sooner or later—God will vindicate his justice in the world, and those who trust him will rejoice exceedingly.

PSALM—NOTE ON 58:1 You gods (or "mighty lords"; see ESV footnote) can refer to human rulers to whom God gives power (compare Ex. 15:15, "leaders"; Job 41:25, "mighty"; Ezek. 32:21, "chiefs").

PSALM—NOTE ON 58:3–5 The song calls these unjust rulers wicked. This term, when applied to an Israelite, describes someone who does not honor God. They are Israelites who are using their position to squeeze the life out of their fellow Israelites (employing lies as well as "violence," v. 2). By doing this they destroy the community, every bit as much as the venom of a dangerous serpent destroys the one it bites.

PSALM—NOTE ON 58:6 teeth in their mouths, fangs of the young lions. The verse is a prayer that these evildoers may no longer have their present power to do harm.

PSALM—NOTE ON 58:10–11 God loves to see his creation functioning properly, which is why he loves justice. The righteous may suffer now, but they can know that one day God will bring justice in the world (see Gal. 6:9).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 59. This is an individual lament, seeking God's protection from enemies who threaten the faithful person's life. The title connects the psalm to 1 Sam. 19:11, where David escaped from Saul's men through a window. The psalm is geared for the particular case in which the hostility is "for no fault of mine" (Ps. 59:4). The song has two sections (vv. 1–10, 11–17). The first section is a cry for help, and the second section expresses confidence that God will protect the singer.

PSALM—NOTE ON 59:5 Nations (see v. 8) usually refers to Gentiles. The title, however, sets the psalm in a situation in which the enemies are Israelites. The psalm describes these Israelites who sought to kill David as acting like Gentiles (see note on 54:3).

PSALM—NOTE ON 59:6 The singer's enemies are howling like dogs, prowling about the city like a pack of semi-wild scavengers. Thus they posed a danger to any human who might venture out alone in the evening. But God is greater than these enemies. He can easily thwart their schemes (vv. 8–10).

PSALM—NOTE ON 59:11–17 The basic request is that God will bring judgment on these people in such a way that all people, both in Israel (my people, v. 11) and elsewhere (to the ends of the earth, v. 13), may know that a just, loving, and mighty God rules over Jacob and protects his faithful.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 60. This is a lament for the whole community of Israel at a time when their continued life in the land is being threatened by Gentile neighbors. The title says it is "for instruction." Perhaps this means that it is to instruct the people how to pray when their troops must fight. The title seems to link the psalm with the events of 2 Sam. 8:1–14.

FACT

Pride (59:12) is the opposite of humility. It means putting excessive confidence in one's own abilities, wealth, or position. Pride causes a person to crave the glory and honor that belong only to God.

PSALM—NOTE ON 60:1–5 rejected. The community believes God has treated them as if they were not his own people. They refer to themselves as your beloved. This is why the complaint is so touching, and why they may confidently pray for restoration. The salvation that they pray for is military success, so that Israel can be a blessing to the rest of the world.

PSALM—NOTE ON 60:6–8 God has spoken. The places mentioned in vv. 6–7 (Shechem, Succoth, Gilead, Manasseh, Ephraim, and Judah) are all parts of the land that God promised to Israel. The places in v. 8 (Moab, Edom, Philistia) are neighboring lands, which also belong to the Lord (see Ex. 19:5). Israel exists to bring blessing to the Gentiles. In David's time this normally happened as these nations came under Israelite control (see note on Psalm 2). Thus the military campaign is seen as part of Israel's mission to the world.

Banners served as battle flags in ancient wars. Attached to poles, they were used to signal troop movements or to serve as rallying points. Banners could be actual flags or they could be carved figures, often depicting a bird or animal. Each of the Israelite tribes may have had a banner to help organize the mass exodus out of Sinai. In Psalm 60:4, the banner is a symbol of God's protection over those who trust him.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 61. This psalm could be considered both an individual lament and a communal lament. It asks for God's help in times of trouble. Verses 6–7 tie royal well-being to the well-being of the whole people. Verse 8 looks forward to acts of public worship as the proper reaction to the help for which the psalm prays.

PSALM—NOTE ON 61:1–3 As the congregation sings this, they imagine themselves in all kinds of places (the end of the earth) and circumstances (when my heart is faint) in which they feel needy and in danger. In such times, God is a reliable refuge and strong tower.

PSALM—NOTE ON 61:4 To dwell in God's tent is to be his welcome guest in worship (see 23:6; 27:4).

PSALM—NOTE ON 61:6–7 If God will prolong the life of the king, and appoint steadfast love and faithfulness to watch over him (see Prov. 20:28), then God's people may rest secure in his blessing.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 62. God's people sing this psalm for encouragement as they are oppressed by powerful, wealthy people. In such a situation, it would be easy to despair, or else to seek security in power and wealth rather than in God.

PSALM—NOTE ON 62:1–2 God alone. God is the only reliable hope. The psalm contrasts God's salvation and the kind that comes through unjust means (see v. 10, "put no trust in extortion").

PSALM—NOTE ON 62:3–4 The next section speaks to those who attack a man, particularly through lies and injustice. The question how long is not asking for information but is expressing despair (compare 13:1).

PSALM—NOTE ON 62:8–10 After speaking to his own soul (vv. 5–7), the singer now addresses the whole congregation (O people). He urges them to trust in God and to find in him a refuge. They should refuse to participate in the methods of the attackers (put no trust in extortion). Humans are together lighter than a breath, so any merely human effort will fail to achieve lasting good.

PSALM—NOTE ON 62:11–12 To say once . . . twice is to indicate that the idea is certain. God has the power to carry out his will, and because of his steadfast love, his people can trust him to do that.

PSALM—NOTE ON 62:12 render to a man according to his work. In the final judgment, believers' deeds will show the reality of their faith (see Matt. 12:33–37; 16:27; John 5:28–29; James 1:12; Rev. 20:13).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 63. This psalm opens as if it were a lament, yet it is mainly a song of confident expectation. The psalm helps God's people gain confidence during times of trouble. It expresses confidence that they will be able to return to the sanctuary to worship God. The highest privilege a human can enjoy is to be a welcome member of the worshiping congregation. The references to "my soul" (vv. 1, 5, 8) express personal devotion to God.

PSALM—NOTE ON 63:1–2 The song opens with passionate expressions of longing for God: earnestly I seek, my soul thirsts, my flesh faints. The singer misses his experience of God in public worship. The sanctuary is the place of corporate worship, and God's glory is his special presence there with his people (see note on 26:4–8).

PSALM—NOTE ON 63:3–4 The past tense remembering of v. 2 becomes a future expectation: my lips will praise you, I will bless you, I will lift up my hands. This happens because your steadfast love is better than life.

PSALM—NOTE ON 63:6 in the watches of the night. The singer deals with sleeplessness by meditating on God.

PSALM—NOTE ON 63:9–11 The song explains where the troubles came from: those who seek to destroy my life. For David, these were Israelites who rebelled against God's choice of David as king (see the title). David, and those who respect his kingship, will not fall prey to these enemies but will rejoice in God.

PSALM—NOTE ON 63:10 The enemies of God's people will become a portion for jackals, a grim description of dead bodies lying unburied after a battle.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 64. This individual lament shares with Psalm 63 a confidence in God's victory over those who bring troubles on the righteous. The psalm has two parts: a request for help against deadly schemes (64:1–6), and confident expectation that God will fight on behalf of his faithful (vv. 7–10). God gives victory as instruction for mankind (v. 9) and to bring joy to the godly (v. 10).

PSALM—NOTE ON 64:1–6 The psalmist makes three requests (hear my voice, preserve my life, hide me) and describes his enemies and their wicked schemes. The enemy is made up of wicked people (v. 2) who use bitter words (vv. 3–4), which become snares (v. 5). This could be referring either to lies that cause disagreement or slander that destroys reputations.

PSALM—NOTE ON 64:7–10 Those who shoot their bitter words like arrows aimed at the innocent (vv. 3–4) will find that God shoots his arrow at them. God brings them down as they deserve (v. 8), with their own tongues turned against them. The people see what God has done, and it makes them think about who he is (all mankind fears).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 65. This is a thanksgiving for a fruitful harvest (vv. 9–13), which has come because of God's faithfulness to his covenant promises (vv. 1–8).

PSALM—NOTE ON 65:1–4 These verses describe public worship at the central sanctuary. They celebrate God's unlimited kindness and mercy to his people (you atone for our transgressions). The holiness of God's temple brings delight to his people.

PSALM—NOTE ON 65:5–8 This section recalls the awesome deeds God has done for his people. The special focus is creation, which ties in well with the celebration of a fruitful harvest. The OT often expresses the truth that God as Creator is the hope of all the ends of the earth. He is the one true God whom all mankind should worship.

FACT

The psalmist David's desire to dwell in God's courts (65:4), that is, in the sanctuary, recalls his closing words in Psalm 23: "and I shall dwell in the house of the LORD forever."

PSALM—NOTE ON 65:9–13 The psalmist imagines what the ground itself would feel under God's blessing. This is a land producing abundantly for man and beast.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 66. This is a thanksgiving for God's answer to the prayer of one particular member of God's people. The first half (vv. 1–12) describes God's deeds for that particular person in the context of his commitment to the people as a whole.

PSALM—NOTE ON 66:1–4 These opening verses begin with a universal call (Shout for joy to God, all the earth) and end by declaring how all the earth worships the true God. Nature honors its Creator (see 19:1–6), and the OT often expresses the hope that one day all mankind will do so as well (e.g., 117:1).

PSALM—NOTE ON 66:5–7 Since Israel exists to bring God's light to the world (Ex. 19:5–6), what God has done for Israel he has done for all peoples—he is awesome in his deeds toward the children of man. Verses 8–12 of Psalm 66 continue to develop this thought as it calls all peoples to bless Israel's God.

PSALM—NOTE ON 66:13–15 The focus now shifts from Israel as a whole to a particular worshiper (I). A person in Israel (including sojourners) could make a vow to the Lord in a time of need. He could fulfill the vow with burnt offerings or vow offerings (perform my vows); see Lev. 22:18 and Num. 15:3. The psalm presents such offerings as joyful occasions.

PSALM—NOTE ON 66:16–20 The OT insists that each person must individually profess faith in God. Thus each one would have some report of what God has done for his soul (and not just for the people as a whole). To have cherished iniquity in my heart is to long for what is vile and abhorrent to God. In this context it means actually praying for God's help to commit sin. Therefore the psalm does not imply that absolute sinlessness is a condition for answered prayer.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 67. This psalm is a prayer that God will bless Israel with a fruitful harvest (v. 6) so that the rest of the world may come to know the true God. Singing this helps Israel to keep its own calling in view: their blessing is not simply for themselves but for the Gentiles too (see Gen. 12:2–3).

FACT

Wanting God’s blessing. Psalm 67 echoes the priestly blessing in Num. 6:24–26. Israel desires God’s blessing so that all nations may know of his saving power. God called Abram in order to bless him and his descendants and to make them a means of blessing to all the nations of the world (Gen. 12:2–3).

PSALM—NOTE ON 67:1–3 Verse 1 adapts the priestly blessing of Num. 6:24–26. The congregation prays that God’s way (his saving power) may be known on earth.

PSALM—NOTE ON 67:4–5 the nations be glad and sing for joy. It is likely that the psalmist is praying for the day when God’s rule (you judge) is extended to include the Gentiles (see Isa. 2:4; 11:3–4). The OT looks to a future era in which the Gentiles receive God’s light. This era is brought about by Jesus’ resurrection.

PSALM—NOTE ON 67:6–7 To fear God means to hold him and his word in reverence (e.g., 5:7; 15:4; 25:12; see note on 34:8–14).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 68. This is a celebration of God’s continued care and protection. It remembers how God led his people through the wilderness into their inheritance. The celebration does not stop with Israel, however. It recognizes that defeating Gentile kingdoms “who delight in war” is an opportunity for Gentiles to come to worship the true God.

PSALM—NOTE ON 68:1–3 Verse 1 adapts the words of Num. 10:35, related to moving the ark in the wilderness. From the psalm’s perspective, the ark was headed to its destination on Zion. This brings the happy promise that the wicked (those who reject God’s covenant) shall perish before God. The righteous (those who embrace the covenant) shall be glad, because God is carrying out his purpose of reversing the effects of sin in the world.

PSALM—NOTE ON 68:4–6 The faithful are to sing to God because he has shown himself kind, especially to helpless people (fatherless; widows, see 146:9; Deut. 10:18; solitary; prisoners).

PSALM—NOTE ON 68:7–10 These verses recall the way God led his people through the wilderness, from Sinai to his inheritance (Canaan, now the land of Israel). There God's flock (his people) found a dwelling.

PSALM—NOTE ON 68:11–14 This section describes what happens when the Almighty scatters Gentile kings on behalf of his people. The Lord brought great victories even when Israelites who were able would not fight (v. 13, some men would even lie among the sheepfolds instead of endure the hardships of battle; see Judg. 5:16). The wings of a dove covered with silver, its pinions with shimmering gold describes enjoying wealth and beauty under God's care.

PSALM—NOTE ON 68:15–18 The ark's destination is the "sanctuary" on Mount Zion, the mountain of God.

PSALM—NOTE ON 68:18 Receiving gifts among men describes the conqueror taking valuables from the defeated.

PSALM—NOTE ON 68:19–23 The salvation here involves military victories (strike the heads; strike your feet in their blood).

PSALM—NOTE ON 68:24–27 These verses describe a procession of Israelites, which consists of singers, followed by virgins playing tambourines, with the musicians last. They enter into the sanctuary in a worship setting. The tribes of Benjamin, Judah, Zebulun, and Naphtali probably represent the whole of Israel.

FACT

Ancient worship leaders. Psalm 68:24–27 mentions singers and musicians leading worship. Other passages, such as 1 Chron. 15:16–22, give details about some of the musical instruments that were used in Israelite worship.

PSALM—NOTE ON 68:28–31 The defeat of the Gentile enemies (here described as fierce wild animals) is a good thing. Their greedy and bloody intentions (v. 30) are stopped. As a result of their defeat, they and others will come to worship the true God (vv. 29, 31). kings shall bear gifts to

you. These are Gentile kings. God's presence in his temple at Jerusalem will draw Gentiles to the light (see 1 Kings 8:41–43; Isa. 2:1–5). See notes on Ps. 67:4–5; Isa. 2:1–5.

PSALM—NOTE ON 68:32–35 All the Gentile kingdoms of the earth are urged to sing to God.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 69. This is an individual lament. A faithful Israelite is suffering for wrongs he has done (v. 5). Attackers take advantage of his suffering and make it worse (v. 26). In his role as representative for the people of God, David wrote this psalm to show the ideal response to such trials.

PSALM—NOTE ON 69:4–5 hate me without cause. This is not a claim of total innocence; the psalm acknowledges that the singer is not perfect (the wrongs I have done are not hidden from you). Rather, it is a claim that the singer has not done harm to the particular people who attack him with lies. By quoting this psalm, John 15:25 presents Jesus as the perfect faithful Israelite, who may expect the unfaithful to hate him.

PSALM—NOTE ON 69:6 The singer knows his sin could result in some of the faithful (those who hope in you) being scorned. He prays that this will not happen.

PSALM—NOTE ON 69:9–12 Reproach means to despise or insult. This idea was introduced in v. 7 and dominates this section.

PSALM—NOTE ON 69:9 zeal for your house has consumed me. In John 2:17, Jesus' disciples remember this text after Jesus has driven the livestock merchants and money-changers out of the temple. Jesus embodies the ideal faithful member of God's people, as the Davidic kings were supposed to do. the reproaches of those who reproach you have fallen on me. In Rom. 15:3, Paul applies this text to Jesus; he saw Jesus as the ideal covenant member who was willing to suffer reproach for the sake of God's truth.

PSALM—NOTE ON 69:13–18 my prayer is to you, answer me, hide not your face, draw near. The singer's case is desperate, and he urgently needs God's help. The prayer echoes Ex. 34:6, appealing to what God has revealed about himself: the abundance of your steadfast love and faithfulness (Ps. 69:13) and steadfast love and mercy (v. 16).

PSALM—NOTE ON 69:21 for my thirst they gave me sour wine to drink. John 19:28–29 uses these words in connection with one of Jesus' last statements on the cross (see also Matt. 27:34, 48; Mark 15:23, 36; Luke 23:36). The sour wine would have been the cheap beverage that the soldiers used to satisfy their thirst. But Jesus felt forsaken by God (Mark 15:34), and his thirst must have been far more severe than anything this drink was meant for. When Jesus received it, he briefly prolonged his life (and his agony), and perhaps moistened his lips enough finally to cry out, "It is finished!" (John 19:30).

FACT

The deep. In Ps. 69:15, "the deep" is a striking picture of the problems of life that can seem so frightening and overpowering. But the Lord, who created the world out of "the deep" (Gen. 1:2), can rescue his people from all such problems.

PSALM—NOTE ON 69:22–23 In Rom. 11:9–10, Paul cites this curse to explain why his fellow Jews who reject the message of Christ have been hardened. He also explains why the curse is not final: it is a "partial hardening," which will be relieved if and when they repent (Rom. 11:23–25).

PSALM—NOTE ON 69:25 In Acts 1:20, this text is applied to Judas, who had taken part in destroying Jesus, who was the perfect embodiment of this psalm.

PSALM—NOTE ON 69:29–33 The writer promises to magnify God with public thanksgiving when God saves him from his enemies (set me on high).

PSALM—NOTE ON 69:34–36 All creation praises God. God is committed to populating Zion with the faithful offspring of his (faithful) servants. God intends for the whole world to be able to praise him. He intends for Zion to set an example of faithfulness for the rest of the world. Zion cannot do this when evil persons corrupt others.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 70. This short psalm is an individual lament, an urgent prayer for rescue from gloating enemies. The psalm is very similar to 40:14–16. The title specifies the psalm as "for the memorial offering" (see note on Psalm 38).

PSALM—NOTE ON 70:1–3 The threat comes from those who seek my life, who delight in my hurt, and who say, "Aha, Aha!" They are eager to hurt the faithful and then rejoice over their defeat. The enemies could be powerful, unfaithful Israelites, or they could be foreigners who seek to make God's people worship other gods.

PSALM—NOTE ON 70:4–5 Who seek you contrasts with "who seek my life" (v. 2). Hasten echoes "make haste" (v. 1), while help and deliverer look back to "deliver" and "help" (v. 1).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 71. This is another individual lament, suited to a faithful person in danger from enemies who take advantage of any weakness or distress (vv. 9–11). These enemies could be foreign or Israelite.

PSALM—NOTE ON 71:1–3 God's righteousness is his faithfulness to keep his promises. This is the basis for hope (see vv. 15, 16, 19, 24).

PSALM—NOTE ON 71:4 The wicked are unjust and cruel men who oppose true faith in God. They look for any opening to do harm to the faithful (vv. 4, 10–11).

FACT

The term fortress (71:3) could describe the city walls of ancient times. These walls, usually stone, included towers at strategic points so that the soldiers could see if anyone was trying to climb the wall. God is the believer's true fortress, the only real source of protection.

PSALM—NOTE ON 71:5–6 from my youth . . . from before my birth . . . from my mother's womb. The Israelites came into the world as members of Abraham's family, the recipients of God's promises. These believers learn to trace God's work in their lives back to before they were even born.

Hope means putting one's full confidence in God, who always keeps his promises. Believers can have hope for the future because of what God has done in the past. Created things will always ultimately disappoint. God alone is the source of true hope.

PSALM—NOTE ON 71:9 Do not cast me off in the time of old age. The benefits of the covenant are not automatic. They are for those who are faithful to its conditions.

PSALM—NOTE ON 71:14–16 The singer promises to hope continually. He leaves to God the timing of the answer to his appeals for help (vv. 12–13). He also looks forward to sharing his story of God's righteous acts with his fellow worshipers.

PSALM—NOTE ON 71:18 The singer asks God to make his life long. He wants to live to proclaim your might to another generation.

PSALM—NOTE ON 71:22–24 The singer looks forward to joyful songs in worship. He expects to talk of God's righteous help all the day long (wherever he is).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 72. The last psalm of Book 2 is a royal psalm. It is a prayer that David's heirs might be faithful kings. That means ruling God's people well, protecting the poor and needy, and bringing blessing to all nations of the earth. Like Psalm 2, this song looks forward to a worldwide rule that embraces in full what the Messiah will accomplish. The OT anticipates the ultimate heir of David, who will take the throne and bring God's light to all nations (see Isa. 2:1–5; 11:1–10).

PSALM—NOTE ON 72:1–4 justice, righteousness, judge. The ideal Davidic king must provide justice for all Israelites. He also must be an example for the people in his faithfulness to God. The psalm begins, then, with a prayer for the character and rule of the Davidic king, knowing that God must give him righteousness and justice to rule (judge).

PSALM—NOTE ON 72:5–7 while the sun endures, till the moon be no more (that is, always). This span of time suggests that this psalm ultimately refers to the Messiah. May they fear you. “They” may be God’s people (vv. 1–4), or people in general (vv. 8–11). In either case, the heir of David serves as God’s representative to the people, and is to be honored and obeyed.

PSALM—NOTE ON 72:8–11 By submitting to the Davidic king, the Gentile kings bring themselves and their peoples under God’s own rule (see note on 2:12).

PSALM—NOTE ON 72:8 See Zech. 9:10.

PSALM—NOTE ON 72:12–14 These verses emphasize the needy, the poor, and the weak (see vv. 2–4). These are the people most easily subjected to oppression and violence by those in power. precious is their blood in his sight. The Davidic king will not allow the powerful to harm the defenseless.

PSALM—NOTE ON 72:17 be blessed in him, all nations. This closely follows Gen. 22:18, speaking of the Messiah (see note on Gen. 22:15–18).

PSALM—NOTE ON 72:18–20 may the whole earth be filled with his glory. That is, may the whole earth be the sanctuary where God makes his presence known (see note on Isa. 6:3).

Study Notes for Psalms, Book Three

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 73. This is a wisdom psalm. God's people should trust him even when it seems unbelievers do not suffer because of their sin. They should remember the contrasting outcomes of the lives of the arrogant and the faithful. The singer realized this while he was in the sanctuary of God, namely, at public worship. Psalm 73 is a companion to Psalm 49.

FACT

What does it mean to be "pure in heart"? Those who are pure in heart (73:1) love God wholeheartedly (Deut. 6:5). Their pursuit of purity and uprightness affects every area of life (Matt. 5:8).

PSALM—NOTE ON 73:1–3 God is good to Israel, but there seem to be arrogant people who enjoy prosperity.

PSALM—NOTE ON 73:4–12 This section describes the apparently carefree lives of the arrogant wicked of v. 3. Verse 12 summarizes the whole section.

PSALM—NOTE ON 73:13–15 All in vain have I kept my heart clean. The singer feels that it has been worthless to practice faithfulness. The faithful are stricken, all the day long, in contrast to the arrogant, who "are not stricken like the rest of mankind" (v. 5). The singer recognizes, however, that to put his bitter feelings into words would have betrayed the generation of your children, that is, would undermine others' faith.

PSALM—NOTE ON 73:16–17 The inner conflict is made worse by how wearisome it is to understand this: it seems impossible. But when the singer goes into the sanctuary of God, where God's people gather for worship, he finally sees the truth.

PSALM—NOTE ON 73:18–20 Here is "their end" (v. 17): God has set the arrogant in slippery places, so that they are destroyed in a moment. This likely refers to death.

PSALM—NOTE ON 73:21–28 Even when the singer harbored his bitter thoughts, God still had a firm hold on him: I am continually with you; you hold my right hand. During the singer's earthly life, you guide me with your counsel (that is, with instruction from God's Word), and afterward (that is, after the singer dies) you will receive me to glory. Thus the godly can be satisfied, because God is the strength of their heart and their portion forever.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 74. This psalm, a community lament, is a cry of anguish over the destruction of the temple. It recounts God's mighty deeds in the past, especially the exodus. Past events are the basis for this prayer: do not let the Gentiles scorn the God who has done such mighty things.

PSALM—NOTE ON 74:1–3 the sheep of your pasture. For God's people as his sheep, see 79:13; 100:3. The terms purchased and redeemed are taken from Ex. 15:13, 16. Israel is God's own people, for whom he has done great deeds in the past. This makes the current disaster (Ps. 74:3) all the more painful.

PSALM—NOTE ON 74:4–8 Considering the importance that God himself has placed on the temple, it is horrific that the Gentiles have destroyed (profaned) it.

PSALM—NOTE ON 74:9–11 It is puzzling that God has not sent a prophet to instruct his people while they are in such dire distress. It is even more puzzling why God allows the enemy to continue to revile his name.

PSALM—NOTE ON 74:12–17 The next section recalls God's mighty deeds from the past, in which he has worked salvation. These include the exodus from Egypt and the journey through the wilderness (vv. 12–15), and God's creation and governance of the whole world (vv. 16–17). It is wrong for the Gentiles to disdain such a great God.

PSALM—NOTE ON 74:14 Leviathan here represents Egypt (see notes on Job 3:8; Isa. 27:1).

PSALM—NOTE ON 74:18–23 The psalm goes on to plead with God, remember this. There is no appeal to the people's merit. Rather, the appeal is have regard for the covenant and defend your cause.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 75. This is a hymn of praise. It thanks God for the wondrous deeds he has done for Israel. It celebrates the fact that he is the judge of all the earth. He will, in his own time, put down the wicked and lift up the faithful.

PSALM—NOTE ON 75:1 The subject (we) is Israel. They are the ones to whom God's name is near, and they are the people for whom God has done his wondrous deeds (e.g., the plagues of Egypt, the crossing of the Jordan River, defeating enemies).

PSALM—NOTE ON 75:2–5 judge. God's judgment will be with equity. This fairness preserves the stability of God's creation order (pillars).

PSALM—NOTE ON 75:4 Do not lift up your horn. The horn is a symbol of power. To lift it up is to make a public assertion of power. God warns the ungodly not to do this.

FACT

The horn could be a symbol of power and military strength, and thus to lift up or exalt it was to publicly assert power. God warns the ungodly not to lift up their horns (75:4), and promises that he will lift up the horn of the faithful.

PSALM—NOTE ON 75:6–8 This section takes up the idea of lifting up from vv. 4–5. Ultimately it is God who executes judgment, putting down one and lifting up another.

PSALM—NOTE ON 75:10 God promises that he will lift up the horns of the righteous (see note on v. 4). To cut off the horns is to render powerless and to humiliate, which is what he will do to the wicked.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 76. This hymn celebrates Zion as the place God has chosen to dwell, and the capital of the people he has chosen to bless and protect. It is a companion to Psalms 46; 48; 87; 122. The congregation that sings this psalm will marvel at the privilege of going to Zion and worshiping there.

PSALM—NOTE ON 76:1–2 The Maker of heaven and earth, to whom all mankind belongs, has chosen one people, Judah (which represents all Israel), and one particular spot, called Salem (an old name for Jerusalem, Gen. 14:18) or Zion, to be his dwelling place.

PSALM—NOTE ON 76:3–9 The past-tense verbs show that this psalm is particularly geared to celebrating an occasion in which God protected Zion from Gentile invaders (broke, stripped, stunned). Verses 6–9 trace the victory to God's rebuke, his judgment, and his plan to save all the humble of the earth (the faithful among his people).

PSALM—NOTE ON 76:10–12 The wrath of man shall praise you, that is, the way that God defeats their schemes leads people to acknowledge God's rule. the remnant of wrath you will put on like a belt. This probably means that the last futile efforts of human wrath are so insignificant that God could use them as a decorative accessory.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 77. This is a community lament. By referring to God's "anger" (v. 9) the psalm acknowledges that the reason for the trouble may be some fault in the people (see Psalms 74; 79; 80). The repeated key words here are "remember" and "meditate" (77:3, 6, 11–12). The psalm moves from remembering and meditating on God (as the one who has made promises to his people), to remembering and meditating on how things once were better, to remembering and meditating on God's mighty deeds of old that build confidence for his people's future.

PSALM—NOTE ON 77:1–3 This section describes earnest prayer coming from a troubled heart. My hand is stretched out (to God) in a common posture of prayer (see 88:9; Job 11:13; 1 Tim. 2:8). The psalmist prays in private moments (in the night; see Ps. 77:4) as well as in public worship.

PSALM—NOTE ON 77:4–9 The agonizing question that keeps the singer awake at night (vv. 4–6) is whether God will spurn his people forever (vv. 7–9).

PSALM—NOTE ON 77:7–9 It does not offend God when his troubled people raise these questions. The answer is found in Ex. 34:6, which describes the enduring goodness of God toward his people. If God abounds in steadfast love, then it cannot cease. The key matter is the last line: has he done this in anger? God's anger is a response to his people's unfaithfulness, and will remain only if they refuse to repent.

PSALM—NOTE ON 77:10–20 I will appeal . . . to the years of the right hand of the Most High. This section focuses on God's great deeds of the past, especially in the exodus and in the wilderness. If God did these things for his people before (deeds, wonders, work, and mighty deeds, vv. 11–12) to make known his might among the peoples (v. 14), he certainly has the power to do them again. This song helps God's people to refresh their hope and renew their commitment to being a holy people. They are to be an attractive advertisement of the true God to the rest of the world.

PSALM—NOTE ON 77:20 flock. For the image of God's people as sheep, and God as their Shepherd, see notes on 23:1; 74:1–3.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 78. This is a historical psalm (compare Psalms 105; 106), recalling events from Israel's past. It shows how God persevered with his people, even when they disbelieved, and how he cleansed them by removing unbelievers from their midst. The emphasis is on the people as a whole and their obligation to embrace the covenant faithfully in each generation. Terms for "remember" and "forget" run through the psalm (78:7, 11, 35, 42; see v. 39, where God remembers). The psalmist hopes that those who sing this will never again forget. The psalm opens with its purpose statement (vv. 1–8), followed by several episodes of sin and unbelief. Each new section begins with "they sinned" or "they rebelled" (vv. 17, 32, 40, 56). The final section focuses on David as one of God's great gifts to Israel (vv. 65–72).

PSALM—NOTE ON 78:1–8 The parable and dark sayings (v. 2) are not secret teachings. They are things that we have heard and known (v. 3), which must be passed on to the coming generation (v. 4). The OT describes the people of God as those whom God has chosen to receive his particular revelation (testimony and law, v. 5), which they have a responsibility to teach to their children, that the next generation might know God's law

(vv. 5–6; see Deut. 6:6–9). This teaching will help them not to be stubborn and rebellious (Ps. 78:8).

PSALM—NOTE ON 78:9–16 The first historical section recounts an otherwise unknown incident in which the Ephraimites . . . turned back on the day of battle. Presumably this was a battle in which all Israel was expected to participate, each tribe serving the others because of their bond as God's people. Their failure, then, was not simply a failure in patriotism but also in brotherhood and faith. They did not keep God's covenant because they forgot God's works.

PSALM—NOTE ON 78:17–31 In spite of the deeds the people had seen, yet they sinned still more against God.

FACT

Zoan (78:12) is the ancient Egyptian city of Tanis, one of many cities in the area where the Israelites lived around the time of Moses. The city's ruins were surveyed by Napoleon Bonaparte in the late 1700s.

PSALM—NOTE ON 78:32–39 The mighty works of God described in vv. 9–31 should have been enough reason for the people to be faithful, but they were not (v. 32). This section focuses on the many judgments the Lord used to lead his people to repent. When he killed them, they sought him; they repented and sought God earnestly, yet their repentance was not deep and sincere (v. 36), so it did not last (v. 37; see v. 8). However, God did not destroy them because he is compassionate. He atoned for their iniquity (v. 38). He accepted their sacrifices and forgave them.

PSALM—NOTE ON 78:40–55 The next section goes back to the exodus, describing all the plagues God brought against the Egyptian oppressors (vv. 42–53). This is followed by a brief summary of the conquest of the Promised Land (vv. 54–55). God's people continued to rebel because they did not remember his power or the day when he redeemed them from the foe (see 77:15).

PSALM—NOTE ON 78:56–64 These verses describe the time of the judges, leading up to the capture of the ark and the death of Eli and his sons (vv.

60–64; see 1 Samuel 4). Just as before, they tested and rebelled against the Most High, and provoked him to anger. The Lord utterly rejected many of the Israelites for their unbelief.

PSALM—NOTE ON 78:65–72 God graciously answered Israel's recurring pattern of sin by raising up David to be their king. the Lord awoke as from sleep. This is a bold image, conveying what the believer can feel when God stirs himself from apparent inactivity to take action on behalf of his suffering people (see 35:23; 44:23). The action that God took was to install a king. David was taken from the sheepfolds. The king is ideally a shepherd of his people (see 2 Sam. 5:2), caring for them, protecting them, and leading them in faithfulness to the covenant. David at his best did his work with upright heart and skillful hand, though he had his own moral failures.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 79. This is a community lament. It was occasioned by a great disaster, most likely the destruction of Jerusalem by Babylon. It has many similarities to Psalm 74. It recounts the violence and unbelief of the Gentile conquerors and asks God how long he intends to allow such things. Running through the psalm is a recognition that Israel should themselves be faithful to the covenant that they expect God to honor.

PSALM—NOTE ON 79:1–4 The first section chillingly describes the destruction that the nations (probably Babylon and its allies) have brought on God's inheritance, that is, the land where his people dwell. They have defiled your holy temple, treating something holy as unclean, which is an act of violence against God. God's people were supposed to be an advertisement to the Gentiles of how great and good Yahweh is, but instead they have become a taunt to our neighbors.

PSALM—NOTE ON 79:5–7 The right question is not, "How long will you let us suffer like this?" After all, they suffer because God is angry about their unfaithfulness. Rather, the question is, "How long will you allow the nations, who do not know you, to get away with what they have done?" Even though Jacob (that is, Israel) has been unfaithful, the Israelites still belong to the Lord.

FACT

How long? This question (79:5) occurs nearly twenty times in the Psalms, more than any other question. It is almost always associated with a psalm of lament, such as Psalm 79.

PSALM—NOTE ON 79:8–10 The singer now faces the basic problem: God's people have been untrue to him and must seek his forgiveness. The psalm weaves two themes together. The first is the understandable desire for relief (we are brought very low; deliver us). The second is the desire, born of true faith, for God's honor in the world (for the glory of your name, for your name's sake, why should the nations say?). God's reputation is tied to his people's well-being, and their well-being cannot be separated from their faithfulness.

PSALM—NOTE ON 79:11–13 Verses 8–10 prayed for forgiveness. Here, the effect of that forgiveness is that God will preserve those of his people who are doomed to die. Verse 13 looks forward to the granting of forgiveness, and pledges that we your people . . . will give thanks to you forever.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 80. This is a community lament for a situation in which the people have received hard treatment from the Gentiles. It asks God to "restore us, let your face shine that we may be saved!" A notable feature of the psalm is its refrain, "Restore us, O [Lord] God [of hosts]; let your face shine, that we may be saved!" (v. 3; see vv. 7, 19). Verses 14–15 can be seen as a longer version of the refrain, explaining more fully what it would mean for God to restore his people and let his face shine.

PSALM—NOTE ON 80:1–3 A portion of the people needs God to stir up his might and come to save them.

PSALM—NOTE ON 80:1 Shepherd . . . flock. See notes on 23:1; 74:1–3.

PSALM—NOTE ON 80:3 Let your face shine recalls Aaron's blessing (Num. 6:25).

PSALM—NOTE ON 80:4–7 The people cry because God is angry with his people's prayers (which implies that they have been unfaithful, see 74:1).

He has brought sorrows upon them, especially that they have become an object of contention for their Gentile neighbors (see 79:4). Faithful Israel ought to be the envy of the Gentiles, drawing them to the light by moral purity, social justice, and political stability (as in Psalm 79). Thus the current situation is a reversal of how things should be.

PSALM—NOTE ON 80:8–15 This is the longest stanza, with its image of God's people as a vine for which God has cared and provided (see notes on Jer. 2:21; Ezek. 15:1–8). The branches of this vine were to give shade to everything within the borders of the Promised Land (see Ex. 23:31), which always included Gentile nations. The branches and shoots are therefore an image of the benefits that come to all who are under the rule of this people. It is God who has broken down the walls that had protected the vine from marauding and empire-building Gentiles (the boar). Psalm 80:14 appeals to God to look down from heaven and have regard for this vine again, that is, to restore it to its proper role in the world.

PSALM—NOTE ON 80:15 the son. Israel as a whole is God's son (see Ex. 4:22–23; Hos. 11:1).

PSALM—NOTE ON 80:16–19 The final stanza continues the vine imagery from the previous section, describing the terrible deeds of the Gentile invaders: they have burned it (the vine) with fire; they have cut it down. For such an outrage against God's own plant, may they perish at the rebuke of your face! The terms in v. 17, the man of your right hand and the son of man, probably refer to the people of Israel. Israel as a whole pledges itself to God. If he will let his hand be on Israel (that is, use his power on their behalf), then Israel will not turn back (again) from God and will call upon his name, that is, will exercise true faithfulness.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 81. This psalm resembles the OT prophets' oracles, so perhaps it is best to think of it as a prophetic hymn. The primary function of the OT prophets is to challenge God's people to covenant faithfulness. They tell of covenant blessings or punishments that will come, depending on the people's response. This psalm reviews the basic history of the covenant, charges Israel with unfaithfulness, and urges them to once again embrace the covenant. God would then subdue Israel's enemies.

PSALM—NOTE ON 81:1–3 The call to worship is a jubilant one. The people should shout for joy and play the various musical instruments (v. 2). The new moon and full moon are the beginning and middle of months in ancient Israel. This may show that the psalm was intended for the feast day of Trumpets (Lev. 23:23–25) and then Booths (Lev. 23:33–36).

PSALM—NOTE ON 81:4–7 The God of Jacob worked on behalf of his people to deliver them from slavery in Egypt (see Ex. 6:6).

PSALM—NOTE ON 81:8–10 I am the LORD your God, who brought you up out of the land of Egypt is very similar to the preface to the Ten Commandments (Ex. 20:2). The basic warning, there shall be no strange god among you; you shall not bow down to a foreign god, summarizes the first two commandments (Ex. 20:3–6). The Lord wants his people to listen to him, to receive the covenant as an expression of his grace, to believe in him, and to live as he directs.

PSALM—NOTE ON 81:11–16 God's people did not listen to his voice (v. 11), which led to sad consequences (v. 12). But God has not given up, and he addresses his people again with the opportunity to listen, to embrace the covenant, and to walk in God's good ways (v. 13). The consequences of this genuine faithfulness would be victory over their enemies (v. 14) and fruitfulness for the land (v. 16).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 82. Some call this a community lament since it addresses God directly with a request on behalf of the whole people (v. 8). Others call it a prophetic hymn (like Psalm 81), interpreting its address to the "gods" (82:6) as directed to unjust human rulers, whom God will judge. Both of these classifications have merit, which shows that one must use the psalm categories only in a general way. The psalm teaches that the people of God are called to aspire to be an ideal society, with their justice visible to all peoples, that all nations might come to know the true God (Deut. 4:5–8).

PSALM—NOTE ON 82:1 in the divine council; in the midst of the gods. These "gods" are said to "judge" among men (vv. 2–4) and to die like men (v. 7). It is best to see these as human rulers, who hold their authority as representatives of the true God (and therefore deserve respect; see 58:1; Rom. 13:1–7; 1 Pet. 2:13–17). Jesus seems to have read the psalm in this way, since in John 10:34–35 he cites Ps. 82:6, describing the "gods" as those to whom the word of God came, which means they were human.

PSALM—NOTE ON 82:2–4 judge unjustly and show partiality to the wicked. The psalm does not specify whether the rulers are Israelites, or Gentiles ruling Israel as a subject state (as in the Babylonian or Persian Empires). Both the ideal Davidic king in Psalm 72 and the ideal Gentile ruler in Prov. 31:1–9 are called to protect the powerless from those who would harm them. Certainly the people of God should aim to embody this ideal.

PSALM—NOTE ON 82:5 When such people rule, the foundations of the earth (the moral principles that God instilled in the creation order) are shaken (see note on 11:3).

PSALM—NOTE ON 82:6 You are gods. See note on v. 1.

PSALM—NOTE ON 82:8 The psalm closes with a prayer that God will judge the earth. The basis of the request is that all nations belong to God already (you shall inherit all the nations). Perhaps this also alludes to 2:8, where the messianic king will have the nations as his heritage.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 83. This is a community lament, responding to a situation in which God's people are threatened by Gentile enemies (vv. 6–8) who aim to destroy them. The psalm asks that God will make these enemies fail miserably, be put to shame, and perish—so that they might come to know the Lord. It is possible (see note on vv. 9–18) that the psalm assumes that Israel must defend themselves, and the prayer is for military victory. Christians use this psalm rightly when they ask God to defeat the enemies of their faith in such a way that even those enemies might come to seek God's name.

PSALM—NOTE ON 83:1–8 The first section describes the Gentile coalition and their evil, crafty plans: let us wipe them out as a nation; let the name of Israel be remembered no more! Facing this danger, the people urge God, do not keep silence.

PSALM—NOTE ON 83:9–18 The basic request is that these enemies would utterly fail in their scheme. The ultimate reason for Israel's existence is to serve God's purpose of restoring true worship and authentic human life among all mankind. Therefore it is really for the good of these hostile Gentiles that they fail in their plan to destroy Israel.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 84. This is a psalm celebrating pilgrimage to Jerusalem to worship at the temple. It is very much like the hymns in praise of Zion as God's special place (e.g., Psalm 122), although this one especially focuses on the delight of going to worship there. The purpose of singing this psalm is to cultivate that delight, to open the eyes and hearts of God's people to the privilege of being a welcome guest in God's own house. Wickedness offers no reward that can even remotely compare to the joy and pleasure of God's house. The psalm has three parts, and in each part people are called "blessed" (84:4, 5, 12).

FACT

En-dor (83:10) is perhaps most famous for being home to a spiritual medium whom Saul consulted on the eve of his final battle (1 Sam. 28:7–25).

PSALM—NOTE ON 84:1–4 The song opens by describing God's house, the central sanctuary in Jerusalem. It is lovely and delightful, because it is the Lord's dwelling place. This is why the faithful soul longs, yes, faints for the courts of the LORD. This is where the worshiper actually meets the living God—no wonder his heart and flesh sing for joy. The marvel is that God's house is a welcoming place. If even the sparrow finds a home there, and the swallow too, then the humble and faithful Israelite need not fear that God will turn him away.

PSALM—NOTE ON 84:5–9 Those who make the journey to Zion to worship are blessed. Their strength is in God, to sustain them on the way. The highways are in their hearts, which probably means that they actually want to go. Pilgrimage was required (Deut. 16:16), but it should never become mechanical or burdensome.

FACT

The word blessed (84:4, 5, 12, etc.) refers to someone who has received—or who will receive—something good from the Lord. It is not just a temporary feeling of happiness but a state of well-being in relationship to God.

PSALM—NOTE ON 84:10–12 The final section describes the person who trusts in the Lord. He sincerely prefers one day in God's courts to a thousand anywhere else. He prefers even the lowest task of service in the house of my God to any gain he might have if he were to dwell in the tents of wickedness. The chief good thing, in this psalm, is to be welcomed in the temple. The faithful can enjoy other things only to the degree that they express the life of the upright. Such people are blessed indeed!

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 85. This is a community lament. It occurs at a time when God has shown his displeasure over his people's unfaithfulness, perhaps by withholding fruitfulness from the land (vv. 1, 12). The people singing this are seeking forgiveness for the whole people ("us"), asking God to show the steadfast love and faithfulness he proclaimed in Ex. 34:6. Because God is righteous (Ps. 85:10–11, 13)—that is, reliable about his promises—the psalm closes with confidence.

PSALM—NOTE ON 85:1–3 The verbs in this section are all past tense, looking back to what God has done for the people. Forgave the iniquity recalls Ex. 34:7. Turned from your hot anger (see Ex. 32:12) implies that God forgave his people after they repented of serious unfaithfulness. God has done this in the past for his people, because he is exceedingly kind.

PSALM—NOTE ON 85:4–7 The next section appeals to the compassion God has claimed and shown, asking him to restore us again, that is, put away your indignation toward us. For God to be angry with us forever would be contrary to this revealed character. Therefore the people pray, show us your steadfast love (proclaimed in Ex. 34:6), and grant us your salvation.

PSALM—NOTE ON 85:8–9 Now the members of the congregation declare their patience in watching for God to act on their prayer. The song has shifted from the plural “we” to the singular “I”: let me hear. Each member is thus making this pledge. There is confidence that God will speak peace to his people, that is, he will agree to the reconciliation they have asked for in vv. 4–7. At the same time, the psalmist prays, let them not turn back to folly. The people who are appealing to God’s kindness should make sure that their repentance is genuine.

PSALM—NOTE ON 85:9 glory may dwell in our land. The “glory” is God’s special presence with his people (see note on 63:1–2); see Ex. 24:16 for the same expression.

PSALM—NOTE ON 85:10–13 The psalm closes with confidence that God will hear their prayer and give them what they ask. Steadfast love and faithfulness meet, that is, in God they are in harmony. God’s righteousness here is his reliability in keeping his promises (especially to his people), and therefore it guarantees the peace (see v. 8). They kiss each other like the affectionate greeting of relatives (e.g., Gen. 29:13; 45:15).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 86. This is an individual lament in a situation in which “a band of insolent men seek my life” (v. 14). The psalm confesses that the Lord is “good and forgiving” (v. 5), acknowledging that the singer’s own sins may have contributed to his enemies’ plans. The psalmist explicitly grounds his request in Ex. 34:6, a fundamental confessional statement of the OT (Ps. 86:15; see vv. 5, 13). This is the only psalm of David in Book 3 of the Psalms.

PSALM—NOTE ON 86:1–7 The beginning of the psalm is a general call for help, without specifying the nature of the trouble. The person praying offers reasons that God should answer (see for in vv. 2–5). The first reason is the genuineness of his faith (v. 2); second is the earnestness with which he prays, relying on the Lord, not other gods (vv. 3–4); and third is the crucial confession of God’s benevolent character, as revealed in the Pentateuch (v. 5).

PSALM—NOTE ON 86:8–10 The psalm moves from there is none like you who is worthy of worship among the gods (that is, the angels and other heavenly beings), to you alone are God. This is why all the nations you have made shall come and worship before you. All human beings were made to know and love the one true God. God called Abraham so that his family would be the vehicle of bringing this knowledge to the rest of mankind (Gen. 12:3).

PSALM—NOTE ON 86:11 Teach me your way. See 25:12; 27:11 (and note on 25:4–5). The Bible regularly pictures the moral course of one's life as a "way" or path, and one's conduct as a "walk" or journey.

FACT

The words of Ps. 86:9 are incorporated into the song of the Lamb in Rev. 15:4. All nations, from all around the globe, will someday worship the Lord.

PSALM—NOTE ON 86:14–17 The last section of the psalm explains the source of the trouble: insolent men and a band of ruthless men. These people do not set you before them (that is, they have no respect for God). Therefore it is not surprising that they seek the faithful one's life. But the faithful have not sinned, so they have no reason to worry that God will abandon them to enemies as a punishment. God is merciful and gracious, and therefore his faithful ones can trust him to forgive and to guard. The singer is bold and finishes by repeating his request.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 87. This is a psalm celebrating Zion as the chosen city of God. It looks forward to people of all nations—even nations that have been Israel's enemies—becoming citizens of this city (carrying forward the ideas of 86:9).

PSALM—NOTE ON 87:1–3 The opening section describes Zion, the capital of God's people, as the city God founded, the city whose gates the Lord loves, the city of God. Its location on the holy mount shows why it is so glorious: it is the place of the temple, where God's people meet him.

PSALM—NOTE ON 87:4–6 The second section is startling. One expects a reference to those who know me, but the list is composed of Gentile nations. Yet, the Most High himself will establish Zion, in order to allow the peoples to be treated as born in her, as Israelites. When the people of God sing this psalm, they stay focused on their God-given purpose, to be a light for the Gentiles; see note on 86:8–10.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 88. This is an individual lament. It is suited for a person who is so overwhelmed with troubles that even his friends shun him, and who suspects that the Lord has shunned him as well. The psalm does not specify the troubles, only that they feel like God's punishment. Most laments close on a confidant note, but Psalm 88 has no explicit statement of confidence. However, there is insistent appeal to God (v. 1, "day and night"; v. 9, "every day"; v. 13, "in the morning"). The psalm instills a tough faith in its singers by reminding them to keep turning to God (the "God of my salvation," v. 1), even during times when it seems that God does not answer.

Keeping a record of the population (87:6) was a very important task in the ancient world. In fact, sometimes entire cities were employed for this purpose. People who performed such royal duties were sometimes rewarded by being exempt from imprisonment and military service, and from having to pay taxes.

PSALM—NOTE ON 88:1–2 The psalm reflects an ongoing (day and night) and urgent (I cry out, my cry) circumstance.

PSALM—NOTE ON 88:3–9 The next section describes the trouble in general terms, focusing more on the feelings (my soul is full of troubles) than on the external circumstances. Your wrath lies heavy upon me. That is, "it feels like I am dying, and worse than that, dying under your wrath, with no hope either now or ever." The members of the singing congregation are learning to keep coming to the Lord, even when they feel this way.

PSALM—NOTE ON 88:10–12 The mention of dying under God's wrath (vv. 3–7) leads to the question: Do you work wonders for the dead? If one were to die under God's wrath, then he could not anticipate any experience of God's wonders, or any chance to praise him.

PSALM—NOTE ON 88:13–18 Darkness is the last word in the psalm. Yet the faithful know that there is no alternative but to keep seeking the Lord in prayer.

FACT

Abaddon (88:11) means “place of destruction.” In Rev. 9:11 Abaddon is king of “the bottomless pit.”

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 89. This is a community lament, but with a distinctive flavor. The people celebrate the Davidic kingship as God’s special gift to his people, but they also mourn the distress into which they have fallen. They interpret that distress as God’s wrath against his anointed king. They pray earnestly for God to bless his people by blessing their king with wisdom, goodness, and might.

PSALM—NOTE ON 89:1–4 In raising up David and his descendants to be kings for his people, God has displayed his steadfast love and faithfulness. These words, which recall Ex. 34:6, appear throughout the psalm (Ps. 89:1, 2, 14, 24, 28 [see ESV footnote], 33, 49). Verses 3–4 refer to the events of 2 Sam. 7:8–16, God’s promise to David to establish his offspring forever. Because the promise is rooted in God’s enduring love for his people, and because it is a covenant, the term “forever” is important. If the covenant is forever, then why has humiliation come (Ps. 89:38–45)? But “forever” also means they can offer this prayer confidently, knowing that God will be true to his own word.

PSALM—NOTE ON 89:8–10 God is more mighty than any other being. He governs even the raging of the sea; to the people of that day, the sea represented humanly unmanageable chaos.

PSALM—NOTE ON 89:13–14 The pairing of God’s hand and his right hand refers to his power for the sake of his own people (see 74:11; 138:7).

FACT

Finding your way in the ancient world was often an inexact science. Without a compass or map, topographical features such as oases and mountains were heavily relied upon. The few maps available were often unreliable because they may have been produced to mark a kingdom's boundaries rather than as a tool for navigation.

PSALM—NOTE ON 89:15–18 God has given his people a special place in his plan for the world. They are exalted, and God pledges his strength on their behalf.

PSALM—NOTE ON 89:19–37 The mention of the king's role in Israel (v. 18) leads to the story of how David and his heirs came to be the royal family (1 Sam. 16:1–13) and what promises God made to them (2 Sam. 7:4–17).

PSALM—NOTE ON 89:19 Your godly one most likely refers to Nathan, who received God's instructions by night in a vision (see 2 Sam. 7:17).

PSALM—NOTE ON 89:24–25 steadfast love. See v. 33; 2 Sam. 7:15. For hand and right hand, see Ps. 89:13, where it is God's hand. The king also serves the people as God's representative.

PSALM—NOTE ON 89:26–28 Father . . . firstborn. See 2 Sam. 7:14. Just as Israel is God's "firstborn" (Ex. 4:22), so the king is the firstborn as he represents the people (see note on Ps. 2:7).

PSALM—NOTE ON 89:38–45 It looks and feels as if God has not kept his promises to the house of David (and thus to his people). This section repeats words from the preceding parts of the psalm to stress the feeling of betrayal. God's anointed (v. 38) was his special choice (v. 20), but now God is full of wrath against him. The covenant (v. 39) should have meant security (v. 34), but God has renounced it. The king's "right hand" (v. 42) should govern even the rivers (v. 25), but now God has exalted the right hand of his foes. David's throne (v. 44) was to endure as long as the sun (vv. 29, 36), but now God has cast it to the ground. Rather than David's heir being "the highest of the kings of the earth" (v. 27), now all the Gentiles triumph over him and his people (vv. 40–43). Although things seem bleak, the psalm is not hopeless. The current hardship may be God’s punishment of the king for unfaithfulness, and so it is a call to repentance.

PSALM—NOTE ON 89:46–51 There is great comfort in the promise of an enduring Davidic house. The people can be confident that their present low condition is not the end of their story. The appeal is to God’s steadfast love and faithfulness (v. 49, see note on vv. 1–4) as expressed in his oath to David (v. 24).

Study Notes for Psalms, Book Four

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 90. This community lament relates to some unspecified disaster (vv. 13, 15). It asks God to have pity on his people and bless them. The title credits the psalm to Moses. The psalm pictures Israel around the time of Deuteronomy, as they were about to cross the Jordan River and enter the Promised Land. Their parents had followed Moses out of Egypt, through the parted Red Sea—and yet they rebelled, so God swore that they would not enter the land (Num. 14:20–36). For the Israelites to accomplish their mission and for God to establish the work of their hands (Ps. 90:17), the people need to embrace the covenant and live in faith toward God. Those who sing this should see themselves as the heirs of that generation, seeking God's blessing so that they can carry out their mission.

PSALM—NOTE ON 90:1–2 The Lord is the dwelling place, that is, the home and refuge, for his people in all generations because he himself is eternal.

PSALM—NOTE ON 90:3–6 In contrast to God's eternity, human life—even the longest imaginable (a thousand years)—is insignificantly brief (a watch in the night, a flood, a dream, grass). See v. 10; 103:15–18; James 1:11. The psalm recalls God's sentence in Eden on Adam and Eve's sin (Ps. 90:3); the short life spans of humans are due to sin's entry into the world.

PSALM—NOTE ON 90:7–11 God's people reflect on the unfaithfulness of past generations. They harbored iniquities and secret sins, which resulted in God's anger and wrath. The whole body of God's people suffers from the presence and influence of its unfaithful members. God's judgments that remove the unfaithful from his people are hard even for the faithful to endure. Hence the whole people experience toil and trouble during their brief lives.

PSALM—NOTE ON 90:12 teach us to number our days. In view of the psalm's theme, this refers especially to the ability to make the most of one's days, since they are so few. The heart of wisdom would enable the faithful to live by the right priorities.

FACT

How old? Psalm 90:10 suggests that Israelites were living to be 70 or 80 years old in the days of Moses. While life expectancy has varied somewhat over the centuries, it is about the same today.

PSALM—NOTE ON 90:13–15 Return, that is, come back to us, turn from your anger (as in Ex. 32:12). in the morning. Probably a metaphor for the time when God will make his steadfast love clear to his people.

PSALM—NOTE ON 90:16–17 Let your work be shown, that is, display your love toward your people in great deeds of power that enable them to flourish. to their children. God made his covenant with Abraham and with his offspring (who must themselves embrace the covenant). The OT faithful seek the continuation of the people through their own faithful children (see 78:3–8; 103:17; 145:4).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 91. This tender psalm describes the confidence that the believer may have through all types of dangers and challenges.

PSALM—NOTE ON 91:1–2 The Lord is a secure defense (shelter, shadow, refuge, fortress) for those who take refuge in him.

PSALM—NOTE ON 91:3–8 These verses list the benefits that come to those who trust in the Lord. The snare of the fowler (v. 3) seems to be a metaphor for the schemes of those who hate the faithful. Pestilence (vv. 3, 6) and destruction are diseases that God sends on his enemies or his unfaithful people (see Ex. 5:3; 9:15). The terror and arrow, together with a thousand may fall, envision God's people under attack. Psalm 91:8 notes that God sends plagues and battles as recompense on the wicked (whether Gentile or Israelite). In such times, the faithful can trust God not to judge them as he does the wicked.

PSALM—NOTE ON 91:10 The mention of a plague recalls the plagues that fell on Egypt (see Gen. 12:17; Ex. 11:1). As happened then, the faithful are safe in a time of God's judgment.

PSALM—NOTE ON 91:14–16 The psalm closes by laying out what trust in God looks like (holds fast to me in love, knows my name, and calls to God) and by repeating God's pledge to care for his faithful ones (deliver, protect, answer, be with him in trouble, rescue, honor). Such a person will have long life (probably implying eternal life; see note on 23:5–6) and will enjoy God's salvation.

FACT

Satan knows the Scriptures. Psalm 91:11–12 was quoted by Satan when he tempted Jesus in the desert (Matt. 4:6). Of course, he misapplied it for his own evil purposes. In no way do these verses mean that believers should put themselves in unnecessary danger.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 92. This is a hymn of thanks and praise to God, specifically celebrating the blessing of the Sabbath in Israel. The Sabbath was a day of rest and for community worship (Lev. 23:3). The title ("A Song for the Sabbath"), the references to morning and evening worship (Ps. 92:2), to the musical instruments used in worship (v. 3), and to the temple (v. 13) all reveal that worship is the focus of the psalm.

PSALM—NOTE ON 92:1–5 One of the most basic acts of Sabbath worship is celebrating God's greatness in creation and his goodness toward the faithful. The songs honor God for what he has revealed about himself, recalling Ex. 34:5–7, where God explained his name. God's work and works are the great deeds he has done in creating the world and in caring for his people.

PSALM—NOTE ON 92:6–11 This section draws a contrast between the members of the people who are unfaithful to the covenant (called stupid, fool, wicked, God's enemies, and evildoers, vv. 6–9) and those who love and trust the Lord (the "I" singing the psalm). The unfaithful fail to understand that, no matter how they might flourish for the moment, God's will alone prevails in the end.

PSALM—NOTE ON 92:9 perish . . . scattered. Like "destruction" (v. 7), these terms describe the judgment on the wicked as if it is a defeat in battle.

PSALM—NOTE ON 92:10 exalted my horn. See note on 75:4. The wild ox was known for its strength, and its horns were effective for goring (see 22:21; Deut. 33:17).

PSALM—NOTE ON 92:12–15 See Heb. 4:9. The faithful flourish like the palm tree, that is, the long-lived and stately date palm; see Ps. 92:14). They flourish in the courts of our God, which describes abiding in God's presence (see 23:6) as opposed to the temporary "flourishing" of the evildoers (92:7), who "are doomed to destruction" (v. 7).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 93. Psalms 29; 93; and 95–99 are hymns of praise for God's kingly rule over creation. The idea of God as universal king is rooted in the creation account. It is Israel's great privilege to be ruled by the God who is the universal Creator and Lord, who one day will rule all nations. Belief that God reigns is the ultimate solution to doubt and despair (see 89:38–51).

PSALM—NOTE ON 93:1–2 The Lord reigns as king. Because his throne is established and secure, the world is established. It is a stable and reliable place to live.

PSALM—NOTE ON 93:1 the world . . . shall never be moved. See 46:5; 125:1; note on 10:6. The expression probably means that the world's ongoing order (and the moral principles that underlie that order) are faithful and sure, guaranteed by God's own faithfulness.

PSALM—NOTE ON 93:3–4 To an Israelite, the raging sea (also called floods and many waters) was the most vivid picture of uncontrollable chaos. The divine king is mightier than even that.

PSALM—NOTE ON 93:5 God's decrees are very trustworthy and holiness befits his house. The laws given to Israel are based on God's own character, which the moral laws of the universe reflect.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 94. This is a community lament, written for a time when the wicked not only exult (v. 3) but also oppress the faithful (many of whom are socially weak, vv. 5–6). The wicked do so with no fear of God. The song asks God to protect the faithful, and it strengthens the faithful to endure the oppression. The faithful are reminded of God’s exhaustive knowledge of all that people think, do, and say (vv. 8–11); of his steadfast love for his own (v. 18); and of his commitment to bring justice by caring for the weak and putting down the wicked. The “wicked” in this psalm are members of God’s people (v. 8) who in their hearts do not believe in the God of the covenant (v. 7). Though such wicked persons were born into the covenant, they are not part of God’s true “people” or “heritage” (vv. 5, 14). They will suffer the full force of God’s judgment.

FACT

The word vengeance is used in Ps. 94:1 to describe one way in which the Lord brings about justice in the world. Individual Israelites were forbidden to seek personal vengeance (Lev. 19:18). However, it was the duty of the civil government to ensure just retribution against wrongdoers (Ex. 21:20).

PSALM—NOTE ON 94:1 Vengeance is founded on God’s justice. He brings his righteous judgment on those who oppose him and harm his people (see Deut. 32:41, 43; Ps. 18:47). God will judge the unfaithful among his own people as well as the Gentiles (see 99:8).

PSALM—NOTE ON 94:2–3 The proud are those who, in their unbelief, elevate themselves above God and dare him to punish them (v. 7). They use their power to take advantage of the weak (vv. 5–6, 21). The right response is to pray to the judge of the earth.

PSALM—NOTE ON 94:4–7 These verses list the activities of these evildoers. They pour out their arrogant words and boast (the quoted words of v. 7 are a sample of their boasting). They crush God’s people. They kill the helpless (such as the widow, sojourner, and fatherless). All this is a rejection of God’s standards (see Deut. 14:29; 24:17, 19).

PSALM—NOTE ON 94:8–11 This is the reply to v. 7. The God who planted the ear, who formed the eye, who disciplines the nations, and who teaches man knowledge is fully aware of everything that goes on, even the thoughts of man.

PSALM—NOTE ON 94:8 Dullest and fools refer to people who resist the offer of grace in God's covenant.

PSALM—NOTE ON 94:12–15 The faithful, who receive instruction from God's word and live by it (v. 12) are blessed. the LORD will not forsake his people. He will bring them justice.

PSALM—NOTE ON 94:14 Even though the wicked in this psalm are members of "the people" (v. 8), they are nevertheless distinct from God's people. This implies that the faithful are God's people in the truest sense, while the faithless among the Israelites are not.

PSALM—NOTE ON 94:16 Who rises up for me? The speaker is the psalmist. The answer is, "God does."

PSALM—NOTE ON 94:19 The specific cares are those expressed in the psalm, e.g., v. 3. The consolations are the assurances that God knows (vv. 9–11), that he has shown his support already (vv. 17–18), and that he will surely judge (v. 23).

PSALM—NOTE ON 94:20–21 wicked rulers. The ungodly here have power, and they use it to frame injustice and to condemn the innocent to death (which God hates; Ex. 23:7). See Ps. 94:5–6. Such rulers could not possibly be allied with God.

PSALM—NOTE ON 94:22 stronghold, rock. See 9:9; 18:2; 144:2.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 95. This psalm encourages its singers to learn from the rebellion of a previous generation. They should faithfully heed God's "voice" (vv. 7–8). The psalm sees the Israelites' grumbling against Moses at Meribah and Massah as an early indication of their persistent unbelief, which caused them to refuse to enter the land. The psalm has two parts. The first is a celebration of God's kingship and the privilege that his people enjoy as they worship him (vv. 1–7a). The second is a warning not to repeat the rebellion of their ancestors (vv. 7b–11).

PSALM—NOTE ON 95:1–7a The singers invite one another to the great privilege of worshiping the LORD, the great God, the great King above all gods. The marvel of being Israel is that such a majestic King has pledged himself to his people, making them the sheep of his hand (see note on 74:1–3).

PSALM—NOTE ON 95:7b–11 Since worship includes the priests reading and explaining the Scriptures, the worshipers will hear his voice, but they must then believe and obey their great King. This section focuses on the inner self, the heart, where one accepts or rejects the grace of the covenant.

FACT

Maker of heaven and earth. Psalm 95 is one of several psalms that focus on God's rule over all of creation. God is the ultimate king because he created everything that exists. The Psalms frequently remind God's people that we owe him our worship and allegiance because it is he who made us.

PSALM—NOTE ON 95:7b–8 Today. There is a strong connection between the day on which the congregation sings and the day at Massah, when their ancestors disbelieved. do not harden your hearts. The biblical writers use "heart" for the central core of the person's thoughts, feelings, and choices (see Prov. 4:23). To "harden the heart" is to make it dull and unresponsive to God, and thus to strengthen it in disbelief.

PSALM—NOTE ON 95:11 They shall not enter my rest. In the wilderness context, the "rest" is specifically the land (see Deut. 12:9; finally secured during David's reign, see 2 Sam. 7:1, 11). Since the singing congregation is already in the land, it seems that the psalm is using "rest" as an image of enjoying God's presence forever (much as Heb. 4:1, 11 does).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 96. God's kingship over all creation means that all people should love and worship him. The psalm has three sections, each beginning with a command ("sing," v. 1; "ascribe," v. 7; "say," v. 10), and each mentioning the Gentiles. God called Israel to be a means of blessing for all mankind, bringing them knowledge of the true God. This psalm appears in 1 Chron. 16:23–33, indicating that the people sang a version of it when David brought the ark to Jerusalem.

PSALM—NOTE ON 96:1–6 The psalm begins by calling the inhabitants of all the earth to sing to the LORD. It asks them to sing to the LORD, bless his name, and tell of his salvation. This describes Israelite worship in God's sanctuary. Here the Gentiles are invited to join in (see also vv. 8–9).

PSALM—NOTE ON 96:4–5 The psalmist explains to the Gentiles that there is only one God truly worthy of worship. The words gods and worthless idols sound alike in Hebrew, providing a play on words. An English paraphrase might be, "these mighty beings are mighty useless!"

PSALM—NOTE ON 96:7–9 These verses develop the thought of v. 7, inviting the Gentiles into his courts to worship. The OT describes a future era, when the Gentiles receive the light, by picturing them coming to the Jerusalem temple (see Isa. 2:2–3). Their uncleanness (see Isa. 52:1) can be cured by conversion, and then they too will be welcome in God's house.

PSALM—NOTE ON 96:10–13 The Gentiles addressed throughout this psalm (see vv. 1, 7) are to spread the news among their fellow Gentiles (among the nations, v. 10; see v. 3) that the LORD reigns! The universal rule (will judge) of the one true God is good news to those who will acknowledge his kingship. When all kinds of people gladly receive God's rule, the rest of the creation (the heavens, the earth, the sea, and the field with all their inhabitants, and the trees of the forest) will all celebrate (be glad, rejoice, roar, exult, and sing for joy). See note on Rom. 8:20–21.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 97. This is a hymn celebrating God's kingship over all creation. It focuses on how God's universal rule assures the faithful of his final victory over evil and idolatry. This victory involves God's protection of his faithful ones from evildoers (v. 10), the vindication of Zion as God's chosen place (vv. 8–9), and the Gentiles ultimately coming to know the true God (vv. 6–7). Such assurance does not come from observing the course of events in the world, since God's universal kingship is often invisible. The assurance comes from biblical faith, and it produces profound joy in those who embrace it (vv. 11–12). The reference to Zion hearing and being glad (v. 8) indicates that the psalm arose from some great deliverance of the city.

PSALM—NOTE ON 97:1–5 In words that echo the appearance of God's glory on Sinai (Ex. 19:16–18; see Deut. 4:11; 5:22), the psalm describes the magnificence of God's presence (clouds and thick darkness; the earth sees and trembles). It looks forward to the Gentiles coming to know the magnificent Creator and Ruler of all. Because of this, let the earth (and its inhabitants) rejoice.

PSALM—NOTE ON 97:1 many coastlands. The biblical authors commonly used the nations around the Mediterranean Sea as representatives of all nations everywhere (see Isa. 42:4).

PSALM—NOTE ON 97:6–9 These verses concern the false worship found among the nations who are worshipers of images. There is a contrast between the false gods and the Lord, who is most high over all the earth and exalted far above all gods. The purpose here is not to gloat but to look forward to the time when all the peoples see his glory. The OT anticipates this era (see Num. 14:21) and connects it to the reign of the Davidic Messiah (see Isa. 11:1–10).

PSALM—NOTE ON 97:10–12 This assurance about the story of the whole world enables the faithful (those who love the LORD) to live their own lives in faith (that is, to hate evil and to reject its attractions). If God's righteous purpose will prevail in his world, this means that individual godly people (his saints) will know his care and protection in their own lives. God fills their lives with light and joy. When they realize this, they will rejoice in the LORD and give thanks to his holy name.

PSALM—NOTE ON 97:11 Light is sown. God's "light" (that is, guidance; see 118:27; 119:130) and joy are scattered along the path of the faithful like seed, ready to sprout.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 98. This hymn celebrates God's universal kingship (v. 6) by referring to the "marvelous things" and "salvation" that the Gentiles have seen God accomplish on behalf of his people. God has worked salvation (rescue from evil) for Israel, which all the ends of the earth have seen (vv. 1–3). All people in the earth should join Israel's celebration, because God is their rightful king, too (vv. 4–6). The material creation should join all mankind in jubilant praise of the one true God, as they look forward to his rule (vv. 7–9).

FACT

Joy to the world! Psalm 98:4–9 inspired Isaac Watts to write his famous Christmas hymn, “Joy to the World,” in 1719. The song celebrates not only the birth of Christ but how creation itself rejoices at the return of her King, who “comes to judge the earth . . . with righteousness” (98:9).

PSALM—NOTE ON 98:1–3 The term salvation appears in each of these verses. It describes God’s great deeds for the sake of his people as a whole. He provides protection from their enemies and creates the conditions in which faithfulness can flourish. God has done these great deeds to the house of Israel, but the benefit is not limited to them: All the ends of the earth have seen the salvation of our God.

PSALM—NOTE ON 98:4–6 These verses address all the earth, that is, all people, wherever they live. What God has done for Israel (vv. 1–3) is for the sake of bringing the light to the whole world.

PSALM—NOTE ON 98:7–9 The invitation is extended to the human inhabitants of the world (the world and those who dwell in it) to include even the sea and all that fills it, the rivers, and the hills. The entire creation, human and otherwise, can rejoice at the prospect of God’s just rule (to judge here is to administer justice through a just rule).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 99. This is another hymn celebrating God’s kingship over all his creation. The focus is on his exalted holiness (vv. 3, 5, 9) and the amazing fact that he has made a way for his people to come into his presence without danger. Although the emphasis falls specifically on Israel, the element of universal hope for the Gentiles is also present (see vv. 2–3).

PSALM—NOTE ON 99:1–5 The first section stresses the stunning majesty of God’s kingship. It also emphasizes the proper human response (let the peoples tremble; let them praise your great and awesome name; exalt the LORD; worship). This universal God has established his just and gracious rule in Jacob. Among his chosen people, the perfect kingship of God is supposed to be on display. The place of worship (the sanctuary) is God's footstool (see 132:7; 1 Chron. 28:2). This is in keeping with the royal image, where God the universal sovereign is the acknowledged king over his people.

PSALM—NOTE ON 99:4 The might of this king is directed entirely toward good and pure ends: he loves justice. He combines absolute might with absolute right.

PSALM—NOTE ON 99:6–9 These verses explore the wonder of being God's people, whom he actually welcomes into his presence. In mentioning Moses, Aaron, and Samuel, the psalm reminds its singers of how these men were God's gifts to lead his people. Those who worship at his holy mountain can be sure that God has preserved his people through servants like these. He has called each of his people to a similar life of faith and obedience.

PSALM—NOTE ON 99:8 God is a forgiving God, as he himself says in Ex. 34:7. His people, even the best of them (Moses, Aaron, and Samuel; Ps. 99:6), rely on this, not on their own moral excellence.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 100. This hymn is not explicitly a psalm celebrating God's kingship, but it brings the collection of kingship hymns to a close with its enthusiastic call to come before the Lord in worship. Like the divine kingship psalms, this hymn invites "all the earth" (all the Gentiles) to join the song of praise. The title declares that this psalm is "for giving thanks." That is certainly fitting, as the worshipers thank the universal Creator for the privilege of being "the sheep of his pasture."

PSALM—NOTE ON 100:1 joyful noise. Also translated "shout for joy" (66:1). all the earth. The Lord is the Creator of all people, not just Israel. Israel exists to bring light to the entire earth.

PSALM—NOTE ON 100:3 He who made us seems to refer to God's making Israel to be his people. his people, and the sheep of his pasture. See note on 74:1–3.

PSALM—NOTE ON 100:4 gates . . . courts. Parts of the temple complex.

PSALM—NOTE ON 100:5 steadfast love . . . faithfulness. These terms recall Ex. 34:6. God's people can be joyful because of his enduring character of gracious love and because he keeps his promises. to all generations. See Ex. 34:7; Deut. 7:9. The worshipers delight to think of the people of God being preserved forever (see Gen. 17:7; Ps. 103:17–18).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 101. This is a royal psalm about the place of the Davidic monarchy in God's plan for his people. It explains for David and his heirs the ideal kind of ruler they should be. The king should set the pattern for covenant faithfulness, and each Israelite should follow it in his or her own daily life.

PSALM—NOTE ON 101:1–4 The song opens by declaring the king's firm commitment to live in covenant faithfulness, both in his private life (vv. 1–2) and in his rule in the kingdom (v. 3–4). A perverse heart. That is, those who are openly unfaithful. The king should reject unfaithful advisers.

PSALM—NOTE ON 101:5–8 The king should promote faithfulness among the people, and this includes protecting the weaker members from those who would do them harm (vv. 5, 7–8). At the same time, the ideal king will look with favor on the faithful in the land. They may dwell with him (contrast v. 7), and he will rely on them to minister to him (see note on v. 6).

FACT

What is integrity? When the Bible describes someone as having "integrity" (101:2) it means that the person is characterized by good moral behavior. The Bible might also describe this person as "blameless" in the sight of God.

PSALM—NOTE ON 101:6 The word for minister means "serve" or "assist"; e.g., Joshua "ministered to" or "assisted" Moses (Ex. 24:13; 33:11).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 102. The title, "A Prayer of one afflicted," makes it clear that this is an individual lament. At the same time, it is certainly not individualistic: the "I" who sings this (vv. 1–11, 23–24) sees himself as a member of a community, Zion (vv. 12–22). His own well-being is ultimately bound up with the promised well-being of God's people. The psalm also contrasts the shortness of human life (v. 3, "my days pass away"; v. 11, "I wither away"; vv. 23–24) with God's enduring life (vv. 12, 25–28). The psalm is suited for one like Job, whose troubles seem to be unexplained. Even God's "indignation and anger" (v. 10) do not appear to be directed toward any specific sin. Those singing this prayer need to trust in God's ultimate purposes for the whole people of God and look forward to participation in that blessedness (vv. 13, 21–22, 28).

PSALM—NOTE ON 102:1–2 The psalm opens on a note of bold urgency. The cry is desperate, and the singer wants God to respond speedily. He fears that God may continue to hide his face from me (see note on 13:1; see 30:7; 44:24; 69:17; 88:14; 143:7). The faithful can present their troubles to God with confidence.

PSALM—NOTE ON 102:3–11 The singer focuses on his sense of discouragement: bones burn, heart is struck down, forget to eat my bread, loud groaning, my bones cling to my flesh. These images describe what it feels like to be consumed by sorrow, which has withering effects on one's body. A person feeling such things inevitably senses his own mortality: his days pass away like smoke (v. 3; that is, quickly) and are like an evening shadow (v. 11; that is, soon gone).

PSALM—NOTE ON 102:12–17 The enduring reign of God (enthroned forever, remembered throughout all generations) brings about the ultimate success of his saving purposes in the world (v. 15). Since God does not despise their prayer, the afflicted can be assured that their momentary grieving is part of a larger scheme.

Ashes were often used in the OT to express sorrow, humiliation, or feelings of worthlessness. In Ps. 102:9, they are a sign of mourning, as indicated by their mention along with tears. The prophet Jeremiah encouraged Israel to "roll in ashes" to mourn the destruction that would soon befall her (Jer. 6:26).

PSALM—NOTE ON 102:18–22 The days of Zion's glory lie in the future, in the time of a generation to come. They will need this record of God's promises and faithfulness to his people of all eras. The time will come when God's people will reflect on how God looked down . . . to hear and will lift their voices to declare in Zion the name of the LORD. Apparently the Gentiles will also celebrate (see v. 15).

PSALM—NOTE ON 102:23–24 The person who feels what vv. 3–11 describes is keenly aware of his own mortality. It seems like the troubles will shorten his life even further. The prayer is that the God whose years endure throughout all generations would preserve the life of his faithful ones, so that they may see Zion's wonderful future.

PSALM—NOTE ON 102:25–28 The psalm finishes with words addressed to God, focusing on his everlasting being and purpose. Though the earth and heavens will perish and will all wear out like a garment, God will remain. Thus the psalm closes with confidence, expecting God to keep his promises to many faithful generations descended from today's faithful (v. 28).

PSALM—NOTE ON 102:25–27 See note on Heb. 1:10–12.

PSALM—NOTE ON 102:28 children . . . offspring. The Lord, who is everlasting, can ensure that the descendants of his servants will dwell secure, that is, will enjoy God's love and Zion's future.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 103. This is a hymn of praise, celebrating the Lord's abundant goodness and love for his people. It is the first of four psalms reflecting on God's dealings with his people from creation to exile. Psalm 103 introduces the sequence by recalling that Israel's survival in Moses' time was due to God's steadfast love. It begins with each individual singer exhorting his or her own soul to bless the Lord. It then lists the benefits that the soul should be careful not to forget. The crowning benefit is God's enduring love to the descendants of the faithful, which leads the worshipers to encourage all the angelic hosts and all creation to join in blessing the Lord. These benefits come to the individual but benefit the wider community as well (vv. 6–14; 17–18).

PSALM—NOTE ON 103:1–2 Each member of the worshiping congregation urges himself to bless the LORD, that is, to speak well of God for his abundant generosity. Thus forget not all his benefits is a crucial step in blessing the Lord. The body of the psalm lists these benefits in order to bring each singer to gratitude.

PSALM—NOTE ON 103:3 Heals often refers to curing someone from a physical sickness, but it can also be used as a metaphor for restoring the moral and spiritual life (e.g., Isa. 6:10; 53:5; Jer. 3:22; Hos. 14:4). Since it is in parallel with forgives, the metaphorical use may be intended here. Thus iniquity is like diseases, which weaken and corrupt. It is God's mercy that takes them away. These sentiments reflect David's own experience of God's forgiveness (see 2 Samuel 12; Psalm 51).

PSALM—NOTE ON 103:6 Righteousness and justice are the blessings of protection from those who might cause harm (see 33:5; 97:2; Deut. 16:18; Isa. 5:7). The Lord extends these blessings to all who are oppressed, but especially to his own people (see Ps. 146:7).

PSALM—NOTE ON 103:7 The Lord's acts reveal his enduring commitment to his people. That is, they express his ways.

PSALM—NOTE ON 103:8–13 The language of these verses (slow to anger, steadfast love, shows compassion) recalls Ex. 34:6, where the Lord proclaims his own name.

PSALM—NOTE ON 103:14 he knows our frame. The Lord remembers the limitations of the human perspective (dust is not eternal or all-knowing). He is patient with his people.

PSALM—NOTE ON 103:17–18 the steadfast love of the LORD is from everlasting to everlasting. See 25:6; 100:5. Those who fear him (compare 103:11, 13) are the same as those who keep his covenant and remember to do his commandments. They are the faithful who believe the promises and obey the commands (Ex. 19:5; Deut. 7:9; see John 14:15, 21). The faithful expect that God sets his saving love on their children's children. This is a great privilege: though their lives are short and appear almost insignificant, they may still contribute to the future well-being of God’s people by their godly and prayerful parenting.

PSALM—NOTE ON 103:20–22 After listing all these benefits, the psalm returns to urging various creatures to bless the LORD, echoing vv. 1–2. He addresses the angels and mighty ones and even the material creation (all his works, in all places of his dominion; compare v. 19). The overflow of goodness and steadfast love that God’s works reveal compels his people to call on the angels and all of nature (see 19:1) to join in their celebration.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 104. The phrase “Bless the LORD, O my soul,” which opens and closes the psalm, shows that the psalm is about reasons for speaking well of God. This hymn of praise celebrates the way creation reveals God’s glory by providing so abundantly for all living things. Although it does not use many specific words from Gen. 1:1–2:3, the creation account surely influences the psalm. Genesis 1:1–2:3 uses the term “God” for the deity, stressing his role as the transcendent Creator. Psalm 104 primarily uses “the LORD,” the personal name of the covenant God of Israel, who is the same being as the majestic Creator (see note on Gen. 2:4). This psalm joins Psalm 8 as a reflection on God’s continuing commitment to, and care for, his creation.

Creation in Psalm 104

Creation day	Psalm 104 verses
Day 1	2a: light
Day 2	2b–4: the “expanse” divides the waters
Day 3	5–13: land and water distinct 14–18: vegetation and trees
Day 4	19–24: light-bearers as time-keepers
Day 5	25–26: sea creatures
Day 6	21–24: land animals and man 27–30: food for all creatures

PSALM—NOTE ON 104:1–4 The first section of the psalm sets the tone: O LORD my God, you are very great! The various images all express the magnificence of the God who made the world and continues to rule it.

PSALM—NOTE ON 104:5–9 On the third day of creation, God separated the land and the water. The dry land is therefore a safe and suitable place for its inhabitants. The description here is more imaginative than what is given in Gen. 1:9–10.

PSALM—NOTE ON 104:10–13 God abundantly supplies the water that the land animals depend on. Although God made the world an ideal place for human beings to live, his creation is filled with more creatures than simply the ones useful to man (e.g., wild donkeys).

PSALM—NOTE ON 104:14–18 God provides for all plants, domesticated animals and crops, and wild creatures. God's care also extends to the unclean animals, such as the stork (Lev. 11:19; Deut. 14:18; see Introduction to Leviticus for "unclean") and the rock badgers.

PSALM—NOTE ON 104:15 The bread serves human need. The uses of wine and oil described here are for enjoyment.

PSALM—NOTE ON 104:19–24 On the fourth creation day, God appointed the celestial lights to mark off time for mankind. The lights still do what God appointed them to do. These verses help the Israelites to see the rhythm of their lives, by which they work during the day and rest at night, as part of the creation order (see note on Gen. 1:3–5) and in the context of the other animals' activities. Man was given work to do in the garden of Eden (Gen. 2:15), but after the fall his work became tiring and painful (Gen. 3:17–18).

PSALM—NOTE ON 104:25–26 After celebrating God's care for the land animals, the song moves on to the open sea . . . which teems with creatures innumerable (corresponding to the fifth creation day, Gen. 1:20–23). Leviathan (see note on Ps. 74:14) here is probably a poetic name for a whale, and is therefore one of the "great sea creatures" (Gen. 1:21). The admiration continues, as the song says that God formed Leviathan to play in the sea.

PSALM—NOTE ON 104:27–30 Each living thing on the land and sea (these all) depends on God to supply their food in due season and their very breath.

PSALM—NOTE ON 104:31–35 The key to the final section is the repeated "rejoice": may the LORD rejoice in his works (what he does in caring for his creation), and I rejoice in the LORD (who shows such abundant generosity in his works). Verse 35 is the only mention of human sin in the entire psalm, though the curse on sin is implied in v. 29. Sinners and the wicked are those who reject God's gracious rule and dwell in their rebellion. consumed from the earth. The purpose of this psalm is not to encourage hatred of human sinners, but rather hatred of all sorts of sin that harms God's good creation. The faithful will not want to be identified with such people. They will want their own lives to be more and more in tune with the goodness of God.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 105. Psalm 105 is a historical psalm, like Psalms 78 and 106. It is a celebration of God's faithful dealings with his people. It particularly remembers episodes from the Pentateuch in which the people interacted with powerful foreigners who might have harmed them: Abimelech (Genesis 20), Potiphar (Genesis 39–41), and Pharaoh (Exodus 7–14). The tone of Psalm 105 is one of gratitude (vv. 1–6). Each member of the singing congregation should recognize that he has benefited from all these great deeds that God has done. Each one should embrace his calling to live as a member of God's holy people (vv. 43–45). Verses 28–36 recount eight of the 10 plagues sent upon the Egyptians, leaving out the fifth and sixth (Ex. 9:1–12). The psalm mentions the ninth plague first (Ps. 105:28), and has the third and fourth in reverse order (v. 31). The psalm focuses on events in the Exodus story that display God's faithfulness.

FACT

Psalms 105 and 106 celebrate God's faithfulness to his people. They recall his promises to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Those who sing the psalms should see themselves as the beneficiaries of all the amazing things God has done in the past.

PSALM—NOTE ON 105:1–6 The congregation is invited to celebrate what the Lord has done. Gratitude comes from remembering the wondrous works that the Lord has done, particularly those on behalf of his people, the offspring of Abraham (see Gen. 15:5, 13, 18; 17:7).

PSALM—NOTE ON 105:1 call upon his name. An expression for seeking the Lord in public worship (see Gen. 4:26; 12:8).

PSALM—NOTE ON 105:7–11 The next section describes in general what the Lord has done. He has displayed his judgments . . . in all the earth, and he "remembers his covenant forever." The rest of the psalm will give specific examples to support this claim.

PSALM—NOTE ON 105:8 remembers his covenant forever. For this expression, see 111:5; Ex. 2:24; Lev. 26:42; Jer. 14:21. For God remembering, see note on Ps. 25:6–7. a thousand generations. See Ex. 34:7 and Deut. 7:9; see note on Ps. 100:5.

PSALM—NOTE ON 105:10 Everlasting covenant refers to the promise that Israel will possess the land and remain as God's people (see Gen. 17:7, 19).

PSALM—NOTE ON 105:12–15 God watches over his people. The first specific example of this comes from Genesis 20, when Abraham stayed in Gerar. When the king of Gerar took Sarah to be his wife, it would seem to have put at risk God's promise to give Abraham a son from Sarah. But God protected the promise.

PSALM—NOTE ON 105:15 anointed ones. God specially selected Abraham and his offspring to be his people.

PSALM—NOTE ON 105:16–17 famine. See Gen. 41:57; 42:5. The psalm sees Joseph's troubles with the eye of faith, saying that God had sent Joseph (see Gen. 45:5). Joseph was sold into slavery and rose to power in Egypt as an expression of God's faithful care for his people during the famine.

PSALM—NOTE ON 105:24–38 The next section recounts events from the book of Exodus, focusing on how God used Moses to lead the people out of Egypt, as he had promised (see Gen. 15:13–16).

PSALM—NOTE ON 105:36 the firstborn. The tenth and climactic plague (Ex. 12:29–30). See also Ps. 78:51. For the "firstborn" as the firstfruits of all their strength, see Gen. 49:3 and Deut. 21:17.

PSALM—NOTE ON 105:42–45 The final section rushes ahead from the events of Exodus to the time of Joshua, recalling that God remembered his holy promise to establish his people in the land.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 106. This historical psalm (see notes on Psalms 78 and 105) retells a series of events from Israel's history to illustrate God's steadfast love in the face of Israel's rebellion and unfaithfulness. The events occurred during Israel's time in the wilderness (Exodus and Numbers) and when Israel repeatedly rebelled against the Lord after Joshua's death (Judges). All of the episodes are instances of the whole people being unfaithful. In each instance God continues to maintain this people and to create conditions in which holiness can flourish. The focus is therefore on corporate unfaithfulness and forgiveness. The psalm begins by calling on the people to give thanks and praise to God (Ps. 106:1–3). It ends in a prayer that the God who has shown such patience will once again deliver his people, apparently this time from exile (v. 47). In view of the ending, it is best to call this psalm a community lament.

PSALM—NOTE ON 106:1–3 The psalm begins by calling God's people to give thanks and to reflect on his mighty deeds. Observe justice and do righteousness at all times remind the singing congregation that their actions should reflect their faith in God.

PSALM—NOTE ON 106:4–5 This section looks to the future, when God so blesses his faithful people (v. 3) that the Gentiles are drawn into the light (when you show favor to your people).

PSALM—NOTE ON 106:6–46 This is a list of incidents that begins at the shore of the Red Sea (vv. 7–12) and ends during the time of the judges (vv. 34–46).

PSALM—NOTE ON 106:6 Both we and our fathers have sinned. This verse is the theme of the incidents. The psalm presents the current generation as having been part of their ancestors' sin (see note on Deut. 1:20–21; see Ezra 9:6–15; Neh. 1:5–11; Dan. 9:4–19).

PSALM—NOTE ON 106:7–12 The first incident is from the shore of the Red Sea (Ex. 14:10–31), when the people of Israel who had followed Moses saw the pursuing army of Egypt. Their reaction was evidence of unbelieving hearts, because they did not consider God's wondrous works and they rebelled. Nevertheless the Lord saved them for his name's sake, so that he might make known his mighty power.

PSALM—NOTE ON 106:13–15 Sadly, the people of Israel soon forgot God's works and slipped back into unfaithfulness (see v. 7). They put God to the test in the desert (see Num. 14:22). The specific incident in view is Israel's wanton craving at Kibroth-hattaavah (Num. 11:4, 31–35).

PSALM—NOTE ON 106:16–18 The next event is the rebellion led by Dathan and Abiram (Num. 16:1–40). They apparently enlisted the Levite Korah to speak out against Moses and Aaron.

PSALM—NOTE ON 106:19–23 The psalm moves on to the calf in Horeb, the "golden calf" (Ex. 32:1–14). They worshiped this idol because they were unfaithful (Ps. 106:21; see vv. 7, 13). Moses stood in the breach before God (an image taken from risking one's own life to close up a gap broken in a wall; see Neh. 6:1; Ezek. 13:5), to turn away God's wrath from destroying the Israelites (Ex. 32:11–14).

PSALM—NOTE ON 106:24–27 The sad list now moves to what happened when the 12 spies returned from their mission to scout out the land that God had promised (Num. 13:32–14:38). Ten of them gave a bad report, which led Israel to give in to fear. As a result, they refused God's command to enter the land to conquer it (Ps. 106:24). This section closes with a worrying indication about the singers' current situation: just as God made the Israelites fall in the wilderness, so he would make their offspring fall among the nations, scattering them among the lands (see v. 47).

PSALM—NOTE ON 106:28–31 Next is the time when the Israelites yoked themselves to the Baal of Peor (Num. 25:1–15). It took the prompt and drastic action of Phinehas to stop the plague that broke out among the Israelites as a result of God's anger (see note on Num. 25:7–8). counted to him as righteousness. God considered Phinehas's deed as an act of covenant faithfulness.

PSALM—NOTE ON 106:32–33 At the waters of Meribah the people complained about lack of water and accused Moses of bringing them out of Egypt to die. Their unbelief led Moses to speak rashly (that is, to become careless about acting by faith). He lost his right to enter the Promised Land because of it.

PSALM—NOTE ON 106:34–46 The psalmist refers to the recurring pattern in Judg. 2:11–3:6, in which the people of Israel did not destroy the peoples in Canaan (disobeying what the LORD commanded them). Instead they mixed with the nations (especially by intermarriage, Judg. 3:6; see Ezra 9:2) and learned to do as they did (Ps. 106:34–35). Hence the anger of the LORD was kindled against his people, and he gave them into the hand of the nations (vv. 40–41; see Judg. 2:14). The stunning thing about the period of the judges is the opposing themes: many times he delivered them while yet they were rebellious in their purposes (Ps. 106:43). Nevertheless God looked upon their distress (v. 44) and kept coming to their aid. The expressions remembered his covenant and the abundance of his steadfast love (v. 45, a reference to Ex. 34:6) look back to Ps. 106:7. This puts the faithful Lord in stark contrast with the unfaithful people. In keeping with Solomon's prayer (1 Kings 8:50), God caused his repentant people to be pitied by all those who held them captive (Ps. 106:46), and he restored them.

PSALM—NOTE ON 106:48 This doxology closes Book 4 of the Psalms. Praise the LORD! echoes the opening phrase of 106:1. In view of what this list of events establishes about God's faithfulness, blessed be the LORD indeed. All the people should say, "Amen!"

Study Notes for Psalms, Book Five

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 107. With this psalm the members of the community call one another to give thanks for God's enduring "steadfast love." He has shown this to the people as a whole but also to individual members. The distinctive feature of this psalm is its four accounts of people in distress ("some," vv. 4, 10, 17, 23), whom God rescued. Because the psalm concerns gratitude for Judah's return from exile (v. 3), it is likely that these four accounts describe the activities of the Judahites in their exile. After the initial invitation to "give thanks to the LORD" (v. 1), the psalm describes how each of the four groups cried to the Lord in their trouble, and he delivered them. The psalm calls on them to thank the Lord.

PSALM—NOTE ON 107:1–3 The opening section states the purpose of the psalm (the call to give thanks to the LORD) and the theme (his steadfast love endures forever). The specific occasion is that God has redeemed his people and gathered them in from the lands (that is, from exile; see 106:47).

PSALM—NOTE ON 107:4–9 This is the first group of those who were banished from the land as a result of the exile. Some of the exiles wandered in desert wastes, such as the Sinai Desert (see 106:14; Deut. 32:10). finding no way to a city to dwell in. Their proper home was the Promised Land, but God had sent them away. When they cried to the LORD, God delivered them, bringing them to a city to dwell in.

PSALM—NOTE ON 107:10–16 The next group of exiles sat in darkness and in the shadow of death. These people suffered as captives (prisoners) and forced laborers (hard labor, v. 12) because they had rebelled against the words of God. But even though they rejected God's covenant by their rebellion, God still heard and rescued them (v. 14; see v. 10).

PSALM—NOTE ON 107:17–22 Some of the exiles were fools through their sinful ways. Their own folly, which resulted from their turning away from God, brought on their affliction. Nevertheless God heard and relieved them when they cried to the Lord in their trouble. Healed them is not merely physical but includes their return to the Promised Land.

PSALM—NOTE ON 107:23–32 The fourth group consisted of sailors caught in a storm. If these were exiles, they were sailing in the service of a foreign king. As the storm increased in its fury, they cried to the Lord in their trouble, and God made the storm be still. These people have returned to the Promised Land, where they can extol God in the congregation.

PSALM—NOTE ON 107:33–42 God displayed his righteousness by restoring Judah after the exile.

PSALM—NOTE ON 107:43 The final verse invites whoever is wise (that is, those who desire to live in a godly way) to attend to these things. They are to pay attention to the many ways in which God has displayed his steadfast love. Knowing God's love will increase one's wisdom.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 108. It seems that David composed this community lament using material from two other psalms. Verses 1–5 are from 57:7–11, and 108:6–13 are from 60:5–12. In the midst of a dangerous situation, the singers express their confident hope of thanking God "among the peoples" (108:3).

PSALM—NOTE ON 108:1–4 See 57:7–10. The opening section expresses confidence (my heart is steadfast). The basis for the confidence is God's steadfast love and faithfulness (Ex. 34:6).

PSALM—NOTE ON 108:5–6 The next section is a general prayer, be exalted, with a more specific plea that your beloved ones may be delivered.

PSALM—NOTE ON 108:7–9 As with 60:6–8, these verses seem to recall an oracle (God has promised) that gives God's plan for Israel's place in the world.

FACT

"Upon Edom I cast my shoe" (108:9). In ancient times, people would sometimes lay claim to a parcel of land by walking its boundaries and then offering the shoes they had worn as their title of ownership. Here, the Lord is claiming Edom as his own.

PSALM—NOTE ON 108:10–13 This comes from 60:9–12. Part of the background of Psalm 60 is a campaign against Edom.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 109. This is an individual lament. A faithful Israelite is being attacked in return for the good he has done to his attackers (vv. 1–5). He prays that his accusers would receive what they deserve (vv. 6–20). The psalm closes with a prayer that appeals to God's "steadfast love" (vv. 21–31). The tone and content of this psalm recalls Psalm 69. A major difference is that the sufferer in Psalm 69 acknowledges that wrongs he has done have played a role in his troubles, while the sufferer in Psalm 109 professes innocence. In both psalms the "enemies" are influential Israelites who are unfaithful to the covenant.

PSALM—NOTE ON 109:1–5 The opening section describes the situation. People attack the singer without cause. The psalm offers the right response: I give myself to prayer. This includes prayers for his enemies in the past (compare 35:13) and prayers for God's help in the present.

PSALM—NOTE ON 109:1 Be not silent. That is, "Do not let people think that you are accepting of evil" (see 28:1).

PSALM—NOTE ON 109:5 they reward me evil for good. The Bible instructs believers not to return evil for evil (Prov. 20:22; 24:29; see Rom. 12:21; 1 Thess. 5:15); obviously, then, they should never return evil for good.

PSALM—NOTE ON 109:6–20 The psalmist asks God to defend him by bringing on his enemies the troubles they deserve. The wicked man and accuser (v. 6) have opened wicked . . . mouths (v. 2) against the psalmist, and they accuse him. The psalmist is asking that they suffer the same fate. See v. 12 with v. 16; see also v. 17. As with Psalm 69, one must recall that the people being cursed are grievous sinners. They are covenant members who are unfaithful to the covenant. They will use whatever means they can to oppress the faithful. It can also be assumed that they have refused to repent (see notes on 5:10; 35:4–8).

PSALM—NOTE ON 109:8 may another take his office. That is, his "office of oversight" (see Num. 3:32; 1 Chron. 26:30; Ezek. 44:11), a responsible position among the people of God.

PSALM—NOTE ON 109:9–12 children . . . wife. The man's early death (v. 8) would leave his family in poverty (contrast 37:25). See also Ex. 34:7 ("visiting the iniquity of the fathers on the children"). A person's sin makes others suffer, especially those closest to him.

PSALM—NOTE ON 109:16 did not remember to show kindness. This is the explanation for the punishment prayed for in v. 12. The surest evidence of a person's faith in God is his kindness to those who are most vulnerable (the poor and needy and the brokenhearted). The cursed person seeks to harm and take advantage of them instead.

PSALM—NOTE ON 109:21–29 The psalmist asks for God's protection from the attacks. He also asks that the accusers be disgraced (v. 29), that is, be unable to continue intimidating and harming. The singer appeals to God's steadfast love (vv. 21, 26) and to his own powerlessness (vv. 22–25).

PSALM—NOTE ON 109:30–31 The psalm closes with hope. The singer is confident that soon he will give great thanks to the LORD in public worship.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 110. This is a royal psalm (see also Psalms 2; 18; 20–21; 45; 72; 101; 132; 144). Like Psalms 2 and 72, it goes well beyond the achievements of any merely human heir of David and thus looks forward to the Messiah. The people of Israel sang this song to celebrate God's promises to David, to yearn for the day when the Gentiles receive the light (through the Messiah), and to pledge to be faithful to their calling until that great day.

The right hand is often a symbol of authority and power. Kings wore their signet rings on their right hand (Jer. 22:24), and a father blessed his oldest son with his right hand (Gen. 48:14, 17). In Psalm 110, the right hand describes a place of honor and distinction. The Bible often refers to God's right hand in his acts of blessing and deliverance (Ex. 15:6; Ps. 16:11).

PSALM—NOTE ON 110:1 The psalm opens with an oracle from the LORD to the Davidic king (my Lord). Sit at my right hand. This is the position of honor (see 1 Kings 2:19; Ps. 45:9). Jesus, as the reigning messianic king, is likewise seated at "God's right hand" (Matt. 26:64; Acts 2:32–35; Eph. 1:20; Heb. 1:3; etc.). make your enemies your footstool. See also 1 Kings 5:3. God will subdue these enemies, making them subject to the authority of the Davidic king (see Ps. 2:8; 72:8–11; Isa. 11:1–10).

PSALM—NOTE ON 110:2–4 The next section looks to the Davidic king's successful rule over God's people, even under threat from hostile forces: Rule in the midst of your enemies!

PSALM—NOTE ON 110:4 a priest forever after the order of Melchizedek. Melchizedek was king of Salem (Jerusalem) and a priest of God Most High (Gen. 14:18–20). He met Abraham after a battle, blessed him, and received a tithe from him. The Davidic king is to be like him, probably in the sense that he is both a king and a priest, which were two distinct offices in Israel.

PSALM—NOTE ON 110:5–7 The final section takes up a common messianic theme of the OT. The ultimate heir of David will conquer the Gentile leaders, so that all people can serve their new king, the Messiah (see Isa. 11:4).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 111. This hymn of praise celebrates the great works the Lord has done for his people. He has called them to be his own, and has cared for and protected them. Singing the psalm reminds the people of these deeds and encourages them to respond with a "fear of the LORD" (v. 10). Psalms 111–112 go together. Psalm 111:10 closes with the reference to the “fear of the LORD” and Ps. 112:1 begins with “the man who fears the LORD.”

PSALM—NOTE ON 111:2 works (see vv. 6, 7). These are God’s deeds in creation (e.g., 8:3, 6; 104:24), and especially in redeeming his people (e.g., 145:9; Ex. 34:10; Deut. 3:24; Dan. 9:14).

PSALM—NOTE ON 111:3 his righteousness endures forever. See 119:142; Isa. 51:8. God shows his righteousness, his uprightness, and his faithfulness to his promises in his great deeds. See note on Ps. 112:3.

PSALM—NOTE ON 111:4 gracious and merciful. See Ex. 34:6.

PSALM—NOTE ON 111:5 remembers his covenant. See notes on 25:6–7; 105:8. Just as God “remembers,” so should his people remember (111:4).

PSALM—NOTE ON 111:6 This describes the taking of the Promised Land.

PSALM—NOTE ON 111:7–8 God’s precepts (instructions; see 19:8; 119:4) express his love and faithfulness as much as the works of his hands do.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 112. This wisdom psalm joins Psalms 1; 37; 49; 73; 127; and 128 (with 34:11–14) in making themes from the Wisdom Literature the topic of prayer, praise, and instruction in worship. Psalm 112 is also a companion to Psalm 111 (see note on Psalm 111). This psalm focuses on the moral character of the faithful, and on the benefits such people bring to themselves and to others.

FACT

Two acrostic poems. Because of their similar themes, Psalms 111 and 112 can be seen as companion psalms. Both are also acrostic poems. In the acrostics of the OT, each line or verse begins with successive letters of the Hebrew alphabet.

PSALM—NOTE ON 112:1 Blessed. See note on 1:1. Fears the LORD links with 111:10 and shows that the two psalms belong together. greatly delights in his commandments. Proper “fear” of the Lord is not terror but reverent love (see 1:2).

PSALM—NOTE ON 112:3 Wealth and riches. See note on Prov. 10:4. his righteousness endures forever. In Ps. 111:3, this referred to God’s righteousness. Now the same word is used to describe faithful humans: God’s own character is visible in them (see 2 Pet. 1:4).

PSALM—NOTE ON 112:4 Light dawns in the darkness for the upright. As in 97:11 (see note), the image of light represents God’s guidance. He makes the right path clear for the faithful (see note on Prov. 4:18–19).

PSALM—NOTE ON 112:10 The wicked man is the person who despises the covenant. Here he is probably an Israelite. The desire of such people will not bear fruit; instead it will perish (compare 1:6).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 113. This short hymn of praise celebrates the way in which the great God who rules over all takes notice of the lowly. Such a God is indeed worthy to be praised by all mankind. Psalms 113–118 have been used in connection with Passover. These psalms likely provided the hymn that Jesus and his disciples sang after their Passover meal (Matt. 26:30).

PSALM—NOTE ON 113:1–3 The theme of the whole psalm is seen in its opening and closing words: Praise the LORD! The servants of the LORD should lead the way in praise. They live in confidence that one day their God will be praised from the rising of the sun to its setting.

PSALM—NOTE ON 113:4–9 The God who deserves to be praised by all mankind is seated on high (ruling over the whole world), and yet he looks far down and raises the poor from the dust. God reigns in majesty, but that does not mean he is remote from his people. Rather, it means he is able to see and respond to all their needs.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 114. This hymn of praise celebrates the special status of Israel in God’s plan. All of nature obeys the Lord, and yet he has chosen little Israel to be his own. He exerts his power on their behalf. The psalm uses lively personification, describing the Red Sea and Jordan River as if they fled from God; the mountains as skipping like lambs; and the earth as trembling at God's presence.

PSALM—NOTE ON 114:1–2 The opening section recalls the exodus (when Israel went out from Egypt) and its consequence: Judah became God's sanctuary, and Israel became God's dominion; that is, Israel is the holy place where God rules.

PSALM—NOTE ON 114:3–6 God parted the Red sea (Ex. 14:21–22) and later the Jordan River (Josh. 3:15–17; see Josh. 4:21–24) for the sake of his people.

PSALM—NOTE ON 114:7–8 turns the rock into a pool. There are two events like this in the Pentateuch, Ex. 17:6 and Num. 20:8–13 (see Deut. 8:15). In both cases God showed his power over nature in order to care for his people.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 115. This is a hymn urging God's people to trust and worship the Lord alone. He alone is worthy of their deepest loyalty. There is always the temptation to turn to the gods of other nations. The congregation must understand how hopeless it is to serve such false deities.

FACT

Flint is a very hard variety of quartz that was plentiful in the land of the Bible. It could be broken into sharp pieces and used to make tools and weapons. Knives, arrowheads, sickle blades, and saws were all made from flint. The Bible often uses flint as a picture of strength and determination (Isa. 50:7; Ezek. 3:9). In Psalm 114, it provides a picture of God's power over what he has created.

Idols (115:4) represent anything allowed to compete with God for ultimate loyalty, robbing him of the devotion and glory he alone deserves. Idolatry is evil and foolish. God deserves our wholehearted love because nothing else compares with him.

PSALM—NOTE ON 115:1–8 Only the Lord deserves glory (that is, honor). This is true because of his steadfast love and faithfulness (see Ex. 34:6). It is also true because he is in the heavens (where he rules over all, see Ps. 113:4–5), and in his sovereign power he does all that he pleases (see 135:6; Isa. 46:10), unlike the impotent gods of the Gentiles (Ps. 115:4–8).

PSALM—NOTE ON 115:2 Why should the nations say? Israel's calling includes making God's name known among the Gentiles (see Josh. 4:24; 1 Kings 8:41–43). More than their own self-esteem is at stake here. If the Gentiles think that God is weak or absent, they will not receive God's light.

PSALM—NOTE ON 115:3 The confession that God does all that he pleases answers the Gentiles' taunt (v. 2). In Dan. 4:35 and Jonah 1:14 Gentiles themselves confess this to be true.

PSALM—NOTE ON 115:4–8 This satirical passage exposes the folly of worshiping idols (compare 135:15–18; Isa. 44:9–20). Many Bible passages explain that idols are merely the work of human hands and therefore unworthy of human worship (e.g., Deut. 4:28; 27:15; 31:29; 2 Kings 19:18; Isa. 2:8). If these gods are unworthy of Israel's worship, it is a tragedy that the Gentiles both make them and then become like them.

PSALM—NOTE ON 115:14–15 Verse 14 echoes Deut. 1:11, which anticipated that God's people would increase through their children. Psalm 115:15 echoes Gen. 1:28, 31; God called Israel in order to give them the privileges that Adam had forfeited.

PSALM—NOTE ON 115:17 The dead do not praise the LORD. See notes on 6:5 and 88:10–12.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 116. This is a hymn of personal thanksgiving for God's care. The specific circumstance is a narrow escape from death (vv. 3, 8–9, 15). The psalm shows that such thanksgiving for a very personal blessing is properly offered in public worship.

FACT

A psalm of thanksgiving. The words of Psalm 116 are excellent for expressing public thanks after surviving a crisis situation.

PSALM—NOTE ON 116:1–4 The people of Israel are urged to love the LORD in response to his covenant blessings (because he has heard my voice).

PSALM—NOTE ON 116:3 The snares of death and the pangs of Sheol are probably the same thing. He was on the brink of dying (see vv. 8, 15).

PSALM—NOTE ON 116:4 Called on the name of the LORD often refers to a public prayer (see Gen. 4:26; 12:8; Ps. 105:1), which is likely the case here (compare 116:13). Thus the request was made in a worship service.

PSALM—NOTE ON 116:5–7 The answer to the urgent prayer leads to reflection on God's character, namely, that he is gracious, merciful (see Ex. 34:6), and righteous (that is, reliably faithful). Celebrating this experience makes these notions all the more real to the believer.

PSALM—NOTE ON 116:8–11 death, tears, stumbling. These cover a wider variety of circumstances than simply the death of one's body. This may be the psalmist's invitation to the singers to apply the psalm more generally to experiences of need. The psalm also shows the thankful person how to make good use of the deliverance: I will walk before the LORD (that is, in love, faith, and obedience toward him).

PSALM—NOTE ON 116:12–19 What shall I render to the LORD for all his benefits to me? The answer is, acts of public worship. The personal deliverance is a benefit to the whole people, and the entire congregation shares in giving thanks (see Rom. 12:15).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 117. This short hymn invites all nations to praise the LORD. The Lord's steadfast love and faithfulness (Ex. 34:6) is pledged to Israel but is intended for all the world; hence the Gentiles addressed are included in the word us. The calling of Israel was for the sake of the whole world (Gen. 12:2–3; Ex. 19:5–6; 1 Kings 8:41–43). The OT constantly expresses the hope that Gentiles will one day gladly join in worshiping the one true God (see note on Psalm 96). When Israel sang this in faith, they would recall both their privileged position (see 147:19–20) and their reason for existence. Paul quotes 117:1 in Rom. 15:11 as part of his argument that Jewish and Gentile Christians should welcome one another and worship together (Rom. 15:5–13): the long-awaited time has arrived.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 118. This joyful psalm calls on all of God's people to praise the Lord for his steadfast love (vv. 1–4). It then moves to what seems to be a personal testimony of God's rescue from distress (vv. 5–18), and then to a worship service at the Lord's house, which involves the whole people again (vv. 19–29). The psalm describes a festive procession into Jerusalem after some great deliverance. It was the last psalm Jesus sang at the Last Supper with his disciples before they left for Gethsemane (Matt. 26:30). The "I" giving the personal testimony identifies himself with the trials of the whole people. God's many acts of deliverance show that his "steadfast love endures forever" and is not limited to one generation.

PSALM—NOTE ON 118:1–4 The opening section calls on the congregation to give thanks to the LORD, for he is good (full of generosity; see 23:6; 25:7–8). Each group mentioned should recite this marvelous truth: God's steadfast love endures forever. (See Psalm 136 for a similar repetition of this phrase.)

PSALM—NOTE ON 118:8–9 The experiences of God's help show that it is better to take refuge in the LORD (see note on 31:1–2; see 62:8) than to trust in man, particularly in princes (that is, in merely human power, which the enemies of 118:7 seem to trust in; see 146:3).

PSALM—NOTE ON 118:10–13 This section recalls a particular battle. All nations surrounded me (when they should have joined me in worship; see 117:1). They would have killed me, but the LORD helped me, and in the name of the LORD (that is, acting as his representative) I cut them off.

PSALM—NOTE ON 118:14–16 The deliverance of vv. 10–13 leads to celebration in the camp of God's people. Verse 14 uses the victory song of Ex. 15:2 (see Isa. 12:2). The right hand of the LORD. See Ex. 15:6.

PSALM—NOTE ON 118:17–18 The experience of deliverance leads the psalmist to say, I shall not die, but I shall live. God extends life so that I might recount the deeds of the LORD.

PSALM—NOTE ON 118:19–21 The gates of righteousness are the gates of the temple, through which the worshipers enter.

PSALM—NOTE ON 118:22–23 The cornerstone is probably the large stone at the corner of the temple's foundation (see Isa. 28:16). The psalm compares Israel to such a stone. The world's great powers had thought little of Israel, but God had chosen his people to be the cornerstone of his great plan for the world. This is the LORD's doing; it is not a mere human accomplishment.

FACT

The cornerstone (118:22) is the large shaped stone at the corner of the building's foundation. It is essential to a structure's stability. Several NT writers compared Jesus Christ to a cornerstone (e.g., Matt. 21:42; Eph. 2:20; 1 Pet. 2:4–8).

PSALM—NOTE ON 118:25 Save us, we pray. See vv. 14–15, 21; and note on 3:2.

PSALM—NOTE ON 118:26 Blessed is he who comes in the name of the LORD! See Matt. 21:9; Mark 11:9; Luke 19:38; John 12:13.

PSALM—NOTE ON 118:28–29 See note on vv. 1–4.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 119. This psalm celebrates the gift of God's law as the perfect guide for life. Its theme is echoed in Psalm 19 and in such wisdom psalms as 1 and 112. It is the longest psalm (and the longest chapter in the Bible, longer than many of the books) and the most carefully structured. By singing and praying this psalm, one expresses heartfelt admiration to God, who has so lovingly provided the law as a great gift for his people. One also voices a deep desire that one's personal life would reflect the loveliness and goodness of the law. The psalm is in an acrostic pattern (see ESV footnote at 119:1). There are 22 stanzas of eight verses each, following the 22 letters of the Hebrew alphabet in order. Within a stanza, the first word of each verse begins with the letter for that stanza. The psalm uses a number of terms for God's covenantal revelation: "law" (v. 1, instruction); "testimonies" (v. 2, what God solemnly declares to be his will); "precepts" (v. 4, what God has appointed to be done); "statutes" (v. 5, what the divine Lawgiver has laid down); “commandments” (v. 6, what God has commanded); “rules” (v. 7, what the divine Judge has ruled to be right); “word” (v. 9, what God has spoken).

FACT

Aside from being the longest psalm, Psalm 119 is also the longest and most carefully structured chapter in the Bible. The psalm is an acrostic poem of 22 stanzas, following the 22 letters of the Hebrew alphabet. Within each stanza, each verse begins with the same Hebrew letter.

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:1 Blessed. See note on 1:1. blameless. See note on 15:2–5.

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:2 seek. See vv. 10, 45, 94, 155. with their whole heart. See v. 10 and Deut. 4:29.

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:5 The goal of the whole psalm is that each member of the congregation would share in this desire.

Terms in Psalm 119 for God’s Covenant Revelation

English	Hebrew	Meaning
law	torah	instruction
testimonies	‘edot	what God solemnly testifies to be his will precepts	piqqudim	what God has appointed to be done statutes	khuqqim; khuqqot	what the divine Lawgiver has laid down commandments	mitswot	what God has commanded rules	mishpatim	what the divine Judge has ruled to be right
word	’imrah; dabar	what God has spoken

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:18 Open my eyes. Give me insight beyond my abilities. wondrous things out of your law. Probably the great deeds recorded there and what they reveal of God himself (see v. 27; Ex. 3:20; Josh. 3:5; Ps. 78:32; 145:5).

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:21 insolent, accursed ones. In the psalm, these are Israelites who reject the covenant, who wander from God’s commandments. See vv. 51, 69, 78, 85, 122; 86:14.

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:23 princes. In this psalm, these are rulers among God's people. They might use their power to control the faithful. See vv. 84, 86–87, 121–122, 134, 150, 157, 161.

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:32 enlarge my heart. Or "make my heart broad." See 1 Kings 4:29, where "breadth of heart or mind" is an expanded ability to understand God's truth.

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:36 Incline my heart. As in v. 5, the singer knows that God must supply the deepest motivation; see v. 112; also 141:4; 1 Kings 8:58.

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:41 steadfast love. A recurring theme of the psalm (vv. 64, 76, 88, 124, 149, 159). It is the genuine experience of God's grace and mercy that inspires the faithful to seek his moral guidance (see notes on 25:6–7; 25:8–11). salvation. See note on 3:2.

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:57 my portion. See note on 16:5–6.

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:59–60 When I think on my ways. The believer considers his own character and conduct, in order to bring them into greater obedience to God's commandments.

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:76–77 steadfast love . . . mercy. See Ex. 34:6.

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:83 like a wineskin in the smoke. An unused wineskin, hanging in the rafters, becomes shriveled by the smoke. It is an image of one's health "drying up."

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:98–100 wiser . . . more understanding . . . understand more. Because, in the setting of the psalm, neither my enemies nor my teachers nor the aged attend carefully to God's word.

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:105 lamp . . . light. See note on 112:4.

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:113 double-minded. See 1 Kings 18:21. These are people who should be devoted to the Lord but who allow their loyalties to be divided. The strong terms hate and love refer not so much to emotions as to deliberate rejection and obedience. See Ps. 119:158; see also v. 118, where this reflects God's own attitude.

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:126 time for the LORD to act. When God's law has been broken by his own people and they seem to get away with it, it seems that God is inactive. This is a prayer that he would prove his own justice for the sake of his faithful.

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:129 wonderful. Far beyond merely human in their origin and excellence (see 139:6).

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:130 The unfolding of your words. As they are pondered, explained, and understood, they give insight and understanding.

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:155 For they do not seek implies that the cause is not God's stinginess but their refusal.

Unique verses. Out of the 176 verses in Psalm 119, only seven lack an explicit mention of God's Word: vv. 84, 90–91, 120, 122, 132, and 149.

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:168 all my ways are before you. God is well aware of every detail of one's life. This is good motivation to keep a clear conscience (Eccles. 12:14; Matt. 12:36; Acts 24:15–16).

PSALM—NOTE ON 119:176 I have gone astray like a lost sheep. A humble person praying this recognizes his need for God's grace, forgiveness, and steadfast love (see note on v. 41). He asks God to seek him. One who has received this grace will not easily forget God's commandments.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 120. Psalm 120 is the first of the “Songs of Ascents” (Psalms 120–134). This diverse group includes individual and corporate laments, songs of confidence, thanksgiving hymns, a song celebrating Zion, wisdom psalms, a royal psalm, and a psalm for worship. Since Jerusalem has a high elevation, those coming to worship had to ascend to get there. These songs were sung during the climb to Jerusalem (122:4; see 1 Kings 12:28; Zech. 14:16). Psalm 120 is an individual lament, sung by someone living away from Israel (v. 5). Deceitful people are stirring up war, while the psalmist prefers peace. It is possible that the psalm originated during the exile, when God told his people to seek the “welfare” (or “peace”) of the city to which they were sent (Jer. 29:7). Worship in Jerusalem, both for the singer and for the Gentiles, is the key to such peace (Ps. 120:5–7; see Isa. 2:3–4).

PSALM—NOTE ON 120:1–2 The psalm opens by remembering that there have been times of distress in the past, and each time I called to the LORD, he answered me with rescue. People with lying lips and a deceitful tongue are causing the distress.

PSALM—NOTE ON 120:3–4 The psalm now addresses the person who is causing the trouble.

PSALM—NOTE ON 120:5–7 The psalmist reflects on the larger situation. The people among whom he dwells are Gentiles, who do not know God’s word. The ideal Israelite exile is for peace, seeking it for the city in which he is exiled (in Jer. 29:7 this is “welfare,” see ESV footnote on Jer. 29:11).

FACT

The wood of the broom tree makes excellent charcoal (120:4). Charcoal was an ideal source of fuel in Bible times because it was lightweight and created a hot fire that retained its heat for a long time.

PSALM—NOTE ON 120:5 To sojourn is to live as a resident alien, not as a native-born citizen. Meshech was a people on the southeastern edge of the Black Sea (see note on Ezek. 27:13), while Kedar was a people dwelling in the Arabian desert. These two names probably represent the Gentile world into which God’s people have been scattered.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 121. This psalm seems to be intended to encourage confidence in those making the pilgrimage to Jerusalem (see note on Psalm 120 for the Songs of Ascents). The successful journey becomes a parable for the whole of one’s life (121:7), in which the faithful can be confident of God’s tireless care.

PSALM—NOTE ON 121:1–2 The person on pilgrimage to Jerusalem will lift up his eyes to the hills (possibly as a terrain to be feared), and will wonder, From where does my help come? The reply is, his help comes from the LORD, who made heaven and earth, and therefore no other power can stop it.

PSALM—NOTE ON 121:3–8 These verses are dominated by the word “keep” (to watch over): the Lord who keeps Israel (the corporate entity) also keeps you (the particular member). This means that he will not let your foot be moved (that is, slip as you walk, see 38:16; 66:9). This is the confidence the faithful can have.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 122. This psalm celebrates Zion as God’s chosen city (compare Psalms 46; 48; 76; 87), and the privilege of going there on a pilgrimage (compare Psalm 84). Not only is “the house of the LORD” there, but so are “the thrones of the house of David.”

FACT

Psalm 122 is one of the 15 Songs of Ascents, which were sung by worshipers who were on their way up to the temple. It reflects the joy of seeing God’s chosen city, Jerusalem, and being in the house of God to worship. The Songs of Ascents include Psalms 120–134.

PSALM—NOTE ON 122:1–2 The song begins by remembering (they said is past tense) the invitation to go to Jerusalem for worship (the house of the LORD). The person has now arrived (our feet have been standing). The anticipation (I was glad) is now to be fulfilled.

PSALM—NOTE ON 122:3–5 The singer looks around Jerusalem. Bound firmly together probably compares the physical coziness of the city to the sense of unity the pilgrim expects to find there.

PSALM—NOTE ON 122:4 decreed. See Deut. 12:5.

PSALM—NOTE ON 122:6–9 In light of what Jerusalem should be, the psalm ends by urging God's people to seek the conditions that will make that a reality: the peace of Jerusalem.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 123. This is a community lament, as the references to "we" and "us" show. In this Song of Ascents (see note on Psalm 120), the faithful pilgrims feel themselves to be the objects of scorn and contempt. The psalm goes beyond simply asking for a safe journey. It seeks relief from the scorn.

PSALM—NOTE ON 123:1–2 The first section describes the way God's faithful look toward God for help. The image of servants looking to a master and a maidservant to a mistress is that of waiting patiently and trustingly for God to act.

PSALM—NOTE ON 123:3–4 The wait for mercy (v. 2) becomes a prayer, have mercy upon us. The mercy desired is relief from those who show contempt and scorn toward the faithful pilgrims.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 124. This is a thanksgiving hymn for the community, for a time when God's people have been under threat but have been delivered. The deliverance allows them to continue journeying to Jerusalem (see note on 122:6–9; and note on Psalm 120 on the Songs of Ascents).

PSALM—NOTE ON 124:1–5 The first section describes a situation in which people (apparently Gentiles) rose up against us (that is, against Israel).

PSALM—NOTE ON 124:6–7 We have escaped like a bird from the snare of the fowlers. That is, unexpectedly.

PSALM—NOTE ON 124:8 The psalm closes with its basic point, that our help is in the name of the LORD (that is, his personal presence; see Deut. 12:11).

FACT

What are fowlers? A “fowler” is someone who traps birds. In the Scriptures, it is used figuratively to describe active enemies of God’s people. The psalmist describes God as delivering his people from the fowler’s snare (91:3; 124:7).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 125. This psalm assures the Lord’s people that remaining loyal to him really is worthwhile. It is possible that some of Zion’s citizens might become unfaithful, but the Lord will publicly vindicate those who remain faithful. Like Psalm 122, this psalm stresses the ideal of what Jerusalem should be.

PSALM—NOTE ON 125:1–2 the mountains surround Jerusalem. The hills on which Jerusalem sits are a little lower than the hills around it, so that one can picture the surrounding hills as a wall. This serves as an image of the Lord’s protection, as he surrounds his people like a high wall.

PSALM—NOTE ON 125:3 The scepter of wickedness is kingly power held by Israelites who do not serve God and his people (the righteous). The Lord intends to protect his city, not simply from enemies outside the walls (v. 2) but from enemies within. shall not rest on the land. God will not allow the unrighteous to rule over his people forever.

PSALM—NOTE ON 125:4–5 The Lord really does reward the faithful (v. 4), and he really does remove the unfaithful (v. 5) from his people. Peace will certainly be upon Israel when God so visibly validates the truthfulness of his word and when his people embrace it.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 126. This is a community lament that recalls a previous time of God’s mercy on his people (v. 1) and asks him to show that mercy again (v. 4).

PSALM—NOTE ON 126:1–3 During some past event, God restored the fortunes of Zion. This great mercy, which they could hardly believe (like those who dream), filled the people with gladness (v. 2). It also impressed the nations with God’s care for his people, and the people themselves took up the Gentiles’ cry: The LORD has done great things for us.

PSALM—NOTE ON 126:1 restored the fortunes. Compare vv. 5–6; Job 42:10; see also Ps. 14:7; Lam. 2:14.

PSALM—NOTE ON 126:4–6 Restore our fortunes, O LORD asks God to show mercy now as he has in the past. The images that follow (streams in the Negeb; seed for sowing) seem to illustrate the kind of renewal asked for, namely, a good year for crops.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 127. The basic theme of this wisdom psalm is that without the Lord’s blessing, all human toil is worthless. This is seen clearly in vv. 1–2, and is implied in vv. 3–5, where the faithful are to see their children as the Lord’s gift. This psalm, along with Psalm 72, is attributed to Solomon. Psalms 127–128 are wisdom poems within the Songs of Ascents.

FACT

Watchmen (130:6) were stationed along the walls of ancient cities. They would sound an alarm if an enemy approached the city. Fields and vineyards also had watchmen to protect the grain and produce from thieves and animals.

PSALM—NOTE ON 127:1–2 Those who build a house must labor on it, and certainly the watchman of a city must stay awake. At the same time, they must carry out their efforts in faith, trusting God to make the work beneficial. Likewise the farmer must be diligent (compare 128:2), but he must practice his diligence in faith, receiving the sleep that God wants to give to his beloved. The psalm promotes hard work, but such diligence should not be the result of greed or restless anxiety (see notes on Prov. 10:22; 23:4–5). The Sabbath commandment (Ex. 20:8–11) is a gift enabling God’s people to live by faith. It requires them to rest from their labors as they trust the Lord for their future well-being.

PSALM—NOTE ON 127:3–5 the children of one’s youth. The children are now grown up and are standing with their father when he speaks with his enemies in the gate. The gate was the place where legal disputes were settled (see note on Ruth 4:1–2).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 128. This wisdom psalm expands some of the topics in Psalm 127. Psalm 127 ended with the "blessed . . . man" (127:5), and Psalm 128 gives a further description of this man. For the ancient Israelites, blessedness consisted of a productive farm, with a faithful wife and children around the table together (see note on Prov. 10:4).

PSALM—NOTE ON 128:1–4 eat the fruit of the labor of your hands. This is a covenant blessing. Compare Deut. 28:1–6 and contrast Deut. 28:33.

PSALM—NOTE ON 128:5–6 May you see your children's children. This includes living to be old enough to see one's grandchildren and the delight they give (Prov. 17:6). It also includes the prospect of a faithful family line (Ps. 103:17). With such faithfulness and blessedness, peace would indeed be upon Israel.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 129. This psalm reflects on what God's people have endured and how God has sustained them. As a Song of Ascents, it reminds the pilgrims never to take their privileges for granted.

PSALM—NOTE ON 129:1–4 God's people as a whole (me) speak, recalling that Israel has long endured (from my youth) people who have afflicted them, and yet they have not prevailed against Israel. The LORD is righteous. That is, true to his promises.

PSALM—NOTE ON 129:5–8 The second section prays that such enemies will fail in their purposes (v. 5; see note on 25:2–3).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 130. This is an individual lament, expressing repentance and trust in God's mercy. The psalm climbs from "out of the depths" of misery over one's sin, to confession of it (vv. 3–4), to hope (vv. 5–6) and assurance (vv. 7–8). The ideal Israel is a people where every member readily acknowledges dependence on God's mercy and grace.

PSALM—NOTE ON 130:3–4 If God should mark iniquities (as if he kept them in a record book), no one, not even the faithful who are singing this, could stand. And yet with the Lord there is forgiveness (compare 86:5; 103:3; Dan. 9:9). This is why he may be feared (that is, worshiped and served in loving reverence).

PSALM—NOTE ON 130:5–8 His word in this context probably refers to the word of forgiveness connected with the sacrifices (e.g., Lev. 4:21).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 131. This psalm of confidence in the Lord describes the ideal of a "calmed and quieted soul."

FACT

What does it mean to "redeem" someone? The word "redeem" expresses the idea of rescue and protection. The Psalms speak of God redeeming Israel (44:26; 111:9). God's acts of redemption in the OT anticipate redemption from sin through the death of Jesus Christ (Col. 1:13–14).

PSALM—NOTE ON 131:1 heart is not lifted up . . . eyes are not raised too high. Descriptions of arrogance and pride.

PSALM—NOTE ON 131:2 Just as a weaned child is content simply having his mother's presence, so the faithful worshiper is content (calmed and quieted) simply with God's presence.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 132. The theme of this royal psalm is God's covenant with David's house to establish the dynasty for the good of the people and, eventually, of the whole world (2 Sam. 7:4–16). The psalm expresses confidence in these promises and asks the Lord to carry out his purpose (Ps. 132:1, 8–9). As a Song of Ascents, the psalm recalls how David's dynasty is to ensure the stability of the nation, especially of Jerusalem (compare Psalm 122).

PSALM—NOTE ON 132:1–5 The psalm opens with a request that God will remember (see note on 25:6–7) all that David did to prepare the temple (see 2 Sam. 7:2; 1 Chron. 22:2–19). The prayer expresses the feeling that such sacrifice and hard work ought not be wasted.

PSALM—NOTE ON 132:6–7 The pilgrims come from various villages in Judah to worship at his footstool (see 1 Chron. 28:2; Ps. 99:5).

PSALM—NOTE ON 132:8–10 The worshipers pray that God will be present in his chosen resting place. Imagining the scene in Jerusalem, the worshipers pray that Israel will be true to its calling. do not turn away the face of your anointed one. The worshipers pray that God would continue showing favor to David's heirs, so that Israel would remain a secure home for the faithful.

PSALM—NOTE ON 132:11–18 swore to David. This promise is God's answer to the prayer of vv. 8–10. God promised to preserve the dynasty, and expects the individual heirs of David to be faithful to the covenant.

PSALM—NOTE ON 132:18 These words, sung during the exile, declare by faith that God would again fulfill his promises and raise up a new David.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 133. This wisdom psalm celebrates the beauty of unity. It uses two colorful similes to describe the blessedness of Israel being true to its calling.

PSALM—NOTE ON 133:1 brothers dwell in unity. Since this is a Song of Ascents, the "brothers dwelling in unity" would be the fellow Israelite pilgrims gathered in Jerusalem, living in peace with one another.

PSALM—NOTE ON 133:2 oil on the head. This oil made the priests "holy," set apart for God's purpose. The image means that when Israel is true to its ideal, it displays genuine dedication to God and carries out its calling in the world.

FACT

Anointing with oil. It was common during festivals for people to have their foreheads anointed with fragrant oils. This not only provided a pleasant aroma but gave the person a glistening look of good health. (See 133:2.)

PSALM—NOTE ON 133:3 dew . . . falls on the mountains of Zion. The dew is crucial for the vegetation during the dry season (Gen. 27:28; 1 Kings 17:1; Hag. 1:10). A fruitful land was part of the covenantal ideal (see Deut. 28:1–14).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 134. This final Song of Ascents is geared toward a special worship occasion, perhaps the opening or closing of a festival.

PSALM—NOTE ON 134:1–2 The title servants of the LORD is addressed to the Levites (1 Kings 8:10–11; 1 Chron. 9:33). The worshiping congregation calls on them to lift up their hands and bless the LORD (see Ps. 28:2).

PSALM—NOTE ON 134:3 The priests then say to each of the worshipers, May the LORD bless you from Zion (that is, "from the place where you have been worshiping").

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 135. God's people are called to praise him for his majestic power, displayed in his deeds on their behalf.

PSALM—NOTE ON 135:1–4 The psalm begins by calling the worshiping community to praise the LORD. The term servants of the LORD could be the Levitical attendants. It is more likely the faithful gathered for worship in the house of the LORD (the temple). The reason for the praise: For the LORD has chosen Jacob for himself.

PSALM—NOTE ON 135:1 In the Psalms, the name of the LORD, which refers to his character, inspires praise, love, trust, and hope.

PSALM—NOTE ON 135:5–7 The psalm moves to another reason to praise the Lord: he is great and is above all gods. This means that whatever the LORD pleases, he does, and there is no power that can stop him. He it is, rather than the gods of other nations, who controls the weather (clouds, rain, wind).

PSALM—NOTE ON 135:8–12 The Lord has displayed his great power and his enduring love in the history of Israel. These verses mention the exodus from Egypt and the conquest of the Promised Land. The defeat of Sihon and Og (Num. 21:21–35) was the first taste of victory for the post-exodus generation of Israel, and it strengthened their faith.

PSALM—NOTE ON 135:13–14 Verse 13 recalls Ex. 3:15. God's name signifies his continuing faithfulness to his people.

FACT

What is “renown”? The word “renown” refers to being well-known or specially honored. In 135:13, it could also mean a “remembrance.” Psalm 135 echoes the words of Ex. 3:15: “This is my name forever, and thus I am to be remembered throughout all generations.”

PSALM—NOTE ON 135:13 Renown could also be translated “remembrance.”

PSALM—NOTE ON 135:15–18 This adapts the words of 115:4–8 to contrast the God who has chosen and cared for Israel with the useless gods of the Gentiles.

PSALM—NOTE ON 135:19–21 The only fitting response to such a great God is for the various members of the worshiping company (the house of Israel, the house of Aaron, the house of Levi, and those who fear the LORD) to bless the LORD.

PSALM—NOTE ON 135:21 Blessed be. The passive form of “bless,” v. 19. The mention of Zion and Jerusalem is a reminder that this is where the whole people gathered to worship in the OT era. It is where God made his “name” dwell (Deut. 12:1–7).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 136. This hymn calls on the worshiping congregation to give thanks to the Lord, who has shown his faithfulness throughout the history of God’s people. Each verse in this psalm has the same refrain, “for his steadfast love endures forever.”

PSALM—NOTE ON 136:1–3 The song calls God’s people to give thanks to him because he is good, he is the God of gods, and he is the Lord of lords. This affirmation of the Lord’s supremacy shows why his steadfast love, which endures forever, is effective for his people.

PSALM—NOTE ON 136:4–9 The OT often reminds God’s people that the God who has redeemed them is also the God who created the world. Sometimes that reminder is given to reassure the people of God’s power. Sometimes (as here) it is given so that the people will see their own lives in relation to God’s continuing commitment to his creation.

Wonders can also be translated “marvels.” The word is often used to describe God’s works of rescuing his people and protecting and caring for them (9:1; 78:11; 98:1; Ex. 3:20; 34:10). In Ps. 136:4, it describes creation, showing that God’s work as Creator should fill us with awe and wonder.

PSALM—NOTE ON 136:4 The word wonders (also translated “marvels”) usually refers to God’s deeds of rescuing, protecting, and caring for his people. Here it refers specifically to creation: God’s work of creation is wonderful, too.

PSALM—NOTE ON 136:10–16 These verses recall how the Lord brought Israel out from among the Egyptians with a strong hand and an outstretched arm, and led his people through the wilderness.

PSALM—NOTE ON 136:17–22 These verses recall how God struck down great kings and gave their land to Israel as a heritage. The specific event here is the defeat of Sihon and Og.

PSALM—NOTE ON 136:22 The people as a whole are God’s servant.

PSALM—NOTE ON 136:23–26 Now the song turns to an apparently more recent event, when the Lord remembered us in our low estate, and rescued us from our foes. The reference to food to all flesh (that is, not just to Israel), returns to the theme of the Lord as the universal Creator.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 137. This community lament remembers the Babylonian captivity. It provides words by which the returned exiles can express their loyalty to Jerusalem and pray that God would punish those who gloat over its destruction. This psalm is notable for the intensity of its final wish (v. 9). It is a prayer that the Babylonians, who had smashed Israelite infants, should be punished appropriately.

PSALM—NOTE ON 137:1–3 The opening section recalls the captivity by the waters of Babylon (the Euphrates River), where the Babylonian captors had required of us songs. The songs of Zion would be sacred songs (such as the psalms). Apparently the captors wanted the Judeans to sing them for entertainment rather than for worship.

PSALM—NOTE ON 137:4–6 To a faithful Judean, the request of v. 3 would be like asking him to forget . . . Jerusalem, which would be an act of treachery against God, his covenant, and his people. His prayer is that if he should consent to such disloyalty, the very right hand that would play the lyre would instead forget its skill, and the tongue that might sing would instead stick to the roof of my mouth.

PSALM—NOTE ON 137:7–9 The recollection of these hurtful taunts leads to a prayer that God will remember the deeds of his people's enemies. These are represented here by the Edomites and the daughter of Babylon. The Edomites took great delight in destroying Jerusalem completely. The Babylonians had been excessively violent against the helpless in Jerusalem.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 138. This psalm offers thanks to God for signs of his constant care.

PSALM—NOTE ON 138:1–3 The opening section explains the theme: I give you thanks because on the day I called, you answered me.

PSALM—NOTE ON 138:1 Since the setting is worship in the temple, gods most likely refers to angels.

PSALM—NOTE ON 138:4–6 The God to whom the singer had prayed is the universal Lord, to whom all the Gentiles will one day come in worship (all the kings of the earth shall give you thanks). Yet he regards the lowly person.

PSALM—NOTE ON 138:7–8 The psalm closes by telling of God's constant care for each of his faithful. As God has begun to care for the singer, so he will continue to do so all throughout the singer's life.

FACT

The Lord protects his people. Psalm 138 tells of God's constant care for everyone who loves him. Singing this psalm helps believers be more aware of the ways in which God preserves and protects them.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 139. The closing request of this hymn (“search me, O God, and know my heart”) echoes the opening statement. This highlights the psalm’s theme: God’s knowledge of his people.

PSALM—NOTE ON 139:1–6 Verse 1 states the theme of the psalm (you have searched me and known me). Verses 2–6 develop that further as a general assertion: God knows all of my activities, all of my words, even my inmost thoughts.

PSALM—NOTE ON 139:5 lay your hand upon me. A gentle, reassuring gesture.

PSALM—NOTE ON 139:7–12 The next section makes it clear that there is no way the singer can escape such knowledge. There is nowhere in the universe that God will not be present to lead and hold the believer, and nowhere too dark for God to see him. Some have supposed that the impulse to flee comes from a guilty conscience, but this is unlikely: these verses take delight in the fact that God will “lead” him, an entirely positive benefit.

PSALM—NOTE ON 139:8–9 These verses use two pairs of opposites: heaven and Sheol; the wings of the morning and the uttermost parts of the sea. This indicates that everything in between is included.

PSALM—NOTE ON 139:13–16 These verses illustrate the point of vv. 11–12 by describing a particular “dark place” where the Lord saw and cared for the singer, namely, his mother’s womb. God was active as the unformed substance (embryo) grew and developed. God is the one who formed my inward parts and knitted me together.

PSALM—NOTE ON 139:14 I am fearfully and wonderfully made. If the ESV text is followed, the statement helps the worshiper to marvel over the mysterious process of a developing baby. The ESV footnote translation, “I am fearfully set apart,” takes the word to be the term for God setting his people apart (Ex. 8:22; Ps. 4:3) or making a distinction between them and those who are not his people (Ex. 9:4; 11:7; 33:16).

PSALM—NOTE ON 139:15 in the depths of the earth. As a parallel to in secret, this would be a poetic expression for the darkness and secrecy of the womb.

PSALM—NOTE ON 139:17–18 These verses provide the right response to the vast extent of God's thoughts. Verse 18 seems to picture the hopelessness of trying to count God's thoughts: the number is so large that one would fall asleep attempting it.

PSALM—NOTE ON 139:19–22 The wicked person, who joins with men of blood, who speak against God with malicious intent, is someone who actively opposes God.

PSALM—NOTE ON 139:23–24 In view of these reflections, the members of the congregation invite God to continue his work of searching and knowing their hearts. God will expose any grievous way (character traits or actions that leads to grief) and will lead the faithful in the way everlasting (the way that leads to eternal life).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 140. This lament comes from those threatened by ungodly people who intend to do him serious harm. This psalm, in praying for protection and expressing trust, also prays for the defeat of these enemies.

PSALM—NOTE ON 140:1–5 The basic request is clear from the verbs deliver, preserve, and guard. The threat is from evil men, who are further described as violent men and the arrogant, who plan evil things.

PSALM—NOTE ON 140:3 under their lips is the venom of asps. In Rom. 3:13 Paul uses this phrase as part of his argument that Jews and Greeks are alike "under sin."

PSALM—NOTE ON 140:6–8 The right response to such danger is to reaffirm trust in God and to ask him for help.

PSALM—NOTE ON 140:6 You are my God. The faithful worshiper affirms that he has personally received God's love.

PSALM—NOTE ON 140:9–11 These verses pray that the evil schemes would happen to those who plot them. The success of such people would defile the land.

FACT

In the OT, salvation generally refers to deliverance from both physical and spiritual danger. Because God had been a faithful Savior in the past, Israel trusted that they could look forward to his greater salvation in the future. The ultimate salvation for all mankind would come through Jesus the Messiah.

PSALM—NOTE ON 140:12–13 The psalm closes by expressing confidence in the Lord and by guiding the faithful in what they can expect.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 141. This is an individual lament, a prayer that God will protect the faithful person against all insincerity and compromise.

PSALM—NOTE ON 141:1–2 The singer asks God to give ear to my voice when I call to you! His prayer is compared to incense and the evening sacrifice, acts performed in worship.

PSALM—NOTE ON 141:3–5 The singer may be tempted to avoid danger by joining the men who work iniquity; he asks God to help him avoid all such temptation. This prayer reveals great insight into how a person in such circumstances would actually feel.

PSALM—NOTE ON 141:6–7 As the ESV footnote explains, the Hebrew here is difficult. The main point is that eventually God will bring his judgment upon the judges. Then the faithful person will be vindicated, and the unfaithful might even learn wisdom.

PSALM—NOTE ON 141:8–10 The prayer that God would keep me from falling prey to their schemes becomes a prayer that the wicked would fall into their own nets.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 142. This individual lament is a companion to Psalm 57. It is also similar to Psalms 140–141, with the faithful person praying for protection from persecutors.

PSALM—NOTE ON 142:1–2 The words here express earnest prayer in the face of danger: cry out, plead for mercy, pour out my complaint, and tell my trouble. Each of these acts is directed toward the Lord.

PSALM—NOTE ON 142:3–4 These verses express what people often feel when being threatened: out of energy, beset by dangers, confused, and painfully alone.

PSALM—NOTE ON 142:5–7 The final section ties the whole psalm together. Cry to you echoes v. 1, while you are my refuge echoes v. 4; and I am brought very low summarizes vv. 3–4. This section enables the faithful to pray with boldness and with confidence in the Lord's unflagging care.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 143. This individual lament is a penitential psalm. The person's troubles make him aware of his own sins.

PSALM—NOTE ON 143:1–2 The opening cry for help asks God to give ear to my pleas for mercy. Hence v. 2 prays, enter not into judgment with your servant, for no one living is righteous before you. The term "righteous" is commonly used to describe the people of God in general. Here, however, the idea seems to be "qualified to stand in God's presence," and not even the faithful are that in themselves.

PSALM—NOTE ON 143:4 When the spirit or "soul" faints, the person is at the end of his strength.

PSALM—NOTE ON 143:5–6 Being at the end of his strength need not mean that he gives up. Instead, if he can remember the days of old, he will find in himself fresh courage to stretch out his hands to God. The weary soul thirsts for God as its source of energy.

PSALM—NOTE ON 143:7–8 The situation is still desperate. Therefore he asks, answer me quickly. He wants to hear in the morning of God's steadfast love. He also prays for moral guidance: make me know the way I should go. Lift up my soul expresses deep dependence.

PSALM—NOTE ON 143:9–12 The prayer closes by expressing trust in a number of ways: I have fled to you for refuge, you are my God, and the expectation based on God's steadfast love. For your name's sake means “for the sake of your good reputation,” particularly God’s reputation for faithfulness to his promises.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 144. This royal psalm asks God to give victory to the reigning heir of David. The “I” in vv. 1–11 is the Davidic king. God’s promise to David’s house has tied the well-being of the whole nation to the faithfulness of the king.

PSALM—NOTE ON 144:1–2 This psalm begins by reviewing how God has equipped the king to fight for the sake of the people. As the leader of God’s people, the singer has found the Lord to be his stronghold and deliverer, who subdues peoples under me.

PSALM—NOTE ON 144:3–4 The king does not take God’s help for granted. He knows that if God should regard him, it is a kindness on God’s part. The king and the people he serves are like a breath; their lives quickly pass by.

PSALM—NOTE ON 144:5–8 The psalm moves on to request: rescue me and deliver me . . . from the hand of foreigners. This suggests that the psalm is especially suited to a time when the king must lead the people in war.

PSALM—NOTE ON 144:9–11 Once God has given the deliverance of vv. 5–8, the king will lead the people in public thanks.

PSALM—NOTE ON 144:10 Victory can also be translated “salvation.” The requested victory furthers God’s purpose for his people.

PSALM—NOTE ON 144:12–15 The closing section shows the purpose of the fight, namely, to protect God’s people so that they can flourish under God’s blessing. They recognize that such blessings are God’s generous gift.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 145. This is the last of David’s psalms. This hymn praises the Lord for his goodness and generosity toward his creatures, especially his people. One remarkable feature is the way it uses so many different words for “praising”: “extol”; “bless”; “praise”; “commend”; “declare”; “meditate”; “speak”; “pour forth”; “sing aloud”; and “give thanks.” Further, there are repeated terms for the enduring nature of this praise: “forever and ever”; the “generations”; and “everlasting.” This psalm basically follows an acrostic pattern, but it lacks one verse (between vv. 13–14). The ESV includes the “missing” verse (v. 13b), but in square brackets due to its uncertainty.

PSALM—NOTE ON 145:1–3 The psalm has a theme of joy and celebration. Each member of the congregation pledges himself to this (I will).

PSALM—NOTE ON 145:3 his greatness is unsearchable. That is, the human mind cannot fully describe or comprehend it.

PSALM—NOTE ON 145:4–7 God’s great deeds have protected his people and have produced the conditions in which they can flourish in true faithfulness.

PSALM—NOTE ON 145:4 This is the biblical pattern for households, and the Passover makes this a ritual.

PSALM—NOTE ON 145:8–9 These two verses fill out the idea of God’s goodness and righteousness.

PSALM—NOTE ON 145:8 See Ex. 34:6. slow to anger. Showing wrath is not God’s preferred option. He gives humans time to repent.

PSALM—NOTE ON 145:9 God’s grace came to Israel in a special way through the covenant, but it was never meant to be for them alone.

PSALM—NOTE ON 145:10–13a The psalmist celebrates the wonder of being part of God’s kingdom. God’s people are to see his kingship as a gift of his goodness, not a burden.

FACT

Who are the saints? The term “saints” is used in both the OT and NT to describe God’s people. In the OT it describes the faithful among God’s people Israel (37:28; 145:10). In the NT, the Greek word translated “saints” means “holy,” in the sense of being set apart for God. This includes all those, no matter what their background, who have put their trust in Jesus, the only one who can truly make them holy.

PSALM—NOTE ON 145:13b–20 Building on vv. 8–9, these verses develop the notion of God's kindness to all his creatures (vv. 15–17). His chosen people (vv. 18–20), specifically those who call on him in truth, are treated particularly well.

PSALM—NOTE ON 145:13b faithful. See Deut. 7:9; Ps. 93:5; Isa. 49:7. The second line is the same as the second line of Ps. 145:17. Kind means that the Lord shows covenant love. This supplies the "missing" acrostic segment (see note on Psalm 145).

PSALM—NOTE ON 145:14 In view of vv. 18–20, all who are falling (and who are bowed down) would apply to the faithful (see 37:24).

PSALM—NOTE ON 145:20 The English brings out the mirror pattern of the Hebrew: verb (preserves), then object (all who love him); object (all the wicked), then verb (he will destroy). The verbs and objects are the opposites of each other.

PSALM—NOTE ON 145:21 The psalm looks forward to praising God forever for his goodness. It closes with a wish that every creature might join in the praise.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 146. Because God rules everything, his suffering people can have hope.

PSALM—NOTE ON 146:1–2 The whole congregation receives the invitation, Praise the Lord, and then each member applies it to himself (Praise the Lord, O my soul).

PSALM—NOTE ON 146:3–4 It is useless to put one's trust in princes, who are mortals. Governments and armies have their proper place, but their merely human power is not ultimately decisive in the world that God rules.

PSALM—NOTE ON 146:5–9 Yahweh, the God of Jacob, is the one who made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that is in them (words from Ex. 20:11). Verses 7–9 of Psalm 146 list groups of weak people (oppressed, hungry, prisoners, the blind, bowed down, sojourners, widow, fatherless), probably God's own faithful.

PSALM—NOTE ON 146:10 Because the LORD will reign forever (Ex. 15:18; Ps. 29:10), God's people should praise him now.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 147. Here the praise is focused on gratitude for some great work of "building up Jerusalem" (or rebuilding it after the exile), and for the Creator who sustains his creation. The psalm alternates between universality (God rules over all) and particularity (he has set his own people apart and cares for them).

PSALM—NOTE ON 147:1–6 It is appropriate to praise the God who rules the universe, who determines the number of the stars, and who at the same time builds up Jerusalem, gathers the outcasts of Israel, heals the brokenhearted, lifts up the humble, and casts the wicked to the ground.

PSALM—NOTE ON 147:7–11 The next section moves from God's universal provision (rain, so that all animals have food) to his special care for his faithful.

PSALM—NOTE ON 147:10 The image is most likely that of a war horse (see 20:7). Likewise, the legs of a man are swift for battle (see 18:33).

PSALM—NOTE ON 147:12–20 Jerusalem, representing all of God's people, should praise the LORD. He alone provides security and prosperity (vv. 13–14) for Jerusalem's people. The Lord governs all the processes of nature and so is able to supply peace (that is, well being) to his people. He has also committed himself in special ways to Israel (he has not dealt thus with any other nation) with his word and his statutes and rules.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 148. All of God's creatures should join in praising him. The concluding verse, regarding God's special people Israel, may refer to some particular event such as the return from exile, or it may be a more general reference to the protection God has given his people. Regardless, God's favor for Israel is put into the larger context of his plan to bring light to all mankind through Israel.

PSALM—NOTE ON 148:1–6 The heavens and everything found in them should praise the LORD, who commanded with the result that they were created.

PSALM—NOTE ON 148:7–12 Next the psalm invites the creatures under the heavens to praise the LORD: the great sea creatures and all ocean deeps, along with various kinds of weather, the features of the land, trees, and the animals. Likewise all of mankind should praise him because this is what they were made for.

PSALM—NOTE ON 148:13–14 A recurring theme in Psalms is that all mankind should praise the Lord, the one true God. God has given Israel a great privilege in calling them to be near to him, in making promises to them, and in using them to bring knowledge of God to the rest of the world.

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 149. This psalm calls on God's people to praise the Lord for their special privileges.

PSALM—NOTE ON 149:1–4 The members of the worshiping congregation call one another to praise the LORD, and to sing to him a new song. The tone is one of jubilant gladness. God's people call him their Maker and their King, and know that he takes pleasure in his people. This idea would be unbearably arrogant if the Lord himself had not declared it (147:11; see Ex. 19:5); the psalm also clarifies that the full benefit (salvation) comes to the humble.

PSALM—NOTE ON 149:6 This verse is startling, with the high praises of God . . . in their throats and two-edged swords in their hands (an unexpected element in corporate worship!).

FACT

Two-edged swords (149:6) were made of bronze or iron and were filed on each side, so that the blade could more readily and deeply penetrate enemy armor. In the NT, the word of God is said to be "sharper than any two-edged sword" (Heb. 4:12) because of the way it exposes the deepest "thoughts and intentions" of a person's heart.

PSALM—NOTE ON 149:7–9 The faithful will do God's work of bringing vengeance on the nations (assuming that they refuse the invitation to "praise the name of the LORD," 148:13).

Psalm PSALM—NOTE ON 150. This hymn closes the Psalter with its call for “everything that has breath” to praise the Lord with every kind of jubilant accompaniment. The list of musical instruments in vv. 3–5 generates the impression of loud song and ceaseless motion—the worshiper’s whole resources offering praise to God.

PSALM—NOTE ON 150:1–2 The members of the congregation invite one another to praise God in his sanctuary. The call to praise him in his mighty heavens may be addressed to the angels and heavenly lights, inviting them to join in.

PSALM—NOTE ON 150:3–6 Praising God fully requires more than human voices. It also requires instruments as varied as trumpet, lute, harp, strings, pipe, and various cymbals. The psalm builds to a resounding conclusion: Let everything that has breath praise the LORD.

Introduction to Proverbs

Timeline

1010–971 B.C.	971–931 B.C.	715–686 B.C.
Reign of David	Reign of Solomon	Reign of Hezekiah

Author and Date

Proverbs itself mentions Solomon (reigned c. 971–931 B.C.) as author or collector of its contents (1:1; 10:1), including the proverbs copied by Hezekiah's men (25:1). There are also two batches of sayings from a group called "the wise" (22:17–24:22; 24:23–34), and "oracles" from Agur (30:1–33) and Lemuel (31:1–9). No author is named for the song in praise of the excellent wife that ends the book (31:10–31). Although Proverbs was begun in the time of Solomon, it probably was not in its present form until the time of Hezekiah (reigned c. 715–686 B.C.).

Theme

The goal of the book is stated right at the beginning (1:1–7): to describe what wisdom is and to help God's people become wise. Wisdom is founded in the "fear of the Lord," and it enables believers to express their faith in the practical details of everyday life.

Audience

The book is addressed to a young man. The situations he will face while he is young receive much attention. These situations supply concrete examples from which all readers can apply lessons to their own lives. Anyone who is wise and who pays attention will benefit (1:5) from this instruction.

Reading Proverbs

The reader of Proverbs must seek to understand the various types of people the book describes. The most obvious characters in the book are the wise, the fool, and the simple. Proverbs urges its readers to be wise, which means embracing God's covenant and living out the covenant in everyday situations (compare 2:2; 10:1). The fool is the person who constantly opposes God's covenant (1:7b). The simple is the person who is not firmly committed, either to wisdom or to folly; he is easily misled (14:15).

The first nine chapters of Proverbs are "wisdom poems" that urge the reader to pursue wisdom. The main section of Proverbs—the concise, memorable statements of two or three lines—begins in 10:1. Proverbs often seem to be mere observations about life, but their deeper meanings will reveal themselves if the following questions are kept in mind: (1) What virtue does this proverb commend? (2) What vice does it disapprove of? (3) What value does it affirm?

Key Themes

Proverbs offers wisdom on a wide array of topics from daily life: diligence and laziness (6:6–11); friendship (3:27–28; 18:24); speech (10:19–21); marriage (18:22; 19:14); child rearing (22:6); domestic peace (15:17; 17:1); work (11:1); getting along and good manners (23:1–2; 25:16–17; 26:17–19; 27:14); eternity (14:32; 23:17–18); and much more. It shows that "godliness is of value in every way, as it holds promise for the present life and also for the life to come" (1 Tim. 4:8).

1. God's will is intensely practical, applying to every aspect of life. A proper relation to God involves trying hard to understand his truth, and then embracing and obeying that truth.
2. A life lived by God's will is a happy life (3:21–26).
3. A life lived by God's will is a useful life (3:27–28; 12:18, 25).
4. A life lived by God's will does not just happen. One must seek after it (9:1–6).

The Global Message of Proverbs

Proverbs: Wisdom for the World

The book of Proverbs is not simply a collection of “wise sayings” for life. It is heaven-sent help for stumbling sinners all over the world from every walk of life who are willing to listen to something other than their own fallen instincts. The “fool” in Proverbs is not someone who lacks intellectual capacity but one who stubbornly lives out of his own fallen intuitions, resisting instruction and correction. Likewise, the wise person in Proverbs is not someone who is intellectually superior but someone who humbly places himself beneath the authority of God. Such wisdom is for all God’s people everywhere.

In his great mercy God has clearly shown wisdom to the world—both through the instruction of his Word and in the person of his Son. The book of Proverbs summarizes true wisdom as rooted in the “fear of the LORD” (Prov. 1:7). In Jesus such wisdom takes on new clarity and glory as the one who is the “wisdom of God” (1 Cor. 1:24) and who “became to us wisdom from God” (1 Cor. 1:30). God’s global people are to receive such wise instruction, to base their wise living in the fear and worship of God, and to testify to a lost world about God’s saving wisdom.

God’s Wisdom Is Theological and Practical

In one sense wisdom is very much universal. It is difficult to find a culture or tradition without its own legacy of wise sayings. Some of these are culture-specific; others reflect the shared human experience.

Scripture’s admonition and exhortation about wisdom, however, is clear. Our faith is not to rest on man’s wisdom but is to be rooted in God’s power (1 Cor. 2:5). The wisdom of this world is “folly with God” (1 Cor. 3:19). Ultimate wisdom is from God (1 Cor. 1:30) and is revealed by God (1 Cor. 2:7). True wisdom is theological and God-given. Those who lack wisdom are to “ask God” for it (James 1:5). It is the Lord who gives wisdom (Prov. 2:6). In Proverbs 9:10 God’s people are reminded again that, “The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom, and the knowledge of the Holy One is insight" (compare 1:7). True wisdom is not the handy tips for life that get handed down from generation to generation among those who do not know God. True wisdom is divine. It is rooted in God's own saving revelation to his people.

God's wisdom is not only theological; it is also practical. Indeed, wisdom is practical because it is theological. Theology impacts daily life, and this is clearly seen in the instruction of Proverbs. Everyday life issues are addressed, including parental relations (Prov. 10:1; 15:20; 19:26; 23:25), marriage (5:18; 12:4; 18:22; 19:13–14; 31:10), money (3:9; 10:4; 11:1; 15:16; 16:11), and the power and danger of words (4:5; 7:5; 10:19; 16:24; 17:27). These are life issues that affect people of every age and place. Proverbs provides a picture of both the blessed life grounded in the fear of the Lord and the danger-filled and foolish life of those who despise the Lord's wisdom and instruction (1:7).

God's Wisdom Is Individual and Global

Individual wisdom. For every person, in every place, in every time, the message of Proverbs rings true: "The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom" (Prov. 9:10). Wisdom from above is not mere advice or pithy sayings. Rather, the worthiest and most blessed advice flows from God, when he has his proper central place in the heart and worship of each individual created by his hand and in his image.

Global wisdom. The message of Proverbs is also global. This is true, first, because only God's wisdom comprehensively instructs and skillfully dissects with perfect insight the hearts of mankind from every place and for every time. God's wisdom is global, second, in that God's global people are called to global engagement and a global mission. The Lord is not a tribal god. The teaching of Proverbs is not tribal lore. God's wisdom is eternal and global. And God's people are called to be instruments, through word and deed, of teaching his wisdom to the world. Those who are wise in God represent God to the world. For example, the wise exhibit generosity to the poor and the needy (Prov. 14:21, 31). The wise in God speak enduring and reliable wisdom to a world desperately looking for life-giving counsel. The wise in God feed even their own enemies (25:21).

In the book of Proverbs the Lord has equipped his people to fulfill his global and eternal purposes. God’s purpose is to reveal himself to and then through a people who will bring eternal blessing to the world, and that purpose is still unfolding around the world today (Matt. 28:18–20). In his kindness God has made known both the path of the wicked (Prov. 4:14) and the path of righteousness (12:28). The one leads to destruction and the other to life (11:19).

When love and grace is observed by the world in the lives of God’s people and supremely in the cross of Christ, it is indeed “folly” to them (1 Cor. 1:18, 21). But “the foolishness of God is wiser than men, and the weakness of God is stronger than men” (1 Cor. 1:25). The wise in God share the good news of the wisdom of God in the gospel of Christ with nations both near and far. Such sharing, when it lands on receptive ears, is “like cold water to a thirsty soul” (Prov. 25:25).In grace God is opening blind eyes through the gospel to his glorious wisdom. In grace he has shown us and empowered us toward a life of God-honoring, upright living. In grace he will use us as his global ambassadors till the day we join in the angelic choir proclaiming, “Amen! Blessing and glory and wisdom and thanksgiving and honor and power and might be to our God forever and ever! Amen” (Rev. 7:12).

The Beginning of Knowledge

PROVERBS 1 [†] [a]The proverbs of Solomon, son of David, king of Israel:

2[†] To know wisdom and instruction, to understand words of insight, 3 to receive instruction in wise dealing,
in [b]righteousness, justice, and equity;
4 to give prudence to [c]the simple, knowledge and [d]discretion to the youth—5 Let the wise hear and [e]increase in learning, and the one who understands obtain guidance,
6 to understand a proverb and a saying,
[f]the words of the wise and their [g]riddles.

7[†] [h]The fear of the LORD is the beginning of knowledge;
fools despise wisdom and instruction.

The Enticement of Sinners

8[†] [i]Hear, my son, your father's instruction, and forsake not your mother's teaching, 9 for they are [j]a graceful garland for your head and [k]pendants for your neck.
10 My son, if sinners [l]entice you,
do not consent.
11 If they say, "Come with us, [m]let us lie in wait for blood;
[n]let us ambush the innocent without reason;
12 like Sheol let us [o]swallow them alive,
and whole, like [p]those who go down to the pit; 13 we shall find all precious goods,
we shall fill our houses with plunder;
14 throw in your lot among us;
we will all have one purse"—
15 my son, [q]do not walk in the way with them;

[r] hold back your foot from their paths, 16 for [s] their feet run to evil,
and they make haste to shed blood.
17[†] [t] For in vain is a net spread in the sight of any bird, 18 but these men [u] lie in wait for their own blood;
they [u] set an ambush for their own lives.
19 [v] Such are the ways of everyone who is [w] greedy for unjust gain;
[x] it takes away the life of its possessors.

The Call of Wisdom

20[†] [y] Wisdom cries aloud in the street, in the markets she raises her voice;
21 at the head of the noisy streets she cries out;
at [z] the entrance of the city gates she speaks:
22 “How long, O [a] simple ones, will you love being simple?
How long will [b] scoffers delight in their scoffing and fools [c] hate knowledge?
23 If you turn at my reproof, [1]
behold, I will [d] pour out my spirit to you;
I will make my words known to you.
24 [e] Because I have called and [f] you refused to listen, have [g] stretched out my hand and no one has heeded, 25 because you have [h] ignored all my counsel and [i] would have none of my reproof, 26 I also [j] will laugh at your calamity;
I will mock when [k] terror strikes you,
27 when terror strikes you like [l] a storm and your calamity comes like a whirlwind, when distress and anguish come upon you.
28 [m] Then they will call upon me, but I will not answer;
they will seek me diligently but will not find me.
29 Because they [c] hated knowledge and [n] did not choose the fear of the Lord,

30 [h] would have none of my counsel and [i] despised all my reproof, 31[†] therefore they shall eat [o] the fruit of their way,
and have [p] their fill of their own devices.
32 For the simple are killed by [q] their turning away, and [r] the complacency of fools destroys them; 33 but [s] whoever listens to me will dwell secure and will be [t] at ease, without dread of disaster.”

The Value of Wisdom

PROVERBS 2 [†] [u] My son, [v] if you receive my words and treasure up my commandments with you, 2 making your ear attentive to wisdom and inclining your heart to understanding; 3 yes, if you call out for insight and raise your voice [w] for understanding, 4 if you seek it like [x] silver and search for it as for [y] hidden treasures, 5[†] then [z] you will understand the fear of the LORD and find the knowledge of God.
6 For [a] the LORD gives wisdom;
from his mouth come knowledge and understanding;
7 he stores up sound wisdom for the upright;
he is [b] a shield to those who [c] walk in integrity, 8 guarding the paths of justice and [d] watching over the way of his [e] saints.
9[†] [f] Then you will understand [g] righteousness and justice and equity, every good path; 10 for wisdom will come into your heart,
and knowledge will be pleasant to your soul; 11 [h] discretion will [i] watch over you, understanding will guard you, 12 delivering you from the way of evil,
from men of perverted speech,

13 who forsake the paths of uprightness to [j] walk in the ways of darkness, 14 who [k] rejoice in doing evil and [l] delight in the perverseness of evil, 15 men whose [m] paths are crooked,
[n] and who are [o] devious in their ways.

16[†] So [p] you will be delivered from the forbidden [1] woman, from [q] the adulteress [2] with [r] her smooth words, 17 who forsakes [s] the companion of her youth and forgets [t] the covenant of her God; 18 [u] for her house sinks down to death, and her paths to the departed; [3] 19 none who go to her come back, nor do they regain the paths of life.

20 So you will walk in the way of the good and keep to the paths of the righteous.
21[†] For the upright [v] will inhabit the land,
and those with integrity will remain in it, 22 but the wicked will be [w] cut off from the land, and the treacherous will be [x] rooted out of it.

Trust in the Lord with All Your Heart

PROVERBS 3 [y] My son, do not forget my teaching, [z] but let your heart keep my commandments,
2 for [a] length of days and years of life and [b] peace they will add to you.

3[†] Let not [c] steadfast love and [d] faithfulness forsake you;
[e] bind them around your neck;
[f] write them on the tablet of your heart.
4 So you will [g] find favor and [h] good success [1] in the sight of God and man.

5[†] [i] Trust in the LORD with all your heart, and [j] do not lean on your own understanding.
6[†] In all your ways [k] acknowledge him,
and he [l] will make straight your paths.
7 [m] Be not wise in your own eyes;
[n] fear the LORD, and turn away from evil.
8 It will be [o] healing to your flesh [2]
and [p] refreshment [3] to your bones.

9 Honor the LORD with your wealth and with [q] the firstfruits of all your produce; 10[†] then your [r] barns will be filled with plenty,
and your vats will be bursting with wine.

11[†] [s] My son, do not despise the LORD’s discipline or be weary of his reproof, 12 for the LORD reproves him whom he loves,
as [t] a father the son in whom he delights.

Blessed Is the One Who Finds Wisdom

13 [u] Blessed is the one who finds wisdom, and the one who gets understanding, 14 [v] for the gain from her is better than gain from silver and her profit better than [w] gold.
15 She is more precious than [x] jewels,
and [y] nothing you desire can compare with her.
16 [z] Long life is in her right hand;
in her left hand are [a] riches and honor.
17[†] Her [b] ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace.
18[†] She is [c] a tree of life to those who [d] lay hold of her;
those who hold her fast are called blessed.

19[†] [e] The LORD by wisdom founded the earth;

by understanding [e] he established the heavens; 20 by his knowledge [f] the deeps broke open,
and [g] the clouds drop down the dew.

21 My son, [h] do not lose sight of these—keep sound wisdom and discretion, 22 and they will be [i] life for your soul and [j] adornment for your neck.
23 [k] Then you will walk on your way securely,
[l] and your foot will not stumble.
24 [m] If you lie down, you will not be afraid;
when you lie down, [n] your sleep will be sweet.
25 [o] Do not be afraid of sudden terror or of [p] the ruin [4] of the wicked, when it comes, 26 for the Lord will be your confidence and will [q] keep your foot from being caught.
27 [r] Do not withhold good from those to whom it is due, [5] when it is in your power to do it.

28 [s] Do not say to your neighbor, "Go, and come again, tomorrow I will give it"—when you have it with you.
29 [t] Do not plan evil against your neighbor, who [u] dwells trustingly beside you.
30 [v] Do not contend with a man for no reason,
when he has done you no harm.
31 [w] Do not envy [x] a man of violence and do not choose any of his ways, 32 for [y] the devious person is an abomination to the Lord,
but the upright are [z] in his confidence.
33 [a] The Lord's curse is on the house of the wicked, but he [b] blesses the dwelling of the righteous.
34 Toward the [c] scorners he [d] is scornful,
[e] but to the humble he gives favor. [6] 35 The wise will inherit honor, but fools get [7] disgrace.

A Father's Wise Instruction

PROVERBS 4 [f]Hear, O sons, a father's instruction, and be attentive, that you may [g]gain [1] insight, 2 for I give you good [h]precepts;
do not forsake my teaching.
3[†] When I was a son with my father,
[i]tender, [j]the only one in the sight of my mother,
4 he [k]taught me and said to me,
[l]"Let your heart hold fast my words;
[m]keep my commandments, and live.
5 [n]Get wisdom; get [g]insight;
do not forget, and do not turn away from the words of my mouth.
6 Do not forsake her, and she will keep you;
[o]love her, and she will guard you.
7[†] [p]The beginning of wisdom is this: Get wisdom, and whatever you get, get [g]insight.
8 Prize her highly, and she will exalt you;
she will [q]honor you [r]if you embrace her.
9 She will place on your head [s]a graceful garland;
she will bestow on you a beautiful crown."

10[†] [f]Hear, [t]my son, and accept my words, that [u]the years of your life may be many.
11 I have [v]taught you the way of wisdom;
I have led you in the paths of uprightness.
12 When you walk, [w]your step will not be hampered, and [x]if you run, you will not stumble.
13 [y]Keep hold of instruction; do not let go;
guard her, for she is your [z]life.
14[†] [a]Do not enter the path of the wicked, and do not walk in the way of the evil.

15 Avoid it; do not go on it;
turn away from it and pass on.
16 For they [b] cannot sleep unless they have done wrong;
they are robbed of sleep unless they have made someone stumble.
17 For they eat the bread of wickedness
[c] and drink the wine of violence.
18[†] But [d] the path of the righteous is like [e] the light of dawn, which shines [f] brighter and brighter until [g] full day.
19 [h] The way of the wicked is like deep [i] darkness;
they do not know over what they [j] stumble.

20[†] [k] My son, be attentive to my words;
incline your ear to my sayings.
21 [l] Let them not escape from your sight;
[m] keep them within your heart.
22 For they are [n] life to those who find them,
and healing to all their [2] flesh.
23 Keep your heart with all vigilance, for [o] from it flow [p] the springs of life.
24[†] Put away from you [q] crooked speech, and put [r] devious talk far from you.
25[†] [s] Let your eyes look directly forward, and your gaze be straight before you.
26 [t] Ponder [3] the path of your feet;
[u] then all your ways will be sure.
27 [v] Do not swerve to the right or to the left;
turn your foot away from evil.

Warning Against Adultery

PROVERBS 5 [w] My son, be attentive to my wisdom;
[x] incline your ear to my understanding,
2[†] that you may keep [y] discretion, and your lips may [z] guard knowledge.

3 For the lips of [a] a forbidden [1] woman drip honey, and her speech [2] is [b] smoother than oil,
4 but in the end she is [c] bitter as [d] wormwood,
[e] sharp as [f] a two-edged sword.
5 Her feet [g] go down to death;
her steps follow the path to [3] Sheol;
6 she [h] does not ponder the path of life;
her ways wander, and she does not know it.

7[†] And [i] now, O sons, listen to me,
and do not depart from the words of my mouth.
8 Keep your way far from her,
and do not go near the door of her house, 9[†] lest you give your honor to others and your years to the merciless, 10 lest strangers take their fill of your strength, and your [j] labors go to the house of a foreigner, 11 and at the end of your life you [k] groan,
when your flesh and body are consumed, 12 and you say, [l] "How I hated discipline, and my heart [m] despised reproof!
13 I did not listen to the voice of my teachers or incline my ear to my instructors.
14 [n] I am at the brink of utter ruin in the assembled congregation."

15[†] Drink [o] water from your own cistern, flowing water from your own well.
16 Should your [p] springs be scattered abroad, streams of water [q] in the streets?
17 [r] Let them be for yourself alone,
and not for strangers with you.
18[†] Let your [o] fountain be blessed,
and [s] rejoice in [t] the wife of your youth, 19 a lovely [u] deer, a graceful doe.

Let her breasts [v] fill you at all times with delight;
be intoxicated [4] always in her love.
20 Why should you be intoxicated, my son, with [w] a forbidden woman and embrace the bosom of [w] an adulteress? [5] 21[†] For [x] a man's ways are [y] before the eyes of the LORD, and he [z] ponders [6] all his paths.
22 The [a] iniquities of the wicked [b] ensnare him, and he is held fast in the cords of his sin.
23 [c] He dies for lack of discipline, and because of his great folly he is [d] led astray.

Practical Warnings

PROVERBS 6 [†] My son, if you have put up [e] security for your neighbor, have [e] given your pledge for a stranger, 2 if you are [f] snared in the words of your mouth, caught in the words of your mouth,
3[†] then do this, my son, and save yourself,
for you have come into the hand of your neighbor:
go, hasten, [1] and [g] plead urgently with your neighbor.
4 [h] Give your eyes no sleep and your eyelids no slumber;
5 save yourself like a gazelle from the hand of the hunter, [2]
[i] like a bird from the hand of the fowler.

6 [j] Go to [k] the ant, O [l] sluggard;
consider her ways, and [m] be wise.
7[†] [n] Without having any chief,
[o] officer, or ruler,
8 she prepares her bread [p] in summer and [q] gathers her food in harvest.
9 [r] How long will you lie there, [l] O sluggard?
When will you arise from your sleep?
10[†] [s] A little sleep, a little slumber,

[t] a little [s] folding of the hands to rest, 11[†] [u] and poverty will come upon you like a robber,
and want like an armed man.

12[†] [v] A worthless person, a wicked man, goes about with [w] crooked speech, 13 [x] winks with his eyes, signals [3] with his feet,
points with his finger, 14 with [y] perverted heart [z] devises evil, continually [a] sowing discord;
15 therefore calamity will come upon him suddenly;
[b] in a moment he will be broken [c] beyond healing.

16[†] There are [d] six things that the LORD hates,
[d] seven that are an abomination to him:
17 [e] haughty eyes, [f] a lying tongue,
and [g] hands that shed innocent blood,
18 [h] a heart that devises wicked plans,
[i] feet that make haste to run to evil,
19 [j] a false witness who [k] breathes out lies,
and one who [a] sows discord among brothers.

Warnings Against Adultery

20[†] [l] My son, keep your father's commandment, [l] and forsake not your mother's teaching.
21 [m] Bind them on your heart always;
[n] tie them around your neck.
22 [o] When you walk, they [4] will lead you;
[o] when you lie down, they will [p] watch over you;
and when you awake, they will talk with you.
23 For the commandment is [q] a lamp and the teaching a light, and the [r] reproofs of discipline are the way of life, 24 to preserve you from the evil woman, [5]
from the smooth tongue of [s] the adulteress. [6]

25 [t] Do not desire her beauty in your heart, and do not let her capture you with her [u] eyelashes; 26[†] for [v] the price of a prostitute is only [w] a loaf of bread, [7] but a married woman [8] [x] hunts down a precious life.
27[†] Can a man carry [y] fire next to his [z] chest and his clothes not be burned?
28 Or can one [a] walk on hot coals and his feet not be scorched?
29 So is he who goes in to his neighbor's wife;
none who touches her [b] will go unpunished.
30 People do not despise a thief if he steals to [c] satisfy his appetite when he is hungry, 31 but [d] if he is caught, he will pay [e] sevenfold;
he will give all the goods of his house.
32 He who commits adultery lacks sense;
he who does it destroys himself.
33 He will get wounds and dishonor, and his disgrace will not be wiped away.
34 For [f] jealousy makes a man furious, and he will not spare when [g] he takes revenge.
35[†] He will accept no compensation;
he will refuse though you multiply gifts.

Warning Against the Adulteress

PROVERBS 7 [h] My son, keep my words and [h] treasure up my commandments with you; 2 [i] keep my commandments and live;
keep my teaching as [j] the apple of your eye;
3 [k] bind them on your fingers;
[k] write them on the tablet of your heart.
4 [†] Say to wisdom, “You are my sister,” and call insight your intimate friend, 5 to keep you from [l] the forbidden [1] woman, from [l] the adulteress [2] with her smooth words.

6 [†] For at [m] the window of my house
I have looked out through my lattice,
7 and I have seen among [n] the simple,
I have perceived among the youths,
a young man [o] lacking sense, 8 passing along the street [p] near her corner, taking the road to her house 9 in [q] the twilight, in the evening, at [r] the time of night and darkness.

10 And behold, the woman meets him,
[s] dressed as a prostitute, wily of heart. [3]
11 [†] She is [t] loud and [u] wayward;
[v] her feet do not stay at home;
12 now in the street, now in the market,
and [w] at every corner she [x] lies in wait.
13 [†] She seizes him and kisses him,
and with [y] bold face she says to him, 14 “I had to [z] offer sacrifices, [4]
and today I have [a] paid my vows; 15 so now I have come out to meet you,

to seek you eagerly, and I have found you.
[16] I have spread my couch with [b] coverings, colored linens from [c] Egyptian linen; [17] I have perfumed my bed with [d] myrrh, aloes, and [e] cinnamon.
[18] Come, let us take our fill of love till morning;
let us delight ourselves with love.
[19] For [f] my husband is not at home;
he has gone on a long journey;
[20] he took a bag of money with him;
at full moon he will come home."

[21] With much seductive speech she persuades him;
with [g] her smooth talk she compels him.
[22] All at once he follows her,
as an ox goes to the slaughter, or as a stag is caught fast [5] [23] till an arrow pierces its liver;
as [h] a bird rushes into a snare;
he does not know that it will cost him his life.

[24][†] And [i] now, O sons, listen to me,
and be attentive to the words of my mouth.
[25] Let not your heart turn aside to her ways;
do not stray into her paths, [26][†] for many a victim has she laid low,
and all her slain are [j] a mighty throng.
[27] Her house is [k] the way to Sheol, going down to the chambers of death.

The Blessings of Wisdom

PROVERBS 8 Does not [l] wisdom call?
Does not [m] understanding raise her voice?
[2] On [n] the heights beside the way,

at the crossroads she takes her stand;
[3] beside [o]the gates in front of [p]the town,
at the entrance of the portals she cries aloud:
[4] “To you, O [q]men, I call,
and my cry is to [q]the children of man.
[5][†] O [r]simple ones, learn [s]prudence;
O [t]fools, learn sense.
[6][†] Hear, for I will speak [u]noble things, and from my lips will come [v]what is right, [7] for my [w]mouth will utter truth;
wickedness is an abomination to my lips.
[8] All the words of my mouth are righteous;
there is nothing [x]twisted or crooked in them.
[9] They are all [y]straight to him who understands,
and right to those who find knowledge.
[10] [z]Take my instruction instead of silver,
and knowledge rather than choice gold, [11] [a]for wisdom is better than jewels, and [b]all that you may desire cannot compare with her.

[12] “I, wisdom, dwell with prudence, and I find knowledge and [c]discretion.
[13][†] [d]The fear of the Lord is [e]hatred of evil.
[f]Pride and arrogance and the way of evil and [g]perverted speech I hate.
[14][†] I have [h]counsel and [i]sound wisdom;
I have insight; [j]I have strength.
[15] By me [k]kings reign, and rulers decree what is just;
[16] by me princes rule, and nobles, all who govern justly. [1] [17] [l]I love those who love me, and [m]those who seek me diligently find me.
[18][†] [n]Riches and honor are with me,

[o] enduring wealth and [o] righteousness.
19 My fruit is [p] better than [q] gold, even fine gold, and my yield than [r] choice silver.
20 I walk in the way of righteousness,
in the paths of justice, 21 granting an inheritance to those who love me,
and filling their treasuries.

22[†] [s] "The LORD [t] possessed [2] me at the beginning of his work, [3]
the first of his acts [u] of old.
23 Ages ago I was [v] set up, at the first, [w] before the beginning of the earth.
24 When there were no [x] depths I was [y] brought forth, when there were no springs abounding with water.
25 Before the mountains [z] had been shaped,
[a] before the hills, I was brought forth, 26 before he had made the earth with its fields,
or the first of the dust of the world.
27 When he [b] established the heavens, I was there;
when he drew [c] a circle on the face of the deep, 28 when he [d] made firm the skies above, when he established [4] the fountains of the deep, 29 when he [e] assigned to the sea its [f] limit,
so that the waters might not transgress his command,
when he marked out [g] the foundations of the earth, 30 then [h] I was beside him, like a master workman,
and I was daily his [5] [i] delight, rejoicing before him always,
31 [j] rejoicing in his [k] inhabited world and delighting in the children of man.

32[†] "And now, [l] O sons, listen to me:
[m] blessed are those who keep my ways.
33 [n] Hear instruction and be wise,

and do not neglect it.
34 [o] Blessed is the one who listens to me, watching daily at my gates, waiting beside my doors.
35 For [p] whoever finds me [q] finds life and [r] obtains favor from the LORD, 36 but he who fails to find me [s] injures himself;
all who [t] hate me [u] love death."

The Way of Wisdom

PROVERBS 9 [†] [v] Wisdom has built her house;
she has hewn her [w] seven [x] pillars.
2 She has [y] slaughtered her beasts; she has [z] mixed her wine;
she has also [a] set her table.
3 She has [b] sent out her young women to [c] call from [d] the highest places in the town,
4 [†] [e] "Whoever is simple, let him turn in here!"
[f] To him who lacks sense she says,
5 "Come, [g] eat of my bread and [h] drink of [z] the wine I have mixed.
6 Leave [i] your simple ways, [1] and [j] live,
[k] and walk in the way of insight."

7 [†] Whoever corrects a scoffer gets himself abuse, and he who reproves a wicked man incurs injury.
8 [l] Do not reprove a scoffer, or he will hate you;
[m] reprove a wise man, and he will love you.
9 Give instruction [2] to a wise man, and he will be [n] still wiser;
teach a righteous man, and he will [o] increase in learning.
10 [†] [p] The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom, and [q] the knowledge of the Holy One is insight.
11 For by me [r] your days will be multiplied, and years will be added to your life.

12[†] [s] If you are wise, you are wise for yourself;
if you scoff, you alone will bear it.

The Way of Folly

13 [t] The woman Folly is [u] loud;
she is seductive [3] and [v] knows nothing.
14 She sits at the door of her house;
she takes a seat on [w] the highest places of the town, 15 calling to those who pass by,
who are [x] going straight on their way,
16 [y] “Whoever is simple, let him turn in here!”
And to him who lacks sense she says, 17 [z] “Stolen water is sweet, and [a] bread eaten in secret is pleasant.” 18[†] But he does not know [b] that the dead [4] are there, that her guests are in the depths of Sheol.

The Proverbs of Solomon

PROVERBS 10 [†] [c] The proverbs of Solomon.

[d] A wise son makes a glad father,
[e] but a foolish son is a sorrow to his mother.
2 [f] Treasures gained by wickedness do not profit,
[g] but righteousness delivers from death.
3 [h] The LORD does not let the righteous go hungry,
[i] but he thwarts the craving of the wicked.
4[†] A slack hand [j] causes poverty,
[k] but the hand of the diligent makes rich.
5 He who [l] gathers in summer is a prudent son, but he who sleeps in harvest is [m] a son who brings shame.
6[†] Blessings are on the head of the righteous, but [n] the mouth of the wicked conceals violence.
7 [o] The memory of the righteous is a blessing,

but [p] the name of the wicked will rot.
8 [q] The wise of heart will receive commandments,
but a babbling fool will come to ruin.
9 [r] Whoever walks in integrity walks securely, but he who makes his ways crooked [s] will be found out.
10 Whoever [t] winks the eye causes trouble, and a babbling fool will come to ruin.
11 [u] The mouth of the righteous is [v] a fountain of life, but the mouth of the wicked [n] conceals violence.
12[†] Hatred stirs up strife,
but [w] love covers all offenses.
13 On the lips of him who has understanding, wisdom is found, but [x] a rod is for the back of him who [y] lacks sense.
14 The wise [z] lay up knowledge, but [a] the mouth of a fool brings ruin near.
15[†] [b] A rich man’s wealth is his strong city;
the poverty of the poor is their ruin.
16 The wage of the righteous leads [c] to life,
the gain of the wicked to sin.
17 Whoever heeds instruction is on [d] the path to life,
but he who rejects reproof leads others astray.
18 The one who conceals hatred has lying lips,
and whoever utters slander is a fool.
19 [e] When words are many, transgression is not lacking,
[f] but whoever restrains his lips is prudent.
20 The tongue of the righteous is [g] choice silver;
the heart of the wicked is of little worth.
21 The lips of the righteous feed many,
but fools die for [h] lack of sense.
22[†] [i] The blessing of the LORD makes rich, and he adds no sorrow with it. [1] 23 Doing wrong is [j] like a joke to a fool, but [k] wisdom is pleasure to a man of understanding.
24 [l] What the wicked dreads [m] will come upon him, but [n] the desire of the righteous will be granted.

25 When [o] the tempest passes, the wicked is no more,
but [p] the righteous is established forever.
26 Like vinegar to the teeth and smoke to the eyes,
so is the sluggard to those who send him.
27[†] [q] The fear of the LORD prolongs life, [r] but the years of the wicked will be short.
28 [s] The hope of the righteous brings joy,
[t] but the expectation of the wicked will perish.
29 [u] The way of the LORD is a stronghold to the blameless, but destruction to evildoers.
30[†] [v] The righteous will never be removed,
but [w] the wicked will not dwell in the land.
31[†] [x] The mouth of the righteous brings forth wisdom,
but the perverse tongue will be cut off.
32 The lips of the righteous [y] know what is acceptable, but the mouth of the wicked, [z] what is perverse.
PROVERBS 11 [†] [a] A false balance is an abomination to the LORD, [b] but a just weight is his delight.
2 [c] When pride comes, then comes disgrace,
but with [d] the humble is wisdom.
3 [e] The integrity of the upright guides them,
[f] but the crookedness of the treacherous destroys them.
4 [g] Riches do not profit in the day of wrath,
[h] but righteousness delivers from death.
5[†] The righteousness of the blameless [i] keeps his way straight, but the wicked falls by his own wickedness.
6 [h] The righteousness of the upright delivers them,
but the treacherous [j] are taken captive by their lust.
7[†] When the wicked dies, his [k] hope will perish, and [l] the expectation of wealth [1] perishes too.
8 [m] The righteous is delivered from trouble, and the wicked walks into it instead.
9[†] With his mouth the godless man would destroy his neighbor, but by knowledge the righteous are delivered.

10 [n] When it goes well with the righteous, the city rejoices, and when the wicked perish there are shouts of gladness.
11 By the blessing of the upright a city is exalted, but [o] by the mouth of the wicked [p] it is overthrown.
12[†] Whoever [q] belittles his neighbor lacks sense,
but a man of understanding remains silent.
13 Whoever [r] goes about slandering reveals secrets, but he who is trustworthy in spirit keeps a thing covered.
14 Where there is [s] no guidance, a people falls,
[s] but in an abundance of counselors there is safety.
15[†] [t] Whoever puts up security for a stranger will surely suffer harm, but he who hates striking hands in pledge is secure.
16[†] [u] A gracious woman gets honor, and [v] violent men get riches.
17 [w] A man who is kind benefits himself,
but a cruel man hurts himself.
18 The wicked earns deceptive wages,
but one who [x] sows righteousness gets a sure reward.
19 Whoever is steadfast in righteousness [y] will live, but [z] he who pursues evil will die.
20 Those of [a] crooked heart are [b] an abomination to the LORD, but those of [c] blameless ways are [d] his delight.
21 [e] Be assured, [f] an evil person will not go unpunished, but [g] the offspring of the righteous will be delivered.
22 Like [h] a gold ring in a pig's snout is a beautiful woman without discretion.
23[†] The desire of the righteous ends only in good;
[i] the expectation of the wicked in wrath.
24[†] [j] One gives [k] freely, yet grows all the richer;
another withholds what he should give, and only suffers want.
25 [l] Whoever brings blessing [m] will be enriched, and [n] one who waters will himself be watered.
26 [o] The people curse him who holds back grain, but [p] a blessing is on the head of him who [q] sells it.

[27] Whoever diligently seeks good seeks favor, [2]
but evil comes to [r] him who searches for it.
[28] Whoever [s] trusts in his riches will fall,
but the righteous will [t] flourish like a green leaf.
[29] Whoever [u] troubles his own household will [v] inherit the wind, and the fool will be servant to the wise of heart.
[30][†] The fruit of the righteous is [w] a tree of life, and whoever [x] captures souls is wise.
[31] If [y] the righteous is repaid on earth,
how much more the wicked and the sinner!

PROVERBS 12 [†] Whoever loves discipline loves knowledge, but he who [z] hates reproof is [a] stupid.
[2] A good man [b] obtains favor from the LORD,
but a man of evil devices he condemns.
[3] No one is established by wickedness, but the root of [c] the righteous will never be moved.
[4][†] [d] An excellent wife is [e] the crown of her husband, but she who [f] brings shame is like [g] rottenness in his bones.
[5][†] [h] The thoughts of the righteous are just;
the counsels of the wicked are deceitful.
[6] The words of the wicked [i] lie in wait for blood,
but [j] the mouth of the upright delivers them.
[7] [k] The wicked are [l] overthrown and are no more,
[m] but the house of the righteous will stand.
[8] A man is commended according to his good sense,
but one of twisted mind is [n] despised.
[9][†] Better to be lowly and have a servant than to play the great man and lack bread.
[10] [o] Whoever is righteous has regard for the life of his beast, but the mercy of the wicked is cruel.
[11] [p] Whoever works his land [q] will have plenty of bread,
[r] but he who follows [s] worthless pursuits lacks sense.
[12][†] Whoever is wicked covets [t] the spoil of evildoers, but the root of the righteous bears fruit.

13 An evil man is ensnared [u] by the transgression of his lips, [v] but the righteous escapes from trouble.
14 From the fruit of his mouth [w] a man is satisfied with good,
[x] and the work of a man's hand comes back to him.
15[†] [y] The way of a fool is right in his own eyes,
but a wise man listens to advice.
16[†] [z] The vexation of a fool is known at once, but the prudent ignores an insult.
17 [a] Whoever speaks [1] the truth gives honest evidence, but [b] a false witness utters deceit.
18[†] [c] There is one whose rash words are like sword thrusts, but the tongue of the wise brings [d] healing.
19 Truthful lips endure forever,
but [e] a lying tongue is but for a moment.
20 Deceit is in the heart of [f] those who devise evil,
but those who plan peace have joy.
21 [g] No ill befalls the righteous,
but the wicked are filled with trouble.
22 [h] Lying lips are [i] an abomination to the LORD,
[j] but those who act faithfully are his delight.
23 [k] A prudent man conceals knowledge,
[k] but the heart of fools proclaims folly.
24 [l] The hand of the diligent will rule,
while the slothful will be [m] put to forced labor.
25 [n] Anxiety in a man's heart weighs him down, but a good word makes him glad.
26 One who is righteous is a guide to his neighbor, [2]
but the way of the wicked leads them astray.
27 [o] Whoever is slothful will not roast his game,
but the diligent man will get precious wealth. [3] 28 [p] In the path of righteousness is life, and in its pathway there is no death.

PROVERBS 13 [†] A wise son hears his father’s instruction, but [q] a scoffer does not listen to rebuke.
2 From the fruit of his mouth a man [r] eats what is good, but the desire of the treacherous [s] is for violence.
3 [t] Whoever guards his mouth preserves his life;
[u] he who opens wide his lips [v] comes to ruin.
4 [w] The soul of the sluggard craves and gets nothing, while the soul of the diligent [x] is richly supplied.
5 The righteous hates falsehood,
but the wicked brings shame [1] and disgrace.
6 [y] Righteousness guards him whose [z] way is blameless, but sin overthrows the wicked.
7 [a] One pretends to be rich, yet has nothing;
[b] another pretends to be poor, yet has great wealth.
8 The ransom of a man’s life is his wealth,
but a poor man [c] hears no threat.
9[†] [d] The light of the righteous rejoices, but [e] the lamp of the wicked will be put out.
10 [f] By insolence comes nothing but strife,
but with those who take advice is wisdom.
11[†] [g] Wealth gained hastily [2] will dwindle,
but whoever gathers little by little will increase it.
12 Hope deferred makes the heart sick,
[h] but a desire fulfilled is [i] a tree of life.
13 Whoever [j] despises [k] the word brings destruction on himself, but he who reveres the commandment will be [l] rewarded.
14 The teaching of the wise is [m] a fountain of life, that one may [n] turn away from the snares of death.
15 [o] Good sense wins [p] favor,
but the way of the treacherous is their ruin. [3]
16 [q] In everything the prudent acts with knowledge,
[r] but a fool flaunts his folly.
17 A wicked messenger falls into trouble,

but [s] a faithful envoy brings healing.
18 Poverty and disgrace come to him who [t] ignores instruction, [u] but whoever [v] heeds reproof is honored.
19 [w] A desire fulfilled is sweet to the soul, but to turn away from evil is an abomination to fools.
20 Whoever walks with the wise becomes wise,
but the companion of fools will suffer harm.
21 [x] Disaster [4] pursues sinners,
[y] but the righteous are rewarded with good.
22[†] [z] A good man leaves an inheritance to his children’s children, but [a] the sinner’s wealth is laid up for the righteous.
23[†] The fallow ground of the poor would yield much food, but it is swept away through [b] injustice.
24[†] [c] Whoever spares the rod hates his son, but he who loves him is diligent to discipline him. [5] 25 [d] The righteous has enough to satisfy his appetite, but the belly of the wicked suffers want.
PROVERBS 14 [†] [e] The wisest of women [f] builds her house, but folly with her own hands [g] tears it down.
2 Whoever [h] walks in uprightness fears the LORD,
but he who is [i] devious in his ways despises him.
3 By the mouth of a fool comes [j] a rod for his back, [1]
[k] but the lips of the wise will preserve them.
4[†] Where there are no oxen, the manger is clean,
but abundant crops come by the strength of the ox.
5[†] [l] A faithful witness does not lie,
but [m] a false witness breathes out lies.
6 [n] A scoffer seeks wisdom [o] in vain,
but [p] knowledge is easy for a man of understanding.
7 Leave the presence of a fool,
for there you do not meet words of knowledge.
8[†] The wisdom of the prudent is to discern his way, but the folly of fools is deceiving.
9[†] [q] Fools mock at the guilt offering,

but the upright enjoy acceptance. [2] 10 The heart knows its own [r]bitterness, and no stranger shares its joy.
11 [s]The house of the wicked will be destroyed,
but the tent of the upright will flourish.
12 [t]There is a way that seems right to a man,
but [u]its end is the way to death. [3] 13 Even in laughter the heart may ache, and [v]the end of joy may be [w]grief.
14 The backslider in heart will be [x]filled with the fruit of his ways, and [y]a good man will be filled with the fruit of his ways.
15 [z]The simple believes everything, but the prudent gives thought to his steps.
16 [a]One who is wise is cautious [4] and [b]turns away from evil, but a fool is reckless and careless.
17 A man of [c]quick temper acts foolishly, and a man of evil devices is hated.
18 The simple inherit folly,
but the prudent are crowned with knowledge.
19 [d]The evil bow down before the good,
the wicked at the gates of the righteous.
20[†] [e]The poor is disliked even by his neighbor,
[f]but the rich has many friends.
21[†] Whoever [g]despises his neighbor is a sinner, but [h]blessed is he who is generous to the poor.
22 Do they not go astray who [i]devise evil?
Those who devise good meet [5] [j]steadfast love and faithfulness.
23 In all toil there is profit,
but mere talk [k]tends only to poverty.
24[†] The crown of the wise is their wealth,
but the folly of fools brings folly.
25 A truthful witness saves lives,
but one who [l]breathes out lies is deceitful.
26[†] In the fear of the LORD one has [m]strong confidence, and [n] his children will have [o] a refuge.

27[†] The fear of the LORD is [p] a fountain of life, that one may [q] turn away from the snares of death.
28[†] In [r] a multitude of people is the glory of a king, but without people a prince is ruined.
29 Whoever is [s] slow to anger has great understanding, but he who has a hasty temper exalts folly.
30 A tranquil [6] heart gives [t] life to the flesh, but [u] envy [7] makes [v] the bones rot.
31 Whoever oppresses a poor man [w] insults his [x] Maker, [y] but he who is generous to the needy honors him.
32 [z] The wicked is overthrown through his evildoing, but [a] the righteous finds refuge in his death.
33 Wisdom [b] rests in the heart of a man of understanding, but it makes itself known even in the midst of fools. [8] 34[†] Righteousness exalts a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people.
35 A servant who deals wisely has [c] the king's favor, but his wrath falls on one who acts shamefully.

PROVERBS 15 [†] [d] A soft answer turns away wrath, but [e] a harsh word stirs up anger.
2 The tongue of the wise commends knowledge,
but [f] the mouths of fools pour out folly.
3[†] [g] The eyes of the LORD are in every place, keeping watch on the evil and the good.
4 [h] A gentle [1] tongue is [i] a tree of life, but [j] perverseness in it breaks the spirit.
5[†] [k] A fool [l] despises his father's instruction,
but [m] whoever heeds reproof is prudent.
6 In the house of the righteous there is much treasure, but trouble befalls the income of the wicked.
7 [n] The lips of the wise spread knowledge;
[n] not so the hearts of fools. [2]
8[†] [o] The sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination to the LORD, but [p] the prayer of the upright is acceptable to him.

9 The way of the wicked is an abomination to the LORD,
but he loves him [q] who pursues righteousness.
10 There is [r] severe discipline for him who forsakes the way;
[s] whoever hates reproof will die.
11 Sheol and Abaddon lie open before the LORD;
how much more [t] the hearts of the children of man!
12 [u] A scoffer [v] does not like to be reproved;
he will not go to the wise.
13[†] [w] A glad heart makes a cheerful face, but by [x] sorrow of heart the spirit is [y] crushed.
14 [z] The heart of him who has understanding seeks knowledge, but the mouths of fools feed on folly.
15 All the days of the afflicted are evil,
but [a] the cheerful of heart has a continual feast.
16[†] [b] Better is a little with the fear of the LORD than great treasure and trouble with it.
17 [c] Better is a dinner of herbs where love is than [d] a fattened ox and hatred with it.
18 [e] A hot-tempered man [f] stirs up strife,
but he who is [g] slow to anger quiets contention.
19[†] The way of [h] a sluggard is like a hedge of [i] thorns, but the path of the upright is [j] a level highway.
20[†] [k] A wise son makes a glad father,
but a foolish man despises his mother.
21 [l] Folly is a joy to him who lacks sense,
but a man of understanding [m] walks straight ahead.
22 [n] Without counsel plans fail,
but with many advisers they succeed.
23 To make an apt answer is a joy to a man, and [o] a word in season, how good it is!
24 The path of life leads upward [p] for the prudent, that he may turn away from Sheol beneath.
25[†] The LORD tears down the house of [q] the proud but [r] maintains [s] the widow’s boundaries.

26 [t] The thoughts of the wicked are an abomination to the LORD, but [u] gracious words are pure.
27 Whoever is [v] greedy for unjust gain [w] troubles his own household, but he who hates [x] bribes will live.
28 The heart of the righteous [y] ponders how to answer, but [z] the mouth of the wicked pours out evil things.
29 The LORD is [a] far from the wicked, but he [b] hears the prayer of the righteous.
30 [c] The light of the eyes rejoices the heart, and [d] good news refreshes [3] the bones.
31 [e] The ear that listens to [f] life-giving reproof will dwell among the wise.
32 Whoever [g] ignores instruction [h] despises himself, but he who listens to reproof [i] gains intelligence.
33 [j] The fear of the LORD is instruction in wisdom, and [k] humility comes before honor.

PROVERBS 16 [†] The plans of the heart belong to man, but [l] the answer of the tongue is from the LORD.
2 [m] All the ways of a man are pure in his own eyes,
but the LORD [n] weighs the spirit.
3 [o] Commit your work to the LORD, and your plans will be established.
4 [p] The LORD has made everything for its purpose, even [q] the wicked for the day of trouble.
5 Everyone who is arrogant in heart is [r] an abomination to the LORD;
[s] be assured, he will not go unpunished.
6 [†] By [t] steadfast love and faithfulness iniquity is atoned for,
and by [u] the fear of the LORD one [v] turns away from evil.
7 When a man’s ways please the LORD,
[w] he makes even his enemies to be at peace with him.
8 [x] Better is a little with righteousness than great revenues with injustice.

9 [y] The heart of man plans his way,
but [z] the LORD establishes his steps.
10[†] [a] An oracle is on the lips of a king;
his mouth does not sin in judgment.
11 [b] A just balance and scales are the LORD’s;
all the weights in the bag are his work.
12 It is an abomination to kings to do evil,
for [c] the throne is established by righteousness.
13 [d] Righteous lips are the delight of a king,
and he loves him who speaks what is right.
14 [e] A king’s wrath is a messenger of death,
and a wise man will [f] appease it.
15 [g] In the light of a king’s face there is life, and his [d] favor is like [h] the clouds that bring the spring rain.
16[†] [i] How much better to get wisdom than [j] gold!
To get understanding is to be chosen rather than [k] silver.
17 The highway of the upright [l] turns aside from evil;
whoever guards his way preserves his life.
18 [m] Pride goes before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall.
19 [n] It is better to be of a lowly spirit with the poor than to [o] divide the spoil with the proud.
20[†] Whoever gives thought to the word [1] [p] will discover good,
and blessed is he [q] who trusts in the LORD.
21 The wise of heart is called discerning,
and sweetness of speech [r] increases persuasiveness.
22 Good sense is [s] a fountain of life to him who has it, but the instruction of fools is folly.
23 [t] The heart of the wise makes his speech judicious and adds persuasiveness to his lips.
24 [u] Gracious words are like [v] a honeycomb, sweetness to the soul and [w] health to the body.
25[†] There is a way that seems right to a man,
but its end is the way to death. [2]

[26] A worker's appetite works for him;
his [x] mouth urges him on.
[27] [y] A worthless man plots evil,
and his speech [3] is like [z] a scorching fire.
[28] [a] A dishonest man spreads strife,
and [b] a whisperer [c] separates close friends.
[29] A man of violence [d] entices his neighbor and leads him in a way that is not good.
[30] Whoever winks his eyes plans [4] [e] dishonest things;
he who [f] purses his lips brings evil to pass.
[31] [g] Gray hair is [h] a crown of glory;
it [i] is gained in a righteous life.
[32] [j] Whoever is slow to anger is better than the mighty, and he who rules his spirit than he who takes a city.
[33] [k] The lot is cast into the lap,
but its every decision is [l] from the LORD.
PROVERBS 17 [†] [m] Better is a dry morsel with quiet than a house full of feasting [1] with strife.
[2] A servant who deals wisely will rule over [n] a son who acts shamefully and [o] will share the inheritance as one of the brothers.
[3][†] [p] The crucible is for silver, and the furnace is for gold,
[q] and the LORD tests hearts.
[4] An evildoer listens to wicked lips,
and a liar gives ear to a mischievous tongue.
[5] Whoever mocks the poor [r] insults his Maker;
he who is [s] glad at calamity will not go [t] unpunished.
[6] [u] Grandchildren are [v] the crown of the aged,
and the glory of children is their fathers.
[7] Fine speech is not [w] becoming to a fool;
still less is [x] false speech to a prince.
[8][†] [y] A bribe is like a magic stone in the eyes of the one who gives it;
wherever he turns he prospers.
[9][†] Whoever [z] covers an offense seeks love,
but he who repeats a matter [a] separates close friends.

10 A rebuke goes deeper into a man of understanding than a hundred blows into a fool.
11 An evil man seeks only rebellion, and [b] a cruel messenger will be sent against him.
12 Let a man meet [c] a she-bear robbed of her cubs
[d] rather than a fool in his folly.
13 If anyone [e] returns evil for good,
[f] evil will not depart from his house.
14[†] The beginning of strife is like letting out water, so [g] quit before the quarrel breaks out.
15 He who [h] justifies the wicked and he who [i] condemns the righteous are both alike an abomination to the LORD.
16 Why should a fool have money in his hand [j] to buy wisdom when he has no sense?
17 [k] A friend loves at all times,
and a brother is born for adversity.
18[†] One who lacks sense gives a pledge and puts up security in the presence of his neighbor.
19[†] Whoever loves transgression loves strife;
he who [l] makes his door high seeks destruction.
20 [m] A man of crooked heart does not discover good,
and one with a dishonest tongue falls into calamity.
21 He who [n] sires a fool gets himself sorrow,
and the father of a fool has no joy.
22 [o] A joyful heart is good medicine,
but a crushed spirit [p] dries up the bones.
23[†] The wicked accepts [q] a bribe in secret [2]
to [r] pervert the ways of justice.
24 [s] The discerning sets his face toward wisdom,
but the eyes of a fool are on the ends of the earth.
25[†] [n] A foolish son is a grief to his father
[t] and bitterness to [u] her who bore him.
26 [v] To impose a fine on a righteous man is not good,
nor to strike the noble for their uprightness.

27[†] Whoever [w]restrains his words has knowledge, and he who has a cool spirit is a man of understanding.
28 Even a fool [x]who keeps silent is considered wise;
when he closes his lips, he is deemed intelligent.
PROVERBS 18 Whoever [y]isolates himself seeks his own desire;
he breaks out against all sound judgment.
2 A fool takes no pleasure in understanding, but only [z]in expressing his opinion.
3 When wickedness comes, contempt comes also,
and with dishonor comes disgrace.
4 The words of a man's mouth are [a]deep waters;
the fountain of wisdom is a bubbling brook.
5[†] It is not good to [b]be partial to [1] the wicked or to [c]deprive the righteous of justice.
6 A fool's lips walk into a fight,
and his mouth invites [d]a beating.
7 [e]A fool's mouth is his ruin,
and his lips are a snare to his soul.
8 [f]The words of a whisperer are like delicious morsels;
they go down into [g]the inner parts of the body.
9[†] Whoever is slack in his work is a [h]brother to him who destroys.
10 [i]The name of the LORD is [j]a strong tower;
the righteous man runs into it and [k]is safe.
11 [l]A rich man's wealth is his strong city,
and like a high wall in his imagination.
12 [m]Before destruction a man's heart is haughty, but [n]humility comes before honor.
13 If one gives an answer [o]before he hears,
it is his folly and shame.
14 A man's spirit will endure sickness,
but [p]a crushed spirit who can bear?
15[†] An intelligent heart acquires knowledge, and the ear of the wise seeks knowledge.

16 A man’s [q] gift makes room for him and brings him before the great.
17 The one who states his case first seems right,
until the other comes and examines him.
18[†] [r] The lot puts an end to quarrels and decides between powerful contenders.
19 A brother offended is more unyielding than a strong city, and quarreling is like the bars of a castle.
20 [s] From the fruit of a man’s mouth his stomach is satisfied;
he is satisfied by the yield of his lips.
21 [t] Death and life are in the power of the tongue, and those who love it will eat its fruits.
22[†] He who finds [u] a wife finds [v] a good thing and [w] obtains favor [x] from the LORD.
23[†] The poor use entreaties, but [y] the rich answer roughly.
24 A man of many companions may come to ruin, but [z] there is a friend who sticks closer than a brother.

PROVERBS 19 [a] Better is a poor person who [b] walks in his integrity than one who is crooked in speech and is a fool.
2[†] Desire [1] without knowledge is not good,
and whoever [c] makes haste with his feet misses his way.
3 When a man’s folly [d] brings his way to ruin, his heart [e] rages against the LORD.
4 [f] Wealth brings many new friends,
[f] but a poor man is deserted by his friend.
5[†] [g] A false witness will not go unpunished,
and he who [h] breathes out lies will not escape.
6 Many seek the favor of a generous man, [2]
and everyone is a friend to a man who gives [i] gifts.
7 [j] All a poor man’s brothers hate him;
[k] how much more do his friends go far from him!
He pursues them with words, but does not have them. [3] 8 [l] Whoever gets sense loves his own soul;
he who keeps understanding will [m] discover good.
9 [g] A false witness will not go unpunished,
and he who [h] breathes out lies will perish.
10 [n] It is not fitting for a fool to live in luxury, much less for [o] a slave to rule over princes.
11[†] [p] Good sense makes one slow to anger, and it is his glory to overlook an offense.
12[†] A king’s wrath is like [q] the growling of a lion, but his [r] favor is like [s] dew on the grass.
13[†] [t] A foolish son is ruin to his father, and [u] a wife’s quarreling is [v] a continual dripping of rain.
14 [w] House and wealth are inherited from fathers,
but a prudent wife is [x] from the LORD.
15[†] [y] Slothfulness casts into [z] a deep sleep, and [a] an idle person will suffer hunger.
16 Whoever [b] keeps the commandment keeps his life;
he who despises his ways will die.

17 [c] Whoever is generous to the poor lends to the LORD, and he [d] will repay him for his [e] deed.
18 [f] Discipline your son, for there is hope;
do not set your heart on [g] putting him to death.
19 A man of great wrath will pay the penalty, for if you deliver him, you will only have to do it again.
20 Listen to advice and accept instruction, that you may gain wisdom in [h] the future.
21 [i] Many are the plans in the mind of a man, but [j] it is the purpose of the LORD [k] that will stand.
22 What is desired in a man is steadfast love,
and a poor man is better than a liar.
23 The fear of the LORD [l] leads to life, and whoever has it rests [m] satisfied;
he will [n] not be visited by harm.
24 [o] The sluggard buries his hand in [p] the dish and will not even bring it back to his mouth.
25[†] [q] Strike [r] a scoffer, and the simple will [s] learn prudence;
[t] reprove a man of understanding, and he will gain knowledge.
26 He who does violence to his father and chases away his mother is [u] a son who brings shame and reproach.
27 Cease to hear instruction, my son,
[v] and you will stray from the words of knowledge.
28 A worthless witness mocks at justice, and the mouth of the wicked [w] devours iniquity.
29 Condemnation is ready for [r] scoffers, and [x] beating for the backs of fools.
PROVERBS 20 [y] Wine is a mocker, [z] strong drink a brawler, and whoever [a] is led astray by it is not wise. [1] 2[†] The terror of a king is like [b] the growling of a lion;
whoever provokes him to anger [c] forfeits his life.
3 It is an honor for a man to [d] keep aloof from strife, but every fool will be quarreling.
4 [e] The sluggard does not plow in the autumn;

[f] he will seek at harvest and have nothing.
5 The purpose in a man’s heart is like [g] deep water, but a man of understanding will draw it out.
6 Many a man [h] proclaims his own steadfast love, but [i] a faithful man who can find?
7 The righteous who [j] walks in his integrity—
[k] blessed are his children after him!
8[†] [l] A king who sits on the throne of judgment
[m] winnows all evil with his eyes.
9 [n] Who can say, “I have made my heart pure;
I am clean from my sin”?
10 [o] Unequal [2] weights and unequal measures
are both alike an abomination to the LORD.
11 Even a child [p] makes himself known by his acts, by whether his conduct is pure and upright. [3] 12 [q] The hearing ear and the seeing eye, [r] the LORD has made them both.
13[†] [s] Love not sleep, lest you [t] come to poverty;
open your eyes, and you will have [u] plenty of bread.
14 “Bad, bad,” says the buyer,
but when he goes away, then he boasts.
15 There is gold and abundance of [v] costly stones,
[w] but the lips of knowledge are a precious jewel.
16 [x] Take a man’s garment when he has put up security for a stranger, and [y] hold it in pledge when he puts up security for foreigners. [4] 17 [z] Bread gained by deceit is sweet to a man, but afterward his mouth will be full of [a] gravel.
18 [b] Plans are established by counsel;
by [c] wise guidance [d] wage war.
19 Whoever [e] goes about slandering reveals secrets;
therefore do not associate with [f] a simple babbler. [5] 20[†] [g] If one curses his father or his mother,
[h] his lamp will be put out in utter darkness.
21 [i] An inheritance gained hastily in the beginning will not be blessed in the end.

22[†] Do not say, [j]“I will repay evil”;
[k]wait for the LORD, and he will deliver you.
23 [l]Unequal weights are an abomination to the LORD, and [m]false scales are not good.
24 A man’s [n]steps are from the LORD;
how then can man understand his way?
25 It is a snare to say rashly, “It is holy,”
and to reflect only [o]after making vows.
26[†] A wise king [p]winnows the wicked and drives [q]the wheel over them.
27 [r]The spirit [6] of man is the lamp of the LORD,
[s]searching all [t]his innermost parts.
28[†] [u]Steadfast love and faithfulness preserve the king, and by steadfast love his [v]throne is upheld.
29 The glory of young men is their strength, but [w]the splendor of old men is their gray hair.
30 [x]Blows that wound cleanse away evil;
strokes make clean [t]the innermost parts.
PROVERBS 21 [†] The king’s heart is a stream of water in the hand of the LORD;
he [y]turns it wherever he will.
2 [z]Every way of a man is right in his own eyes,
but the LORD [a]weighs the heart.
3 [b]To do righteousness and justice is more acceptable to the LORD than sacrifice.
4 [c]Haughty eyes and a proud heart,
[d]the lamp [1] of the wicked, are sin.
5 The plans of [e]the diligent lead surely to abundance, but everyone who is [f]hasty comes [g]only to poverty.
6 [h]The getting of treasures by a lying tongue is a [i]fleeting [j]vapor and a [k]snare of death. [2] 7 The violence of the wicked will [l]sweep them away, because they refuse to do what is just.

8 The way of the guilty [m] is crooked,
but the conduct of the pure is upright.
9[†] It is [n] better to live in a corner of the housetop than in a house shared with a quarrelsome wife.
10[†] The soul of the wicked desires evil;
his neighbor finds no mercy in his eyes.
11 When [o] a scoffer is punished, the simple becomes wise;
when a wise man is instructed, he gains knowledge.
12 The Righteous One [p] observes the house of the wicked;
he throws the wicked down to ruin.
13 [q] Whoever closes his ear to the cry of the poor will himself call out and not be answered.
14 [r] A gift in secret averts anger, and a concealed bribe, [3] strong wrath.
15[†] When justice is done, it is a joy to the righteous
[s] but terror to evildoers.
16 One who wanders from the way of good sense
[t] will rest in the assembly of the dead.
17[†] Whoever loves pleasure will be a poor man;
he who loves wine and oil will not be rich.
18 [u] The wicked is a [v] ransom for the righteous, and the traitor for the upright.
19 It is [w] better to live in a desert land than with a quarrelsome and fretful woman.
20[†] [x] Precious treasure and oil are in a wise man's dwelling, but a foolish man [y] devours it.
21 Whoever [z] pursues righteousness and kindness will find [a] life, righteousness, and honor.
22 [b] A wise man scales the city of the mighty and brings down the stronghold in which they trust.
23 [c] Whoever keeps his mouth and his tongue
[d] keeps himself out of [e] trouble.
24 [f] "Scoffer" is the name of the arrogant, haughty man who acts with arrogant pride.

25[†] The desire of [g]the sluggard kills him, for his hands refuse to labor.
26 All day long he craves and craves,
but the righteous [h]gives and does not hold back.
27 [i]The sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination;
how much more [j]when he brings it with evil intent.
28 [k]A false witness will perish,
but the word of a man who hears will endure.
29[†] A wicked man puts on a bold face,
but the upright [l]gives thought to [4] his ways.
30 [m]No wisdom, no understanding, no counsel can avail against the LORD.
31 [n]The horse is made ready for the day of battle,
but [o]the victory belongs to the LORD.
PROVERBS 22 [p]A good name is to be chosen rather than great riches, and favor is better than silver or gold.
2 [q]The rich and the poor meet together;
the LORD is [r]the maker of them all.
3 [s]The prudent sees danger and hides himself,
but the simple go on and suffer for it.
4 The reward for humility and fear of the LORD is [t]riches and honor and life. [1] 5 [u]Thorns and snares are in the way of the crooked;
whoever [v]guards his soul will keep far from them.
6[†] [w]Train up a child in the way he should go;
even when he is old he will not depart from it.
7[†] [x]The rich rules over the poor, and the borrower is the slave of the lender.
8 Whoever [y]sows injustice will reap calamity, and [z]the rod of his fury will fail.
9 [a]Whoever has a bountiful [2] eye will be blessed,
for he [b]shares his bread with the poor.
10[†] [c]Drive out a scoffer, [d]and strife will go out, and [e]quarreling and abuse will cease.

11 He who [f]loves purity of heart, and whose [g]speech is gracious, [h]will have the king as his friend.
12 The eyes of the LORD keep watch over knowledge, but he [i]overthrows the words of the traitor.
13 [j]The sluggard says, “There is a lion outside!
I shall be killed in the streets!”
14[†] The mouth of [k]forbidden [3] women is [l]a deep pit;
[m]he with whom the LORD is angry will fall into it.
15 Folly is bound up in the heart of a child, but [n]the rod of discipline drives it far from him.
16 Whoever oppresses the poor to increase his own wealth, or gives to the rich, [o]will only come to poverty.

Words of the Wise

17[†] [p]Incline your ear, and hear [q]the words of the wise, [r]and apply your heart to my knowledge,
18 for it will be pleasant if you keep them within you,
if all of them are ready on your lips.
19 That your trust may be in the LORD,
I have made them known to you today, even to you.
20 Have I not written for you [s]thirty sayings of counsel and knowledge, 21 to [t]make you know what is right and true, that you may give a true answer to those who sent you?

22[†] [u]Do not rob the poor, because he is poor, or [v]crush the afflicted at [w]the gate, 23 for [x]the LORD will plead their cause and rob of life those who rob them.
24 Make no friendship with a man given to anger, nor go with a wrathful man, 25 lest you learn his ways and entangle yourself in a snare.
26 Be not one of those who [y]give pledges, who put up security for debts.

27 If you have nothing with which to pay,
why should [z] your bed be taken from under you?
28[†] Do not move the ancient [a] landmark that your fathers have set.
29 Do you see a man skillful in his work?
He will [b] stand before kings;
he will not stand before obscure men.

PROVERBS 23 [†] When you sit down to eat with a ruler, observe carefully what [1] is before you, 2 and put a knife to your throat
if you are given to appetite.
3 [c] Do not desire his delicacies, for they are deceptive food.
4[†] [d] Do not toil to acquire wealth;
[e] be discerning enough to desist.
5 When your eyes light on it, it is gone, [f] for suddenly it sprouts wings, flying like an eagle toward heaven.
6 [g] Do not eat the bread of a man who is [h] stingy; [2]
[i] do not desire his delicacies,
7 for he is like one who is inwardly calculating. [3]
“Eat and drink!” he says to you, but his [j] heart is not with you.
8 You will vomit up the morsels that you have eaten, and waste your pleasant words.
9 Do not speak in the hearing of a fool,
for he will despise the good sense of your words.
10[†] [k] Do not move an ancient landmark or enter the fields of the fatherless, 11 for their [l] Redeemer is strong;
he will [m] plead their cause against you.
12[†] Apply your heart to instruction and your ear to words of knowledge.

[13][†] Do not withhold [n] discipline from a child;
[o] if you strike him with a rod, he will not die.
[14] If you strike him with the rod,
you will [p] save his soul from Sheol.
[15] [q] My son, if your heart is wise,
my heart too will be glad.
[16] My [r] inmost being [4] will exult
when your lips speak [s] what is right.
[17][†] Let not your heart [t] envy sinners, but continue in [u] the fear of the LORD all the day.
[18] Surely [v] there is a future,
and your [w] hope will not be cut off.

[19] Hear, my son, and [x] be wise, and [y] direct your heart in the way.
[20] Be not among [z] drunkards [5] or among [a] gluttonous eaters of meat, [21] for the drunkard and the glutton will come to poverty, and [b] slumber will clothe them with rags.

[22] [c] Listen to your father who gave you life,
[d] and do not despise your mother when she is old.
[23] [e] Buy truth, and do not sell it;
buy wisdom, instruction, and understanding.
[24] [f] The father of the righteous will greatly rejoice;
he who fathers a wise son will be glad in him.
[25] [f] Let your father and mother be glad;
let [g] her who bore you rejoice.

[26][†] My son, give me your heart, and let your eyes observe [6] my ways.
[27] For a prostitute is [h] a deep pit;
[i] an adulteress [7] is a narrow [j] well.

[28] [k] She lies in wait like a robber and increases the traitors among mankind.

[29] [l] Who has woe? Who has sorrow?
Who has strife? Who has complaining?
Who has [m] wounds without cause?
Who has [n] redness of eyes?
[30] Those who [o] tarry long over wine;
those who go to try [p] mixed wine.
[31] Do not look at wine when it is red, when it sparkles in the cup and goes down smoothly.
[32] In the end it [q] bites like a serpent and stings like an adder.
[33][†] Your eyes will see strange things, and your heart utter [r] perverse things.
[34] You will be like one who lies down in the midst of the sea, like one who lies on the top of a mast. [8] [35] “They [s] struck me,” you will say, [9] “but I was not hurt;
they beat me, but I did not feel it.
When shall I awake?
I [t] must have another drink.”
PROVERBS 24 [†] Be not [u] envious of evil men, nor desire to be [v] with them, [2] for their hearts [w] devise violence,
and their lips [x] talk of trouble.

[3][†] By [y] wisdom a house is built,
and by understanding it is established;
[4] by knowledge the rooms are filled with all [z] precious and pleasant riches.
[5][†] [a] A wise man is full of strength, and a man of knowledge enhances his might,
[6] for by [b] wise guidance you can wage your war, and in [c] abundance of counselors there is victory.

7 [†] Wisdom is [d] too high for a fool;
in [e] the gate he does not open his mouth.

8 Whoever [f] plans to do evil will be called a schemer.
9 [g] The devising [1] of folly is sin,
and [h] the scoffer is an abomination to mankind.

10 If you [i] faint in the day of adversity, your strength is small.
11 [†] [j] Rescue those who are being taken away to death;
hold back those who are stumbling to the slaughter.
12 If you say, “Behold, we did not know this,”
[k] does not he who [l] weighs the heart perceive it?
Does not he who [m] keeps watch over your soul know it,
and will he not repay man [n] according to his work?

13 [†] My son, [o] eat honey, for it is good, and [p] the drippings of the honeycomb are sweet to your taste.
14 Know that wisdom is such to your soul;
if you find it, there will be [q] a future,
and your hope will not be cut off.

15 [†] [r] Lie not in wait as a wicked man against the dwelling of the righteous;
do no violence to his home;
16 [s] for the righteous falls [t] seven times and rises again, but [u] the wicked stumble in times of calamity.

17 [†] [v] Do not rejoice when your enemy falls,
and let not your heart be glad when he stumbles, 18 lest the Lord see it and be displeased, and turn away his anger from him.

19[†] [w]Fret not yourself because of evildoers, and be not [x]envious of the wicked,
20 for the evil man has no [q]future;
[y]the lamp of the wicked will be put out.

21[†] My son, [z]fear the LORD and the king, and do not join with those who do otherwise, 22 for disaster will arise suddenly from them, and who knows the ruin that will come from them both?

More Sayings of the Wise

23[†]These also are sayings of [a]the wise.

[b]Partiality in judging is not good.
24 Whoever [c]says to the wicked, “You are in the right,”
[d]will be cursed by peoples, abhorred by nations, 25 but those who rebuke the wicked will have delight, and a good blessing will come upon them.
26[†] Whoever gives an honest answer kisses the lips.

27 [e]Prepare your work outside;
get everything ready for yourself in the field,
and after that build your house.

28 [f]Be not a witness against your neighbor without cause, and do not deceive with your lips.
29 Do not say, [g]“I will do to him as he has done to me;
I will pay the man back for what he has done.”

30[†] [h]I passed by the field of a sluggard, by the vineyard of a man [i]lacking sense, 31 and behold, it was all overgrown with thorns;
the ground was covered with nettles,
and its stone [j]wall was broken down.

32 Then I saw and [k] considered it;
I looked and received instruction.
33 [l] A little sleep, a little slumber,
a little folding of the hands to rest, 34 and poverty will come upon you like a robber,
and want like an armed man.

More Proverbs of Solomon

PROVERBS 25 [†]These also are [m] proverbs of Solomon which the men of Hezekiah king of Judah copied.

[2][†] It is the glory of God to [n] conceal things, but the glory of kings is to [o] search things out.
[3] As the heavens for height, and the earth for depth,
so the heart of kings is [p] unsearchable.
[4][†] Take away [q] the dross from the silver, and [r] the smith has material for a vessel;
[5] take away [s] the wicked from the presence of the king, and his [t] throne will be established in righteousness.
[6][†] Do not put yourself forward in the king's presence or stand in the place of the great, [7][†] for [u] it is better to be told, "Come up here," than to be put lower in the presence of a noble.

What your eyes have seen [8] [w] do not hastily bring into court, for [1] what will you do in the end,
when your neighbor puts you to shame?
[9] [x] Argue your case with your neighbor himself, and do not reveal another's secret, [10] lest he who hears you bring shame upon you,
and your ill repute have no end.

[11] [y] A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in a setting of silver.
[12] Like [z] a gold ring or an ornament of gold is a wise reprover to [a] a listening ear.
[13][†] Like the cold of snow in the time of harvest is [b] a faithful messenger to those who send him;
he refreshes the soul of his masters.

14 Like [c]clouds and wind without rain is a man who [d]boasts of a gift he does not give.

15 With [e]patience a ruler may be persuaded,
and a soft tongue will break a bone.
16[†] If you have [f]found honey, eat [g]only enough for you, lest you have your fill of it and vomit it.
17 Let your foot be seldom in your neighbor's house,
lest he have his fill of you and hate you.
18 A man who [h]bears false witness against his neighbor is like a war club, or [i]a sword, or a sharp arrow.
19 Trusting in a treacherous man in time of trouble is like a bad tooth or a foot that slips.
20[†] Whoever [j]sings songs to a heavy heart is like one who takes off a garment on a cold day, and like vinegar on soda.
21[†] [k]If your enemy is hungry, give him bread to eat, and if he is thirsty, give him water to drink, 22 for you will heap [l]burning coals on his head, and the LORD will reward you.
23[†] The north wind brings forth rain, and a backbiting tongue, angry looks.
24 [m]It is better to live in a corner of the housetop than in a house shared with a quarrelsome wife.
25 Like cold water to [n]a thirsty soul,
so is [o]good news from a far country.
26 Like [p]a muddied spring or a polluted fountain is a righteous man who gives way before the wicked.
27 It is [q]not good to eat much honey, nor is it glorious to [r]seek one's own glory. [2] 28[†] A man [s]without self-control is like [t]a city broken into and left without walls.
PROVERBS 26 Like snow in summer or [u]rain in harvest, so [v]honor is [w]not fitting for a fool.

2 Like [x] a sparrow in its flitting, like a swallow in its flying,
[y] a curse that is causeless does not alight.
3 [z] A whip for the horse, a bridle for the donkey,
and [a] a rod for the back of fools.
4[†] [b] Answer not a fool according to his folly, lest you be like him yourself.
5 [c] Answer a fool according to his folly, lest he be [d] wise in his own eyes.
6 Whoever sends a message by the hand of a fool cuts off his own feet and [e] drinks violence.
7 Like a lame man’s legs, which hang useless,
is a proverb in the mouth of fools.
8 Like one who binds the stone in the sling is [f] one who gives honor to a fool.
9 Like [g] a thorn that goes up into the hand of a drunkard is a proverb in the mouth of fools.
10 Like an archer who wounds everyone is one who hires a passing fool or drunkard. [1] 11 Like [h] a dog that returns to his vomit is [i] a fool who repeats his folly.
12[†] Do you see a man who is [j] wise in his own eyes?
[k] There is more hope for a fool than for him.
13[†] [l] The sluggard says, “There is a lion in the road!
There is a lion in the streets!”
14 As a door turns on its hinges, so does a sluggard on his bed.
15 [m] The sluggard buries his hand in the dish;
it wears him out to bring it back to his mouth.
16 The sluggard is [j] wiser in his own eyes
[n] than seven men who can answer sensibly.
17[†] Whoever meddles in a quarrel not his own is like one who takes a passing dog by the ears.
18 Like a madman who throws [o] firebrands, arrows, and death
19 is the man who deceives his neighbor and says, “I am only joking!” 20 For lack of wood the fire goes out,

and where there is no [p] whisperer, [q] quarreling ceases.
21 As charcoal to hot embers and wood to fire,
so is [r] a quarrelsome man for kindling strife.
22 [s] The words of [p] a whisperer are like delicious morsels;
they go down into the inner parts of the body.
23[†] [t] Like the [u] glaze [2] covering an earthen vessel are fervent lips with an evil heart.
24 Whoever hates disguises himself with his lips and harbors deceit in his heart; 25 [v] when he speaks graciously, believe him not,
for there are [w] seven abominations in his heart; 26 though his hatred be covered with deception, his wickedness will be exposed in the assembly.
27 [x] Whoever digs a pit will fall into it, and a stone will come back on him who starts it rolling.
28 A lying tongue hates its victims, and a flattering mouth works ruin.
PROVERBS 27 [†] Do not boast about tomorrow, [y] for you do not know what a day may bring.
2 Let [z] another praise you, and not your own mouth;
a stranger, and not your own lips.
3[†] A stone is heavy, and sand is weighty,
but [a] a fool’s provocation is heavier than both.
4 Wrath is cruel, anger is overwhelming, but who can stand before [b] jealousy?
5[†] [c] Better is open rebuke than hidden love.
6 Faithful are [d] the wounds of a friend;
profuse are the kisses of an enemy.
7[†] One who is full loathes [e] honey,
but to one who is hungry everything bitter is sweet.
8 Like [f] a bird that strays from its nest is a man who strays from his home.

9 [g] Oil and perfume make the heart glad, and the sweetness of a friend comes from his earnest counsel. [1] 10 Do not forsake your friend and [h] your father's friend, and do not go to your brother's house in the day of your calamity.
[i] Better is a neighbor who is near than a brother who is far away.
11 [†] [j] Be wise, [k] my son, and [l] make my heart glad, that I may [m] answer him who reproaches me.
12 [n] The prudent sees danger and hides himself, but [o] the simple go on and suffer for it.
13 [p] Take a man's garment when he has put up security for a stranger, and hold it in pledge when he puts up security for an adulteress. [2] 14 Whoever blesses his neighbor with a loud voice, rising early in the morning,
will be counted as cursing.
15 [†] [q] A continual dripping on a rainy day and a quarrelsome wife are alike; 16 to restrain her is to restrain the wind or to grasp [3] oil in one's right hand.
17 Iron sharpens iron, and one man sharpens another. [4] 18 [r] Whoever tends a fig tree will eat its fruit, and he who [s] guards his master will be honored.
19 [†] As in water face reflects face,
so the heart of man reflects the man.
20 [t] Sheol and Abaddon are [u] never satisfied, and [v] never satisfied are the eyes of man.
21 [w] The crucible is for silver, and the furnace is for gold,
and a man is tested by his praise.
22 [x] Crush a fool in a mortar with a pestle along with crushed grain, yet his folly will not depart from him.

23 [y] Know well the condition of your flocks, and [y] give attention to your herds, 24 for [z] riches do not last forever;
and does a crown endure to all generations?
25 [a] When the grass is gone and the new growth appears and the vegetation of the mountains is gathered, 26 [b] the lambs will provide your clothing,
and the goats the price of a field.
27 [b] There will be enough goats’ milk for your food, for the food of your household and maintenance for your girls.
PROVERBS 28 [c] The wicked flee when no one pursues,
but [d] the righteous are bold as a lion.
2[†] When a land transgresses, [e] it has many rulers,
but with a man of understanding and knowledge,
its stability will long continue.
3 [f] A poor man who oppresses the poor is a beating rain that leaves no food.
4 Those who forsake the law [g] praise the wicked,
but those who keep the law [h] strive against them.
5[†] Evil men [i] do not understand justice,
but those who seek the LORD [j] understand it completely.
6 [k] Better is a poor man who [l] walks in his integrity than a rich man who is [l] crooked in his ways.
7 The one who keeps the law is a son with understanding, but [m] a companion of gluttons shames his father.
8 Whoever multiplies his wealth [n] by interest and profit [1]
[o] gathers it for him who is [p] generous to the poor.
9[†] If one turns away his ear from hearing the law,
even his [q] prayer is an abomination.
10 Whoever misleads the upright into an evil way
[r] will fall into his own pit, but the blameless [s] will have a goodly inheritance.
11 A rich man is wise in his [t] own eyes, but a poor man who has understanding [u] will find him out.

12 When [v] the righteous triumph, there is great glory, but when [w] the wicked rise, people hide themselves.
13[†] Whoever [x] conceals his transgressions will not prosper, but he who [y] confesses and forsakes them will obtain mercy.
14 Blessed is the one who [z] fears the LORD always,
but whoever [a] hardens his heart will fall into calamity.
15[†] Like [b] a roaring lion or [c] a charging bear is [d] a wicked ruler over a poor people.
16 A ruler who [e] lacks understanding is a cruel oppressor, but he who hates unjust gain will prolong his days.
17[†] If one is burdened with [f] the blood of another,
he will be a fugitive until death; [2]
let no one help him.
18 [g] Whoever [h] walks in integrity will be delivered, but he who is crooked in his ways will suddenly fall.
19[†] [i] Whoever works his land will have plenty of bread, but he who follows worthless pursuits will have plenty of poverty.
20 A faithful man will abound with blessings, but whoever hastens to be rich [j] will not go unpunished.
21 To show [k] partiality is not good,
but for [l] a piece of bread a man will do wrong.
22 A [m] stingy man [3] [n] hastens after wealth and does not know that [o] poverty will come upon him.
23 Whoever [p] rebukes a man will afterward find more favor than [q] he who flatters with his tongue.
24 Whoever robs his father or his mother and says, “That is no transgression,” is [r] a companion to a man who destroys.
25 A greedy man [s] stirs up strife,
but the one who trusts in the LORD will [t] be enriched.
26 Whoever [u] trusts in his own mind is a fool,
but he who walks in wisdom will be delivered.
27 Whoever [v] gives to the poor will not want,

but he who [w] hides his eyes will get many a curse.
[28] When [x] the wicked rise, [y] people hide themselves, but when they perish, the righteous increase.
PROVERBS 29 [z] He who is often reproved, yet stiffens his neck, will suddenly be [a] broken [b] beyond healing.
[2] When [c] the righteous increase, the people rejoice, but when [d] the wicked rule, the people groan.
[3][†] He who [e] loves wisdom makes his father glad,
but [f] a companion of prostitutes [g] squanders his wealth.
[4] By justice a king [h] builds up the land,
but he who exacts gifts [1] tears it down.
[5] [i] A man who flatters his neighbor spreads [j] a net for his feet.
[6] An evil man is [k] ensnared in his transgression, but a righteous man [l] sings and rejoices.
[7][†] A righteous man [m] knows the rights of the poor;
a wicked man does not [n] understand such knowledge.
[8] [o] Scoffers set a city aflame,
but the wise turn away wrath.
[9] If a wise man has an argument with a fool, the fool only rages and laughs, and there is [p] no quiet.
[10] Bloodthirsty men [q] hate one who is blameless and seek the life of the upright. [2] [11] A fool gives full vent to his spirit, but a wise man quietly holds it back.
[12][†] If a ruler listens to falsehood,
all his officials will be wicked.
[13] The poor man and the oppressor [r] meet together;
the LORD [s] gives light to the eyes of both.
[14] If a king [t] faithfully judges the poor,
his throne will [u] be established forever.
[15][†] [v] The rod and reproof give wisdom, but a child left to himself [w] brings shame to his mother.
[16] When the wicked increase, transgression increases,

but [x] the righteous will look upon their downfall.
17 [y] Discipline your son, and he will give you rest;
he will give delight to your heart.
18 Where [z] there is no prophetic vision the people [a] cast off restraint, [3] but blessed is he who [b] keeps the law.
19 By mere words a servant is not disciplined, for though he understands, he will not respond.
20 Do you see a man who is hasty in his words?
[c] There is more hope for a fool than for him.
21 Whoever pampers his servant from childhood will in the end find him his heir. [4] 22 [d] A man of wrath stirs up strife, and one given to anger causes much transgression.
23 [e] One's pride will bring him low,
[f] but he who is lowly in spirit will obtain honor.
24[†] The partner of a thief [g] hates his own life;
[h] he hears the curse, but discloses nothing.
25[†] [i] The fear of man lays a snare,
but whoever trusts in the Lord is safe.
26 Many [j] seek the face of a ruler,
but it is from the Lord that a man [k] gets justice.
27[†] [l] An unjust man is an abomination to the righteous, but one whose way is straight is an abomination to the wicked.

The Words of Agur

PROVERBS 30 [†]The words of Agur son of Jakeh. The oracle. [1]

The man declares, I am weary, O God;
I am weary, O God, and worn out. [2]
2[†] Surely I am too [m] stupid to be a man.
I have not the understanding of a man.
3 I have not learned wisdom,
nor have I knowledge of [n] the Holy One.
4 Who has [o] ascended to heaven and come down?

Who has [p] gathered the wind in his fists?
Who has [q] wrapped up the waters in a garment?
Who has established all [r] the ends of the earth?
[s] What is his name, and what is his son's name?
Surely you know!

5[†] [t] Every word of God proves true;
he is [u] a shield to those who take refuge in him.
6 [v] Do not add to his words,
lest he rebuke you and you be found a liar.

7[†] Two things I ask of you;
deny them not to me [w] before I die:
8 Remove far from me falsehood and lying;
give me neither poverty nor riches;
feed me with the food that is [x] needful for me, 9 lest I be [y] full and [z] deny you and say, [a] "Who is the Lord?"
or lest I be poor and steal
[b] and profane the name of my God.

10 [c] Do not slander a servant to his master,
[d] lest he curse you, and you be held guilty.

11 There are those [3] who [e] curse their fathers and do not bless their mothers.
12 There are those who are [f] clean in their own eyes but are not washed of their filth.
13 There are those—how [g] lofty are their eyes, how high their eyelids lift!
14 There are those whose teeth are [h] swords, whose [i] fangs are knives,
to [j] devour the poor from off the earth,
the needy from among mankind.

15[†] The leech has two daughters:
Give and Give. [4]
[k] Three things are never satisfied;
[k] four never say, “Enough”:
16 [l] Sheol, [m] the barren womb,
the land never satisfied with water,
and the fire that never says, “Enough.”

17[†] The eye that [n] mocks a father and [o] scorns to obey a mother will [p] be picked out by [q] the ravens of the valley and eaten by the vultures.

18[†] [k] Three things are [r] too wonderful for me;
[k] four I do not understand:
19 the way of an eagle in the sky,
the way of a serpent on a rock,
the way of a ship on the high seas,
and the way of a man with a virgin.

20 This is the way of an adulteress:
she eats and wipes her mouth and says, “I have done no wrong.”

21[†] Under [k] three things [s] the earth trembles;
under [k] four it cannot bear up:
22 [t] a slave when he becomes king,
and a fool when he is [u] filled with food; 23 [v] an unloved woman when she [w] gets a husband, and a maidservant when she displaces her mistress.

24 [k] Four things on earth are small,
but they are exceedingly wise:
25 [x] the ants are a people not strong,
yet they provide their food in the summer;

26 [y] the rock badgers are a people not mighty, yet they make their homes in the cliffs; 27 the locusts have no [z] king,
yet all of them march in [a] rank; 28 the lizard you can take in your hands,
yet it is in kings' palaces.

29[†] [b] Three things are stately in their tread;
[b] four are stately in their stride:
30 the lion, which is mightiest among beasts and [c] does not turn back before any;
31 the [d] strutting rooster, [5] the he-goat, and a king whose army is with him. [6]

32 If you have been foolish, exalting yourself, or if you have been devising evil,
[e] put your hand on your mouth.
33 For pressing milk produces curds, pressing the nose produces blood,
and pressing anger produces strife.

The Words of King Lemuel

PROVERBS 31 [†]The words of King Lemuel. An oracle that his mother taught him:

2 What are you doing, my son? [1] What are you doing, [f] son of my womb?
What are you doing, [g] son of my vows?
3 Do [h] not give your strength to women,
your ways to those [i] who destroy kings.
4[†] [j] It is not for kings, O Lemuel, it is not for kings [k] to drink wine,
or for rulers to take [l] strong drink,
5 lest they drink and forget what has been decreed and [m] pervert the rights of all the afflicted.

6[†] Give strong drink to the one who [n] is perishing, and wine to [o] those in bitter distress; [2] 7 [p] let them drink and forget their poverty and remember their misery no more.
8 [q] Open your mouth for the mute, for the rights of all who are destitute. [3] 9 Open your mouth, [r] judge righteously,
[s] defend the rights of [t] the poor and needy.

The Woman Who Fears the LORD

10[†] [4] [u] An excellent wife who can find?
She is far more precious than [v] jewels.
11 The heart of her husband trusts in her,
and he will have no lack of gain.
12 She does him good, and not harm,
all the days of her life.
13 She [w] seeks wool and flax,
and works with willing hands.
14 She is like the ships of the merchant;
she brings her food from afar.
15[†] She [x] rises while it is yet night and [y] provides food for her household and portions for her maidens.
16[†] She considers a field and buys it;
with the fruit of her hands she plants a vineyard.
17 She [z] dresses herself [5] with strength and makes her arms strong.
18[†] She perceives that her merchandise is profitable.
Her lamp does not go out at night.
19 She puts her hands to the distaff, and her hands hold the spindle.
20 She [a] opens her hand to [b] the poor and reaches out her hands to [b] the needy.

[21] She is not afraid of snow for her household, for all her household are clothed in [c] scarlet. [6] [22] She makes [d] bed coverings for herself;
her clothing is [e] fine linen and [f] purple.
[23][†] Her husband is known in [g] the gates when he sits among the elders of the land.
[24] She makes [h] linen garments and sells them;
she delivers sashes to the merchant.
[25][†] [i] Strength and dignity are her clothing, and she laughs at the time to come.
[26][†] She opens her mouth with wisdom,
and the teaching of kindness is on her tongue.
[27] She looks well to the ways of her household and does not eat the bread of idleness.
[28][†] Her children rise up and call her blessed;
her husband also, and he praises her: [29] “Many [j] women have done [k] excellently, but you surpass them all.”
[30][†] [l] Charm is deceitful, and beauty is vain, but a woman who fears the LORD is to be praised.
[31][†] Give her of the fruit of her hands, and let her works praise her in the gates.

Study Notes for Proverbs

1:1–7 Title, Goal, and Motto. After the title (v. 1), there is an introduction that describes the goal of the whole book (vv. 2–6) and the motto that underlies every instruction in the book (v. 7).

FACT

Wisdom is a key term in Job, Proverbs, and Ecclesiastes. The word can mean "skilled at making sound decisions in life." Proverbs 9:10 states that "the fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom."

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:2–6 These verses give the purpose and benefit of the book: it instills wisdom in the reader. The wisdom offered here is practical (instruction in wise dealing), intellectual (increase in learning), moral (righteousness, justice, and equity), and inquiring (to understand a proverb and . . . riddles). It is for all people, whether they are naive and untaught (the simple . . . the youth) or already experienced (let the wise hear).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:7 The fear of the LORD is the beginning of knowledge. This is the core truth of the book: the quest for wisdom begins with the fear of the Lord (see 9:10 and Ps. 111:10). "Knowledge" and "wisdom" are closely tied together in Proverbs. "Knowledge" tends to focus on correct understanding of the world and oneself as creatures of the magnificent and loving God. "Wisdom" is an acquired skill in the art of godly living. "Fear of the LORD" means to respect, obey, and worship only God (see Deut. 4:10). Pursuing wisdom by fearing the Lord distinguishes the biblical search for knowledge and wisdom from that of the surrounding cultures. Submission to the Lord is key to the attainment of real understanding (see Ps. 111:10; Prov. 9:10). By using the covenant name "the LORD" in preference to the more generic "God," this verse shows that truth is found through Israel's God alone. In addition, the verse asserts that fools despise wisdom and instruction, thus contrasting the two ways of wisdom and folly. This contrast dominates the entire book.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:8–9:18 A Father's Invitation to Wisdom. This section describes the two paths implied in 1:7: the wise (grounded in the fear of the Lord) and the foolish (despising such wisdom and instruction). The appeals consist of: (1) a father (and mother in 1:8; 6:20) encouraging a son to seek wisdom (e.g., 2:1–22) and warning him against the ruin that comes from folly (e.g., 6:1–19); (2) Wisdom (personified as a woman) calling on all who will listen to seek her (1:20–33; 8:1–36); and (3) a final contrast of the two paths represented by Lady Wisdom and Lady Folly (9:1–18). The purpose of the section is to instruct the young and simple to embrace wisdom and to instill in them the desire to recognize and continue in the path of wisdom.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:8 your father's instruction . . . your mother's teaching. The training in wisdom referred to in Proverbs includes instruction in the home by parents (see also 6:20; 23:22; 31:26).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:17–19 A bird that sees a fowler spreading a net is aware of the trap and will flee the danger rather than take the bait. However, those who seek to trap the innocent overlook the fact that they are setting an ambush for their own lives.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:20–33 Wisdom is personified here as a woman. She is pictured appealing to simple ones, scoffers, and fools to pay attention to her words. Wisdom speaks in a way that recalls the words of the Lord (e.g., I will pour out my spirit to you; I will make my words known to you, v. 23).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:31 therefore they shall eat the fruit of their way. A person's actions both reveal the state of the heart and also help to shape a person's character. Those who refuse to listen to Wisdom's correction walk in a way that will ultimately produce calamity, terror, and destruction for their own lives. For a similar description of the two paths and their ends, see Jer. 6:16–19.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:1–4 These verses call the listener or reader to seek wisdom diligently.

FACT

In biblical times, proverbs were often used as a means of instruction for young people.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:5–8 The first benefit of wisdom is that one will understand the fear of the LORD. This knowledge is possible only because the Lord gives it to the upright. While wisdom is to be sought diligently, it is not something merited by the actions of an individual.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:9–11 The second benefit of wisdom is that one gains an understanding of righteousness and justice and equity. Wisdom takes root in the heart and protects the person who embraces it (vv. 10–11). The Lord will be “watching over the way of his saints” (v. 8) through the wisdom and understanding he will give them (v. 11).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:16–19 Like those who walk the crooked path (vv. 12–15), a woman who seeks to lure a man to adultery both practices deception (she flatters with smooth words, v. 16) and is herself deceived (v. 18). Verses 18–19 show where the paths of death and life will finally lead.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:16–17 The ESV footnote indicates that forbidden woman is literally “strange woman” and adulteress is literally “foreign woman.” “Strange” is likely used here in the sense of “forbidden” or “unauthorized,” that is, someone who is supposed to be unavailable because of another relationship. Likewise, “foreign” probably means being a member of another household.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:21–22 The upright will inhabit the land describes the inheritance that will belong to those who continue on the wise path. This is contrasted with the wicked being cut off from the land.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:3 steadfast love and faithfulness. These terms are used together in the Lord’s description of himself in Ex. 34:6 (“abounding in steadfast love and faithfulness”). In light of the later appeals to trust, fear, and honor the Lord (Prov. 3:5, 7, 9), the call here to bind them around your neck and write them on the tablet of your heart probably has to do with being faithful to the Lord by obeying one’s parents.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:5 Trust in the LORD is necessary for following the wise ways of life taught in Proverbs. Trusting the Lord is closely connected to fearing him (see note on 1:7; see 2:5; 9:10; 15:33; 19:23; etc.). Do not lean on your own understanding further explains what it means to trust in the Lord. The wise will govern themselves by what the Lord himself declares. They do not trust their own finite and often-mistaken understanding if it opposes God's word.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:6 To make straight one's paths means to continually progress toward a goal. In Proverbs, the emphasis is on the moral quality of one's life path.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:10 The prosperity described here is the blessing of the covenant (Deut. 28:1–14), a kind of restored Eden. Your barns will be filled with plenty describes the effect of honoring the Lord with all that one has and is.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:11–12 A father should shape his own parenting (discipline) according to the pattern set by the LORD's parenting. See Heb. 12:4–5.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:17 peace. See note on John 14:27.

FACT

The Hebrew word for peace is shalom. It means much more than just the absence of conflict and turmoil. It means that "all is well" in a person's life.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:18 In Proverbs, the things that are called a tree of life are resources that help the righteous walk with God and be blessed by him (see also 11:30; 13:12; 15:4).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:19–20 God has built the principles of wisdom into the way the world works. Wisdom keeps the world from descending into chaos. Thus, when one lives without integrity, one violates the very rules that hold everything together. One cannot do this and thrive. This idea is explained in more detail in 8:22–31.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:3–4 When I was a son with my father. The father shows he can identify with his sons. He, too, was once young and under the instruction of a father. He also implies that wisdom did not begin with him but goes back through many generations.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:7 get wisdom. The reader is encouraged to search for wisdom and guard it continually. It is a great treasure (see 2:4; 3:13–15; 4:20–23). In Proverbs, the beginning of wisdom is always the fear of the Lord (see 1:1–7; 9:10). The Lord is the giver of true wisdom (2:6–8).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:10–19 This passage gives one of the main teachings of Proverbs: the doctrine of the two ways. Everyone has a choice between entering the way of wisdom and the way of folly. Which path is taken will determine the outcome of one’s life.

FACT

Garlands were wreaths woven from leaves and flowers. They were worn around the head or neck during various celebrations such as weddings. They were also symbols of honor for military success. In Proverbs, they symbolize the honor that comes from following the way of wisdom (4:9).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:14–17 One should avoid the way of the wicked, for it creates a hunger that is destructive and that cannot be satisfied (v. 16).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:18–19 dawn . . . full day. These verses describe ever-increasing brightness, from first light until noon. The path of a person refers to the way that a person lives (v. 14; see 2:8, 13, 15, 20; 3:6; Ps. 25:4). The wise person’s way of life shines brighter and brighter, as it increasingly displays God’s light.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:20–23 The commands in vv. 20–21 all encourage making wisdom a vital part of one’s life. Heart in Proverbs refers to the center of one’s inner life. It is from this place that a person does all thinking, feeling, and choosing. Taking words of wisdom into the heart is of the greatest importance (they are life), because out of the heart flow all the thoughts, words, and choices of a person’s life (from it flow the springs of life; see Mark 7:21–23; Luke 6:45).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:24 crooked speech. A wise person's speech does not include elements contrary to what the Lord loves. See also 6:12–19, which describes how the misuse of speech displeases the Lord.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:25 The idea that the eyes should look directly forward suggests determination to remain in the right way. When a person turns his eyes away from the path, he is likely to stumble.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:2–6 The son's lips may guard knowledge, that is, he should not speak anything that is inconsistent with true knowledge and wisdom. In contrast, the lips of a forbidden woman are flattering (they drip honey) and her words are persuasive (her speech is smoother than oil). The disastrous end of her own life proves her words to be hollow and destructive (vv. 4–6).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:7–8 This instruction is repeated throughout the book: recognize the right path and seek to stay on it. A person stays on the right path by following words of wisdom (do not depart from the words of my mouth; see 4:20–21) and by avoiding evil (keep your way far from her, 5:8; see 4:26–27).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:9–14 The man who follows after the forbidden woman will see others take away from him the things that he himself should have enjoyed later in life (honor and years, v. 9; strength and labors, v. 10). Such a wayward life also produces regret over the wasting of body and soul (vv. 11–13) and shame within the church and community (v. 14).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:15–18 The wife is pictured as a source of water (well, fountain, etc.). The man who is tempted to commit adultery should think about how he would feel if his wife were to do the same (Should your springs be scattered abroad, streams of water in the streets?). He should be faithful to her just as he wants her to be faithful to him.

FACT

Cisterns (5:15) are underground chambers used to collect and store runoff water from rain and seasonal floods.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:18–19 The intimacy of marriage provides the place where sexual desires are rightly expressed for the enjoyment (rejoice) and good (be blessed) of both husband and wife.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:21–23 For a man's ways are before the eyes of the LORD reminds the righteous of how the Lord blesses the one who stays on the good path (compare 4:26). It also warns about being led astray by the forbidden woman. This can result in being held fast in . . . sin.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:1–5 security. Promising to pay someone else's debt if he does not pay it is described as a trap in which one's life is endangered. A person should not put himself in a position in which his labor or wealth could be wasted because someone else does not pay his debts. This does not mean that putting up security for someone is morally wrong in every situation, but rather that it is generally unwise (see 11:15; 17:18; 20:16; 22:26; 27:13).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:3–5 If the son has already given security for a loan, he is urged to save himself from the whim of the one in debt and plead urgently with him. The point of such pleading is made clear by the comparison to game caught in a trap. The son should focus all his energy on finding a way out of such a situation and thus save himself from ruin.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:7 The fact that the ant has no chief, officer, or ruler shows that it has initiative, which the sluggard lacks.

FACT

Despite their small size, ants are a picture of wisdom and initiative (6:6–8; 30:25). Ant colonies can reach populations of more than half a million, and will work tirelessly during the harvest season to store food for the winter.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:10 A little sleep, a little slumber. The sluggard may rationalize his late rising and his too-frequent naps as "just a little," but they destroy his productivity.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:11 The poverty and want that the sluggard's idleness causes are compared to external forces that will just as surely leave him in poverty (a robber and an armed man).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:12–14 A worthless person, a wicked man describes someone who lacks any desire to act righteously. devises. A worthless person's communication comes from a perverted heart that intends to create distrust and suspicion among others (continually sowing discord).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:16–19 The literary device of naming six things . . . seven indicates that the list is representative rather than exhaustive (compare 30:15–16, 18–19, 21–31). It also draws particular attention to the final item as the focus of God's hatred. It is easy to agree that God hates the first six items, but it is also easy to overlook the seventh (one who sows discord), and thus the author surprises the reader.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:20 your mother's teaching. In chs. 1–9, usually only the father is mentioned. The mother as teacher appears here and in 1:8. The young man's mother represents respect for the institutions of family and marriage.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:26 Being with a prostitute can be as cheap as a loaf of bread, but having an affair with a married woman can cost the man his very life.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:27–31 The father uses two comparisons to show how adultery leads to disaster. First, he says that one who engages in foolish behavior will suffer for it (vv. 27–29); embracing a neighbor's wife is like taking fire to one's chest. Second, he reasons that if someone who steals due to need has to pay a severe penalty, then someone who commits an unnecessary offense will suffer a greater penalty (vv. 30–31).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:35 He will accept no compensation. The offended husband will not be satisfied until you (that is, the son being addressed, vv. 20–25) have paid the full penalty.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:4 Sister in ancient texts sometimes refers to one's wife, as in Song 5:1. Thus, the idea may be that one should commit himself to Wisdom, rather than the adulteress, as his intended companion.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:6–9 The simple and the young stumble into adultery by putting themselves in the wrong place (v. 8) at the wrong time (v. 9). This is in contrast to the clear instruction of 5:8 to "keep your way from her, and do not go near the door of her house."

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:11–12 The woman is described in terms similar to Wisdom, who cried aloud in the streets and markets (see 1:20–21). But these are the actions of the woman Folly (see 9:13–18). Her actions (loud, wayward, in the street, in the market) show that she has a deceptive heart.

FACT

The simple person (7:7) is one of the primary character types described in the book of Proverbs. The term describes someone who is immature and easily misled (14:15).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:13–20 The woman tries many things to appeal to the young man. She kisses him boldly in public. She flatters him into thinking he is someone special (to meet you, to seek you eagerly, v. 15). She promises sensual delights (vv. 16–18) and assures him that their affair will not be discovered (her husband will not be back anytime soon, vv. 19–20).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:24–25 The narrative of the fool and the trap are meant to instill in the sons the good sense to keep far from such ways or paths. Such caution is learned by obeying the father's commandments (v. 4). Wisdom will keep them from wayward women (v. 5).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:26–27 The woman promises immediate pleasure, but such pleasure leads to the chambers of death.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:5 simple . . . fools. For these terms see Introduction: Reading Proverbs. Though such people have not embraced the covenant, they are still invited to do so.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:6–9 Wisdom describes the character of her speech (noble things, right, righteous, nothing twisted or crooked) in contrast to the speech of the forbidden woman (see 2:16; 5:3; 6:24; 7:5) and of those who use their words for wicked purposes (e.g., the one who causes discord, 6:12, 19).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:13 Describing what wisdom hates calls a person to examine his or her heart, to guard it from such things, and to practice what the Lord loves (compare 6:12–19).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:14–16 Wisdom can give the simple person the same insight used by kings and rulers when they govern nations justly.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:18–21 Within a just society, the wise person will often enjoy riches and honor. But wisdom gives something even greater: an enduring wealth and righteousness, a fruit that is better than gold and silver, and an abundant inheritance. These represent favor from the Lord (see v. 35).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:22–31 the first of his acts of old (v. 22). Wisdom was present with God when he created the world. Wisdom was daily his delight (v. 30; see also 3:19–20). God offers this deep wisdom to the faithful; they may have insight into how the created world works.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:32–36 O sons draws together all of Wisdom’s paternal appeals to highlight the benefits of wisdom for faithful covenant living. all who hate me love death. Those who practice what wisdom hates (see v. 13) show that they are on the way that leads not to life and favor but to injury and death.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:1 The image of Wisdom’s house is of a noble lady inviting people to a great feast. Seven pillars suggests that the house is large; it could also symbolize perfection.

FACT

The fact that the house of Wisdom has seven pillars (9:1) could signify perfection. Or, it could simply mean that Wisdom’s house is large and impressive.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:4–6 let him (who is simple) turn in here. Compare the invitation in 8:5. Leave your simple ways. Wisdom calls the simple to her feast so that they may become wise. Folly, in contrast, calls the simple to learn the way of foolishness.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:7–9 The person who desires to be wise must consider how his heart responds to wise correction (see v. 12). In order to be wise with others, he must have the good sense to observe other people's actions. The wise or righteous person becomes still wiser, and will increase in learning, through correction.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:10 The fear of the LORD. This verse, together with 1:7, states the theme for all the appeals to wisdom throughout 1:1–9:18.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:12 for yourself . . . you alone. Each person is responsible to either accept or reject Wisdom's call.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:18 The first major section of Proverbs (1:8–9:18) closes with a reminder that, although the one who heeds Folly's call does not know it, her way ends in spiritual death (compare 7:27; 8:36). He refers to anyone who turns aside and follows the woman Folly (see 9:13).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:1–22:16 Proverbs of Solomon. Here begins what may be called the "proverbs proper." They are short, individual sayings, in contrast to the longer wisdom poems of chs. 1–9. Often, however, individual proverbs are grouped together into small collections which give the reader a more complete understanding of a given topic.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:1–5 These proverbs encourage working in a righteous way. They discourage acquiring treasures by unjust means (v. 2a) or wasting one's wealth by sloth (vv. 4–5). God's people can live in this way because the LORD does not let the righteous go hungry. They trust God to provide for them, and they do not waste his resources (v. 3; see note on v. 4).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:1 This verse introduces the proverbs of 10:1–22:16 by echoing the previous chapters' appeals of a father and mother to be a wise son. This should remind the reader that the instruction of 1:1–9:18 is essential for a proper understanding of the proverbs that will follow.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:4 makes rich. See v. 22a. The diligent is another name applied to the wise (see Introduction: Reading Proverbs). The gift of persistence is the Lord's primary means of providing for his people's material needs (see v. 3). The contrasts of vv. 6–32 further indicate that an attitude of diligence comes from "the fear of the LORD" (v. 27).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:6–11 Neither the blessings . . . on the head of the righteous nor the violence that is hidden by the mouth of the wicked are necessarily obvious to an observer who sees only external facts (v. 6). However, the one who is wise of heart (v. 8a) will walk securely (v. 9a), whereas the fool (vv. 8b, 10) who makes his ways crooked (v. 9b) will come to ruin (vv. 8b, 10b).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:12 The wicked are described as concealing violence (vv. 6b, 11b) or hatred (vv. 12a, 18a). They deceive others for their own sinful purposes. The one who is wise seeks the good of others even when he or she is the offended party: love covers all offenses (the Hebrew verb translated here as "covers" is translated "conceal" in vv. 6b, 11b, 18a). Compare Matt. 5:44; 1 Pet. 4:8.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:15 The proverb reflects on the benefit of wealth and the harmful effect of poverty. Wealth can be like a strong city, providing safety, resources, and protection against misfortune. Poverty leads to difficulty and thus should not be embraced out of laziness or romanticism.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:22 This verse, at the center of vv. 12–32, teaches an important truth about both the source and the nature of wealth. Since it is the blessing of the LORD that makes rich, one must seek wealth through righteous means. A person's hope should come not from material things but from the Lord who provides (see vv. 23–30). he adds no sorrow with it. When the Lord gives material blessing, he gives it freely and with joy.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:27 As a general rule, the fear of the LORD prolongs life because of the Lord's blessing (compare 9:11; Deut. 5:16).

Likewise, as a general rule, the years of the wicked will be short, whether because the Lord brings about premature death as a judgment or because sinful patterns destroy physical health and peace of mind.

FACT

Vinegar (10:26) is wine that has soured. Though generally made from grapes, vinegar can be made with many different fruits. It was often used for seasoning food and bread (Ruth 2:14).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:30 The phrases will never be removed and will not dwell indicate that the land here refers to the promised end of the righteous path (see note on 2:21–22).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:31–32 The repetition of the mouth of the righteous (see v. 11a) and the mouth of the wicked (see vv. 6b, 11b) acts as a frame around vv. 6–32. Verses 31–32 conclude the chapter by drawing the contrast into focus: The perverse tongue shows the state of the person's heart (see the related contrast of v. 20). The fact that it will be cut off indicates that what the wicked have hidden in their speech (violence, vv. 6b, 11b; hatred, v. 18a) has ruined them from the inside out. By contrast, the mouth and lips of the righteous reveal a heart that brings forth wisdom, which is a blessing to themselves and others (see vv. 11a, 21a).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:1–8 These proverbs focus on matters of financial and personal security.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:1–4 These verses form a unit, with vv. 1 and 4 answering each other as vv. 2 and 3 parallel each other. The false balance with which a wicked man increases his income is contrasted with a just weight. The riches of the wicked will not save them, but righteousness will. The violation of fair standards is not worth the immediate gain it may offer.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:1 A false balance refers to deception by altering the scale used to measure the quantity of an item being bought or sold (compare 16:11; 20:10, 23; Lev. 19:35–36; Ezek. 45:9–12; Amos 8:5).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:5–6 These two verses parallel each other (the righteousness of the blameless/upright). They emphasize a common theme of the section: the faithfulness of righteous people guides (vv. 3a, 5a) and delivers (vv. 4b, 6a, 8a, 9b) them from the fate of the wicked.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:7–8 The expectation and hope provided by wealth will be useless when the wicked dies. Proverbs contrasts this sad outcome with the hope of the righteous (see 10:28). It assures those who fear the Lord that their pursuit of wisdom will not be in vain (see 23:18; 24:14).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:9 by knowledge the righteous are delivered. In Proverbs, "knowledge" usually means knowledge of God and of his will. Even when slandered, the righteous person knows how to conduct himself rightly.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:12 A man of understanding remains silent rather than spreading harmful information that he knows about his neighbor.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:15 To put up security is equivalent to cosigning for a loan (see note on 6:1–5). To do so on behalf of a stranger is not wise. Striking hands most likely refers to some kind of gesture used to seal such a deal, similar to a handshake.

FACT

A different kind of security. In biblical times, if a person was unable to pay his debt, the consequences could be serious. The whole family could be sold into slavery. If someone put up "security" for another person, he promised to pay that person's debt if he was unable to do so himself. Proverbs teaches that putting up security for another person is generally unwise, since those who do so risk losing everything if the other person cannot pay his debt (11:15).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:16–21 These three pairs of proverbs (vv. 16–17, 18–19, 20–21) relate to a common theme. The gracious woman (v. 16) and the man who is kind (v. 17) contrast with violent men (v. 16) and the cruel man (v. 17). The violent gain no happiness from their wealth, which has come at a high price.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:23–31 The ultimate destinies of the wicked and the righteous (e.g., vv. 23 and 31) are reflected in their actions (v. 27) and are suggested in the response of those affected by such actions (v. 26). The particular actions in focus are the way a person relates to provisions and people (vv. 24–26, 28).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:24 Because there is a God who blesses generosity and withholds blessing from the greedy, this paradoxical proverb makes perfect sense.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:30 The life of the righteous produces fruit that is so attractive that it captures the souls of people who are on the wrong path (compare Dan. 12:3; James 5:20).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:1–4 These verses begin by encouraging the reader to be one who loves discipline and not one who hates reproof or moral correction. Such an attitude produces a life that will never be moved.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:4 crown. A woman of good character helps her husband live faithfully and brings him visible public honor. excellent wife. See ch. 31.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:5–7 These three proverbs are united by the word pairs righteous/wicked, wicked/upright, and wicked/righteous. The proverbs progress from righteous counsel vs. wicked counsel (v. 5), to treachery vs. deliverance (v. 6), and finally to the destruction of the wicked vs. the stability of the righteous (v. 7).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:9–11 These sayings about ordinary workers illustrate either the “good sense” or the “twisted mind” of v. 8. Lack bread is paralleled by lacks sense. The righteous person cares even for his animals (v. 10a) and provides for his household by a sensible perspective on life (v. 9a) and sensible labors (v. 11a). By contrast, he who follows worthless pursuits (such as get-rich-quick schemes or gambling) lacks sense and will probably end up in poverty (compare 28:19).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:12–14 One who covets illegitimate spoil will be trapped by his own transgression. In contrast, the labor of the righteous takes root, bears fruit, and leads in a path that ultimately escapes from trouble.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:15 The person who is right (or wise) in his own eyes sees no need to seek instruction or counsel from others. He is unwilling to listen to correction.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:16–23 The fool's perspective of being "right in his own eyes" (v. 15) is illustrated in his speech, which is contrasted with that of the wise.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:18 The normal speech pattern of some people is constantly to accuse, belittle, manipulate, mock, insult, or condemn. Their rash words hurt other people and feel like sword thrusts. This is the opposite of the way of wisdom taught in Proverbs, for the tongue of the wise brings healing (compare Eph. 4:29).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:1–6 The present section of Proverbs (10:1–22:16) began with a call to be a wise son (compare 10:1). This present sub-section (13:1–6) uses word play (compare 10:6–32) relating to speech (hears/listen, 13:1; mouth, vv. 2–3; lips, v. 3; falsehood, v. 5) and eating or desire (eats, v. 2; desire, v. 2; craves and richly supplied, v. 4). Those who seek to guard their mouth (v. 3) through righteousness (v. 6) are assured that such a path will have a positive impact on their heart and actions.

FACT

What is an "abomination"? When the Bible refers to something as an "abomination" (12:22), it means that it is repulsive or detestable to the Lord. Things that are an abomination are contrary to the will of God and his commandments.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:9 The images of light and lamp refer to a person's joy, energy, and visible success in life, all of which cause the righteous to rejoice. For the wicked, this light will be put out. This may also imply the actual end of life for the wicked (compare 24:20).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:11 Wealth gained hastily will dwindle. The person who receives sudden wealth has not worked for it enough to understand its value and has not gained sufficient skill in managing it (see 28:20). By contrast, Proverbs prefers diligent, patient, careful labor that will increase wealth over time.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:22–25 Walking with the wise (see vv. 20–21) includes caring for children by providing both a material inheritance and moral discipline.

FACT

What does it mean to be prudent? The "prudent" person (13:16) is one who uses good sense. A prudent person carefully thinks through situations and their possible consequences and acts accordingly. Prudence also involves carefully managing resources so that one has what is needed in the future.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:23 The causes of poverty are complex. It can be caused by injustice and oppression (as here; compare 22:16; 28:3, 15); by laziness (6:9–11; 28:19); by God's punishment on wickedness (10:2–3; 13:25); or by his mysterious providence (e.g., 22:2).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:24 Physical discipline is a common theme in Proverbs (e.g., 10:13; 17:10; 22:15; 23:13–24; 29:15). It is viewed as an important part of training of a child: to teach him to avoid wrong behavior, to embrace what is right, and to build godly character. See Heb. 12:5–11.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:1–3 The benefits of the sensible labor of the wisest of women and the careful speech of the wise are contrasted with the harmful effects of the acts of folly and the words of the fool. with her own hands tears it down. Sinful people sometimes foolishly destroy the results of many years' work.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:4 If the strength of the ox is the means for plowing the ground to produce abundant crops, then protecting oxen in a stable is a necessary part of the labor, even though it involves the unpleasant work of cleaning the stable. An empty stable may be clean (thus not requiring any unpleasant work), but it won't produce any abundance.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:5–7 A person's character is shown through his speech.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:8–15 This section begins and ends with contrasts between the prudent (vv. 8a, 15b) and fools and the simple (vv. 8b, 15a). A person's conduct in life always has consequences.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:9 guilt offering. See Lev. 5:14–6:7. The upright finds acceptance from the Lord because his sacrifice was sincerely given (see Lev. 1:3–4).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:20 The poor is disliked is an observation on how the world works, not an endorsement of such an attitude (see v. 21; and note on 10:15).

FACT

Tents were the most common type of housing in biblical times, as is the case in some parts of the world today. The simple structure and sparse furnishings made them easy to move from place to place. Tents were made by setting poles in the ground, then stretching animal skin or cloth over the poles. Curtains could be used inside the tent to divide it into rooms. Mats often covered the floor, with an open area left in the middle for building a fire.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:21 Proverbs commends being generous to the poor, particularly those among God's people (see 19:17; 21:13; 31:20; see Deut. 15:7–11).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:24 The phrase the folly of fools brings folly appropriately captures the continuous nature of the foolish path. See v. 8; 16:22.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:26–27 The fear of the LORD brings the confidence of lasting security (v. 26) and molds a person's character to follow the right path (v. 27).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:27 The fear of the LORD is a fountain of life. The “teaching of the wise” is also called a “fountain of life” in an otherwise identical proverb (13:14).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:28–35 Verses 28 and 35, both of which concern a king, provide a frame for this paragraph. A person must rule his heart with wisdom (vv. 29–30, 33). He must understand that all are under a higher sovereign (v. 31). And he must have confidence that the wicked, however powerful they are, will be removed (v. 32).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:34 Righteousness exalts a nation. Morally righteous behavior has far-reaching effects, especially when rulers make fair laws and show concern for their people.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:1–17 This is a series of proverbs dealing primarily with speech, submission to instruction, and God’s providence.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:1–2, 4 Harsh word is literally “word of pain,” that is, a word that is hurtful. Words wisely chosen promote peace rather than anger, they instruct by example (v. 2), and they encourage rather than discourage (v. 4).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:3 The eyes of the LORD is a major theme in Proverbs. The Lord knows the actions and hearts of all. He is neither pleased with nor fooled by one who offers sacrifices while continuing in the way of wickedness (see vv. 8–9, 11, 26, 29).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:5 The description of a fool who despises his father’s instruction mirrors that of the foolish man who “despises his mother” (v. 20). In Proverbs, the way a person responds to wise parental instruction is an indication of whether he or she will follow the path of wisdom or the way of folly (see 1:8; 4:1; 6:20; 13:1). Note also the references in ch. 15 to how a person responds to reproof (vv. 5, 10, 12, 31, 32).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:8–9 The sacrifice of the wicked is meaningless. By contrast, the prayer of the upright, as a part of a life that pursues righteousness, is pleasing to the Lord (see also vv. 26, 29; 21:3, 27; 28:9).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:13–15 These proverbs focus on the heart. A cheerful face indicates a positive attitude toward life. Such a person has inner joy (v. 15b). But circumstances can rob a person of this joy (vv. 13b, 15a). The key to regaining a joyful heart is in v. 14: seek knowledge.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:16–17 These verses show how to develop the kind of heart described in vv. 13–15. One who "seeks knowledge" (v. 14) recognizes that contentment is found not primarily in external circumstances but in a life governed by the fear of the Lord.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:19 The life of the sluggard is like a hedge of thorns. It is filled with one difficulty after another.

FACT

Thorns grew abundantly in the lands of the Bible (15:19). In both the OT and NT, thorns were used as instruments of torture and punishment. During the crucifixion, Roman soldiers mocked Jesus by placing a crown made from thorns on his head (Matt. 27:29).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:20 On the fool who despises his mother, see the complementary proverb of v. 5.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:25–33 These proverbs begin and end with a contrast: the Lord opposes the proud (v. 25) but is near those who act in humility that comes from the fear of the Lord (v. 33). Verses 24–32 expand on this by illustrating the pride of the wicked and the humility of the righteous. At the center of this section is the reminder that the Lord is far from the wicked but hears the prayer of the righteous (v. 29).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:1–9 The comparison between the plans of a man's heart (vv. 1a, 9a) and the sovereign direction of the LORD (vv. 1b, 9b) unifies this section. Verses 2–8 focus on the heart-action connection.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:6 This proverb portrays the sacrificial system, by which iniquity is atoned for, as an expression of God's steadfast love and faithfulness (see Ex. 34:6; Prov. 3:3; 14:22; 20:28). The right response is the fear of the LORD, by which one turns away from doing evil (compare 3:7; 14:16; Job 1:1; Ps. 34:14). The Bible consistently presents the effort to behave morally as the right response to God's grace.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:10–33 The remaining sections of ch. 16 illustrate the benefits of wisdom for the well-being of the heart (vv. 16–19, 20–24, 25–33).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:10–15 These verses concern the king, who is mentioned in all but v. 11. These proverbs represent the ideal ruler, and imply that people should have respect for their leaders.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:16–19 The "better" sayings of vv. 16 and 19 value wisdom over gold and humility with the poor over spoil with the proud. The middle verses offer guidance on how to continue in the way of the wise (v. 17) and humble (v. 18). For similar statements of what the wise person should value, see 15:16–17; 16:8; 19:1, 22; 28:6.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:20–24 These verses commend the kind of speech that is typical of those who are wise of heart.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:25–32 a way that seems right . . . but. People often have the wrong idea about what is good and what is bad. Hunger seems a bad thing, but it forces people to work and keeps them from idleness (v. 26). Gray hair seems to be a mark of decline but actually is a crown of glory (v. 31; compare 20:29). Finally, a mighty warrior seems to be the strongest man of all, but in reality a man who can control himself is stronger than a conqueror (16:32).

FACT

The fountains of ancient Israel (16:22) were not the decorative kind seen today. A fountain was a natural spring-fed pool and was considered a treasure in the arid climate. Cities were often built around such water sources.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:1 A poor but loving home is better than a home filled with feasting and strife (see 5:17).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:3 Crucible and furnace suggest that the LORD tests hearts through difficulties.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:8 A bribe is like a magic stone . . . prospers. The writer observes that those who offer bribes often get what they want, but he does not condone such actions (compare note on 14:20). The wise person will ponder this reality and recognize it as a temptation.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:9–19 These verses include two collections of proverbs (vv. 9–13 and vv. 14–19) on the theme of interpersonal conflict.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:9–13 This section begins by stressing the importance of friends forgiving one another (v. 9). It then notes the wisdom of accepting friendly correction (v. 10). It concludes with statements about the dangerous effects of constant rebellion against God (v. 11–13).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:14 This verse advises the reader to either avoid or resolve conflict before control is lost. like letting out water. Once a dam has been breached, there is no holding back the water—an appropriate image for the rapid and damaging escalation of a quarrel.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:18 pledge . . . security. See note on 6:1–5.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:19 Transgression and strife go together (see v. 14). Transgression is in the heart of the person who loves strife and is unwilling to “quit before the quarrel breaks out” (see v. 14). Such a person is characterized by pride and arrogance (makes his door high). While he aims to ruin others, in reality he is achieving his own destruction.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:23–26 Verses 23 and 26 speak of justice being thwarted. Verse 24 speaks of the fool who wastes his life chasing unattainable goals (the ends of the earth), and v. 25 speaks of the fool who causes distress for his parents. Folly and injustice both fill life with grief and irritation.

FACT

A bribe is anything that is given with the intent of persuading someone to act in a person's favor. Bribes were forbidden in Ex. 23:8. The poor often lost their cases in court because they could not afford to bribe the judge (Prov. 17:23).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:25 The picture of a foolish son grieving the mother who bore him expands on v. 21 (see also 15:5, 20; 23:22–25). Such images should encourage both children and parents to seek the benefits of wisdom.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:27–18:4 This section begins and ends with proverbs on the careful, restrained use of words (17:27; 18:4).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:5–8 These verses concern the consequences of misusing words. Verses 6 and 7 obviously parallel each other. Gossip and lying can lead to a breakdown of the legal system (v. 5).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:9–12 Verses 10 and 11 describe two types of security: the LORD and riches. Verses 9 and 12 describe two things that bring about one's destruction: laziness and pride. Taken together, these proverbs teach that riches can give a false sense of security that leads to laziness, pride, and eventually one's downfall. On the other hand, humility and the fear of God is a great benefit.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:15–19 These proverbs can apply to many settings. Here they seem focused on the courtroom. A judge must have an intelligent heart in order to acquire knowledge about a case (v. 15). A man's gift (a bribe) interferes with justice, because it gives access to powerful people (v. 16). Wise judges hear all relevant testimony (vv. 15, 17). They let the Lord settle cases that seem unsolvable (v. 18). They realize that family disputes can often be vicious (v. 19).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:18 On whether Christians should cast lots, see note on Acts 1:26.

FACT

Casting lots. Though quarrels were often settled by a judge’s decision, sometimes there was not enough evidence to reach a verdict. In such cases, the parties involved might cast lots, trusting that the Lord himself would decide the result (18:18). Lots were like the dice used in various games today.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:22 This verse refers to both the human action (finds) and the divine governance (from the LORD) that results in a marriage. The description of the wife as good agrees with the Lord’s assessment that it was “not good” for Adam to be alone (Gen. 2:18).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:23–19:4 These proverbs observe misfortune from various angles.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:2 Whoever makes haste with his feet likely refers to an impulsive person who acts without thinking or planning. He has a desire to get somewhere but does not have sufficient knowledge to reach his goal.

Some Essential Features of a Good Life (Proverbs 19)

listen to instruction	vv. 16, 20
be kind to the poor	v. 17
be involved in your children’s lives and discipline them	v. 18
avoid friendships with those who lack self-control	v. 19 acknowledge the rule of God	v. 21 understand that love and integrity are what bring real happiness	v. 22
fear the Lord	v. 23

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:5–9 Verses 5 and 9 begin and end this section with virtually identical wording. Verse 5 stresses the importance of honest testimony (for more on the dangers of the false witness, see 6:19; 12:17; 14:5). In this context, which focuses on poverty and misfortune, “false witness" could relate either to those who exploit the poor in the courts or to poor people who give false testimony in return for money.

A false witnesses is someone who testifies dishonestly against another person (19:5).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:11 In many cultures, any sign of disrespect challenges a man's honor. He can defend it only by fighting the person who insults him. Overlooking such disrespect brings honor to a man.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:12 The growling of a lion is frightening and precedes an act of violence. Dew is gentle and gives life. The proverb does not say that a king's anger (or favor) is always right, but that it is powerful.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:13–14 Verse 13 balances v. 14 by recognizing that family life can be painful. Some wives are a great burden to their husbands, and some husbands are a great burden to their wives (see 21:9). continual dripping. This is not a minor irritation but a source of structural damage that can ruin a house. House and wealth may be inherited from fathers and can come to many people, but a prudent wife is a gift from the LORD.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:15 Slothfulness casts into a deep sleep. The lazy person is always too tired to work. Then his laziness grows until he is in dire poverty. See v. 24.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:25 The simple learn by seeing someone else receive a beating, but the wise learn from a simple word of correction. Notably, although the simple can learn prudence, the scoffer does not have this teachable spirit. (For the difference between the "simple" and the "scoffer" or "fool," see Introduction: Reading Proverbs.)

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:2 The first line of this proverb is almost identical to 19:12a. But 19:12b speaks of the king's favor, while 20:2b speaks only of his anger. The text does not say that a king's anger is always justified, only that it is lethal. Therefore, one should take care.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:8–12 This catalog of proverbs looks at judgment from various angles. The purpose of a king, representing human government, is to restrain evil through acts of judgment (v. 8). Awareness of one's own guilt should make one merciful in judging others (v. 9). Scales (commercial tools that are often used as symbols of judgment) should be fair, balanced, and impartial (v. 10; see 11:1). People's actions show what they are, and this applies even to children (20:11). As God made both the eye and the ear, he knows best how to assess a person or situation. His judgment will be final and decisive (v. 12). Sometimes these proverbs balance one another: God's people need to be forgiving, but they also need to be able to judge good and evil in others.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:8 winnows all evil. That is, he sorts and separates it out, and then removes it.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:13–17 These proverbs all relate to wealth. Laziness leads to poverty (v. 13). People will set a value on something as it suits them (v. 14). Wisdom is better than wealth (v. 15). One should not trust a man who gets involved in foolish debts (v. 16). The pleasures that come from dishonest gain are brief (v. 17).

FACT

Unequal weights. The price for some goods was fixed according to their weight. If the seller's scales were unequal (20:23), the buyer could be charged far more than the fair price of the goods.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:20–21 The person who despises parental authority will eventually face utter darkness (compare Ex. 20:12). An inheritance gained hastily in the beginning. Too much wealth given too soon is often spent greedily, and so it does not last (see note on Prov. 13:11). In Israel, land was given as an inheritance for the continued welfare of the family (see 13:22), not to use simply for one's personal pleasure.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:22–25 These four proverbs teach that God, not people (v. 22), is the judge and avenger. He detests all unfair bias in human judgment, as represented by uneven scales. Verse 24 emphasizes the mystery of divine sovereignty (see Ps. 37:23; Jer. 10:23). A person makes his own decisions and is responsible for them, but it is also true that God directs the steps of each.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:26–27 Drives the wheel over them refers to a heavy cart being drawn over the grain to separate the wheat from the chaff. For the health of his kingdom, a wise king must root out evildoers. The king can only use exterior acts to judge a person. God, by contrast, sees the innermost parts (see 1 Sam. 16:7). God's judgment is thus more fair and more effective.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:28 God's steadfast love and faithfulness was the foundation of the Davidic dynasty (1 Kings 3:6; 8:23; Ps. 89:28). God's faithfulness, rather than human wisdom or power, is what will preserve the king.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:1–4 Like 20:22–25, this section has three proverbs on divine judgment followed by a fourth proverb that is related but does not explicitly mention the Lord. God is a much higher judge than the king, whom he controls.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:1 The stream of water describes water flowing through a channel or an irrigation ditch, which a skillful farmer can direct to flow wherever he wishes.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:9–19 Verses 9 and 19, on the quarrelsome wife, begin and end this unit on the rewards for the wise and the troubles of the wicked.

FACT

The concept of weighing the heart (21:2) originated in Egypt. Egyptians believed that when a person died, the gods placed that person's heart on a set of golden scales along with the Feather of Truth. If the heart weighed less than the feather, the person was admitted into the afterlife. It is possible that the Israelites brought this imagery with them when they left Egypt and replaced the Egyptian gods with Yahweh, who is the true judge of the heart.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:10–13 Just as the wicked offers no mercy to his neighbor, so his own pleas for help will . . . not be answered. God both knows and judges the wicked (v. 12).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:15–18 When justice is practiced, it is a joy for those who have walked in its ways and a terror to those who have perverted it (v. 15).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:17 This proverb does not imply that pleasure or wine or oil are wrong in themselves. However, when they are enjoyed apart from thanksgiving to God, or enjoyed more than following in God's paths, and thus to excess, they will destroy a person's life.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:20–22:1 Wisdom can enable a person to achieve prosperity, but one should always pursue a good name more than riches. Having a "good name" means being regarded as righteous and kind.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:25–26 Laziness leads to constant greed and craving. The diligence of the righteous allows them to be generous (see note on 10:4).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:29 The wicked man changes his behavior depending on the situation (puts on a bold face). In contrast, the upright person thinks about his ways and chooses the right way regardless of the circumstances.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:6 Train up a child. This proverb, founded on the covenant with Abraham (see Gen. 18:19), encourages parents to guide their children in the way (the right moral orientation). It points out the kinds of conduct that please or displease the Lord.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:7–9 The rich . . . lender who rules the poor . . . borrower is seen in contrast to the bountiful person who shares with the poor. Between these two, v. 8 describes the powerful man who will come to ruin.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:10–11 The scoffer, who will be driven out, is contrasted with the person of pure heart and gracious speech, who will be welcomed by the king.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:14 The forbidden woman is a deep pit—something from which a man cannot escape by himself. She ruins him financially, and probably in other ways relating to health, strength, relationships, and above all the man’s relationship to God. She is thus a means God uses to punish the wicked.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:17–24:22 The Thirty Sayings of “the Wise.” This section easily divides into 30 distinct teachings, as indicated in 22:20. These reflect an awareness of the Egyptian wisdom text, The Instruction of Amenemope, dated to about 1250 B.C. The most significant difference between the two is the devotion to the Lord exhibited in Proverbs. The identity of “the wise” (22:17) is unknown. Perhaps they are the scholars who assembled these proverbs (possibly under Solomon’s sponsorship).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:22 crush the afflicted at the gate. The gate was the place of legal transactions. One should not use the courts to take the property of the poor.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:28 The landmark was the boundary stone for a piece of property (Deut. 19:14). To move it was to steal a man’s land as well as his ancestral heritage.

FACT

Landmarks (22:28) were boundary stones placed on each corner of a person’s property to show where it began and ended.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:1–3 The rich host may be using his wealth to manipulate his less-wealthy guests to do his bidding. His hospitality is deceptive.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:4–5 The workaholic is encouraged to be discerning enough to desist in his pursuit of wealth. suddenly it sprouts wings. Wealth is fleeting; there should come a point where a person decides he has enough, and that he will devote some of his time and effort to activities that bring no financial reward. See also note on 8:18–21.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:10–11 The Redeemer of the fatherless is the Lord himself (see Ps. 19:14; 119:154). He is perhaps portrayed here as the near kin (Lev. 25:23–25; Introduction to Ruth: Key Themes, “Redemption”).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:12 Wisdom cannot be acquired without determination.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:13–14 This saying clearly affirms the place of corporal punishment in child rearing. The father punishes in this way to teach the child, not to vent his anger. The goal of such discipline is developing the child’s character. In these verses, he will not die and you will save his soul from Sheol are parallel ideas. Sheol here is the place where the ungodly go after death (see Ps. 49:14; note on Prov. 7:26–27). Discipline equips the child to continue in the way of eternal life.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:17–18 Instead of envying those who ignore God’s way, pleasing the Lord should be the believer’s top priority (v. 17). Such a path is the only true hope for a future (see 24:14, 20; Ps. 37:9–11, 34, 37–38).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:26–28 The phrase give me your heart should guide parents in their task of child rearing. Their goal must be the deepest source of the child’s thoughts, words, and actions. observe my ways. Parents must live as an example of virtue for their children. In particular, the parent reminds the child to avoid a prostitute and an adulteress. Such persons are as deceitful as a robber. They lead one to betray their family (v. 28).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:33–34 Your eyes will see strange things. A drunken person cannot perceive the cause-and-effect connections of events. On the top of a mast is a picture of instability.

FACT

Mixed wine. Since the process of distillation had not yet been invented, the wine of ancient Palestine had a low alcoholic content. Sometimes, people added various herbs and spices to the wine to increase its potency. The drunkenness described in 23:29–35 could have been caused by drinking such “mixed wine” (v. 30).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:1–2 The young man’s friends can be the greatest threat to his moral life (see 23:17).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:3–4 The images of wisdom’s benefits (a house . . . built, established, and filled) include material provision in addition to a blessed family life. These are received by wisdom, understanding, and knowledge, which stem from the fear of the Lord. One’s priority should always be pursuing wisdom rather than riches.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:5–6 Wisdom is the source of true strength. Strength and might apart from wisdom will be ineffective. Wise guidance obtained from an abundance of counselors is the key to victory in any circumstance.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:7 Other proverbs indicate that the fool can never stop talking (e.g., 10:19; 13:3). The point here is that he is at a loss when a situation calls for serious thought.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:11–12 The one who embraces wisdom can never be content with merely seeking the well-being of himself or his family; he will seek justice as widely as he can.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:13–14 Just as honey is sweet to the taste and good for the body, so wisdom is pleasant to the soul that feeds on it (see v. 20; see note on 23:17–18).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:15–16 This warns against joining the wicked in injustice. Acting this way forms a person’s character in a way that will be unhelpful in calamity.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:17–18 Do not rejoice reflects the heart of God, who has no pleasure in the death of the wicked (see note on Ezek. 33:11).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:19–20 See Ps. 37:1.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:21–22 Both God and the Davidic king appear in Proverbs as agents of wrath (see 14:35; 16:10–15; 19:12; 20:2). The young man should respect authority, both human and divine.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:23–34 Further Sayings of "the Wise." (See note on 22:17–24:22.) These sayings are grouped in a parallel fashion, as follows:

A: justice in court (vv. 23–26)
  B: economy lesson for the home (v. 27)
A′: justice in court (vv. 28–29)
  B′: economy lesson for the home (vv. 30–34)

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:26 The Hebrew phrase translated kisses the lips means that an honest answer treats the other person with both respect and affection. Note the appeals to honest speech in the surrounding text (vv. 23–25, 28–29).

FACT

The phrase kisses the lips in 24:26 probably has more to do with respect and friendly affection than with any idea of romance. The proverb teaches that speaking honestly to a person is one way of showing respect and affection.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:30–34 These verses illustrate how proverbs are applied. Upon walking by a field and vineyard that has fallen into ruin through laziness (vv. 30–31), the observer rightly recognizes (v. 32) that the wise instruction he has heard about the sluggard applies to this situation (vv. 33–34 are identical to 6:10–11). Both the observer and the reader are encouraged to believe that ongoing labor is a part of the path of wisdom.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:1–29:27 Hezekiah's Collection of Solomonic Proverbs. The present form of the book of Proverbs came into existence, at earliest, in the reign of Hezekiah (reigned 715–686 B.C.; see Introduction:

Author and Date). Hezekiah is credited with reviving Judah's religious traditions (2 Kings 18:3–7). A new, expanded edition of Solomonic proverbs was apparently part of that revival.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:2–3 God is greater than human beings. He deserves fame, or glory, because he knows things mere humans cannot know (Deut. 29:29). Kings deserve glory for searching for as many answers as possible (Prov. 25:2). But just as no king may know God's mind completely, no other human can know a king's mind completely (v. 3). God and human rulers are both mysterious in their own way.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:4–5 take away the wicked from the presence of the king. The close advisers of a ruler must be chosen with careful attention to their moral character (see 13:20).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:6–7b These verses encourage proper humility (see Luke 14:7–11).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:7c–10 This section encourages working out conflict with a neighbor rather than presenting a case in court or reporting a grievance to others (vv. 9b–10). See notes on Matt. 5:25–26; 18:15–20.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:13 The time of harvest for the various crops in ancient Israel ran from June through September, and the heat could be withering. At such a time, the cold of snow—however it was brought—would refresh the workers. A literal snowfall is probably not in view, as that could have been a catastrophe; see 26:1.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:16–17 In context, v. 16 is a metaphor leading into v. 17. One's presence, even though it may be pleasant, may last too long.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:20 This verse gives three examples of using the wrong solution to a problem.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:21–22 The image of burning coals on the enemy's head does not imply doing something that harms the enemy, because the phrase further explains the bread and drink, which do him good. Also, the LORD will reward you implies a good result from these "burning coals," which is most consistent with leading the person to repentance for his or her earlier hostility.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:23 The north wind is not the usual source of rain in Palestine. When it is, it brings unexpected and damaging rain. This is like a backbiting tongue, which brings sudden anger and damage.

FACT

Rains from the north. In Palestine, winds from the north usually bring good weather. When the north wind brings rain, as in 25:23, the rain can be sudden and damaging. Thus it is compared here to a “backbiting tongue.”

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:28–26:12 All of these proverbs focus on the fool.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:28 Self-control relates to the passions (such as anger or love), the desires (for food, sex, etc.), and the will (as illustrated by impulsive decisions). Lack of self-control is a mark of a fool. He is like a city . . . left without walls, that is, with no means of defense against enemies.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:4–5 At first these verses seem to contradict each other. But the fact that they are grouped together shows they do not. Rather, they cover two situations. The reader must determine when it is best to answer not a fool (ignore him) and when to answer him. He must be answered if silence would cause harm to the fool or to others.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:12 Even more hopeless than the situation of the fool (vv. 1–11) is the situation of the stubbornly unteachable person, who is wise in his own eyes (see v. 5).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:13–16 These proverbs focus on the sluggard. He looks ridiculous in his laziness (vv. 13–15) even while considering himself wise (v. 16). In fearing the lion (v. 13), he uses a remote possibility of danger as an excuse for not working.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:17–22 These proverbs describe a person who uses his words carelessly.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:17 Someone who stands behind a passing dog and grabs it by the ears is temporarily safe from harm. But he is actually trapped, because the angry dog will attack him when he lets go.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:23–28 These verses concern the liar. He artfully disguises his lies, and one should take care not to be fooled by him (vv. 23–25). Eventually his lies will be exposed and he will be trapped in his own deceit (vv. 26–28).

FACT

Glazing over the truth? As in modern times, clay pottery was often glazed to improve its appearance. But glaze could also be used to hide poor craftsmanship. It is this dishonest use that is described in 26:23.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:1–2 These proverbs both concern boasting; boast and praise are different forms of the same Hebrew word. In v. 1, a person should not boast of his likely successes. In v. 2, he should not boast of himself.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:3–4 Both proverbs have the same pattern (two items mentioned for comparison's sake, followed by a single item that is worse than both of them). Together, the proverbs suggest that a fool is more unbearable than any kind of physical (stone and sand) or psychological (wrath and anger) difficulty. Jealousy, unlike ordinary anger, will not listen to the voice of reason.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:5–6 Open rebuke gives a person the chance to reflect on the course he or she is taking. Hidden love sees problems but does not try to help the person.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:7–10 Each of these four proverbs teaches an element of wisdom that stands on its own, but they have additional use when taken together. Verses 7 and 9 suggest that it is good to have friends for the occasional party, but it is better to have a friend who gives good advice. Together, vv. 8 and 10 teach that there are benefits in remaining close to family, but a person in need should not hesitate to turn to a true friend.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:11–28:1 The person who has caution and integrity will neither stumble into trouble nor fear being punished.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:15–16 In light of v. 12, these proverbs encourage a man to be careful, for a quarrelsome character would likely be evident before marriage. The fact that the husband tries but fails to restrain his wife pictures the consequences of spouses working against each other, rather than each working with and for the other (compare the contrasting description of 31:11–12, 23, 28, 31).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:19–22 Just as water reflects a person's actual appearance, so the heart reflects a person's true nature (v. 19). While a person may conceal or reveal his heart through speech and actions, only God can see its true state (see 21:2).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:2–12 Righteous individuals are essential for a just society. When many individuals are unjust, particularly those with power, all of society will suffer.

FACT

What is a crucible? In the ancient world, a crucible (27:21) was a bowl-shaped instrument used to hold metals such as gold and silver for the refining process. The crucible had to withstand the high temperatures needed to melt out the impurities within the metals. Materials such as clay or stone were used as crucibles.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:2 The many rulers may refer to the increasing number of bureaucratic officials, or to frequent changes of ruling dynasty (as in the northern kingdom of Israel), or to the breakdown of central government leading to local lords ruling. Any of these can result from the lack of moral integrity in the people, and especially in those charged with leading the land.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:5 In Proverbs, evil men are those opposed to God's will. They do not understand justice and what it requires from a government or a society. Those who seek the LORD, in contrast, should have the most accurate understanding of justice.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:9 The law is God's covenantal instruction, especially the books of Moses. The three proverbs on the law (vv. 4, 7, 9) in this section (vv. 2–12) indicate that a healthy fear of the Lord is reflected in people's respect for the law. This is the only thing that will enable people to maintain integrity.

FACT

Gluttony refers to excessive eating. The Bible condemns gluttony as well as drunkenness. Proverbs teaches that eating and drinking in excess can lead to poverty (23:19–21).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:13–14 To fear the LORD (see note on 1:7) involves confessing one's sins, rather than concealing them and hardening one's heart. Such a person receives mercy and is therefore truly happy.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:15–16 A wicked ruler is pictured as a destructive wild animal who feeds off of poor people rather than protecting and providing for them. Such a ruler is a cruel oppressor who lacks the wisdom to hate unjust gain.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:17–18 These proverbs concern being delivered from trouble. No one should assist a fugitive fleeing from justice (compare Gen. 9:6). People of integrity will get the help they need.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:19–27 These proverbs all concern the desire to secure wealth and favor for oneself. They condemn get-rich-quick schemes (vv. 19, 20; compare 13:11), chasing after wealth (28:20, 22), accepting bribes (v. 21), seeking to get ahead by flattery (v. 23), wrongfully taking a parent's money (v. 24), causing turmoil through greed (v. 25), and lacking charity (v. 27). The best way to prosperity and security is through hard work (v. 19), integrity and honesty (vv. 20, 21, 23, 24), and trusting in God and in godly wisdom (vv. 25, 26). Surprisingly, even generosity can lead to prosperity (v. 27).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:3–4 Verse 3 describes how a son may waste his inheritance, and v. 4 describes how a king can squander the kingdom that he inherited. The ruler who exacts gifts encourages a system of bribes and corruption, and so destroys his nation.

FACT

Hezekiah's contribution to Proverbs. Although most of the Proverbs were collected or written by King Solomon, who reigned from 971–931 B.C., the book of Proverbs did not exist in its present form until the time of King Hezekiah, some 200 years later. Hezekiah and "his men," probably his scribes, recorded chs. 25–29.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:7 A wicked man does not understand such knowledge because he is not truly concerned for the poor, but for himself. His declarations of concern for the poor probably have ulterior motives (see 28:5).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:12–14 A king's administration will fall apart if he follows advice from corrupt counselors (v. 12), but it will thrive if he is just to all, even the weakest in his kingdom (v. 14). The Davidic king should be the protector of his people and the example of integrity. To give light to the eyes means to give life (compare 22:2).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:15–18 Verses 15 and 17 insist that parents should teach their children. Verses 16 and 18 describe a society in upheaval. The chaos of a child outside of parental control is comparable to the chaos of a people who refuse to obey God.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:24 Companions of criminals cannot avoid getting mixed up in their crimes. The curse such a person hears is the call to testify in a criminal proceeding (see Lev. 5:1).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:25 One who acts primarily out of a fear of man shows that he does not trust the LORD to protect him.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:27 The Hezekiah collection ends with a simple truth: righteousness and evil are offensive to each other. Those who are faithful to God should not be surprised when they are hated by the wicked (compare John 15:18–20, 25; 1 John 3:12–13).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:1–33 The Sayings of Agur. The identity of Agur, son of Jakeh, is unknown. One claim is that the word translated oracle actually should be the proper name "Massa," so that v. 1 would read, "Agur son of Jakeh, the man of Massa" (see ESV footnote). If so, then it might refer to a tribe in northwest Arabia, and Agur could have been a Gentile.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:2–6 I am too stupid to be a man. Wisdom texts often begin with a teacher proclaiming that he is wise and so his words ought to be obeyed. Here, Agur does just the opposite: he confesses that he is not learned in wisdom (vv. 2–3). Agur then asks a series of rhetorical questions to show the limitations on human understanding and achievement (v. 4). Like the questions of God in Job 38–39, these questions point to things that only God can do. Silent reverence is the only proper human response (Prov. 30:6). The whole of vv. 2–6 teaches that human wisdom is limited, that the wisest people recognize their ignorance, that truth resides in the word of God, and that no one should think he is able to improve upon the wisdom that God has given.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:5–6 Every word of God proves true (compare 2 Sam. 22:31). God's words are a proven foundation for one's life. The proverb's emphasis on every "word" underscores the truthfulness, trustworthiness, and reliability of the Bible, not just in its overall message but also in every detail.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:7–9 This is the only prayer in Proverbs. Agur asks for two things. The first request (remove far from me falsehood and lying) probably implies both that he does not want to become a liar and that he does not want to have people lie to him. The second request (give me neither poverty nor riches; feed me with the food that is needful for me) expresses caution about trusting in wealth.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:15 The leech has two daughters, both named Give. The saying probably alludes to the two suckers on a leech's body. It may have been a common way to describe a selfish or demanding person.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:17 This is actually a curse. Agur obviously regards respect for parents as supremely important (see v. 11).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:18–19 The eagle, the serpent, and the ship leave no trail. The relationship of a man and a virgin, if it is chaste, likewise leaves no observable change.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:21–23 These four persons are unbearable because they have been given things they have no capacity to handle wisely. A modern example would be a person promoted above his ability level.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:29–31 The king is the main point here; the animals serve as comparisons. The lesson is that a king’s majesty is in his subjects (see 14:28).

FACT

Rock badgers are small cliff-dwelling animals closely resembling guinea pigs. They live and forage for food in large groups and are good at hiding. They are best known for posting sentries that alert the group when danger is near. Perhaps it was this mark of wisdom that earned them a mention in Proverbs (30:26).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:1–9 The Sayings of King Lemuel. The word translated “oracle” (v. 1) is the same as in 30:1. As in 30:1, some have preferred to see it as the name for a place called Massa (see note on 30:1–33). No one knows who Lemuel was, or where he was king. Most suppose that he was not an Israelite (which is consistent with the Aramaic spellings for son in 31:2 and kings in v. 3b, and with the absence of Yahweh’s name from all the sayings). Verses 2–9 describe the ideal human king: he is judicious personally (vv. 3–4) so that he may protect others through justice (vv. 5, 9) and compassion (vv. 6–8). This description runs contrary to ordinary experience, where power is often used to benefit the leader rather than those being led. If Lemuel was a ruler from outside Israel, then these verses underscore Proverbs’ teaching that all rulers are called upon to rule justly and are judged accordingly (compare Lady Wisdom's comments in 8:14–16).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:4–5 Kings should serve the well-being of their subjects, especially protecting the rights of all the afflicted. They must never allow their judgment to be clouded by wine or strong drink.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:6–7 The strong drink would help those in bitter distress to forget their poverty. This is often taken to mean that the king should provide strong drink to those who are perishing or in misery, to relieve their physical pain. But it could also mean that the king should invite these people to a banquet where they can have some innocent fun and forget their troubles for a while.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:10–31 An Alphabet of Womanly Excellence. As the ESV footnote to v. 10 explains, this wisdom poem is an acrostic. Each successive verse begins with the next letter of the Hebrew alphabet. The poem begins and ends with mention of the woman's "excellence" (vv. 10, 29–31). The probable intention of putting this in an acrostic pattern is to show that this woman's character runs the whole range of excellence. The woman is married, and she is devoted to the well-being of her household (vv. 11–13, 15, 17, 19, 21–22, 25, 27). She contributes financially to her family (vv. 14, 16, 18, 24). At the same time she makes her home the center of ministry by giving generously to the poor (v. 20) and by instructing her children and household workers in true kindness (v. 26). Her husband and children enjoy their lives and honor her for her industry (vv. 11–12, 23, 28–29). This portrait of excellence sets such a high standard that it can be depressing to godly women today until its purpose is understood. First, the woman embodies wisdom in all areas of life. This shows that the teaching of Proverbs is intended for all of God's people. Second, this profile is an ideal. It is not expected that any one woman will look exactly like this in every way. Rather, it is an example of full-scale virtue and wisdom toward which the faithful are willing to be molded.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:15 By providing for her household and her maidens before the day begins, the "excellent wife" (v. 10) multiplies the effectiveness of her work. Her planning enables everyone else in her household to be productive throughout the day. She does not lie in bed and wait for servants to attend to her.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:16 She is not confined to the home but is engaged in business. This verse demonstrates remarkable financial independence for a woman in the ancient world. She herself considers a field (indicating wise judgment) and buys it (indicating control of a substantial amount of money).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:18 Profitable indicates that she is able to make money from her labor, which she uses to purchase a field (v. 16) and provide for her household (v. 15).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:23 Gates were the center of civic and economic life in an Israelite city. The leading men gathered there. The wife's excellent work and noble character have contributed significantly to her husband's success and reputation when he sits among the elders of the land.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:25 Strength and dignity are so much a part of her character and conduct that they seem to be almost like her clothing. She laughs at the future, in contrast with being worried or fearful about it.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:26 The wisdom that God teaches in Proverbs can be well understood by both men and women (compare note on 1:8).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:28–29 In a loving family, the members value each other. Here the children and husband offer their praise. Verse 29 gives the words of the husband, or perhaps of both husband and children.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:30 The mention of a woman who fears the LORD at the end of this long list of excellent qualities brings back the theme of the book of Proverbs stated in 1:7 (see note). It reminds readers that this woman excels in her fear of the Lord. She is a model of the character traits and wisdom taught throughout the book. Inserting "fear of the Lord" at the end of this list is a reminder that this quality is more important than even great skill and talent. A godly woman may well have skill and beauty, but these are of secondary importance to her godliness.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:31 The wife's works are known and appreciated in the gates (compare v. 23), and therefore throughout the town. Give her of the fruit of her hands means that she should be given some personal reward for her excellent work. let her works praise her. The excellent character and work of such a woman calls for public honor.

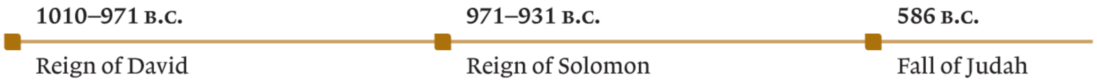
Introduction to Ecclesiastes

Introduction to Ecclesiastes

Timeline



Author

The author of Ecclesiastes calls himself “the Preacher” (1:1). Some interpreters have concluded that this was Solomon, while others think he was a role-playing writer later than Solomon. Either way, the book claims that its wisdom comes from the “one Shepherd” (12:11), the Lord himself.

Theme and Interpretation of Ecclesiastes

The theme of Ecclesiastes is the necessity of fearing God in this fallen, confusing world. Each human being wants to understand all the ways God is acting in the world, but he cannot, because he is not God. And yet the faithful do not despair but cling to God, even when they cannot see what God is doing. The Lord deserves his people’s trust. They can leave everything to him while they seek to understand what it means to “fear God and keep his commandments” (12:13). This is true wisdom.

Key Themes

1. The tragic reality of the fall. The Preacher is painfully aware that the creation has been damaged by sin (7:29; Rom. 8:20, 22). He speaks as one who eagerly awaits the resurrection age (Rom. 8:23).
2. The “vanity” of life. The book begins and ends with the exclamation, “Vanity of vanities! All is vanity” (Eccles. 1:2; 12:8). The phrase pictures something fleeting and elusive. All the endeavors and pleasures of earthly life are only temporary. When one sees the consequences of sin in this fallen world, one is left in utter frustration, anger, and sorrow. The more one tries to understand life, the more mysterious it becomes (1:12–18).

3. Sin and death. By sinning, human beings forfeited the righteousness they originally had before God (7:29), and thus all people are sinners (7:20). Death was a result of the fall. The Preacher is only too aware of this dreadful reality that affects everyone (e.g., 2:14–17; 3:18–21; 6:6).
4. The joy and the frustration of work. God gave Adam work to accomplish prior to the fall, but part of the punishment of his sin was that his work would become difficult (Gen. 2:15; 3:17–19). Both realities are seen in the Preacher's experience, as he finds his work to be both satisfying (Eccles. 2:10, 24; 3:22; 5:18–20; 9:9–10) and aggravating (2:18–23; 4:4–8).
5. The grateful enjoyment of God's good gifts. The Preacher spends a great deal of time commenting on the twisted realities of a fallen world, but this does not blind him to the beauty of God's world (3:11). Nor does it cause him to despise God's good gifts of human relationships, food, drink, and satisfying labor (5:18–20; 8:15; 9:7, 9). These are to be received humbly and enjoyed fully as blessings from God.
6. The fear of God. The fact that "all is vanity" should drive people to take refuge in God, fearing and revering him (7:18; 8:12–13; 12:13–14).

The Global Message of Ecclesiastes

Life in a Broken World

The book of Ecclesiastes explains the world in all its complexity, confusion, and frustration with striking honesty. “Vanity of vanities! All is vanity,” declares the Preacher, echoing the cries of many who have seen, experienced, and recognized the dreadful fallenness of our world (Eccles. 1:2). The global reality both then and now is that our broken world is filled with oppression of the powerless (4:1), oppression of the poor (5:8), and violation of justice and righteousness (5:8). There is nothing new under the sun (1:9), no lasting earthly glory (1:11), no ultimately fulfilling pleasure (2:1–11), and no certainty in life except that it will end in death and judgment (2:14–16; 3:18–20; 6:6; 12:14).

In a fallen world there are many painful and complicated questions, but the message of Ecclesiastes is that there is an answer. That answer is not an easy one, but it is simple: fear the Lord (Eccles. 3:14; 5:7; 12:13–14). Though this world is filled with oppression and injustice, ultimately it will be well for those who fear God (8:12) and it will not be well for the wicked (8:13).

This world is filled with both blessings and challenges, neither of which provides ultimate answers or clarity about the meaning of life. If this world is all there is, then all is vanity. But when we trust the Lord in the face of circumstances that discourage us from doing so, we have a sure hope that we will one day be restored to him. Indeed, from a whole-Bible perspective, there is one who is the way (John 14:6), who is the comforter (2 Cor. 1:3), who is wisdom itself (1 Cor. 1:24). We will not easily figure God out, nor can we fathom all that he does (Eccles. 3:11). He is not a subject to be scrutinized or solved, nor are his ways easily comprehended (8:17). But God has spoken to us in his Son, who gives us the words of eternal life (John 6:68).

The message of Ecclesiastes is that however difficult things may be because of the curse upon mankind in this fallen world, there is purpose and grace for all. There is enduring hope and satisfying life as we walk with God. The very gifts of God that, apart from God, prove hollow and disappointing, can be enjoyed truly and satisfyingly—not as the main purpose of life but as a means to know God in a deeper way. Our message to the world is that there is purpose in life regarding the blessings we receive from God such as food, drink, and work, but that these blessings are not the purpose of life.

Purpose in life. There is a proper place, time, and perspective for each season in life and for each blessing from God (Eccles. 3:1–8). The blessings of common grace are to be recognized as coming from the very hand of God. Work and its enjoyment are blessings from God (2:24; 3:22; 5:18–20). There is purpose in life for work, but neither work itself nor the hoarding of possessions are the purpose of life. When work becomes the governing purpose of life, when envy is our driving force, or when we seek satisfaction in wealth, we are left disappointed (2:18–23; 4:4). There is purpose in life for other gifts of common grace such as food, drink, and relationships (2:24–26; 3:12–13; 5:18–20; 8:15; 9:7, 9). The proper enjoyment of such gifts comes from God, who alone satisfies (3:13; 5:19).

The purpose of life. This then is the purpose of life: to fear God, who is sovereign (Eccles. 3:11, 14), holy in heaven (5:2, 7), and judge of all (12:13–14). He is the Giver of gifts and the one who grants even the ability to enjoy these gifts (5:19). In receiving such gifts of life we are to find our greatest joy in him (5:20).

The Global Church's Mission to a Broken World

The book of Ecclesiastes provides a brutally honest and refreshing message for the global church to proclaim to the world. In one sense the Christian message is other-worldly, yet it also addresses the sober realities that face each society and every individual in every generation. The message of the gospel not only affirms the disappointments of life, it also offers the only true hope for meaningful living.

The Giver and the gifts. There is a Creator to be worshiped (Eccles. 12:1). He has made all things. Life is to be enjoyed as being from him and to him. The world must recognize the blessed common grace they have received in creation, life, work, and possessions. They should enjoy such blessings, but not as the purpose of life. The global church has a message of hope for a world that is “striving after wind” (1:14). Clinging to the gift rather than worshiping the Giver is meaningless. The wealthy are not to be envied, for they find neither ultimate satisfaction nor eternal security in their wealth (5:10–17). It is far better to enjoy fellowship with the Giver rather than simply enjoying his gifts, however good they may be.

The ultimate gift. Enjoyment of God is available ultimately because he sent his Son to die on behalf of sinners. There is none who is righteous before God (Eccles. 7:20). No one can escape death (2:16; 9:3, 12). God’s ways cannot be easily or fully fathomed (3:11), but he has indeed revealed himself clearly and gloriously in the person of his Son Jesus Christ (John 14:9). In the Son we have seen the one who both demonstrates and also empowers what it means to truly fear and enjoy God. There is grace abundant for all who recognize the vanity of their selfish living and remember and fear their Creator (Eccles. 12:1) and Redeemer (Isa. 54:5).

A sure hope. While Ecclesiastes sobers us with the reminder that this fallen world is filled with injustice, it also offers hope. Christians are to be active in seeking justice and encouraging the oppressed within society (Isa. 1:17). But we need not despair at the imperfect justice of this world because God will bring final and perfect justice one day (Eccles. 3:17). For the oppressed and the victims of injustice this is indeed good news. It is not vanity to fear and follow God (8:10–13). To those in the global church who suffer under persecution for the sake of the gospel there is the comfort that God does indeed see them, take care of them, and remember them.

A sovereign Lord. There is one who is in control. God is in control when times are good and when times are bad (Eccles. 7:14). We are not in control—which is a great blessing, despite the ways in which we often seek to control our lives. Our message to the world is to abandon striving after control and to embrace the one who is in control. Every building and work of art will one day turn to dust, but there is one who is eternal and whose works last forever (3:14). Our message to the world is to abandon the quest for self-glory and the accumulation of possessions and to embrace the blessed and wise God-centered life of sober hope.

This is the glorious Christian vision for life that the church must embrace and display for the world to see.

All Is Vanity

ECCLESIASTES 1 [†]The words of [a] the Preacher, [1] the son of David, [b] king in Jerusalem.

2[†] [c] Vanity [2] of vanities, says [a] the Preacher,
[c] vanity of vanities! [d] All is vanity.
3[†] [e] What [f] does man gain by all the toil at which he toils under the sun?
4[†] A generation goes, and a generation comes,
but [g] the earth remains forever.
5 [h] The sun rises, and the sun goes down,
and hastens [3] to the place where it rises.
6 [i] The wind blows to the south and goes around to the north;
around and around goes the wind,
and on its circuits the wind returns.
7 All [j] streams run to the sea,
but the sea is not full;
to the place where the streams flow,
there they flow again.
8 All things are full of weariness;
a man cannot utter it;
[k] the eye is not satisfied with seeing,
nor the ear filled with hearing.
9 [l] What has been is what will be,
and what has been done is what will be done,
and there is nothing new under the sun.
10 Is there a thing of which it is said,
"See, this is new"?
It has been [m] already in the ages before us.
11[†] There is no [n] remembrance of former things, [4] nor will there be any remembrance of later things [5] yet to be among those who come after.

The Vanity of Wisdom

[12]I [o]the Preacher have been king over Israel in Jerusalem. [13][†]And I [p]applied my heart [6] to seek and to search out by wisdom all that is done under heaven. It is an unhappy [q]business that God has given to the children of man to be busy with. [14][†]I have seen everything that is done under the sun, and behold, all is [r]vanity [7] and a striving after wind. [8]

[15][†] [s]What is crooked cannot be made straight, and what is lacking cannot be counted.

[16][†]I said in my heart, "I have acquired great [t]wisdom, surpassing all who were over Jerusalem before me, and my heart has had great experience of wisdom and knowledge." [17][†]And I [u]applied my heart to know wisdom and to know [v]madness and folly. I perceived that this also is but [r]a striving after wind.

[18][†] For [w]in much wisdom is much vexation, and he who increases knowledge increases sorrow.

The Vanity of Self-Indulgence

ECCLESIASTES 2 [†]I [x]said in my heart, "Come now, I will test you with pleasure; enjoy yourself." But behold, this also was vanity. [1] [2]I [y]said of laughter, "It is mad," and of pleasure, "What use is it?" [3][†]I [z]searched with my heart how to cheer my body with wine—my heart still guiding me with wisdom—and how to lay hold on [a]folly, till I might see what was good for the children of man to do under heaven during the few days of their life. [4]I made great works. I [b]built houses and planted [c]vineyards for myself. [5]I made myself [d]gardens and parks, and planted in them all kinds of fruit trees. [6]I made myself pools from which to water the forest of growing trees. [7]I bought male and female slaves, and had [e]slaves who were born in my house. I had also great possessions of [f]herds and flocks, more than any who had been before me in Jerusalem. [8]I also gathered for myself silver and [g] gold and the treasure of [h] kings and [i] provinces. I got [j] singers, both men and women, and many [k] concubines, [2] the delight of the sons of man.

[9]So I became great and [l] surpassed all who were before me in Jerusalem. Also my [l] wisdom remained with me. [10][†]And whatever my eyes desired I did not keep from them. I kept my heart from no pleasure, for my heart [m] found pleasure in all my toil, and this was my [n] reward for all my toil. [11]Then I considered all that my hands had done and the toil I had expended in doing it, and behold, all was [o] vanity and a striving after wind, and there was nothing [p] to be gained under the sun.

The Vanity of Living Wisely

[12][†] [q] So I turned to consider [r] wisdom and madness and folly. For what can the man do who comes after the king? Only [s] what has already been done. [13]Then I saw that there is more gain in wisdom than in folly, as there is more gain in light than in darkness. [14][†] [t] The wise person has his eyes in his head, but the fool walks in darkness. And yet I perceived that the [u] same event happens to all of them. [15]Then I said in my heart, [v] “What happens to the fool will happen to me also. Why then have I been so very wise?” And I said in my heart that this also is vanity. [16]For of the wise as of the fool there is [w] no enduring remembrance, seeing that in the days to come all will have been long forgotten. [x] How the wise dies just like the fool! [17][†]So I hated life, because what is done under the sun was grievous to me, for [o] all is vanity and a striving after wind.

The Vanity of Toil

[18][†]I hated [y] all my toil in which I toil under the sun, seeing that I must [z] leave it to the man who will come after me, [19]and who knows whether he will be wise or a fool? Yet he will be master of all for which I toiled and used my wisdom under the sun. This also is vanity. [20]So I [a] turned about and gave my heart up to despair [b] over all the toil of my labors under the sun, [21]because sometimes a person who has toiled with wisdom and knowledge and skill must leave everything to be enjoyed by someone who did not toil for it. This also is vanity and a great evil. [22]What has a man from [c] all the toil and striving of heart with which he toils beneath the sun?

[23]For [d] all his days are full of sorrow, and his [e] work is a vexation. Even in the night his heart does not rest. This also is vanity.

[24][†] [f] There is nothing better for a person than that he should [g] eat and drink and find enjoyment [3] in his toil. This also, I saw, is [h] from the hand of God, [25]for apart from him [4] who can eat or who can have enjoyment?
[26]For to the one who pleases him [i] God has given wisdom and knowledge and joy, but to the sinner he has given [e] the business of gathering and collecting, [j] only to give to one who pleases God. [k] This also is vanity and a striving after wind.

A Time for Everything

ECCLESIASTES 3 [†]For everything there is a season, and [l] a time for every matter under heaven:

[2] a time to be born, and a time to [m] die;
a time to plant, and a time to pluck up what is planted;
[3] a time to kill, and a time to heal;
a time to break down, and a time to build up;
[4] a time to [n] weep, and a time to laugh;
a time to mourn, and a time to [o] dance;
[5] a time to [p] cast away stones, and a time to [q] gather stones together;
a time to embrace, and a time to [r] refrain from embracing;
[6][†] a time to seek, and a time to [s] lose;
a time to keep, and a time to [t] cast away;
[7] a time to [u] tear, and a time to sew;
a time to [v] keep silence, and a time to speak;
[8][†] a time to love, and a time to [w] hate;
a time for war, and a time for peace.

The God-Given Task

[9][†]What [x] gain has the worker from his toil? [10]I have seen [y] the business that [z] God has given to the children of man to be busy with. [11][†]He has [a]made everything beautiful in its time. Also, he has put eternity into man's heart, yet so that he cannot [b]find out what God has done from the beginning to the end. 12[†]I perceived that there is [c]nothing better for them than to be joyful and to [d]do good as long as they live; 13also [e]that everyone should eat and drink and take pleasure in all his toil—this is [f]God's gift to man.

14[†]I perceived that whatever God does endures forever; [g]nothing can be added to it, nor anything taken from it. God has done it, so that people fear before him. 15That which is, [h]already has been; that which is to be, already has been; and God [i]seeks what has been driven away. [1]

From Dust to Dust

16[†]Moreover, [j]I saw under the sun that in the place of justice, even [k]there was wickedness, and in the place of righteousness, even there was wickedness. 17I said in my heart, [l]God will judge the righteous and the wicked, for there is [m]a time for every matter and for every work. 18[†]I said in my heart with regard to the children of man that God is testing them that they may see that they themselves are but [n]beasts. 19[o]For what happens to the children of man and what happens to the beasts is the same; as one dies, so dies the other. They all have the same breath, and man has no advantage over the beasts, for all is vanity. [2] 20All go to one place. All are from [p]the dust, and to dust all return. 21[†]Who knows whether [q]the spirit of man goes upward and the spirit of the beast goes down into the earth? 22So I saw that there is [r]nothing better than that a man should rejoice in his work, for [s]that is his lot. Who can bring him to see [t]what will be after him?

Evil Under the Sun

ECCLESIASTES 4 [u]Again I [v]saw all [w]the oppressions that are done under the sun. And behold, the tears of the oppressed, and they had [x]no one to comfort them! On the side of their oppressors there was power, and there was no one to comfort them. 2[†]And I [y]thought the dead who are already dead more fortunate than the living who are still alive. 3But [z]better than both is he who has not yet been and has not seen the evil deeds that are done under the sun.

4[†]Then I saw that all toil and all skill in work come from a man's envy of his neighbor. This also is [a] vanity [1] and a striving after wind.

5The fool [b] folds his hands and [c] eats his own flesh.

6 [d] Better is a handful of [e] quietness than two hands full of toil and a striving after wind.

7[†] [u] Again, I saw vanity under the sun: 8one person who has no other, either son or brother, yet there is no end to all his toil, and his [f] eyes are never satisfied with riches, so that he never asks, [g] "For whom am I toiling and depriving myself of pleasure?" This also is vanity and an unhappy [h] business.

9Two are better than one, because they have a good reward for their toil. 10For if they fall, one will lift up his fellow. But woe to him who is alone when he falls and has not another to lift him up! 11Again, if two lie together, they keep warm, [i] but how can one keep warm alone? 12[†]And though a man might prevail against one who is alone, two will withstand him—a threefold cord is not quickly broken.

13[†]Better was [j] a poor and wise youth than an old and foolish king who no longer knew how [k] to take advice. 14For he went [l] from prison to the throne, though in his own kingdom he had been born poor. 15I saw all the living who move about under the sun, along with that [2] youth who was to stand in the king's [3] place. 16There was no end of all the people, all of whom he led. Yet those who come later will not rejoice in him. Surely this also is [m] vanity and a striving after wind.

Fear God

ECCLESIASTES 5 [†] [1] [n] Guard your steps when you go to [o] the house of God. To draw near to listen is better than to [p] offer the sacrifice of fools, for they do not know that they are doing evil. 2 [2] Be not rash with your mouth, nor let your heart be hasty to utter a word before God, for God is in heaven and you are on earth. Therefore [q] let your words be few. 3For a dream comes with much business, and a fool's voice with [r] many words.

4[†]When [s] you vow a vow to God, [t] do not delay paying it, for he has no pleasure in fools. [u] Pay what you vow. 5 [v] It is better that you should not vow than that you should vow and not pay. 6Let not your mouth lead you [3] into sin, and do not say before [w] the messenger [4] that it was [x] a mistake. Why should God be angry at your voice and destroy the work of your hands? 7For when dreams increase and words grow many, there is vanity; [5] but [6] [y] God is the one you must fear.

The Vanity of Wealth and Honor

8[†] [z] If you see in a province the oppression of the poor and the violation of justice and righteousness, [a] do not be amazed at the matter, [b] for the high official is watched by a higher, and there are yet higher ones over them. 9But this is gain for a land in every way: a king committed to cultivated fields. [7]

10[†]He who loves money will not be satisfied with money, nor he who loves wealth with his income; this also is vanity. 11When goods increase, they increase who eat them, and what advantage has their owner but to see them with his eyes? 12Sweet is the sleep of a laborer, whether he eats little or much, but the full stomach of the rich will not let him sleep.

13[†] [c] There is a grievous evil that I have seen under the sun: riches were kept by their owner to his hurt, 14and those riches were lost in a bad venture. And he is father of a son, but he has nothing in his hand. 15 [d] As he came from his mother's womb he shall go again, naked as he came, and shall take nothing for his toil that he may carry away in his hand. 16This also is a grievous evil: just as he came, so shall he go, and what [e] gain is there to him who [f] toils for the wind? 17[†]Moreover, all his days he [g] eats in darkness in much vexation and sickness and anger.

18Behold, what I have seen to be [h] good and fitting is to eat and drink and find enjoyment [8] in all the toil with which one toils under the sun the few days of his life that God has given him, for this is his [i] lot. 19Everyone also to whom [j] God has given [k] wealth and possessions [l] and power to enjoy them, and to accept his lot and rejoice in his toil—this is [m] the gift of God. 20[†]For he will not much remember the days of his life because God keeps him occupied with joy in his heart.

ECCLESIASTES 6 [n] There is an evil that I have seen under the sun, and it lies heavy on mankind: [2]a man [o] to whom [p] God gives wealth, possessions, and honor, so that he [q] lacks nothing of all that he desires, yet God [r] does not give him power to enjoy them, but a stranger enjoys them. This is vanity; [1] it is a grievous evil. [3][†]If a man fathers a hundred children and lives many years, so that [s] the days of his years are many, but his soul is not satisfied with life's [t] good things, and he also has no [u] burial, I say that [v] a stillborn child is better off than he. [4]For it comes in vanity and goes in darkness, and in darkness its name is covered. [5]Moreover, it has not [w] seen the sun or known anything, yet it finds [x] rest rather than he. [6]Even though he should live a thousand years twice over, yet enjoy [2] no good—do not all go to the one place?

[7] [y] All the toil of man is for his mouth, yet his appetite is not satisfied. [3] [8]For what advantage has the wise man [z] over the fool? And what does the poor man have who knows how to conduct himself before the living? [9]Better [a] is the sight of the eyes than the wandering of the appetite: this also is [b] vanity and a striving after wind.

[10][†]Whatever has come to be has [c] already been named, and it is known what man is, and that he is not able to [d] dispute with one stronger than he. [11]The more words, the more vanity, and what is the advantage to man? [12][†]For who knows what is good for man while he lives the few days of his [e] vain [4] life, which he passes like [f] a shadow? For who can tell man what will be [g] after him under the sun?

The Contrast of Wisdom and Folly

ECCLESIASTES 7 [†] [h] A good name is better than precious ointment, and [i] the day of death than the day of birth.
[2] It is better to go to the house of mourning than to go to the house of feasting, for this is the end of all mankind,
and the living will [j] lay it to heart.
[3] Sorrow is better than laughter,
[k] for by sadness of face the heart is made glad.

4 The heart of the wise is in the house of mourning, but the heart of fools is in the house of mirth.
5 It is [l] better for a man to hear the rebuke of the wise than to hear the song of fools.
6 [m] For as the crackling of [n] thorns under a pot, so is the laughter of the fools;
this also is vanity. [1] 7[†] Surely [o] oppression drives the wise into madness, and [p] a bribe corrupts the heart.
8 Better is the end of a thing than its beginning, and [q] the patient in spirit is better than the proud in spirit.
9 [r] Be not quick in your spirit to become angry,
[s] for anger lodges in the heart [2] of fools.
10 Say not, "Why were the former days better than these?"
For it is not from wisdom that you ask this.
11[†] Wisdom is good with an inheritance, an advantage to those who [t] see the sun.
12 For the protection of wisdom is like [u] the protection of money, and the advantage of knowledge is that [v] wisdom preserves the life of him who has it.
13 Consider [w] the work of God:
[x] who can make straight what he has made crooked?

14 [y] In the day of prosperity be joyful, and in the day of adversity consider: God has made the one as well as the other, [z] so that man may not find out anything that will be after him.

15[†]In my [a] vain [3] life I have seen everything. There is [b] a righteous man who perishes in his righteousness, and there is a wicked man who [c] prolongs his life in his evildoing. 16[†]Be not overly righteous, and do not [d] make yourself too wise. Why should you destroy yourself? 17Be not overly wicked, neither be a fool. [e] Why should you die before your time? 18It is good that you should take hold of [f] this, and from [g] that [h] withhold not your hand, for the one who fears God shall come out from both of them.

[20]Surely [j] there is not a righteous man on earth who does good and never sins.

[21]Do not take to heart all the things that people say, lest you hear [k] your servant cursing you. [22]Your heart knows that [l] many times you yourself have cursed others.

[23]All this I have tested by wisdom. [m] I said, "I will be wise," but it was far from me. [24]That which has been is far off, and [n] deep, very deep; [o] who can find it out?

[25][†] [p] I turned my heart to know and to search out and to seek wisdom and the scheme of things, and to know the wickedness of folly and the foolishness that is madness. [26]And I find something more [q] bitter than death: [r] the woman whose heart is [s] snares and nets, and whose hands are fetters. He who pleases God escapes her, but [t] the sinner is taken by her. [27][†]Behold, this is what I found, says [u] the Preacher, while adding one thing to another to find the scheme of things— [28][†]which my soul has sought repeatedly, but I have not found. [v] One man among a thousand I found, but [w] a woman among all these I have not found. [29]See, this alone I found, that [x] God made man upright, but [y] they have sought out many schemes.

Keep the King's Command

ECCLESIASTES 8 [†] Who is like the wise?
And who knows the interpretation of a thing?
[z] A man's wisdom makes his face shine,
and [a] the hardness of his face is changed.

[2][†]I say: [1] Keep the king's command, because of [b] God's oath to him. [2] [3][†]Be not hasty to [c] go from his presence. Do not take your stand in an evil cause, for he does whatever he pleases. [4][†]For the word of the king is supreme, and [d] who may say to him, "What are you doing?" [5]Whoever keeps a command will know no evil thing, and the wise heart will know the proper time and the just way. [6]For there is a time and a way

[e] for everything, although man's trouble [3] lies heavy on him. 7[†]For he [f] does not know what is to be, for [g] who can tell him how it will be? 8No man has power to [h] retain the spirit, [i] or power over the day of death. There is no [j] discharge from war, nor will wickedness deliver those who are given to it. 9 [k] All this I observed while applying my heart to all that is done under the sun, when man had power over man to his hurt.

Those Who Fear God Will Do Well

10[†]Then I saw the wicked buried. They used to go in and out of [l] the holy place and were [m] praised [4] in the city where they had done such things. This also is vanity. [5] 11Because [n] the sentence against an evil deed is not executed speedily, [o] the heart of the children of man is fully set to do evil. 12Though a sinner does evil a hundred times and [p] prolongs his life, yet I know that [q] it will be well with [r] those who fear God, because they fear before him. 13But it will [s] not be well with the wicked, neither will he prolong his days like [t] a shadow, because he does not fear before God.

Man Cannot Know God's Ways

14[†]There is a vanity that takes place on earth, that there are righteous people [u] to whom it happens according to the deeds of the wicked, and there are wicked people [v] to whom it happens according to the deeds of the righteous. I said that this also is vanity. 15And I commend joy, for man [w] has nothing better under the sun but to [x] eat and drink and be joyful, for this will go with him in his toil through the days of his life that God has given him under the sun.

16When I applied my heart to know wisdom, and to see [y] the business that is done on earth, how neither [z] day nor night do one's eyes see sleep, 17[†]then I saw all the work of God, that [a] man cannot find out the work that is done under the sun. However much man may toil in seeking, he will not find it out. Even though a wise man claims to know, [b] he cannot find it out.

Death Comes to All

ECCLESIASTES 9 [†]But all this I laid to heart, examining it all, [c] how the righteous and the wise and their deeds are [d] in the hand of God. Whether it is love or hate, man does not know; both are before him. 2 [e] It is the same for all, since [f] the same event happens to the righteous and the wicked, to the good and the evil, [1] to the clean and the unclean, to him who sacrifices and him who does not sacrifice. As the good one is, so is the sinner, and he who [g] swears is as he who shuns an oath. 3This is an evil in all that is done under the sun, that [e] the same event happens to all. Also, the hearts of the children of man are full of evil, and [h] madness is in their hearts while they live, and after that they go to the dead. 4But he who is joined with all the living has hope, for a living dog is better than a dead lion. 5For the living know that they will die, but [i] the dead know nothing, and they have no more reward, for [j] the memory of them is forgotten. 6Their love and their hate and their envy have already perished, and forever they have no more share in all that is done under the sun.

Enjoy Life with the One You Love

7[†]Go, [k] eat your bread with joy, and drink your wine with a merry heart, for God has already approved what you do.

8 [l] Let your garments be always white. Let not [m] oil be lacking on your head.

9Enjoy life with the wife whom you love, all the days of your [n] vain [2] life that he has given you under the sun, because that is your [o] portion in life and in your toil at which you toil under the sun. 10Whatever your hand finds to do, [p] do it with your might, [3] [q] for there is no work or thought or knowledge or wisdom in Sheol, to which you are going.

Wisdom Better than Folly

11[†] [r] Again I saw that under the sun [s] the race is not to the swift, nor [t] the battle to the strong, nor bread to the wise, nor riches to the intelligent, nor favor to those with knowledge, but time and [u] chance [v] happen to them all. 12For man [w] does not know his time. Like fish that are taken in an evil net, and [x] like birds that are caught in a snare, so the children of man are [y] snared at an evil time, when it suddenly falls upon them.

13[†]I have also seen this example of wisdom under the sun, and it seemed great to me. 14There was a little city with few men in it, and a great king came against it and besieged it, building great siegeworks against it. 15But there was found in it [z] a poor, wise man, and he by his [a] wisdom delivered the city. Yet no one remembered that poor man. 16But I say that [b] wisdom is better than might, though [c] the poor man's wisdom is despised and his words are not heard.

17[†]The words of the wise heard in [d] quiet are better than the shouting of a ruler among fools. 18 [e] Wisdom is better than weapons of war, but [f] one sinner destroys much good.

ECCLESIASTES 10 Dead flies make [g] the perfumer's ointment give off a stench;
so a little folly outweighs wisdom and honor.
2[†] [h] A wise man's heart inclines him to the right, but a fool's heart to the left.
3 Even when the fool walks on the road, he lacks sense, and he [i] says to everyone that he is a fool.
4 If the anger of the ruler rises against you, [j] do not leave your place,
[k] for calmness [1] will lay great offenses to rest.

5There is an evil that I have seen under the sun, as it were [l] an error proceeding from the ruler: 6[†] [m] folly is set in many high places, and the rich sit in a low place. 7 [n] I have seen slaves [o] on horses, and princes walking on the ground like slaves.

8[†] He who [p] digs a pit will fall into it, and [q] a serpent will bite him who breaks through a wall.
9 [r] He who quarries stones is hurt by them,
and he who [s] splits logs is endangered by them.
10 If the iron is blunt, and one does not sharpen the edge,
he must use more strength,
but wisdom helps one to succeed. [2]

11 If the serpent bites before it is [t] charmed, there is no advantage to the charmer.

12 The words of a wise man's mouth [u] win him favor, [3]
but [v] the lips of a fool consume him.
13 The beginning of the words of his mouth is foolishness, and the end of his talk is evil madness.
14[†] [w] A fool multiplies words, though no man knows what is to be,
and who can tell him [x] what will be after him?
15[†] The toil of a fool wearies him, for he does not know [y] the way to the city.

16 [z] Woe to you, O land, when your king is a child, and your princes feast in the morning!
17 Happy are you, O land, when your king is the son of the nobility, and your princes feast at the proper time,
for strength, and not for [a] drunkenness!
18 Through sloth the roof sinks in,
and through indolence the house leaks.
19[†] Bread is made for laughter, and [b] wine gladdens life,
and [c] money answers everything.
20 Even in your thoughts, [d] do not curse the king, nor in your [e] bedroom curse the rich,
for a bird of the air will carry your voice,
or some winged creature tell the matter.

Cast Your Bread upon the Waters

ECCLESIASTES 11 [†] [f] Cast your bread upon the waters, [g] for you will find it after many days.
2[†] [h] Give a portion to [i] seven, or even to eight,
[j] for you know not what disaster may happen on earth.
3 If the clouds are full of rain,

they empty themselves on the earth, and if a tree falls to the south or to the north,
in the place where the tree falls, there it will lie.
4[†] He who observes the wind will not sow, and he who regards the clouds will not reap.

5As you do not know the way [k] the spirit comes to [l] the bones in the womb [1] of a woman with child, so you do not know the work of God who makes everything.

6In the morning sow your seed, and at evening [m] withhold not your hand, for you do not know which will prosper, this or that, or whether both alike will be good.

7[†]Light is sweet, and it is pleasant for the eyes to [n] see the sun.

8So if a person lives many years, let him rejoice in them all; but let him remember [o] that the days of darkness will be many. All that comes is [p] vanity. [2]

9[†] [q] Rejoice, O young man, in your youth, and let your heart cheer you in the days of your youth. [r] Walk in the ways of your heart and [s] the sight of your eyes. But know that for all these things [t] God will bring you into judgment.

10[†]Remove vexation from your heart, and [u] put away pain [3] from your body, for youth and the dawn of life are vanity.

Remember Your Creator in Your Youth

ECCLESIASTES 12 [†]Remember also your Creator in [v] the days of your youth, before [w] the evil days come and the years draw near of which [x] you will say, “I have no pleasure in them”; 2[†]before [y] the sun and the light and the moon and the stars are darkened and the clouds return after the rain, 3in the day when the keepers of the house tremble, and the strong men are bent, and the grinders cease because they are few, and [z] those who look through the windows are dimmed, 4and [a] the doors on the street are shut—when [b] the sound of the grinding is low, and one rises up at the sound of a bird, and all [c] the daughters of song are brought low— 5they are afraid also of what is high, and [d] terrors are in the way; the almond tree blossoms, the grasshopper drags itself along, [1] and desire fails, because man is going to his [e] eternal [f] home, and the [g] mourners go about the streets— 6before the silver cord is snapped, or [h] the golden bowl is broken, or the pitcher is [i] shattered at the fountain, or the wheel broken at the cistern, 7and [j] the dust returns to the earth as it was, and [k] the spirit returns to God [l] who gave it. 8[†] [m] Vanity [2] of vanities, says [n] the Preacher; all is vanity.

Fear God and Keep His Commandments

9Besides being wise, [n] the Preacher also taught the people knowledge, weighing and studying and arranging [o] many proverbs with great care. 10 [n] The Preacher sought to find words of delight, and uprightly he wrote words of truth.

11[†] [p] The words of the wise are like goads, and like [q] nails firmly fixed are the collected sayings; they are [r] given by [s] one Shepherd. 12My son, beware of anything beyond these. Of making [u] many books there is no end, and [v] much study is a weariness of the flesh.

13[†]The end of the matter; all has been heard. [w] Fear God and keep his commandments, for this is the whole duty of man. [3] 14For [x] God will bring every deed into judgment, with [4] every secret thing, whether good or evil.

Study Notes for Ecclesiastes

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:1–3 Introduction and Theme. The speaker introduces himself and his theme.

FACT

Ecclesiastes encourages God's people to trust him in a fallen and often confusing world, in which sin and heartache touch every corner of the globe. We are to "fear God and keep his commandments" (12:13), even when we cannot understand everything that is going on around us.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:2 vanity of vanities! All is vanity. This important thematic word occurs frequently throughout the book. As the book progresses, its meaning becomes clear (see Introduction: Key Themes).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:3 What does man gain? This repeated question (3:9; 5:15; compare 2:11) comes out of the Preacher's realization that "all is vanity." If life frequently makes no sense and pleasures and achievements are fleeting, is there any significance to human existence?

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:4–2:26 First Catalog of "Vanities." The Preacher gives specific examples to prove his belief that all is "vanity."

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:11 There is no remembrance of former things, nor . . . of later things. The writer-Preacher believes that few people have any significant impact on the course of world history (see ESV footnote).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:13 unhappy business. For some reason unknown to the Preacher, God ordains that mankind should endure painful experiences in this present fallen world. The phrase under heaven is interchangeable with "under the sun" (v. 14, etc.).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:14 The Preacher examined everything under the sun. However, he is unable to understand it all. He concludes that everything is vanity and a striving after wind.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:15 Crooked here means “unknowable.” There will always be aspects of life in a fallen world that remain mysterious.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:16 surpassing all who were over Jerusalem before me. If anyone possessed the wisdom to grasp the meaning of life, it was the Preacher.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:17 As part of his quest to know wisdom, the Preacher also seeks to understand madness and folly. Apparently he believes that he can better understand wisdom if he also understands its opposite.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:18 Wisdom is a mixed blessing. In the process of gaining wisdom one also gains a clearer view into the tragedies of life.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:1–2 Pleasure here apparently refers to activities that can cause laughter.

FACT

The words vanity, vanities, and vain occur nearly 40 times in Ecclesiastes. Their literal meaning is “vapor” or “breath,” so they are used to describe things that can be fleeting or elusive, like the search for meaning and purpose in life.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:3 The Preacher did not drink so much wine that he lost his ability to think clearly. On his attempt to lay hold on folly, see the note on 1:17.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:10–11 The Preacher finally realizes that his work resulted in no permanent gain under the sun. Nevertheless, he did receive a reward in return for his work: the pleasure that the work itself gave him.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:12 The Preacher’s reign as king surpassed all others. Anyone who comes after the king will at best only be able to copy what has already been done.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:14–16 Wisdom is infinitely better than folly, but the wise and the foolish both die. To make matters still worse, even the wise are usually forgotten after their death.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:17 The limitations of wisdom lead the Preacher to say that he hated life. Elsewhere he states that life is superior to death and commends its enjoyment, so this statement does not reflect utter despair. Rather, the Preacher "hates" life in the sense that he finds it deeply disappointing in certain ways.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:18–20 I hated all my toil. While at times the Preacher found pleasure in his work, his enjoyment is severely lessened by the knowledge that he must eventually hand over his life's work to someone else. This causes him to despair that his life's work will not amount to anything significant.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:24–26 If a person does not believe his work will have a lasting impact on the world, the best he can hope for is to find enjoyment in toil and in God's simple gifts of food and drink. Such enjoyment is to be viewed as a gift from the hand of God.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:1–8 Poem: A Time for Everything. There is an appropriate occasion for every human event or activity.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:6 a time to lose. To give up looking for a lost item.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:8 a time to hate. Righteous anger is legitimate under the appropriate circumstances.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:9–15 Fear God, the Sovereign One. The vanity of life causes the Preacher to reflect on what is permanent and lasting: the sovereign God of the universe.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:11 The Preacher can see that God has made everything beautiful in its time. The problem is that God has also placed eternity into man's heart, yet so that he cannot find out what God has done from the beginning to the end. God has given the Preacher a desire to understand all of life, but God has also limited his ability to do so.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:12–13 Rather than becoming resentful about what God has not granted human beings, one should enjoy the gifts that God has given.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:14 The short-lived "vanities" of this world reveal all the more clearly the enduring work of God, to which nothing can be added.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:16–4:16 Second Catalog of "Vanities." The Preacher returns to examining more of life's vanities.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:16–4:3 The fact that people die is a further aspect of "vanity."

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:16–17 The fall of mankind affects all human relationships. One may suffer wickedness at the hand of other human beings. But this can be endured if one understands that God will judge the righteous and the wicked.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:18–19 The children of man . . . are but beasts in the sense that both human beings and animals die.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:21 For the Preacher, the human spirit is a mysterious thing. While he affirms that the spirit returns to God when a person dies, he does not know how it comes to reside in the human body in the first place.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 4:2–3 Some people's circumstances are so tragic that they welcome death. The Preacher considers those who have not yet lived to be the most fortunate. This is because they have not yet seen the evil deeds that are done under the sun.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 4:4–6 Much of what is achieved by human ability stems from a man's envy of his neighbor. Here the Preacher focuses on the vanity that comes to those who make such striving their main goal in life. On the other hand, if a man folds his hands and refuses to work, he ruins himself.

FACT

Working too hard? It is equally wrong to be lazy or to be a “workaholic.” People sometimes work too hard because they want all the nice things their neighbors have (4:4). People should work diligently but should also enjoy the quiet contentment that comes from serving the Lord (v. 6).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 4:7–11 Some people engage in endless toil yet are never satisfied even though they acquire great riches. On the other hand there are those who give up their jealous desires to always be the best; they discover that two are better than one as they share their work load, enjoying a good reward and finding help in hard times.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 4:12 A threefold cord stands for the great value of being part of a larger group rather than being alone.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 4:13–16 The Preacher recalls an example of the temporary results of wisdom. In contrast to an old and foolish king, there once was a poor and wise youth who managed to rise above his humble beginnings and ascend to the throne. Yet later generations would not rejoice in him; his success and popularity, though gained by true wisdom, did not last.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:1–7 Fear God, the Holy and Righteous One. In this section, the encouragement to “fear God” is motivated by his holy and righteous character (compare note on 3:9–15).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:4 People should keep their promises, or vows, to God. By taking a vow, a worshiper would promise to perform a specific act if God would respond favorably to a particular petition.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:8–7:24 Life “Under the Sun.” The Preacher observes the hardships of life in a fallen world.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:8–9 The political maneuvering of sinful officials results in suffering for the powerless.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:10–6:9 The Preacher observes the destructive nature of greed and concludes that a life of contentment is much better (compare Phil. 4:11; 1 Tim. 6:6, 8; Heb. 13:5).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:13–14 riches were kept . . . to his hurt. A man endured hardship and sacrificed in order to acquire wealth but was never able to enjoy it, because it was lost in a bad venture.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:17 The man's selfish, fearful greed resulted in a truly wretched life.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:20 he will not much remember . . . his life. The one to whom God grants contentment focuses on blessings from God rather than the darker realities of human existence.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 6:3–6 Long life and many children are among earth's greatest blessings, but a discontented heart will be unsatisfied even with these.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 6:10–11 To "name" something is to exercise authority over it. God is the one who has named all things, and therefore he rules over all. It is foolish for mere mortals to dispute God's sovereign ordering of the world. To do so only produces more words and more vanity.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 6:12 For who knows what is good for man? Even the wisest humans cannot give absolutely correct advice based on a certain knowledge of what will be.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:1 The verses that follow indicate that the day of death refers not to one's own passing but rather to experiencing the death of another. Bereavement often increases spiritual wisdom more than the joy one feels over a newborn child.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:7 Oppression refers here to blackmail.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:11–12 Wisdom is similar to money in that both provide real protection against the misfortunes of life. Wisdom, however, preserves the life of him who has it.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:15 Righteous and righteousness can refer to being "right" or "just" in one's cause. The Preacher has observed instances in which a person who was technically in the right still lost his case.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:16–18 Be not overly righteous. One should not always insist on being proved right in an argument. On the other hand, be not overly wicked, neither be a fool. That is, one should also know when to stand firm for a just cause.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:25–29 The Heart of the Problem: Sin. The Preacher has made numerous references to human sinfulness. This short section helps to explain how this sorry condition came about.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:27 “Find” is a key word in vv. 25–29. It means “figure out” or “comprehend.”

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:28–29 One man . . . I found, but a woman . . . I have not found. The Preacher is unable to “figure out” human beings. His one firm conclusion is that God made man upright, but they have sought out many schemes, that is, humans were not content to remain in their state of righteousness but instead rebelled against God (see Genesis 3).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:1–12:7 More on Life “Under the Sun.” The Preacher continues his observations on life in a fallen world. He gives appropriate counsel for living wisely.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:1 Who is like . . . and who knows? True wisdom is rare. If one possesses such wisdom, it is obvious to others.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:2 Keep the king’s command. The verb “keep” here means “protect” or “keep watch over.” The king’s counselor should restrain the king from making foolish decisions on account of his oath to God.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:3 Be not hasty to go from his presence. When a king gives an unwise command, his counselor should not necessarily leave his service. At the same time, the counselor should not be so eager to obey the king that he becomes involved in an evil cause.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:4–6 Given the power of kings, it takes a great deal of courage to question the wisdom of the king’s decision. The wise counselor, however, will find the proper time and the just way for doing so.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:7–8 It is risky to offer correction to the king. But the counselor should remember that no man has power to retain the spirit, or power over the day of death. He should not let the king's power intimidate him into keeping quiet.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:10–13 The Preacher has already pointed out that people do not always get what they deserve in this life (3:16; 4:1; 5:8). But this does not mean that it makes no difference how one lives, for it will be well with those who fear God.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:14–15 It is a puzzling vanity that the wicked appear to escape judgment and receive blessings. It is equally puzzling that the righteous sometimes receive the treatment the wicked deserve.

FACT

The peaceful shadows of old age. The righteous will enjoy a long and peaceful old age, like the shadows of evening (8:13). There is no such hope, however, for the wicked.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:17 True wisdom includes the humility to admit that man cannot fully understand all of reality in a fallen world.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:1–6 No matter how difficult or humble a person's circumstances may be, those circumstances are to be preferred to dying, because a living dog is better than a dead lion.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:7–10 When godly people find enjoyment in life, they know that it is due to God's "approval" or "favor" (v. 7; compare 2:24–26; 3:13; 5:19–20).

FACT

"Eat, drink, and be merry"? Ecclesiastes advises those who serve God to enjoy his gifts of food, drink, comfort, married life, and honest work (9:7–9; compare 2:24–26; 3:13; 5:19–20).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:11–12 From the human perspective, many things appear to be the result of pure chance.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:13–18 Wisdom can achieve much good and is worth pursuing. Yet its benefits can be undone by evil.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:13–16 The Preacher gives an example of wisdom's ability to produce a remarkable victory. Even when such wisdom is forgotten or despised, it is still to be valued over earthly might.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:17–18 Just as one wise man can successfully overcome the worst odds, so also one sinner destroys much good.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:2 The "right hand" is often associated with strength in the OT. The Preacher is probably referring to the left to indicate weakness.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:6–7 The Preacher is aware that the poor can possess wisdom and that the wealthy ruling classes can be corrupt.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:8–12 The various disasters described in vv. 8–11 are all accidental, so the one who digs a pit is not necessarily intending to cause harm.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:14 The fact that no man knows what is to be does not prevent a fool from making many unsupported predictions.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:15 A fool's toil in the fields is more tiring than others' because he is unaware of things that would make his work easier.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:19 Bread . . . wine . . . money. The Preacher comments favorably here on each of these. Money answers everything in that it can influence a situation to produce the result one desires.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 11:1 Cast your bread upon the waters is a difficult expression. Various scholars have suggested it could refer to (1) maritime commerce; (2) diversifying one’s financial resources; (3) giving to the poor.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 11:2 It is wise to have many ways to make a living and invest resources.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 11:4 Too much time spent trying to “read the skies” will only distract one from the work that needs to be done. Those who always wait for the perfect time to begin a project will not sow and will not reap.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 11:7–8 Light . . . darkness refers to the contrast between life and death.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 11:9 Proper enjoyment of life is possible only within the moral boundaries established by God. He will evaluate all human deeds according to his righteous judgment.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 11:10 Remove vexation . . . put away pain. It is not wise to dwell on sorrow or illness.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:1 Evil days refers to the physical weakening of old age.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:2–7 This section is a symbolic picture of aging and death. The common link between most of the images used in v. 6 appears to be that they are water receptacles: since water is a symbol of life, the destruction of these items indicates the moment when life ceases and the spirit returns to God who gave it (see note on 3:21).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:8–14 Final Conclusion and Epilogue. The Preacher restates his claim that all is “vanity.” The epilogue affirms the wisdom of the Preacher, summons the reader to pay careful attention to the words of the wise, and summarizes the overall message of the book.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:11 A goad is a long stick used for guiding oxen while plowing. The words of the wise provide moral and intellectual stability like nails firmly fixed. Ultimately, such wisdom is given by one Shepherd, God.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:13–14 The Preacher has already pointed out the need to fear God (see note on 5:1–7) and to keep his commandments (compare 5:4–6; 7:17–18). The whole duty of man thus involves genuine faith in God, as well as good works, which are the inevitable result of true faith (see James 2:14). God will bring every deed into judgment (compare Eccles. 11:9), thus it is important to obey his commands.

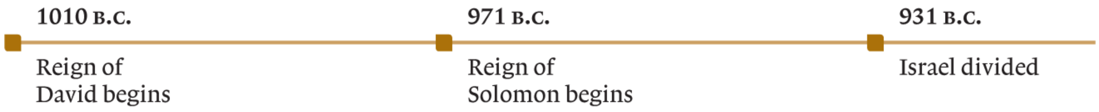
Introduction to The Song of Solomon

Introduction to The Song of Solomon

Timeline



Author and Date

The wording of the first verse in Song of Solomon (or Song of Songs; 1:1) does not necessarily mean that Solomon wrote the book. It may have been written by Solomon himself, or it could have been written in his honor. When he is mentioned (1:5; 3:7, 9, 11; 8:11–12), it is generally as a distant, even idealized figure. What is known about Solomon suggests that he probably was not the writer himself (1 Kings 3:1; 11:1–8). However, the book was probably composed during Solomon's time, perhaps under his oversight, between c. 960 and 931 B.C.

Theme

The Song of Solomon contains beautiful poetry expressing romantic love between a young man and a young woman in ancient Israel. He is a shepherd (1:7) and she is a shepherdess (1:8). They are looking forward to their marriage and the pleasure it will bring.

Interpreting Literary Images

The Song of Solomon includes several extravagant comparisons. For example, the woman is compared to a horse in Pharaoh's court (1:9), and her hair is compared to a flock of goats (4:1). It is helpful to remember that (1) the comparisons are figurative rather than literal, and (2) what the person has in common with what he or she is compared with is a certain quality, usually the quality of excellence, or of being the best of its kind.

Structure

The author has presented the Song of Solomon as a series of exchanges, mostly between the shepherdess and the shepherd, with the chorus-like "others" sprinkled in. These others usually pick up items from the lovers' speeches and urge the two forward in love. There is also a refrain, "I adjure you, O daughters of Jerusalem, . . . that you not stir up or awaken love until it pleases" (2:7; 3:5; 8:4; variation in 5:8), spoken by the shepherdess. This is understood as her urging the other women not to push this love too fast, in order to let it reach its consummation at the right time (the marriage bed, which seems to begin in 8:5).

Key Themes

1. God's law commands sexual purity. Marriage provides the right framework within which his people may properly enjoy the gift of sexual intimacy (see Gen. 2:23–24). Thus God's people honor him and commend him to the world when they demonstrate with their lives that obedience in such matters brings genuine delight.
2. Marriage is a gift of God, and is to be founded on loyalty and commitment (see Gen. 2:24, "hold fast"), which allows delight to flourish. As such, it is a fitting image for God's relationship with his people.

The Global Message of The Song of Solomon

The Song of Solomon paints a beautifully passionate, pure, and even provocative picture of marriage and sexuality. It may seem remarkable, to Christians and nonbelievers alike, that such a book is a part of the biblical canon. And how different Scripture would be without this book! What, then, is the global message of the Song of Solomon? What message does the universal church need to hear from its pages?

God’s Glorious Design in Marriage and Sexuality

Sexuality was God’s idea. Human sexuality is one of God’s most marvelous and blessed ideas. God is not boring, prudish, or ashamed of sex. To make the mating procedure whereby procreation takes place an experience of intense attraction, intense bonding, and intense pleasure was his idea! The beauty of human sexuality is expressed thoroughly and without hesitation in the Song of Solomon. The very first words of the young maiden express her intense desire for her beloved: “Let him kiss me with the kisses of his mouth!” (Song 1:2). There is a refreshing freedom, joy, and delight expressed by the couple in their passionate mutual admiration (1:9–10, 12–16; 2:9, 14; 4:1–15; 5:10–16; 6:5–10; 7:1–9), their intense sexual longing for marriage (1:2–2:17; 7:11–8:3), and the final and wonderful consummation of their marriage bond.

God’s gift to all humanity. The command to become one flesh pre-dates the fall (Gen. 1:28). Sex was not a concession to sinful mankind. It was a blessed provision and gift from God for humanity to enjoy. It is a gift of common grace.

God’s design for sexuality. God designed sex to be enjoyed within the marriage context. The repeated admonition not to “stir up or awaken love until it pleases” emphasizes that there is a right and a wrong time for sex (see Song 2:7; 3:5; 8:4). Scripture strongly forbids the improper use and context of sex. For example, sex outside of marriage, or with someone other than one’s spouse, or with someone of the same sex are explicitly prohibited (Lev. 18:22; Prov. 5:20–23; 1 Cor. 6:9). Yet Scripture just as strongly commends the full enjoyment of sex within the God-ordained context of marriage (Prov. 5:15–19; 1 Cor. 7:3). Such sexual enjoyment between a husband and wife is a blessed expression of lifelong commitment and mutual delight. There is joyful celebration of the beauty of creation in the human body in all its features and distinctiveness. There is a wonder and glory in God's creation of male and female, and the beauty of each gender complements the other. There is freedom and security found in unrivaled, exclusive, passionate, and lifelong commitment.

The Song of Solomon is refreshingly honest in acknowledging that waiting for love and not misusing sexuality are difficult. Sexual longing is not wrong, but sexual enjoyment before marriage defiles God's design. Though sexual desire is great, sexual enjoyment must be waited for and enjoyed in God's proper timing and design.

The World's Broken Sexuality

This is a message that our world needs to hear. One of the most painful expressions of the fall of mankind in our world today is in the area of sexuality. Sexuality is broadly misunderstood, misused, and abused. While various cultures and each generation offer varied and supposedly "progressive" perspectives on sexuality, God's view is timeless.

We live in a fallen world in need of a Savior. Marital conflict, divorce, sexual immorality, and sexual abuse teach us of the painful impact of sin and each person's desperate need for a Savior. The Internet has radically transformed the nature of pornography, now that it is almost universally accessible. Around the world there is an unprecedented amount of trafficking in human beings, a large proportion of whom are exploited and abused in the sex industry. Such abuse of men, women, and even children, all of whom are made in God's image and have inherent dignity, is wicked. Indeed, it is one of the most God-offending, pervasive, and evil forms of wrongful sexuality in our world today.

The Global Church's Witness in Sexuality

Through Christ, God's design for humanity in all its fullness is being restored and renewed. The Song of Solomon presents a picture of God-honoring sexual delight that is one expression of the blessed life that we have in Christ and his glorious redemption.

Christians, however, have often been among those who have misunderstood or misused sexuality. Some have taught or have been taught to be ashamed of sex. To lack joy and delight in the gift of sexuality within marriage is to miss God's perfect design and provision. There is also brokenness in the global church because of failing marriages, adultery, and sexual abuse. Such sexual abuse has stained not only the church but also its leaders.

There is a need for discussion and teaching about sexuality within the church. This is utterly countercultural in some societies, where sex is not something openly discussed. Whatever its cultural situation, however, the church must take up its responsibility to teach about such topics rather than allowing its people to learn about sexuality from secular society.

Discussion and teaching about issues of sexuality should be forthright but also appropriately modest. It requires cultural sensitivity and biblical wisdom. The content of such teachings and discussions will likely challenge cultural norms. In addition to such discussion there is need for repentance, gospel renewal, mentoring, and encouragement.

Our Witness to the World regarding Sexuality

The area of sexuality and the beautiful picture presented in the Song of Solomon are opportunities to share with the world the blessed "otherness," the holiness and beauty, of the Christian faith.

The original meaning of the word "martyr" is "witness." This word was used in the early days of Christianity not merely for those who suffered death for the faith; it was more broadly applied to every Christian's privilege to bear witness to Christ and the Christian faith, whether in life or death. As witnesses, Christians have the tremendous opportunity to share and to show to the world the power of the gospel of Jesus Christ and the glorious vision of a life renewed in the gospel. Such witness can be displayed to the world in each sphere of life—in finances, work, family, leisure, study, and even in sexuality.

Christians should have more accurate things to say about sex and a more rightful enjoyment of sex than anyone. This is a part of our living and visible witness to the world—that God and God's ways are right and righteous and joy-filled. The enjoyment and the jealous protection of love are "flashes of fire, the very flame of the Lord" (Song 8:6). Through Christ, God is jealously and graciously restoring humanity. A part of that restoration is in the blessed enjoyment of and witness to God's wonderful gift of sexuality.

SONG OF SOLOMON 1 [†]The Song of [a]Songs, which is Solomon's.

The Bride Confesses Her Love

SHE [1]

[2][†] Let him kiss me with the kisses of his mouth!
For your [b]love is better than wine;
[3][†] your [c]anointing oils are fragrant;
your [d]name is oil poured out;
therefore virgins love you.
[4][†] [e]Draw me after you; [f]let us run.
[g]The king has brought me into his chambers.

OTHERS

We will [h]exult and rejoice in you;
we will extol [b]your love more than wine;
rightly do they love you.

SHE

[5][†] I am very dark, but [i]lovely,
O [j]daughters of Jerusalem,
like [k]the tents of [l]Kedar,
like the curtains of Solomon.
[6][†] Do not gaze at me because I am dark, because the sun has looked upon me.
My [m]mother's sons were angry with me;
they made me [n]keeper of [o]the vineyards,
but [p]my own vineyard I have not kept!
[7] Tell me, you [q]whom my soul loves,
where you [r]pasture your flock,
where you make it [s]lie down at noon;
for why should I be like one who veils herself beside the flocks of your [t]companions?

Solomon and His Bride Delight in Each Other

HE

8[†] If you do not know,
O [u] most beautiful among women, follow in the tracks of the flock, and pasture your young goats beside the shepherds' tents.

9 I compare you, [v] my love,
to [w] a mare among Pharaoh's chariots.
10 [x] Your cheeks are lovely with ornaments, your neck with strings of jewels.

OTHERS

11 We will make for you [2] ornaments of gold, studded with silver.

SHE

12[†] While [y] the king was on his couch, my [z] nard gave forth its fragrance.
13[†] My beloved is to me a sachet of [a] myrrh that lies between my breasts.
14[†] My beloved is to me a cluster of [b] henna blossoms in the vineyards of [c] Engedi.

HE

15 [d] Behold, [e] you are beautiful, [f] my love;
behold, you are beautiful;
your [g] eyes are doves.

SHE

16[†] Behold, you are beautiful, [h] my beloved, truly [i] delightful.
Our couch is green;
17 the beams of our house are [j] cedar;
our rafters are [j] pine.

SONG OF SOLOMON 2 [†] I am a rose [1] of Sharon, [k] a lily of the valleys.

He

[2][†] As a lily among brambles, so is [l] my love among the young women.

She

[3][†] As an apple tree among the trees of the forest, so is my [m] beloved among the young men.
With great delight I sat [n] in his shadow,
and his [o] fruit was sweet to my taste.
[4] He [p] brought me to the banqueting house, [2]
and his [q] banner over me was love.
[5] Sustain me with [r] raisins;
refresh me with apples,
[s] for I am sick with love.
[6][†] His [t] left hand is under my head,
and his right hand [u] embraces me!
[7][†] I [v] adjure you, [3] O [w] daughters of Jerusalem, by [x] the gazelles or the does of the field,
that you not stir up or awaken love
until it pleases.

The Bride Adores Her Beloved

[8][†] The voice of my beloved!
Behold, he comes,
leaping [y] over the mountains,
bounding over the hills.
[9] My beloved is like [z] a gazelle or a young stag.
Behold, there he stands behind our wall,
gazing through the windows,
looking through the lattice.

10[†] My beloved speaks and says to me:
[a] “Arise, my love, my beautiful one,
and come away,
11[†] for behold, the winter is past;
[b] the rain is over and gone.
12 [c] The flowers appear on the earth, the time of singing [4] has come,
and the voice of [d] the turtledove is heard in our land.
13 [e] The fig tree ripens its figs, and [f] the vines are in blossom;
they give forth fragrance.
[g] Arise, my love, my beautiful one,
and come away.
14 O my [h] dove, in the [i] clefts of the rock,
in the crannies of the cliff,
let me see your face,
let me [j] hear your voice,
for your voice is sweet,
and your face is [k] lovely.
15[†] Catch [l] the foxes [5] for us, the little foxes
that spoil the vineyards,
[f] for our vineyards are in blossom.”

16 [m] My beloved is mine, and I am his;
he [n] grazes [6] among the lilies.
17[†] Until [o] the day breathes and [p] the shadows flee, turn, my beloved, be like [q] a gazelle or a young stag on cleft mountains. [7]

The Bride’s Dream

SONG OF SOLOMON 3 [†] On my bed [r] by night

I sought [s] him whom my soul loves;
[t] I sought him, but found him not.
2 I will rise now and go about the city,
in [u] the streets and in the squares;
I will seek [s] him whom my soul loves.
I sought him, but found him not.
3 [v] The watchmen found me
as they went about in the city.
“Have you seen him whom my soul loves?”
4[†] Scarcely had I passed them when I found [s] him whom my soul loves.
I [w] held him, and would not let him go until I had [x] brought him into my mother’s house,
and into the chamber of [y] her who conceived me.
5 [z] I adjure you, [a] O daughters of Jerusalem,
[b] by the gazelles or the does of the field,
that you not stir up or awaken love
until it pleases.

Solomon Arrives for the Wedding

6[†] [c] What is that coming up from the wilderness like [d] columns of smoke, perfumed with [e] myrrh and frankincense,
with all the fragrant powders of a merchant?
7[†] Behold, it is the litter [1] of Solomon!
Around it are [f] sixty [g] mighty men,
some of the mighty men of Israel, 8 all of them wearing swords and expert in war,
each with his [h] sword at his thigh,
against [i] terror by night.
9 King Solomon made himself a carriage [2]
from the wood of Lebanon.
10 He made its posts of silver, its back of gold, its seat of purple;

its interior was inlaid with love
by [j] the daughters of Jerusalem.
[11] Go out, O [k] daughters of Zion, and look upon King Solomon, with the crown with which his mother crowned him on [l] the day of his wedding, on the day of the gladness of his heart.

Solomon Admires His Bride’s Beauty

He

SONG OF SOLOMON 4 [†] Behold, [m] you are beautiful, my love,
behold, you are beautiful!
[n] Your eyes are doves
[o] behind your veil.
[p] Your hair is like a flock of goats leaping down [q] the slopes of Gilead.
[2][†] Your [r] teeth are like a flock of shorn ewes that have come up from the washing,
all of which bear twins,
and not one among them has lost its young.
[3] Your lips are like [s] a scarlet thread,
and your mouth is [t] lovely.
Your [u] cheeks are like halves of a pomegranate
[o] behind your veil.
[4][†] Your [v] neck is like the tower of David, built in [w] rows of stone; [1]
on it [x] hang a thousand shields, all of [y] them shields of warriors.
[5][†] Your [z] two breasts are like two [a] fawns,
twins of a gazelle,
that [b] graze among the lilies.
[6][†] [c] Until the day breathes and the shadows flee,

I will go away to the mountain of [d] myrrh and the hill of [d] frankincense.
7 [e] You are altogether beautiful, my love;
there is no [f] flaw in you.
8[†] [g] Come with me from [h] Lebanon, my [i] bride;
come with me from [h] Lebanon.
Depart [2] from the peak of Amana, from the peak of [j] Senir and [k] Hermon,
from the dens of lions,
from the mountains of leopards.

9[†] You have captivated my heart, my [l] sister, my bride;
you have captivated my heart with one glance of your eyes,
with one [m] jewel of your necklace.
10 How beautiful is your love, my [l] sister, my bride!
How much [n] better is your love than wine,
and [o] the fragrance of your oils than any spice!
11 Your [p] lips drip nectar, my bride;
[q] honey and milk are under your tongue;
the fragrance of your garments is [r] like the fragrance of [h] Lebanon.
12[†] A garden locked is my [l] sister, my bride,
a spring locked, [s] a fountain [t] sealed.
13 Your shoots are [u] an orchard of pomegranates with all [v] choicest fruits, [w] henna with [x] nard,
14 nard and saffron, [y] calamus and [y] cinnamon, with all trees of [z] frankincense, [a] myrrh and [b] aloes,
with all [v] choice spices—15[†] a garden fountain, a well of [c] living water, and flowing streams from [h] Lebanon.

16[†] Awake, O north wind, and come, O south wind!

Blow upon my [d] garden,
let its spices flow.

Together in the Garden of Love

She

[e] Let my beloved come to his [f] garden, and eat its [v] choicest fruits.

He

SONG OF SOLOMON 5 [†] I [g] came to my garden, my [h] sister, my bride,
I gathered my [i] myrrh with my spice,
I ate my [j] honeycomb with my honey,
I [k] drank my wine with my milk.

Others

Eat, [l] friends, drink, and be drunk with love!

The Bride Searches for Her Beloved

She

[2][†] I slept, but my heart was awake.
A sound! My beloved is [m] knocking.
“Open to me, my [n] sister, my [o] love, my [p] dove, my [q] perfect one,
for my head is wet with dew,
my [r] locks with the drops of the night.”
[3][†] [s] I had put off my garment;
how could I put it on?
I had [t] bathed my feet;
how could I soil them?
[4][†] My beloved put his hand to the latch,
and my heart was thrilled within me.

[5] I arose to open to my beloved,
and my hands dripped with myrrh,
my fingers with [u] liquid myrrh,
on the handles of the bolt.
[6] I opened to my beloved,
but my beloved had turned and gone.
My soul failed me when he [v] spoke.
[w] I sought him, but found him not;
[x] I called him, but he gave no answer.
[7] [y] The watchmen found me
as they went about in the city;
they beat me, they bruised me,
they took away my veil,
those watchmen of the walls.
[8][†] I [z] adjure you, O [a] daughters of Jerusalem,
if you find my beloved,
that you tell him
[b] I am sick with love.

OTHERS

[9] What is your beloved more than another beloved,
O [c] most beautiful among women?
What is your beloved more than another beloved,
that you thus [z] adjure us?

The Bride Praises Her Beloved

SHE

[10] My beloved is radiant and [d] ruddy,
[e] distinguished among ten thousand.
[11] His head is the finest gold;
[f] his locks are wavy,
black as a raven.
[12] His [g] eyes are like doves beside streams of water,

bathed in milk,
sitting beside a full pool. [1] 13[†] His [i] cheeks are like [j] beds of spices, mounds of sweet-smelling herbs.
His lips are [k] lilies,
dripping [u] liquid myrrh.
14[†] His arms are rods of gold, set with [l] jewels.
His body is polished ivory, [2] bedecked with [m] sapphires. [3] 15 His legs are alabaster columns, set on bases of gold.
His appearance is like [o] Lebanon,
choice as the cedars.
16 His [p] mouth [4] is most sweet,
and he is altogether desirable.
This is my beloved and this is my friend,
O [a] daughters of Jerusalem.

OTHERS

SONG OF SOLOMON 6 [†] Where has your beloved gone,
O [c] most beautiful among women?
Where has your beloved turned,
that we may seek him with you?

Together in the Garden of Love

SHE

2[†] My beloved has gone down to his [q] garden to [r] the beds of spices, to [s] graze [1] in the gardens and to gather [t] lilies.
3[†] [u] I am my beloved’s and my beloved is mine;
he grazes among the lilies.

Solomon and His Bride Delight in Each Other

HE

4[†] You are beautiful as [v]Tirzah, [w]my love,
[x]lovely as [y]Jerusalem,
[z]awesome as an army with banners.
5[†] Turn away your eyes from me,
for they overwhelm me—[a]Your hair is like a flock of goats leaping down the slopes of Gilead.
6 [b]Your teeth are like a flock of ewes
that have come up from the washing;
all of them bear twins;
not one among them has lost its young.
7 [c]Your cheeks are like halves of a pomegranate behind your veil.
8[†] There are [d]sixty [e]queens and eighty [e]concubines, and [f]virgins without number.
9 My [g]dove, my [h]perfect one, is the only one,
the only one of her mother,
pure to [i]her who bore her.
[j]The young women saw her and called her blessed;
[e]the queens and [e]concubines also, and they praised her.

10[†] [k]"Who is this who looks down like the dawn, beautiful as the moon, bright as the sun, [l]awesome as an army with banners?"

SHE

11 I went down to the nut orchard to look at [m]the blossoms of the valley, [n]to see whether the vines had budded,
whether the pomegranates were in bloom.
12 [o]Before I was aware, my desire set me among [p]the chariots of my kinsman, a prince. [2]

OTHERS

13[†] [3] Return, return, O [q] Shulammite, return, return, that we may look upon you.

HE

Why should you look upon [q] the Shulammite, as upon [r] a dance before [s] two armies? [4]

SONG OF SOLOMON 7 [†] How beautiful are your feet in sandals,
O [t] noble daughter!
Your rounded thighs are like [u] jewels,
the work of [v] a master hand.
2 Your navel is a rounded bowl that never lacks mixed wine.
Your belly is a heap of wheat, encircled with [w] lilies.
3 [x] Your two breasts are like two fawns,
twins of a gazelle.
4[†] Your [y] neck is like an ivory tower.
Your [z] eyes are pools in [a] Heshbon,
by the gate of Bath-rabbim.
Your nose is like a tower of [b] Lebanon, which looks toward [c] Damascus.
5 Your head crowns you like [e] Carmel, and your [f] flowing locks are like purple;
a king is held captive in the tresses.

6 [g] How beautiful and [h] pleasant you are,
O loved one, with all your delights! [1]
7[†] Your stature is like a palm tree, and your breasts are like its clusters.
8 I say I will climb the palm tree and lay hold of its fruit.
Oh may your breasts be like [i] clusters of the vine,
and the scent of your breath like apples,

9 and your [j] mouth [2] like the best wine.

SHE

It goes down smoothly for my beloved, gliding over lips and teeth. [3]

10[†] [k] I am my beloved's,
[l] and his desire is for me.

The Bride Gives Her Love

11 [m] Come, my beloved, let us go out into the fields and lodge in the villages; [4] 12 let us go out early to the vineyards [n] and see whether the vines have budded, whether [o] the grape blossoms have opened and the pomegranates are in bloom.
There I will give you my love.
13[†] [p] The mandrakes give forth fragrance,
and beside our doors are all choice fruits, [q] new as well as old,
which I have laid up for you, O my beloved.

Longing for Her Beloved

SONG OF SOLOMON 8 [†] Oh that you were like a brother to me who nursed at my mother's breasts!
If I found you outside, I would kiss you,
and none would despise me.
2 I would lead you and [r] bring you into the house of my mother—
she who used to teach me.
I would give you [s] spiced wine to drink,
the juice of my pomegranate.
3 [t] His left hand is under my head, and his right hand embraces me!

4[†] I [u] adjure you, O [v] daughters of Jerusalem, [w] that you not stir up or awaken love
until it pleases.

5[†] [x] Who is that coming up from the wilderness, leaning on her beloved?

Under the apple tree I awakened you.
There your mother was in labor with you;
there she who bore you was in labor.

6[†] Set me as a seal upon your heart,
as [y] a seal upon your arm,
for [z] love is strong as death,
[a] jealousy [1] is fierce as the grave. [2]
Its flashes are flashes of fire,
the very [b] flame of the LORD.
7[†] Many waters cannot quench love, neither can floods drown it.
If a man offered for love
all the wealth of his [c] house, he [3] would be utterly despised.

Final Advice

OTHERS

8 We have a little sister, and she [d] has no breasts.
What shall we do for our sister on the day when she is spoken for?
9 If she is a wall,
we will build on her a battlement of silver,
but if she is a door,
we will enclose her with [e] boards of cedar.

SHE

10 [f] I was a wall,
and my [g] breasts were like towers;
then I was in his eyes
as one who finds [4] peace.

11 Solomon had [h] a vineyard at Baal-hamon;
he [i] let out the vineyard to [j] keepers;
each one was to bring for its fruit [k] a thousand pieces of silver.
12 My vineyard, my very own, is before me;
you, O Solomon, may have the thousand,
and [l] the keepers of the fruit two hundred.

HE

13 [m] O you who dwell in the gardens, with [n] companions listening for your voice;
[o] let me hear it.

SHE

14 [†] [p] Make haste, my beloved, and be [q] like a gazelle
or a young stag
on [r] the mountains of spices.

Study Notes for Song of Solomon

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:1 Title: The Best of Songs. The Hebrew word for "song" identifies the book as expressing joy rather than sorrow. Song of Songs probably means the very best of songs.

1:2–2:17 The Lovers Yearn for Each Other. The two main characters, apparently betrothed, are introduced as they sing of their desire for each other. On the difference between betrothal and engagement, see note on Matt. 1:18.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:3 name . . . oil. In Hebrew, the two words sound similar. "Name" refers to the man's reputation, which is as enchanting as perfume.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:4b This is the first speech of the "others," who function as a chorus. They join the shepherdess in her praise for the shepherd (you is masculine) by picking up her words from v. 2.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:5 dark, but lovely. The shepherd girl has spent her life working in the sun (in the vineyard, v. 6; caring for the flock, v. 8). She is not dainty like some refined young women.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:6 My own vineyard refers in a poetic image to the woman's physical appearance. The sun has damaged her skin as she has tended her family's vineyard.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:8 This is the man's first appearance. Here he offers a playful answer to the woman's question of where to find him. She cares for a flock, as he does (v. 7).

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:12 Nard was a fragrance extracted from a plant (see 4:13–14). For the romantic effect of a "fragrance," see 7:13.

FACT

The man in this love story compared his beloved to a mare among Pharaoh's chariots (1:9). Only the best and most handsome of mares would have been chosen for important processions, and they would have been well-adorned with jewels and ornaments. This was the man's way of saying that his beloved's beauty is incomparable.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:13 My beloved is the woman's most common term of endearment for the man (31 times).

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:14 Engedi is an oasis on the dry and desolate western bank of the Dead Sea—a location with obvious appeal.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:16–17 The couch, house, and rafters are all compared to a lush woodland location. This may indicate that the man and woman are outdoors.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:1 The rose of Sharon was probably similar to the lily (see ESV footnote).

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:2 The man responds by contrasting the woman's beauty favorably with others, whom he refers to as brambles (prickly, thorny shrubs).

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:3 Apple tree describes a sweet fruit tree, providing pleasant shade and refreshing food. It is quite distinct from the other trees of the forest. The woman declares her beloved to be better than other men (compare his description of her; v. 2).

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:6 embraces. Sometimes this term refers to sexual activity (e.g., Prov. 5:20). It can also describe the embrace of affection (e.g., Gen. 29:13; 33:4). Here it is not necessarily sexual, although the context would indicate great intimacy. These lines are repeated almost exactly in Song 8:3.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:7 It is clear that the couple is already in love. They must allow their love to proceed at its proper pace, however, which includes waiting until marriage for consummation (see 8:4).

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:8 Mountains and hills probably describe obstacles to their love that the man overcomes (compare v. 15).

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:10 Arise, my love, my beautiful one, and come away is repeated at the end of v. 13.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:11–13 Springtime is often celebrated as a time for lovers.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:15–16 Foxes represent difficulties that are threatening their relationship.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:17 Presumably the woman wants her beloved to turn toward her rather than away from her.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:1–6:3 The Shepherdess Dreams. The woman reports her dream, which comes from her eager anticipation of the consummation of their love. That this is a dream is suggested by 3:1 and 5:2. The dream includes romantic longings, fears of losing her beloved, nightmarish scenes (5:7), and an imaginative transformation of the beloved into a Solomon-like figure (3:6–11).

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:1–5 The woman longs for her lover, searches for him persistently, eventually finds him, and takes him to an intimate place. This could simply be poetical imagination, but it is more likely a dream (see note on 3:1–6:3).

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:1 Soul often refers to the whole person, encompassing the woman’s desires, thoughts, and feelings.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:4 chamber of her who conceived me. Her mother’s bedroom presents a secure and intimate place for the two lovers. The woman has a similar desire to bring her lover to this place in 8:2, where she makes it clear that she will not do so until they are married. It is best to read her search in 3:1–4 as part of her dream rather than an actual event.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:6 The man sees something he cannot identify coming up from the wilderness. This probably describes something coming from the plains toward Jerusalem, which is on a hill. frankincense. An aromatic resin from various trees and shrubs, similar to myrrh.

FACT

Purple cloth was associated with royalty because the purple dye was very difficult to produce in large quantities. Most of the purple dye came from a shellfish called the murex. It took more than 8,000 murex shellfish to extract one gram of dye.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:7 litter. A couch on which servants carry a king (ESV footnote), similar to a portable bed. Sixty mighty men (well-trained soldiers, v. 8) indicates the great wealth and power of the owner of the couch. By contrast, David had only 30 such men (see 2 Sam. 23:13).

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:1–7 The first part of v. 1 is repeated in v. 7, creating a section that describes the woman’s physical beauty. The description starts at the eyes and works downward. Although the word pictures are vivid, they may be hard for modern readers to understand.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:2 twins . . . not one . . . has lost its young. Her teeth are white, straight, and even.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:4 tower of David. The association with David increases the sense of dignity already implied in the image of a tower. The woman’s dignity is being compared to the dignity of the tower (see Introduction: Interpreting Literary Images).

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:5 Fawns (young deer) refers to the youthful appearance of her two breasts. Gazelle probably refers to her appealingly sleek form.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:6 Mountain and hill could be continuing the theme of the previous verse and refer to the woman’s breasts, or it may be a more general reference to her beauty. The point is that being with her is like inhaling an intoxicating fragrance.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:8 Amana . . . Senir . . . Hermon. The man is calling to the woman from isolated, dangerous places. The term my bride (six times in 4:8–5:1) would seem appropriate only after the wedding. This probably means that this scene (4:1–5:1) also takes place in the woman's dream, as she looks forward to what the wedding day will bring.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:9 The heart is the center of one's inner life, the place of thinking, feeling, and choosing (see Prov. 4:23).

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:12 A garden is a welcoming place for lovers. In ancient Near Eastern cultures, the term often described a woman's sexuality. A spring or fountain reflects a similar concept (see Prov. 5:15–19). Notice that her garden and spring are locked, indicating that she reserves herself for the man who will be her husband.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:15 The comparison to a garden fountain is extended to indicate the refreshing quality of the woman's sexuality.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:16 Awake, O north wind, and come, O south wind. The reference to the winds may reflect the man's desire for the woman to offer an invitation to him. This is granted in the second half of the verse.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:1 I came to my garden. In her dream, the man samples all that the woman offered him in 4:16. The chorus encourages him, echoing themes from 4:16–5:1.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:2–6:3 This dream is caused by the woman's desire to be with her beloved instead of being separated from him.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:2 The knocking she hears is in her dream. The man's request is clear: he wants to enter the house to be with the woman. Note the urgency in his command to open, and the flood of endearing names that follows.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:3 Her initial response of trivial objections is likely the kind of disorientation that one encounters in a dream, leading to the confusing episode in vv. 4–7.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:4–7 She decides to let him in, but he has already left. She pursues him. The watchmen find her and beat her (contrast 3:3), leaving her bruised (5:7). If this were an actual event, it would be unclear why the watchmen did this. As part of a dream, though, it would simply be a nightmarish episode.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:8 In 2:5 the man was present when the woman uttered the words sick with love. Now he is absent, so she is probably referring to her desire to be with him.

FACT

The woman addresses the daughters of Jerusalem four times throughout this book, creating a refrain that ties her "songs" together (2:7; 3:5; 5:8; 8:4). She urges them not to "stir up or awaken love until it pleases." In other words, they should wait until the appropriate time to enjoy romantic love.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:13 Men in ancient Israel almost always had beards. The description of his cheeks as beds of spices would apply more appropriately to a beard than to skin.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:14–16 The man is clearly the object of great praise in this section. The woman considers him to be altogether desirable.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 6:1 In 5:6 the woman lamented that her beloved "had turned and gone." Now the chorus asks her, where has your beloved gone, and where has he turned?

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 6:2 garden. See note on 4:12. The garden is his, for she has committed herself to him.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 6:3 The lovers gladly declare that they have given themselves to each other.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 6:4–8:4 The Lovers Yearn for Each Other Again. The dream of 3:1–6:3 is over. The man and woman now offer words of praise to each other.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 6:4 awesome as an army with banners. Not only is she beautiful, she inspires the most profound respect.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 6:5 The woman’s glances overwhelm the man (see 4:9).

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 6:8–9 Notice how the numbers increase from sixty to eighty to without number. The woman is without equal. All women, even royal women, praise her.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 6:10 Dawn, moon, and sun all reflect the woman’s radiant beauty.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 6:13 The chorus picks up on the idea of “looking” (v. 11). As she had gone down to the orchard to look, so they want her to return, that they might look upon her. Shulammite likely refers to the woman’s origin. The nature of the dance before two armies is unknown. The beloved intervenes and denies their request.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 7:1–9a This description of the woman’s beauty echoes that of 4:1–7 (see her description of the man in 5:10–16). They take romantic delight in each other’s physical appearance.

FACT

Vineyards, fields, and palm trees. The Song of Solomon takes place in a rural setting, and the lovers describe each other using images drawn from this context. The man is a shepherd, and the woman works in her family’s vineyard.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 7:4 As in 4:4, the woman’s neck is likened to a tower made of precious ivory. The dignity and beauty of her neck inspires the comparison.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 7:7 In ancient literature, a person of elegance was often compared to a palm tree.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 7:10 The context indicates that desire here refers to sexual desire. The thought of the man desiring her gives the shepherdess pleasure.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 7:13 It is possible that mandrakes (which sounds like my beloved in Hebrew) were seen as an aphrodisiac (see Gen. 30:14–16). Here, they appear to be seductive as they give forth fragrance.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:1 This verse seems to indicate that, in Israelite culture, romantic kisses were reserved for private situations, while a kiss of family affection was considered appropriate in public. Thus, the woman wishes that her lover were a brother.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:4 Here is the final instance of urging the daughters of Jerusalem not to stir up or awaken love until the appropriate time (compare 2:7; 3:5). The period of waiting is almost over.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:5–14 The Lovers Join in Marriage. The pair have gone from yearning to be joined together, to actually being married and consummating their union. The tension of the previous chapters—the anxious waiting, the concern for propriety—gives way to relaxed enjoyment.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:5 The Hebrew word for leaning implies that the man and woman are now married. In 2:3 the apple tree was a place of love; here it is the place of childbirth, which is what romantic love ideally leads to. I awakened you indicates that the woman sexually awakens the man as they consummate their marriage.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:6 Love, like death, is persistent, always accomplishing its goal. flame of the LORD. This is the only mention of the divine name in the entire Song of Solomon, but it is fitting in a book of covenant wisdom. Both love and the jealous desire to protect one’s marriage are gifts from the Lord.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:7 The image of many waters that cannot quench love continues the image of love as a fire in v. 6. Likewise, floods are unable to drown it.

SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:14 For gazelle and young stag, see 2:7, 17. Mountains of spices refers to the woman (see 4:6). The Song of Solomon closes with the man and woman delighting themselves with their enjoyment of each other.

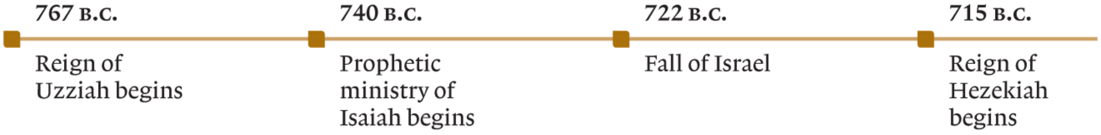
Introduction to Isaiah

Introduction to Isaiah

Timeline



Author and Date

Isaiah was called to his prophetic ministry “in the year that King Uzziah died” (6:1), around 740 B.C. He lived long enough to record the death of Sennacherib (37:38), in 681. However, most of the book can be dated only in very general terms because few specific dates are given.

Theme

The central theme of the book is God himself, who does all things for his own glory (48:11). Isaiah defines everything else by how it relates to God: is it rightly related to him as the center of all reality (45:22–25)? God’s people find strength only as they rest in the promises of their God (30:15). They find refreshment only as they delight themselves in his word (55:1–2). To serve his cause is their worthy devotion (ch. 62), but to rebel against him is endless death (66:24).

Simplified Overview of Isaiah

	Isaiah 1–39	Isaiah 40–55	Isaiah 56–66
Date and Setting	The eighth century B.C. (700s); the Assyrian threat	Prophecies for the sixth century B.C. (500s); the Babylonian exile	Prophecies about all times and occasions until the end
Audience	God’s rebellious people craving worldly security	God’s defeated people under worldly domination	All who hold fast to God’s covenant
Actions	God purifies a remnant of his apostate people through judgment	God encourages his discouraged people in exile	God prepares all of his true people for his promised salvation
Message	“In returning and rest you shall be saved; . . . But you were unwilling” (30:15)	“the glory of the Lord shall be revealed” (40:5)	“Keep justice, and do righteousness” (56:1)

Key Themes

1. God is offended by religious practices that come from an empty heart or a careless life (1:10–17; 58:1–12; 66:1–4).
2. God's true people will someday become a multinational community of worship and peace that will last forever (2:2–4; 56:3–8; 66:18–23). They will be the predominant culture of a new world (14:1–2; 41:8–16; 43:3–7; 60:1–22).
3. God opposes human pride (2:10–17; 13:11; 23:9).
4. The foolish idols that man creates are destined for destruction (2:20–21; 44:9–20; 46:1–7).
5. God's judgment will reduce Israel to a remnant. From this remnant he will raise up a holy people (1:9; 6:1–12:6; 40:1–2).
6. God sometimes judges people by making them deaf and blind to his saving word (29:9–14).
7. The only hope of the world is in one man. He is the promised Davidic king (7:14; 9:2–7; 11:1–10), the servant of the Lord (42:1–9; 52:13–53:12), the anointed preacher of the gospel (61:1–3), and the victor over all evil (63:1–6).
8. God uses everything, even human sin, for his own glory (44:24–45:13).
9. All people are called to repent of sin and trust in God alone (12:2; 26:3–4; 32:17–18; 50:10; 66:2).
10. Often, when God's people feel abandoned by him (40:27), they foolishly trust in worldly powers (31:1–3; 39:1–8).
11. God will vindicate his cause with a world-transforming display of his glory (11:10; 40:3–5; 52:10; 59:19).
12. God is guiding all of human history (41:1–4; 44:6–8; 46:8–11).
13. God's faithfulness and the certainty of his final victory should motivate his people to pray and to be obedient (56:1–2; 62:1–64:12).
14. The wrath of God is to be feared above all else (9:19; 13:9, 13; 30:27; 34:2; 66:15–16).

Outline

I. Introduction: "Ah, Sinful Nation!" (1:1–5:30)
II. God Redefines the Future of His People: "Your Guilt Is Taken Away" (6:1–12:6)
III. God's Judgment and Grace for the World: "We Have a Strong City" (13:1–27:13)

IV. God’s Sovereign Word Spoken into the World: “Ah!” (28:1–35:10)
V. Historical Transition: “In Whom Do You Now Trust?” (36:1–39:8)
VI. Encouragement for God’s Exiles: “The Glory of the Lord Shall Be Revealed” (40:1–55:13)
VII. How to Prepare for the Coming Glory: “Hold Fast My Covenant” (56:1–66:24)

The Global Message of Isaiah

A God-centered Vision of All Things

Dating from the eighth century B.C., and centering on God's promises of protection, deliverance, purging, and restoration for his guilty and defiled covenant people, the book of Isaiah presents an incredibly rich landscape of salvation history in all its eternal and global scope. God has a purpose and plan, and his eternal decree will stand. It will be neither thwarted by strong and aggressive nations (Isa. 14:26–27) nor derailed by unfaithful ones (1:4, 9). God has a message for the world that he created, and he declares without equivocation,

> "I am God, and there is none like me, declaring the end from the beginning and from ancient times things not yet done, saying, 'My counsel shall stand, and I will accomplish all my purpose.'" (Isa. 46:9–10)

At the center of this global and eternal stage stands the Lord. He stands as the sovereign God (Isa. 43:13), the Holy One of Israel (1:4; 5:19, 24; 10:20; 12:6; 17:7; 29:19; 30:11, 12, 15; 31:1; 37:23; 41:14, 16, 20; 43:3, 14; 45:11; 47:4; 48:17; 49:7; 54:5; 55:5, 60:9, 14), our redeemer (41:14; 43:14; 47:4; 48:17; 54:5), and the only Savior of the world (43:11).

Judgment and Salvation for All Nations

A righteous God. God himself is our salvation (Isa. 12:2; 17:10; 33:2, 6). He alone is "mighty to save" (63:1). He is incomparably great (40:25), and he is "holy, holy, holy" (6:3). The message of the book of Isaiah to the world begins with warning. Human pride and boasting are utterly foolish and a great danger before this righteous God (2:11–17; 10:33; 13:11; 16:6; 23:9; 28:1–4). Indeed, a day of judgment is coming (2:12–22, 24:1–23), so let all the nations of the earth take heed. Whether it is corporate greed, national pride, individual self-dependence, or Babel-like self-exaltation

(Gen. 11:1–9), this is a message for our world today. Sin will not go unpunished. The sovereign Lord is watching.

A saving God. But warning gives way to merciful promises of salvation. The message of the book of Isaiah to the world is that there is indeed a Savior, the Messiah, who has humbly, painfully, and gloriously won salvation for sinners and for all who would trust in him (Isa. 4:2; 7:14; 9:6–7; 11:1–5; 42:1–4; 52:13–53:12; 61:1–3). Death itself is swallowed up, and our reproach is removed (25:8). What an astonishing salvation! There is no one in our world today too sinful to be saved, too hurt to be healed, too lost to be found, or too far away to be brought near. God, our Savior, is Immanuel, God with us (7:14). He saves. It is who he is.

A global God. This salvation is for all nations. God's promise to Abraham to bless the nations of the world (Gen. 12:1–3) is affirmed throughout the book of Isaiah. Even as the seraphim declare that "the whole earth is full of his glory!" (Isa. 6:3), so it shall be, and so it is coming to pass even today, that the whole world will be filled with God's glory (Hab. 2:14; Num. 14:21; Ps. 72:19). In Isaiah 19 we read that one day even the hated nations of Assyria and Egypt, both of whom at some time enslaved Israel, will be included within God's gracious purposes (Isa. 19:16–25).

A trustworthy God. Our confidence in our global missionary endeavor is not in our techniques, resources, or strategies. It rests instead upon the promises and faithfulness of God. As declared in Isaiah 25:5–7, the glory of the Lord will be revealed, and all mankind will see it; the feast of the Lord Almighty will be enjoyed by all peoples, and the veil of sin, ignorance, and death will be removed from all peoples and nations! No tribe, language, people, or nation will be excluded from the salvation of the Lord (Rev. 5:9). This is not the language of exaggeration. It is the declaration of the invincible determination of our almighty and trustworthy God (Isa. 46:9–10).

Gospel Freedom and Proclamation to All Nations

A divine liberation. The gospel is a message of freedom to a world that is weary from bondage. So many among the nations are burdened—burdened by the relentless demands and empty promises of mankind's religions, philosophies, and idols. Such things are "borne as burdens on weary beasts" (Isa. 46:1). But God's message to a weary world today is that, rather than being a burden to us, the Lord himself has borne his people; he has carried us from the womb, and will carry us to our dying day, finally saving us (46:3–5).

A proclaimed salvation. God's people worldwide have the glorious privilege of proclaiming this message of freedom: "'You are my witnesses,' declares the LORD" (Isa. 43:10, 12; see also Acts 1:8). Indeed, our very lives are an indispensable part of our witness that God uses to attract the nations to himself. As Christ taught, "By this all people will know that you are my disciples, if you have love for one another" (John 13:35). The glory and goodness of God is reflected in and through his people, by their words and by their actions.

A fearless proclamation. As we serve our God, make known his deeds among the peoples (Isa. 12:4; 66:19), and herald the good news from high mountaintops (52:7), we are commanded not to fear (40:9). Because God is our salvation, we "will trust, and will not be afraid" (12:2). To those persecuted because of their witness to Christ around the world today, we have the great comfort of Isaiah 43:

"When you pass through the waters, I will be with you;
   and through the rivers, they shall not overwhelm you;
when you walk through fire you shall not be burned,
   and the flame shall not consume you." (Isa. 43:2)

God will protect, renew, and restore his global people. Our assurance rests in his deeply comforting words to us:

"Because you are precious in my eyes,
   and honored, and I love you,
I give men in return for you,
   peoples in exchange for your life." (Isa. 43:4)

He has proven this love in an ultimate way by sending us his Son to give his life in exchange for ours.

A Message of Cosmic Significance

We have a glorious message to proclaim to the world. We are to be "beautiful feet" bringing good news of happiness and salvation to the nations (Isa. 52:7). We are privileged and called to "walk in the light of the LORD" (2:5). We are to present to the world the open invitation of God—the invitation for cleansing and forgiveness (1:18). The invitation to receive compassion, feeding, care, and life (55:1–3). The invitation to seek the Lord and turn from our wicked ways (55:6–7).

With joy we will draw water from the wells of salvation (Isa. 12:3), and on that day we will all say,

> “ Give thanks to the LORD,
> call upon his name,
> make known his deeds among the peoples, > proclaim that his name is exalted.
> “Sing praises to the LORD, for he has done gloriously;
> let this be made known in all the earth.” (Isa. 12:4–5)

ISAIAH 1 [†]The [a]vision of Isaiah the son of Amoz, which he saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem [b]in the days of [c]Uzziah, [d]Jotham, [e]Ahaz, and [f]Hezekiah, kings of Judah.

The Wickedness of Judah

[2][†] [g]Hear, O heavens, and give ear, O [h]earth;
for the LORD has spoken:
“Children [1] [i]have I reared and brought up, but they have rebelled against me.
[3] The ox [j]knows its owner,
and the donkey its master’s crib,
but Israel does [j]not know,
my people do not understand.”

[4][†] Ah, sinful nation,
a people laden with iniquity, [k]offspring of evildoers, children who deal corruptly!
They have forsaken the LORD,
they have [l]despised [m]the Holy One of Israel,
they are utterly [n]estranged.

[5] Why will you still be [o]struck down?
Why will you [p]continue to rebel?
The whole head is sick,
and the whole heart faint.
[6] [q]From the sole of the foot even to the head,
there is no soundness in it,
but bruises and sores and raw wounds;
they are [r]not pressed out or bound up or softened with oil.

[7] [s]Your country lies desolate;
your cities are burned with fire;

in your very presence foreigners devour your land;
    it is desolate, as overthrown by foreigners.
8 And [t]the daughter of Zion is left like a [u]booth in a vineyard, like a lodge in a cucumber field,
    like a besieged city.

9 [v]If the LORD of hosts had not left us [w]a few survivors, we should have been like [x]Sodom,
    and become like [x]Gomorrah.

10[†] Hear the word of the LORD,
    you rulers of [y] [z]Sodom!
Give ear to the teaching [2] of our God,
    you people of [z]Gomorrah!
11[†] [a]“What to me is the multitude of your sacrifices?
    says the LORD;
I have had enough of burnt offerings of rams and the fat of well-fed beasts;
I do not delight in the blood of bulls,
    or of lambs, or of goats.

12 “When you come to [b]appear before me, who has required of you
    this trampling of my courts?
13 Bring no more vain offerings;
    incense is an abomination to me.
[c]New moon and Sabbath and the [d]calling of convocations—
    I cannot endure [e]iniquity and [f]solemn assembly.
14 Your [c]new moons and your appointed feasts
    my soul hates;
they have become a burden to me;
    I am weary of bearing them.

15 When you [g] spread out your hands,
I will hide my eyes from you;
[h] even though you make many prayers,
I will not listen;
[i] your hands are full of blood.
16 [j] Wash yourselves; make yourselves clean;
remove the evil of your deeds from before my eyes;
[k] cease to do evil,
17 learn to do good;
[l] seek justice,
correct oppression;
[m] bring justice to the fatherless, plead the widow’s cause.

18[†] “Come now, [n] let us reason [3] together, says the LORD:
though your sins are like scarlet,
they shall be as [o] white as snow;
though they are red like crimson,
they shall become like wool.
19 [p] If you are willing and obedient,
you shall eat the good of the land;
20 but if you refuse and rebel,
you shall be eaten by the sword;
[q] for the mouth of the LORD has spoken.”

The Unfaithful City

21 How the faithful city
[r] has become a whore, [4]
[s] she who was full of justice!
Righteousness lodged in her,
but now murderers.
22 [t] Your silver has become dross, your best wine mixed with water.
23 Your princes are rebels and companions of thieves.

Everyone [u] loves a bribe and runs after gifts.
[v] They do not bring justice to the fatherless,
and the widow’s cause does not come to them.

24[†] Therefore the [w] Lord declares, the LORD of hosts,
the [x] Mighty One of Israel:
“Ah, I will get relief from my enemies
[y] and avenge myself on my foes.
25 [z] I will turn my hand against you and will smelt away your [a] dross as with lye and remove all your alloy.
26 And I will restore your judges [b] as at the first,
and your counselors as at the beginning.
Afterward [c] you shall be called the city of righteousness,
the faithful city.”

27 [d] Zion shall be redeemed by justice, and those in her who repent, by righteousness.
28 [e] But rebels and sinners shall be broken together, and those who forsake the LORD shall be consumed.
29 [f] For they [5] shall be ashamed of [g] the oaks that you desired;
and you shall blush for [h] the gardens
that you have chosen.
30 For you shall be [i] like an oak whose leaf withers,
and like a garden without water.
31 And the strong shall become [j] tinder,
and his work a spark,
and both of them shall burn together,
with [k] none to quench them.

The Mountain of the LORD

ISAIAH 2 [†]The word that Isaiah the son of Amoz saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem.

[2][†] [l] It shall come to pass in the latter days that [m] the mountain of the house of the LORD shall be established as the highest of the mountains,
and shall be lifted up above the hills;
and [n] all the nations shall flow to it,
[3] and [o] many peoples shall come, and say:
“Come, let us go up to the mountain of the LORD,
to the house of the God of Jacob,
that he may teach us his ways
and that we may walk in his paths.”
For [p] out of Zion shall go the law, [1]
and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.
[4][†] He shall judge between the nations,
and shall decide disputes for many peoples;
[q] and they shall beat their swords into plowshares,
and their spears into pruning hooks;
[r] nation shall not lift up sword against nation,
neither shall they learn war anymore.

[5] O house of Jacob, come, let us walk
in [s] the light of the LORD.

The Day of the LORD

[6] For you have rejected your people,
the house of Jacob,
because they are full of things [t] from the east and [u] of fortune-tellers [v] like the Philistines, and they [w] strike hands with the children of foreigners.
[7] Their land is [x] filled with silver and gold,
and there is no end to their treasures;

their land is [y] filled with horses,
and there is no end to their chariots.
8 Their land is [z] filled with idols;
they bow down to [a] the work of their hands,
to what their own fingers have made.
9 So man [b] is humbled, and each one [b] is brought low—
do not forgive them!
10[†] [c] Enter into the rock and hide in the dust [d] from before the terror of the LORD,
and from the splendor of his majesty.
11 [e] The haughty looks of man shall be brought low,
and the lofty pride of men shall be humbled,
and the LORD alone will be exalted in that day.

12[†] [f] For the LORD of hosts has a day against all that is proud and lofty, against all that is lifted up—and it shall be brought low;
13 against all the [g] cedars of Lebanon, lofty and lifted up;
and against all the [h] oaks of Bashan;
14 against all [i] the lofty mountains,
and against all the uplifted hills;
15 against every high tower,
and against every fortified wall;
16 against all [j] the ships of Tarshish, and against all the beautiful craft.
17 [k] And the haughtiness of man shall be humbled, and the lofty pride of men shall be brought low,
and the LORD alone will be exalted in that day.
18 [l] And the idols shall utterly pass away.
19 [m] And people shall enter the caves of the rocks and the holes of the ground, [2]
from before the terror of the LORD,

and from the splendor of his majesty,
[n] when he rises to terrify the earth.

20[†] In that day [o] mankind will cast away their idols of silver and their idols of gold, which they made for themselves to worship,
to the moles and to the [p] bats, 21 [m] to enter the caverns of the rocks and the clefts of the cliffs,
from before the terror of the LORD,
and from the splendor of his majesty,
[n] when he rises to terrify the earth.
22 [q] Stop regarding man
[r] in whose nostrils is breath, for of what account is he?

Judgment on Judah and Jerusalem

ISAIAH 3 [†] For behold, the [s] Lord GOD of hosts is taking away from Jerusalem and from Judah support and supply, [1]
all [t] support of bread,
and all support of water;
2[†] [u] the mighty man and the soldier,
the judge and the prophet,
the diviner and the elder, 3 the captain of fifty and the man of rank,
the counselor and the skillful magician
and the expert in charms.
4 [v] And I will make boys their princes, and infants [2] shall rule over them.
5 [w] And the people will oppress one another, every one his fellow
and every one his neighbor;
the youth will be insolent to the elder,

and the despised to the honorable.

[6][†] For [x] a man will take hold of his brother in the house of his father, saying:
“You have a cloak;
you shall be our leader,
and this heap of ruins
shall be under your rule”;
[7] in that day he will speak out, saying:
“I will not be a [y] healer; [3]
in my house there is neither bread nor cloak;
you shall not make me leader of the people.”
[8][†] For Jerusalem has stumbled, and Judah has fallen,
because their [z] speech and their deeds are against the LORD,
[a] defying his glorious presence. [4]

[9] For the look on their faces bears witness against them;
they proclaim their sin [b] like Sodom;
they do not hide it.
Woe to them!
[c] For they have brought evil on themselves.
[10] [d] Tell the righteous that it shall be well with them, [e] for they shall eat the fruit of their deeds.
[11] [f] Woe to the wicked! It shall be ill with him, for what his hands have dealt out shall be done to him.
[12] My people—[g] infants are their oppressors,
and women rule over them.
O my people, [h] your guides mislead you and they have swallowed up [5] the course of your paths.

[13] The LORD [i] has taken his place to contend;
he stands to judge peoples.
[14] The LORD will enter into judgment with the [j] elders and princes of his people:

"It is you who [k] have devoured [6] the vineyard,
[l] the spoil of the poor is in your houses.
15 What do you mean by [m] crushing my people, by grinding the face of the poor?"
declares the Lord GOD of hosts.

16 The LORD said:
[n] Because [o] the daughters of Zion are haughty and walk with outstretched necks, glancing wantonly with their eyes,
mincing along as they go,
[p] tinkling with their feet,
17 therefore the Lord [q] will strike with a scab
the heads of [o] the daughters of Zion, and the LORD will lay bare their secret parts.

18 In that day the Lord will take away [r] the finery of the anklets, the [s] headbands, and the [t] crescents; 19 the pendants, the bracelets, and the scarves; 20 the [u] headdresses, the armlets, the sashes, the perfume boxes, and the amulets; 21 the signet rings and [v] nose rings; 22 the [w] festal robes, the mantles, the cloaks, and the handbags; 23 the mirrors, the linen garments, the turbans, and the veils.

24 [†] Instead of [x] perfume there will be rottenness;
and instead of a [y] belt, a rope;
and instead of [z] well-set hair, [a] baldness;
and instead of a rich robe, a [b] skirt of sackcloth;
and [c] branding instead of beauty.
25 Your men shall fall by the sword and your mighty men in battle.
26 And [d] her gates shall lament and mourn;
empty, she shall [e] sit on the ground.

ISAIAH 4 [f] And seven women [g] shall take hold of [f] one man in that day, saying, “We will eat our own bread and wear our own clothes, only let us be called by your name; [h] take away our reproach.”

The Branch of the Lord Glorified

[2][†]In that day [i] the branch of the Lord shall be beautiful and glorious, and [j] the fruit of the land shall be the pride and honor of the survivors of Israel. [3][†] [k] And he who is left in Zion and remains in Jerusalem will be called [l] holy, everyone who has [m] been recorded for life in Jerusalem, [4]when [n] the Lord shall have washed away the filth of [o] the daughters of Zion and cleansed the bloodstains of Jerusalem from its midst by a spirit of judgment and by [p] a spirit of burning. [1] [5][†]Then the Lord will create over the whole site of Mount Zion and over her assemblies [q] a cloud by day, and smoke and the shining of a flaming fire by night; for over all the glory there will be [r] a canopy. [6] [s] There will be a [t] booth for shade by day from the heat, and [u] for a refuge and a shelter from the storm and rain.

The Vineyard of the Lord Destroyed

ISAIAH 5 [†] Let me sing for my beloved my love song concerning his vineyard:
My beloved had [v] a vineyard on a very fertile hill.
[2][†] He dug it and cleared it of stones, and planted it with [w] choice vines;
he built a watchtower in the midst of it,
and hewed out a wine vat in it;
and [x] he looked for it to yield grapes,
but it yielded wild grapes.

[3] And now, O inhabitants of Jerusalem and men of Judah,
judge between me and my vineyard.
[4] [y] What more was there to do for my vineyard, that I have not done in it?

[x] When I looked for it to yield grapes, why did it yield wild grapes?

5 And now I will tell you what I will do to my vineyard.
I will remove [z] its hedge,
and it shall be devoured; [1]
[a] I will break down its wall, and it shall be trampled down.
6 I will make it a waste;
it shall not be pruned or hoed,
and [b] briers and thorns shall grow up;
[c] I will also command the clouds that they rain no rain upon it.

7[†] [d] For the vineyard of the LORD of hosts is the house of Israel, and the men of Judah are his pleasant planting;
and he looked for justice, but behold, bloodshed; [2]
for righteousness,
but behold, an outcry! [3]

Woe to the Wicked

8[†] Woe to those who [e] join house to house, who add field to field,
until there is no more room,
and you are made to dwell alone
in the midst of the land.
9 The LORD of hosts has sworn in my hearing:
[f] "Surely many houses shall be desolate, large and beautiful houses, without inhabitant.
10 [g] For ten acres [4] of vineyard shall yield but one bath, and a [h] homer of seed shall yield but an ephah." [5]

11 Woe to those who [i]rise early in the morning, that they may run after strong drink, who tarry late into the evening
as wine inflames them!
12 [j]They have lyre and harp, tambourine and flute and wine at their feasts, [k]but they do not regard the deeds of the LORD, or see the work of his hands.

13 Therefore my people go into exile
[l]for lack of knowledge; [6] their [m]honored men go hungry, [7]
and their multitude is parched with thirst.
14[†] Therefore Sheol has [n]enlarged its appetite and opened [o]its mouth beyond measure, and the nobility of Jerusalem [8] and her multitude will go down, her revelers and he who [p]exults in her.
15 [q]Man is humbled, and each one is brought low,
and the eyes of the haughty [9] are brought low.
16 [r]But the LORD of hosts is exalted [10] in justice, and the Holy God shows himself holy in righteousness.
17 Then shall the lambs graze [s]as in their pasture, and [t]nomads shall eat among the ruins of the rich.

18[†] Woe to those who draw iniquity with [u]cords of falsehood, who draw sin as with cart ropes, 19 who say: [v]“Let him be quick, let him speed his work
that we may see it;
let the counsel of the Holy One of Israel draw near,
and let it come, that we may know it!”
20 Woe to [w]those who call evil good and good evil,
[x]who put darkness for light and light for darkness,

who put bitter for sweet and sweet for bitter!
21 Woe to those who are [y] wise in their own eyes,
and shrewd in their own sight!
22 Woe to those who are [z] heroes at drinking wine, and valiant men in mixing strong drink, 23 who [a] acquit the guilty for a bribe,
and deprive the innocent of his right!

24[†] Therefore, [b] as the tongue of fire devours the stubble, and as dry grass sinks down in the flame,
so [c] their root will be [d] as rottenness,
and their blossom go up like dust;
for they have [e] rejected the law of the LORD of hosts, and have [f] despised the word of the Holy One of Israel.
25 Therefore [g] the anger of the LORD was kindled against his people, and he stretched out his hand against them and struck them,
and [h] the mountains quaked;
and their corpses were [i] as refuse in the midst of the streets.
[j] For all this his anger has not turned away,
and his hand is stretched out still.

26[†] He will [k] raise a signal for nations far away, and [l] whistle for them [m] from the ends of the earth;
and behold, quickly, speedily they come!
27[†] [n] None is weary, none stumbles, none slumbers or sleeps,
not a waistband is loose,
not a sandal strap broken; 28 [o] their arrows are sharp,
all their bows bent,
their horses’ hoofs seem like flint,
and their wheels [p] like the whirlwind.
29 Their roaring is like a lion,

like young lions they roar;
they growl and [q] seize their prey;
they carry it off, and none can rescue.
30[†] They will growl over it on that day,
like the growling of the sea.
And if one looks to the land,
behold, [r] darkness and distress;
and the light is darkened by its clouds.

Isaiah's Vision of the Lord

ISAIAH 6 [†]In the year that [s] King Uzziah died I [t] saw the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up; and the train [1] of his robe filled the temple. 2[†]Above him stood the seraphim. Each had [u] six wings: with two he covered his face, and with two he covered his feet, and with two he flew. 3[†]And one called to another and said:

[u] "Holy, holy, holy is the LORD of hosts;
[v] the whole earth is full of his glory!" [2]

4[†]And [w] the foundations of the thresholds shook at the voice of him who called, and [x] the house was filled with smoke. 5And I said: "Woe is me! [y] For I am lost; [z] for I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips; for my eyes have seen the [a] King, the LORD of hosts!"

6[†]Then one of the seraphim flew to me, having in his hand a burning coal that he had taken with tongs from the altar. 7And he [b] touched my mouth and said: "Behold, this has touched your lips; your guilt is taken away, and your sin atoned for."

Isaiah's Commission from the Lord

8[†]And I heard the voice of the Lord saying, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for [c] us?" Then I said, "Here I am! Send me." 9[†]And he said, "Go, and say to this people:

[d]"'Keep on hearing, [3] but do not understand;
keep on seeing, [4] but do not perceive.'
10 [e]Make the heart of this people [f]dull, [5] and their ears heavy,
  and blind their eyes;
[g]lest they see with their eyes,
  and hear with their ears,
and understand with their hearts,
  and turn and be healed."
11[†] Then I said, [h]"How long, O Lord?"
And he said:
"Until [i]cities lie waste without inhabitant,
and houses without people,
  and the land is a desolate waste, 12 and the LORD removes people far away,
  and the forsaken places are many in the midst of the land.
13 [j]And though a tenth remain in it,
  it will be burned [6] again,
like a terebinth or an oak,
  whose stump [k]remains when it is felled."
[l]The holy seed [7] is its stump.

Isaiah Sent to King Ahaz

ISAIAH 7 [†]In the days of [m]Ahaz the son of Jotham, son of Uzziah, king of Judah, [n]Rezin the king of Syria and [n]Pekah the son of Remaliah the king of Israel came up to Jerusalem to wage war against it, but could not yet mount an attack against it. 2[†]When the house of David was told, [o]"Syria is in league with [1] [p]Ephraim," the heart of Ahaz [2] and the heart of his people shook as the trees of the forest shake before the wind.

3[†]And the LORD said to Isaiah, "Go out to meet Ahaz, you and [q]Shear-jashub [3] your son, at the end of [r]the conduit of the upper pool on the highway to the Washer's Field. 4And say to him, [s]'Be careful, [t]be quiet, do not fear, and do not let your heart be faint because of these two [u] smoldering stumps of firebrands, at the fierce anger of Rezin and Syria and [v] the son of Remaliah. [5]Because Syria, with Ephraim and [v] the son of Remaliah, has devised evil against you, saying, [6]“Let us go up against Judah and terrify it, and let us conquer it [4] for ourselves, and set up the son of Tabeel as king in the midst of it,” [7][†]thus says the Lord GOD:

[w] “‘It shall not stand,
and it shall not come to pass.
[8] For the head of Syria is [x] Damascus, and the head of Damascus is Rezin.
And within sixty-five years
Ephraim will be shattered from being a people.
[9] And the head of Ephraim is Samaria, and the head of Samaria is [y] the son of Remaliah.
[z] If you [5] are not firm in faith, you will not be firm at all.’”

The Sign of Immanuel

[10][†]Again the LORD spoke to Ahaz, [11]“Ask [a] a sign of the LORD your [6] God; let it be deep as Sheol or high as heaven.” [12]But Ahaz said, “I will not ask, and I will not put the LORD to the test.” [13]And he [7] said, “Hear then, O house of David! Is it too little for you to weary men, that you [b] weary my God also? [14][†]Therefore the [c] Lord himself will give you a sign. [d] Behold, the [e] virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and shall call his name [f] Immanuel. [8] [15][†]He shall eat [g] curds and honey when he knows how to refuse the evil and choose the good. [16] [h] For before the boy knows how to refuse the evil and choose the good, the land whose two kings you dread will be [i] deserted. [17] [j] The LORD will bring upon you and upon your people and upon your father’s house such days as have not come since the day that [k] Ephraim departed from Judah—the king of Assyria.”

[18]In that day the LORD will [l] whistle for the fly that is at the end of the streams of Egypt, and for the bee that is in the land of Assyria. [19]And they will all come and settle in the steep ravines, and [m] in the clefts of the rocks, and on all the thornbushes, and on all the pastures. [9]

[20]In that day [n] the Lord will [o] shave with a razor that is [p] hired beyond [q] the River—with the king of Assyria—the head and the hair of the feet, and it will sweep away the beard also.

[21] [r] In that day a man will keep alive a young cow and two sheep, [22]and because of the abundance of milk that they give, he will eat curds, for everyone who is left in the land will eat [s] curds and honey.

[23]In that day every place where there used to be a thousand vines, worth a thousand shekels [10] of silver, will become [t] briers and thorns. [24] [u] With bow and arrows a man will come there, for all the land will be briers and thorns. [25] [v] And as for all the hills that used to be hoed with a hoe, you will not come there for fear [t] of briers and thorns, but they will become a place where cattle are let loose and where sheep tread.

The Coming Assyrian Invasion

ISAIAH 8 [†]Then the LORD said to me, “Take a large tablet [w] and write on it in common characters, [1] ‘Belonging to Maher-shalal-hash-baz.’ [2] [2]And [x] I will get reliable witnesses, [y] Uriah the priest and Zechariah the son of Jeberechiah, to attest for me.”

[3][†]And I went to the prophetess, and she conceived and bore a son. Then the LORD said to me, [z] “Call his name Maher-shalal-hash-baz; [4] [a] for before the boy knows how to cry ‘My father’ or ‘My mother,’ the [a] wealth of [b] Damascus and the spoil of [b] Samaria will be carried away before the king of Assyria.”

[5]The LORD spoke to me again: [6][†]“Because this people has refused the waters of [c] Shiloah that flow gently, and rejoice over [d] Rezin and the son of Remaliah, [7]therefore, behold, the Lord is bringing up against them [e] the waters of [f] the River, mighty and many, the king of Assyria and all his glory. And it [g] will rise over all its channels and go over all its banks, [8]and it will sweep on into Judah, it will overflow and pass on, [h] reaching even to the neck, and its [i] outspread wings will fill the breadth of your land, [j] O Immanuel.”

[9][†] Be broken,[3] you peoples, and [k]be shattered;[4] give ear, all you far countries;
strap on your armor and be shattered;
strap on your armor and be shattered.
[10] Take counsel together, but it will come to nothing;
speak a word, [l]but it will not stand,
for God [m]is with us.[5]

Fear God, Wait for the LORD

[11][†]For the LORD spoke thus to me with his strong hand upon me, and [n]warned me not to walk in the way of this people, saying: [12]“Do not call [o]conspiracy all that this people calls conspiracy, and [p]do not fear what they fear, nor be in dread. [13]But the LORD of hosts, [q]him you shall honor as holy. Let him be your fear, and let him be your dread. [14]And he will become a [r]sanctuary and [s]a stone of offense and a rock of stumbling to both houses of Israel, a trap and a snare to the inhabitants of Jerusalem. [15]And many [t]shall stumble on it. They shall fall and be broken; they shall be snared and taken.”

[16][†]Bind up [u]the testimony; [v]seal the teaching[6] among my disciples. [17]I will [w]wait for the LORD, who is [x]hiding his face from the house of Jacob, and I will hope in him. [18][y]Behold, I and [z]the children whom the LORD has given me are signs and portents in Israel from the LORD of hosts, who dwells on Mount Zion. [19]And when they say to you, “Inquire of the [a]mediums and the necromancers who chirp and mutter,” should not a people inquire of their God? Should they inquire of [b]the dead on behalf of the living? [20][c]To the teaching and to the testimony! If they will not speak according to this word, it is because they have no [d]dawn. [21]They will pass through the land,[7] greatly distressed and hungry. And when they are hungry, they will be enraged and will speak contemptuously against[8] their king and their God, and turn their faces upward. [22][e]And they will look to the earth, but behold, distress and darkness, the gloom of anguish. And they will be thrust into [f]thick darkness.

For to Us a Child Is Born

ISAIAH 9 [†] [1] But there will be no [g] gloom for her who was in anguish. In the former time he [h] brought into contempt the land of [i] Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, but in the latter time he [j] has made glorious the way of the sea, the land beyond the Jordan, Galilee of the nations. [2]

2[†] [3] [i] The people [k] who walked in darkness have seen a great light;
those who dwelt in a land of [l] deep darkness,
on them has light shone.
3[†] [m] You have multiplied the nation;
you have increased its joy;
they rejoice before you
as with [n] joy at the harvest, as they [o] are glad [p] when they divide the spoil.
4[†] [q] For the yoke of his burden,
[r] and the staff for his shoulder,
the rod of his oppressor,
you have broken as [s] on the day of Midian.
5 [t] For every boot of the tramping warrior in battle tumult and every garment rolled in blood will be burned as fuel for the fire.
6[†] [u] For to us a child is born,
to us [v] a son is given;
[w] and the government shall be [x] upon [4] his shoulder, and his name shall be called [5]
Wonderful [y] Counselor, [z] Mighty God,
[a] Everlasting [b] Father, Prince of [c] Peace.
7[†] Of the increase of his government and of peace
[d] there will be no end, on the throne of David and over his kingdom,
to establish it and to uphold it [e] with justice and with righteousness

from this time forth and forevermore.
[f] The zeal of the LORD of hosts will do this.

Judgment on Arrogance and Oppression

8[†] The Lord has sent a word against Jacob, and it will fall on Israel;
9 and all the people will know,
[g] Ephraim and the inhabitants of Samaria, who say in pride and in arrogance of heart:
10 “The bricks have fallen,
but we will build with dressed stones;
the sycamores have been cut down,
but we will put cedars in their place.”
11[†] But the LORD raises the adversaries of Rezin against him, and stirs up his enemies.
12[†] [h] The Syrians on the east and [i] the Philistines on the west devour Israel with open mouth.
[j] For all this his anger has not turned away,
and his hand is stretched out still.

13 The people [k] did not turn to him who struck them, nor inquire of the LORD of hosts.
14[†] So the LORD cut off from Israel [l] head and tail, palm branch and reed in one day—15 [m] the elder and honored man is the head, and [n] the prophet who teaches lies is the tail;
16 for those who guide this people have been leading them astray, and those who are guided by them are swallowed up.
17 Therefore the Lord does not [o] rejoice over their young men, and has no compassion on their fatherless and widows;
for everyone is [p] godless and an evildoer,
and every mouth speaks [q] folly. [6]
[j] For all this his anger has not turned away,
and his hand is stretched out still.

[18] For wickedness burns like [r] a fire;
it consumes briers and thorns;
it kindles the thickets of the forest,
and they roll upward in a column of smoke.
[19] Through the wrath of the LORD of hosts
the land is scorched,
and [s] the people are like fuel for the fire;
[t] no one spares another.
[20] [u] They slice meat on the right, but are still hungry, and they devour on the left, but are not satisfied;
[v] each devours the flesh of his own arm, [21] Manasseh devours Ephraim, and Ephraim devours Manasseh; together they are [w] against Judah.
[x] For all this his anger has not turned away,
and his hand is stretched out still.

ISAIAH 10 [†] Woe to those who [y] decree iniquitous decrees, and the writers who [z] keep writing oppression, [2] to turn aside the needy from justice and [a] to rob the poor of my people of their right, that widows may be their spoil,
and that they may make the fatherless their prey!
[3][†] What will you do on [b] the day of punishment,
in the ruin that will come [c] from afar?
To whom will you flee for help,
and where will you leave your wealth?
[4][†] Nothing remains but to crouch among the prisoners or fall among the slain.
[d] For all this his anger has not turned away,
and his hand is stretched out still.

Judgment on Arrogant Assyria

[5] Ah, Assyria, [e] the rod of my anger;
the staff in their hands is my fury!

[6][†] Against a [f] godless nation I send him, and against the people of my wrath I command him,
to take [g] spoil and seize plunder,
and to [h] tread them down like the mire of the streets.
[7][†] But he [i] does not so intend,
and his heart does not so think;
but it is in his heart to destroy,
and to cut off nations not a few;
[8][†] for he says:
[j] “Are not my commanders all kings?
[9] [k] Is not [l] Calno like [m] Carchemish?
Is not [n] Hamath like [o] Arpad?
[p] Is not [q] Samaria like Damascus?
[10][†] As my hand has reached to [r] the kingdoms of the idols, whose carved images were greater than those of Jerusalem and Samaria, [11] shall I not do to Jerusalem and [s] her idols
[t] as I have done to Samaria and her images?”

[12] [u] When the Lord has finished all his work on Mount Zion and on Jerusalem, [v] he [1] will punish the speech of the arrogant heart of the king of Assyria and the boastful look in his eyes. [13] [w] For he says:

“By the strength of my hand I have done it,
and by my wisdom, for I have understanding;
I remove the boundaries of peoples,
and plunder their treasures;
like a bull I bring down those who sit on thrones.
[14] My hand has found like a nest
the wealth of the peoples;
and as one gathers eggs that have been forsaken,
so I have gathered all the earth;
and there was none that moved a wing or opened the mouth or chirped.”

15 Shall [x] the axe boast over him who hews with it, or the saw magnify itself against him who wields it?
As if a rod should wield him who lifts it,
or as if a staff should lift him who is not wood!
16[†] Therefore the Lord GOD of hosts will send wasting sickness among his [y] stout warriors, and under his glory [z] a burning will be kindled,
like the burning of fire.
17 [a] The light of Israel will become a fire, and [b] his Holy One a flame, and [c] it will burn and devour his thorns and briers [d] in one day.
18 The glory of [e] his forest and of his [f] fruitful land
the LORD will destroy, both soul and body, and it will be as when a sick man wastes away.
19 The remnant of the trees of his forest will be so few that a child can write them down.

The Remnant of Israel Will Return

20[†] [g] In that day [h] the remnant of Israel and the survivors of the house of Jacob will no more [i] lean on him who struck them, but [j] will lean on the LORD, the Holy One of Israel, in truth. 21 A remnant will return, the remnant of Jacob, [k] to the mighty God. 22[†] [l] For though your people Israel be as the sand of the sea, [m] only a remnant of them will return. [n] Destruction is decreed, overflowing with righteousness. 23 For the Lord GOD of hosts will make a full end, as decreed, in the midst of all the earth.

24[†] Therefore thus says the Lord GOD of hosts: “O my people, [o] who dwell in Zion, [p] be not afraid of the Assyrians when they strike with the rod and lift up their staff against you as [q] the Egyptians did. 25 For [r] in a very little while my fury will come to an end, and my anger will be directed to their destruction. 26 And [s] the LORD of hosts will wield against them a whip, as when he struck [t] Midian [u] at the rock of Oreb. And his staff will be over the sea, and he will lift it [v] as he did in Egypt. 27 And in that day [w] his burden will depart from your shoulder, and [x] his yoke from your neck; and the yoke will be broken because of the fat.” [2]

[28][†] He has come to Aiath;
he has passed through [y] Migron;
at Michmash he stores [z] his baggage; [29] they have crossed over [a] the pass;
at [b] Geba they lodge for the night;
[c] Ramah trembles;
[d] Gibeah of Saul has fled.
[30] Cry aloud, O daughter of [e] Gallim!
Give attention, O Laishah!
O poor [f] Anathoth!
[31] Madmenah is in flight;
the inhabitants of Gebim flee for safety.
[32] This very day he will halt at [g] Nob;
he will shake his fist
at the mount of [h] the daughter of Zion,
the hill of Jerusalem.

[33][†] Behold, the Lord GOD of hosts
[i] will lop [j] the boughs with terrifying power;
the great in height will be hewn down,
and the lofty will be brought low.
[34] He will cut down [j] the thickets of the forest with an axe, and [k] Lebanon will fall by the Majestic One.

The Righteous Reign of the Branch

ISAIAH 11 [†] There shall come forth a shoot from the stump of [l] Jesse, and a branch from his roots shall bear fruit.
[2][†] And [m] the Spirit of the LORD shall rest upon him, the Spirit of wisdom and understanding,
the Spirit of counsel and might,
the Spirit of knowledge and the fear of the LORD.

3[†] And his delight shall be in the fear of the LORD.
[n] He shall not judge by [o] what his eyes see,
or decide disputes by [o] what his ears hear, 4 but [p] with righteousness he shall judge the poor, and decide with equity for the meek of the earth;
and he shall [q] strike the earth with the rod of his mouth, and [r] with the breath of his lips [s] he shall kill the wicked.
5[†] Righteousness shall be the belt of his waist,
and [t] faithfulness the belt of his loins.

6[†] [u] The wolf shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the young goat,
and the calf and the lion and the fattened calf together;
and a little child shall lead them.
7 The cow and the bear shall graze;
their young shall lie down together;
and the lion shall eat straw like the ox.
8 The nursing child shall play over the hole of the cobra, and the weaned child shall put his hand on the adder's den.
9 [u] They shall not hurt or destroy in all [v] my holy mountain;
[w] for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the LORD as the waters cover the sea.

10[†]In that day [x] the root of [y] Jesse, who shall stand as [z] a signal for the peoples—of him shall the nations inquire, and his resting place shall be glorious.

11[†] [a] In that day the Lord will extend his hand yet a second time to recover the remnant that remains of his people, [b] from Assyria, [b] from Egypt, from [c] Pathros, from [d] Cush, [1] from [e] Elam, from [f] Shinar, from [g] Hamath, and from [h] the coastlands of the sea.

12 He will raise [z] a signal for the nations and will assemble [i] the banished of Israel, and gather the dispersed of Judah

from the four corners of the earth.
13[†] [j] The jealousy of Ephraim shall depart, and those who harass Judah shall be cut off;
Ephraim shall not be jealous of Judah,
and Judah shall not harass Ephraim.
14 [k] But they shall swoop down on the shoulder of the Philistines in the west, and together they shall plunder [l] the people of the east.
They shall put out their hand [m] against [n] Edom and [o] Moab, and [p] the Ammonites shall obey them.
15 And the LORD will utterly destroy [2]
[q] the tongue of the Sea of Egypt, and will wave his hand over [r] the River with his scorching breath, [3]
and strike it into seven channels, and he will lead people across in sandals.
16[†] And there will be [s] a highway from Assyria for the remnant that remains of his people, [t] as there was for Israel
when they came up from the land of Egypt.

The LORD Is My Strength and My Song

ISAIAH 12 [†] You [1] will say [u] in that day:
“I will give thanks to you, O LORD,
for though you were angry with me, [v] your anger turned away,
that you might comfort me.

2[†] “Behold, God is my salvation;
I will trust, and will not be afraid;
for [w] the LORD GOD [2] is my strength and my song,
and he has become my salvation.”

3[†] [x] With joy you [3] will draw water from the wells of salvation.
4[†] [y] And you will say in that day:

[z]“Give thanks to the LORD,
call upon his name,
[a]make known his deeds among the peoples, proclaim [b]that his name is exalted.

5 [c]“Sing praises to the LORD, for he has done gloriously;
let this be made known [4] in all the earth.
6[†] Shout, and sing for joy, O inhabitant of Zion, for great [d]in your [5] midst is [e]the Holy One of Israel.”

The Judgment of Babylon

ISAIAH 13 [†]The oracle concerning [f]Babylon which [g]Isaiah the son of Amoz saw.

2[†] On a bare hill [h]raise a signal;
cry aloud to them;
wave the hand for [i]them to enter the gates of the nobles.
3[†] I myself have commanded my consecrated ones,
and have summoned my mighty men to execute my anger,
my proudly exulting ones. [1]

4 The sound [j]of a tumult is on the mountains as of a great multitude!
The sound of an uproar of kingdoms,
of nations gathering together!
[k]The LORD of hosts is mustering a host for battle.
5[†] [l]They come from a distant land,
from the end of the heavens,
the LORD and the weapons of his indignation, to destroy the whole land. [2]

6 [m]Wail, for [n]the day of the LORD is near;
as destruction from the Almighty [3] it will come!

[7] Therefore all hands will be feeble, and every human heart [o] will melt.
[8] They will be dismayed:
[p] pangs and agony will seize them;
[q] they will be in anguish like a woman in labor.
They will look aghast at one another;
their faces will be aflame.

[9] Behold, [n] the day of the LORD comes, cruel, with wrath and fierce anger, to make the land a desolation and [r] to destroy its sinners from it.
[10] [s] For the stars of the heavens and their constellations will not give their light; [t] the sun will be dark at its rising,
and the moon will not shed its light.
[11] I will punish [u] the world for its evil,
and the wicked for their iniquity;
I will [v] put an end to the pomp of the arrogant,
[w] and lay low the pompous pride of the ruthless.
[12][†] I will make [x] people more rare than fine gold, and mankind than the [y] gold of Ophir.
[13] Therefore [z] I will make the heavens tremble, and the earth will be shaken out of its place,
at the wrath of the LORD of hosts in the day of his fierce anger.
[14] And like a hunted gazelle, or like sheep with none to gather them, [a] each will turn to his own people,
and each will flee to his own land.
[15] Whoever is found will be thrust through,
and whoever is caught will fall by the sword.
[16] [b] Their infants will be dashed in pieces before their eyes;
their houses will be plundered and their wives ravished.

17[†] Behold, [c] I am stirring up the Medes against them, who have no regard for silver and do not delight in gold.
18 [d] Their bows will slaughter [4] the young men;
they will have no mercy on the fruit of the womb;
their eyes will not pity children.
19[†] And Babylon, [e] the glory of kingdoms,
the splendor and pomp of the Chaldeans, will be [f] like Sodom and Gomorrah
when God overthrew them.
20[†] [g] It will never be inhabited or lived in for all generations;
no [h] Arab will pitch his tent there;
no [i] shepherds will make their flocks lie down there.
21 But [j] wild animals will lie down there,
and their houses will be full of howling creatures;
there [k] ostriches [5] will dwell,
and there wild goats will dance.
22 Hyenas [6] will cry in its towers, and [l] jackals in [m] the pleasant palaces;
its time is close at hand and its days will not be prolonged.

The Restoration of Jacob

ISAIAH 14 [†] [n] For the LORD will have compassion on Jacob and will again choose Israel, and [o] will set them in their own land, and [p] sojourners will join them and will attach themselves to the house of Jacob. 2[†]And [q] the peoples will take them and bring them to their place, and the house of Israel will possess them in the LORD’s land [r] as male and female slaves. [1] [s] They will take captive those who were their captors, [t] and rule over those who oppressed them.

Israel's Remnant Taunts Babylon

[3]When the LORD has given you rest from your pain and turmoil and the hard service with which you were made to serve, [4][†]you will take up this [u]taunt against the king of Babylon:

"How the oppressor has ceased,
    [v]the insolent fury [2] ceased!
[5] The LORD has broken the [w]staff of the wicked,
    the [w]scepter of rulers,
[6] [x]that struck the peoples in wrath with unceasing blows, that ruled the nations in anger with unrelenting persecution.
[7] The whole earth is at rest and quiet;
    [y]they break forth into singing.
[8] [z] [a]The cypresses rejoice at you,
    [b]the cedars of Lebanon, saying,
'Since you were laid low,
    no woodcutter comes up against us.'
[9] Sheol beneath is stirred up to meet you when you come;
it rouses the shades to greet you,
    all who were leaders of the earth;
it raises from their thrones
    all who were kings of the nations.
[10] [c]All of them will answer and say to you:
'You too have become as weak as we!
    You have become like us!'
[11] Your pomp is brought down to Sheol,
    the sound of your harps;
maggots are laid as a bed beneath you,
    and worms are your covers.

[12][†] "How [d]you are fallen from heaven,

O Day Star, [e] son of Dawn!
How you are cut down to the ground,
you who laid the nations low!
13 You said in your heart,
[f] ‘I will ascend to heaven;
above the stars of God
[g] I will set my throne on high;
I will sit on the mount of assembly in the far reaches of the north; [3] 14 I will ascend above the heights of the clouds;
I will make myself like the Most High.’
15 [h] But you are brought down to Sheol, to the far reaches of the pit.
16 Those who see you will stare at you and ponder over you:
‘Is this [i] the man who made the earth tremble,
who shook kingdoms, 17 who made the world like a desert
and overthrew its cities,
[j] who did not let his prisoners go home?’
18 All the kings of the nations lie in glory,
each in his own tomb; [4] 19 but you are cast out, away from your grave, like a loathed branch, [k] clothed with the slain, those pierced by the sword, who go down to the stones of the pit,
like a dead body trampled underfoot.
20 You will not be joined with them in burial, because you have destroyed your land,
you have slain your people.

“May [l] the offspring of evildoers nevermore be named!
21 [†] Prepare slaughter for his sons
[m] because of the guilt of their fathers, lest they rise and possess the earth, and fill the face of the world with cities."

[22][†]"I will rise up against them," declares the LORD of hosts, "and will cut off from Babylon name and [n] remnant, [o] descendants and posterity," declares the LORD. [23]"And I will make it a possession of the [p] hedgehog, [5] and pools of water, and I will sweep it with the broom of destruction," declares the LORD of hosts.

An Oracle Concerning Assyria

[24] The LORD of hosts has sworn:
[q] "As I have planned,
so shall it be,
and as I have purposed,
so shall it stand,
[25][†] that [r] I will break the Assyrian in my land,
and on my mountains trample him underfoot;
and [s] his yoke shall depart from them,
and [s] his burden from their shoulder."

[26] This is the purpose that is purposed concerning the whole earth, and this is [t] the hand that is stretched out over all the nations.
[27] [u] For the LORD of hosts has purposed, and who will annul it?
[t] His hand is stretched out,
and who will turn it back?

An Oracle Concerning Philistia

[28][†]In the year that [v] King Ahaz died came this [w] oracle:

[29][†] Rejoice not, [x] O Philistia, all of you,
that [y] the rod that struck you is broken,

for from the serpent’s root will come forth an adder,
  and its fruit will be a [z] flying fiery serpent.
30[†] And the firstborn of [a] the poor will graze, and [a] the needy lie down in safety;
but I will kill your root with famine,
  and your remnant it will slay.
31 [b] Wail, O [c] gate; cry out, O city;
  melt in fear, [x] O Philistia, all of you!
[d] For smoke comes out of the north,
  and there is no straggler in his ranks.

32 What will one answer the messengers of the nation?
[e] “The LORD has founded Zion, and in her the afflicted of his people find refuge.”

An Oracle Concerning Moab

ISAIAH 15 [†]An [w] oracle concerning [f] Moab.

Because [g] Ar of Moab is laid waste in a night,
  Moab is undone;
because [h] Kir of Moab is laid waste in a night,
  Moab is undone.
2[†] He has gone up to the temple, [1] and to [i] Dibon, to the high places [2] to weep;
over [j] Nebo and over [i] Medeba Moab [k] wails.
On every head is [l] baldness;
  every beard is shorn;
3 in the streets they wear sackcloth;
  on the housetops and in the squares
  everyone wails and melts in tears.
4 [m] Heshbon and [m] Elealeh cry out;
  their voice is heard as far as [n] Jahaz;
therefore the armed men of Moab cry aloud;

his soul trembles.
[5] My heart cries out for Moab;
her fugitives flee to Zoar,
to [n] Eglath-shelishiyah.
For at the [o] ascent of Luhith
they go up weeping;
on the road to [o] Horonaim
they raise a cry of destruction;
[6] the waters of [p] Nimrim are a desolation;
the grass is withered, the vegetation fails,
the greenery is no more.
[7] [q] Therefore the abundance they have gained and what they have laid up they carry away
over the Brook of the Willows.
[8] For a cry has gone around the land of Moab;
her wailing reaches to Eglaim;
her wailing reaches to Beer-elim.
[9][†] For the waters of [r] Dibon [3] are full of blood;
for I will bring upon Dibon even more, [s] a lion for those of Moab who escape,
for the remnant of the land.
ISAIAH 16 [t] Send the lamb to the ruler of the land, from [u] Sela, by way of the desert,
to the mount of the daughter of Zion.
[2] Like fleeing birds,
like a scattered nest,
so are the daughters of Moab at [v] the fords of the Arnon.

[3] “Give counsel;
grant justice;
[w] make your shade like night at the height of noon;

shelter the outcasts;
do not reveal the fugitive;
4[†] let [x]the outcasts of Moab sojourn among you;
be a shelter to them [1]
from the destroyer.
When the oppressor is no more,
and destruction has ceased,
and he who tramples underfoot has vanished from the land, 5 [y]then a throne will be established in steadfast love, and on it will sit in faithfulness in the tent of David one who judges and seeks justice and is swift to do righteousness.”

6[†] [z]We have heard of the pride of Moab—how proud he is!—
[a]of his arrogance, his pride, and his insolence;
in his idle boasting he is not right.
7 Therefore let Moab wail for Moab,
[b]let everyone wail.
Mourn, utterly stricken,
for the [c]raisin cakes of [d]Kir-hareseth.

8 For the fields of Heshbon languish, and [e]the vine of Sibmah;
the lords of the nations have struck down its branches, which reached to Jazer
and strayed to the desert;
its shoots spread abroad
and passed over the sea.
9 Therefore [f]I weep with [e]the weeping of Jazer for the vine of Sibmah;
I drench you with my tears,

O Heshbon and Elealeh;
for over [g] your summer fruit and your harvest
the shout has ceased.
10 [h] And joy and gladness are taken away from [i] the fruitful field, and in the vineyards no [j] songs are sung,
no cheers are raised;
no [k] treader treads out wine [l] in the presses;
I have put an end to the shouting.
11 Therefore [m] my inner parts moan like a lyre for Moab, and my inmost self for Kir-hareseth.

12And when Moab presents himself, when [n] he wearies himself on [o] the high place, when he comes to his sanctuary to pray, he will not prevail.

13This is the word that the LORD spoke concerning Moab [p] in the past. 14But now the LORD has spoken, saying, “In three years, [q] like the years of a hired worker, the glory of Moab will be brought into contempt, in spite of all his great multitude, and those who remain will be [r] very few and feeble.”

An Oracle Concerning Damascus

ISAIAH 17 [†]An [s] oracle concerning [t] Damascus.

Behold, Damascus will cease to be a city and will become a heap of ruins.
2[†] The cities of [u] Aroer are deserted;
they will be for flocks, which will lie down, and [v] none will make them afraid.
3[†] The fortress will disappear from [w] Ephraim, and the kingdom from [w] Damascus;
and the remnant of Syria will be like [x] the glory of the children of Israel, declares the Lord of hosts.

4[†] And in that day [x] the glory of Jacob will be brought low,
and [y] the fat of his flesh will grow lean.
5 And it shall be [z] as when the reaper gathers standing grain and his arm harvests the ears, and as when one gleans the ears of grain in [a] the Valley of Rephaim.
6 [b] Gleanings will be left in it, as when an olive tree is beaten—
two or three berries in the top of the highest bough, four or five
on the branches of a fruit tree, declares the Lord God of Israel.

7 [c] In that day man will look to his Maker, and his eyes will look on the Holy One of Israel. 8 [d] He will not look to the altars, the work of his hands, and he will not look on what his own fingers have made, either the [e] Asherim or the altars of incense.

9[†] [f] In that day their strong cities will be like the deserted places of the wooded heights and the hilltops, which they deserted because of the children of Israel, and there will be desolation.

[10] For [g] you have forgotten the God of your salvation and have not remembered the [h] Rock of your refuge;
therefore, though you plant pleasant plants and sow the vine-branch of a stranger, [11] though you make them grow [1] on the day that you plant them,
 and make them blossom in the morning that you sow, yet the harvest will flee away [2]
 in a day of grief and incurable pain.

[12][†] Ah, [i] the thunder of many peoples;
 they thunder like the thundering of the sea!
Ah, the roar of nations;
 they roar like the roaring of mighty waters!
[13] [j] The nations roar like the roaring of many waters, [k] but he will rebuke them, and they will flee far away, chased [l] like chaff on the mountains before the wind and [m] whirling dust before the storm.
[14] [n] At evening time, behold, terror!
 Before morning, they are no more!
This is the portion of those who loot us,
 and the lot of those who plunder us.

An Oracle Concerning Cush

ISAIAH 18 Ah, land of [o] whirring wings that is beyond the rivers of [p] Cush, [1] [2] which [q] sends ambassadors by the sea, in vessels of papyrus on the waters!
Go, you swift messengers,
 to a nation [r] tall and smooth,
to a people feared near and far,
 a nation [s] mighty and conquering,
 whose land the rivers divide.

[3][†] All you inhabitants of the world,
 you who dwell on the earth,

when [t] a signal is raised on the mountains, look!
When a trumpet is blown, hear!
4[†] For thus the LORD said to me:
“I will quietly look [u] from my dwelling like clear heat in sunshine, like a cloud of dew in the heat of harvest.”
5 [v] For before the harvest, when the blossom is over,
and the flower becomes a ripening grape,
he cuts off the shoots with pruning hooks,
and the spreading branches he lops off and clears away.
6 [v] They shall all of them be left to the birds of prey of the mountains and to the beasts of the earth.
And the birds of prey will summer on them,
and all the beasts of the earth will winter on them.

7[†] [w] At that time tribute will be brought to the LORD of hosts from a people [x] tall and smooth, from a people feared near and far,

a nation mighty and conquering,
whose land the rivers divide,

to [y] Mount Zion, the place of the [z] name of the LORD of hosts.

An Oracle Concerning Egypt

ISAIAH 19 [†]An [a] oracle concerning [b] Egypt.

Behold, the LORD [c] is riding on a swift cloud and comes to Egypt;
and [d] the idols of Egypt will tremble at his presence, and the heart of the Egyptians will [e] melt within them.
2 And I will stir up Egyptians against Egyptians, [f] and they will fight, each against another and each against his neighbor,

city against city, kingdom against kingdom;
[3] and the spirit of the Egyptians within them will be emptied out, and I will confound [1] their [g] counsel;
and they will inquire of the idols and the sorcerers,
and [h] the mediums and the necromancers;
[4][†] and I will give over the Egyptians into the hand of [i] a hard master, and a fierce king will rule over them,
declares the Lord God of hosts.

[5][†] And the waters of the sea will be dried up,
and the river will be dry and parched, [6] and its canals will become foul, and the branches of Egypt’s Nile will diminish and dry up, reeds and rushes will rot away.
[7] There will be bare places by the Nile,
on the brink of the Nile,
and all that is sown by the Nile will be parched,
will be driven away, and will be no more.
[8] The [j] fishermen will mourn and lament,
all who cast a hook in the Nile;
and they will languish who spread nets on the water.
[9] The workers in [k] combed flax will be in despair, and the weavers of white cotton.
[10] Those who are the [l] pillars of the land will be crushed, and all who [m] work for pay will be grieved.

[11] The princes of [n] Zoan are utterly foolish;
the wisest counselors of Pharaoh give stupid counsel.
How can you say to Pharaoh, “I am a son of the wise,
a son of ancient kings”?
[12] Where then are your [o] wise men?
Let them tell you that they might know what the LORD of hosts has purposed against Egypt.

[13] The princes of [n] Zoan have become fools, and the princes of [p] Memphis are deluded;
those who are the [q] cornerstones of her tribes have made Egypt stagger.
[14] The LORD has mingled within her [r] a spirit of confusion, and they will make Egypt stagger in all its deeds,
[s] as a drunken man staggers in his vomit.
[15] And there will be nothing for Egypt that [t] head or tail, palm branch or reed, may do.

Egypt, Assyria, Israel Blessed

[16][†]In that day the Egyptians will be [u] like women, and [v] tremble with fear before the hand that the LORD of hosts shakes over them. [17]And the land of Judah will become a terror to the Egyptians. Everyone to whom it is mentioned will fear because of the purpose that the LORD of hosts has purposed against them.

[18][†] [w] In that day there will be [x] five cities in the land of Egypt that [y] speak the language of Canaan and swear allegiance to the LORD of hosts. One of these will be called the City of Destruction. [2]

[19][†]In that day there will be an [z] altar to the LORD in the midst of the land of Egypt, and a [a] pillar to the LORD at its border. [20] [a] It will be a sign and a witness to the LORD of hosts in the land of Egypt. When they cry to the LORD because of oppressors, [b] he will send them a savior and defender, and deliver them. [21] [c] And the LORD will make himself known to the Egyptians, and the Egyptians will know the LORD in that day [d] and worship with sacrifice and offering, and they will make vows to the LORD and perform them. [22][†] [e] And the LORD will strike Egypt, striking and healing, and they will return to the LORD, and he will listen to their pleas for mercy and heal them.

[23][†][f]In that day there will be a highway from Egypt to Assyria, and Assyria will come into Egypt, and Egypt into Assyria, [g] and the Egyptians will worship with the Assyrians.

[24][†]In that day Israel will be the third with Egypt and Assyria, [h] a blessing in the midst of the earth, [25]whom the LORD of hosts has blessed, saying, “Blessed be Egypt [i] my people, and Assyria [j] the work of my hands, and [k] Israel my inheritance.”

A Sign Against Egypt and Cush

ISAIAH 20 [†]In the year that [l] the commander in chief, who was sent by Sargon the king of Assyria, came to [m] Ashdod and fought against it and captured it— [2][†]at that time the LORD spoke by Isaiah the son of Amoz, saying, “Go, and loose the sackcloth from your waist and take off your sandals from your feet,” and he did so, walking [n] naked and barefoot.

[3]Then the LORD said, “As my servant Isaiah has walked naked and barefoot for three years [o] as a sign and a portent against Egypt and Cush, [1] [4]so shall the [p] king of Assyria lead away the Egyptian captives and the Cushite exiles, both the young and the old, naked and barefoot, with buttocks uncovered, the nakedness of Egypt. [5] [q] Then they shall be dismayed and ashamed because of Cush their hope and of Egypt their boast. [6]And the inhabitants of [r] this coastland will say in that day, ‘Behold, this is what has happened to those in whom we hoped and [s] to whom we fled for help to be delivered from the king of Assyria! And we, how shall we escape?’”

Fallen, Fallen Is Babylon

ISAIAH 21 [†]The [t] oracle concerning the wilderness of [u] the sea.

[v] As whirlwinds in the Negeb sweep on,
it comes from the wilderness,
from a terrible land.
[2] A stern vision is told to me;
[w] the traitor betrays,
and the destroyer destroys.
Go up, O [x] Elam;
lay siege, O [y] Media;

all the [z] sighing she has caused
I bring to an end.
3[†] Therefore my loins are filled with anguish;
[a] pangs have seized me,
like the pangs of a woman in labor;
I am bowed down so that I cannot hear;
I am dismayed so that I cannot see.
4 My heart staggers; horror has appalled me;
[b] the twilight I longed for has been turned for me into trembling.
5 [c] They prepare the table, they spread the rugs, [1]
they eat, they drink.
Arise, O princes;
[d] oil the shield!
6 For thus the Lord said to me:
“Go, set a watchman;
let him announce what he sees.
7[†] When he sees riders, horsemen in pairs, riders on donkeys, riders on camels, let him listen diligently,
very diligently.”
8 Then he who saw cried out: [2]
[e] “Upon a watchtower I stand, O Lord, continually by day,
and at my post I am stationed whole nights.
9[†] And behold, here come riders, horsemen in pairs!”
[f] And he answered,
[g] “Fallen, fallen is Babylon;
[h] and all the carved images of her gods
he has shattered to the ground.”
10[†] O [i] my threshed and winnowed one,
what I have heard from the LORD of hosts,

the God of Israel, I announce to you.

11[†]The [j] oracle concerning [k] Dumah.

One is calling to me from [l] Seir,
“Watchman, what time of the night?
Watchman, what time of the night?”
12[†] The watchman says:
“Morning comes, and also [m] the night.
If you will inquire, [n] inquire;
come back again.”

13[†]The [o] oracle concerning [p] Arabia.

In the thickets in [p] Arabia you will lodge,
O [q] caravans of [p] Dedanites.
14 To the thirsty bring water;
meet the fugitive with bread,
O inhabitants of the land of [r] Tema.
15 For they have fled from the swords,
from the drawn sword,
from the bent bow,
and from the press of battle.

16For thus the Lord said to me, “Within a year, [s] according to the years of a hired worker, all the glory of [t] Kedar will come to an end. 17And the remainder of the archers of the mighty men of the sons of [t] Kedar will be few, [u] for the LORD, the God of Israel, has spoken.”

An Oracle Concerning Jerusalem

ISAIAH 22 [†]The [v] oracle concerning [w] the valley of vision.

What do you mean that you have gone up,
all of you, to the housetops,
2 you who are full of shoutings, tumultuous city, [x] exultant town?

Your slain are [y] not slain with the sword or dead in battle.
3 [z] All your leaders have fled together;
without the bow they were captured.
All of you who were found were captured,
though they had fled far away.
4 Therefore I said:
“Look away from me;
[a] let me weep bitter tears;
do not labor to comfort me concerning the destruction of the daughter of my people.”

5[†] [b] For the Lord GOD of hosts has [c] a day of tumult and [d] trampling and [e] confusion in [w] the valley of vision, a battering down of walls and a shouting to the mountains.
6[†] And [f] Elam bore the quiver with chariots and horsemen, and [g] Kir uncovered the shield.
7[†] Your choicest valleys were full of chariots, and the horsemen took their stand at the gates.
8[†] He has taken away [h] the covering of Judah.

In that day you looked to [i] the weapons of the House of the Forest, 9 and you saw that [j] the breaches of the city of David were many. [k] You collected the waters of the lower pool, 10 and you counted the houses of Jerusalem, and you broke down the houses to fortify the wall. 11 [k] You made a reservoir between [l] the two walls for the water of [m] the old pool. But [n] you did not look to him who did it, or see him who planned it long ago.

12[†] In that day [o] the Lord GOD of hosts called for weeping and mourning, for [p] baldness and [q] wearing sackcloth;

13 and behold, joy and gladness, killing oxen and slaughtering sheep,
eating flesh and drinking wine.
[r] "Let us eat and drink,
for tomorrow we die."
14[†] The LORD of hosts [s] has revealed himself in my ears:
"Surely [t] this iniquity will not be atoned for you [u] until you die," says the Lord GOD of hosts.

15Thus says the Lord GOD of hosts, "Come, go to this steward, to [v] Shebna, who is over the household, and say to him: 16What have you to do here, and whom have you here, [w] that you have cut out here a tomb for yourself, you [x] who cut out a tomb on the height and carve a dwelling for yourself in the rock? 17Behold, the LORD will hurl you away violently, O you strong man. [y] He will seize firm hold on you 18and whirl you around and around, and throw you like a ball into a wide land. There you shall die, and there shall be [z] your glorious chariots, you shame of your master's house. 19 [a] I will thrust you from your office, and you will be pulled down from your station. 20[†]In that day I will call my servant [b] Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, 21and [b] I will clothe him with your robe, and will bind your sash on him, and will commit your authority to his hand. And he shall be [c] a father to the inhabitants of Jerusalem and to the house of Judah. 22[†]And I will place [d] on his shoulder [e] the key of the house of David. [f] He shall open, and none shall shut; and he shall shut, and none shall open. 23And I will fasten him [g] like a peg in a secure place, and he will become [h] a throne of honor to his father's house. 24And they will hang on him the whole honor of his father's house, the offspring and issue, every small vessel, from the cups to all the flagons. 25In that day, declares the LORD of hosts, [g] the peg that was fastened in a secure place will give way, and it will be cut down and fall, and the load that was on it will be cut off, for the LORD has spoken."

An Oracle Concerning Tyre and Sidon

ISAIAH 23 [†]The [i] oracle concerning [j] Tyre.

Wail, O [k] ships of Tarshish, for Tyre is laid waste, [l] without house or harbor!
From [m] the land of Cyprus [1]
it is revealed to them.
2 Be still, O inhabitants of the coast;
the merchants of [n] Sidon, who cross the sea, have filled you.
3 And on many waters
your revenue was the grain of Shihor,
the harvest of the Nile;
you were [o] the merchant of the nations.
4 Be ashamed, O [n] Sidon, for the sea has spoken,
the stronghold of the sea, saying:
“I have neither labored nor given birth,
I have neither reared young men nor brought up young women.”
5 When the report comes to Egypt, they will be in anguish [2] over the report about Tyre.
6 [p] Cross over to Tarshish;
wail, O inhabitants of the coast!
7[†] Is this your exultant city
[q] whose origin is from days of old, whose feet carried her
to settle far away?
8 Who has purposed this against Tyre, the bestower of crowns, whose merchants were princes,
whose traders were the honored of the earth?
9 The Lord of hosts has purposed it,
[r] to defile the pompous pride of all glory, [3]
to dishonor all the honored of the earth.
10 Cross over your land like the Nile, O daughter of Tarshish;
there is no restraint anymore.
11[†] [s] He has stretched out his hand over the sea;
he has shaken the kingdoms;

the LORD has given command concerning Canaan to destroy its strongholds.
12 And he said:
“You will no more exult,
O oppressed virgin daughter of [t] Sidon;
arise, [u] cross over to [v] Cyprus,
even there you will have no rest.”

13[†]Behold the land of [w] the Chaldeans! This is the people that was not; [4] Assyria destined it for wild beasts. They erected [x] their siege towers, they stripped her palaces bare, they made her a ruin.

14 [y] Wail, O ships of Tarshish, for your stronghold is laid waste.

15[†]In that day Tyre will be forgotten for [z] seventy years, like the days [5] of one king. At the end of [z] seventy years, it will happen to Tyre as in the song of the prostitute:

16 “Take a harp;
go about the city,
O forgotten prostitute!
Make sweet melody;
sing many songs,
that you may be remembered.”

17[†]At the end of [a] seventy years, the LORD will visit Tyre, and she will return to her wages and [b] will prostitute herself with all the kingdoms of the world on the face of the earth. 18Her merchandise and her wages will be holy to the LORD. It will not be stored or hoarded, but her merchandise will supply abundant food and fine clothing for those who dwell before the LORD.

Judgment on the Whole Earth

ISAIAH 24 [†] Behold, [c] the LORD will empty the earth [1] and make it desolate, and he will twist its surface and scatter its inhabitants.

2 [d] And it shall be, as with the people, so with the priest;
as with the slave, so with his master;
as with the maid, so with her mistress;
[e] as with the buyer, so with the seller;
as with the lender, so with the borrower;
[f] as with the creditor, so with the debtor.
3 [g] The earth shall be utterly empty and utterly plundered;
[h] for the LORD has spoken this word.

4 [i] The earth mourns and withers;
the world languishes and withers;
the highest people of the earth languish.
5[†] The earth lies [j] defiled under its inhabitants;
for [k] they have transgressed the laws, violated the statutes,
broken the everlasting covenant.
6 Therefore [l] a curse devours the earth, and its inhabitants [m] suffer for their guilt;
therefore the inhabitants of the earth are scorched,
and few men are left.
7 [n] The wine mourns,
the vine languishes,
all the merry-hearted sigh.
8 [o] The mirth of the tambourines is stilled,
the noise of the jubilant has ceased,
the mirth of the lyre is stilled.
9 No more do they drink wine [p] with singing;
strong drink is bitter to those who drink it.
10[†] [q] The wasted city is broken down;
[r] every house is shut up so that none can enter.
11 [s] There is an outcry in the streets for lack of wine;
[t] all joy has grown dark;
the gladness of the earth is banished.

[12] Desolation is left in the city;
the gates are battered into ruins.
[13] For thus it shall be in the midst of the earth
among the nations, [u] as when an olive tree is beaten,
as at the gleaning when the grape harvest is done.

[14][†] They lift up their voices, they sing for joy;
over the majesty of the LORD they shout from the west. [2] [15] [v] Therefore in the east [3] give glory to the LORD;
in the coastlands of the sea, give glory to the name of the LORD, the God of Israel.
[16][†] [w] From the ends of the earth we hear songs of praise, of glory to [x] the Righteous One.
But I say, “I waste away,
I waste away. Woe is me!
For [y] the traitors have betrayed, with betrayal the traitors have betrayed.”

[17] [z] Terror and the pit and the snare [4] are upon you, O inhabitant of the earth!
[18] [z] He who flees at the sound of the terror shall fall into the pit,
and he who climbs out of the pit
shall be caught in the snare.
For [a] the windows of heaven are opened,
and [b] the foundations of the earth tremble.
[19] The earth is utterly broken,
the earth is split apart,
the earth is violently shaken.
[20] The earth [c] staggers like a drunken man;
it sways like a hut;
[d] its transgression lies heavy upon it,
and it falls, and will not rise again.

21[†] On that day the LORD will punish the host of heaven, in heaven, and [e] the kings of the earth, on the earth.
22 [f] They will be gathered together as prisoners in a pit;
they will be shut up in a prison,
and after many days [g] they will be punished.
23[†] [h] Then the moon will be confounded and the sun ashamed, for [i] the LORD of hosts reigns on Mount Zion and in Jerusalem, and his glory will be before his elders.

God Will Swallow Up Death Forever

ISAIAH 25 [†] O LORD, [j]you are my God;
[k]I will exalt you; I will praise your name, for you have done wonderful things,
[l]plans formed of old, faithful and sure.
[2][†] For you have made the city [m]a heap,
the fortified city a ruin;
the foreigners’ palace is a city no more;
it will never be rebuilt.
3 [n]Therefore strong peoples will glorify you;
cities of ruthless nations will fear you.
[4][†] [o]For you have been a stronghold to the poor,
a stronghold to the needy in his distress,
[p]a shelter from the storm and a shade from the heat;
[q]for the breath of the ruthless is like a storm against a wall,
5 [r]like heat in a dry place.
You subdue the noise of the foreigners;
as heat by the shade of a cloud,
so the song of the ruthless is put down.

[6][†] [s]On this mountain the LORD of hosts will make for all peoples a feast of rich food, a feast of well-aged wine, [t]of rich food full of marrow, of aged wine well refined.
[7][†] And he will swallow up [s]on this mountain the covering that is cast over all peoples, [u]the veil that is spread over all nations.
8 [v]He will swallow up death forever;
and [w]the Lord GOD will wipe away tears from all faces, and [x]the reproach of his people he will take away from all the earth, [y]for the LORD has spoken.
[9][†] It will be said on that day, “Behold, this is our God; [z]we have waited for him, that he might save us.

This is the LORD; we have waited for him;
[a] let us be glad and rejoice in his salvation.”
10[†] For the hand of the LORD will rest [s] on this mountain, and [b] Moab shall be trampled down in his place,
as straw is trampled down in a dunghill. [1] 11 [c] And he will spread out his hands in the midst of it as a swimmer spreads his hands out to swim, but the LORD [d] will lay low his pompous pride together with the skill [2] of his hands.
12 And the high fortifications of his walls he will bring down, lay low, and cast to the ground, to the dust.

You Keep Him in Perfect Peace

ISAIAH 26 [†]In that day [e] this song will be sung in the land of Judah:

“We have a strong city;
he sets up [f] salvation
as walls and bulwarks.
2[†] [g] Open the gates, that the righteous nation that keeps faith may enter in.
3[†] [h] You keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on you, because he trusts in you.
4[†] Trust in the LORD forever, for the LORD GOD is an everlasting rock.
5 [i] For he has humbled
the inhabitants of the height,
the lofty city.
He lays it low, lays it low to the ground,
casts it to the dust.
6 The foot tramples it,
the feet of [j] the poor,
the steps of [j] the needy.”

7 The path of the righteous is level;

[k] you make level the way of the righteous.
8[†] In the path of your judgments,
O LORD, we wait for you;
[l] your name and [l] remembrance are the desire of our soul.
9 My soul yearns for you in the night;
my spirit within me earnestly seeks you.
[m] For when your judgments are in the earth,
the inhabitants of the world learn righteousness.
10[†] [n] If favor is shown to the wicked,
he does not learn righteousness;
in the land of uprightness he deals corruptly and does not see the majesty of the LORD.
11 O LORD, [o] your hand is lifted up, but [p] they do not see it.
Let them see your zeal for your people, and be ashamed.
Let [q] the fire for your adversaries consume them.
12[†] O LORD, you will ordain [r] peace for us,
for you have indeed done for us all our works.
13[†] O LORD our God,
[s] other lords besides you have ruled over us,
[t] but your name alone we bring to remembrance.
14 They are dead, they will not live;
they are shades, they will not arise;
to that end you have visited them with destruction and wiped out all remembrance of them.
15 [u] But you have increased the nation, O LORD,
you have increased the nation; you are glorified;
[v] you have enlarged all the borders of the land.

16[†] O LORD, [w] in distress they sought you;
they poured out a whispered prayer
when your discipline was upon them.
17 [x] Like a pregnant woman who writhes and cries out in her pangs

when she is near to giving birth,
so were we because of you, O LORD; 18 [x] we were pregnant, we writhed,
but we have given birth to wind.
We have accomplished no deliverance in the earth,
and the inhabitants of the world have not fallen.
19[†] [y] Your dead shall live; their bodies shall rise.
You who dwell in the dust, awake and sing for joy!
For [z] your dew is a dew of light,
and the earth will give birth to the dead.

20[†] Come, my people, enter your chambers, and shut your doors behind you;
hide yourselves [a] for a little while until the fury has passed by.
21 [b] For behold, the LORD is coming out from his place to punish the inhabitants of [c] the earth for their iniquity, and the earth will disclose the blood shed on it,
and will no more cover its slain.

The Redemption of Israel

ISAIAH 27 [†]In that day the LORD with his hard and great and strong [d] sword will punish [e] Leviathan the fleeing serpent, [e] Leviathan the twisting serpent, and he will slay [f] the dragon that is in the sea.

2 In that day,
[g] “A pleasant vineyard,[1] [h] sing of it!
3[†] I, the LORD, am its keeper;
every moment I water it.
Lest anyone punish it,
I keep it night and day;
4 I have no wrath.
[i] Would that I had thorns and briers to battle!
I would march against them,
I would burn them up together.

5 Or let them lay hold of my protection,
let them make peace with me,
let them make peace with me.”

6[†] [j] In days to come [2] Jacob shall take root, Israel shall blossom and put forth shoots and fill the whole world with fruit.

7 [k] Has he struck them [l] as he struck those who struck them?
Or have they been slain [m] as their slayers were slain?
8 [n] Measure by measure, [3] by exile you contended with them;
[o] he removed them with his fierce breath [4] in the day of the east wind.
9[†] Therefore by this [p] the guilt of Jacob will be atoned for,
and this will be the full fruit of the removal of his sin: [5] [q] when he makes all the stones of the altars like chalkstones crushed to pieces, no [r] Asherim or incense altars will remain standing.
10 [s] For the fortified city is solitary,
a habitation deserted and forsaken, like the wilderness;
there the calf grazes;
there it lies down and strips its branches.
11 When its boughs are dry, they are broken;
women come and make a fire of them.
[t] For this is a people without discernment;
therefore he who made them will not have compassion on them;
he who formed them will show them no favor.

12[†]In that day [u] from the river Euphrates [6] to the Brook of Egypt the LORD will thresh out the grain, and you will be gleaned one by one, O people of Israel. 13[†]And in that day [v] a great trumpet will be blown, [w] and those who were lost in the land of Assyria and those who were driven out to the land of Egypt [x] will come and worship the LORD on the holy mountain at Jerusalem.

Judgment on Ephraim and Jerusalem

ISAIAH 28 [†] Ah, the proud crown of [y] the drunkards of Ephraim, and the fading flower of its glorious beauty, which is on the head of the rich valley of those overcome with wine!
2 [†] Behold, the Lord has [z] one who is mighty and strong;
like a storm of hail, a destroying tempest,
like [a] a storm of mighty, overflowing waters,
he casts down to the earth with his hand.
3 [b] The proud crown of the drunkards of Ephraim will be trodden underfoot;
4 [c] and the fading flower of its glorious beauty, which is on the head of the rich valley, will be like [d] a first-ripe fig before the summer:
when someone sees it, he swallows it as soon as it is in his hand.

5 [†] [e] In that day the LORD of hosts will be a crown of glory, [1] and a diadem of beauty, to the remnant of his people, 6 and [f] a spirit of justice to him who sits in judgment, and [g] strength to those who turn back the battle at the gate.

7 [†] [h] These also reel with wine and [i] stagger with strong drink;
the priest and [j] the prophet reel with strong drink,
they are swallowed by [2] wine,
they stagger with strong drink,
they reel in vision,
they stumble in giving judgment.
8 For all tables are full of filthy vomit, with no space left.

9 [†] [k] "To whom will he teach knowledge,
and to whom will he explain the message?
Those who are weaned from the milk,
those taken from the breast?

[10] For it is precept upon precept, precept upon precept, line upon line, line upon line,
here a little, there a little.”

[11] [l] For by people of strange lips and with a foreign tongue
the LORD will speak to this people, [12] to whom he has said,
[m] “This is rest;
give rest to the weary;
and this is repose”;
yet they would not hear.
[13] And the word of the LORD will be to them precept upon precept, precept upon precept,
line upon line, line upon line,
here a little, there a little,
[n] that they may go, and fall backward,
and be broken, and snared, and taken.

A Cornerstone in Zion

[14] Therefore hear the word of the LORD, you [o] scoffers, who rule this people in Jerusalem!
[15][†] Because you have said, “We have made a covenant with death, and with Sheol we have an agreement, when the [p] overwhelming whip passes through it will not come to us,
for we have made [q] lies our refuge,
and in falsehood we have taken shelter”;
[16][†] therefore thus says the Lord GOD,
[r] “Behold, I am the one who has laid [3] as a foundation [s] in Zion, a stone, a tested stone,
a precious cornerstone, of a sure foundation:
‘Whoever believes will not be in haste.’
[17] And I will make justice [t] the line, and righteousness [t] the plumb line;

and hail will sweep away the refuge of lies,
and waters will overwhelm the shelter.”
18 Then [u] your covenant with death will be annulled, and your agreement with Sheol will not stand;
when the overwhelming scourge passes through,
you will be beaten down by it.
19 As often as it passes through it will take you;
[v] for morning by morning it will pass through,
by day and by night;
and it will be [w] sheer terror to understand the message.
20 For the bed is too short to stretch oneself on,
and the covering too narrow to wrap oneself in.
21[†] For the LORD will rise up [x] as on Mount Perazim; [y] as in the Valley of [z] Gibeon he will be roused;
to do his deed—strange is his deed!
and to work his work—alien is his work!
22 Now therefore do not [a] scoff, lest your bonds be made strong;
for I have heard [b] a decree of destruction from the Lord GOD of hosts against the whole land.

23[†] Give ear, and hear my voice;
give attention, and hear my speech.
24 Does he who plows for sowing plow continually?
Does he continually open and harrow his ground?
25 [c] When he has leveled its surface, does he not scatter dill, sow cumin, and put in wheat in rows and barley in its proper place,
and emmer [4] as the border?
26 [d] For he is rightly instructed;
his God teaches him.

27 Dill is not threshed with a threshing sledge, nor is a cart wheel rolled over cumin,
but dill is beaten out with a stick,

and cumin with a rod.
28 Does one crush grain for bread?
No, he does not thresh it forever; [5]
when he drives his cart wheel over it with his horses, he does not crush it.
29 This also comes from the LORD of hosts;
he is [e] wonderful in counsel and excellent in wisdom.

The Siege of Jerusalem

ISAIAH 29 [†] Ah, Ariel, Ariel,
the city [f] where David encamped!
Add year to year;
let the feasts run their round.
2 [†] Yet I will distress Ariel, and there shall be moaning and lamentation,
and she shall be to me like an Ariel. [1] 3 [g] And I will encamp against you all around, and will besiege you [h] with towers and I will raise siegeworks against you.
4 [i] And you will be brought low; from the earth you shall speak, and from the dust your speech will be bowed down;
your voice shall come from the ground like [j] the voice of a ghost, and from the dust your speech shall whisper.

5 [†] But the multitude of your foreign foes shall be like [k] small dust, and the multitude of the ruthless like passing chaff.
[l] And in an instant, suddenly,
6 [m] you will be visited by the LORD of hosts with thunder and with earthquake and great noise, with whirlwind and tempest, and the flame of a devouring fire.
7 And [n] the multitude of all the nations that fight against Ariel, all that fight against her and her stronghold and distress her, shall be [o] like a dream, a vision of the night.

8 [p] As when a hungry man dreams, and behold, he is eating and awakes with his hunger not satisfied, or as when a thirsty man dreams, and behold, he is drinking and awakes faint, with his thirst not quenched, so shall the multitude of all the nations be that fight against Mount Zion.

9 Astonish yourselves [2] and be astonished;
blind yourselves and be blind!
Be drunk, but not with wine;
[r] stagger, but not with strong drink!
10 [s] For the LORD has poured out upon you a spirit of deep sleep, and has closed your eyes (the prophets),
and covered your heads (the seers).

11 And the vision of all this has become to you like the words of a book that is [t] sealed. When men give it to one who can read, saying, "Read this," he says, "I cannot, for it is sealed." 12 And when they give the book to one who cannot read, saying, "Read this," he says, "I cannot read."

13 [†] And the Lord said:
"Because [u] this people [v] draw near with their mouth and honor me with their lips, while their hearts are far from me,
and their fear of me is a commandment taught by men, 14 therefore, behold, [w] I will again do wonderful things with this people, with wonder upon wonder;
and [x] the wisdom of their wise men shall perish,
and the discernment of their discerning men shall be hidden."

15 [†] Ah, [y] you who hide deep from the LORD your counsel, whose deeds are [z] in the dark, and who say, "Who sees us? Who knows us?"
16 [a] You turn things upside down!

Shall the potter be regarded as the clay,
that the thing made should say of its maker,
“He did not make me”;
or the thing formed say of him who formed it,
“He has no understanding”?

[17][†] Is it not yet a very little while [b] until Lebanon shall be turned into a fruitful field, and the fruitful field shall be regarded as a forest?
[18] In that day [c] the deaf shall hear [d] the words of a book, and out of their gloom and darkness
[e] the eyes of the blind shall see.
[19] [f] The meek shall obtain fresh joy in the LORD, and the poor among mankind shall exult in the Holy One of Israel.
[20] For the ruthless shall come to nothing and [g] the scoffer cease, and all who watch to do evil shall be cut off, [21] who by a word make a man out to be an offender, and [h] lay a snare for him who reproves in the gate, and with an empty plea [i] turn aside him who is in the right.

[22][†]Therefore thus says the LORD, [j] who redeemed Abraham, concerning the house of Jacob:

“Jacob shall no more be ashamed,
no more shall his face grow pale.
[23] For when he sees his children,
[k] the work of my hands, in his midst,
they will sanctify my name;
[l] they will sanctify the Holy One of Jacob and will stand in awe of the God of Israel.
[24] And those [m] who go astray in spirit will come to understanding, and those who murmur will accept instruction.”

Do Not Go Down to Egypt

ISAIAH 30 [†] "Ah, [n] stubborn children," declares the LORD, [o] "who carry out a plan, but not mine, and who make [p] an alliance, [1] but not of my Spirit,
that they may add sin to sin;
[2] [†] [q] who set out to go down to Egypt, without asking for my direction, to take refuge in the protection of Pharaoh and to seek shelter in the shadow of Egypt!
[3] [r] Therefore shall the protection of Pharaoh turn to your shame, and the shelter in the shadow of Egypt to your humiliation.
[4] For though his officials are at [s] Zoan and [t] his envoys reach [u] Hanes, [5] everyone comes to shame through [v] a people that cannot profit them, that brings neither help nor profit,
but shame and disgrace."

[6] [†] An [w] oracle on [x] the beasts of [y] the Negeb.

Through a land of trouble and anguish,
from where come the lioness and the lion,
the adder and the [z] flying fiery serpent,
they carry their riches on the backs of donkeys,
and their treasures on the humps of camels,
to a people that cannot profit them.
[7] Egypt's [a] help is worthless and empty;
therefore I have called her [b] "Rahab who sits still."

A Rebellious People

[8] And now, go, [c] write it before them on a tablet and inscribe it in a book, that it may be for the time to come as a witness forever. [2]

[9][†] [d]For they are a rebellious people, lying children,
children unwilling to hear the instruction of the LORD;
[10] [e]who say to [f]the seers, “Do not see,”
and to the prophets, “Do not prophesy to us what is right;
speak to us [g]smooth things,
prophesy illusions,
[11] leave the way, turn aside from the path, let us hear no more about the Holy One of Israel.”
[12] Therefore thus says the Holy One of Israel, “Because you despise this word and trust in [h]oppression and perverseness and rely on them,
[13] therefore this iniquity shall be to you [i]like a breach in a high wall, bulging out, and about to collapse, whose breaking comes suddenly, in an instant;
[14] and its breaking is [j]like that of a potter’s vessel that is smashed so ruthlessly that among its fragments not a shard is found with which to take fire from the hearth, or to dip up water out of the cistern.”

[15][†] For thus said the Lord GOD, the Holy One of Israel, “In [k]returning [3] and [l]rest you shall be saved;
in quietness and in trust shall be your strength.”
But you were unwilling, [16]and you said, “No! We will flee upon [m]horses”;
therefore you shall flee away;
and, “We will ride upon swift steeds”;
therefore your pursuers shall be swift.
[17] [n]A thousand shall flee at the threat of one;
at the threat of five you shall flee, till you are left like a flagstaff on the top of a mountain, like a signal on a hill.

The LORD Will Be Gracious

[18][†] Therefore the LORD [o]waits to be gracious to you, and therefore he [p]exalts himself to show mercy to you.
For the LORD is a God of justice;
[q]blessed are all those who wait for him.

[19]For a people shall dwell [r]in Zion, in Jerusalem; you shall weep no more. He will surely be gracious to you at the sound of your cry. As soon as he hears it, he answers you. [20][†]And though the Lord give you the [s]bread of adversity and the [s]water of affliction, [t]yet your Teacher will not hide himself anymore, but your eyes shall see your Teacher. [21] [u]And your ears shall hear a word behind you, saying, “This is [v]the way, walk in it,” when you turn to the right or when you turn to the left. [22]Then you will defile your carved idols overlaid with silver and your gold-plated metal images.
[w]You will scatter them as unclean things. You will say to them, “Be gone!”

[23][†] [x]And he will give [y]rain for the seed with which you sow the ground, and bread, the produce of the ground, which will be rich and plenteous. [z]In that day your livestock will graze in large pastures, [24]and [a]the oxen and the donkeys that work the ground will eat seasoned fodder, which has been winnowed with shovel and fork. [25]And [b]on every lofty mountain and every high hill there will be brooks running with water, in the day of the great slaughter, [c]when the towers fall. [26] [d]Moreover, the light of the moon will be as the light of the sun, and the light of the sun will be sevenfold, as the light of seven days, in the day when [e]the LORD binds up [f]the brokenness of his people, and heals the wounds inflicted by his blow.

[27] Behold, the name of the LORD comes from afar, burning with his anger, and in thick rising smoke; [4]
his lips are full of fury,
and his tongue is like a devouring fire;
[28] [g]his breath is [h]like an overflowing stream that reaches up to the neck;
to sift the nations with the sieve of destruction, and to place on the jaws of the peoples [i]a bridle that leads astray.

[29]You shall have a song as in the night when a holy feast is kept, and gladness of heart, [j]as when one sets out to the sound of the flute to go to [k]the mountain of the LORD, to [l]the Rock of Israel. [30]And the LORD [m]will cause his majestic voice to be heard and the descending blow of his arm to be seen, in furious anger [n]and a flame of devouring fire, with a cloudburst [o]and storm and hailstones. [31]The Assyrians will be terror-stricken at the voice of the LORD, [p]when he strikes with his rod. [32][†]And every stroke of the appointed staff that the LORD lays on them [q]will be to the sound of tambourines and lyres. [r]Battling with brandished arm, he will fight with them. [33]For [s]a burning place [5] has long been prepared; indeed, for the king it is made ready, [t]its pyre made deep and wide, with fire and wood in abundance; [u]the breath of the LORD, like a stream of sulfur, kindles it.

Woe to Those Who Go Down to Egypt

ISAIAH 31 [†] Woe to [v]those who go down to Egypt for help and rely on horses, who [w]trust in chariots because they are many and in horsemen because they are very strong, but [x]do not look to the Holy One of Israel or consult the LORD!
[2][†] And [y]yet he is wise and brings disaster;
[z]he does not call back his words,
but [a]will arise against the house of the evildoers and against the helpers of [b]those who work iniquity.
[3][†] The Egyptians are man, and not God,
and their horses [c]are flesh, and not spirit.
When the LORD stretches out his hand,
the helper will stumble, and he who is helped will fall,
and they will all perish together.

[4] For thus the LORD said to me,
[d]"As a lion or a young lion growls over his prey, and when a band of shepherds is called out against him he is not terrified by their shouting or daunted at their noise, [e] so the LORD of hosts will come down to fight [1] on Mount Zion and on its hill.

5 [f] Like birds hovering, so the LORD of hosts will protect Jerusalem;
he will protect and deliver it;
he will spare and rescue it.”

6[†] [g] Turn to him from whom people [2] have [h] deeply revolted, O children of Israel. 7For in that day [i] everyone shall cast away his idols of silver and his idols of gold, which your hands have sinfully made for you.

8 [j] “And the Assyrian shall fall by a sword, not of man;
and a sword, not of man, shall devour him;
and he shall flee from the sword,
and his young men shall be [k] put to forced labor.
9[†] [l] His rock shall pass away in terror, and his officers desert the standard in panic,” declares the LORD, whose [m] fire is in Zion, and whose [n] furnace is in Jerusalem.

A King Will Reign in Righteousness

ISAIAH 32 [†] Behold, [o] a king will reign in righteousness, and princes will rule in justice.
2 [p] Each will be like a hiding place from the wind,
a shelter from the storm, [q] like streams of water in a dry place, like the shade of a great rock in a weary land.
3[†] [r] Then the eyes of those who see will not be closed, and the ears of those who hear will give attention.
4 The heart of the hasty will understand and know,
[s] and the tongue of the stammerers will hasten to speak distinctly.
5 [t] The fool will no more be called noble, nor the scoundrel said to be honorable.
6 For [u] the fool speaks folly, and his heart is busy with iniquity,

to practice ungodliness,
to utter error concerning the LORD, [v] to leave the craving of the hungry unsatisfied,
and to deprive the thirsty of drink.
7 As for the scoundrel—[w] his devices are evil;
he plans wicked schemes to ruin the poor with lying words, even when the plea of the needy is right.
8[†] But he who is noble plans noble things,
and on noble things he stands.

Complacent Women Warned of Disaster

9 [x] Rise up, you women [y] who are at ease, hear my voice;
you complacent daughters, give ear to my speech.
10[†] In little more than a year
you will shudder, you complacent women;
for the grape harvest fails,
the fruit harvest will not come.
11[†] Tremble, you women [y] who are at ease, shudder, you complacent ones;
[z] strip, and make yourselves bare,
[a] and tie sackcloth around your waist.
12 [b] Beat your breasts for the pleasant fields,
for the fruitful vine,
13[†] [c] for the soil of my people growing up in thorns and briers, [d] yes, for all the joyous houses in the exultant city.
14 For the palace is forsaken,
the populous city deserted;
the hill and the watchtower will become dens forever, [e] a joy of wild donkeys,
a pasture of flocks;

15[†] until [f] the Spirit is poured upon us from on high,
and [g] the wilderness becomes a fruitful field,
and the fruitful field is deemed a forest.
16 Then justice will dwell in the wilderness, and righteousness abide in the fruitful field.
17 [h] And the effect of righteousness will be peace,
and the result of righteousness, quietness and trust [1] forever.
18 My people will abide in a peaceful habitation,
in secure dwellings, and in quiet resting places.
19[†] [i] And it will hail when the forest falls down,
[j] and the city will be utterly laid low.
20 [k] Happy are you who sow beside all waters, who let the feet of the ox and the donkey range free.

O Lord, Be Gracious to Us

ISAIAH 33 [†] [l] Ah, you destroyer, who yourself have not been destroyed,
you traitor,
whom none has betrayed!
When you have ceased to destroy,
you will be destroyed;
and when you have finished betraying,
they will betray you.

2[†] O Lord, be gracious to us; [m] we wait for you.
Be our arm every morning,
our salvation in the time of trouble.
3[†] [n] At the tumultuous noise peoples flee;
when you lift yourself up, nations are scattered,
4 and your spoil is gathered as the caterpillar gathers;
[o] as locusts leap, it is leapt upon.

5[†] [p] The Lord is exalted, for he dwells on high;
he will fill Zion with justice and righteousness, 6 [q] and he will be the stability of your times, abundance of salvation, wisdom, and knowledge;
the fear of the Lord is Zion's [1] treasure.

7[†] Behold, their heroes cry in the streets;
[r] the envoys of peace weep bitterly.
8 [s] The highways lie waste;
the traveler ceases.
[t] Covenants are broken;
cities [2] are despised;
there is no regard for man.
9 [u] The land mourns and languishes;
Lebanon is confounded and withers away;
Sharon is like a desert,

and Bashan and Carmel shake off their leaves.

10[†] [v]“Now I will arise,” says the LORD,
“now I will lift myself up;
now I will be exalted.
11[†] [w]You conceive chaff; you give birth to stubble;
your breath is [x]a fire that will consume you.
12 And the peoples will be as if burned to lime,
[x]like thorns cut down, that are burned in the fire.”

13[†] Hear, you who are far off, what I have done;
and you who are near, acknowledge my might.
14 The sinners in Zion are afraid;
trembling has seized the godless:
[y]“Who among us can dwell [z]with the consuming fire?
Who among us can dwell with everlasting burnings?”
15[†] [a]He who walks righteously and speaks uprightly, who despises the gain of oppressions, who shakes his hands, lest they hold a bribe,
who stops his ears from hearing of bloodshed
[b]and shuts his eyes from looking on evil, 16[†] he will dwell on the heights;
his place of defense will be the fortresses of rocks;
[c]his bread will be given him; his water will be sure.

17[†] [d]Your eyes will behold the king in his beauty;
[e]they will see a land that stretches afar.
18 [f]Your heart will muse on the terror:
“Where is he who counted, where is [g]he who weighed the tribute?
Where is [h]he who counted the towers?”
19 [i]You will see no more the insolent people, the people [j]of an obscure speech that you cannot comprehend, stammering in a tongue that you cannot understand.
20[†] Behold Zion, the city of our appointed feasts!
[k]Your eyes will see Jerusalem,

an untroubled habitation, an [l]immovable tent, whose stakes will never be plucked up,
nor will any of its cords be broken.
[21][†] But there the Lord in majesty will be for us a place of [m]broad rivers and streams, [n]where no galley with oars can go,
nor majestic ship can pass.
[22][†] For the Lord is our [o]judge; the Lord is our [p]lawgiver;
the Lord is our [q]king; he will save us.

[23][†] Your cords hang loose;
they cannot hold the mast firm in its place or keep the sail spread out.
[r]Then prey and spoil in abundance will be divided;
even [s]the lame will take the prey.
[24] And no inhabitant will say, [t]"I am sick";
[u]the people who dwell there will be forgiven their iniquity.

Judgment on the Nations

ISAIAH 34 [†] Draw near, [v]O nations, to hear, and give attention, O peoples!
Let the earth hear, and all that fills it;
the world, and all that comes from it.
[2][†] For the Lord is enraged against all the nations, and furious against all their host;
he has [w]devoted them to destruction, [1] has given them over for slaughter.
[3] Their slain shall be cast out,
and [x]the stench of their corpses shall rise;
[y]the mountains shall flow with their blood.
[4] [z]All the host of heaven shall rot away,
and the skies roll up like a scroll.
All their host shall fall,
as leaves fall from the vine,

like leaves falling from the fig tree.

5[†] For my sword has drunk its fill in the heavens;
behold, it descends for judgment upon [a]Edom,
upon the people [b]I have devoted to destruction.
6 The LORD has a sword; it is sated with blood;
it is gorged with fat,
with the blood of lambs and goats,
with the fat of the kidneys of rams.
[c]For the LORD has a sacrifice in Bozrah,
a great slaughter in the land of Edom.
7 [d]Wild oxen shall [e]fall with them,
and [f]young steers with [f]the mighty bulls.
Their land shall drink its fill of blood,
and their soil shall be gorged with fat.

8 [g]For the LORD has a day of vengeance,
a year of recompense for the cause of Zion.
9 [h]And the streams of Edom [2] shall be turned into pitch, and her soil into sulfur;
her land shall become burning pitch.
10 Night and day [i]it shall not be quenched;
[j]its smoke shall go up forever.
[k]From generation to generation it shall lie waste;
none shall pass through it forever and ever.
11[†] [l]But the hawk and the porcupine [3] shall possess it,
the owl and the raven shall dwell in it.
[m]He shall stretch the line of [n]confusion [4] over it, and the plumb line of emptiness.
12 Its nobles—there is no one there to call it a kingdom, and all its princes shall be nothing.

13[†] [o]Thorns shall grow over its strongholds, nettles and thistles in its fortresses.
It shall be the haunt of [p]jackals,

an abode for ostriches. [5] 14 [q] And wild animals shall meet with hyenas;
the wild goat shall cry to his fellow;
indeed, there the night bird [6] settles and finds for herself a resting place.

15 There the owl nests and lays and hatches and gathers her young in her shadow;
indeed, there [r] the hawks are gathered,
each one with her mate.
16[†] Seek and read from the book of the LORD:
Not one of these shall be missing;
none shall be without her mate.
For the mouth of the LORD has commanded,
and his Spirit has gathered them.
17 [s] He has cast the lot for them;
his hand has portioned it out to them with the line;
they shall possess it forever;
from generation to generation they shall dwell in it.

The Ransomed Shall Return

ISAIAH 35 [†] [t] The wilderness and the dry land shall be glad;
[u] the desert shall rejoice and blossom like the crocus;
2 it shall blossom abundantly and rejoice with joy and singing.
[v] The glory of Lebanon shall be given to it,
the majesty of [w] Carmel and [x] Sharon.
[y] They shall see the glory of the LORD,
the majesty of our God.

3[†] [z] Strengthen the weak hands,
and make firm the feeble knees.
4 Say to those who have an anxious heart,
“Be strong; fear not!
[a] Behold, your God will come with vengeance, with the recompense of God.

He will come and save you.”

5[†] [b] Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened,
and the ears of the deaf unstopped;
6 [b] then shall the lame man leap like a deer,
and the tongue of the mute sing for joy.
[c] For waters break forth in the wilderness,
and streams in the desert;
7 [d] the burning sand shall become a pool,
and the thirsty ground springs of water;
in the haunt of [e] jackals, where they lie down,
the grass shall become reeds and rushes.

8[†] [f] And a highway shall be there,
and it shall be called the Way of Holiness;
[g] the unclean shall not pass over it.
It shall belong to those who walk on the way;
even if they are fools, they shall not go astray. [1] 9 No lion shall be there, nor shall any ravenous beast come up on it;
they shall not be found there,
but the redeemed shall walk there.
10 [h] And the ransomed of the LORD shall return and come to Zion with singing;
[i] everlasting joy shall be upon their heads;
they shall obtain gladness and joy,
and sorrow and sighing shall flee away.

Sennacherib Invades Judah

ISAIAH 36 [†] [j] In the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah, [k] Sennacherib king of Assyria came up against all the fortified cities of Judah and took them. 2[†] [l] And the king of Assyria sent the Rabshakeh [1] from [m] Lachish to King Hezekiah at Jerusalem, with a great army. And he stood [n] by the conduit of the upper pool on the highway to the Washer’s Field. [3]And there came out to him [o]Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, who was over the household, and [o]Shebna the secretary, and Joah the son of Asaph, the recorder.

[4][†]And the Rabshakeh said to them, “Say to Hezekiah, ‘Thus says the [p]great king, the king of Assyria: On what do you rest this trust of yours? [5]Do you think that mere words are strategy and power for war? In whom do you now trust, that you have rebelled against me? [6] [q]Behold, you are trusting in Egypt, that broken reed of a staff, which will pierce the hand of any man who leans on it. Such is Pharaoh king of Egypt to all who trust in him. [7][†]But if you say to me, “We trust in the LORD our God,” is it not he [r]whose high places and altars Hezekiah has removed, saying to Judah and to Jerusalem, “You shall worship before this altar”? [8]Come now, make a wager with my master the king of Assyria: I will give you two thousand horses, if you are able on your part to set riders on them. [9]How then can you repulse [s]a single captain among the least of my master’s servants, when [t]you trust in Egypt for chariots and for horsemen? [10]Moreover, is it without the LORD that I have come up against this land to destroy it? [u]The LORD said to me, Go up against this land and destroy it.’”

[11]Then Eliakim, Shebna, and Joah said to the Rabshakeh, “Please speak to your servants [v]in Aramaic, for we understand it. Do not speak to us in the language of Judah within the hearing of the people who are on the wall.” [12]But the Rabshakeh said, “Has my master sent me to speak these words to your master and to you, and not to the men sitting on the wall, who are doomed with you to eat their own dung and drink their own urine?”

[13]Then the Rabshakeh stood and called out in a loud voice in the language of Judah: “Hear the words of the great king, the king of Assyria! [14][†]Thus says the king: [w]‘Do not let Hezekiah deceive you, for he will not be able to deliver you. [15][†]Do not let Hezekiah make you trust in the LORD by saying, “The LORD will surely deliver us. This city will not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria.” [16]Do not listen to Hezekiah. For thus says the king of Assyria: Make your peace with me [2] and come out to me. Then each one of you will eat of his own vine, and each one of his own fig tree, and each one of you will drink the water of his own cistern, [17]until [x]I come and take you away to a land like your own land, a land of grain and wine, a land of bread and vineyards. 18[†]Beware lest Hezekiah mislead you by saying, “The LORD will deliver us.” Has any of the gods of the nations delivered his land out of the hand of the king of Assyria? 19 [y] Where are the gods of [z] Hamath and [z] Arpad? Where are the gods of Sepharvaim? [a] Have they delivered Samaria out of my hand? 20 [b] Who among all the gods of these lands have delivered their lands out of my hand, that the LORD should deliver Jerusalem out of my hand?’”

21But they were silent and answered him not a word, for the king’s command was, “Do not answer him.” 22 [c] Then Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, who was over the household, and Shebna the secretary, and Joah the son of Asaph, the recorder, came to Hezekiah with their clothes torn, and told him the words of the Rabshakeh.

Hezekiah Seeks Isaiah’s Help

ISAIAH 37 [†] [d] As soon as King Hezekiah heard it, he tore his clothes and covered himself with sackcloth and went into the house of the LORD. 2And he sent Eliakim, who was over the household, and Shebna the secretary, and the senior priests, covered with sackcloth, to the prophet [e] Isaiah the son of Amoz. 3[†]They said to him, “Thus says Hezekiah, ‘This day is a [f] day of distress, of rebuke, and of disgrace; [g] children have come to the point of birth, and there is no strength to bring them forth. 4[†] [h] It may be that the LORD your God will hear the words of the Rabshakeh, whom his master the king of Assyria has sent to mock the living God, and will rebuke the words that the LORD your God has heard; therefore lift up your prayer for [i] the remnant that is left.’”

5When the servants of King Hezekiah came to Isaiah, 6Isaiah said to them, “Say to your master, ‘Thus says the LORD: Do not be afraid because of the words that you have heard, with which the young men of the king of Assyria have reviled me. 7[†]Behold, [j] I will put a spirit in him, so that [k] he shall hear a rumor and return to his own land, and [l] I will make him fall by the sword in his own land.’”

8The Rabshakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria fighting against [m] Libnah, for he had heard that the king had left [m] Lachish. 9Now the king heard concerning Tirhakah king of [n] Cush, [1] “He has set out to fight against you." And when he heard it, he sent messengers to Hezekiah, saying, [10][†]"Thus shall you speak to Hezekiah king of Judah: [o]'Do not let your God in whom you trust deceive you by promising that Jerusalem will not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria. [11]Behold, you have heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all lands, devoting them to destruction. And shall you be delivered? [12][p]Have the gods of the nations delivered them, the nations that my fathers destroyed, [q]Gozan, [r]Haran, Rezeph, and the people of Eden who were in Telassar? [13][p]Where is the king of Hamath, the king of Arpad, the king of the city of Sepharvaim, the king of Hena, or the king of Ivvah?'"

Hezekiah's Prayer for Deliverance

[14]Hezekiah received the letter from the hand of the messengers, and read it; and Hezekiah went up to the house of the Lord, and spread it before the Lord. [15]And Hezekiah prayed to the Lord: [16][†]"O Lord of hosts, God of Israel, [s]enthroned above the cherubim, you are the God, you alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth; [t]you have made heaven and earth. [17][u]Incline your ear, O Lord, and hear; open your eyes, O Lord, and see; and hear [v]all the words of Sennacherib, which he has sent to mock the living God. [18]Truly, O Lord, [w]the kings of Assyria have laid waste all the nations and their lands, [19]and have cast their gods into the fire. For they were no gods, but the work of men's hands, wood and stone. Therefore they were destroyed. [20][†]So now, O Lord our God, save us from his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that you alone are the Lord."

Sennacherib's Fall

[21][†]Then Isaiah the son of Amoz sent to Hezekiah, saying, "Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel: Because you have prayed to me concerning Sennacherib king of Assyria, [22][†]this is the word that the Lord has spoken concerning him:

"'She despises you, she scorns you—[x]the virgin daughter of Zion;
she wags her head behind you—

the daughter of Jerusalem.

23 “‘Whom have you mocked and reviled?
Against whom have you raised your voice and lifted your eyes to the heights?
Against [y] the Holy One of Israel!
24 By your servants you have mocked the Lord, and you have said, [z] With my many chariots
I have gone up the heights of the mountains, to the far recesses of Lebanon, [a] to cut down its tallest cedars,
its choicest cypresses,
to come to its remotest height,
its most fruitful forest.
25 I dug wells
and drank waters,
to dry up with the sole of my foot
all [b] the streams [c] of Egypt.

26[†] [d] “‘Have you not heard that I determined it long ago?
I planned from days of old
what now I bring to pass, that you should make fortified cities
crash into heaps of ruins, 27 while their inhabitants, shorn of strength, are dismayed and confounded,
and have become like plants of the field and like tender grass, like grass on the housetops, blighted [2] before it is grown.

28 “‘I know your sitting down and your going out and coming in,
and your raging against me.
29 [e] Because you have raged against me and your complacency has come to my ears,

I will put my hook in your nose and my bit in your mouth, and [f] I will turn you back on the way
by which you came.’

[30]“And this shall be the sign for you: this year you shall eat what grows of itself, and in the second year what springs from that. Then in the third year sow and reap, and plant vineyards, and eat their fruit. [31]And the surviving remnant of the house of Judah [g] shall again take root downward and bear fruit upward. [32] [h] For out of Jerusalem shall go a remnant, and out of Mount Zion a band of survivors. [i] The zeal of the LORD of hosts will do this.

[33][†]“Therefore thus says the LORD concerning the king of Assyria: He shall not come into this city or shoot an arrow there or come before it with a shield or [j] cast up a siege mound against it. [34]By the way that he came, by the same he shall return, and he shall not come into this city, declares the LORD. [35] [k] For I will defend this city to save it, for my own sake and for [l] the sake of my servant David.”

[36][†] [m] And the angel of the LORD went out and struck down 185,000 in the camp of the Assyrians. And when people arose early in the morning, behold, these were all dead bodies. [37]Then Sennacherib king of Assyria departed and returned home and lived at [n] Nineveh. [38]And as he was worshiping in the house of Nisroch his god, Adrammelech and Sharezer, his sons, struck him down with the sword. And after they escaped into the land of [o] Ararat, [p] Esarhaddon his son reigned in his place.

Hezekiah’s Sickness and Recovery

ISAIAH 38 [†] [q] In those days Hezekiah became [r] sick and was at the point of death. And [s] Isaiah the prophet the son of Amoz came to him, and said to him, “Thus says the LORD: Set your house in order, for you shall die, you shall not recover.” [1] [2]Then Hezekiah turned his face to the wall and prayed to the LORD, [3][†]and said, “Please, O LORD, remember how [t] I have walked before you in faithfulness and with a whole heart, and have done what is good in your sight.” And Hezekiah wept bitterly.

[4]Then the word of the LORD came to Isaiah: [5][†]“Go and say to Hezekiah, Thus says the LORD, the God of David your father: I have heard your prayer; I have seen your tears. Behold, I will add [u] fifteen years to your life. [2] [6][†] [v] I will deliver you and this city out of the hand of the king of Assyria, and will defend this city.

[7]“This shall be the sign to you from the LORD, that the LORD will do this thing that he has promised: [8] [w] Behold, I will make the shadow cast by the declining sun on the dial of Ahaz turn back ten steps.” So the sun turned back on the dial the ten steps by which it had declined. [3]

[9][†]A writing of Hezekiah king of Judah, after he had been sick and had recovered from his sickness:

[10] I said, [x] In the middle [4] of my days
I must depart;
I am consigned to the gates of Sheol
for the rest of my years.
[11] I said, I shall not see the LORD,
the LORD [y] in the land of the living;
I shall look on man no more among the inhabitants of the world.
[12] My dwelling is plucked up and removed from me
[z] like a shepherd’s tent;
[a] like a weaver [b] I have rolled up my life;
[c] he cuts me off from the loom;
[d] from day to night you bring me to an end;
[13] [e] I calmed myself [5] until morning;
like a lion [f] he breaks all my bones;
from day to night you bring me to an end.

[14] Like [g] a swallow or a crane I chirp;
[h] I moan like a dove.
[i] My eyes are weary with looking upward.
O Lord, I am oppressed; [j] be my pledge of safety!
[15] What shall I say? For he has spoken to me, and he himself has done it.

[k] I walk slowly all my years because of the bitterness of my soul.

16 [l] O Lord, by these things men live, and in all these is the life of my spirit.
Oh restore me to health and make me live!
17 [m] Behold, it was for my welfare that I had great bitterness; [n] but in love you have delivered my life
from the pit of destruction, [n] for you have cast all my sins behind your back.
18 [o] For Sheol does not thank you;
death does not praise you;
those who go down to the pit do not hope for your faithfulness.
19 The living, the living, he thanks you,
as I do this day;
[p] the father makes known to the children your faithfulness.

20 The LORD will save me,
and we will play my music on stringed instruments
all the days of our lives, [q] at the house of the LORD.

21 [r] Now Isaiah had said, "Let them take a cake of figs and apply it to the boil, that he may recover." 22 [†] Hezekiah also had said, "What is the sign that I shall go up to the house of the LORD?"

Envoys from Babylon

ISAIAH 39 [†] [s] At that time Merodach-baladan the son of Baladan, king of Babylon, [t] sent envoys with letters and a present to Hezekiah, for he heard that he had been sick and had recovered. 2 [†] And Hezekiah welcomed them gladly. And he showed them his treasure house, [u]the silver, the gold, the spices, the precious oil, his whole armory, all that was found in his storehouses. [v]There was nothing in his house or in all his realm that Hezekiah did not show them. [3][†]Then Isaiah the prophet came to King Hezekiah, and said to him, “What did these men say? And from where did they come to you?” Hezekiah said, “They have come to me from a far country, from Babylon.” [4]He said, “What have they seen in your house?” Hezekiah answered, “They have seen all that is in my house. There is nothing in my storehouses that I did not show them.”

[5]Then Isaiah said to Hezekiah, “Hear the word of the LORD of hosts: [6][†] [w]Behold, the days are coming, when all that is in your house, and that which your fathers have stored up till this day, shall be carried to Babylon. Nothing shall be left, says the LORD. [7][x]And some of your own sons, who will come from you, whom you will father, shall be taken away, and they shall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.” [8][†]Then Hezekiah said to Isaiah, “The word of the LORD that you have spoken is good.” For he thought, [y]“There will be peace and security in my days.”

Comfort for God’s People

ISAIAH 40 [†] [z]Comfort, comfort my people, says your God.
[2][†] [a]Speak tenderly to Jerusalem, and cry to her that [b]her warfare [1] is ended, that her iniquity is pardoned, that she has received from the LORD’s hand double for all her sins.

[3] [c]A voice cries: [2]
[d]“In the wilderness prepare the way of the LORD;
    [e]make straight in the desert a highway for our God.
[4][†] [f]Every valley shall be lifted up,
    and every mountain and hill be made low;
the uneven ground shall become level,
    and the rough places a plain.
[5][†] [g]And the glory of the LORD shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together,

[h] for the mouth of the LORD has spoken.”

The Word of God Stands Forever

6 A voice says, “Cry!”
And I said, [3] “What shall I cry?”
[i] All flesh is grass, and all its beauty [4] is like the flower of the field.
7 The grass withers, the flower fades
when the breath of the LORD blows on it;
surely the people are grass.
8 [j] The grass withers, the flower fades,
but the word of our God will stand forever.

The Greatness of God

9 [†] Go on up to a high mountain,
O Zion, [k] herald of good news; [5]
lift up your voice with strength, O Jerusalem, herald of good news; [6] lift it up, fear not;
say to the cities of Judah, “Behold your God!”
10 [l] Behold, the Lord GOD comes with might,
and his arm rules for him;
[m] behold, his reward is with him,
and his recompense before him.
11 [n] He will tend his flock like a shepherd;
[o] he will gather the lambs in his arms;
[p] he will carry them in his bosom,
and gently lead those that are with young.

12 [q] Who has measured the waters in the hollow of his hand and marked off the heavens with a span, enclosed the dust of the earth in a measure and weighed the mountains in scales and the hills in a balance?

13 [r] Who has measured [7] the Spirit of the LORD, or what man shows him his counsel?
14 Whom did he consult,
and who made him understand?
[s] Who taught him the path of justice,
and taught him knowledge,
and showed him the way of understanding?
15[†] Behold, the nations are like a drop from a bucket, and are accounted [t] as the dust on the scales;
behold, he takes up [u] the coastlands like fine dust.
16 Lebanon would not suffice for fuel, nor are [v] its beasts enough for a burnt offering.
17 [w] All the nations are as nothing before him, they are accounted by him as less than nothing and emptiness.

18[†] [x] To whom then will you liken God,
[y] or what likeness compare with him?
19 [y] An idol! A craftsman casts it, and a goldsmith overlays it with gold and casts for it silver chains.
20 [z] He who is too impoverished for an offering chooses wood [8] that will not rot;
he seeks out a skillful craftsman to set up an idol that will not move.

21 [a] Do you not know? Do you not hear?
Has it not been told you from the beginning?
Have you not understood from the foundations of the earth?
22 It is he who sits above the circle of the earth, and its inhabitants are [b] like grasshoppers;
[c] who stretches out the heavens like a curtain, and spreads them like a tent to dwell in;
23 [d] who brings princes to nothing, and makes the rulers of the earth as emptiness.

[24] Scarcely are they planted, scarcely sown, scarcely has their stem taken root in the earth,
when he blows on them, and they wither,
[e] and the tempest carries them off like stubble.

[25][†] [f] To whom then will you compare me, that I should be like him? says the Holy One.
[26] Lift up your eyes on high and see:
who created these?
[g] He who brings out their host by number,
calling them all by name,
by the greatness of his might,
and because he is strong in power not one is missing.

[27][†] Why do you say, O Jacob,
and speak, O Israel,
[h] “My way is hidden from the Lord,
[i] and my right is disregarded by my God”?
[28] Have you not known? Have you not heard?
The Lord is [j] the everlasting God,
the Creator of the ends of the earth.
He does not faint or grow weary;
[k] his understanding is unsearchable.
[29] He gives power to the faint,
and to him who has no might he increases strength.
[30][†] Even youths shall faint and be weary,
and young men shall fall exhausted;
[31] but [l] they who wait for the Lord shall renew their strength;
they shall mount up with wings [m] like eagles;
they shall run and not be weary;
they shall walk and not faint.

Fear Not, for I Am with You

ISAIAH 41 [†] [n]Listen to me in silence, [o]O coastlands;
let the peoples renew their strength;
let them approach, then let them speak;
let us together draw near for judgment.

2[†] [p]Who stirred up one from the east whom victory meets at every [q]step? [1] [r]He gives up nations before him, so that he tramples kings underfoot;
he makes them like dust with his sword,
[s]like driven stubble with his bow.
3 He pursues them and passes on safely,
by paths his feet have not trod.
4[†] [t]Who has performed and done this, calling the generations from the beginning?
[u]I, the LORD, the first,
and with the last; I am he.

5[†] [v]The coastlands have seen and are afraid;
the ends of the earth tremble;
they have drawn near and come.
6 Everyone helps his neighbor and says to his brother, “Be strong!”
7 [w]The craftsman strengthens the goldsmith, and he who smooths with the hammer him who strikes the anvil, saying of the soldering, “It is good”;
and they strengthen it with nails [x]so that it cannot be moved.

8[†] But you, Israel, [y]my servant,
Jacob, [z]whom I have chosen,
the offspring of Abraham, [a]my friend;
9 you whom I took from the ends of the earth, and called [b]from its farthest corners,

saying to you, “You are [y] my servant,
[z] I have chosen you and not cast you off”;
10[†] fear not, for I am with you;
be not dismayed, for I am your God;
I will strengthen you, I will help you,
I will uphold you with [c] my righteous right hand.

11 [d] Behold, all who are incensed against you shall be put to shame and confounded;
those who strive against you shall be as nothing and shall perish.
12 [e] You shall seek those who contend with you,
but you shall not find them;
[f] those who war against you shall be as nothing at all.
13 For I, the LORD your God, hold your right hand;
it is I who say to you, “Fear not,
I am the one who helps you.”

14[†] Fear not, you [g] worm Jacob, you men of Israel!
I am the one who helps you, declares the LORD;
your [h] Redeemer is the Holy One of Israel.
15 [i] Behold, I make of you a threshing sledge,
new, sharp, and having teeth;
you shall thresh [j] the mountains and crush them,
and you shall make the hills like chaff;
16 [k] you shall winnow them, and [l] the wind shall carry them away, and the tempest shall scatter them.
[m] And you shall rejoice in the LORD;
in the Holy One of Israel you shall glory.

17[†] [n] When the poor and needy seek water,
and there is none,
and their tongue is parched with thirst,

I the LORD will answer them;
I the God of Israel will not forsake them.
18 [o] I will open rivers on the bare heights, and fountains in the midst of the valleys.
[p] I will make the wilderness a pool of water, and the dry land springs of water.
19 [q] I will put in the wilderness the cedar,
the acacia, the myrtle, and the olive.
I will set in the desert [r] the cypress,
the plane and the pine together, 20 that they may see and know, may consider and understand together, that [s] the hand of the LORD has done this,
the Holy One of Israel has created it.

The Futility of Idols

21[†] Set forth your case, says the LORD;
bring your proofs, says the King of Jacob.
22[†] Let them bring them, and [t] tell us what is to happen.
Tell us the former things, what they are,
that we may consider them,
that we may know their outcome;
or declare to us the things to come.
23[†] [t] Tell us what is to come hereafter, that we may know that you are gods;
[u] do good, or do harm,
that we may be dismayed and terrified. [2] 24 Behold, [v] you are nothing, and your work is less than nothing;
an abomination is he who chooses you.

25[†] [w] I stirred up one from the north, and he has come, [x] from the rising of the sun, [y] and he shall call upon my name;
he shall trample on rulers as on mortar,

as the potter treads clay.
26[†] [z] Who declared it from the beginning, that we might know, and beforehand, that we might say, “He is right”?
There was none who declared it, none who proclaimed,
none who heard your words.
27 [a] I was the first to say [3] to Zion, “Behold, here they are!”
and [b] I give to Jerusalem a herald of good news.
28 [c] But when I look, there is no one;
among these there is no counselor who, when I ask, gives an answer.
29[†] [d] Behold, they are all a delusion;
their works are nothing;
their metal images are empty wind.

The Lord’s Chosen Servant

ISAIAH 42 [†] [e] Behold [f] my servant, whom I uphold, my chosen, [g] in whom my soul delights;
[h] I have put my Spirit upon him;
[i] he will bring forth justice to the nations.
2 He will not cry aloud or lift up his voice, or make it heard in the street;
3 [j] a bruised reed he will not break,
and a faintly burning wick he will not quench;
[k] he will faithfully bring forth justice.
4 He will not grow faint or be discouraged [1]
till he has established justice in the earth;
and [l] the coastlands wait for his law.

5 Thus says God, the Lord, who created the heavens [m] and stretched them out,
who spread out the earth and what comes from it, [n] who gives breath to the people on it and spirit to those who walk in it:
6[†] “I am the Lord; [o] I have called you [2] in righteousness;

I will take you by the hand and keep you;
I will give you [p] as a covenant for the people,
[q] a light for the nations,
7 [r] to open the eyes that are blind,
to bring out the prisoners from the dungeon,
[s] from the prison those who sit in darkness.
8 I am the LORD; that is my name;
[t] my glory I give to no other,
nor my praise to carved idols.
9 Behold, the former things have come to pass, [u] and new things I now declare;
before they spring forth
I tell you of them."

Sing to the LORD a New Song

10[†] [v] Sing to the LORD a new song, his praise from the end of the earth,
[w] you who go down to the sea, and all that fills it,
[l] the coastlands and their inhabitants.
11 Let the desert and its cities lift up their voice,
the villages that [x] Kedar inhabits;
let the habitants of [y] Sela sing for joy,
let them shout from the top of the mountains.
12 Let them give glory to the LORD, and declare his praise in [l] the coastlands.
13 [z] The LORD goes out like a mighty man, like a man of war [a] he stirs up his zeal;
he cries out, [b] he shouts aloud,
he shows himself mighty against his foes.

14 For a long time I have held my peace;
I have kept still and restrained myself;
now I will cry out [c] like a woman in labor;
I will gasp and pant.

[15] [d] I will lay waste mountains and hills,
and dry up all their vegetation;
I will turn the rivers into islands, [3]
and dry up the pools.
[16][†] [e] And I will lead the blind in a way that they do not know, in paths that they have not known
I will guide them.
I will turn the darkness before them into light,
[f] the rough places into level ground.
These are the things I do,
and I do not forsake them.
[17] [g] They are turned back and utterly put to shame, who trust in carved idols,
who say to metal images,
"You are our gods."

Israel's Failure to Hear and See

[18][†] Hear, you deaf, and look, you blind, that you may see!
[19] Who is blind but my servant,
or deaf as my messenger whom I send?
Who is blind as my dedicated one, [4] or blind as the servant of the LORD?
[20] [h] He sees many things, but does not observe them;
[i] his ears are open, but he does not hear.
[21] The LORD was pleased, for his righteousness' sake, to magnify his law and make it glorious.
[22] But this is a people plundered and looted;
they are all of them trapped in holes [j] and hidden in prisons;
they have become plunder with none to rescue, spoil with none to say, "Restore!" [23] Who among you will give ear to this,
will attend and listen for the time to come?

24 Who gave up Jacob to the looter, and Israel to the plunderers?
Was it not the LORD, against whom we have sinned,
in whose ways they would not walk,
and whose law they would not obey?
25 So he poured on him the heat of his anger and the might of battle;
it set him on fire all around, [k]but he did not understand;
it burned him up, [l]but he did not take it to heart.

Israel's Only Savior

ISAIAH 43 [†] But now thus says the LORD, [m]he who created you, O Jacob,
he who formed you, O Israel:
[n]"Fear not, for I have redeemed you;
[o]I have called you by name, you are mine.
2[†] [p]When you pass through the waters, I will be with you;
and through the rivers, they shall not overwhelm you;
[p]when you walk through fire [q]you shall not be burned,
and the flame shall not consume you.
3[†] For [r]I am the LORD your God,
the Holy One of Israel, your Savior.
[s]I give Egypt as your ransom,
Cush and [t]Seba in exchange for you.
4 Because you are precious in my eyes,
and honored, and I love you,
I give men in return for you,
peoples in exchange for your life.
5 [u]Fear not, for I am with you;
[v]I will bring your offspring from the east,
and from the west I will gather you.
6 I will say to the north, Give up, and to the south, Do not withhold;
bring [w]my sons from afar and [w]my daughters from the end of the earth, [7][†] everyone who is called by my name, whom I created for my glory, whom I formed and made.”

[8] Bring out [x]the people who are blind, yet have eyes, who are deaf, yet have ears!
[9] [y]All the nations gather together,
and the peoples assemble.
Who among them can declare this,
and show us the former things?
Let them bring their witnesses to prove them right,
and let them hear and say, It is true.
[10][†] [z]“You are my witnesses,” declares the LORD,
“and [a]my servant whom I have chosen, that you may know and believe me and understand that I am he.
[b]Before me no god was formed,
nor shall there be any after me.
[11] [c]I, I am the LORD, and besides me there is no savior.
[12] I declared and saved and proclaimed,
when there was no strange god among you;
and [z]you are my witnesses,” declares the LORD, “and I am God.
[13] Also [d]henceforth I am he;
there is none who can deliver from my hand;
I work, and who can turn it back?”

[14] Thus says the LORD,
your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel:
[e]“For your sake I send to Babylon and [f]bring them all down as fugitives,
[g]even the Chaldeans, in the ships in which they rejoice.
[15] I am the LORD, your Holy One,
the Creator of Israel, your King.”

16[†] Thus says the LORD,
[h] who makes a way in the sea,
a path in the mighty waters, 17 who [i] brings forth chariot and horse,
army and warrior;
they lie down, they cannot rise,
[j] they are extinguished, [k] quenched like a wick:
18[†] [l] “Remember not the former things,
nor consider the things of old.
19 [m] Behold, I am doing a new thing;
now it springs forth, do you not perceive it?
[n] I will make a way in the wilderness
[o] and rivers in the desert.
20[†] The wild beasts will honor me,
[p] the jackals and the ostriches,
[q] for I give water in the wilderness, rivers in the desert,
to give drink to my chosen people,
21 the people whom I formed for myself
[r] that they might declare my praise.

22[†] “Yet you did not call upon me, O Jacob; but [s] you have been weary of me, O Israel!
23[†] [t] You have not brought me your sheep for burnt offerings, or honored me with your sacrifices.
I have not burdened you with offerings,
[s] or wearied you with frankincense.
24 You have not bought me sweet cane with money, or satisfied me with the fat of your sacrifices.
But you have burdened me with your sins;
you have wearied me with your iniquities.

25[†] “I, I am he [u] who blots out [v] your transgressions for my own sake, and I will not remember your sins.

[26] Put me in remembrance; [w] let us argue together;
set forth your case, that you may be proved right.
[27] [x] Your first father sinned,
and [y] your mediators transgressed against me.
[28] Therefore [z] I will profane the princes of the sanctuary, and [a] deliver Jacob to utter destruction and Israel to reviling.

Israel the Lord's Chosen

ISAIAH 44 [†] "But now hear, [b] O Jacob my servant,
Israel whom I have chosen!
[2] Thus says the Lord who made you,
[c] who formed you from the womb and will help you:
[d] Fear not, O Jacob my servant,
[e] Jeshurun whom I have chosen.
[3][†] [f] For I will pour water on the thirsty land,
and streams on the dry ground;
I will pour my Spirit upon your offspring,
and my blessing on your descendants.
[4] They shall spring up among the grass
[g] like willows by flowing streams.
[5][†] [h] This one will say, 'I am the Lord's,' another will call on the name of Jacob, and another will write on his hand, 'The Lord's,'
and name himself by the name of Israel."

Besides Me There Is No God

[6] Thus says the Lord, the King of Israel and [i] his Redeemer, the Lord of hosts: [j] "I am the first and I am the last;
besides me there is no god.
[7] [k] Who is like me? Let him proclaim it. [1]
Let him declare and set it before me, since I appointed an ancient people.

Let them declare what is to come, and what will happen.
[8] Fear not, nor be afraid;
have I not told you from of old and declared it?
[l] And you are my witnesses!
[m] Is there a God besides me?
There is no [n] Rock; I know not any."

The Folly of Idolatry

[9][†] [o] All who fashion idols are nothing, and the things they delight in do not profit. Their witnesses neither see nor know, that they may be put to shame. [10] [p] Who fashions a god or casts an idol that is profitable for nothing? [11] [q] Behold, all his companions shall be put to shame, and the craftsmen are only human. Let them all assemble, let them stand forth. They shall be terrified; they shall be put to shame together.

[12][†] [p] The ironsmith takes a cutting tool and works it over the coals. He fashions it with hammers and works it with his strong arm. He becomes hungry, and his strength fails; he drinks no water and is faint. [13]The carpenter stretches a line; he marks it out with a pencil. He shapes it with planes and marks it with a compass. [r] He shapes it into the figure of a man, with the beauty of a man, to dwell in a house. [14][†] [s] He cuts down cedars, or he chooses a cypress tree or an oak and lets it grow strong among the trees of the forest. He plants a cedar and the rain nourishes it. [15]Then it becomes fuel for a man. He takes a part of it and warms himself; he kindles a fire and bakes bread. Also he makes a god and worships it; he makes it an idol and falls down before it. [16]Half of it he burns in the fire. Over the half he eats meat; he roasts it and is satisfied. Also he warms himself and says, "Aha, I am warm, I have seen the fire!" [17]And the rest of it he makes into a god, his idol, and falls down to it and worships it. [t] He prays to it and says, "Deliver me, for you are my god!"

[18][†]They know not, nor do they discern, for he has shut their eyes, so that they cannot see, and their hearts, so that they cannot understand. [19]No one considers, nor is there knowledge or discernment to say, "Half of it I burned in the fire; I also baked bread on its coals; I roasted meat and have eaten. And shall I make the rest of it an [u] abomination? Shall I fall down before a block of wood?” 20 [v] He feeds on [w] ashes; a deluded heart has led him astray, and he cannot deliver himself or say, “Is there not [x] a lie in my right hand?”

The LORD Redeems Israel

21[†] Remember these things, O Jacob, and Israel, for you are [y] my servant;
I formed you; you are my servant;
[z] O Israel, you will not be forgotten by me.
22[†] [a] I have blotted out your transgressions like a cloud and your sins like mist;
return to me, for I have redeemed you.

23[†] [b] Sing, O heavens, for the LORD has done it; shout, O [c] depths of the earth;
break forth into singing, O mountains,
O forest, and every tree in it!
For the LORD has redeemed Jacob,
[d] and will be glorified [2] in Israel.

24[†] Thus says the LORD, [e] your Redeemer,
[f] who formed you from the womb:
[g] “I am the LORD, who made all things,
[h] who alone stretched out the heavens,
who spread out the earth by myself, 25 who frustrates the signs of liars and makes fools of diviners, [i] who turns wise men back and makes their knowledge foolish, 26 [j] who confirms the word of his servant and fulfills the counsel of his messengers, who says of Jerusalem, ‘She shall be inhabited,’ [k] and of the cities of Judah, ‘They shall be built, and I will raise up their ruins’;
27[†] [l] who says to the deep, ‘Be dry;

I will dry up your rivers';
28[†] who says of [m] Cyrus, 'He is [n] my shepherd, and he shall fulfill all my purpose';
saying of Jerusalem, 'She shall be built,' [o] and of the temple, 'Your foundation shall be laid.'"

Cyrus, God's Instrument

ISAIAH 45 [†] Thus says the LORD to [p] his anointed, to Cyrus, [q] whose right hand I have grasped, to subdue nations before him and [r] to loose the belts of kings, to open doors before him that gates may not be closed:
2[†] "I will go before you and [s] level the exalted places, [1] [t] I will break in pieces the doors of bronze and cut through the bars of iron, 3 [u] I will give you the treasures of darkness and the hoards in secret places, that you may know that it is I, the LORD,
the God of Israel, [v] who call you by your name.
4[†] For the sake of my servant Jacob,
and Israel my chosen,
[v] I call you by your name,
[w] I name you, though you do not know me.
5[†] [x] I am the LORD, and there is no other,
besides me there is no God;
[y] I equip you, though you do not know me,
6 [z] that people may know, from the rising of the sun and from the west, that there is none besides me;
I am the LORD, and there is no other.
7[†] I form light and create darkness,
I make well-being and [a] create calamity,
I am the LORD, who does all these things.

8[†] [b]“Shower, O heavens, from above, and [c]let the clouds rain down righteousness;
let the earth open, that salvation and righteousness may bear fruit;
let the earth cause them both to sprout;
I the LORD have created it.

9 [d]“Woe to him who strives with him who formed him,
a pot among earthen pots!
[e]Does the clay say to him who forms it, ‘What are you making?’
or ‘Your work has no handles’?
10 Woe to him who says to a father, ‘What are you begetting?’
or to a woman, ‘With what are you in labor?’”

11 Thus says [f]the LORD, the Holy One of Israel, and the one who formed him:
[g]“Ask me of things to come;
will you command me [h]concerning my children and [i]the work of my hands? [2] 12 [j]I made the earth and created man on it;
it was my hands [k]that stretched out the heavens,
and [l]I commanded all their host.
13 [m]I have stirred him up in righteousness,
[n]and I will make all his ways level;
[o]he shall build my city
[p]and set my exiles free, not for price or reward,” says the LORD of hosts.

The LORD, the Only Savior

14[†] Thus says the LORD:
[q]“The wealth of Egypt and the merchandise of Cush, and the Sabeans, men of stature, shall come over to you [r]and be yours;

they shall follow you;
they shall come over in chains and bow down to you.
They will plead with you, saying:
‘Surely God is in you, and there is no other,
no god besides him.’”

15[†] [s] Truly, you are a God who hides himself,
O God of Israel, the Savior.
16 [t] All of them are put to shame and confounded;
the makers of idols go in confusion together.
17[†] But Israel is saved by the Lord with everlasting salvation; [u] you shall not be put to shame or confounded to all eternity.

18 [v] For thus says the Lord, who created the heavens
(he is God!),
who formed the earth and made it (he established it;
he [w] did not create it empty, [x] he formed it to be inhabited!):
“I am the Lord, and there is no other.
19 [y] I did not speak in secret,
in a land of darkness;
I did not say to the offspring of Jacob,
[z] ‘Seek me in vain.’ [3]
I the Lord speak [a] the truth;
I declare what is right.

20 [b] “Assemble yourselves and come;
draw near together,
you survivors of the nations!
[c] They have no knowledge who [d] carry about their wooden idols, [e] and keep on praying to a god that cannot save.

21 [f] Declare and present your case;
let them take counsel together!
Who told this long ago?
Who declared it of old?
Was it not I, the LORD?
And there is no other god besides me, a righteous God [g] and a Savior;
there is none besides me.

22[†] “Turn to me and be saved,
[h] all the ends of the earth!
For I am God, and there is no other.
23[†] [i] By myself I have sworn;
from my mouth has gone out in [j] righteousness
a word that shall not return:
[k] ‘To me every knee shall bow,
every tongue shall swear allegiance.’ [4]

24 [l] “Only in the LORD, it shall be said of me, are righteousness and [m] strength;
to him shall come and be ashamed [n] all who were incensed against him.
25 In the LORD all the offspring of Israel shall be justified and shall glory.”

The Idols of Babylon and the One True God

ISAIAH 46 [†] [o] Bel bows down; Nebo stoops; their idols are on beasts and livestock;
these things you carry are borne as burdens on weary beasts.
2 They stoop; they bow down together;
they cannot save the burden,
but [p] themselves go into captivity.

3[†] “Listen to me, O house of Jacob,
all the remnant of the house of Israel, [q] who have been borne by me from before your birth, carried from the womb;
4 [r] even to your old age I am he,
and to gray hairs I will carry you.
I have made, and I will bear;
I will carry and will save.

5 [s] “To whom will you liken me and make me equal,
and compare me, that we may be alike?
6[†] [t] Those who lavish gold from the purse, and weigh out silver in the scales,
hire a goldsmith, and he makes it into a god;
[u] then they fall down and worship!
7 [v] They lift it to their shoulders, they carry it,
they set it in its place, and it stands there;
[w] it cannot move from its place.
If one cries to it, it does not answer or save him from his trouble.

8[†] “Remember this and stand firm, recall it to mind, [x] you transgressors, 9 remember the former things of old;
for I am God, and there is no other;
I am God, and there is none like me,
10 [y] declaring the end from the beginning and from ancient times things not yet done, saying, [z] ‘My counsel shall stand,
and I will accomplish all my purpose,’ 11 [a] calling a bird of prey from the east,
the man of my counsel from a far country.
[b] I have spoken, and I will bring it to pass;
I have purposed, and I will do it.

12[†] “Listen to me, you stubborn of heart,

you who are far from righteousness:
13 [c] I bring near my righteousness; it is not far off,
and my salvation will not delay;
[d] I will put salvation in Zion,
for Israel my glory.”

The Humiliation of Babylon

ISAIAH 47 [†] [e] Come down and sit in the dust,
O virgin [f] daughter of Babylon;
[g] sit on the ground without a throne,
O daughter of [h] the Chaldeans!
[i] For you shall no more be called tender and delicate.
2 [†] Take the millstones and [j] grind flour, [k] put off your veil,
strip off your robe, uncover your legs,
pass through the rivers.
3 Your nakedness shall be uncovered,
and your disgrace shall be seen.
I will take vengeance,
and I will spare no one.
4 [†] [l] Our Redeemer—the LORD of hosts is his name—is the Holy One of Israel.

5 [†] [m] Sit in silence, and go into darkness,
O daughter of [h] the Chaldeans;
for you shall no more be called [n] the mistress of kingdoms.
6 [o] I was angry with my people;
I profaned my heritage;
I gave them into your hand;
[p] you showed them no mercy;
on the aged you made your yoke exceedingly heavy.
7 You said, “I shall be [q] mistress forever,” so that you did not lay these things to heart or remember their end.

[8][†] Now therefore hear this, [q] you lover of pleasures, [r] who sit securely,
who say in your heart,
[s] "I am, and there is no one besides me; [t] I shall not sit as a widow or know the loss of children":
[9] [u] These two things shall come to you in a moment, [v] in one day;
the loss of children and widowhood shall come upon you in full measure, [w] in spite of your many sorceries and the great power of your enchantments.

[10] You felt secure in your wickedness,
you said, "No one sees me";
your wisdom and your knowledge led you astray,
and you said in your heart,
[x] "I am, and there is no one besides me."
[11][†] But evil shall come upon you, which you will not know how to charm away;
disaster shall fall upon you,
for which you will not be able to atone;
[y] and ruin shall come upon you suddenly,
of which you know nothing.

[12] [z] Stand fast in your enchantments and your many sorceries, with which you have labored from your youth;
perhaps you may be able to succeed;
perhaps you may inspire terror.
[13] You are wearied with your many counsels;
let them stand forth and save you,
[a] those who divide the heavens,
who gaze at the stars,

who at the new moons make known what shall come upon you.

14 Behold, [b] they are like stubble;
[c] the fire consumes them;
they cannot deliver themselves from the power of the flame.
No coal for warming oneself is this,
no fire to sit before!
15 Such to you are those with whom you have labored, who have done business with you from your youth;
they wander about, each in his own direction;
there is no one to save you.

Israel Refined for God’s Glory

ISAIAH 48 [†] Hear this, O house of Jacob, [d] who are called by the name of Israel,
and [e] who came from the waters of Judah, [f] who swear by the name of the LORD and confess the God of Israel,
but not in truth or right.
2 [†] For they call themselves after the holy city,
[g] and stay themselves on the God of Israel;
the LORD of hosts is his name.

3 “The former things [h] I declared of old;
they went out from my mouth, and I announced them;
then suddenly I did them, and they came to pass.
4 Because I know that [i] you are obstinate, and your neck is an iron sinew
and your forehead brass, 5 [h] I declared them to you from of old,
before they came to pass I announced them to you,
lest you should say, [j] ‘My idol did them,
my carved image and my metal image commanded them.’

6 “You have heard; now see all this;
and will you not declare it?
From this time forth [k] I announce to you new things, hidden things that you have not known.
7 They are created now, not long ago;
before today you have never heard of them,
lest you should say, ‘Behold, I knew them.’
8 You have never heard, you have never known, from of old your ear has not been opened.
For I knew that you would surely deal treacherously, and that [l] from before birth you were called a rebel.

9[†] [m] “For my name’s sake I defer my anger, for the sake of my praise I restrain it for you,
that I may not cut you off.
10 Behold, I have refined you, [n] but not as silver;
[o] I have tried [1] you in the furnace of affliction.
11 [p] For my own sake, for my own sake, I do it,
for how should my name [2] be profaned?
[q] My glory I will not give to another.

The LORD’s Call to Israel

12[†] “Listen to me, O Jacob, and Israel, whom I called!
I am he; [r] I am the first,
and I am the last.
13 My hand [s] laid the foundation of the earth, and my right hand [s] spread out the heavens;
[t] when I call to them,
they stand forth together.

14[†] “Assemble, all of you, and listen!
[u] Who among them has declared these things?
The LORD loves him;

[v] he shall perform his purpose on Babylon,
and his arm shall be against [w] the Chaldeans.
15 [x] I, even I, have spoken and called him;
I have brought him, and he will prosper in his way.
16[†] [y] Draw near to me, hear this:
from the beginning I have not spoken in secret, from the time it came to be I have been there.”
And now [z] the Lord GOD has sent me, and his Spirit.

17[†] Thus says the LORD,
your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel: “I am the LORD your God,
who teaches you to profit,
who leads you in the way you should go.
18 [a] Oh that you had paid attention to my commandments!
[b] Then your peace would have been like a river,
and your righteousness like the waves of the sea;
19 [c] your offspring would have been like the sand, and your descendants like its grains;
their name would never be cut off or destroyed from before me.”

20[†] [d] Go out from Babylon, flee from [e] Chaldea, declare this [f] with a shout of joy, proclaim it,
send it out to the end of the earth;
say, [g] “The LORD has redeemed his servant Jacob!”
21 [h] They did not thirst when he led them through the deserts;
[i] he made water flow for them from the rock;
he split the rock and the water gushed out.

22 [j] “There is no peace,” says the LORD, “for the wicked.”

The Servant of the LORD

ISAIAH 49 [†] Listen to me, [k] O coastlands, and give attention, you peoples [l] from afar.
[m] The LORD called me from the womb, from the body of my mother he named my name.
[2][†] [n] He made my mouth like a sharp sword;
[o] in the shadow of his hand he hid me;
he made me a polished arrow;
in his quiver he hid me away.
[3][†] And he said to me, “You are my servant,
Israel, [p] in whom I will be glorified.” [1]
[4] [q] But I said, “I have labored in vain;
I have spent my strength for nothing and vanity;
yet surely my right is with the LORD,
and my recompense with my God.”

[5][†] [r] And now the LORD says, he [m] who formed me from the womb to be his servant,
to bring Jacob back to him;
and that Israel might be gathered to him—for [s] I am honored in the eyes of the LORD, and my God has become my strength—
[6] he says:
“It is too light a thing that you should be my servant to raise up the tribes of Jacob and to bring back the preserved of Israel; [t] I will make you [u] as a light for the nations, that [v] my salvation may reach to the end of the earth.”

[7][†] Thus says the LORD,
[w] the Redeemer of Israel and his Holy One, [x] to one deeply despised, abhorred by the nation,
the servant of rulers:
[y] “Kings shall see and arise;

princes, and they shall prostrate themselves;
because of the LORD, who is faithful,
the Holy One of Israel, who has chosen you.”

The Restoration of Israel

8 Thus says the LORD:
[z] “In a [a] time of favor I have answered you;
in a day of salvation I have helped you;
I will keep you [b] and give you as a covenant to the people, to establish the land,
[c] to apportion the desolate heritages,
9 [d] saying to the prisoners, ‘Come out,’
to those who are in darkness, ‘Appear.’
[e] They shall feed along the ways;
on all bare heights shall be their pasture;
10 [f] they shall not hunger or thirst, neither scorching wind nor sun shall strike them,
for he who has pity on them [g] will lead them,
and by springs of water will guide them.
11 [h] And I will make all my mountains a road,
and my highways shall be raised up.
12 [i] Behold, these shall come from afar, and behold, [j] these from the north and from the west, [2]
and these from the land of Syene.” [3]

13[†] [k] Sing for joy, O heavens, and exult, O earth;
break forth, O mountains, into singing!
For the LORD [l] has comforted his people and will have compassion on his afflicted.

14[†] But Zion said, [m] “The LORD has forsaken me;
my Lord has forgotten me.”

15 [n] “Can a woman forget her nursing child, that she should have no compassion on the son of her womb?

Even these may forget,
yet I will not forget you.
16 Behold, [o] I have engraved you on the palms of my hands;
your walls are continually before me.
17 Your builders make haste; [4]
[p] your destroyers and those who laid you waste go out from you.
18 [q] Lift up your eyes around and see;
they all gather, they come to you.
[r] As I live, declares the LORD, [s] you shall put them all on as an ornament;
you shall bind them on as a bride does.

19 “Surely your waste and your desolate places and your devastated land—[t] surely now you will be too narrow for your inhabitants, and those who swallowed you up will be far away.
20 [u] The children of your bereavement will yet say in your ears:
[t] ‘The place is too narrow for me;
make room for me to dwell in.’
21 Then you will say in your heart:
‘Who has borne me these?
[u] I was bereaved and barren, exiled and put away,
but who has brought up these?
Behold, I was left alone;
from where have these come?’”

22[†] Thus says the Lord GOD:
“Behold, I will lift up my hand to the nations,
[v] and raise my signal to the peoples;
[w] and they shall bring your sons in their arms, [5]
and your daughters shall be carried on their shoulders.
23 [x] Kings shall be your foster fathers, and their queens your nursing mothers.

[y] With their faces to the ground they shall bow down to you,
and [z] lick the dust of your feet.
Then you will know that I am the LORD;
[a] those who wait for me [b] shall not be put to shame."

24[†] Can the prey be taken from the mighty, or the captives of a tyrant [6] be rescued?
25 For thus says the LORD:
[c] "Even the captives of the mighty shall be taken,
and the prey of the tyrant be rescued,
for I will contend with those who contend with you,
and I will save your children.
26 [d] I will make your oppressors eat their own flesh, and they shall be drunk [e] with their own blood as with wine.
Then all flesh shall know that [f] I am the LORD your Savior, and your Redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob."

Israel's Sin and the Servant's Obedience

ISAIAH 50 [†] Thus says the LORD:
"Where is [g] your mother's certificate of divorce, with which [h] I sent her away?
Or [i] which of my creditors is it to whom I have sold you?
[j] Behold, for your iniquities you were sold,
and for your transgressions your mother was sent away.
2[†] [k] Why, when I came, was there no man;
why, when I called, was there no one to answer?
[l] Is my hand shortened, that it cannot redeem?
Or have I no power to deliver?
[m] Behold, by my rebuke [n] I dry up the sea,
[o] I make the rivers a desert;
[p] their fish stink for lack of water and die of thirst.

3 [q]I clothe the heavens with blackness and make sackcloth their covering.”

4[†] The Lord GOD has given [r]me the tongue of those who are taught, that [s]I may know how to sustain with a word [t]him who is weary.
Morning by morning he awakens;
he awakens my ear
to hear as those who are taught.
5 [u]The Lord GOD has opened my ear,
[v]and I was not rebellious;
I turned not backward.
6[†] [w]I gave my back to those who strike,
and my cheeks to those who pull out the beard;
I hid not my face
from disgrace and spitting.

7[†] But the Lord GOD helps me;
therefore I have not been disgraced;
[x]therefore I have set my face like a flint, and I know that I shall not be put to shame.
8[†] [y]He who vindicates me is near.
Who will contend with me?
Let us stand up together.
Who is my adversary?
Let him come near to me.
9 [z]Behold, the Lord GOD helps me;
who will declare me guilty?
Behold, all of them will wear out like a garment;
the moth will eat them up.

10 Who among you fears the LORD and obeys [a]the voice of his servant?
[b]Let him who walks in darkness and has no light trust in the name of the LORD and rely on his God.

11 Behold, all you who kindle a fire,
who equip yourselves with burning torches!
Walk by the light of your fire,
and by the torches that you have kindled!
[c] This you have from my hand:
you shall lie down in torment.

The LORD's Comfort for Zion

ISAIAH 51 [†] [d] "Listen to me, you who pursue righteousness, you who seek the LORD:
look to the rock from which you were hewn,
and to the quarry from which you were dug.
2 Look to Abraham your father and to Sarah who bore you;
for [e] he was but one when I called him,
that I might bless him and multiply him.
3 For the LORD [f] comforts Zion;
he comforts all her waste places and makes her wilderness like [g] Eden, her desert like [h] the garden of the LORD;
[i] joy and gladness will be found in her, thanksgiving and the voice of song.

4[†] [j] "Give attention to me, my people,
and give ear to me, my nation;
[k] for a law [1] will go out from me,
and I will set my justice for a light to the peoples.
5 [l] My righteousness draws near,
my salvation has gone out,
and my arms will judge the peoples;
[m] the coastlands hope for me,
and for my arm they wait.

6 [n] Lift up your eyes to the heavens,
and look at the earth beneath;
[o] for the heavens vanish like smoke,
the earth will wear out like a garment, and they who dwell in it will die in like manner; [2] [p] but my salvation will be forever, and my righteousness will never be dismayed.

7[†] [q] “Listen to me, you who know righteousness,
the people [r] in whose heart is my law; [s] fear not the reproach of man,
nor be dismayed at their revilings.
8 [t] For the moth will eat them up like a garment, and the worm will eat them like wool;
[p] but my righteousness will be forever,
and my salvation to all generations.”

9[†] [u] Awake, awake, [v] put on strength,
O [w] arm of the LORD;
awake, [x] as in days of old,
the generations of long ago.
Was it not you who cut [y] Rahab in pieces,
who pierced [z] the dragon?
10 [a] Was it not you who dried up the sea,
the waters of the great deep,
who made the depths of the sea a way for the redeemed to pass over?
11 [b] And the ransomed of the LORD shall return
and come to Zion with singing;
everlasting joy shall be upon their heads;
they shall obtain gladness and joy,
and sorrow and sighing shall flee away.

12[†] “I, I am he [c] who comforts you;
who are you that you are afraid of [d] man who dies, of the son of man who is made [e] like grass,

13 and have forgotten the LORD, your Maker, [f] who stretched out the heavens and [g] laid the foundations of the earth, and you fear continually all the day because of the wrath of [h] the oppressor, when he sets himself to destroy?
And where is the wrath of [h] the oppressor?
14 [i] He who is bowed down shall speedily be released;
he shall not die and go down [j] to the pit,
neither shall his bread be lacking.
15[†] I am the LORD your God,
[k] who stirs up the sea so that its waves roar—
the LORD of hosts is his name.
16 [l] And I have put my words in your mouth
[m] and covered you in the shadow of my hand, [n] establishing [3] the heavens and [o] laying the foundations of the earth, and saying to Zion, 'You are my people.'"

17[†] [p] Wake yourself, wake yourself, stand up, O Jerusalem, [q] you who have drunk from the hand of the LORD
the cup of his wrath, who have drunk to the dregs
the bowl, [r] the cup of staggering.
18 [s] There is none to guide her among all the sons she has borne;
there is none to take her by the hand
among all the sons she has brought up.
19 [t] These two things have happened to you—who will console you?—
devastation and destruction, famine and sword;
who will comfort you? [4] 20 [u] Your sons have fainted;

they lie at the head of every street like an [v] antelope [w] in a net;
they are full of the wrath of the LORD,
the rebuke of your God.

21 [x] Therefore hear this, you who are afflicted, who are drunk, but not with wine:
22 Thus says your Lord, the LORD, your God [y] who pleads the cause of his people:
“Behold, I have taken from your hand [r] the cup of staggering;
the bowl of my wrath you shall drink no more;
23 [z] and I will put it into the hand of your tormentors,
[a] who have said to you,
‘Bow down, that we may pass over’;
and [b] you have made your back like the ground and like the street for them to pass over.”

The LORD’s Coming Salvation

ISAIAH 52 [†] [c] Awake, awake, put on your strength, O Zion;
[d] put on your beautiful garments,
O Jerusalem, [e] the holy city;
[f] for there shall no more come into you the uncircumcised and the unclean.
2 [g] Shake yourself from the dust and arise;
be seated, O Jerusalem;
[h] loose the bonds from your neck,
O captive daughter of Zion.

3 For thus says the LORD: [i] “You were sold for nothing, and [j] you shall be redeemed without money.” 4 [†] For thus says the Lord GOD: [k] “My people went down at the first into Egypt to sojourn there, and the Assyrian oppressed them for nothing. [1] 5 Now therefore what have I here,” declares the LORD, “seeing that my people are taken away for nothing? Their rulers wail,” declares the LORD, “and [l] continually all the day my name is despised. [6]Therefore my people shall know my name. [m]Therefore in that day they shall know that it is I who speak; here I am."

[7][†] [n]How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him who brings good news, who publishes peace, [o]who brings good news of happiness,
who publishes salvation,
who says to Zion, "Your God reigns."
[8] The voice of [p]your watchmen—they lift up their voice;
together they sing for joy;
[q]for eye to eye they see the return of the LORD to Zion.
[9] [r]Break forth together into singing,
[s]you waste places of Jerusalem,
for [t]the LORD has comforted his people;
he has redeemed Jerusalem.
[10][†] [u]The LORD has bared his holy arm before the eyes of all the nations, [v]and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God.

[11] [w]Depart, depart, go out from there;
touch no unclean thing;
go out from the midst of her; purify yourselves, [x]you who bear the vessels of the LORD.
[12] For you shall not [y]go out in haste,
and you shall not go in flight,
[z]for the LORD will go before you,
[a]and the God of Israel will be your rear guard.

He Was Pierced for Our Transgressions

[13][†] Behold, [b]my servant shall act wisely; [2]
he shall be high and lifted up,
and shall be exalted.
[14][†] As many were astonished at you—

[c] his appearance was so marred, beyond human semblance, and his form beyond that of the children of mankind—
15 so [d] shall he sprinkle [3] many nations;
[e] kings shall shut their mouths because of him;
[f] for that which has not been told them they see,
and that which they have not heard they understand.
ISAIAH 53 [†] [g] Who has believed what he has heard from us? [1]
And to whom has [h] the arm of the LORD been revealed?
2 For he grew up before him like a young plant,
[i] and like a root out of dry ground;
[j] he had no form or majesty that we should look at him,
and no beauty that we should desire him.
3[†] [k] He was despised and rejected [2] by men;
a man of sorrows, [3] and acquainted with [4] grief; [5] and as one from whom men hide their faces [6]
he was despised, and [l] we esteemed him not.

4[†] [m] Surely he has borne our griefs and carried our sorrows;
yet we esteemed him stricken,
[n] smitten by God, and afflicted.
5[†] [o] But he was pierced for our transgressions;
he was crushed for our iniquities;
upon him was the chastisement that brought us peace,
[p] and with his wounds we are healed.
6[†] [q] All we like sheep have gone astray;
we have turned—every one—to his own way;
[r] and the LORD has laid on him
the iniquity of us all.

7 He was oppressed, and he was afflicted,
[s] yet he opened not his mouth;
[t] like a [u] lamb that is led to the slaughter, and like a sheep that before its shearers is silent,
so he opened not his mouth.

8 By oppression and judgment he was taken away;
and as for his generation, [v] who considered that he was cut off out of the land of the living, stricken for the transgression of my people?
9 And they made his grave with the wicked
[w] and with a rich man in his death, although [x] he had done no violence,
and there was no deceit in his mouth.

10[†] Yet [y] it was the will of the LORD to crush him;
he has put him to grief; [7] [z] when his soul makes [8] an offering for guilt, he shall see his offspring; he shall prolong his days;
[a] the will of the LORD shall prosper in his hand.
11[†] Out of the anguish of his soul he shall see [9] and be satisfied;
by his knowledge shall [b] the righteous one, my servant,
[c] make many to be accounted righteous,
[d] and he shall bear their iniquities.
12 [e] Therefore I will divide him a portion with the many, [10]
[f] and he shall divide the spoil with the strong, [11] because he poured out his soul to death and was numbered with the transgressors; [g] yet he bore the sin of many,
and makes intercession for the transgressors.

The Eternal Covenant of Peace

ISAIAH 54 [†] [h] “Sing, O barren one, who did not bear; break forth into singing and cry aloud,
you who have not been in labor!
For the children of [i] the desolate one [j] will be more than the children of her who is married,” says the LORD.
2 [k] “Enlarge the place of your tent,
and let the curtains of your habitations be stretched out;
do not hold back; lengthen your cords and strengthen your stakes.

3[†] [l] For you will spread abroad to the right and to the left,
and your offspring will possess the nations and will people the desolate cities.

4 “Fear not, [m] for you will not be ashamed;
be not confounded, for you will not be disgraced;
for you will forget the shame of your youth,
and the reproach of your widowhood you will remember no more.
5 [n] For your Maker is your husband,
the LORD of hosts is his name;
[o] and the Holy One of Israel is your Redeemer,
[p] the God of the whole earth he is called.
6[†] [q] For the LORD has called you like a wife deserted and grieved in spirit, like a wife of youth when she is cast off,
says your God.
7[†] [r] For a brief moment I deserted you,
but with great compassion I will gather you.
8 [r] In overflowing anger for a moment
I hid my face from you,
[s] but with everlasting love I will have compassion on you,”
says the LORD, your Redeemer.

9 “This is like [t] the days of Noah [1] to me:
as I swore that the waters of Noah should no more go over the earth, so I have sworn that I will not be angry with you,
and will not rebuke you.
10[†] For the mountains may depart and the hills be removed,
but my steadfast love shall not depart from you,
and [u] my covenant of peace shall not be removed,”
says the LORD, who has compassion on you.

11 [v] “O afflicted one, storm-tossed and not comforted, behold, [w]I will set your stones in antimony, [x]and lay your foundations with sapphires. [2] 12 I will make your pinnacles of agate, [3] your gates of carbuncles, [4]

and all your wall of precious stones.
13[†] [y]All your children [z]shall be taught by the LORD,
[a]and great shall be the peace of your children.
14 In righteousness you shall be established;
you shall be far from oppression, for you shall not fear;
and from terror, for it shall not come near you.
15[†] [b]If anyone stirs up strife,
it is not from me;
whoever stirs up strife with you shall fall because of you.
16 Behold, I have created the smith who blows the fire of coals and produces a weapon for its purpose.
I have also created the ravager to destroy;
17 no weapon that is fashioned against you shall succeed, and you shall refute every tongue that rises against you in judgment.
This is the heritage of the servants of the LORD
[c]and their vindication [5] from me, declares the LORD."

The Compassion of the LORD

ISAIAH 55 [†] [d]"Come, everyone who thirsts, come to the waters;
and he who has no money,
[e]come, buy and eat!
Come, buy wine and milk without money and without price.
2[†] [f]Why do you spend your money for that which is not bread, and your labor for that which does not satisfy?
Listen diligently to me, and eat what is good,
and delight yourselves in rich food.
3[†] Incline your ear, and come to me;

[g] hear, that your soul may live;
[h] and I will make with you an everlasting covenant,
[i] my steadfast, sure love for [j] David.
4 [k] Behold, I made him a witness to the peoples,
[l] a leader and commander for the peoples.
5[†] [k] Behold, you shall call a nation that you do not know, and [m] a nation that did not know you shall run to you, because of the LORD your God, and of the Holy One of Israel, [n] for he has glorified you.

6[†] [o] "Seek the LORD while he may be found;
call upon him while he is near;
7[†] let the wicked forsake his way,
and the unrighteous man his thoughts;
let him return to the LORD, that he may have compassion on him,
and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon.
8 For my thoughts are not your thoughts,
neither are your ways my ways, declares the LORD.
9 [p] For as the heavens are higher than the earth,
so are my ways higher than your ways and my thoughts than your thoughts.

10[†] [q] "For as the rain and the snow come down from heaven and do not return there but water the earth, making it bring forth and sprout,
[r] giving seed to the sower and bread to the eater,
11 so shall my word be that goes out from my mouth;
it shall not return to me empty,
but [s] it shall accomplish that which I purpose, and shall succeed in the thing for which I sent it.

12[†] [t] "For you shall go out in joy and be led forth in peace; [u] the mountains and the hills before you shall break forth into singing, and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands.

13 [v] Instead of the thorn shall come up the cypress;
instead of the brier shall come up the myrtle;
and it shall make a name for the LORD,
an everlasting sign that shall not be cut off."

Salvation for Foreigners

ISAIAH 56 [†] Thus says the LORD:
"Keep justice, and do righteousness, [w] for soon my salvation will come,
and my righteousness be revealed.
2 [†] Blessed is the man who does this,
and the son of man who holds it fast, [x] who keeps the Sabbath, not profaning it,
and keeps his hand from doing any evil."

3 [†] Let not [y] the foreigner who has joined himself to the LORD say,
"The LORD will surely separate me from his people";
and let not the eunuch say,
"Behold, I am [z] a dry tree."
4 For thus says the LORD:
"To the eunuchs [x] who keep my Sabbaths, who choose the things that please me
and hold fast my covenant, 5 [a] I will give in my house and within my walls a [b] monument and a name better than sons and daughters;
[c] I will give them an everlasting name that shall not be cut off.

6 "And [y] the foreigners who join themselves to the LORD, to minister to him, to love the name of the LORD,
and to be his servants,
everyone [x] who keeps the Sabbath and does not profane it,
and holds fast my covenant—

7 [d] these I will bring to [e] my holy mountain, and make them joyful in my house of prayer;
[f] their burnt offerings and their sacrifices will be accepted on my altar;
for [g] my house shall be called a house of prayer for all peoples.”
8 [†] The Lord GOD,
[h] who gathers the outcasts of Israel, declares,
[i] “I will gather yet others to him besides those already gathered.”

Israel’s Irresponsible Leaders

9 [†] [j] All you beasts of the field, come to devour—all you beasts in the forest.
10 [k] His watchmen are blind;
they are all without knowledge;
they are all silent [l] dogs;
they cannot bark,
dreaming, lying down,
loving to slumber.
11 [m] The dogs have a mighty appetite;
they never have enough.
But [n] they are shepherds who have no understanding;
they have all turned to their own way,
[o] each to his own gain, one and all.
12 [p] “Come,” they say, “let me get wine;
let us fill ourselves with strong drink;
[q] and tomorrow will be like this day, great beyond measure.”

Israel’s Futile Idolatry

ISAIAH 57 [†] The righteous man perishes, and no one lays it to heart;
[r] devout men are taken away,

while no one understands.
For the righteous man is taken away from calamity;
2 [s]he enters into peace;
they rest [t]in their beds who walk in their uprightness.
3[†] But you, draw near,
sons of the sorceress,
[u]offspring of the adulterer and the loose woman.
4 Whom are you mocking?
Against whom [v]do you open your mouth wide and stick out your tongue?
Are you not children of [w]transgression,
[x]the offspring of deceit,
5 you who burn with lust among [y]the oaks, [1]
under every green tree, [z]who slaughter your children in the valleys,
under the clefts of the rocks?
6[†] Among the smooth stones of [a]the valley is your portion;
they, they, are your lot;
to them you have poured out a drink offering,
you have brought a grain offering.
Shall I relent for these things?
7[†] [b]On a high and lofty mountain
you have set your bed,
and there you went up to offer sacrifice.
8 Behind the door and the doorpost you have set up your memorial;
for, deserting me, [c]you have uncovered your bed,
you have gone up to it, [d]you have made it wide;
and you have made a covenant for yourself with them,
you have loved their bed,
you have looked on nakedness. [2] 9[†] You journeyed to the king with oil and multiplied your perfumes;

[e] you sent your envoys far off,
and sent down even to Sheol.
10 You were wearied with the length of your way,
[f] but you did not say, "It is hopeless";
you found new life for your strength,
and so you were not faint. [3]

11 [g] Whom did you dread and fear, [h] so that you lied,
and did not remember me,
did not lay it to heart?
[i] Have I not held my peace, even for a long time,
and you do not fear me?
12[†] I will declare your righteousness and your deeds,
but they will not profit you.
13 [j] When you cry out, let your collection of idols deliver you!
The wind will carry them all off,
a breath will take them away.
[k] But he who takes refuge in me shall possess the land and shall inherit [l] my holy mountain.

Comfort for the Contrite

14[†] And it shall be said,
[m] "Build up, build up, prepare the way, remove every obstruction from my people's way."
15[†] For thus says [n] the One who is high and lifted up, who inhabits eternity, whose name is [o] Holy:
[p] "I dwell in the high and holy place,
and also [q] with him who is of a contrite and lowly spirit, [r] to revive the spirit of the lowly,
and to revive the heart of the contrite.
16[†] [s] For I will not contend forever, nor will I always be angry;
for the spirit would grow faint before me,

and the breath of life that I made.
17 Because of the iniquity of his [t] unjust gain I was angry,
I struck him; I hid my face and was angry,
but he went on backsliding in the way of his own heart.
18 I have seen his ways, [u] but I will heal him;
I will lead him [v] and restore comfort to him and his mourners,
19 [w] creating [x] the fruit of the lips.
[y] Peace, peace, [z] to the far and to the near," says the LORD, [u] "and I will heal him.
20 [a] But the wicked are like the tossing sea;
for it cannot be quiet,
and its waters toss up mire and dirt.
21 [b] There is no peace," says my God, "for the wicked."

True and False Fasting

ISAIAH 58 “Cry aloud; do not hold back;
[c] lift up your voice like a trumpet;
[d] declare to my people their transgression, to the house of Jacob their sins.
2[†] [e] Yet they seek me daily and delight to know my ways, as if they were a nation that did righteousness and did not forsake the judgment of their God;
they ask of me righteous judgments;
they delight to draw near to God.
3 [f] ‘Why have we fasted, and you see it not?
Why have we humbled ourselves, and you take no knowledge of it?’
Behold, in the day of your fast you seek your own pleasure, [1]
[g] and oppress all your workers.
4 Behold, you fast only to quarrel and to fight and to hit with a wicked fist.
Fasting like yours this day will not make your voice to be heard on high.
5 [h] Is such the fast that I choose,
[i] a day for a person to humble himself?
Is it to bow down his head like a reed,
and to spread sackcloth and ashes under him?
Will you call this a fast,
and a day acceptable to the LORD?

6[†] “Is not this the fast that I choose:
[j] to loose the bonds of wickedness, to undo the straps [k] of the yoke, to let the oppressed [2] go free,
and to break every yoke?
7 Is it not [l] to share your bread with the hungry and bring the homeless poor into your house;
when you see the naked, to cover him,

[m] and not to hide yourself from your own flesh?
8[†] [n] Then shall your light break forth like the dawn,
[o] and your healing shall spring up speedily;
[p] your righteousness shall go before you;
[q] the glory of the LORD shall be your rear guard.
9 Then you shall call, and the LORD will answer;
you shall cry, and he will say, ‘Here I am.’
If you take away [r] the yoke from your midst,
[s] the pointing of the finger, and speaking wickedness, 10[†] [t] if you pour yourself out for the hungry and satisfy the desire of the afflicted, [n] then shall your light rise in the darkness and your gloom be as the noonday.
11 And the LORD will guide you continually and satisfy your desire in scorched places and make your bones strong;
and you shall be [u] like a watered garden,
like a spring of water,
whose waters do not fail.
12 [v] And your ancient ruins shall be rebuilt;
you shall raise up the foundations of many generations;
you shall be called the repairer of the breach,
the restorer of streets to dwell in.

13[†] [w] “If you turn back your foot from the Sabbath, from doing your pleasure [3] on my holy day,
and call the Sabbath a delight and the holy day of the LORD honorable;
if you honor it, not going your own ways, or seeking [x] your own pleasure, [4] or talking idly; [5] 14 then you shall take delight in the LORD,
[y] and I will make you ride on the heights of the earth; [6]
[z] I will feed you with the heritage of Jacob your father,
[a] for the mouth of the LORD has spoken.”

Evil and Oppression

ISAIAH 59 Behold, [b] the LORD's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save,
or his ear dull, that it cannot hear;
2[†] [c] but your iniquities have made a separation between you and your God, and your sins have hidden his face from you
so that he does not hear.
3[†] [d] For your hands are defiled with blood and your fingers with iniquity;
your lips have spoken lies;
your tongue mutters wickedness.
4 [e] No one enters suit justly;
no one goes to law honestly;
they rely on empty pleas, they speak lies,
[f] they conceive mischief and give birth to iniquity.
5 They hatch adders' eggs;
they weave the spider's web;
he who eats their eggs dies,
and from one that is crushed a viper is hatched.
6 [g] Their webs will not serve as clothing;
men will not cover themselves with what they make.
Their works are works of iniquity,
and deeds of violence are in their hands.
7 [h] Their feet run to evil,
and they are swift to shed innocent blood;
their thoughts are thoughts of iniquity;
desolation and destruction are in their highways.
8 The way of peace they do not know,
and there is no justice in their paths;
they have made their roads crooked;
[i] no one who treads on them knows peace.

9[†] Therefore justice is far from us,
and righteousness does not overtake us;
[j] we hope for light, and behold, darkness,

and for brightness, but we walk in gloom.
10[†] [k] We grope for the wall like the blind;
we grope like those who have no eyes;
we stumble at noon as in the twilight,
[l] among those in full vigor we are like dead men.
11[†] We all growl like bears;
[m] we moan and moan like doves;
[n] we hope for justice, but there is none;
for salvation, but it is far from us.
12[†] For our transgressions are multiplied before you,
and our sins testify against us;
for our transgressions are with us,
and we know our iniquities:
13 transgressing, and denying the LORD,
and turning back from following our God, [o] speaking oppression and revolt, conceiving and uttering from the heart lying words.

Judgment and Redemption

14[†] [p] Justice is turned back, and righteousness stands far away;
for truth has stumbled in the public squares,
and uprightness cannot enter.
15[†] Truth is lacking,
and he who departs from evil makes himself a prey.

The LORD saw it, and it displeased him [1]
that there was no justice.
16 [q] He saw that there was no man,
and wondered that there was no one to intercede;
then his own arm brought him salvation,
and his righteousness upheld him.
17 [r] He put on righteousness as a breastplate, and a helmet of salvation on his head;
he put on garments of vengeance for clothing,

and wrapped himself in [s] zeal as a cloak.
18[†] [t] According to their deeds, so will he repay, wrath to his adversaries, repayment to his enemies;
[u] to the coastlands he will render repayment.
19[†] [v] So they shall fear the name of the LORD from the west, and his glory from the rising of the sun;
[w] for he will come like a rushing stream, [2]
which the wind of the LORD drives.

20[†] [x] "And [y] a Redeemer will come to Zion, to those in Jacob who turn from transgression," declares the LORD.

21[†]"And as for me, [z] this is my covenant with them," says the LORD: "My Spirit that is upon you, [a] and my words that I have put in your mouth, shall not depart out of your mouth, or out of the mouth of your offspring, or out of the mouth of your children's offspring," says the LORD, "from this time forth and forevermore."

The Future Glory of Israel

ISAIAH 60 [†] [b] Arise, shine, for your light has come, and [c] the glory of the LORD has risen upon you.
2[†] For behold, darkness shall cover the earth, and thick darkness the peoples;
but the LORD will arise upon you,
and his glory will be seen upon you.
3 [d] And nations shall come to your light, and kings to the brightness of your rising.

4[†] [e] Lift up your eyes all around, and see;
they all gather together, they come to you;
[f] your sons shall come from afar,
and your daughters shall be carried on the hip.
5[†] Then you shall see and [g] be radiant;
your heart shall thrill and exult, [1]
because the abundance of the sea shall be turned to you,

[h] the wealth of the nations shall come to you.
6 A multitude of camels shall cover you,
the young camels of [i] Midian and [j] Ephah;
all those from [k] Sheba shall come.
[l] They shall bring gold and frankincense, and shall bring good news, the praises of the LORD.
7 All the flocks of [m] Kedar shall be gathered to you;
the rams of [n] Nebaioth shall minister to you;
[o] they shall come up with acceptance on my altar,
[p] and I will beautify my beautiful house.

8[†] Who are these that fly like a cloud, and [q] like doves to their windows?
9 For [r] the coastlands shall hope for me,
[s] the ships of Tarshish first,
[t] to bring your children from afar,
their silver and gold with them,
for the name of the LORD your God,
and for the Holy One of Israel,
because [u] he has made you beautiful.

10[†] [v] Foreigners shall build up your walls, and [v] their kings shall minister to you;
for in my wrath I struck you,
but in my favor I have had mercy on you.
11[†] [w] Your gates shall be open continually;
day and night they shall not be shut, [w] that people may bring to you the wealth of the nations,
with their kings led in procession.
12 [x] For the nation and kingdom that will not serve you shall perish;
those nations shall be utterly laid waste.
13[†] [y] The glory of Lebanon shall come to you,
the cypress, the plane, and [z] the pine,
to beautify the place of my sanctuary,

and I will make the place of my feet glorious.
14 [a] The sons of those who afflicted you shall come bending low to you, [b] and all who despised you shall bow down at your feet;
[c] they shall call you the City of the LORD,
the Zion of the Holy One of Israel.

15 [d] Whereas you have been forsaken and hated, with no one passing through, [e] I will make you majestic forever,
a joy from age to age.
16[†] [f] You shall suck the milk of nations;
you shall nurse at the breast of kings;
and you shall know that [g] I, the LORD, am your Savior and your Redeemer, [h] the Mighty One of Jacob.

17 Instead of bronze I will bring gold, and instead of iron I will bring silver;
instead of wood, bronze,
instead of stones, iron.
I will make your overseers peace
[i] and your taskmasters righteousness.
18 [j] Violence shall no more be heard in your land, devastation or destruction within your borders;
[k] you shall call your walls Salvation,
and your gates Praise.

19[†] [l] The sun shall be no more your light by day, nor for brightness shall the moon give you light; [2]
but the LORD will be your everlasting light, and your God will be your glory. [3] 20 Your sun shall no more go down, nor your moon withdraw itself;

for the LORD will be your everlasting light,
and [m] your days of mourning shall be ended.
21 [†] [n] Your people shall all be righteous;
[o] they shall possess the land forever,
[p] the branch of my planting, the work of my hands, that I might be glorified. [4] 22 [q] The least one shall become a clan, and the smallest one a mighty nation;
[r] I am the LORD;
in its time I will hasten it.

The Year of the LORD's Favor

ISAIAH 61 [†] [s] The Spirit of the Lord GOD is upon me, because the LORD has [t] anointed me to bring good news to the poor; [1]
he has sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and [u] the opening of the prison to those who are bound; [2] 2 [v] to proclaim the year of the LORD's favor, [w] and the day of vengeance of our God;
to comfort all who mourn;
3 to grant to those who mourn in Zion—
[x] to give them a beautiful headdress instead of ashes, [y] the oil of gladness instead of mourning,
the garment of praise instead of a faint spirit; [z] that they may be called oaks of righteousness, the planting of the LORD, [a] that he may be glorified. [3] 4 [b] They shall build up the ancient ruins;
they shall raise up the former devastations;
they shall repair the ruined cities,
the devastations of many generations.

5 [c] Strangers shall stand and tend your flocks;
foreigners shall be your plowmen and vinedressers;

6[†] [d] but you shall be called the priests of the LORD;
they shall speak of you as the ministers of our God;
[e] you shall eat the wealth of the nations,
and in their glory you shall boast.
7 [f] Instead of your shame there shall be a double portion;
instead of dishonor they shall rejoice in their lot;
therefore in their land they shall possess a double portion;
they shall have everlasting joy.

8 [g] For I the LORD love justice;
I hate robbery and wrong; [4]
[h] I will faithfully give them their recompense,
[i] and I will make an everlasting covenant with them.
9 Their offspring shall be known among the nations,
and their descendants in the midst of the peoples;
all who see them shall acknowledge them,
that they are an offspring the LORD has blessed.

10[†] [j] I will greatly rejoice in the LORD;
my soul shall exult in my God, [k] for he has clothed me with the garments of salvation;
he has covered me with the robe of righteousness,
as a bridegroom decks himself [l] like a priest with a beautiful headdress,
[m] and as a bride adorns herself with her jewels.
11 For as the earth brings forth its sprouts, and as a garden causes what is sown in it to sprout up,
so the Lord GOD will cause [n] righteousness and praise to sprout up before all the nations.

Zion's Coming Salvation

ISAIAH 62 [†] [o] For Zion's sake I will not keep silent, and for Jerusalem's sake I will not be quiet, [p] until her righteousness goes forth as brightness, and her salvation as a burning torch.
2 [q] The nations shall see your righteousness, and all the kings your glory, [r] and you shall be called by a new name that the mouth of the LORD will give.

3 You shall be [s] a crown of beauty in the hand of the LORD, and a royal diadem in the hand of your God.
4[†] [t] You shall no more be termed [u] Forsaken, [1] and your land shall no more be termed Desolate, [2] [r] but you shall be called [v] My Delight Is in Her, [3] and your land Married; [4] for the LORD delights in you, and your land shall be married.
5[†] For as a young man marries a young woman,
so [w] shall your sons marry you,
and as the bridegroom rejoices over the bride,
so [x] shall your God rejoice over you.

6[†] On your walls, O Jerusalem,
I have set [y] watchmen;
all the day and all the night
they shall never be silent.
You who put the LORD in remembrance,
take no rest,
7 and give him no rest until he establishes Jerusalem and makes it [z] a praise in the earth.
8 The LORD has sworn [a] by his right hand and by his mighty arm:
“I will not again give [b] your grain to be food for your enemies, [c] and foreigners shall not drink your wine for which you have labored; 9 but [d] those who garner it shall eat it and praise the LORD, and [d] those who gather it shall drink it in the courts of my sanctuary.” [5]

10[†] Go through, go through the gates;
[e] prepare the way for the people;
[f] build up, build up the highway;
clear it of stones;
[g] lift up a signal over the peoples.
11 Behold, the LORD has proclaimed to the end of the earth:
[h] Say to the daughter of Zion, [i] “Behold, your salvation comes;
behold, his reward is with him,
and his recompense before him.”
12[†] [j] And they shall be called The Holy People,
The Redeemed of the LORD;
[k] and you shall be called Sought Out,
A City Not Forsaken.

The LORD’s Day of Vengeance

ISAIAH 63 [†] Who is this who comes from [l] Edom, in crimsoned garments from [l] Bozrah,
he who is splendid in his apparel,
[m] marching in the greatness of his strength?
“It is I, speaking in righteousness, mighty to save.”

2 Why is your [n] apparel red, and your garments like his [o] who treads in the winepress?

3[†] [p] “I have trodden the winepress alone,
[q] and from the peoples no one was with me;
I trod them in my anger and trampled them in my wrath;
their lifeblood [1] spattered on my garments,
and stained all my apparel.
4[†] [r] For the day of vengeance was in my heart, and my year of redemption [2] had come.

5 I looked, but [s] there was no one to help;
I was appalled, but there was no one to uphold;
so my own arm brought me salvation,
and my wrath upheld me.
6 I trampled down the peoples in my anger;
[t] I made them drunk in my wrath,
and I poured out their lifeblood on the earth."

The LORD's Mercy Remembered

7[†] I will recount the steadfast love of the LORD,
the praises of the LORD,
according to all that the LORD has granted us, [u] and the great goodness to the house of Israel that he has granted them according to his compassion, according to the abundance of his steadfast love.
8 For he said, "Surely they are my people, children who will not deal falsely."
And he became their Savior.
9[†] [v] In all their affliction he was afflicted, [3]
and the angel of his presence saved them;
[w] in his love and in his pity he redeemed them;
[x] he lifted them up and carried them all the days of old.

10[†] [y] But they rebelled
[z] and grieved his Holy Spirit;
therefore he turned to be their enemy,
and himself fought against them.
11 Then he remembered [a] the days of old,
of Moses and his people. [4] [b] Where is he who brought them up out of the sea with the shepherds of his flock?
Where is he who put in the midst of them
his Holy Spirit,
12[†] who caused his glorious arm to go at the right hand of Moses,

[c]who divided the waters before them
[d]to make for himself an everlasting name, 13 who led them through the depths?
Like a horse in the desert,
they did not stumble.
14 Like livestock that go down into the valley,
[e]the Spirit of the LORD gave them rest.
So you led your people,
[d]to make for yourself a glorious name.

Prayer for Mercy

15[†] [f]Look down from heaven and see,
[g] from your holy and beautiful [5] habitation.
Where are [h]your zeal and your might?
The stirring of your inner parts and your compassion are held back from me.
16 For [i]you are our Father, though Abraham does not know us,
and Israel does not acknowledge us;
you, O LORD, are our Father, [j]our Redeemer from of old is your name.
17[†] O LORD, why do you make us wander from your ways and [k]harden our heart, so that we fear you not?
[l]Return for the sake of your servants,
the tribes of your heritage.
18 [m]Your holy people held possession for a little while; [6]
[n]our adversaries have trampled down your sanctuary.
19 [o]We have become like those over whom you have never ruled,
like those who are not called by your name.

ISAIAH 64 [p]Oh that you would rend the heavens and come down, [q]that the mountains might quake at your presence—
2 [1] as when fire kindles brushwood and the fire causes water to boil—[r] to make your name known to your adversaries, and that the nations might tremble at your presence!

3 [s] When you did awesome things that we did not look for,
you came down, the mountains quaked at your presence.
4[†] [t] From of old no one has heard or perceived by the ear, [u] no eye has seen a God besides you,
who acts for those who wait for him.
5[†] You meet him who joyfully works righteousness,
those who remember you in your ways.
Behold, you were angry, and we sinned;
in our sins we have been a long time, and shall we be saved? [2] 6 [v] We have all become like one who is unclean, and all our righteous deeds are like a polluted garment.
[w] We all fade like a leaf,
and our iniquities, like the wind, take us away.
7 [x] There is no one who calls upon your name, who rouses himself to take hold of you;
for you have hidden your face from us,
and have made us melt in [3] the hand of our iniquities.

8[†] [y] But now, O LORD, you are our Father;
[z] we are the clay, and you are our potter;
[a] we are all the work of your hand.
9 [b] Be not so terribly angry, O LORD,
[c] and remember not iniquity forever.
Behold, please look, we are all your people.
10 [d] Your holy cities have become a wilderness;
Zion has become a wilderness,
Jerusalem a desolation.
11 [e] Our holy and beautiful [4] house, where our fathers praised you,
has been burned by fire,
and all our pleasant places have become ruins.

12 [†] [f] Will you restrain yourself at these things, O LORD?
Will you keep silent, and afflict us so terribly?

Judgment and Salvation

ISAIAH 65 [†] [g] I was ready to be sought by [h] those who did not ask for me;
I was ready to be found by those who did not seek me.
I said, "Here I am, here I am,"
to a nation that was not called by [1] my name.
2 [i] I spread out my hands all the day to a rebellious people, who walk in a way that is not good,
following their own devices;
3 a people who provoke me
to my face continually, [j] sacrificing in gardens and making offerings on bricks; 4 who sit in tombs,
and spend the night in secret places;
[k] who eat pig's flesh,
and broth of tainted meat is in their vessels;
5 who say, "Keep to yourself, do not come near me, for I am too holy for you."
[l] These are a smoke in my nostrils, a fire that burns all the day.
6 Behold, [m] it is written before me:
[n] "I will not keep silent, but I will repay;
[o] I will indeed repay into their lap
7 both your iniquities [p] and your fathers' iniquities together,
says the LORD;
[q] because they made offerings on the mountains
[q] and insulted me on the hills,
I will measure into their lap payment for their former deeds." [2]

8[†] Thus says the LORD:
[r]“As the new wine is found in the cluster,
and they say, ‘Do not destroy it,
for there is a blessing in it,’
so I will do for my servants’ sake,
[s]and not destroy them all.
9 [t]I will bring forth offspring from Jacob, and from Judah possessors of my mountains;
my chosen shall possess it,
and my servants shall dwell there.
10 [u]Sharon shall become a pasture for flocks, and [v]the Valley of Achor a place for herds to lie down,
for my people [w]who have sought me.
11 But [x]you who forsake the LORD, who forget [y]my holy mountain, who [z]set a table for Fortune and [z]fill cups of mixed wine for Destiny, 12 I will destine you to the sword,
and all of you shall bow down to the slaughter, [a]because, when I called, you did not answer;
when I spoke, you did not listen, [b]but you did what was evil in my eyes and chose what I did not delight in.”

13[†] Therefore thus says the Lord GOD:
“Behold, [c]my servants shall eat,
but you shall be hungry;
behold, my servants shall drink,
but you shall be thirsty;
behold, my servants shall rejoice,
but you shall be put to shame;
14 behold, [d]my servants shall sing for gladness of heart, but you shall cry out for pain of heart and shall wail for breaking of spirit.
15[†] You shall leave your name to [e]my chosen [f]for a curse, and the Lord GOD will put you to death,

but his servants [g] he will call by another name.
16 So that he who [h] blesses himself in the land shall bless himself by [h] the God of truth, and he who takes an oath in the land shall swear by [i] the God of truth; [j] because the former troubles are forgotten and are hidden from my eyes.

New Heavens and a New Earth

17[†] “For behold, [k] I create new heavens and a new earth,
and the former things shall not be remembered or come into mind.
18 But be glad and rejoice forever in that which I create;
for behold, [l] I create Jerusalem to be a joy,
and her people to be a gladness.
19 [m] I will rejoice in Jerusalem and be glad in my people; [n] no more shall be heard in it the sound of weeping and the cry of distress.
20 No more shall there be in it an infant who lives but a few days, or an old man who does not fill out his days,
for [o] the young man shall die a hundred years old,
and [p] the sinner a hundred years old shall be accursed.
21 [q] They shall build houses and inhabit them;
they shall plant vineyards and eat their fruit.
22[†] [q] They shall not build and another inhabit;
they shall not plant and another eat;
[r] for like the days of a tree shall the days of my people be,
and my chosen shall long enjoy [3] the work of their hands.
23 [s] They shall not labor in vain

[t] or bear children for calamity, [4] for [u] they shall be the offspring of the blessed of the LORD, and their descendants with them.
24 [v] Before they call I will answer;
[w] while they are yet speaking I will hear.
25[†] [x] The wolf and the lamb shall graze together;
the lion shall eat straw like the ox,
and [y] dust shall be the serpent's food.
[z] They shall not hurt or destroy in all my holy mountain,"
says the LORD.

The Humble and Contrite in Spirit

ISAIAH 66 [†] [a] Thus says the LORD:
[b] "Heaven is my throne,
and the earth is my footstool;
what is the house that you would build for me,
and what is the place of my rest?
2[†] [c] All these things my hand has made,
and so all these things came to be,
declares the LORD.
[d] But this is the one to whom I will look:
he who is humble and contrite in spirit and trembles at my word.

3 [e] "He who slaughters an ox is like one who kills a man;
he who sacrifices a lamb, like one who breaks a dog's neck;
he who presents a grain offering, like one who offers [f] pig's blood;
he who makes a memorial offering of frankincense, like one who blesses an idol.
[g] These have chosen their own ways,
and their soul delights in their abominations;
4[†] [h] I also will choose harsh treatment for them and bring [i] their fears upon them, [j] because when I called, no one answered,

when I spoke, they did not listen; [k] but they did what was evil in my eyes and chose that in which I did not delight.”

[5][†] Hear the word of the LORD,
you who tremble at his word:
“Your brothers who hate you and cast you out for my name’s sake have said, [l] ‘Let the LORD be glorified, that we may see your joy’;
but it is they who shall be put to shame.

[6] “The sound of an uproar from the city!
A sound from the temple!
The sound of the LORD,
[m] rendering recompense to his enemies!

Rejoice with Jerusalem

[7][†] [n] “Before she was in labor
she gave birth;
before her pain came upon her she delivered a son.
[8] Who has heard such a thing?
Who has seen such things?
Shall a land be born in one day?
Shall a nation be brought forth in one moment?
For [n] as soon as Zion was in labor
she brought forth her children.
[9] Shall I bring to the point of birth and not cause to bring forth?”
says the LORD;
“shall I, who cause to bring forth, shut the womb?”
says your God.

[10][†] [o] “Rejoice with Jerusalem, and be glad for her,
all you who love her;
rejoice with her in joy,

all you who mourn over her; [11] that you may nurse and be satisfied from her consoling breast;
that you may drink deeply with delight from her glorious abundance.” [1]

[12] For thus says the LORD:
[p] “Behold, I will extend peace to her like a river, and the glory of the nations like an overflowing stream;
and [q] you shall nurse, you shall be carried upon her hip,
and bounced upon her knees.
[13] As one whom his mother comforts,
so [r] I will comfort you;
you shall be comforted in Jerusalem.
[14] You shall see, and your heart shall rejoice;
[s] your bones shall flourish like the grass;
and [t] the hand of the LORD shall be known to his servants,
and he shall show his indignation against his enemies.

Final Judgment and Glory of the LORD

[15] “For behold, [u] the LORD will come in fire, and [v] his chariots like the whirlwind,
to render his anger in fury,
and his rebuke with flames of fire.
[16][†] For [w] by fire [x] will the LORD enter into judgment, and by his sword, with all flesh;
and those slain by the LORD shall be many.

[17] [y] “Those who sanctify and purify themselves to go into the gardens, following one in the midst, [z] eating pig’s flesh and the abomination and mice, shall come to an end together, declares the LORD.

[18][†]“For I know [2] their works and their thoughts, and the time is coming [3] [a] to gather all nations and tongues. And they shall come and shall see my glory, [19][†]and I will set a sign among them. And from them [b] I will send survivors to the nations, to [c] Tarshish, [d] Pul, and [d] Lud, who draw the bow, to [e] Tubal and [e] Javan, [f] to the coastlands far away, [g] that have not heard my fame or seen my glory. And they shall declare my glory among the nations. [20] [h] And they shall bring all your brothers from all the nations [i] as an offering to the LORD, on horses and in chariots and in litters and on mules and on dromedaries, to my holy mountain Jerusalem, says the LORD, just as the Israelites bring their grain offering in a clean vessel to the house of the LORD. [21] [j] And some of them also I will take for priests and for Levites, says the LORD.

[22] [†] "For as [k] the new heavens and the new earth that I make shall remain before me, says the LORD,
so [l] shall your offspring and your name remain.
[23] [m] From new moon to new moon,
and from Sabbath to Sabbath,
all flesh shall come to worship before me,
declares the LORD.

[24] [†] "And they shall go out and look on the dead bodies of the men who have rebelled against me. For [n] their worm shall not die, [o] their fire shall not be quenched, and they shall be an abhorrence to all flesh."

Study Notes for Isaiah

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:1–5:30 Introduction: "Ah, Sinful Nation!" The prophet rebukes God's people and calls them to obey God's word. He promises miraculous grace beyond judgment.

Kings of Judah in the Time of Isaiah

Isaiah prophesied "in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah" (1:1).

Kings of Judah	Years of Reign
Uzziah (Azariah)	767–740 B.C.
Jotham	750–735
Ahaz	735–715
Hezekiah	715–686

FACT

The Holy One of Israel is Isaiah's main title for God. The phrase occurs 25 times in the book, but rarely elsewhere in the Bible. The word "holy" describes the Lord's absolute moral purity and his being far greater than all that he has created.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:1–31 Isaiah explains why the people of Judah are in crisis. They do not comprehend that they have forsaken God, abused their worship, and corrupted their society.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:1 The superscription for the entire book. vision. A message from God (1 Sam. 3:1; Ezek. 7:26), often given in symbolic form.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:2 heavens . . . earth. Isaiah calls the entire universe as a faithful witness to God's word (Deut. 30:19; Ps. 50:4). Children . . . they. These emphatic words highlight the contrast between God's grace and his people's ingratitude. That is how Isaiah summarizes Israel's history up to his time. Israel as a whole is God's "son" (Ex. 4:22–23), and individual Israelites are also "sons" (see ESV footnote and Deut. 14:1). The privilege of being God’s children should have led to gratitude, but it did not. rebelled. See Isa. 66:24.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:4 sinful. Isaiah uses several Hebrew words for sin (translated here as iniquity and corruptly) to reveal to the people their true character. the Holy One of Israel. This is Isaiah’s most frequent title for God, occurring 25 times in the book. To despise the “Holy One” is to reject all that God is.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:10–17 God rejects his people’s worship, however extravagant, because they use it as an excuse not to help the weak.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:11 sacrifices . . . burnt offerings. Isaiah criticizes the way people have disconnected the sacrifices from their proper purpose. Apparently they were treating their worship as a way of manipulating God. See note on Amos 4:4–5.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:18–20 let us reason together. The people are urged to consider their actual position before God. though your sins are like scarlet . . . red like crimson. Their hands, red with blood (v. 15), can be cleansed (Ps. 51:7). But they must deliberately choose to repent (Isa. 1:19–20).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:24–28 the Lord . . . the LORD of hosts, the Mighty One of Israel. See note on 1 Sam. 1:3. God’s judgment on his people is not the end of the story. The purpose of judgment is to smelt away the dross, that is, to remove the unbelieving members of the people (rebels and sinners, those who forsake the LORD). Afterward, what remains will be a chastened people of God, those . . . who repent (that is, who turn their hearts to God). The word redeemed here means rescued or protected (see note on Isa. 41:14). The prophet looks forward to a cleansed people restored to its mission (see 2:1–5).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:1–4:6 Within the reassuring context of God’s promises (2:2–4; 4:2–6), Isaiah identifies the sinful human obstacles standing in the way of the promised hope (2:6–4:1).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:1–5 The triumph of God’s purpose for his people will occur when the nations are eager to learn his ways. The fulfillment of this prophecy can be seen in the progress of Christian missions (see Luke 24:46–48).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:1 This superscription marks the beginning of a new section. This section begins and ends with hope (2:2–4; 4:2–6), but also notes the sinful behavior standing in the way of that hope (2:6–4:1). This vision expands the hope expressed in 1:25–28.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:2 The latter days refers to the distant future (e.g., Num. 24:14; Deut. 4:30; Dan. 2:28). It sometimes refers specifically to the time of the Messiah (Hos. 3:5). Jesus began his messianic kingship with his resurrection, and NT authors believed that the latter days had truly arrived. Yet they also stressed that the final fulfillment of the last days was yet to come (Acts 2:17; 2 Tim. 3:1; Heb. 1:2; 2 Pet. 3:3). the highest of the mountains. That is, the most exalted, not actually the highest physically. This place of honor will attract the nations. all the nations shall flow to it. A river of humanity will come to worship the one true God.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:4 nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war anymore. Tiny Judah has been threatened by war for most of its existence. Now Isaiah predicts that the triumph of biblical faith will bring a peace such as the world has never known. All nations shall beat their swords into plowshares.

FACT

Pruning hooks (2:4) were used to cut away newly formed leaves and shoots from grape vines. The blade curved into a sharp hook at the tip, allowing it to capture and cut new growth more easily than a straight blade.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:10 from before the terror of the Lord, and from the splendor of his majesty. Sennacherib, king of Assyria, boasted in his writings of “the terror-inspiring splendor of my lordship.” Isaiah answers all such human pride with the vision of God as the only one who is truly terrifying.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:12–16 against all . . . against every. Ten times in these verses Isaiah says that God opposes all human pride.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:20–21 their idols of silver and their idols of gold . . . to the moles and to the bats (that is, into the ruins and caves in which they live). The substitutes for God that are valued in the present world will be seen for the worthless things they are. God's people will not regret the loss (compare Phil. 3:8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:1–4:6 The false and sinful glories of men and women, which are temporary, are replaced by the eternal glory of the Lord (4:6).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:1 For. The prophet explains why man is not to be "regarded" (see 2:22). taking away. God takes away whatever keeps his people from him, that they may enjoy his glory (4:2–6).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:2–5 God judges his people by removing their good leaders and replacing them with irresponsible boys and infants.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:6 You have a cloak. Anyone who has the slightest appearance of being a qualified leader is seized upon by the leaderless people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:8 For . . . because. The nation's social collapse has resulted from their hostility toward God. defying his glorious presence. They stubbornly disregard God's presence (Ex. 40:38; 1 Kings 8:10–11), though his nearness is their only true hope (Isa. 4:5). On "glory" as the Lord's special presence, see note on 6:3.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:24 Instead of. Five times Isaiah says that God will replace the women's self-indulgence (vv. 16–17) with the tragedies of exile and abuse.

FACT

The tinkling of feet mentioned in 3:16 is probably the ankle bracelets many women wore in the ancient world. They were usually made of bronze and were attached permanently.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 4:2–3 survivors . . . he who is left . . . and remains . . . recorded for life. The remnant preserved by God (see 1:9).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 4:2 The branch of the LORD is the Messiah (see Jer. 23:5; 33:15; Zech. 3:8; 6:12; compare Isa. 11:1). He comes from the Lord, and his rule spreads over the world. His triumph will be beautiful and glorious.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 4:3–4 holy . . . when the Lord shall have washed away the filth . . . and cleansed the bloodstains. A permanent remedy will be applied to God's people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 4:5 Then the LORD will create. More than reversing the loss of 3:1–4:1.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:1–30 Isaiah's introductory diagnosis of Judah's spiritual decline (chs. 1–5) concludes with a description of his generation's apostasy and its consequences. The chapter is divided into the song of the vineyard (5:1–7) and the "wild grapes" that the vineyard produced (vv. 8–30).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:1 Let me sing for my beloved my love song. To Isaiah, God is both the Holy One and his beloved friend. Vineyard is explained in v. 7 as a reference to Israel and Judah (see Jer. 12:10; see also Ex. 15:17, where God plants them; for Israel as a vine, see Ps. 80:8–16; Jer. 2:21; Hos. 10:1; John 15:1).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:2 God supplied everything for his people to be a blessing to the world, as he had promised in Gen. 12:1–3.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:7 he looked for justice, but behold, bloodshed; for righteousness, but behold, an outcry! Sin turns good into evil.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:8–10 Leviticus 25 taught Israel to return purchased lands in the Year of Jubilee. Restoring property to the original owner ensured a fresh start for anyone who had fallen on hard times. Therefore, those who join house to house, who add field to field, until there is no more room do business without regard for God's instructions (see note on Amos 3:15). By greedily accumulating land, the powerful drive the weaker people off the land that God gave them. a homer of seed shall yield but an ephah. God will see to it that these greedy landowners do not receive the profits they expect.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:14 The greed described in vv. 8–10 is answered with the appetite of Sheol, swallowing up the dead (see Ps. 88:3–6; Prov. 9:18; Isa. 14:15; 38:18).

FACT

Ten acres of vineyard would normally produce 10,000 gallons (37,850 liters) of wine yearly. Isaiah says that the Lord's judgment upon Israel would be so severe that ten acres of vineyard would produce only one bath, or six gallons (23 liters). See 5:10.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:18–23 Isaiah issues four laments (Woe) over God's people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:24 God delighted in his people ("his pleasant planting," v. 7), but they have rejected . . . and have despised him (compare 53:3).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:26 Nations, including Assyria, are summoned by the sovereign God with a mere whistle.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:27–30 Isaiah describes the approach of invading military forces. This is a far cry from the nations approaching Zion to learn the ways of God and cease from war (2:2–4).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:30 darkness and distress . . . light is darkened. Having rejected the light of the Lord that was offered to them (2:5), Judah and Jerusalem find that the so-called light they chose turns to darkness.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:1–12:6 God Redefines the Future of His People: "Your Guilt Is Taken Away." God's grace will preserve a remnant of his people. They will enjoy his eternal messianic kingdom and will fulfill the purpose for which he called them. That offer of grace spreads from Isaiah (6:1–13) to the southern kingdom of Judah (7:1–9:7) to the northern kingdom of Israel (9:8–11:16), bringing God's people to the "wells of salvation" (12:1–6).

Datable Events in the Book of Isaiah

Uzziah's death; Isaiah's call	ch. 6	740 B.C.
Days of Ahaz	ch. 7	c. 735
Assyrian invasion	chs. 36–38	701
Sennacherib's death	37:38	681
Babylonians will destroy Jerusalem	39:6–8	586
Israel will return from Babylonian exile	chs. 40–48	538

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:1 In the year. Around 740 B.C. King Uzziah died, marking the end of a lengthy era of national prosperity (see 2 Chronicles 26).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:2 the seraphim. Fiery angelic beings (the Hebrew word means "flames"). six wings . . . he covered. Even a perfect, superhuman creature humbles himself before the all-holy God.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:3 Holy, holy, holy. Holiness implies absolute moral purity and absolute uniqueness. Repeating the term three times emphasizes these qualities (compare Rev. 4:8). Glory is a technical term for God's self-displayed presence with his people, which took various forms. God's glory was seen in the cloud in the wilderness (Ex. 16:7, 10), and it filled the tabernacle (Ex. 40:34–35) and then the temple (1 Kings 8:11), where the worshipers could see it (Ex. 29:43; Ps. 26:8; 63:2). This glory was also present in Jesus (John 1:14).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:4–5 Woe is me! For the first time in the book, Isaiah speaks. His word is a lament over his own sinful condition. He admits that he has unclean lips (for the meaning of "unclean" here, see Introduction to Leviticus: Problems in Understanding Leviticus). I dwell in the midst. Isaiah's generation is unfit for God, and Isaiah himself is no better.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:6–7 this has touched your lips. Isaiah has been prepared to speak God's message. altar . . . atoned for. God declares the remedy for Isaiah's sin to be sufficient and instantly effective.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:8 Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Compare “let us make man” (Gen. 1:26). God could be addressing himself, as one God existing in three Persons (the Christian doctrine of the Trinity; see note on Gen. 1:26), or he could be addressing his heavenly court. This second interpretation is less likely, since God alone is doing the sending here.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:9–10 God decrees that the prophet’s ministry will have a hardening effect on his hearers (compare Matt. 13:14–15; John 12:39–40; Acts 28:25–27).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:11–13 God’s discipline will leave only a remnant of his people—the holy seed—like a single stump left after a forest has been burned over.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:1 In the days of Ahaz is c. 735 B.C., when Ahaz has just begun his reign. Rezin the king of Syria and Pekah the son of Remaliah the king of Israel. Syria and the northern kingdom of Israel (“Ephraim,” v. 2) try to force the southern kingdom of Judah to join them against Assyria.

ISAIAH

The book of Isaiah reveals few details about the prophet himself. We know that he was the son of Amoz, that he was a husband and a father, and that at God’s command he used some rather unusual methods of getting his point across (20:2–6)! With the exception of a few details such as these, the Bible focuses exclusively on the prophet’s message. God called Isaiah to be a prophet in a time when the people of Judah were no longer faithful to the covenant. The nation’s disobedience meant that their prospects for the future involved God’s judgment rather than his blessing. Isaiah denounced the people’s hypocrisy, greed, and idolatry. The heart of his message, however, is found in the meaning of his name: “Yahweh is salvation.” Isaiah’s vision is ultimately a message of hope for sinners through the coming Messiah. (Isaiah 6:8–13)

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:2 the house of David. Because of God’s covenant with his forefather David, Ahaz can be confident of God’s protective care (see 2 Sam. 7:8–17; Ps. 89:3–4).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:3–4 Isaiah delivers God's message that Ahaz does not need to fear . . . Rezin and Pekah.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:7–9 Human threats are to be dismissed and divine promises firmly trusted, for the Lord GOD rules all events. within sixty-five years. The northern kingdom fell to Assyria in 722 B.C. By around 670 B.C. the ethnic identity of the former kingdom would have been changed due to foreign settlers (see 2 Kings 17:24; Ezra 4:1–2, 10). If you are not firm in faith, you will not be firm at all. The southern kingdom still has an opportunity to hold fast to God, but their faith must be firm. Not believing God destabilizes everything for Ahaz, not just his religious life.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:10–17 Ahaz, king of Judah, sees Syria and Ephraim (the northern kingdom) as a threat, even though the Lord has said Ahaz has nothing to fear from them. Though Ahaz is the heir of David's throne, he has put his firm faith in the king of Assyria (v. 9; see 2 Kings 16:1–9). He placed his hope in human power rather than in the Lord. But Isaiah calls for Ahaz and all of Jerusalem to put their faith in a far more reliable ally: "the Lord himself" (Isa. 7:14). The Lord invites Ahaz to request a sign to strengthen his faith (v. 11), but Ahaz refuses to do so, saying I will not put the LORD to the test (v. 12; see Deut. 6:16). Isaiah then addresses the house of David (Isa. 7:13). He accuses the royal house of wearying God, but he also offers them a sign from the Lord himself (v. 14). This sign is the famous announcement of a son born to a virgin, whose name will be Immanuel. This child's life is to be the sign that confirms the truth of the divine word, which the LORD will bring upon you (v. 17; see note on vv. 15–17).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:14 the Lord himself. The divine King offers a sign. The word translated virgin refers specifically to a "maiden"—that is, a young woman who is unmarried and has not had a sexual relationship with anyone. Thus Matthew rightly applied this prophecy to the virgin birth of Christ (Matt. 1:23). This prophecy also had significance for Isaiah's day. Ahaz and his house stood judged by God for unbelief. The passage gave hope to faithful believers like Isaiah for a future Messiah. The sign finds its final fulfillment in the virgin birth of Jesus, who is literally "God with us" (the meaning of Immanuel).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:15–17 The threat from Syria and Ephraim will pass in less time than it takes for the boy (possibly meaning “any boy”) to reach an age when he can refuse the evil and choose the good. In fact, Syria did fall to Assyria in 732 B.C. and Israel fell in 722. But the agent of deliverance—the king of Assyria—was a worse disaster for Judah. Ahaz forsook “the King, the LORD of hosts” (6:5) for a dreaded earthly king (2 Kings 16:5–9). Ahaz’s unbelief doomed the Davidic dynasty to foreign domination. Now God must restore the throne of David.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:1–2 Through Isaiah’s son, God provides a witness to his promise of deliverance of Judah from the coalition of Syria and Israel.

FACT

Shaving. Being forced to shave was a mark of humiliation (7:20). In some nations of that time, the hair of slaves was shaved in a particular way to identify them as their owner’s property.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:3 Isaiah’s wife, the prophetess, bears the “sign-child,” Maher-shalal-hash-baz (see v. 18).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:6–7 The waters of Shiloah that flow gently is used here as an image of God’s faithful care, available to his people. the waters of the (Euphrates) River. Verse 7 describes a swollen “river” of Assyrian military power flowing over Syria and Ephraim and flooding south into Judah, who will survive only by standing on tiptoe to keep her head above the tide (chs. 36–37).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:9–10 In view of Immanuel’s future triumph, Isaiah announces that the enemies of God who gather against his people will be shattered (compare Gen. 3:15).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:11–15 The holy God, who is the sanctuary for frightened human beings who turn to him, is also the snare for those who do not fear him.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:16–22 The difference between the remnant (vv. 16–18) and the hardened nation (vv. 19–22) becomes clear. God marks his own as loyal disciples who preserve the testimony of his word (v. 16).

FACT

A sanctuary and a rock? Elsewhere in Scripture, the Lord is described as a "rock" that provides a place of "sanctuary" or "refuge" (see Ps. 61:2–3). Here, however, he is a "sanctuary" for his people but a "rock" over which his enemies will stumble (Isa. 8:14; compare Rom. 9:33).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:1 Her who was in anguish refers to Israel as the people of God under his discipline. In the former time. Isaiah sees the tragic present as if it were already past. Brought into contempt, that is, humiliated with national defeat. in the latter time he has made glorious. A past-tense verb, because the prophetic eye sees the future in a matter-of-fact vision. The people of God will finally experience the glorious future prophesied in 2:3 through the triumph of their Messiah.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:2 The people who walked in darkness. People like those who refused the appeal of 2:5 (see also 5:30; 8:22; John 3:19–20). on them has light shone. An objective, surprising joy for sinners through the grace of God (see Isa. 42:6; 49:6; 2 Cor. 4:6).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:3 You have multiplied the nation. No longer are the faithful a small remnant (see 26:15; 54:1–5).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:4 God liberates humanity as on the day of Midian (see Judges 6–7, where Gideon achieves an improbable victory over Midian by the power of God).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:6 to us. A gift of divine grace to sinners. a child . . . a son. This is the invincible figure of vv. 4–5 (see Ps. 2:7–9; Luke 1:32). born . . . given. Isaiah presents the events as if it were the time of the child's arrival, with an expectation of what he will achieve (Isa. 9:7). Wonderful Counselor. A "counselor" is one who is able to make wise plans (see 11:2). He is a ruler whose wisdom is beyond human capabilities. Mighty God. A title for the Lord (10:20–21; Deut. 10:17; Neh. 9:32; Jer. 32:18). Everlasting Father. A kind protector (see Isa. 22:21), which is the task of the ideal king and is also the way God himself cares for his people (see 63:16; 64:8; Ps. 103:13). Prince of Peace. He will bring peace (shalom) as the nations rely on his just decisions in their disputes (see Isa. 2:4; 11:6–9; 42:4; 49:7; 52:15).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:7 This messianic heir of David will extend his rule to include all Gentiles, thus bringing to them the blessing of knowing the true God (Gen. 49:10; 2 Sam. 7:8–16).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:8–12 Pride is the source of all the nation's disasters.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:8–9 Jacob . . . Israel . . . Ephraim . . . Samaria. The northern kingdom rebelled against the throne of David and against the worship of the Lord (see 1 Kings 12:16–33).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:11 adversaries of Rezin. The Assyrians.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:12 his anger. God's anger is caused by their sin (Deut. 29:22–28; see Ex. 34:6–7; Isa. 42:24–25; Nah. 1:2–3; Rom. 2:5).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:14 in one day. Judgment comes suddenly, perhaps referring to 722 B.C., when the northern kingdom fell.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:1–4 Corrupt wealth leads to helplessness.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:3 ruin that will come from afar. The Assyrian invasion.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:4 fall among the slain. In his writings, the Assyrian king Shalmaneser III boasted of stacking the corpses of his defeated enemies and heaping up piles of their skulls (see Nah. 3:3). Captivity or death is the only possible outcome.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:6 a godless nation. Unbelieving Israel (9:17).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:7 But he does not so intend. Events unfold through human intentions but also, more deeply, through God's intention (see Luke 22:22; Acts 4:27–28).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:8–9 Is not Calno like Carchemish? In each pair of cities listed, the first is geographically nearer to God's people than the second. The speaker is saying that, since he has conquered the more distant of each pair of cities, surely he can conquer the nearer one as well.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:10–11 The Assyrian sees no end to his victories. Compare the similar boasting by a later Assyrian, 36:13–20; 37:8–13.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:16–19 The mighty Assyrian army is reduced nearly to nothing.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:20–23 The remnant of Israel returns to God.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:22 Destruction . . . overflowing with righteousness. God's acts of judgment are entirely just and fair.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:24–26 Fearful Zion is made confident in God's promises.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:28–32 Isaiah imagines the terrifying approach of the Assyrian army through the villages toward Jerusalem. But the invader is stopped at the last moment and can only shake his fist at the holy city.

FACT

Yokes were wooden frames placed on work animals such as oxen to harness their power. When Israelites heard prophets like Isaiah speak of the yokes placed on them by their oppressors (10:27), they would readily understand what he meant.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:33–34 The destruction of the Assyrians for their arrogance is described as the felling of a forest.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:1 a shoot from the stump. Isaiah presents the Messiah as a shoot or twig growing from a stump remaining after God's judgment (see 4:2; 6:13; 53:2). Jesse. The father of David (see 1 Sam. 16:1–13; 2 Sam. 20:1). bear fruit. Unlike previous kings, especially King Ahaz, this son of Jesse will produce only good results for the people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:2 the Spirit of the LORD. Like David (1 Sam. 16:13), the Messiah is empowered by the Holy Spirit. He is also given wisdom and understanding for leadership (Deut. 1:13; 1 Kings 3:9; see Isa. 10:13); counsel and might to carry out his wise plans (36:5; see Job 12:13; note the connection to Isa. 9:6, "counselor" and "mighty"); knowledge and the fear of the LORD for holiness (Prov. 2:1–5). For Jesus' fulfillment of this prophetic word, see Matt. 3:16–17.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:3–4 his delight shall be in the fear of the LORD. See note on Prov. 1:7. The coming Messiah will be the moral ideal in his human faithfulness. He will have deep joy in living faithfully before God, and in promoting this attitude among those he rules.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:5 Righteousness . . . faithfulness. The Messiah will clothe himself with just decisions and consistent integrity.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:6–9 the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the LORD. The One whom Israel rejected as unhelpful renews the world (see 35:9; 65:17–25; Ezek. 34:25–31).

FACT

The idea of tame farm animals living in harmony with wild animals such as lions and bears (11:6–9) would have been a startling thought for the people of Isaiah's day, for whom such predators were a frequent threat (see also 65:17–25).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:10 Paul quotes this verse in Rom. 15:12 to describe his ambition to reach the Gentiles with the gospel. He sees himself as living in the messianic time the OT expected, in which the Gentiles would come to know the true God.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:11 yet a second time. The first deliverance was the exodus from Egypt (v. 16). from Assyria . . . the coastlands of the sea. From all over the known world—a greater exodus by far.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:13–14 Rather than compete with one another, God's people unite to oppose evil.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:16 Assyria. Where many Israelites have gone into exile (see v. 11).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 12:1 your anger turned away. God decides when punishment has served its purpose (see 6:6–7; 53:4–6). that you might comfort me. See 40:1; 66:13.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 12:2 God is my salvation. See 45:17; 51:6; 59:16; 63:5. A supernatural salvation; Isaiah echoes Ex. 15:2–18.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 12:3 draw water from the wells of salvation. Endless supplies of renewing salvation (see Ps. 63:1; Isa. 44:3; 55:1; John 4:13–14; Rev. 22:17).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 12:4 God's salvation flows out to the peoples through the witness of Israel. The message is his name, that is, who God has revealed himself to be (see Ex. 3:13–15; 34:5–8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 12:6 the Holy One of Israel. Isaiah concludes this section with his characteristic title for God. Because of God's gracious intervention, the sinner's greatest dread (6:3–5) becomes his ultimate joy.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:1–27:13 God's Judgment and Grace for the World: "We Have a Strong City." Isaiah stresses God's complete power over all the nations. God rules history to achieve his goals.

Oracles against the Nations in the Prophets

	Isaiah	Jeremiah	Ezekiel	Joel	Amos	Obadiah	Jonah	Nahum	Zephaniah	Zechariah
Ammon		49:1–6	25:1–7		1:13–15

Lebanon										11:1–3?
Moab	15:1–16:14	48:1–47	25:8–11		2:1–3				2:8–11
Philistia	14:28–32	47:1–7	25:15–17	3:4–8					2:5–7	9:6
Tyre Sidon	23:1–18		26:1–28:19; 28:20–23	3:4–8	1:9–10					9:2–3

*Additional cities /states are denounced in 9:1–8: Hadrach, Aram (v. 1); Ashkelon, Ekron (v. 5); Ashdod (v. 6)

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:1–20:6 A series of five oracles reveal God ruling over Babylon and Assyria (13:1–14:27), Philistia (14:28–32), Moab (15:1–16:14), Damascus/Israel (17:1–18:7), and Egypt (19:1–20:6). The OT prophets give numerous oracles about other nations. As universal Creator, the God of Israel is not limited to Israel but holds all nations accountable for their deeds (see 13:11; compare Rom. 3:29–30).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:1 oracle. A prophetic message (see 2:1). Isaiah sees in Babylon the proud evil that sets the whole world against God (13:11, 19; see Gen. 11:1–9; Isa. 14:26; Dan. 4:30; Rev. 18:2–3).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:2 raise a signal. God calls armies to invade Babylon.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:3 my consecrated ones. God uses the enemies of Babylon for his own purpose (see 10:5–15; 45:1).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:5–6 As the ESV footnote explains, the whole land can also be translated “the whole earth” (likewise v. 9).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:12 This refers to the thorough destruction of “the arrogant” and “the ruthless” of v. 11.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:17 The Medes conquered Babylon in 539 B.C. (see Jer. 51:11; Dan. 5:30–31).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:19 Great Babylon will be destroyed just like Sodom and Gomorrah were.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:20–22 It will never be inhabited. This eerie scene contrasts with the magnificence of v. 19 and the messianic paradise of 11:6–8 (see similar imagery in 34:11–15; Jer. 50:39; Zeph. 2:14–15).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:1 For the LORD will have compassion. Judgment (ch. 13) clears the way for God’s compassion. will again choose Israel. God restores them to his purpose of grace. sojourners. Gentiles who live among the people of Israel; see Ex. 23:9; Deut. 10:19. God’s people multiply as outsiders join them (see Isa. 2:2–4; 56:3–8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:2 the house of Israel . . . the LORD’s land. God will use the nations to bless his people (see 60:1–16).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:4 the king of Babylon. The royal figure, personifying Babylonian arrogance, is taunted by his victims, not immortalized through the praises of his admirers.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:12–15 fallen from heaven, O Day Star, son of Dawn! Using rich poetic imagery, the king of Babylon is addressed with sarcastic irony. From the great heights of his pride, arrogance, and rebellion against God, his downfall brings him to the depths of Sheol. Some have seen in these verses a poetic allusion in which the fallen king of Babylon is likened to a fallen Satan; see note on Ezek. 28:11–19.

FACT

Joyful trees. For many centuries, the “cedars of Lebanon” were hauled away by powerful empires like Assyria and Babylon. When Babylon is defeated, those trees will rejoice that “no woodcutter comes up against us” (14:8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:21 Babylon’s proud royal line will end forever, while Isaiah expects David’s royal line to last forever and to bless all mankind (9:6–7; see Psalm 45; 72).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:22–23 With three declarations of divine resolve—declares the LORD—the true Ruler of history vows to sweep the dynasty of Babylon away, preserving no remnant.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:25–26 God will break the Assyrian in my land (see chs. 36–37). This short-term fulfillment of God’s word encourages the belief that everything he says concerning the whole earth will be fulfilled.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:28–32 The second oracle of 13:1–20:6 concerns Philistia.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:28 the year that King Ahaz died. Around 715 B.C.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:29 God warns Philistia not to take pleasure in the fact that the rod that struck you is broken. This may refer either to the Davidic dynasty, which was reduced to puppet status under Assyria, or to the Assyrian Empire, which may have suffered a setback.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:30–32 God promises safety for his own but fear for Philistia, which is left without a remnant.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 15:1–16:14 The third oracle concerns Moab. Jeremiah 48 parallels and expands this passage.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 15:1–9 Moab is devastated by a sudden attack on its villages. Even God mourns for them (vv. 5–9; compare Ezek. 33:11).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 15:2–3 On every head is baldness . . . sackcloth. An expression of mourning (see 22:12; Jer. 48:37–39; Lam. 2:10).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 15:9 lion. The Moabites who escape their homeland will also be killed.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 16:4–5 When the oppressor is no more . . . then a throne will be established. God's reply to Moab's plea for safety from Assyrian oppression is the messianic throne of David, full of divine integrity but also demanding submission (see 9:7; 11:4–5, 10; 55:3).

FACT

Payment in lambs. The people of Moab offered to pay the Israelites to protect them from their enemies. Such tribute was often paid in goods rather than with money; since the Moabites had many sheep, that's how they paid (16:1).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 16:6–12 Moab's pride is their doom, portrayed as a vineyard cut down. Therefore (vv. 7, 9, 11). Three consequences flow from Moab's proud rejection of the Davidic throne (see Jer. 48:42).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:1–18:7 The fourth oracle concerns the alliance between Damascus and Israel in Isaiah's time (see 7:1–16; 8:1–4).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:1 Damascus will cease to be a city. It was destroyed by Assyria in 732 B.C., after a siege.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:2 None will make them afraid, not because peace exists but because the cities . . . are deserted.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:3 like the glory of the children of Israel. See vv. 4–6.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:4–11 The three uses of in that day unites these verses. Israel will be brought low (vv. 4–6), a remnant will return to God (vv. 7–8), and strong cities will be destroyed (v. 9). Verses 10–11 explain Israel's fall as a spiritual, not a political, miscalculation.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:9 The Canaanites had deserted their cities centuries before because Israel trusted God to give them the land (see the book of Joshua). Now, Israel was foolishly trusting in the same human power that God had already defeated.

FACT

Olive harvesting was very similar to grain harvesting. The olive harvesters would beat the branches of the tree with long poles, knocking the olives to the ground. The uppermost branches were left untouched so that the poor could gather what remained (17:6).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:12–14 Ah draws attention to the nations—mighty, restless, and destructive, but scattered by the mere rebuke of the sovereign God (see chs. 36–37).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 18:3 Isaiah calls the whole world to redirect its attention to the unmistakable signs of God’s activity in history.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 18:4–6 Working as silently as heat or dew, God frustrates human attempts to rule the world. He acts when the moment is right. This is the truth underlying the appearance of human might in history.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 18:7 At that time. When God completes history with his kingdom’s victory.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:1–20:6 The fifth oracle concerns Egypt. Judah turned to Egypt for deliverance from Assyria. God has the power both to judge and to save Egypt, but Judah would rather trust Egypt than God.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:1 the LORD is riding on a swift cloud. God approaches Egypt with power above human powers (see Deut. 33:26; Ps. 18:10–15; 68:33–34). the idols . . . the heart. See Ezek. 14:3.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:4 a hard master. Egypt suffered under tyrants from various nations in the following centuries.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:5–10 Egypt's primary natural resource and economic base was the Nile.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:16–25 The Lord will eventually restore Egypt and the nations.

FACT

Competing Pharaohs. Beginning in about 1000 B.C., Egypt fell into a period of decline and royal feuding that lasted nearly 400 years. During Isaiah's time, there were four rival pharaohs claiming the Egyptian throne.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:18 Isaiah envisions faith in God spreading from five cities in Egypt through that entire nation (v. 19) to the entire world (v. 23). speak the language of Canaan. Egyptians, who were prejudiced against Hebrews (Gen. 43:32), will adopt their language, melding with God's people as one (see Gen. 11:1–9).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:19–22 Egypt experiences God's saving intervention, just as Israel did during the period of the judges.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:22 striking and healing. Striking in vv. 1–15, healing in vv. 16–25.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:23 the Egyptians will worship with the Assyrians. A remarkable change in two of Israel's worst enemies: they too will worship the one true God. The whole world, represented by Egypt and Assyria, unites in worship.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:24–25 God's overflowing blessing unites the entire world as his own (see Gen. 12:1–3; Gal. 3:26–29; Eph. 2:11–22; Rev. 7:9–10).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 20:1 In the year. 711 B.C. Sargon (II) was king of Assyria, 722–705 B.C. Ashdod. A Philistine city (see 1 Sam. 5:1). The Assyrian defeat of this city was relevant to "Egypt and Cush" (Isa. 20:3) because Ashdod had relied on promises of Egyptian support against Assyrian attack. Egypt did not deliver that support.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 20:2 naked and barefoot. Like a prisoner of war (see 2 Chron. 28:14–15). The prophets at times acted out their messages with dramatic behavior (compare 1 Kings 18; Jeremiah 19; Ezek. 3:22–5:17; 24:15–27).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:1–23:18 Five new oracles reveal God’s ruling and judging the wilderness by the sea (21:1–10), Dumah (21:11–12), Arabia (21:13–17), the valley of vision (22:1–25), and Tyre (23:1–18).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:1 the wilderness of the sea. The first oracle (vv. 1–10) concerns Babylon (v. 9), but the cryptic title suggests a place both deserted (wilderness) and flooded (sea), thus doubly hopeless (see Jer. 51:42–43). Babylon represents the condition of the whole world. it comes. The approach of a dreaded message.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:3–4 the twilight I longed for . . . trembling. The prophet longed to see God intervene in the world, but he trembles when he sees the reality of that intervention.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:7, 9 riders. Mounted warriors.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:9 Fallen, fallen is Babylon. The repeated cry emphasizes Babylon’s final and total destruction (see Rev. 14:8; 18:2). Her gods represent the worldview giving Babylon her legitimacy. Thus, the world’s most cherished beliefs are shattered.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:10 my threshed and winnowed one. Probably Judah, dominated by Assyria and abandoned by Babylon.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:11–12 The second oracle of the second series (21:1–23:18) pictures prolonged darkness enveloping a frightened world.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:11 The designation of Isaiah’s oracle concerning Dumah (Hebrew “silence,” that is, the land of silence; see Ps. 94:17; 115:17) most likely represents a wordplay on the similar-sounding name “Edom.” The mention of Seir confirms Edom as the object of this oracle (see Gen. 32:3). Watchman, what time of the night? An Edomite pleads with the prophet to announce how much longer his nation must endure the darkness of its troubled history. The repetition of his question conveys his desperation.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:12 The prophet’s answer is vague: morning is sure to come, with more night as well. But Edom is urged to keep inquiring.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:13–17 The third oracle shows fugitives running from violence.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:1–25 The fourth oracle shows the light of the world, Jerusalem, growing dark.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:1–14 The people of Jerusalem are marked by mindless attempts to save themselves from Assyria.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:1 valley of vision. Jerusalem (vv. 9–10). The irony is twofold: Mount Zion has become a valley, and the spiritual vision to be expected there has become a desire for present pleasure without regard for God (vv. 11, 13).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:5 For. The reason for Jerusalem’s fall is the will of the Lord GOD of hosts. The tumult and trampling and confusion of warfare replaces the wild pleasure-seeking of vv. 1–2.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:6 Elam and Kir refer to foreign invaders.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:7 full of chariots. The jubilant shouting (v. 2) is replaced by enemy chariots.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:8b–11 These verses show the irony of pursuing military readiness while neglecting the sovereign God who controls the situation.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:8b the House of the Forest. The place for storing weapons in Jerusalem (see 1 Kings 7:2–5; 10:17).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:12–13 Isaiah contrasts what the Lord God of hosts called for with how his unrepentant people responded (v. 5). joy and gladness. In this case, an empty substitute for true happiness (see 35:10). Let us eat and drink. God's people are focused on temporary pleasure.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:14 this iniquity. That is, the sin of looking to something other than God for rescue.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:20 my servant. See 20:3; 37:35; 41:8–9; 42:1.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:22 The key symbolizes the steward's authority to make binding decisions in the interests of the king (see Matt. 16:19).

FACT

The key to the house of David was carried by the steward, and it opened every door and gate in the palace. It was probably bronze and was large enough that it had to be worn around the neck ("on his shoulder," 22:22). For the steward, it was a status symbol.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:1–18 The fifth oracle concerns the judgment and redemption of Tyre.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:1–14 God humbles Tyre, a successful port on the Phoenician coast and the merchant of the nations (v. 3; see Ezek. 28:1–10).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:7–9 The devastation of the city prompts the deeper question, Who could decree the downfall of so great a human power? The Lord of hosts. See 14:24–27; and note on 1 Sam. 1:3. God will never make peace with human pride.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:11 He has stretched out his hand over the sea in sovereign authority (see Ex. 14:16). Tyre and Sidon were part of what once was Canaan (see Josh. 5:1).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:13 The prophet directs Tyre's attention to Babylon in the land of the Chaldeans, ruined by the Assyrians. If Babylon is vulnerable, so is Tyre.

FACT

Cyprus (23:1) is the third largest island in the Mediterranean Sea. Seafarers like the people of Sidon (23:12) would have valued it as both a seaport and a place of refuge.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:15–18 The prostitute Tyre will soon be back in business, but will ultimately be redeemed (like other nations, e.g., 19:23–25).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:17–18 The hardened, unfaithful woman, deeply bound to the corruption of wealth, is made holy to the LORD and devoted to his people (v. 18). Deuteronomy 23:18 forbids the wages of a prostitute from being consecrated; the reversal here implies redemption.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:1–27:13 The third and climactic vision of God ruling the nations in judgment and salvation. These chapters foresee the whole world in crisis at the end of history, but God's people are wonderfully secured in their own city (see 24:4; 25:8; 26:19; 27:6).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:1 Behold, the LORD. The first impression conveyed by the vision is the active presence of God. scatter. The same Hebrew word as "dispersed" in the story of Babel (Gen. 11:4, 8, 9). Recalling Babel, Isaiah foresees a final judgment of human independence.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:5 The earth lies defiled . . . for they have transgressed the laws. Human sin pollutes the world (see Num. 35:34). violated the statutes. Judgment comes as the world defies God's revealed will. the everlasting covenant. Perhaps the covenant given through Noah (Gen. 9:16), which applies to all mankind; or the covenant with the house of David (2 Sam. 23:5; Isa. 55:3), through which all mankind will be blessed.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:10 The wasted city. The city is an important image in this section (see v. 12; 25:2; 26:1–2, 5; 27:10). Isaiah sees world culture as a city because it is a populated place of imagined safety. "Wasted" is translated "without form" in Gen. 1:2. The world city of human civilization, though highly developed, rejects the will of God and thus wastes its own potential.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:14–16 The drunken binge of vv. 7–11 is replaced with the joyful worship of those redeemed from the world.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:16 Woe is me! The prophet laments the betrayal of the world (see 6:5; 21:2–4).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:21 On that day. The focal point toward which God is leading history, mentioned seven times in this section (v. 21; 25:9; 26:1; 27:1, 2, 12, 13).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:23 The moon and sun are outshone by the glory of the LORD of hosts reigning in triumph forever from his city, Jerusalem on Mount Zion. For “LORD of hosts,” see note on 1 Sam. 1:3.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:1–5 Human domination is overthrown by God.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:1 you are my God. Though worldwide in scope, redemption is personal. Wonderful things refers especially to the remarkable acts of God, which bear the marks of his supernatural intervention in the natural world and human events (see 9:6). plans formed of old. Not a last-minute attempt but a long-assured victory (see 14:24–27).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:2 the city. See note on 24:10.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:4–5 stronghold. The redeemed have in God something better than the “fortified city” of man (v. 2).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:6–8 God relieves human sorrow.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:6 for all peoples. The five uses of “all” in vv. 6–8 suggests the fullness of God’s salvation. a feast. This is God’s generous answer to the worldly partying silenced in 24:7–11 (see 55:1–2; Rev. 19:9).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:7–8 the covering . . . the veil. The pall of death hanging over all human activity under the curse (see Gen. 3:17–19). God will swallow it up and give back life (see Rev. 1:17–18). At some future time God's people will no longer experience death but will live forever.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:9–12 God humbles human pride.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:9 Behold. See 24:1. At last, the reality of a renewed society and a renewed earth anticipated by those who patiently waited (see the expectation in 40:9–11). this is our God. An expression of wholehearted identification with him (see Ex. 29:45–46). we have waited. Salvation is worth the wait, and is even worth the reproach of Isa. 25:8.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:10 dunghill. The alternative to the feast of v. 6.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:1 a strong city. Contrast "the wasted city" in 24:10. salvation as walls. See Zech. 2:5.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:2 Open the gates. Contrast "every house is shut up" in 24:10. Zion welcomes those coming to worship and fears no threats.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:3 perfect peace. The peace described here is first the corporate peace of the city (v. 1) and the nation (v. 2) that comes from the "hand of the LORD" (25:10). It is also the individual peace of the person whose mind is stayed on God. The source of such peace is the righteous, sovereign, saving God (25:9), who "will swallow up death forever" and "will wipe away" every tear (25:8; see Rev. 21:4), and who alone is worthy of trust.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:4 Trust in the LORD. This is the practical challenge that the book of Isaiah lays down for God's people (see 12:2; 31:1; 32:17; 50:10).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:8–9 you . . . you . . . you. God himself is the one his people wholeheartedly desire. the inhabitants of the world. Desire for God inspires a longing that all would recognize him.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:10–11 This cry for vindication is the focus of ch. 26.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:12 The future is bright, because salvation belongs to God alone.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:13–15 wiped out all remembrance. Evil is not only defeated, it even fades from memory (see 35:10; 65:17).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:16–18 The nation's historic pattern of failure (they, v. 16) is continued by the present generation (we, vv. 17–18). Although Israel was called to spread God's message of deliverance to the world (Gen. 12:1–3; Ex. 19:5–6), they failed, and the world went on as before.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:19 In contrast with the finality of death in v. 14, v. 19 rejoices in a bodily resurrection of all God's people. The long-standing failure described in vv. 16–18 will be dramatically reversed by God's power alone.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:20–21 shut your doors. Contrast "open the gates" in v. 2. Isaiah alludes to Gen. 7:16 and perhaps Ex. 12:21–23.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 27:1 Leviathan. An ancient symbol of evil. Myths describe a powerful, dragon-like deity. The threefold designation—the fleeing serpent, the twisting serpent, and the dragon that is in the sea—is matched by the Lord's threefold description of the hard and great and strong sword. Isaiah foresees God destroying Leviathan, a Satanic figure, finally and forever (see Rev. 12:7–9).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 27:3 every moment I water it. Contrast "I will also command . . . no rain" in 5:6.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 27:6 God's people will become a worldwide garden of Eden (see 26:18). Fill the whole world with fruit, a different image from "fill the face of the world with cities" in 14:21.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 27:9 Therefore by this. Through loving restraint, God will bring his people to idol-free purity before him.

FACT

Chalkstone is a type of limestone that, when crushed, can be used for things such as whitewashing and as mortar for brick-laying. Because it was so easy to crush, Isaiah used it as a visual example of how the Lord will destroy the altars and high places of idol worship (27:9).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 27:12 from the river Euphrates to the Brook of Egypt. The boundaries of the Promised Land (see Gen. 15:18). you will be gleaned one by one. God will gather in his chosen people. The agricultural metaphor matches the "vineyard" in Isa. 27:2–6.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 27:13 a great trumpet. Matching the "great sword" of v. 1. The Year of Jubilee was announced with the blowing of the trumpet on the Day of Atonement to "proclaim liberty throughout the land" (Lev. 25:8–12). Assyria . . . Egypt. See Isa. 19:23–25.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:1–35:10 God's Sovereign Word Spoken into the World: "Ah!" God controls history (chs. 28–33), moving events toward final judgment and salvation (chs. 34–35). He is the powerful ally of his people, greater than all earthly powers. "Ah!" indicates God is taking action. To trust in him is always the wisest policy.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:1–6 The northern city of Samaria will fall to Assyria.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:1 Ah. Chapters 28–33 are marked by six exclamations of action (v. 1; 29:1, 15; 30:1; 31:1; 33:1; see 5:8–30). the proud crown of the drunkards of Ephraim. Isaiah sees the city of Samaria, the crown of the northern kingdom, ruined by a corrupt lifestyle. the fading flower. The northern kingdom's days are nearly over. Israel fell to Assyria in 722 B.C.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:2–4 one who is mighty and strong. Assyria.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:5–6 In that day the LORD of hosts will be a crown of glory . . . to the remnant. God preserves his true people who boast in him. For "LORD of hosts," see note on 1 Sam. 1:3.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:7 These also. Judah in the south. the priest and the prophet. The leaders entrusted with God's word.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:9–10 The priests and prophets dismiss Isaiah's message as too simplistic (compare 1 Cor. 2:14).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:15 a covenant with death. Jerusalem's leaders rejoiced over their alliance with Egypt, believing it protected them from Assyria (see 30:1–5; 31:1–3). Isaiah says the alliance amounts to national suicide.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:16 God has established another foundation for the Zion of his remnant people. That sure foundation, embodied in Jesus Christ, is the good news that God saves as no one else can (Rom. 9:33; 1 Pet. 2:4–8 combines this with Isa. 8:14).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:21 The Lord fought for Israel against the Philistines at Mount Perazim (2 Sam. 5:17–21) and against the Amorites in the Valley of Gibeon (Josh. 10:1–11). Now he rises to do something strange—fight against his own people (see Isa. 28:11).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:23–29 God's dealings with his people, though "strange" (v. 21), are wise. He can be trusted in everything.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:1 Ah. See note on 28:1. Ariel, Ariel (that is, "Jerusalem, Jerusalem"). The address is repeated out of great sorrow and compassion. The exact meaning of the term "Ariel" is uncertain. Of the options mentioned in the ESV footnote (29:2), "altar hearth" seems the best for this context. Jerusalem is the place where sacrifices are consumed by fire in order to satisfy God's wrath against sin.

FACT

Details about farming. While a farmer "scatters" seeds like dill and cumin, other seeds, such as wheat and barley, had to be planted "in rows . . . in its proper place" (28:25). The Bible is accurate and trustworthy, even in such agricultural details.

FACT

Hebrew schoolchildren were taught the yearly "round" of feasts (29:1) at an early age. But the Lord is never impressed by insincere religious observances.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:2 God will distress Ariel through the Assyrians. she shall be to me like an Ariel. Like a place where the wrath of God burns.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:5–8 See 37:36–38. And in an instant, suddenly, you will be visited by the LORD of hosts. God will deliver them from the Assyrians (29:7–8). For "LORD of hosts," see note on 1 Sam. 1:3.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:13–14 honor me with their lips. Outwardly proper worship offends God if it is not motivated by faith (which is why Jesus quotes v. 13 in Matt. 15:8–9).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:15–16 Judah's leaders are reduced to the secrecy of underhanded human politics. For them, the sovereign God might as well not exist.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:17–21 Despite human unbelief, God plans to transform the moral order of the world. The metaphors of v. 17 are explained in vv. 18–21. The gospel of Christ is God's means of accomplishing this transformation (see 61:1–3).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:22–24 Despite their failures, God will keep his promises to Abraham's descendants.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:1 Ah. See note on 28:1. an alliance. Judah, under threat from Assyria, negotiates a defense pact with Egypt (see 36:6). But God had already promised to defend his people, while Egypt offers only death (see 28:14–15). who carry out a plan, but not mine. The Lord rejects all who make and carry out their own plans rather than submitting to and carrying out the plans that he has revealed to his people. The result of such lack of faith and disobedience is always "shame and disgrace" (30:5). To reject God's plan is to reject God himself and so to come under his judgment.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:2 who set out to go down to Egypt. Representatives of Judah travel to Egypt to buy protection. Ironically, they return to their original oppressor (see Ex. 1:8–22).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:6–7 Isaiah mocks the Judeans carrying payment to the court of Egypt. Rahab who sits still. For Rahab as a poetical name for Egypt, see Ps. 87:4.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:9–12 Isaiah's generation feared Assyrian aggression. The prophet understands that the real threat to them is their unwillingness to hear God's saving word. smooth things . . . illusions. For the false prophets' message in Judah, see Jer. 14:13–14; Ezek. 13:10–16; Mic. 3:5. The people prefer to hear false reassurances.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:15–17 Isaiah gets to the heart of the matter. With the authority of the Lord GOD, the Holy One of Israel, the secret of Judah's strength has been revealed. It comes in returning (or repentance, see ESV footnote) and rest . . . in quietness and in trust. This is the true path to victory and peace. Judah's unwillingness to obey God's word (v. 9) becomes clear in their rejection of this message (see 28:12).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:18 Therefore the LORD waits to be gracious to you. Note the amazing logic of grace: God's people forsake him for a false salvation (vv. 1–17); therefore, he is gracious to them (v. 18). But he waits, for the LORD is a God of justice, that is, he knows the perfect way to achieve his purpose, the perfect time to go into action, and the perfect kind of discipline that will awaken Judah.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:20–21 your Teacher. Contrast v. 9. This is the way, walk in it. Contrast v. 11. Isaiah foresees the law of the new covenant, written on the heart (see Jer. 31:31–34; Ezek. 36:25–27), and the guidance of each believer by the Holy Spirit (see Rom. 8:14; Gal. 5:16).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:23–26 And he will . . . Isaiah foresees the messianic kingdom (see Deut. 28:1–14). The details suggest the glorious reality and fullness of the blessing.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:32 he will fight. God himself will fight for Judah. His people's role is simply to celebrate with tambourines and lyres (see Ex. 15:19–21; 1 Sam. 18:6–7).

FACT

The sieve of destruction. Farmers used two different kinds of sieves when working in the fields. The larger sieve was used to sift out big rocks and stones from the fields. A smaller one was used to sift out smaller particles from the grain being harvested. This smaller sieve is the one mentioned in 30:28; the Lord is separating those who are his people (the grain) from those who are not.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 31:1 Woe. See note on 28:1. go down to Egypt for help. See 28:15; 29:15; 30:1–7, 16. horses . . . chariots . . . horsemen. A military advantage desirable to Judah, but already defeated by God (see Ex. 14:5–28; 15:2, 4; Ps. 20:7; Isa. 36:8–9). many . . . very strong. Judah is deceived by appearances (see Ps. 147:10–11).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 31:2 he is wise and brings disaster. Judah's diplomats think it is wise to seek Egypt's help, but God uses their plans to bring disaster. does not call back his words. Unlike human leaders, God is so wise that he does not have to change course on the basis of new information.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 31:3 Isaiah argues for the superiority of a spiritual ally over a human one (see 2 Chron. 32:8; Ps. 56:4; Isa. 2:22; 40:28–30; Jer. 17:5–6). The helper is Egypt; he who is helped is Judah.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 31:6–7 Turn to him. See 30:15. deeply revolted. Judah has to be told that their spiritual unfaithfulness is serious. idols. See 2:20.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 31:9 His rock, fire. See 6:6–7 and 33:14. When Assyria attacked Jerusalem, they walked into a furnace.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:1 Behold, a king will reign. Isaiah foresees the triumph of the Messiah (see 7:14; 9:2–7; 11:1–10).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:3–4 Not only will a perfect king reign in righteousness, but his subjects will be perfected in their ability to respond to him (see 29:24).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:8 Isaiah foresees a kingdom of true human decency, by the grace of God.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:10 The Assyrian invasion of 701 B.C. (see ch. 36) is little more than a year away, but the people are too careless to see it coming.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:11–12 A call to serious repentance.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:13 all the joyous houses in the exultant city. This is a false, escapist joy (see 24:7–11).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:15 until the Spirit is poured upon us from on high. Salvation is beyond all human capability. The One who is spirit (31:3) not only defends his people but also enriches them with new life: the wilderness becomes a fruitful field, reversing the disasters of 32:14.

FACT

Watchtowers (32:14) sometimes served as signal beacons when an invading force was approaching. By lighting small fires at the tops of the towers, watchmen could signal other towns that danger was near.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:19–20 Isaiah concludes the vision of messianic glory with two metaphors: the destruction of Assyria and the humbling of Jerusalem in the short term (v. 19), and the undisturbed peace of the Messiah's kingdom in the long term (v. 20). See 30:23–26.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:1 Ah. See note on 28:1. destroyer . . . traitor. Unscrupulous, successful Assyria.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:2 This verse expresses the trust in God that Isaiah is calling for.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:3–4 when you. That is, God. your spoil. That is, the goods taken after the defeat of the “destroyer” nations; they are collected by God’s people, who benefit from his final victory (see Ex. 3:21–22; Isa. 9:3; 11:14; 33:23).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:5–6 stability. This confidence lies at the heart of Isaiah’s message. Zion’s treasure, unlike the treasures that were taken by enemies (v. 4), is an endless resource (see Ps. 31:19).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:7 Their heroes are Judah’s soldiers. The envoys are their diplomats (see 36:22).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:10 Now . . . now . . . now. God has waited, seemingly inactive. Now that his people respond to his grace (v. 2), his kingdom comes.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:11–12 God dooms Assyria’s plan against Judah, repeating the prophecy of v. 1.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:13–14 You who are far off are the godless, and you who are near are sinners in Zion. God’s people, though called to share his holiness, must admit their own unholiness (see 6:1–7).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:15 Isaiah emphasizes the transforming power of God’s grace.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:16 To dwell on the heights is to be near God (v. 5).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:17 the king in his beauty. See vv. 21–22.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:20 God’s people are secured forever in their perfect home, reversing the distress of vv. 7–9 (see 4:5; 32:17–18).

FACT

“He who counted” (33:18) refers to tax collectors. If people couldn’t pay their taxes, their property might be seized or they might become forced laborers. If the official failed to collect all the taxes due, he himself was punished.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:21 broad rivers and streams. Abundant provision (see 41:18). where no galley with oars can go. No attack is possible by sea, matching the secure land in 33:17.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:22 the LORD . . . the LORD . . . the LORD . . . he. The redeemed finally attribute all of their happiness to their all-sufficient Lord alone.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:23–24 Currently God's people are like a drifting ship. But then, even the lame will take the prey (even the weak will become successful hunters). God's sin-sick people will be forgiven their iniquity (see 53:4–6).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:1–35:10 These chapters describe God's final judgment of the world (ch. 34) and vindication of his people (ch. 35), with their everlasting happiness.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:1–17 God's word to all who oppose him: everlasting wrath is coming.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:1 Draw near, O nations. God summons the whole world to judgment at the end of history.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:2 the LORD is enraged. The Hebrew could be translated, "The LORD has rage." Thus, four times in ch. 34 Isaiah says, "The LORD has . . .": The Lord has rage (v. 2), a sword (v. 6), a sacrifice (v. 6), and a day of vengeance (v. 8) as his resources for judgment. devoted them to destruction. See note on Deut. 20:16–18.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:5–7 Edom represents "all the nations" (v. 2) under God's judgment (see 63:1; Ezekiel 35). sacrifice . . . great slaughter. The world becomes a bloody altar as God requires payment for sin. Bozrah. The capital city of Edom (see Jer. 49:22).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:11 confusion . . . emptiness. These words first appear in Gen. 1:2 ("without form"; "void"), describing the world before God ordered it and filled it with life.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:13 Thorns . . . nettles and thistles recalls the curse of Gen. 3:17–18.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:16 the book of the LORD. His decrees—in this case, as revealed by Isaiah (see Ps. 139:16; Rev. 20:12).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 35:1–2 be glad . . . rejoice . . . rejoice with joy and singing. The tone of ch. 35 is established by these verbs and their echoes in v. 10. (See note on 34:1–35:10.) God's people once made their exodus through a desert (Ex. 15:22; Deut. 1:19), but their final homecoming is through a blooming landscape exploding with joy. The curse of Gen. 3:17–19 will be reversed (see Rom. 8:20–21).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 35:3–4 Behold, your God will come. Perseverance is possible because of God's commitment to his people ("your God") and the trustworthiness of his promise ("will come").

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 35:5–7 Then . . . then. The prophet points to the promised future, which began with the first coming of Jesus Christ (Luke 4:16–21; 7:18–23) and will be fully completed at his second coming (Rev. 21:4; 22:1–5). the eyes of the blind shall be opened. The salvation that God will provide includes both spiritual well-being and physical wholeness. This was demonstrated repeatedly in Jesus' own ministry and it will be fully realized in the resurrection bodies of God's people when Christ returns.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 35:8–10 a highway. In an environment of joyful abundance, God's people are led to Zion, singing their way into their eternal home (see 33:8; 34:10).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:1–39:8 Historical Transition: "In Whom Do You Now Trust?" These chapters of history form a bridge between the mostly poetic chs. 1–35 and 40–66. Chapters 36–37 look back to chs. 28–35, proving through Hezekiah that faith in God is rewarded by blessing. Chapters 38–39 provide the context for chs. 40–55, as Hezekiah's foolishness dooms his nation to Babylonian exile. Against the backdrop of divine faithfulness (chs. 36–37) and human faithlessness (chs. 38–39), God stands as his people's only hope. Isaiah 36–39 is paralleled in 2 Kings 18:13–20:19 (see notes).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:1–37:38 When God's people align themselves with his cause, trusting in his power alone, they find him faithful to keep his word.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:1 In the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah. 701 B.C. Sennacherib king of Assyria reigned 705–681 B.C. See 8:5–8. all the fortified cities of Judah. Jerusalem is surrounded, with no hope of human rescue.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:2 Rabshakeh is the title of a high-ranking Assyrian military officer (see ESV footnote).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:4 Thus says the great king. The Rabshakeh pronounces a royal decree, amplified in vv. 13–14, 16. It is answered by a higher royal decree in 37:6, 21–22, and 33. On what do you rest this trust of yours? The word "trust" appears seven times in the Hebrew text of this paragraph (36:4, 5, 6, 7, 9). At the heart of Isaiah's message is a call to God's people to trust his promises during difficulties.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:7 Because the Rabshakeh does not understand that the God of Israel is different from the gods of the pagan high places and altars, he assumes that Hezekiah's destruction of those altars was offensive to the Lord (see 2 Kings 18:4; 2 Chron. 31:1).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:14 he will not be able to deliver you. "Deliver" is the key word in vv. 13–20, occurring seven times (vv. 14, 15, 18, 19, 20).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:15 The LORD will surely deliver us. Hezekiah had taken a public stand of confidence in God's promises.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:18–20 See 10:7–11. Who among all the gods . . . that the LORD should deliver? The Assyrian takes a fatal step, equating the Lord with the gods of this world.

FACT

To eat of your own vine and fig tree was a traditional blessing found in both the historical and prophetic books of Israel (36:16; 1 Kings 4:25). It was a reward for trusting in the Lord. On the other hand, to lose those precious resources was a sign of God's disfavor (Jer. 5:17).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:1–2 Unlike his faithless father Ahaz in ch. 7, Hezekiah responds to a crisis by turning to God and seeking a word from him.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:3 Hezekiah admits that, as the moment of crisis arrives, Judah's strength is failing (compare 66:7–9). But there is no stopping the events now set in motion. The situation is desperate, and God's people have no ability to respond.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:4 to mock the living God. Hezekiah understands what matters most—not the survival of his kingdom but the triumph of what his kingdom stands for: the glory of God. the remnant that is left. The city of Jerusalem (see 36:1).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:7 Behold, I will put a spirit in him. The God whom Sennacherib dismisses (36:18–20) is actually in complete command of Sennacherib. His "great army" (36:2), too impressed with itself to respect "mere words" (36:5), will be dispersed by a rumor. Sennacherib will fall by the sword. See 37:38.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:10 Do not let your God in whom you trust deceive you by promising. The Assyrian makes the issue clear as he intensifies his blasphemy. To him, what counts is not divine promise but human intimidation (see 36:5, 7, 15, 18).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:16 Hezekiah does not put his own safety first, nor does he plead his own righteousness. He bases his prayer on the character and universal sovereignty of God.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:20 save us. Isaiah's message was that the Lord alone saves (see 12:2–3; 25:9; 33:22; 35:4; 43:11; 45:21–22; 51:5–8; 52:10; 56:1; 59:1, 16–17; 63:1, 5). Now Hezekiah gives voice to that faith, bringing the message of the book to a focal point. that all the kingdoms of the earth may know. The ultimate reason why God intervenes for his people is to make them a living proof of his glory.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:21 Because you have prayed to me. Hezekiah expressed his dependence on God by praying and waiting for an answer before acting. Hezekiah is told that his prayer actually affected the way God acted in history.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:22 The word that the LORD has spoken will be the final and decisive word in what has been a war of human words.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:26–29 I determined it long ago. God does not simply respond to events as they happen; those events merely reveal his own long-intended purpose (see 14:24–27; 25:1; 44:6–8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:33–35 He shall not come into this city. God will defend his city for his own glory and out of faithfulness to his covenant with David (see 2 Sam. 7:12–13; Isa. 9:7; 11:1; 55:3–4; Rom. 1:1–5; Rev. 22:16).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:36–38 God keeps his promise, vindicating Hezekiah's faith with a stunning demonstration of his power over his enemies (see 8:8–10; 10:33–34; 31:8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:1–39:8 Man at his best cannot be trusted; as seen in these chapters, he is often self-centered and short-sighted. God himself is the only hope of his people. (See note on 36:1–39:8.)

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:1 In those days. The events of chs. 38–39 take place near the time of the deliverance from Assyria in chs. 36–37. Isaiah 38:6 clarifies that Hezekiah's illness occurred prior to chs. 36–37. Isaiah locates these events here in order to establish the context for chs. 40–55. Hezekiah became sick. Hezekiah began his reign at 25 years of age and reigned for 29 years (2 Kings 18:2). With 15 years added to his life after this illness (Isa. 38:5), he would have been only 39 when this illness struck him ("In the middle of my days," v. 10).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:3 Unlike Hezekiah's God-centered prayer in 37:15–20, now his thoughts withdraw into himself, perhaps even implying that he thinks God is being unfair to him. The faithfulness, wholeheartedness, and good that Hezekiah claims for himself were real (2 Kings 18:5–6), but they were not the whole story (2 Chron. 32:24–31).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:5 the God of David your father. God emphasizes his own covenant faithfulness to David as the basis for his answer to Hezekiah's prayer.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:6 God looks beyond Hezekiah's personal crisis to what matters more—the defense of the city of God.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:9–20 Hezekiah's psalm is clear about this truth: God alone has the power of life and death, and he prefers life.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:22 What is the sign that I shall go up to the house of the LORD? Hezekiah is unwilling to believe the promise without a sign.

FACT

Cut off from the loom. Weaving on a loom involves warp threads, which are attached to the top and bottom of the loom, and weft threads, which are woven through the warp. When the weaver finishes a piece, he cuts the warp threads from the loom. When Hezekiah was ill, he felt as if he had been cut off from the loom of God's presence (38:12).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 39:1 Merodach-baladan was king of Babylon (reigned c. 721–709 B.C.) until Sargon II (reigned c. 721–705 B.C.) of Assyria defeated him. After Sargon died, Merodach-baladan re-established Babylonian independence. His envoys hoped Hezekiah would be his ally.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 39:2 Hezekiah welcomed them gladly. The man whose faith stood firm against Assyrian intimidation now melts in the face of Babylonian flattery. He is foolish not to look for ulterior motives and is unguarded in his openness to their visit.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 39:3 Isaiah's questions reveal he is alert to the danger that the Babylonians could cause Judah.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 39:6 Isaiah foretells the deportation to Babylon. This prepares the way for chs. 40–66, which envision Jerusalem in captivity in Babylon and ready to return.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 39:8 There will be peace and security in my days. Irresponsibly, Hezekiah thinks only of himself (and he was one of the good kings of Judah!). Hezekiah is disappointing as the steward of David's dynasty.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:1–55:13 Encouragement for God's Exiles: "The Glory of the Lord Shall Be Revealed." These visionary chapters are addressed to the exiles in Babylon after the fall of Jerusalem in 586 B.C. (see 39:5–7). Isaiah assures the exiles of God's care for them. These chapters also address Isaiah's times by giving long-term hope of the Messiah's coming.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:1–31 The Lord provides a comforting promise of hope for his brokenhearted people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:1 my people . . . your God. Though their unbelief has brought them low, God still identifies with his people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:2 Speak tenderly. God aims to win their hearts back.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:4 This poetic language reflects the rough terrain as one approaches Jerusalem from the east. It also describes personal repentance and social reformation, remaking the world as a place fit for the coming King.

FACT

The highways of the ancient Near East were not paved like many modern highways around the world today. Rather, they were maintained by the people living along the roads. They did their best to keep the roads level and free of obstacles (see 40:3).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:5 The glory is revealed (or seen) as God leads his people (see Ex. 16:7). all flesh shall see it. It will not be a private viewing for the remnant only, but out in front of the whole world (see Isa. 52:7–10). From this promise of God's presence flow all of God's gracious promises, and from this divine purpose flows the whole of history. for the mouth of the LORD has spoken. The fulfillment of this comforting promise depends not on favorable historical trends but only on the promise of God (see 55:10–11).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:9 cities of Judah. The Jewish exiles will return to the Promised Land, for that is where the divine Messiah is to be born (see 48:20; Mic. 5:2).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:15–17 a drop from a bucket. Israel may think she could never overcome all the nations of mankind, but they are as nothing to God.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:18–20 God alone is God. Isaiah sarcastically describes the process of making an idol.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:25–26 The Jewish exiles in Babylon were surrounded by pagan religions, many of which worshiped astrological phenomena. By contrast, the Holy One of Israel has no equal in his power (v. 12), wisdom (vv. 13–14), immensity (vv. 15–17), sovereignty (vv. 22–23), and authority (v. 25). Thus only Israel's God is worthy of worship, for he created, controls, and preserves what the pagans foolishly worship. not one is missing. About 5,000 stars were visible at night in ancient Israel. Today, however, astronomers estimate that there are more than 400 billion stars in the Milky Way galaxy, and that there are 125 billion galaxies in the universe. The total number of stars is estimated at 1x1022 or 10 billion trillions. Moreover, the God who created all of these, the Holy One of Israel, even calls them all by name and ensures that "not one is missing." Such a God will surely never forget even one of his people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:27 Jacob . . . Israel. God is true to his covenant, despite his people's unbelief (see Gen. 35:9–15).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:30–31 Even youths. Human strength fails, even at its best. Only God can provide the strength needed for life's challenges.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:1–20 God alone guides history, for his glory and for the benefit of his people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:1 let the peoples renew their strength. Let the unbelieving nations try to match the strength God gives his believing people (40:31). let us together draw near for judgment. God invites the nations to defend their own made-up explanations of history.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:2 one from the east. Cyrus the Great, leader of the rising Persian Empire, soon to conquer Babylon (see 44:24–45:7). The Lord gives up (that is, gives over) nations before him (that is, before Cyrus). He (the Lord) makes them like dust with his sword (that is, with Cyrus's sword). God is guiding events by his own overruling redemptive purpose.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:4 calling the generations from the beginning. The rise of Cyrus is evidence of one divine plan governing historical events from the beginning. On the first and the last in Isaiah, see also 44:6 and 48:12. The Lord is the one and only God, the ruler of every last bit of history.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:5–7 The nations respond to the upheavals of history by nervously constructing more gods to believe in. But how can "created creators" save?

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:8–9 God reminds his people of his commitments to them. On Israel as the Lord's servant, see note on 42:1–9. Mention of God's having chosen Jacob and of Israel's status as the offspring of Abraham speaks clearly of God's promises (Gen. 17:7; 22:17). This reminds the Jewish exiles in Babylon that God has purposes for what they are enduring.

FACT

The craftsmen and goldsmiths mentioned in 41:7 were fashioning idols. The craftsman would begin by making a mold from an existing image. He would then cast the new image in metal. The goldsmith would then add gold plating, smooth it out with a hammer, and burnish it to give it a shine.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:10 You is the people as a whole (called "Jacob" in v. 8). Unlike the terrified nations of v. 5, the people of God can be fearless because of their faith in him (see vv. 13–14).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:14–16 worm. . . . threshing sledge. The Lord makes his seemingly insignificant people into a force powerful enough to remove even great obstacles to the accomplishment of his will.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:14 Redeemer. There are two Hebrew words for "redeem" in Isaiah. Both carry the idea of delivering and protecting. The term used here appears frequently in this part of Isaiah (compare 43:1; 44:6; 48:17, 20; 52:9; 62:12). The focus is on God's wanting to rescue his people from their captivity and to create the conditions under which they can flourish (compare Ex. 6:6; 15:13).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:17 the poor and needy. The people of God refuse the false salvations of idolatry. They look to God alone in faith. They are sustained as they make their way to Zion after release from exile. and there is none. With every human resource exhausted, only God remains.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:21–29 God challenges the false claims of human idols.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:22 Let them bring them. That is, let the nations bring their idols, which cannot move without human help. Tell us. "Us" refers to God and the people of Israel. what is to happen. Canaanite and Mesopotamian religions claimed prophetic powers. Here and in the following chapters God claims that he alone can accurately predict the future. This shows that he is the only true God (see 44:7–8; 45:21; 46:9–10).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:23 that we may be dismayed and terrified. Human religion is intimidating but is empty, while the gospel is comforting (40:1) and offers good and sufficient reasons for faith.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:25 he shall call upon my name. Cyrus used diplomatic God-talk (Ezra 1:1–4) but he was not a believer (Isa. 45:4–5). Cyrus's policies, however, were part of God's strategy to reveal himself in history.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:26 God points to the failure of idolatrous religions to foretell the rise of Cyrus. that we might know . . . that we might say. "We" refers to God and his people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:29 they are all a delusion. That is, all who look to the idols of their own making for guidance and stability. God thus concludes the debate.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:1–9 This is the first of four Servant Songs, fulfilled in Jesus Christ (see also 49:1–13; 50:4–9; 52:13–53:12). Isaiah sprinkles references to "the servant of the Lord" throughout chs. 40–55. Often it is a title for the people as a whole (41:8–9; 42:19; 43:10; 44:1–2, 21, 26; 45:4; 48:20), but at times the servant is a specific person within Israel who is distinct from the whole, with a calling to serve Israel and beyond (49:5–6; 50:10; 52:13; 53:11). The second Servant Song (49:1–13), which clarifies that the servant is distinct from Israel, also calls him Israel (49:3). In these cases, the servant stands as a representative of the whole people. This shows why it is correct to believe that the servant is a messianic figure. First, in the Davidic covenant, David's heirs represent and embody the people as a whole. Israel is God's "son" (Ex. 4:22–23), and the king becomes God's "son" (2 Sam. 7:14; see Ps. 89:26–27). Therefore the "servant" here in Isaiah follows the pattern of David's heirs. Second, the servant expands his rule throughout the Gentile world (Isa. 42:1–4; 52:13–15), which is the work of the Davidic Messiah in chs. 7–12. Third, later prophets describe an heir of David, and especially the Messiah, as the "servant" (Ezek. 34:23–24; 37:25; Zech. 3:8). In addition to his royal function, the servant also has a prophetic role (Isa. 49:1; 50:4, 10) and a priestly one (53:11; compare Ps. 110:4). God will restore the exiles and then fulfill the mission of Israel by means of the servant, whom he will raise up at some unspecified time.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:1 Behold my servant. In contrast to the idols ("Behold, you," 41:24) and the idol-worshiping nations ("Behold, they," 41:29), God presents his servant as the only hope of the nations (cited in Matt. 12:18–21). My Spirit is the servant's power, in contrast with the "empty wind" of Isa. 41:29 (see 11:2; 61:1). justice. The key word in 42:1–4. In the Bible, justice means fulfilling mutual obligations in a manner consistent with God's moral law. Biblical justice creates the perfect human society (see 1:17; 16:5; 32:1–2; 61:8). The messianic servant is the only hope for a truly just world. This Messiah will bring individual spiritual forgiveness and health (see 1:18) and will establish perfect justice throughout all earthly governments.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:6–7 The servant is a covenant for the people (see 49:8), that is, he represents the people in God's covenant. He will become a light for the nations (see 49:6), bringing the knowledge of God to them; this probably lies behind Jesus' saying in John 8:12. to open the eyes . . . to bring out. Liberation from Babylonian exile provides an image for spiritual liberation.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:10–17 God calls all the nations to rejoice in his triumphant self-vindication.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:16 God's ways are so far beyond human understanding that those he delivers might as well be blind, in darkness and on rough terrain, but God leads them through (see Ex. 13:21–22).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:18–43:21 God promises to help his confused people understand that he is their only Savior.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:18–19 In vv. 1–4, the servant of the Lord is the Savior of the world; here, the servant is Jacob/Israel (see 41:8–10; 42:24; see note on 42:1–9).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:1 Fear not. Knowing what they deserve, the people should fear. Because of their Redeemer's choice and promise, though, there is no need to fear. redeemed. See note on 41:14. you are mine. What defines God's people is not their guilty blindness (42:18–25) but the grace of the One who says, "You are mine" (see Ex. 6:7).

FACT

Long-term imprisonment was not as common in the ancient world as it is today. Prisons housed criminals awaiting trial. If there was no room in the jail, a pit or hole would be dug to hold the prisoner until his fate was decided (42:22).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:2 You designates the whole people (v. 1).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:3–4 God's people are secured by his love. I give Egypt as your ransom. Isaiah uses the idea of a ransom price, which is sometimes conveyed by "redeemed" (v. 1; see note on 41:14). God will direct history for the sake of his people. "Egypt" refers to the exodus.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:7 whom I created for my glory. God's people become living proof and demonstration of his glory, which is his ultimate goal in their salvation (see Eph. 1:3–6).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:10–13 In this great trial (vv. 8–9), God's people are his witnesses that he alone is God. Nineteen words in the Hebrew text of these verses are in a first-person singular form (I, me, my). Israel's exclusive loyalty to the Lord, and their witness to the nations, defines their identity.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:16–17 Isaiah's language recalls the exodus through the Red Sea (see Ex. 14:21–30). makes . . . brings. The present-tense verbs imply that the great exodus is an example of what God still can do for his people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:18–19 The original exodus did not exhaust God's power but was merely an example of how he could deliver his people from distress. The Jewish exiles should not live in the past but should look for God to bring them home from Babylon through another "exodus."

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:20–21 God's final objective is that his people might declare his praise.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:22–44:23 God promises to pour his life-giving Spirit upon his weary people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:23–24 While in Babylonian exile, the Jewish people were unable to continue the Mosaic sacrificial system. God did not demand impossible observances during that time, but they burdened him with their spiritual indifference.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:25 I, I am he. God declares that he alone can save Israel. for my own sake. God will help his people even though they do not deserve it.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:1–2 God reminds his people how fully he has committed himself to them. Jeshurun (probably meaning "upright one") is a name for Israel (see Deut. 32:15; 33:26).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:3–4 The “utter destruction” of 43:28 reduces God’s people to thirsty land and dry ground, but under the outpouring of my Spirit, they thrive and multiply (see 32:15; 65:17–25; Joel 2:28–32; Luke 24:49). your offspring . . . your descendants. The blessing continues through the generations.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:5 There will be one enthusiastic conversion to the Lord after another.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:9–11 Their witnesses are the worshipers of idols, in contrast with “my witnesses” in v. 8. put to shame . . . put to shame . . . put to shame. The nothingness of idols dooms their worshipers to disgrace.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:12 He fashions it. Contrast “he who formed you” in 43:1 and “I formed you” in 44:21. his strong arm. This is meant ironically, in view of 40:10–11, 26, 29–31. his strength fails. The human god-maker is himself limited.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:14 The false gods depend on human purpose for their existence.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:18–20 As in v. 9, God judges idolatrous worship. abomination. See Deut. 27:15.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:21 I formed you. Contrast “all who fashion idols” in v. 9 and “he fashions it” in v. 12 (see 45:9, 11).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:22 like a cloud . . . like mist. Before God’s grace, sins fade away to nothing. return to me, for I have redeemed you. Repentance is motivated by grace (see Rom. 2:4).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:23 The redemption of God’s people will be the joy of the whole creation, because God’s people will rule it wisely and well (see 35:1–2; 49:13; 55:12–13; Rom. 8:19–21).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:24–45:25 God names Cyrus the Great as the one through whom he will restore postexilic Jerusalem.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:24 you. The people, that is, Israel/Jacob (v. 21).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:27 I will dry up your rivers. Probably a reference back to the miraculous crossing of the Red Sea at the exodus (see 11:15; 43:16–17; 51:10).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:28 Cyrus is predicted by name, validating God's claim to be the One guiding history (see a similar prophetic naming in 1 Kings 13:1–3). She shall be built. Cyrus's policy to rebuild Jerusalem expresses the deeper purpose of God (revealed in Isa. 44:26), reversing 6:11 (see Ezra 1:1–5; 6:1–5; Isa. 45:13).

FACT

The prophecy about Cyrus. King Cyrus of Persia would one day make it possible for the Jews to return home from their exile in Babylon (see the book of Ezra). Isaiah predicted this great event, even mentioning Cyrus by name (Isa. 44:28; 45:1), some 150 years before Cyrus's time.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:1 his anointed. This later became a specifically messianic title (Dan. 9:25–26), though it was not that in Isaiah. Here it denotes Cyrus as God's instrument for his purposes, a reminder that God rules all things.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:2–3 Cyrus's victories reveal God at work in history, executing his own plan.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:4 I call you by your name, I name you. The prediction of Cyrus by name (44:28; 45:1) is meant to awaken the faith of my servant Jacob, and Israel my chosen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:5–6 The fulfillment of prophecy proves that the Lord alone is God. He wants the whole world to know this.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:7 The Lord's creative will and wise purposes stand behind everything. Therefore, his people should not be discouraged when events seem contrary to his promises.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:8 God's sovereignty over all things, as affirmed in v. 7, is the only hope for salvation and righteousness in this world.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:14 in chains. Isaiah uses the imagery of prisoners of war to describe future Gentile conversion. Surely God is in you. For the Gentiles who believe, their new allegiance is to the Lord himself (v. 23). Faith in him also involves humble identification with his people (compare Ps. 68:29, 31; Isa. 2:2–4; Zech. 8:23). there is no other. See Isa. 45:6.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:15 How God achieves his saving purpose will cause wonder.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:17–18 The promise of everlasting salvation (v. 17) should be believed because the One making the promise is God (v. 18).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:22 be saved. Contrast "a god that cannot save" (v. 20). The idolatrous world is not rejected but invited. This invitation goes not only to Jewish people but to all the ends of the earth.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:23–25 God's goal is a world without idols. He will be either the Savior or the Judge of everyone (see Rom. 14:11). all the offspring of Israel. All of God's people, Jew and Gentile alike (see Gal. 6:16).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 46:1–47:15 The Lord will humiliate the idols of human self-worship and will demonstrate that he is the one true God.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 46:1–2 Bel . . . Nebo. Isaiah aims his argument at two of Babylon's chief gods. these things you carry. Images of these gods were carried in procession at the annual New Year's festival in Babylon. But rather than lead the way into the future, Babylon will go into captivity.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 46:3–4 borne by me. While the idols must be carried, the God of Israel carries his people. the remnant. Those who survived the Babylonian captivity. from before your birth . . . even to your old age. There is never one moment when God fails his people. I am he . . . I will carry and will save. God emphasizes his personal commitments to his people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 46:6–7 Created gods are dependent on their creators. they carry it. If a god has to be carried, how can it help its worshipers? it cannot move. If a god cannot move, how can it intervene?

FACT

Feeding idols? In Isaiah's day, people treated idols almost as if they were human. Some even fed, bathed, and dressed their idols. Isaiah spoke of how foolish it was for people to worship something that they themselves had made (46:6).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 46:8–11 recall it to mind. The people must remember God and follow him. a bird of prey from the east. Cyrus.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 46:12–13 my righteousness . . . my salvation . . . my glory. God does not need his people's faith to carry him forward.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 47:1 The virgin daughter of Babylon . . . tender and delicate is Babylon itself, portrayed as a self-indulgent girl now subjected to the harsh realities of judgment. Babylon came to symbolize world culture in contempt of God (see Revelation 18).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 47:2 God warns Babylon about the end of its luxurious selfishness and the beginning of slavery and exile.

FACT

To pass through the rivers (47:2) would have been humiliating for most people of Isaiah's day. Since there were few bridges, people had to find shallow places, called fords, when crossing a river. It was the duty of slaves to carry their masters across.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 47:4 The only safety in a world under judgment is the Lord himself, who acts for the sake of his people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 47:5–7 Sit in silence. Babylon is left with nothing to say. Though God used the Babylonians to discipline his own people, he still held Babylon accountable for their cruel abuses and arrogance (see 10:5–19).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 47:8 I am, and there is no one besides me. Pride is the cause of Babylon's disrespect for God (see 41:4; 44:6; 45:5–6, 18, 21–22; 46:9). All nations, without exception, are accountable to God.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 47:11 The Hebrew word for "wickedness" (v. 10) is the same one used for "evil" in but evil shall come upon you. This is the measure-for-measure "vengeance" of v. 3.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:1–22 Despite Israel's stubborn unbelief, God pursues his purpose of redemption. He will free them from Babylon for his own sake.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:1 Hear. The command (repeated in vv. 12, 14, 16) calls Jacob to hear the word of God with the kind of hearing that produces action.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:2 the LORD of hosts is his name. See note on 1 Sam. 1:3.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:9–11 The deepest motive in God's heart is his own glory. He does not punish his unbelieving people as they deserve, for that would diminish the display of his compassion (see Ps. 78:37–41; 103:8–14).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:12–13 The God of the gospel is the commanding presence in the universe.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:14–15 God reaffirms his plan to use Cyrus for his own redemptive purpose. among them. That is, the idols. The LORD loves him. God is not reluctant to use Cyrus.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:16 And now the Lord GOD has sent me, and his Spirit. This unidentified speaker appears more clearly in 49:1–6 as the servant of the Lord (see 42:1–13). Unlike Cyrus, the servant's power is not a human sword but the divine Spirit (see 11:2; 61:1).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:17–19 who teaches you to profit. Or, "who teaches you for your benefit." righteousness like the waves of the sea. Covering sin again and again. like the sand . . . like its grains. See Gen. 15:5 and 22:17.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:20–21 They did not thirst. The return of the exiles is a second exodus, marked again by God's miraculous provision (see Ex. 17:1–7; Ps. 105:41).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:1–50:3 The trusting servant of the Lord will save his despairing people with a salvation available for the whole world.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:1–13 The servant of the Lord will restore Israel and save the nations. This is the second of four Servant Songs, describing the Messiah (see note on 42:1–9).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:1 O coastlands . . . you peoples from afar. More nations are claimed by God's grace. He named my name shows God's personal care for his servant (see 43:1; 45:3–4).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:2 God alone prepared and equipped the servant. my mouth like a sharp sword. Unlike Cyrus, the servant conquers by the truth of his word (see 11:4; Rev. 19:15, 21).

FACT

A mouth like a sharp sword. The Bible often describes either the mouth or words coming from the mouth as a sword (49:2). One Hebrew word for mouth actually means "edge," as in "edge of a sword." It is certainly an accurate picture of the power of words, for good or ill (James 3:1–12).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:3 my servant, Israel. Comparing vv. 5–6, this servant Israel restores the nation Israel. The servant is the true embodiment of what the nation failed to be, namely, the one in whom I will be glorified.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:5–6 It is too light a thing. It is too small a task to redeem only the tribes of Jacob (ethnic Israel). It is clear here that the servant, though he embodies Israel (v. 3), is nevertheless distinct from Israel. He has a calling to serve Israel and beyond. that my salvation may reach to the end of the earth. A clear statement of salvation’s worldwide scope, a theme that Acts develops by quoting this text (see Acts 1:8; 13:47).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:7 Unlike the kings of this world, the servant of the Lord conquers by his sufferings (see 50:6; 52:14–15).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:13 The servant’s triumph inspires great joy (see 44:23; 55:12–13; Rom. 8:19–21).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:14–16 The LORD is more attentive to his people than a mother is to her child.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:22–23 God moves history for the benefit of his people (see 45:14; 60:10–14).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:24–26 The people’s skeptical question in v. 24 is answered by the Lord’s strong assertion in vv. 25–26. His people’s enemies will eat their own flesh . . . be drunk with their own blood, as if under siege conditions. Then all flesh shall know that I am the LORD. This is God’s ultimate purpose. This phrase (“all flesh shall know”) comes from Ex. 6:7 and 14:18. It occurs elsewhere in Isaiah (e.g., Isa. 7:20; 45:3, 6; 49:23; 60:16).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 50:1 The Jewish exiles feel abandoned (see 40:27; 49:14). But their hardships are not due to God’s failure. They sinned their way into exile.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 50:2–3 I dry up the sea. See Ex. 14:21; 15:8.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 50:4–51:8 The listening servant will sustain his listening people with a salvation that will last forever.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 50:4–9 This is the third of four Servant Songs, which anticipate the Messiah (see note on 42:1–9). This song focuses on the servant as a rejected prophet.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 50:4 The Lord GOD. This title appears four times in this song (vv. 4, 5, 7, 9). The power of God takes the form of a servant. he awakens my ear. Unlike the guilty silence of God's people (v. 2), the servant is responsive to God's word (compare 48:8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 50:6 those who strike. The description of the servant's rejection intensifies as the Servant Songs progress (49:7; 50:6; 52:14–53:9).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 50:7 my face like a flint. The servant chose his sufferings willingly. He moves forward with determination, confident in God's overruling help.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 50:8–9 As 53:4–6 will make clear, the servant did not suffer because he was guilty but because others were guilty.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:1–3 The first incentive for obeying the voice of the servant is that, if God could make a great nation from one barren couple (Abraham and Sarah), then he can revive barren Zion as a joyful new Eden.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:4–6 The second incentive (see vv. 1–3) is that the truth of the Lord is going out to the nations with a saving power that will outlast the universe.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:7–8 The third incentive (see vv. 1–3) is that, like the servant of the Lord, though believers are reviled, they will also be eternally vindicated.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:9–52:12 God's power for his people is always active, opening new ways forward through the gospel.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:9–11 God's oppressed people pray for a new exodus into eternal joy.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:9 Awake, awake. The discouraged people of God think of him as asleep. as in days of old. That is, the days of the exodus. Rahab is Egypt (see 30:7). The nation is portrayed as an evil monster, slain by the power of God.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:12–13 The Creator God criticizes his people's fears. I, I am he answers the double "Awake, awake" of v. 9.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:15–16 I am the LORD your God . . . You are my people. God's covenant with his people defines both him and them.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:17 Wake yourself, wake yourself. In v. 9, the people think God needs to be awakened to action. In reality, they themselves need to awaken.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:1 Awake, awake. God turns the cry of his people (51:9) back on them. God has prepared a bright future, to be entered into by faith. put on your strength. That is, live as what God says you are (see Eph. 4:22–24).

FACT

The head of the street (51:20) referred to prominent corners or intersections within a city. Few cities were laid out according to a specific plan. Most had buildings scattered randomly, with narrow streets and dead-end alleys.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:4 went down at the first into Egypt. From the time of Joseph to the time of Moses. Assyrian oppressed them. From c. 733–627 B.C.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:7 Isaiah prompts the people of God to welcome the approach of every messenger of God (see Rom. 10:14–15). the feet of him who brings good news. As 2 Sam. 18:24–27 shows, this refers to someone who announces a great deed, usually a victory. The longed-for message of peace . . . good news of happiness . . . salvation is summed up in one glad cry: Your God reigns. God's victory over every oppression is now a reality (see Ps. 97:1; Acts 13:30–33; Rev. 19:6).

FACT

In Isaiah’s time, the feet of him who brings good news referred to a messenger announcing a great deed, usually a military victory. Paul quotes 52:7 in Rom. 10:15, as he urges believers to spread the good news of salvation in Christ, freely available for all peoples around the globe. The word “gospel” means “good news.”

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:10 The power of salvation spreads to the ends of the earth (see 49:6). before the eyes of all the nations. Restoring Jerusalem is a means to this great end.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:13–53:12 The fourth and final Servant Song, frequently quoted in the NT (e.g., Acts 8:30–35; 1 Pet. 2:22–25), describes the Messiah (see note on Isa. 42:1–9). Isaiah finally explains how the Holy One can bless sinful people: all the promises of God will come true for them because the suffering and triumphant servant removes their guilt before God by his sacrifice.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:13 act wisely. Succeed at his task (see ESV footnote). In 6:1, high and lifted up describes God. In John 12:38–41, John quotes from both Isaiah 6 and this fourth Servant Song and goes on to say that these two passages show that Isaiah saw Jesus’ glory. This shows both that Jesus is indeed God and that this Servant Song is describing Jesus the Messiah.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:14–15 As the servant was rejected by many, so he will sprinkle many nations to make them clean (see the ministry of sprinkling in Ex. 29:21; Lev. 4:1–21; 14:7; 16:14–19; Heb. 9:13–14, 19–22). that which has not been told them. That is, until revealed uniquely in the gospel.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 53:1 Us refers to the believing remnant of Israel (quoted in John 12:37–38; Rom. 10:16). The arm of the LORD is the power of God in action (see Isa. 40:10; 51:9; 62:8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 53:3 a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief. “Acquainted with” could also be translated “knowing.”

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 53:4–6 These verses are the heart of the passage.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 53:4 Surely introduces the servant's sufferings on the people's behalf. Acting as their substitute, he took upon himself the consequences of their sin: griefs and sorrows (see Matt. 8:14–17). smitten by God, and afflicted. God is the ultimate source of this faithful servant's suffering.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 53:5 our transgressions, our iniquities. His sufferings were caused by human sin (see Matt. 8:17; 1 Pet. 2:24). pierced, crushed, chastisement, wounds. Isaiah emphasizes how severely God punished the rejected servant for the sins of mankind.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 53:6 All we . . . every one. All people contributed to his pain. like sheep. Helpless. the LORD has laid on him the iniquity of us all. See Lev. 16:21–22; 2 Cor. 5:21; 1 Pet. 2:24.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 53:10 the will of the LORD. There was a divine purpose for the human cruelty toward the servant (see Luke 24:26; Acts 2:23; 4:27–28). his soul. He suffered not just in his body but in his deepest inner self. an offering for guilt. The servant's sacrificial death set sinners free from their guilt before God (see Lev. 5:15–16). he shall see his offspring. Those who strayed like sheep (Isa. 53:6) return as children. he shall prolong his days. Although resurrection is not explicit here, it is the natural meaning.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 53:11 he shall see and be satisfied. The outcome of the servant's sufferings is the satisfaction of obvious accomplishment. by his knowledge. His experiential knowledge of grief (v. 3, see ESV footnote). many. His triumph spreads out beyond the remnant of Israel to "a great multitude that no one could number" (Rev. 7:9; see Rom. 5:15). to be accounted righteous. See Rom. 4:11–12.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:1–55:13 The everlasting love of God will heal all his people's sorrows, if they will accept the terms of his glorious grace.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:1 O barren one. The old covenant people of God, who failed to bless the world, were like a barren woman. Under the new covenant, God’s people become the mother of a growing family (see Gal. 4:25–28).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:3 your offspring will possess the nations. See Gen. 22:17; 28:14. Through his people, knowledge of God will spread throughout the world.

FACT

Enlarging the tent. Tents were assembled from strips of goat hair about a yard wide. As the family grew, more strips of goat hair would be sewn onto the tent to make more room. Like an expanding tent, Israel would go from desolate exile to becoming increasingly great among the nations of the earth (54:2).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:6 the LORD has called you like a wife. The future of God’s people is like the joy and passion of a marriage (see Rev. 19:7; 21:2). deserted and grieved. God’s discipline of his unfaithful people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:7–8 For a brief moment I deserted you. The Babylonian exile did not seem “brief” at the time (see Psalm 74), but it was momentary in comparison to God’s everlasting love. with great compassion. Lavish displays of God’s eternal love more than offset his momentary discipline.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:10 God’s love for his people is much greater than his wrath, and it is eternally unchanging. my covenant of peace. See Ezek. 34:25–31, where this term describes a renewed covenant with God after the exile.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:13 peace. People will find the security and fullness they have always desired.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:15–17 Behold, I. God alone accomplishes the promised victory. This is the heritage. All the promises of ch. 54. no weapon that is fashioned against you shall succeed. God will defeat every enemy, no matter how powerful.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:1 Come, everyone who thirsts. The invitation is urgent in tone and universal in scope. It addresses a deep spiritual longing to "seek the LORD while he may be found" (v. 6). This thirst is not a problem but an opportunity (see John 7:37–39).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:2 Why do you spend your money? Unbelief is costly and unfulfilling.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:3 an everlasting covenant. This term appears in 61:8; Jer. 32:40; Ezek. 37:26, referring to the experience of the returned exiles.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:5 You addresses the messianic servant. a nation that you do not know. That is, people previously outside of God's covenant (see Eph. 2:11–12).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:6 Seek the LORD while he may be found. Since this is God's offer, he is free to withdraw it. People should not be foolish and delay (see Ps. 32:6).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:7–9 let the wicked forsake his way . . . let him return. Thorough repentance is required. God's thoughts are not your thoughts—that is, they are as high above man's thoughts as the heavens are above the earth (see Ps. 145:3; 1 Cor. 2:9).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:10–11 As the rain and the snow cannot fail to nourish the earth, so God's word of promise cannot fail to bring his people into the richness and fullness of eternal life. The word of God not only describes a glorious future, it is God's appointed means to create that future (see Ezek. 37:1–14).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:12–13 The prophet concludes chs. 40–55 with a vision of the triumph of God's grace. The effects of sin and the fall (see Gen. 3:17; 6:11–13) are corrected and "the creation itself will be set free from its bondage to corruption and obtain the freedom of the glory of the children of God" (Rom. 8:21).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:1–66:24 How to Prepare for the Coming Glory: "Hold Fast My Covenant." Isaiah helps readers know how to be God's servants who will live with him forever.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:1 This verse can be seen as a summary of chs. 1–55. Keep justice, and do righteousness echoes the ideals of chs. 1–39. Be revealed sums up the promises of chs. 40–55 (see 5:7, 16; 9:7; 46:13; 51:5–8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:2 The Sabbath represents a lifestyle of devotion to the Lord (see Ex. 31:12–17; Ezek. 20:18–20). On the Sabbath command as it applies to Christian believers, see note on Rom. 14:5; also notes on Matt. 12:6–12; Mark 2:27–28; John 5:10; Gal. 4:10; Col. 2:17; Heb. 4:8–10.

FACT

Keeping the Sabbath was an important expression of faith for Israelites (56:2). All of life was organized around the weekly Sabbath. It also set them apart from the surrounding nations, none of whom kept the seventh day of the week as a holy day.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:3–5 The foreigner does not need to fear God's rejection if he has joined himself to the Lord. The eunuch, once he is a believer, receives an eternal place with God (v. 5) that is better than producing physical descendants. The restrictions of Ex. 12:43, 45 and Deut. 23:1 no longer apply.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:8 Yet others not only includes the foreigners and eunuchs of v. 3 but extends as far as the "everyone" of v. 6 and "all peoples" of v. 7 (see John 10:16).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:9–57:13 Selfishly complacent leaders, morally lax people, and idol-worshiping hypocrites have no place in God's kingdom.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:9–12 In contrast with "the outcasts of Israel" (v. 8) who possess an endless hope, the self-serving leaders of ancient Israel are warned of coming judgment.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:1–2 The righteous man perishes. Isaiah notices that there are fewer and fewer righteous people, and no one lays it to heart, that is, people do not understand that this indicates a withdrawal of God's blessing.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:3 The Jewish people’s physical descent from Abraham is meaningless, because their pagan morals reveal their true spiritual identity.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:6 The smooth stones are objects of pagan worship. Shall I relent for these things? If the people are behaving this way, God will not continue to refrain from punishing them (see 42:8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:7 you have set your bed. Idol worship is like having a spiritual affair.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:9–10 Idolatry also involved futile political alliances with foreign powers (see 30:1–17; 31:1–9). even to Sheol. The search for human alliances knew no bounds. Indeed, the people found it energizing.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:12 I will declare your righteousness. See 58:1–5 and 64:6.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:14–21 God opens the way into his presence for all who are repentant.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:15 High and lifted up describes God’s glory as king. See 6:1; compare 52:13, which uses this term of the “servant” (see note). God dwells in the high and holy place, yet he also dwells with him who is of a contrite and lowly spirit.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:16–19 God knows how much discipline the human heart can take (see 1 Pet. 5:10). He heals those who mourn the poor spiritual condition of his people (see Isa. 66:10). Peace, peace, to the far and to the near includes both Jews and Gentiles (see Eph. 2:11–22).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 58:2–4 The worshipers of v. 2 are pretending to delight in the Lord in order to gain favor with him. Meanwhile, they are mistreating their fellow Israelites: oppress all your workers . . . hit with a wicked fist. For more on this theme, see the book of Amos.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 58:6–7 God defines the kind of spiritual faithfulness that brings his blessing (compare 1:17; James 1:27).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 58:8–9a Then . . . Then. The right kind of worship brings God's presence and blessing. Unlike false gods, the Lord responds (see 64:5a). Compare 65:1.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 58:10b–12 then. God reaffirms his readiness to bless his obedient people.

Finger-pointing (58:9) was a very serious gesture that had several potentially negative meanings. It could be taken as an official accusation against someone or could mean that the person was the subject of gossip (Prov. 6:12–13).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 58:13–14 If . . . if . . . then. For a third time in ch. 58, God clarifies the kind of religious practice that brings his blessing. the Sabbath. See note on 56:2. the heights of the earth. Social prestige among the nations (see Deut. 26:16–19).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:2 Iniquities and sins create a barrier between God and his people (see Heb. 12:5–11).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:3–8 These sins, which keep God's presence away, are not religious but social. they conceive mischief and give birth to iniquity (v. 4). Sin comes naturally. Their feet run to evil (v. 7). See Rom. 3:15–17.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:9 Therefore. Isaiah leads his people away from blaming God (as implied in v. 1) to accepting responsibility for their problems.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:10 We grope for the wall . . . we stumble at noon describes moral confusion.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:11 We all growl like bears is a picture of anguish.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:12–13 For our transgressions. The people acknowledge that their guilt is the cause of their miseries (compare Ps. 51:3).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:14–60:22 For his own glory, the Lord will make his people the predominant culture of a glorious new world.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:14 Guilty mankind has so completely rejected justice, righteousness, truth, and uprightness that those who follow the Lord are persecuted.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:15b–16 it displeased him . . . his own arm brought him salvation. God, who is offended by sin, is the only one able to accomplish salvation. his righteousness upheld him. The Lord's faithfulness to his covenant promises was expressed in what he did.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:18 According to their deeds. The Lord will repay with perfect justice. to the coastlands. There is no hiding place for those facing judgment (see Amos 9:2–4).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:19 the west . . . the rising of the sun. These opposite directions include the entire world (see 45:6; 52:10; Mal. 1:11). People from all around the world will know the Lord and fear his name (see 2 Chron. 6:33; Ps. 102:15).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:20 The Redeemer is the only alternative to God's wrath (see 59:18; and note on 41:14).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:21 And as for me. God declares his commitment to his people. My covenant with them is the messianic servant, the Redeemer of v. 20 (see 42:6; 49:8). My Spirit that is upon you, that is, upon the Messiah (see 61:1).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:1 Arise, shine addresses Zion (see 59:20; 60:14). The bright future of God's people calls for cheerful expectancy. your light has come. See 58:8. the glory of the LORD. See 40:5.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:2 God will make a clear public distinction between those who are his and those who are not his (see Ex. 8:22–23).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:4 Lift up your eyes. Believers can expect to see many new believers entering Zion (see 43:5–7; 49:18; 54:1–8; 66:18–23).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:5–7 There will be a wonderful reordering of society, so that God's people become the predominant culture, honored by all nations. They will be a blessing, as promised in Gen. 12:1–3.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:8–9 These that fly like a cloud are rapidly approaching foreign ships bringing new believers who are devoted to the Lord. the ships of Tarshish. See 2:16 and 23:1. The nations see in the beauty of God's people the beauty of the Holy One of Israel. He glorifies his name by glorifying the people who bear his name.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:10 Instead of persecuting God's people, the nations will build them up. your walls. Zion, the city of God. See Neh. 2:7–8 for a short-term fulfillment of this promise, and Acts 15:12–16 for a longer-term, spiritual fulfillment.

FACT

The phrase ships of Tarshish (60:9) describes huge ships, able to go on voyages as long as three years (1 Kings 10:22). Isaiah says that ships like these will someday bring the nations to Israel to worship the Lord.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:11 Your gates shall be open continually because there will be no more war or threat of war, or even the threat of stealing by thieves (see 2:4; 26:1–4; 33:20–22). This will be the new Jerusalem (Rev. 21:25).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:13 The glory of the nations will beautify, not profane, the worship of God.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:16 A poetic picture of the people of God as infants, with other nations caring for them.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:19 the LORD will be your everlasting light. Compare Rev. 21:23.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:21–22 The people of Zion will be righteous, not sinful; secure, not imperiled; fruitful, not disappointing; and influential, not ignored.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 61:1–62:12 The Messiah will preach into existence his new, liberated people, who will pray into existence his new, redeemed world.

FACT

"The Spirit of the Lord GOD is upon me . . . " (61:1). Jesus would quote this verse in Nazareth more than 500 years later (Luke 4:17–21).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 61:1–3 The Spirit of the Lord GOD is upon me. Compare 48:16. The speaker is the messianic servant, who creates a new people by his Spirit-empowered preaching (see 11:2; 59:21). Isaiah explains the goal of Messiah's anointing with seven purpose clauses. the poor. See 11:4; 29:19; Matt. 5:3. to proclaim liberty. See Lev. 25:10. the opening of the prison. The return from Babylonian exile, but also spiritual freedom from sin and Satan. the year of the LORD's favor. A new era of blessing (see Isa. 34:8; 63:4). Quoting this text in Nazareth, Jesus did not include the day of vengeance of our God because the display of God's wrath will not occur until Christ's second coming (Luke 4:18–19; see Isa. 5:25–29; 63:1–6; Acts 17:31; Rev. 6:15–17).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 61:6–7 the priests of the LORD. At long last, Israel will fulfill its role among the nations (Ex. 19:5–6; 1 Pet. 2:9). a double portion (Isa. 61:7). Inheriting twice what was expected.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 61:10–11 The speaker is either the Messiah, Isaiah, or the city of Zion. Since the Lord GOD echoes "The Spirit of the Lord GOD is upon me" (v. 1), it is likely that the Messiah is speaking here. as a bridegroom . . . as a bride. The Messiah will lead his people into the romance of eternal salvation (see Eph. 5:25–27; Rev. 21:2, 9).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 62:1 For Zion's sake. That is, for the sake of the redeemed people of God who dwell in Zion (Jerusalem), the city of God. This emphasis on God acting for the sake of his people lies at the heart of Isaiah's ministry. God will glorify himself in the renewed and increased glory of his people (e.g., 2:2–3; 9:1–3; 26:1–21; 35:1–10; 40:1–5, 65:17–25).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 62:4 This reverses the situation of 60:15; see 6:12; 49:14.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 62:5 Your sons are the loyal inhabitants of Zion (here, the eternal city of God; see Psalm 87). so shall your God rejoice over you. God's delight in his people will be like that of a bridegroom's delight in his bride.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 62:6–7 Jerusalem here is the new city of God, where his people will dwell in safety and righteousness forever (see Rev. 21:2, 10).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 62:10 The people . . . the peoples is Israel plus all others willing to join them (see 56:8; 57:19; John 10:16).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 62:12 they. The people and peoples of v. 10. You refers to Zion.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:1–14 God comforts his people with a vision of his victory over all evil in the future and of his loving goodness in the past.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:1 Speaking as a watchman on the wall, Isaiah marvels at the Messiah marching toward Zion as a victorious warrior (see 52:8; 62:6). Edom, the unbelieving nation southeast of Jerusalem, represents the world's contempt for God's promises (see 34:1–7; Ezekiel 35; Mal. 1:2–4). Bozrah. The capital city of Edom (see Isa. 34:6). speaking in righteousness. His claim to be mighty to save is trustworthy and true. No Edom exists that can defeat him (see Rev. 17:14).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:3 I have trodden the winepress. Trampling of grapes is an image of judgment. God's final judgment on human sin is a harvest of justice (see Joel 3:13; Rev. 14:18–20; 19:13, 15). alone . . . no one. The Messiah alone wins the victory for his people (see Isa. 59:15b–18).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:4 the day of vengeance was in my heart. See note on 61:1–3. my year of redemption. See note on 41:14.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:7 I will recount. Recalling God's history of mercies toward Israel.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:9 In all their affliction he was afflicted. God was sorrowful over the suffering of his people, even though it was their own sin that caused it. See Ex. 2:23–25; Judg. 10:16. the angel of his presence. See Ex. 23:20–23; 33:14–15.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:10–11 his Holy Spirit. . . . his Holy Spirit. Again Isaiah emphasizes how God gave himself to Israel. But they rebelled. See Psalm 78; Isa. 1:2; 66:24; Acts 7:51. The Savior of Isa. 63:8 thus became their enemy. See 1:19–20 and 43:27–28.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:12–14 his glorious arm . . . a glorious name. God displayed his power in Israel's history. Isaiah has hope for the future because God must be glorified (see Eph. 1:6, 12, 14).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:15–64:12 Isaiah explains how to pray for demonstrations of God's saving power.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:15–16 Isaiah claims God's love for his people. your holy and beautiful habitation. See 6:1 and 64:11. Abraham does not know us. The people have drifted from their ancestral faith (see Gen. 15:6; 22:12; 26:5).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:17 why do you make us wander? God did not force his people to sin, but, as a means of discipline, he allowed them to experience the consequences of their sins (see Deut. 32:4; Job 34:10; Isa. 6:3, 10; Rom. 1:24).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 64:4a no . . . God besides you. Israel's God is unique; there is no other god like him (see 43:11; 44:6; 45:5–6, 18, 21–22; 46:9; 47:8, 10).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 64:5b–7 With four comparisons, Isaiah laments the long-standing patterns of sin among God's people. for you have hidden your face. See 8:17. When God's "face" shines upon his people, they live in his favor (Num. 6:25–26); when he hides it due to their unfaithfulness, they suffer.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 64:8–9 you are our Father. Isaiah puts his hope in God as the sovereign Father (see Ps. 103:13–14; Isa. 45:9–10).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 64:12 yourself . . . us. God's own glory and his people's desire for restored happiness in him will surely move him to act.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:1–25 Though the people of God have unfaithful sinners mixed among them now, he is eager to bring them into their glorious eternal home. His eagerness is rejected by Jews but welcomed by Gentiles (vv. 1–12), but his true people will find joy in their eternal home (vv. 13–25).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:1–2 These verses anticipate the drama of the book of Acts and the spread of the gospel to the Gentiles, as seen especially in Acts 28:17–28. Here I am. God takes the initiative to reveal himself to the nations through the gospel (see Isa. 11:10; 56:3–8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:8–10 Though his judgments will destroy, God will also bless his people by preserving a remnant (see 1:9; 10:20–23; Matt. 13:24–30; Rom. 9:27–29; 11:1–5). the cluster. See Isa. 5:1–7.

FACT

The Israelites were not the only ones who did not eat or sacrifice pig flesh. The Assyrians found the pig to be equally offensive, as do some people groups today. However, many other people groups ate and sacrificed them to their gods (65:4).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:13 my servants. Both Jews and Gentiles. God excluded disloyal Jews and included responsive Gentiles (see Matt. 3:7–10; 8:10–13).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:15 You shall leave your name to my chosen for a curse. They will be remembered as objects of judgment. See Jer. 29:22–23. his servants he will call by another name. That is, a name of blessing. See Gen. 17:5; 32:28; Isa. 62:2, 4, 12.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:17–25 Isaiah uses word pictures to describe the joys of the world to come. The description goes far beyond anything the world has ever seen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:22 like the days of a tree. A picture of durability; trees can live for hundreds of years, as compared to grass, which withers and fades (40:7–8). The picture also recalls the example of the righteous person who is "like a tree planted by streams of water" (Ps. 1:3).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:25 Dust shall be the serpent's food recalls Gen. 3:14. God's redemptive purpose (Gen. 3:15) has succeeded, and he has subdued the serpent in judgment as he promised.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:1–24 Though the worship of God is violated now, in the future falsehood will be judged, true worship will spread, and God will be honored forever.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:2 I will look with favor (see Ps. 80:14; Isa. 63:15). he who is humble and contrite. See Ps. 51:17; Isa. 57:15; Luke 18:9–14. Trembles at my word suggests reverence for God's word and eagerness to obey it (see Ezra 9:4; 10:3).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:4 bring their fears upon them. People who reject the Lord will one day have to face everything they now fear (see 48:18; 65:11–12).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:5–6 Your brothers who hate you. These are people who profess biblical faith but do not tremble at his word and who ridicule the humble and contrite (see 28:9–10; Rev. 2:9). Let the LORD be glorified, that we may see your joy. These are the words of unbelievers as they taunt God's people (compare Ps. 22:6–8). A sound from the temple! The Lord's answer to such people is recompense, because he counts them as his enemies.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:7–9 Mother Zion gives birth, effortlessly and instantly, to a new nation (see 49:19–21; 54:1–3). The questions of 66:9 answer fears that God might not perform all he promised to his helpless people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:10–14 The certainty of future blessing calls for joy in the present. her consoling breast. . . . you shall be comforted in Jerusalem. The poetic image is of a nursing baby who finds complete comfort, joy, nourishment, and satisfaction in the arms of its mother. The same Hebrew word for comfort found in 40:1 is repeated three times in 66:13.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:16 all flesh. Specifically, "his enemies" (v. 14).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:18 time . . . to gather all nations. See 2:2–4; 40:5; 45:23; Rev. 7:9–10.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:19–20 a sign. See 7:14; 11:10, 12; 55:12–13. I will send survivors, that is, the remnant of Israelite believers who survive the judgments of God (see Joel 2:28–32; Acts 2:1–12). all your brothers from all the nations. See John 11:52; Gal. 3:28–29; Col. 3:11. Contrast "your brothers who hate you" in Isa. 66:5.

FACT

The land of Javan was probably the Ionian region of Greece, which is the western coast of present-day Turkey. Isaiah says that even this far-off land would someday declare God's glory among the nations (66:19).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:22–23 See 65:17. The universe, which bore witness to Israel's sins in 1:2–3, now sees the endless worship of the new people of God, who represent all flesh.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:24 Isaiah uses the image of Jerusalem's city dump, just outside the city wall in the Hinnom Valley (see Jer. 7:30–34). They shall go out and look, not to gloat, but to agree with God's judgment of the wicked and to be assured that his judgment will last forever. They shall be an abhorrence, though in this life they are often successful. The gospel is good news to the contrite but bad news to the rebellious.

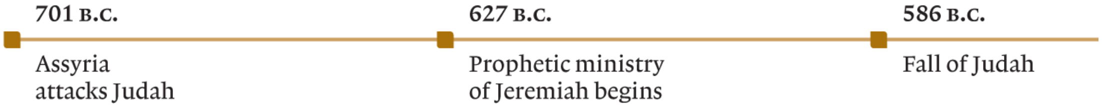
Introduction to Jeremiah

Introduction to Jeremiah

Timeline



Author and Date

Jeremiah was called to be a prophet c. 627 B.C., when he was young (1:6). He served for more than 40 years (1:2–3). Jeremiah had a difficult life. His messages of repentance delivered at the temple were not well received (7:1–8:3; 26:1–11). His hometown plotted against him (11:18–23), and he endured much persecution (20:1–6; 37:11–38:13; 43:1–7). At God’s command, he never married (16:1–4). Although he preached God’s word faithfully, he apparently had only two converts: Baruch, his scribe (32:12; 36:1–4; 45:1–5); and Ebed-melech, an Ethiopian eunuch who served the king (38:7–13; 39:15–18). Though the book does not reveal the time or place of Jeremiah’s death, he probably died in Egypt, where he had been taken by his countrymen against his will after the fall of Jerusalem (43:1–7). He most likely did not live to see the devastation he mentions in chs. 46–51.

Purpose

Jeremiah and Baruch left a record of the difficult times in which they lived, God’s message for those times, and God’s message for the future of Israel and the nations.

Key Themes

1. God and humanity. God alone is a living God. God alone made the world. All other so-called gods are mere idols (10:1–16). This Creator God called Israel to a special relationship (chs. 2–6), gave her his holy word, and promised to bless her temple with his name and presence (7:1–8:3). God rules both the present and the future (1:4–16; 29:1–10), protects his chosen ones (1:17–19; 29:11–14; 39:15–18; 45:1–5), and saves those who turn to him (12:14–17). Because God is absolutely trustworthy and always keeps his promises, his grace triumphs over sin and judgment when people repent and turn to him.

The human heart is sick, and no one except God can cure it (17:9–10). The nations worship idols instead of their Creator (10:1–16). Israel, God's covenant people, went after other gods (chs. 2–6), defiled the temple by their unwillingness to repent (7:1–8:3; 26:1–11), and oppressed one another (34:8–16). Since Israel and the nations have sinned against God (25:1–26), God the Creator is also the Judge of every nation on the earth he created (chs. 46–51).

1. Old covenant, Messiah, and new covenant. God made a covenant with Israel, based on his promises to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (Genesis 12–50). As time passed, God's covenant with Israel included his promise to David of an eternal kingdom (2 Samuel 7; 1 Chronicles 17). God used Jeremiah to deliver the good news that, sometime in the future, God would "make a new covenant with the house of Israel and the house of Judah" (Jer. 31:31). This covenant would be different in one major way. The new covenant partners will not break the covenant, as most of the old partners did even though God was completely faithful (31:32). Instead, the new covenant partners will have the word of God so ingrained in their hearts through God's power that they will know and follow God all their lives (31:33–34).

Thus, all the new covenant partners will be believers who are forgiven and empowered by God; he will "remember their sin no more" (31:34). Hebrews 8:8–12 quotes Jer. 31:31–34 as evidence that the new covenant has come through the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus Christ. The coming of Jesus the Messiah fulfills God’s promises to Abraham, Moses, David, and the prophets.

Israel and Judah at the Time of Jeremiah

c. 597 B.C.

The book of Jeremiah is set during the politically tumultuous times following the fall of the Assyrians and the rise of the Babylonians. During Jeremiah’s life, several groups of Judeans were deported to Babylon and the temple was destroyed. Though the precise boundaries of Judea and the surrounding regions during this period are difficult to determine, they likely resembled those that previously existed under Assyrian rule, with the exception that Edom (Idumea) was now the area formerly belonging to southern Judah.

The Global Message of Jeremiah

Jeremiah in Redemptive History

Jeremiah lived and prophesied in the sixth century B.C., in the days leading up to the exile of Judah to Babylon, and then in the wake of that tragic event. Jeremiah's prophecy exposes the rebellious hearts of God's own people, which has led to their impending exile to a foreign land. This rebelliousness goes all the way back to Eden, where the first human couple likewise rebelled against their Maker and Lord. Adam and Eve were exiled from Eden when they rebelled, and the same fate is falling on God's corporate people as they are exiled from the Promised Land.

God's covenant promises. The reason this exile is so devastating is that at the heart of God's covenant promises to Abraham was the promise of the land of Canaan. When God's people are driven out of this land, it seems as though God's own promises are coming unraveled. Yet throughout Jeremiah we find that God's strong statements of judgment are surpassed by his pledge of mercy. He will not abandon his people, no matter how sinful they remain. Indeed, the radical problem of sin requires a radical solution—nothing less than the Lord himself writing his law not on tablets of stone but on the very hearts of his people (Jer. 31:33–34; compare 2 Cor. 3:6). So it is that, at the climax of Jeremiah, we are reassured of God's determination to restore his people to himself (Jeremiah 30–33).

God's final answer. This restoration includes a promise of causing "a righteous Branch to spring up for David" who "shall execute justice and righteousness in the land" (Jer. 33:15). Ultimately, the tension between the people's stubborn waywardness and God's unbreakable covenant promises is resolved only in Jesus Christ. In Christ, God's promise of a permanent Davidic heir is fulfilled (2 Sam. 7:12–16; Jer. 33:14–26). Christ is the true and final "righteous Branch" who proves fruitful where Israel proved fruitless (23:5; 33:15; John 15:1). Only through his atoning work is God able to extend mercy to his people in spite of their sin.

God's worldwide redemption. Jeremiah looks forward not only to the coming of Jesus Christ, the true heir of David, but also to the worldwide extension of grace through Jesus far beyond the national borders of Israel. Through Christ and the fulfillment of God's promises, God's promise to Abraham that in him "all the families of the earth shall be blessed" begins to be fulfilled (Gen. 12:3). God will judge the nations for their sin, as he must (Jer. 46:1–51:64). Indeed, he will also judge Judah, who has proven to be as wicked as the nations surrounding her (21:1–29:32). Yet through and despite such judgment God will not be deterred from his ultimate purpose of calling to himself a people from every tribe and language and race and nation (Rev. 5:9; see Jer. 3:16–17).

Universal Themes in Jeremiah

The promise-keeping God. Jeremiah's prophecy resounds with the theme of God as the great keeper of promises. When God makes a covenant with the nation of Israel, he will not let that relationship be thwarted, even when his people are faithless. The pledge "I will be your God, and you shall be my people" is the constant promise of God to wayward Israel throughout the book of Jeremiah (Jer. 7:23; 11:4; 30:22). This is great encouragement to God's people around the world today, for they have become the heirs of God's covenant promises to ethnic Israel. No matter how others identify us socially, ethnically, or racially, believers today can know that, through Christ, the God of the Bible will be our God, and we will be his people.

Sin as hard-heartedness. Throughout the book of Jeremiah the focus shifts back and forth from God's own covenant people to the nations. In both cases, however, the same fundamental problem persists. Both are sinful. Both have hard, stubborn hearts (Jer. 5:23; 11:8; 18:12). While the nations may be uncircumcised physically, Judah is uncircumcised spiritually (9:25–26; see also 4:4; 6:10). This hard-heartedness is seen in Jeremiah especially through the hypocrisy of Israel's leaders—the artificial service and hollow religiosity of the prophets, priests, and other officials (3:10; 5:2; 7:1–4).

The inclusion of Gentiles in the people of God. Jeremiah's prophecy helps to advance God's promise to Abraham that he would be a blessing, and that all the families of the earth would be blessed through him (Gen. 12:1–3). Jeremiah was to go to the nations both "to destroy and to overthrow" as well as "to build and to plant" (Jer. 1:10). Israel will multiply and increase in the land (3:16; compare God's original call to Adam and Eve in Gen. 1:28) and "Jerusalem shall be called the throne of the LORD, and all nations shall gather to it, to the presence of the LORD" (Jer. 3:17). To God "shall the nations come from the ends of the earth" (16:19). This inclusion of the nations is one reason God shows mercy to Judah: if they return to the Lord, "then nations shall bless themselves in him, and in him shall they glory" (4:2).

The Global Message of Jeremiah for Today

Global justice. The hard-heartedness of God's people manifests itself not only vertically (toward God) but also horizontally (toward other people). "This people has a stubborn and rebellious heart," and as a result "they have grown fat and sleek. They know no bounds in deeds of evil; they judge not with justice the cause of the fatherless . . . and they do not defend the rights of the needy" (Jer. 5:23, 28). The church can learn from the book of Jeremiah about God's tender heart toward the oppressed. We also learn of his desire for his own people to be mediators of mercy to those who are marginalized and disadvantaged. Indeed, knowing God includes, by definition, the defense of "the cause of the poor and needy" (22:16).

New hearts. As the global church labors on gladly in its great mission to make disciples of all nations (Matt. 28:18–20), we must recognize the need for God to do a deep, cleansing work of the heart in creating new people for himself. When people profess faith in Christ, they must be taught as well about the divine cleansing of the heart that is effected through his indwelling Holy Spirit. In the new covenant that has dawned in Christ (Heb. 8:8–13; 9:15) we find that forgiveness of sins and the writing of God's law on the heart are closely connected. The gospel saves men and women of all ethnicities by wiping away their sins and by implanting within them new desires for God and holiness. The sinful hard-heartedness of all people cannot be altered in any humanly manufactured way (Jer. 13:23). A new internal work on the heart by God is required (31:31–34). As global Christians speak the good news to those in their own neighborhoods and around the world, we do so in utter dependence on God, knowing that only he can soften hearts—and that he loves to do so.

JEREMIAH 1 [†]The words of Jeremiah, the son of Hilkiah, one [a] of the priests who were in [b] Anathoth in the land of Benjamin, [2][†]to whom the word of the LORD came in the days of [c] Josiah the son of Amon, king of Judah, in [d] the thirteenth year of his reign. [3][†]It came also in the days of [e] Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah, and [f] until the end of the eleventh year of [g] Zedekiah, the son of Josiah, king of Judah, [h] until the captivity of Jerusalem in the fifth month.

The Call of Jeremiah

[4]Now the word of the LORD came to me, saying,

[5][†] [i] “Before I formed you in the womb I knew you,
and before you were born [j] I consecrated you;
I appointed you a prophet [k] to the nations.”

[6]Then I said, “Ah, Lord GOD! Behold, [l] I do not know how to speak, [m] for I am only a youth.” [7]But the LORD said to me,

“Do not say, ‘I am only a youth’;
for to all to whom I send you, you shall go,
and [n] whatever I command you, you shall speak.
[8][†] [o] Do not be afraid of them,
[p] for I am with you to deliver you,
declares the LORD.”

[9][†] [q] Then the LORD put out his hand and [r] touched my mouth. And the LORD said to me, “Behold, I have put [s] my words in your mouth.

[10] See, I have set you this day [k] over nations and over kingdoms, [t] to pluck up and to break down, to destroy and to overthrow,
to build and to plant.”

[11]And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, [u] “Jeremiah, what do you see?” And I said, “I see an almond [1] branch.” [12]Then the LORD said to me, “You have seen well, for I am watching over my word to perform it.”

[13][†]The word of the LORD came to me a second time, saying, “What do you see?” And I said, “I see [v]a boiling pot, facing away [w]from the north.” [14]Then the LORD said to me, [w]“Out of the north disaster [2] shall be let loose upon all the inhabitants of the land. [15]For behold, [x]I am calling all the tribes of the kingdoms of the north, declares the LORD, [y]and they shall come, and every one shall set his throne at the entrance of the gates of Jerusalem, against all its walls all around and against all the cities of Judah. [16][†]And [z]I will declare my judgments against them, for all their evil [a]in forsaking me. [b]They have made offerings to other gods and [c]worshiped the works of their own hands. [17]But you, [d]dress yourself for work; [3] arise, and [e]say to them everything that I command you. [f]Do not be dismayed by them, lest I dismay you before them. [18][†]And I, behold, I make you this day [g]a fortified city, [h]an iron pillar, and [i]bronze walls, against the whole land, against the kings of Judah, its officials, its priests, and the people of the land. [19][i]They will fight against you, but they shall not prevail against you, for [j]I am with you, declares the LORD, to deliver you.”

Israel Forsakes the LORD

JEREMIAH 2 [†]The word of the LORD came to me, saying, [2]“Go and proclaim in the hearing of Jerusalem, Thus says the LORD,

“I remember the devotion of [k]your youth,
  your love [l]as a bride,
[m]how you followed me in the wilderness,
  [n]in a land not sown.
[3][†] [o]Israel was holy to the LORD,
  [p]the firstfruits of his harvest.
[q]All who ate of it incurred guilt;
  disaster came upon them,
declares the LORD.”

[4]Hear the word of the LORD, O house of Jacob, and all the clans of the house of Israel. [5][†]Thus says the LORD:

[r]“What wrong did your fathers find in me that they went far from me,
[s]and went after [t]worthlessness, and became worthless?
6[†] They did not say, [u]‘Where is the LORD who brought us up from the land of Egypt, who led us [v]in the wilderness,
in a land of deserts and pits,
in a land of drought and deep darkness,
in a land that none passes through,
where no man dwells?’
7 [w]And I brought you into a plentiful land to enjoy its fruits and its good things.
But when you came in, [x]you defiled my land and made my heritage an abomination.
8[†] The priests did not say, ‘Where is the LORD?’
[y]Those who handle the law did not know me;
[z]the shepherds [1] transgressed against me;
[a]the prophets prophesied by Baal
and went after [b]things that do not profit.

9[†] “Therefore [c]I still contend with you,
declares the LORD,
and [d]with your children’s children I will contend.
10[†] For cross to the coasts of [e]Cyprus and see,
or send to [f]Kedar and examine with care;
see if there has been such a thing.
11 [g]Has a nation changed its gods,
[h]even though they are no gods?
But my people [i]have changed their glory for [b]that which does not profit.
12[†] Be appalled, [j]O heavens, at this;
be shocked, be utterly desolate,
declares the LORD,
13 for my people have committed two evils:
[k]they have forsaken [l]me,

the fountain of [m] living waters,
and hewed out cisterns for themselves,
broken cisterns that can hold no water.

14 [n] “Is Israel a slave? Is he a homeborn servant?
Why then has he become a prey?
15[†] [o] The lions have roared against him;
they have roared loudly.
They have made his land a waste;
his cities are in ruins, [p] without inhabitant.
16 Moreover, the men of [q] Memphis and [r] Tahpanhes
[s] have shaved [2] the crown of your head.
17 [t] Have you not brought this upon yourself by forsaking the LORD your God, when [u] he led you in the way?
18 [v] And now what do you gain by going to Egypt to drink the waters of [w] the Nile?
[x] Or what do you gain by going to Assyria to drink the waters of [y] the Euphrates? [3] 19 [z] Your evil will chastise you,
and [a] your apostasy will reprove you.
Know and see that it is evil and [b] bitter for [c] you to forsake the LORD your God;
the fear of me is not in you,
declares the Lord GOD of hosts.

20[†] “For long ago I [d] broke your yoke and burst your bonds;
but you said, [e] ‘I will not serve.’
Yes, [f] on every high hill and under every green tree
you bowed down [g] like a whore.
21[†] [h] Yet I planted you a choice vine, wholly of pure seed.
[i] How then have you turned degenerate and become a wild vine?

[22] Though you wash yourself with lye and use much soap,
[j] the stain of your guilt is still before me,
declares the Lord GOD.
[23] [k] How can you say, 'I am not unclean,
I have not gone after the Baals'?
Look at your way [l] in the valley;
know what you have done—
a restless young camel running here and there, [24] [m] a wild donkey used to the wilderness,
in her heat sniffing the wind!
Who can restrain her lust?
None who seek her need weary themselves;
in her month they will find her.
[25] Keep [n] your feet from going unshod and [o] your throat from thirst.
But you said, 'It is hopeless, [p] for I have loved foreigners,
and after them I will go.'

[26] "As a thief is shamed when caught,
so the house of Israel shall be shamed:
[q] they, their kings, their officials, their priests, and their prophets, [27] who say to a tree, 'You are my father,'
and to a stone, 'You gave me birth.'
For they have turned their back to me,
and not their face.
But [r] in the time of their trouble they say,
'Arise and save us!'
[28][†] But [s] where are your gods that you made for yourself?
Let them arise, [t] if they can save you,
in your time of trouble;

for [u] as many as your cities are your gods, O Judah.

29 “Why do you contend with me?
You have all transgressed against me,
declares the LORD.
30 In vain have I [v] struck your children;
they took no correction;
[w] your own sword devoured your prophets like a ravening lion.
31 And you, O generation, behold the word of the LORD.
Have I been a wilderness to Israel,
or a land of thick darkness?
Why then do my people say, ‘We are free,
we will come no more to you’?
32 [x] Can a virgin forget her ornaments, or a bride her attire?
Yet [y] my people have forgotten me days without number.

33 “How well you direct your course to seek love!
So that even to wicked women
you have taught your ways.
34[†] Also on your skirts is found [z] the lifeblood of the guiltless poor;
you did not find them [a] breaking in.
Yet in spite of all these things 35 you say, ‘I am innocent;
surely his anger has turned from me.’
[b] Behold, I will bring you to judgment for [c] saying, ‘I have not sinned.’ 36[†] [d] How much you go about, changing your way!
You shall be [e] put to shame by Egypt

as you were put to shame by Assyria.
37 From it too you will come away with [f] your hands on your head, for the LORD has rejected those in whom you trust,
and you will not prosper by them.

JEREMIAH 3 [†] [g] “If[1] a man divorces his wife and she goes from him and becomes another man’s wife, will he return to her?
[h] Would not that land be greatly polluted?
[i] You have played the whore with many lovers;
and would you return to me?
declares the LORD.
2 Lift up your eyes to [j] the bare heights, and see!
Where have you not been ravished?
[k] By the waysides you have sat awaiting lovers like an Arab in the wilderness.
[h] You have polluted the land with your vile whoredom.
3 [l] Therefore the showers have been withheld, and the spring rain has not come;
yet you have [m] the forehead of a whore;
you refuse to be ashamed.
4 Have you not just now [n] called to me,
‘My father, you are the friend of my youth—
5 [o] will he be angry forever, will he be indignant to the end?’
Behold, you have spoken,
but you have done all the evil that you could.”

Faithless Israel Called to Repentance

6[†]The LORD said to me in the days of [p] King Josiah: “Have you seen what she did, that faithless one, Israel, [q] how she went up on every high hill and under every green tree, and there [i] played the whore? 7And I thought, ‘After she has done all this she will return to me,' but she did not return, and her treacherous [r] sister Judah saw it. [8]She saw that for all the adulteries of that faithless one, Israel, [s] I had sent her away with [t] a decree of divorce. [u] Yet her treacherous sister Judah did not fear, but she too went [i] and played the whore. [9]Because she took her whoredom lightly, she polluted the land, committing adultery with [v] stone and tree. [10]Yet for all this her treacherous sister Judah did not return to me [w] with her whole heart, but in pretense, declares the LORD."

[11]And the LORD said to me, [x] "Faithless Israel has shown herself more righteous than treacherous Judah. [12][†]Go, and proclaim these words toward [y] the north, and say, [z] "'Return, faithless Israel,

declares the LORD.
I will not look on you in anger,
for [a] I am merciful,
declares the LORD;
[b] I will not be angry forever.
[13] [c] Only acknowledge your guilt, that you rebelled against the LORD your God and scattered your favors among foreigners under [d] every green tree, and that you have not obeyed my voice,
declares the LORD.
[14][†] [e] Return, O faithless children,
declares the LORD;
[f] for I am your master;
I will take you, one from a city and two from a family, and I will bring you to Zion.

[15][†]"'And [g] I will give you shepherds after my own heart, [h] who will feed you with knowledge and understanding. [16][†]And when you have multiplied and been fruitful in the land, in those days, declares the LORD, they shall no more say, "The ark of the covenant of the LORD." It shall not come to mind or be remembered or missed; it shall not be made again. [17][†]At that time Jerusalem shall be called the throne of the LORD, [i] and all nations shall gather to it, [j] to the presence of the LORD in Jerusalem, and they shall no more stubbornly follow their own evil heart. [18] [k] In those days the house of Judah shall join the house of Israel, and together they shall come from the land [l] of the north to [m] the land that I gave your fathers for a heritage.

[19] "'I said,
How I would set you among my sons,
and give you a pleasant land,
a heritage most beautiful of all nations.
And I thought you would [n] call me, My Father,
and would not turn from following me.
[20] [o] Surely, as a treacherous wife leaves her husband, so have you been treacherous to me, O house of Israel,
declares the LORD.'"

[21][†] A voice on the [p] bare heights is heard, [q] the weeping and pleading of Israel's sons because they have perverted their way;
they have forgotten the LORD their God.
[22][†] [r] "Return, O faithless sons;
[s] I will heal your faithlessness."
"Behold, we come to you,
for you are the LORD our God.
[23][†] Truly [t] the hills are a delusion,
the orgies [2] on the mountains.
[u] Truly in the LORD our God is the salvation of Israel.

[24]"But from our youth the shameful thing has devoured all for which our fathers labored, their flocks and their herds, their sons and their daughters. [25][†] [v] Let us lie down in our shame, and let our dishonor cover us. For [w] we have sinned against the LORD our God, we and our fathers, from our youth even to this day, and we have not obeyed the voice of the LORD our God."

JEREMIAH 4 [†] "If you return, O Israel,

declares the LORD,
[x] to me you should return.
If you remove your detestable things from my presence,
[y] and do not waver,
2[†] [z] and if you swear, 'As the LORD lives,' in truth, in justice, and in righteousness,
then [a] nations shall bless themselves in him,
[b] and in him shall they glory."

3 For thus says the LORD to the men of Judah and Jerusalem:

[c] "Break up your fallow ground,
and [d] sow not among thorns.
4[†] [e] Circumcise yourselves to the LORD;
remove the foreskin of your hearts,
O men of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem; [f] lest my wrath go forth like fire,
and burn with none to quench it,
[g] because of the evil of your deeds."

Disaster from the North

5[†] Declare in Judah, and proclaim in Jerusalem, and say,

[h] "Blow the trumpet through the land;
cry aloud and say,
[i] 'Assemble, and let us go into the fortified cities!'
6 [j] Raise a standard toward Zion, flee for safety, stay not,
for I bring disaster from [k] the north,
[l] and great destruction.
7[†] [m] A lion has gone up from his thicket,
a destroyer of nations has set out;
he has gone out from his place
to make your land a waste;

your cities will be ruins
[n] without inhabitant.
[8] For this [o] put on sackcloth, lament and wail,
for [p] the fierce anger of the LORD has not turned back from us.”

[9][†]“In that day, declares the LORD, [q] courage shall fail both king and officials. The priests shall be appalled and the prophets astounded.”
[10][†]Then I said, “Ah, Lord GOD, [r] surely you have utterly deceived this people and Jerusalem, saying, ‘It shall be well with you,’ whereas the sword has reached their very life.”

[11]At that time it will be said to this people and to Jerusalem, “A hot wind from [s] the bare heights in the desert toward the daughter of my people, not to winnow or cleanse, [12]a wind too full for this comes for me. Now it is I who [t] speak in judgment upon them.”

[13] Behold, he comes up like clouds;
[u] his chariots like the whirlwind;
his horses are [v] swifter than eagles—woe to us, [w] for we are ruined!
[14] O Jerusalem, [x] wash your heart from evil, that you may be saved.
How long shall your wicked thoughts lodge within you?
[15] For a voice [y] declares from Dan and proclaims trouble from [z] Mount Ephraim.
[16] Warn the nations that he is coming;
announce to Jerusalem, “Besiegers come [a] from a distant land;
they shout against the cities of Judah.
[17] Like keepers of a field [b] are they against her all around,
because she has rebelled against me,
declares the LORD.

18[†] Your ways and your deeds have brought this upon you.
This is your doom, and [c] it is bitter;
it has reached your very heart.”

Anguish over Judah’s Desolation

19 [d] My anguish, my anguish! I writhe in pain!
Oh the walls of my heart!
My heart is beating wildly;
I cannot keep silent,
for I hear the sound of the trumpet,
the alarm of war.
20 [e] Crash follows hard on crash;
the whole land is laid waste.
[f] Suddenly my tents are laid waste,
my curtains in a moment.
21 How long must I see the standard and hear the sound of the trumpet?

22[†] “For [g] my people are foolish;
they know me not;
they are stupid children;
they have no understanding.
[h] They are ‘wise’—in doing evil!
But how to do good they know not.”

23[†] I looked on the earth, and behold, it was [i] without form and void;
[j] and to the heavens, and they had no light.
24 I looked on [k] the mountains, and behold, they were quaking, and all the hills moved to and fro.
25 [l] I looked, and behold, there was no man,
and all the birds of the air had fled.
26 I looked, and behold, the [m] fruitful land was a desert, and all its cities were laid in ruins
before the Lord, before [n] his fierce anger.

[27][†]For thus says the LORD, “The whole land shall be a desolation; [o] yet I will not make a full end.

[28] [p] “For this the earth shall mourn, [q] and the heavens above be dark;
for I have spoken; I have purposed;
[r] I have not relented, nor will I turn back.”

[29] At the noise of horseman and archer every city takes to flight;
they enter thickets; they climb among rocks;
all the cities are forsaken,
and [s] no man dwells in them.
[30] And you, O desolate one,
what do you mean that you dress in scarlet,
[t] that you adorn yourself with ornaments of gold,
[u] that you enlarge your eyes with paint?
In vain you beautify yourself.
[v] Your lovers despise you;
they seek your life.
[31] For I heard [w] a cry as of a woman in labor, anguish as of one giving birth to her first child,
the cry of the daughter of Zion gasping for breath, [x] stretching out her hands,
“Woe is me! I am fainting before murderers.”

Jerusalem Refused to Repent

JEREMIAH 5 [†] [y] Run to and fro through the streets of Jerusalem, look and take note!
Search her squares to see [z] if you can find a man, one who does justice
and seeks truth,
[a] that I may pardon her.
[2] [b] Though they say, “As the LORD lives,”

[c] yet they swear falsely.
3[†] O LORD, do not your eyes look for truth?
[d] You have struck them down,
but they felt no anguish;
you have consumed them,
but they refused to take correction.
[e] They have made their faces harder than rock;
they have refused to repent.

4 Then I said, "These are only the poor;
they have no sense;
[f] for they do not know the way of the LORD,
the justice of their God.
5 I will go to the great and will speak to them, for they know the way of the LORD,
the justice of their God."
[g] But they all alike had broken the yoke;
they had burst the bonds.

6 Therefore [h] a lion from the forest shall strike them down;
a [i] wolf from the desert shall devastate them.
[j] A leopard is watching their cities;
everyone who goes out of them shall be torn in pieces, because their transgressions are many,
their [k] apostasies are great.

7[†] [l] "How can I pardon you?
Your children have forsaken me
[m] and have sworn by those who are no gods.
[n] When I fed them to the full,
[o] they committed adultery
[p] and trooped to the houses of whores.
8 They were well-fed, lusty stallions,
[q] each neighing [r] for his neighbor's wife.

9 [s] Shall I not punish them for these things?
declares the LORD;

and shall I not avenge myself
on a nation such as this?

10 [t] “Go up through her vine rows and destroy, [u] but make not a full end;
strip away her branches,
for they are not the LORD’s.
11 [v] For the house of Israel and the house of Judah have been utterly treacherous to me,
declares the LORD.
12 They have spoken falsely of the LORD and have said, ‘He will do nothing;
[w] no disaster will come upon us,
[x] nor shall we see sword or famine.
13 The prophets will become wind;
the word is not in them.
Thus shall it be done to them!’”

The LORD Proclaims Judgment

14[†] Therefore thus says the LORD, the God of hosts:
“Because you have spoken this word, behold, [y] I am making my words in your mouth [z] a fire,
and this people wood, and the fire shall consume them.
15[†] [a] Behold, I am bringing against you a nation from afar, O house of Israel,
declares the LORD.
It is an enduring nation;
it is an ancient nation,
a nation whose language you do not know,
[b] nor can you understand what they say.
16 [c] Their quiver is like [d] an open tomb;
they are all mighty warriors.
17 [e] They shall eat up your harvest and your food;

they shall eat up your sons and your daughters;
they shall eat up your flocks and your herds;
they shall eat up your vines and your fig trees;
your [f]fortified cities in which you trust they shall beat down with the sword.”

18[†]“But even in those days, declares the LORD, [u]I will not make a full end of you. 19And when your people say, [g]‘Why has the LORD our God done all these things to us?’ you shall say to them, ‘As you have forsaken me and served foreign gods in your land, [h]so you shall serve foreigners in a land that is not yours.’”

20 Declare this in the house of Jacob;
proclaim it in Judah:
21 “Hear this, [i]O foolish and senseless people, [j]who have eyes, but see not,
who have ears, but hear not.
22 [k]Do you not fear me? declares the LORD.
Do you not tremble before me?
I placed the sand [l]as the boundary for the sea,
a perpetual barrier that it cannot pass;
though the waves toss, they cannot prevail;
though [m]they roar, they cannot pass over it.
23[†] [n]But this people has a stubborn and rebellious heart;
they have turned aside and gone away.
24 They do not say in their hearts,
‘Let us fear the LORD our God,
[o]who gives the rain in its season,
the autumn rain and the spring rain,
and keeps for us
[p]the weeks appointed for the harvest.’
25[†] [q]Your iniquities have turned these away, and your sins have kept good from you.
26[†] For wicked men are found among my people;
[r]they lurk like fowlers lying in wait. [1]

[s] They set a trap;
they catch men.
27 Like a cage full of birds, their houses are full of deceit;
therefore they have become great and rich;
28 [t] they have grown fat and sleek.
They know no bounds in deeds of evil;
[u] they judge not with justice
the cause of the fatherless, to make it prosper, and they do not defend the rights of the needy.
29 [v] Shall I not punish them for these things?
declares the LORD,
and shall I not avenge myself
on a nation such as this?”

30[†] An appalling and [w] horrible thing has happened in the land:
31 [x] the prophets prophesy falsely,
and the priests rule at their direction;
[y] my people love to have it so,
but what will you do when the end comes?

Impending Disaster for Jerusalem

JEREMIAH 6 [†] Flee for safety, [z] O people of Benjamin, from the midst of Jerusalem!
Blow the trumpet in [a] Tekoa,
and raise a signal on [b] Beth-haccherem, for disaster looms [c] out of the north,
and great destruction.
2 The lovely and delicately bred I will destroy,
[d] the daughter of Zion. [1]
3 [e] Shepherds with their flocks shall come against her;
[f] they shall pitch their tents around her;
they shall pasture, each in his place.
4[†] [g] “Prepare war against her;

arise, and let us attack [h] at noon!
Woe to us, for the day declines,
for the shadows of evening lengthen!
5 Arise, and let us attack by night and destroy her palaces!”

6 For thus says the LORD of hosts:
[i] “Cut down her trees;
[j] cast up a siege mound against Jerusalem.
This is the city that must be [k] punished;
there is nothing but oppression within her.
7 [†] [l] As a well keeps its water fresh,
so she keeps fresh her evil;
[m] violence and destruction are heard within her;
sickness and wounds are ever before me.
8 Be warned, O Jerusalem, [n] lest I turn from you in disgust, lest I make you [o] a desolation,
an uninhabited land.”

9 [†] Thus says the LORD of hosts:
[p] “They shall glean thoroughly as a vine
the remnant of Israel;
like a grape gatherer pass your hand again over its branches.”
10 [†] [q] To whom shall I speak and give warning, that they may hear?
[r] Behold, their ears are uncircumcised,
[s] they cannot listen;
behold, [t] the word of the LORD is to them an object of scorn;
they take no pleasure in it.
11 [†] Therefore I am full of the wrath of the LORD; [u] I am weary of holding it in.
[v] “Pour it out upon the children in the street, and upon the gatherings of young men, also;

[w] both husband and wife [x] shall be taken,
the elderly and the very aged.
12 [y] Their houses shall be turned over to others, their fields and wives together,
for I will stretch out my hand against the inhabitants of the land,”
declares the LORD.
13[†] [z] “For from the least to the greatest of them, everyone [a] is greedy for unjust gain;
and from [b] prophet to priest,
everyone deals falsely.
14 They have healed the wound of my people lightly, saying, [c] ‘Peace, peace,’ [d] when there is no peace.
15 [e] Were they ashamed when they committed abomination?
No, they were not at all ashamed;
they did not know how to blush.
Therefore they shall fall among those who fall;
[f] at the time that I punish them, they shall be overthrown,”
says the LORD.

16[†] Thus says the LORD:
“Stand by the roads, and look,
and ask for [g] the ancient paths,
where the good way is; and walk in it, [h] and find rest for your souls.
But they said, ‘We will not walk in it.’
17[†] [i] I set watchmen over you, saying,
‘Pay attention to [j] the sound of the trumpet!’
But they said, [k] ‘We will not pay attention.’
18[†] Therefore hear, O nations, and know, O congregation, what will happen to them.
19 Hear, O earth; behold, I am bringing disaster upon this people, [l] the fruit of their devices, because they have not paid attention to my words;

and as for my law, they have rejected it.
20[†] [m] What use to me is [n] frankincense that comes from [o] Sheba, or sweet cane from a distant land?
[p] Your burnt offerings are not acceptable,
nor your sacrifices pleasing to me.
21 Therefore thus says the LORD:
[q] 'Behold, I will lay before this people stumbling blocks against which they shall stumble;
fathers and sons together, neighbor and friend shall perish.'"

22[†] Thus says the LORD:
[r] "Behold, a people is coming [s] from the north country, a great nation is stirring from [t] the farthest parts of the earth.
23 They lay hold on bow and javelin;
they are [u] cruel and have no mercy;
[v] the sound of them is like the roaring sea;
they ride on horses,
set in array as a man for battle, against you, O daughter of Zion!"
24 We have heard the report of it;
[w] our hands fall helpless;
anguish has taken hold of us,
[x] pain as of a woman in labor.
25[†] Go not out into the field,
nor walk on the road,
for the enemy has a sword;
[y] terror is on every side.
26[†] O daughter of my people, [z] put on sackcloth,
and [a] roll in ashes;
[b] make mourning as for an only son,
most bitter lamentation,
for suddenly the destroyer will come upon us.

27[†] “I have made you [c]a tester of metals among my people, that you may know and [d]test their ways.
28 [e]They are all stubbornly rebellious, [f]going about with slanders;
they are [g]bronze and iron;
all of them act corruptly.
29 The [g]bellows blow fiercely;
the lead is consumed by the fire;
[h]in vain the refining goes on,
for the wicked are not removed.
30 [i]Rejected silver they are called, for the LORD has rejected them.”

Evil in the Land

JEREMIAH 7 [†]The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD: [2][j]“Stand in the gate of the LORD’s house, and proclaim there this word, and say, Hear the word of the LORD, all you men of Judah who enter these gates to worship the LORD. [3][†]Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: [k]Amend your ways and your deeds, and I will let you dwell in this place. [4][†][l]Do not trust in these deceptive words: ‘This is the temple of the LORD, the temple of the LORD, the temple of the LORD.’

[5]“For if you truly [m]amend your ways and your deeds, if you truly [n]execute justice one with another, [6][†]if you [n]do not oppress the sojourner, the fatherless, or the widow, [m]or shed innocent blood in this place, [o]and if you do not go after other gods to your own harm, [7][p]then I will let you dwell in this place, [q]in the land that I gave of old to your fathers forever.

[8]“Behold, you trust in deceptive words to no avail. [9][r]Will you steal, murder, commit adultery, [s]swear falsely, [t]make offerings to Baal, [o]and go after other gods that you have not known, [10][†]and then come and stand before me in this house, [u]which is called by my name, and say, ‘We are delivered!’—only to go on doing all these abominations? [11][v]Has this house, [u]which is called by my name, [w]become a den of robbers in your eyes? Behold, I myself have seen it, declares the LORD. [12][†]Go now to [x]my place that was in Shiloh, [y]where I made my name dwell at first, and [z]see what I did to it because of the evil of my people Israel. [13]And now, because you have done all these things, declares the LORD, and [a]when I spoke to you persistently you did not listen, and [b]when I called you, you did not answer, [14]therefore I will do to [c]the house [u]that is called by my name, and in which you trust, and to the place that I gave to you and to your fathers, [z]as I did to Shiloh. [15][†][c]And I will cast you out of my sight, [d]as I cast out all your kinsmen, all the offspring of [e]Ephraim.

[16][†]“As for you, [f]do not pray for this people, or lift up a cry or prayer for them, and do not intercede with me, for I will not hear you. [17]Do you not see what they are doing in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem? [18]The children gather wood, the fathers kindle fire, [g]and the women knead dough, to [h]make cakes for [i]the queen of heaven. And [j]they pour out drink offerings to other gods, [k]to provoke me to anger. [19][l]Is it I whom they provoke? declares the LORD. Is it not themselves, [m]to their own shame? [20]Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, [n]my anger and my wrath will be poured out on this place, upon man and beast, upon the trees of the field and the fruit of the ground; [o]it will burn and not be quenched."

[21]Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: [p]"Add your burnt offerings to your sacrifices, and eat the flesh. [22][†]For in the day that I brought them out of the land of Egypt, I did not speak to your fathers or command them [q]concerning burnt offerings and sacrifices. [23]But this command I gave them: [r]'Obey my voice, and [s]I will be your God, and you shall be my people. [t]And walk in all the way that I command you, [u]that it may be well with you.' [24][v]But they did not obey or incline their ear, [w]but walked in their own counsels and [x]the stubbornness of their evil hearts, and [y]went backward and not forward. [25][†]From the day that your fathers came out of the land of Egypt to this day, [z]I have persistently sent all my servants the prophets to them, day after day. [26][v]Yet they did not listen to me or incline their ear, [a]but stiffened their neck. [b]They did worse than their fathers.

[27][c]"So you shall speak all these words to them, but they will not listen to you. [d]You shall call to them, but they will not answer you. [28]And you shall say to them, 'This is the nation that did not obey the voice of the LORD their God, and did not accept discipline; [e]truth has perished; it is cut off from their lips.

[29][†] [f]"'Cut off your hair and cast it away;
raise a lamentation on [g]the bare heights, for the LORD has rejected and forsaken the generation of his wrath.'

The Valley of Slaughter

[30]"For the sons of Judah have done evil in my sight, declares the LORD. They have set [h]their detestable things in the house [i]that is called by my name, to [h]defile it. [31][†]And they have built the high places of [j]Topheth, which is in [k] the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, [l] to burn their sons and their daughters in the fire, [m] which I did not command, nor did it come into my mind. [32][†] [n] Therefore, behold, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when it will no more be called [j] Topheth, or [k] the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, but the Valley of Slaughter; [o] for they will bury in Topheth, because there is no room elsewhere. [33] [p] And the dead bodies of this people will be food for the birds of the air, and for the beasts of the earth, [q] and none will frighten them away. [34][†] [r] And I will silence in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem the voice of mirth and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, [s] for the land shall become a waste.

JEREMIAH 8 [†]“At that time, declares the LORD, the bones of the kings of Judah, the bones of its officials, the bones of the priests, the bones of the prophets, and the bones of the inhabitants of Jerusalem shall be brought out of their tombs. [2]And they shall be spread [t] before the sun and the moon and all the host of heaven, which they have loved and served, which they have gone after, and which they have sought and worshiped. [u] And they shall not be gathered or buried. [v] They shall be as dung on the surface of the ground. [3] [w] Death shall be preferred to life by all the remnant that remains of this evil family [x] in all the places where I have driven them, declares the LORD of hosts.

Sin and Treachery

[4] “You shall say to them, Thus says the LORD:
[y] When men fall, do they not rise again?
If one turns away, does he not return?
[5] Why then has this people [z] turned away in perpetual [a] backsliding?
[b] They hold fast to deceit;
they refuse to return.
[6] [c] I have paid attention and listened,
but they have not spoken rightly;
no man relents of his evil, saying, ‘What have I done?’

Everyone turns to his own course,
[d] like a horse plunging headlong into battle.
7 Even the stork in the heavens knows her times,
and [e] the turtledove, [f] swallow, and crane [1]
keep the time of their coming, [g] but my people know not the rules [2] of the LORD.

8[†] [h] “How can you say, ‘We are wise, and the law of the LORD is with us’?
But behold, the lying pen of the scribes has made it into a lie.
9[†] [i] The wise men shall be put to shame;
they shall be dismayed [j] and taken;
behold, they have rejected the word of the LORD,
so what wisdom is in them?
10 [k] Therefore I will give their wives to others and their fields to conquerors, because from the least to the greatest everyone [l] is greedy for unjust gain;
from prophet to priest,
everyone deals falsely.
11[†] They have healed [m] the wound of my people lightly, saying, ‘Peace, peace,’
when there is no peace.
12 Were they ashamed when they committed abomination?
No, [n] they were not at all ashamed;
they did not know how to blush.
[o] Therefore they shall fall among the fallen;
when I punish them, they shall be overthrown,
says the LORD.
13 When I would gather them, declares the LORD,
there are [q] no grapes on the vine,
[r] nor figs on the fig tree;

[s] even the leaves are withered, and what I gave them has passed away from them.” [3]

14 Why do we sit still?
[t] Gather together; [t] let us go into the fortified cities and perish there, for the LORD our God has doomed us to perish and has [u] given us [v] poisoned water to drink, because we have sinned against the LORD.
15[†] [w] We looked for peace, but no good came;
for a time of healing, but behold, terror.

16 [x] “The snorting of their horses is heard [y] from Dan;
at the sound of the neighing [z] of their stallions [a] the whole land quakes.
They come [b] and devour the land and all that fills it,
the city and those who dwell in it.
17 For behold, I am sending among you [c] serpents, adders [d] that cannot be charmed, [e] and they shall bite you,”
declares the LORD.

Jeremiah Grieves for His People

18[†] My joy is gone; grief is upon me; [4]
[f] my heart is sick within me.
19 Behold, the cry of the daughter of my people from [g] the length and breadth of the land:
“Is the LORD not in Zion?
[h] Is her King not in her?”
[i] “Why have they provoked me to anger with their carved images and with their foreign idols?” 20 “The harvest is past, the summer is ended, and we are not saved.”
21 For the wound of [j] the daughter of my people is my heart wounded;

[k] I mourn, and dismay has taken hold on me.

22 Is there no [l] balm in Gilead?
Is there no physician there?
Why then has the health of the daughter of my people not been restored?
JEREMIAH 9 [†] [1] [m] Oh that my head were waters, and my eyes a fountain of tears, that I might weep day and night for the slain of [j] the daughter of my people!
2[†] [2] Oh that I had in the desert
a travelers’ lodging place, that I might leave my people
and go away from them!
For they are all [n] adulterers,
a company of [o] treacherous men.
3[†] [p] They bend their tongue like a bow;
falsehood and not truth has grown strong [3] in the land;
for they proceed from evil to evil,
[q] and they do not know me, declares the LORD.

4 [r] Let everyone beware of his neighbor, and put no trust in any brother,
for every [s] brother is a deceiver,
and every neighbor [t] goes about as a slanderer.
5 Everyone deceives his neighbor, and no one speaks the truth;
they have taught their tongue to speak lies;
they weary themselves committing iniquity.
6 Heaping oppression upon oppression, and deceit upon deceit,
[u] they refuse to know me, declares the LORD.

7 Therefore thus says the LORD of hosts:
“Behold, [v] I will refine them and [w] test them, for what else can I do, [j] because of my people?

8 [x] Their tongue is a deadly arrow;
[y] it speaks deceitfully;
with his mouth [z] each speaks peace to his neighbor,
but in his heart [a] he plans an ambush for him.
9 [b] Shall I not punish them for these things? declares the LORD,
and shall I not avenge myself
on a nation such as this?

10 “I will take up weeping and wailing for the mountains, and a lamentation for [c] the pastures of the wilderness, [d] because they are laid waste so that no one passes through,
and the lowing of cattle is not heard;
[e] both the birds of the air and the beasts have fled and are gone.
11 [f] I will make Jerusalem a heap of ruins,
[g] a lair of jackals,
[h] and I will make the cities of Judah a desolation,
without inhabitant.”

12[†] [i] Who is the man so wise that he can understand this? To whom has the mouth of the LORD spoken, that he may declare it? Why is the land ruined [j] and laid waste like a wilderness, so that no one passes through?
13And the LORD says: [k] “Because they have forsaken my law that I set before them, and have not obeyed my voice or walked in accord with it, 14but [l] have stubbornly followed their own hearts and have gone after the Baals, as their fathers taught them. 15[†]Therefore thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: [m] Behold, I will feed this people with bitter food, and give them [n] poisonous water to drink. 16 [o] I will scatter them among the nations [p] whom neither they nor their fathers have known, and I will [q] send the sword after them, until I have consumed them.”

17 Thus says the LORD of hosts:
[r] “Consider, and call for the mourning women to come;
send for the skillful women to come;
18 let them make haste [s] and raise a wailing over us,

[t] that our eyes may run down with tears and our eyelids flow with water.
19 For a sound of wailing is heard from Zion:
[u] 'How we are ruined!
We are utterly shamed,
because we have left the land,
because they have cast down our dwellings.'"

20 Hear, O women, the word of the LORD, and let your ear receive the word of his mouth;
teach to your daughters a lament,
and each to her neighbor a dirge.
21 For death has come up into our windows;
it has entered our palaces, [v] cutting off the children from the streets and the young men from the squares.
22 Speak: "Thus declares the LORD, [w] 'The dead bodies of men shall fall like dung upon the open field, [x] like sheaves after the reaper,
and none shall gather them.'"

23[†]Thus says the LORD: [y] "Let not the wise man boast in his wisdom, let not the mighty man boast in his might, let not the rich man boast in his riches, 24but [z] let him who boasts boast in this, that he understands and knows me, that I am the LORD who practices steadfast love, justice, and righteousness in the earth. [a] For in these things I delight, declares the LORD."

25[†]"Behold, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when [b] I will punish all those who are circumcised merely in the flesh— 26 [c] Egypt, Judah, Edom, the sons of Ammon, Moab, and [d] all who dwell in the desert who cut the corners of their hair, for all these nations are uncircumcised, and all the house of Israel are [e] uncircumcised in heart."

Idols and the Living God

JEREMIAH 10 Hear the word that the LORD speaks to you, O house of Israel.
2Thus says the LORD:

“Learn not the way of the nations, nor be dismayed at the signs of the heavens
because the nations are dismayed at them,
3[†] [f] for the customs of the peoples are vanity. [1]
[g] A tree from the forest is cut down and worked with an axe by the hands of a craftsman.
4 [h] They decorate it with silver and gold;
[i] they fasten it with hammer and nails
so that it cannot move.
5 Their idols [2] are like scarecrows in a cucumber field,
and [j] they cannot speak; [k] they have to be carried,
for they cannot walk.
Do not be afraid of them,
[l] for they cannot do evil, neither is it in them to do good.”

6 [m] There is none like you, O LORD;
you are great, and your name is great in might.
7 [n] Who would not fear you, O King of the nations?
For this is your due;
for among all the wise ones of the nations and in all their kingdoms
there is none like you.
8[†] [o] They are both [p] stupid and foolish;
the instruction of idols is but wood!
9 [q] Beaten silver is brought from [r] Tarshish, and gold from [s] Uphaz.
[q] They are the work of the craftsman and of the hands of the goldsmith;
their clothing is violet and purple;
[t] they are all the work of skilled men.

10 [u]But the LORD is the true God;
[v]he is the living God and the everlasting King.
At his wrath the earth quakes,
and the nations cannot endure his indignation.

11[†]Thus shall you say to them: [w]“The gods who did not make the heavens and the earth [x]shall perish from the earth and from under the heavens.”[3]

12 [y]It is he who [z]made the earth by his power, [z]who established the world by his wisdom,
and [a]by his understanding stretched out the heavens.
13 [b]When he utters his voice, there is a tumult of waters in the heavens,
[c]and he makes the mist rise from the ends of the earth.
[c]He makes lightning [d]for the rain,
[c]and he brings forth the wind [e]from his storehouses.
14 [f]Every man is stupid and without knowledge;
[g]every goldsmith is put to shame by his idols,
for his images are false,
[h]and there is no breath in them.
15 They are worthless, a work of delusion;
at the time of their punishment they shall perish.
16 Not like these is he who is [i]the portion of Jacob,
for he is the one who formed all things,
[j]and Israel is the tribe of his inheritance;
[k]the LORD of hosts is his name.

17 [l]Gather up your bundle from the ground,
O you who dwell under siege!
18 For thus says the LORD:
[m]“Behold, I am slinging out the inhabitants of the land
at this time,
[n]and I will bring distress on them,
that they may feel it.”

19[†] Woe is me because of my hurt!
[o]My wound is grievous.
But I said, “Truly this is an affliction, and I must bear it.”
20 [p]My tent is destroyed, and all my cords are broken;
my children have gone from me, [q]and they are not;
there is no one to spread my tent again
and [p]to set up my curtains.
21[†] [r]For the shepherds [s]are stupid and do not inquire of the Lord;
therefore they have not prospered,
[t]and all their flock is scattered.

22 A voice, a rumor! Behold, it comes!— [u]a great commotion out of the north country to make [v]the cities of Judah a desolation, [v]a lair of jackals.

23[†] [w]I know, O Lord, that the way of man is not in himself, that it is not in man who walks to direct his steps.
24 [x]Correct me, O Lord, but in justice;
not in your anger, lest you bring me to nothing.

25 [y]Pour out your wrath on the nations that know you not,
and on the peoples that call not on your name, [z]for they have devoured Jacob;
they have devoured him and consumed him,
and have laid waste his habitation.

The Broken Covenant

JEREMIAH 11 [†]The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord:
2[†] [a]“Hear the words of this covenant, and speak to the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. 3You shall say to them, Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel: [b]Cursed be the man who does not hear the words of this covenant 4[†]that I commanded your fathers when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, [c]from the iron furnace, saying, [d]Listen to my voice, and do all that I command you. [d]So shall you be my people, and I will be your God, 5[e]that I may confirm the oath that I swore to your fathers, [f]to give them a land flowing with milk and honey, as at this day." Then I answered, "So be it, LORD."

6And the LORD said to me, [g]"Proclaim all these words in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem: [h]Hear the words of this covenant and do them. 7For I solemnly warned your fathers when I brought them up out of the land of Egypt, [i]warning them persistently, even to this day, saying, [d]Obey my voice. 8[j]Yet they did not obey or incline their ear, [k]but everyone walked in the stubbornness of his evil heart. Therefore I brought upon them all [h]the words of this covenant, which I commanded them to do, but they did not."

9[†]Again the LORD said to me, [l]"A conspiracy exists among the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. 10[†]They have turned back to [m]the iniquities of their forefathers, who refused to hear my words. [m]They have gone after other gods to serve them. [n]The house of Israel and the house of Judah have broken my covenant that I made with their fathers. 11[†]Therefore, thus says the LORD, Behold, I am bringing disaster upon them that they cannot escape. [o]Though they cry to me, I will not listen to them. 12Then the cities of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem [p]will go and cry to the gods to whom they make offerings, [p]but they cannot save them in the time of their trouble. 13[†][p]For your gods have become as many as your cities, O Judah, and as many as the streets of Jerusalem are the altars you have set up to shame, [q]altars to make offerings to Baal.

14[†]"Therefore [r]do not pray for this people, or lift up a cry or prayer on their behalf, [o]for I will not listen when they call to me in the time of their trouble. 15[s]What right has my beloved in my house, [t]when she has done many vile deeds? Can even sacrificial flesh avert your doom? [u]Can you then exult? 16[†]The LORD once called you [v]'a green olive tree, beautiful with good fruit.' But [w]with the roar of a great tempest he will set fire to it, and [x]its branches will be consumed. 17The LORD of hosts, [y]who planted you, has decreed disaster against you, because of the evil that the house of Israel and the house of Judah have done, [z] provoking me to anger by making offerings to Baal.”

[18][†] The LORD made it known to me and I knew;
then you showed me their deeds.
[19] But I was [a] like a gentle lamb led to the slaughter.
I did not know [b] it was against me
they devised schemes, saying, “Let us destroy the tree with its fruit,
[c] let us cut him off from [d] the land of the living, that his name be remembered no more.”
[20] But, O LORD of hosts, who judges righteously, who [e] tests [f] the heart and the mind, [g] let me see your vengeance upon them,
for to you have I committed my cause.

[21][†]Therefore thus says the LORD concerning the men of [h] Anathoth, [i] who seek your life, and say, [j] “Do not prophesy in the name of the LORD, or you will die by our hand”— [22][†]therefore thus says the LORD of hosts: “Behold, I will punish them. The young men shall die by the sword, their sons and their daughters shall die by famine, [23]and none of them shall be left. For I will bring disaster upon the men of [k] Anathoth, [l] the year of their punishment.”

Jeremiah’s Complaint

JEREMIAH 12 [†] [m] Righteous are you, O LORD, when I complain to you;
yet I would plead my case before you.
[n] Why does the way of the wicked prosper?
Why do all [o] who are treacherous thrive?
[2][†] You plant them, and they take root;
they grow and produce fruit;
[p] you are near in their mouth and far from their heart.

3[†] [q]But you, O Lord, know me;
[r]you see me, and test my heart toward you.
[s]Pull them out like sheep for the slaughter, and set them apart for [t]the day of slaughter.
4 [u]How long will the land mourn and the grass of every field wither?
[v]For the evil of those who dwell in it [w]the beasts and the birds are swept away, because they said, “He will not see our latter end.”

The Lord Answers Jeremiah

5[†] “If you have raced with men on foot, and they have wearied you, how will you compete with horses?
And if in a safe land you are so trusting,
what will you do in [x]the thicket of the Jordan?
6 For [y]even your brothers and the house of your father, [o]even they have dealt treacherously with you;
they are in full cry after you; [z]do not believe them,
though they speak friendly words to you.”

7[†] “I have forsaken my house;
I have abandoned [a]my heritage;
I have given [b]the beloved of my soul into the hands of her enemies.
8 [a]My heritage has become to me like a lion in the forest;
she has lifted up her voice against me;
therefore I hate her.
9[†] Is [a]my heritage to me like [c]a hyena’s lair?
Are the [c]birds of prey against her all around?
Go, [d]assemble all the wild beasts;
bring them to devour.

[10][†] Many shepherds have destroyed my vineyard;
[e] they have trampled down my portion;
they have made my pleasant portion a desolate wilderness.
[11] They have made it a desolation;
desolate, [u] it mourns to me.
The whole land is made desolate,
[f] but no man lays it to heart.
[12][†] Upon all the bare heights in the desert destroyers have come,
for the sword of the LORD devours from one end of the land to the other;
no flesh has peace.
[13] [g] They have sown wheat and have reaped thorns;
[h] they have tired themselves out but profit nothing.
They shall be ashamed of their [1] harvests
[i] because of the fierce anger of the LORD."

[14]Thus says the LORD concerning all [j] my evil neighbors [k] who touch the heritage that [l] I have given my people Israel to inherit: "Behold, I will pluck them up from their land, and I will pluck up the house of Judah from among them. [15][†]And after I have plucked them up, I will again have compassion on them, [m] and I will bring them again each to his heritage and each to his land. [16][†]And it shall come to pass, if they will diligently learn the ways of my people, [n] to swear by my name, 'As the LORD lives,' even as they taught my people to swear by Baal, [o] then they shall be built up in the midst of my people. [17][p] But if any nation will not listen, then I will utterly pluck it up and destroy it, declares the LORD."

The Ruined Loincloth

JEREMIAH 13 [†]Thus says the LORD to me, "Go and buy a linen loincloth and [q] put it around your waist, and do not dip it in water." [2][†]So I bought a loincloth according to the word of the LORD, and put it around my waist. [3]And the word of the LORD came to me a second time, [4]"Take the loincloth that you have bought, which is around your waist, and arise, [r]go to the Euphrates and hide it there in [s]a cleft of the rock.” [5]So I went and hid it by the Euphrates, as the LORD commanded me. [6]And after many days the LORD said to me, “Arise, go to the Euphrates, and take from there [q]the loincloth that I commanded you to hide there.” [7]Then I went to the Euphrates, and dug, and I took [q]the loincloth from the place where I had hidden it. And behold, the loincloth was [t]spoiled; it was [u]good for nothing.

[8][†]Then the word of the LORD came to me: [9]“Thus says the LORD: [v]Even so will I spoil the pride of Judah and the great [w]pride of Jerusalem. [10]This evil people, who refuse to hear my words, [x]who stubbornly follow their own heart and have gone after other gods to serve them and worship them, shall be like this loincloth, which is [u]good for nothing. [11]For as the loincloth clings to the waist of a man, so I made the whole house of Israel and the whole house of Judah cling to me, declares the LORD, [y]that they might be for me a people, [z]a name, a praise, and a glory, but they would not listen.

The Jars Filled with Wine

[12]“You shall speak to them this word: ‘Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, “Every jar shall be filled with wine.”’ And they will say to you, ‘Do we not indeed know that [a]every jar will be filled with wine?’ [13]Then you shall say to them, ‘Thus says the LORD: [b]Behold, I will fill with drunkenness all the inhabitants of this land: [c]the kings who sit on David’s throne, [d]the priests, the prophets, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem. [14]And I will [e]dash them one against another, fathers and sons together, declares the LORD. I will not pity or spare or have compassion, that I should not destroy them.’”

Exile Threatened

[15][†] Hear and give ear; be not proud,
for the LORD has spoken.
[16] [f]Give glory to the LORD your God
[g]before he brings darkness, before your feet stumble

on the twilight mountains, and [g] while you look for light
he turns it into gloom and makes it [h] deep darkness.
[17] But if you will not listen,
[i] my soul will weep in secret for your pride;
my eyes will weep bitterly and run down with tears,
because the LORD's flock has been taken captive.

[18] Say to [j] the king and [j] the queen mother:
"Take a lowly seat,
for [k] your beautiful crown has come down from your head." [19][†] [l] The cities of the Negeb are shut up, with none to open them;
all Judah is taken into exile,
wholly taken into exile.

[20][†] "Lift up your eyes [m] and see those who come from the north.
Where is the flock that was given you,
your beautiful flock?
[21] What will you say when they set as head over you those whom you yourself have taught to be friends to you?
[n] Will not pangs take hold of you like those of a woman in labor?
[22] And if you say in your heart,
[o] 'Why have these things come upon me?'
it is for the greatness of your iniquity that [p] your skirts are lifted up and you suffer violence.
[23] [q] Can the Ethiopian change his skin or [q] the leopard his spots?
Then also you can do good who are accustomed to do evil.

24 I will scatter you [1] [r] like chaff driven by the wind from the desert.
25 [s] This is your lot,
the portion I have measured out to you, declares the LORD, because [t] you have forgotten me
and trusted in lies.
26 [†] [p] I myself will lift up your skirts over your face, and your shame will be seen.
27 I have seen [u] your abominations, your adulteries and [v] neighings, your lewd whorings, [w] on the hills in the field.
Woe to you, O Jerusalem!
How long will it be [x] before you are made clean?”

Famine, Sword, and Pestilence

JEREMIAH 14 [†]The word of the LORD that came to Jeremiah concerning [y]the drought:

2 [z]“Judah mourns,
and [a]her gates languish;
her people lament on the ground,
and [b]the cry of Jerusalem goes up.
3 Her nobles send their servants for water;
they come to the cisterns;
they find no water;
they return with their vessels empty;
they are [c]ashamed and confounded and [d]cover their heads.
4 Because of the ground that is dismayed, since there is [e]no rain on the land,
the farmers are ashamed;
they cover their heads.
5 Even [f]the doe in the field forsakes her newborn fawn because there is no grass.
6 [g]The wild donkeys stand on the bare heights;
they pant for air like jackals;
their eyes fail
because there is no vegetation.

7[†] “Though our iniquities testify against us, act, O LORD, [h]for your name’s sake;
[i]for our backslidings are many;
[j]we have sinned against you.
8[†] [k]O you hope of Israel, its savior in time of trouble,
why should you be like a stranger in the land,
like a traveler who turns aside to tarry for a night?
9 Why should you be like a man confused,

[l] like a mighty warrior who cannot save?
Yet [m] you, O LORD, are in the midst of us,
and [n] we are called by your name;
[o] do not leave us.”

[10][†] Thus says the LORD concerning this people:
“They have loved to wander thus;
they have not restrained their feet;
[p] therefore the LORD does not accept them;
[q] now he will remember their iniquity
and punish their sins.”

[11]The LORD said to me: [r] “Do not pray for the welfare of this people. [12]Though they fast, I will not hear their cry, [s] and though they offer burnt offering and grain offering, I will not accept them. But I will consume them [t] by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence.”

Lying Prophets

[13]Then I said: “Ah, Lord GOD, behold, the prophets [u] say to them, ‘You shall not see the sword, nor shall you have famine, but I will give you assured peace in this place.’” [14]And the LORD said to me: “The [v] prophets are prophesying lies in my name. [w] I did not send them, nor did I command them or speak to them. They are prophesying to you a lying vision, [x] worthless divination, and [y] the deceit of their own minds. [15][†]Therefore thus says the LORD concerning the prophets who prophesy in my name although [w] I did not send them, and who say, [t] ‘Sword and famine shall not come upon this land’: [z] By sword and famine those prophets shall be consumed. [16]And the people to whom they prophesy shall be cast out in the streets of Jerusalem, victims of famine and sword, [a] with none to bury them—them, their wives, their sons, and their daughters. For I will pour out their evil upon them.

[17] “You shall say to them this word:
[b] ‘Let my eyes run down with tears night and day,
and let them not cease,

for the virgin [c] daughter of my people is shattered with a great wound, [d] with a very grievous blow.
18 [e] If I go out into the field, behold, those pierced by the sword!
[e] And if I enter the city, behold, the diseases of famine!
[f] For both prophet and priest ply their trade through the land and have no knowledge.'"

19[†] [g] Have you utterly rejected Judah?
Does your soul loathe Zion?
Why have you struck us down
[h] so that there is no healing for us?
[i] We looked for peace, but no good came;
[i] for a time of healing, but behold, terror.
20[†] [j] We acknowledge our wickedness, O LORD, and the iniquity of our fathers,
[j] for we have sinned against you.
21 Do not spurn us, [k] for your name's sake;
do not dishonor your glorious throne;
[l] remember and do not break your covenant with us.
22 Are there any among [m] the false gods of the nations [n] that can bring rain?
Or can the heavens give showers?
Are you not he, O LORD our God?
We set our hope on you,
[o] for you do all these things.

The LORD Will Not Relent

JEREMIAH 15 Then the LORD said to me, [p] "Though [q] Moses [r] and Samuel [s] stood before me, yet my heart would not turn toward this people. Send them out of my sight, and let them go! 2[†]And when they ask you, 'Where shall we go?' you shall say to them, 'Thus says the LORD:

[t] "'Those who are for pestilence, to pestilence, and those who are for the sword, to the sword;
those who are for famine, to famine,
and those who are for captivity, to captivity.'

[3] [u] I will appoint over them four kinds of destroyers, declares the LORD: the sword to kill, the dogs to tear, and [v] the birds of the air [w] and the beasts of the earth to devour and destroy. [4][†] [x] And I will make them a horror to all the kingdoms of the earth because of what [y] Manasseh the son of Hezekiah, king of Judah, did in Jerusalem.

[5][†] [z] "Who will have pity on you, O Jerusalem, [z] or who will grieve for you?
Who will turn aside
to ask about your welfare?
[6][†] [a] You have rejected me, declares the LORD;
[b] you keep going backward, so I have stretched out my hand against you and destroyed you—[c] I am weary of relenting.
[7][†] [d] I have winnowed them with [e] a winnowing fork
in the gates of the land;
I have bereaved them; I have destroyed my people;
[f] they did not turn from their ways.
[8] I have made their widows more in number than [g] the sand of the seas;
I have brought against the mothers of young men
a destroyer at noonday;
I have made anguish and terror fall upon them suddenly.
[9][†] [h] She who bore seven has grown feeble;
[i] she has fainted away;
[j] her sun went down while it was yet day;
she has been shamed and disgraced.
And the rest of them I will give to the sword before their enemies,

declares the LORD.”

Jeremiah’s Complaint

[10] [k] Woe is me, my mother, that you bore me, a man of strife and contention to the whole land! [l] I have not lent, nor have I borrowed, yet all of them curse me. [11] The LORD said, “Have I not [1] set you free for their good? Have I not pleaded for you before the enemy in the time of trouble and in the time of distress? [12] Can one break iron, iron [m] from the north, and bronze?

[13] [†] [n] “Your wealth and your treasures I will give as [o] spoil, without price, for all your sins, throughout all your territory. [14] I will make you serve your enemies [p] in a land that you do not know, [q] for in my anger a fire is kindled that shall burn forever.”

[15] [†] [r] O LORD, you know;
[s] remember me and visit me,
[s] [t] and take vengeance for me on my persecutors.
In your forbearance take me not away;
[u] know that [v] for your sake I bear reproach.
[16] [†] Your words were found, [w] and I ate them, and [x] your words became to me a joy and the delight of my heart, [y] for I am called by your name,
O LORD, God of hosts.
[17] [z] I did not sit in the company of revelers, nor did I rejoice;
[a] I sat alone, because your hand was upon me,
for you had filled me with indignation.
[18] [†] Why is my pain unceasing,
[b] my wound incurable,
refusing to be healed?
Will you be to me [c] like a deceitful brook,
like waters that fail?

[19] [†] Therefore thus says the LORD:

[d]“If you return, I will restore you,
  and you shall [e]stand before me.
If you utter what is precious, and not what is worthless,
  you shall be as my mouth.
They shall turn to you,
  but you shall not turn to them.
20[†] [f]And I will make you to this people a fortified wall of bronze;
they will fight against you,
  [g]but they shall not prevail over you,
[h]for I am with you to save you and deliver you,
declares the LORD.
21 [g]I will deliver you out of the hand of the wicked, and redeem you from the grasp of [i]the ruthless.”

Famine, Sword, and Death

JEREMIAH 16 The word of the LORD came to me: 2[†]“You shall not take a wife, nor shall you have sons or daughters in this place. 3For thus says the LORD concerning the sons and daughters who are born in this place, and concerning the mothers who bore them and the fathers who fathered them in this land: 4[j]They shall die of deadly diseases. [k]They shall not be lamented, nor shall they be buried. [l]They shall be as dung on the surface of the ground. [m]They shall perish by the sword and by famine, [n]and their dead bodies shall be food for the birds of the air and for the beasts of the earth.

5[†]“For thus says the LORD: [o]Do not enter the house of mourning, or go to lament or grieve for them, for I have taken away my peace from this people, my steadfast love and mercy, declares the LORD. 6Both great and small shall die in this land. [k]They shall not be buried, and no one shall lament for them or [p]cut himself [q]or make himself bald for them. 7No one shall [r]break bread for the mourner, to comfort him for the dead, nor shall anyone give him the cup of consolation to drink for his father or his mother. 8You shall not go into the house of feasting to sit with them, to eat and drink. [9]For thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: [s]Behold, I will silence in this place, before your eyes and in your days, the voice of mirth and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride.

[10]“And when you tell this people all these words, and they say to you, [t]‘Why has the Lord pronounced all this great evil against us? What is our iniquity? What is the sin that we have committed against the Lord our God?’ [11]then you shall say to them: [u]‘Because your fathers have forsaken me, declares the Lord, and [v]have gone after other gods and have served and worshiped them, and have forsaken me and have not kept my law, [12]and because [w]you have done worse than your fathers, for behold, [x]every one of you follows his stubborn, evil will, refusing to listen to me. [13][†]Therefore [y]I will hurl you out of this land into [z]a land that neither you nor your fathers have known, [a]and there you shall serve other gods day and night, for I will show you no favor.’

The Lord Will Restore Israel

[14][†] [b]“Therefore, behold, the days are coming, declares the Lord, when it shall no longer be said, [c]‘As the Lord lives who brought up the people of Israel out of the land of Egypt,’ [15]but [c]‘As the Lord lives who brought up the people of Israel [d]out of the north country and out of all the countries where he had driven them.’ For [e]I will bring them back to their own land that I gave to their fathers.

[16]“Behold, [f]I am sending for many fishers, declares the Lord, and they shall catch them. And afterward I will send for many hunters, and they shall hunt them from every mountain and every hill, and out [g]of the clefts of the rocks. [17]For [h]my eyes are on all their ways. [i]They are not hidden from me, [i]nor is their iniquity concealed from my eyes. [18]But first [j]I will doubly repay their iniquity and their sin, because they have polluted my land with the carcasses of their detestable idols, and [k]have filled my inheritance with their abominations.”

[19][†] [l]O Lord, my strength and my stronghold,
  [m]my refuge in the day of trouble,

[n] to you shall the nations come from the ends of the earth and say:
“Our fathers have inherited nothing but lies,
[o] worthless things in which there is no profit.
20 Can man make for himself [p] gods?
Such are not gods!”

21“Therefore, behold, I will make them know, this once I will make them know my power and my might, and they shall know that [q] my name is the LORD.”

The Sin of Judah

JEREMIAH 17 [†]“The sin of Judah is written with [r] a pen of iron; with a point of diamond it is engraved on [s] the tablet of their heart, and on [t] the horns of their altars, 2while [u] their children remember their altars and their [v] Asherim, [w] beside every green tree and on the high hills, 3 [x] on the mountains in the open country. [y] Your wealth and all your treasures I will give for spoil as the price of your high places for sin throughout all your territory. 4You shall loosen your hand from your heritage that I gave to you, [z] and I will make you serve your enemies in a land that you do not know, [a] for in my anger a fire is kindled that shall burn forever.”

5[†] Thus says the LORD:
“Cursed is the man [b] who trusts in man and makes flesh his strength, [1] whose heart turns away from the LORD.
6[†] [c] He is like a shrub in the desert,
[d] and shall not see any good come.
He shall dwell in the parched places of the wilderness,
in [e] an uninhabited salt land.

7[†] [f]“Blessed is the man who trusts in the LORD,
[g] whose trust is the LORD.
8[†] [h] He is like a tree planted by water, that sends out its roots by the stream, and does not fear when heat comes,

for its leaves remain green,
and is not anxious in the year of drought,
for it does not cease to bear fruit.”

9[†] The heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately sick;
who can understand it?
10 [i] “I the LORD search the heart
[j] and test the mind, [2]
[k] to give every man according to his ways, according to the fruit of his deeds.”

11 Like the [l] partridge that gathers a brood that she did not hatch, so is [m] he who gets riches but not by justice;
[n] in the midst of his days they will leave him,
[o] and at his end he will be a fool.

12[†] A glorious throne set on high from the beginning is the place of our sanctuary.
13 O LORD, [p] the hope of Israel, [q] all who forsake you shall be put to shame;
those who turn away from you [3] [r] shall be written in the earth, for [s] they have forsaken [t] the LORD, the fountain of living water.

Jeremiah Prays for Deliverance

14[†] [u] Heal me, O LORD, and I shall be healed;
save me, and I shall be saved,
for [v] you are my praise.
15 [w] Behold, they say to me,
“Where is the word of the LORD?
Let it come!”
16[†] I have not run away from being your shepherd, nor have I desired the day of sickness.

[x] You know [x] what came out of my lips;
  it was before your face.
17 [†] Be not a terror to me;
  [y] you are my refuge in the day of disaster.
18 [z] Let those be put to shame who persecute me, but let me not be put to shame; [z] let them be dismayed,
  but let me not be dismayed;
[a] bring upon them the day of disaster;
  destroy them with double destruction!

Keep the Sabbath Holy

19 Thus said the Lord to me: “Go and stand in the People’s Gate, by which [b] the kings of Judah enter and by which they go out, and in all the gates of Jerusalem, 20 and say: ‘Hear the word of the Lord, [b] you kings of Judah, and all Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, who enter by these gates. 21 Thus says the Lord: Take care for the sake of your lives, and [c] do not bear a burden on the Sabbath day or bring it in by the gates of Jerusalem. 22 And do not carry a burden out of your houses on the Sabbath [d] or do any work, but [e] keep the Sabbath day holy, as I commanded your fathers. 23 Yet [f] they did not listen or incline their ear, [g] but stiffened their neck, that they [h] might not hear and receive instruction.

24 [†] “‘But if you listen to me, declares the Lord, and [c] bring in no burden by the gates of this city on the Sabbath day, but [e] keep the Sabbath day holy and do no work on it, 25 then [i] there shall enter by the gates of this city kings and princes who sit on the throne of David, riding in chariots and on horses, they and their officials, the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. And this city shall be inhabited forever. 26 And people shall come from [j] the cities of Judah [k] and the places around Jerusalem, [j] from the land of Benjamin, [k] from the Shephelah, from the hill country, [k] and from [l] the Negeb, bringing [m] burnt offerings and sacrifices, grain offerings and frankincense, and [m] bringing thank offerings to the house of the Lord. 27 But if you do not listen to me, to [e] keep the Sabbath day holy, [c] and not to bear a burden and enter by the gates of Jerusalem on the Sabbath day, then I will [n]kindle a fire in its gates, and it shall [o]devour the palaces of Jerusalem and [p]shall not be quenched.'"

The Potter and the Clay

JEREMIAH 18 The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD: [2]"Arise, and go down to [q]the potter's house, and there I will let you hear my words." [3]So I went down to [r]the potter's house, and there he was working at his wheel. [4][†]And the vessel he was making of clay was [s]spoiled in the potter's hand, and [t]he reworked it into another vessel, as it seemed good to the potter to do.

[5]Then the word of the LORD came to me: [6][†]"O house of Israel, [u]can I not do with you as this potter has done? declares the LORD. [v]Behold, like the clay in the potter's hand, so are you in my hand, O house of Israel. [7][†]If at any time I declare concerning a nation or a kingdom, that I will [w]pluck up and break down and destroy it, [8][†]and if that nation, concerning which I have spoken, [x]turns from its evil, [y]I will relent of the disaster that I intended to do to it. [9][†]And if at any time I declare concerning a nation or a kingdom that I will [w]build and plant it, [10][†]and if it does evil in my sight, not listening to my voice, then I will relent of the good that I had intended to do to it. [11]Now, therefore, say to the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem: 'Thus says the LORD, Behold, I am shaping disaster against you and devising a plan against you. [z]Return, every one from his evil way, and [a]amend your ways and your deeds.'

[12]"But they say, [b]'That is in vain! We will follow our own plans, and will every one act according to [c]the stubbornness of his evil heart.'

[13][†] "Therefore thus says the LORD:
[d]Ask among the nations,
Who has heard the like of this?
The virgin Israel has done [e]a very horrible thing.
[14][†] Does the snow of Lebanon leave the crags of Sirion? [1]
Do the mountain waters run dry, [2]

the cold flowing streams?
15 [f]But my people have forgotten me;
they make offerings to [g]false gods;
they made them stumble in their ways, [h]in the ancient roads,
and to walk into side roads,
[i]not the highway,
16 making their land [j]a horror,
a thing [j]to be hissed at forever.
[k]Everyone who passes by it is horrified [l]and shakes his head.
17 [m]Like the east wind [n]I will scatter them before the enemy.
[o]I will show them my back, not my face,
in the day of their calamity.”

18[†]Then they said, [p]“Come, let us make plots against Jeremiah, [q]for the law shall not perish from the priest, nor counsel from the wise, nor the word from the prophet. [r]Come, let us strike him with the tongue, and let us not pay attention to any of his words.”

19[†] Hear me, O Lord, and [s]listen to the voice of my adversaries.
20 [t]Should good be repaid with evil?
Yet [u]they have dug a pit for my life.
[v]Remember how I stood before you to speak good for them,
to turn away your wrath from them.
21 Therefore [w]deliver up their children to famine;
give them over to the power of the sword;
let their wives become childless [x]and widowed.
May their men meet death by pestilence,
their youths be struck down by the sword in battle.
22 [y]May a cry be heard from their houses,
when you bring the plunderer suddenly upon them!

For [u]they have dug a pit to take me
[z]and laid snares for my feet.
[23] Yet [a]you, O LORD, know all their plotting to kill me.
[b]Forgive not their iniquity,
nor blot out their sin from your sight.
Let them be overthrown before you;
deal with them in the time of your anger.

The Broken Flask

JEREMIAH 19 [†]Thus says the LORD, “Go, buy [c]a potter’s earthenware [d]flask, and take some of [e]the elders of the people and some of [e]the elders of the priests, [2][†]and go out [f]to the Valley of the Son of Hinnom at the entry of the Potsherd Gate, and proclaim there the words that I tell you. [3][†]You shall say, [g]‘Hear the word of the LORD, [h]O kings of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem. Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I am bringing such disaster upon this place that [i]the ears of everyone who hears of it will tingle. [4][†][j]Because the people have forsaken me and have profaned this place by making offerings in it to other gods whom neither they nor their fathers nor the kings of Judah have known; [k]and because they have filled this place with the blood of innocents, [5][l]and have built the high places of Baal [l]to burn their sons in the fire as burnt offerings to Baal, [m]which I did not command or decree, nor did it come into my mind— [6]therefore, [n]behold, days are coming, declares the LORD, when this place shall no more be called Topheth, or [o]the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, but the Valley of Slaughter. [7][†]And in this place [p]I will make void the plans of Judah and Jerusalem, [q]and will cause their people to fall by the sword before their enemies, and by the hand of those who seek their life. [r]I will give their dead bodies for food to the birds of the air and to the beasts of the earth. [8]And I will make this city [s]a horror, [s]a thing to be hissed at. Everyone who passes by it will be horrified and will hiss because of all its wounds. [9][†][t]And I will make them eat the flesh of their sons and their daughters, and everyone shall eat the flesh of his neighbor [u]in the siege and in the distress, with which their enemies and those who seek their life afflict them.’

[10][†]“Then [v]you shall break [w]the flask in the sight of the men who go with you, [11]and shall say to them, ‘Thus says the LORD of hosts: So will I break this people and this city, [x]as one breaks a potter’s vessel, [y]so that it can never be mended. [z]Men shall bury in Topheth because there will be no place else to bury. [12][†]Thus will I do to this place, declares the LORD, and to its inhabitants, making this city [a]like Topheth. [13]The houses of Jerusalem and the houses of the kings of Judah—[b]all the houses on whose [c]roofs offerings have been offered [d]to all the host of heaven, and [e]drink offerings have been poured out to other gods—shall be defiled [a]like the place of Topheth.’”

[14]Then Jeremiah came from [f]Topheth, where the LORD had sent him to prophesy, [g]and he stood in the court of the LORD’s house and said to all the people: [15]“Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, behold, I am bringing upon this city and upon all its towns all the disaster that I have pronounced against it, [h]because they have stiffened their neck, [i]refusing to hear my words.”

Jeremiah Persecuted by Pashhur

JEREMIAH 20 [†]Now [j]Pashhur the priest, the son of [k]Immer, who was [l]chief officer in the house of the LORD, heard Jeremiah prophesying these things. [2]Then [j]Pashhur beat Jeremiah the prophet, and put him [m]in the stocks that were in the upper [n]Benjamin Gate of the house of the LORD. [3][†]The next day, when [j]Pashhur released Jeremiah from the stocks, Jeremiah said to him, “The LORD does not call your name [j]Pashhur, but Terror on Every Side. [4][†]For thus says the LORD: Behold, I will make you [o]a terror to yourself and to all your friends. They shall fall by the sword of their enemies while you look on. And I will give all Judah into the hand of the king of Babylon. He shall carry them captive to Babylon, and shall strike them down with the sword. [5][†]Moreover, [p]I will give all the wealth of the city, all its gains, all its [q]prized belongings, and all the treasures of the kings of Judah into the hand of their enemies, who shall plunder them and seize them and carry them to Babylon. [6][†]And you, [r]Pashhur, and all who dwell in your house, shall go into captivity. To Babylon you shall go, and there you shall die, and there you shall be buried, you and all your friends, [s] to whom you have prophesied falsely.”

7[†] O Lord, [t] you have deceived me,
and I was deceived;
[u] you are stronger than I,
and you have prevailed.
[v] I have become a laughingstock all the day;
everyone mocks me.
8 For whenever I speak, I cry out,
I shout, [w] “Violence and destruction!”
For [x] the word of the Lord has become for me
[y] a reproach and [y] derision all day long.
9[†] If I say, “I will not mention him, or speak any more in his name,” [z] there is in my heart as it were a burning fire shut up in my bones, and [a] I am weary with holding it in,
and I cannot.
10 [b] For I hear many whispering.
[c] Terror is on every side!
“Denounce him! [d] Let us denounce him!”
say all my [e] close friends, [f] watching for [g] my fall.
“Perhaps he will be deceived;
then [h] we can overcome him
and take our revenge on him.”
11 But [i] the Lord is with me as a dread warrior;
therefore my persecutors will stumble;
[i] they will not overcome me.
[j] They will be greatly shamed,
for they will not succeed.
Their [k] eternal dishonor will never be forgotten.

12 O Lord of hosts, who tests the righteous, [l] who sees the heart and the mind, [1]
let me see your vengeance upon them,
for to you have I committed my cause.

13[†] [m] Sing to the Lord;
praise the Lord!
For he has delivered the life of the needy from the hand of evildoers.

14 [n] Cursed be the day on which I was born!
The day when my mother bore me,
let it not be blessed!
15 Cursed be the man who brought the news to my father,
“A son is born to you,”
[o] making him very glad.
16 Let that man be like [p] the cities that the Lord overthrew without pity; [q] let him hear a cry in the morning and an alarm at noon, 17 [r] because he did not kill me in the womb;
so my mother would have been my grave,
and her womb forever great.
18[†] [s] Why did I come out from the womb [t] to see toil and sorrow, and spend my days in shame?

Jerusalem Will Fall to Nebuchadnezzar

JEREMIAH 21 [†]This is the word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, when King Zedekiah sent to him [u]Pashhur the son of Malchiah and [v]Zephaniah the priest, the son of [w]Maaseiah, saying, 2 [x]"Inquire of the LORD for us, [y]for Nebuchadnezzar [1] king of Babylon is making war against us. Perhaps the LORD will deal with us according to [z]all his wonderful deeds and will make him withdraw from us."

3[†]Then Jeremiah said to them: "Thus you shall say to Zedekiah, 4'Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: [a]Behold, I will turn back the weapons of war that are in your hands and with which you are fighting against the king of Babylon and against the Chaldeans who are besieging you outside the walls. [b]And I will bring them together into the midst of this city. 5I myself will fight against you [c]with outstretched hand and strong arm, [d]in anger and in fury and in great wrath. 6And I will strike down the inhabitants of this city, both man and beast. They shall die of a great pestilence. 7Afterward, declares the LORD, [e]I will give Zedekiah king of Judah and his servants and the people in this city who survive the pestilence, sword, and famine into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and into the hand of their enemies, into the hand of those who seek their lives. He shall strike them down with the edge of the sword. [f]He shall not pity them or spare them or have compassion.'

8[†]"And to this people you shall say: [g]'Thus says the LORD: Behold, [h]I set before you the way of life and the way of death. 9He who stays in this city shall die [i]by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence, but he who goes out and [j]surrenders to the Chaldeans who are besieging you shall live [k]and shall have his life as a prize of war. 10For [l]I have set my face against this city for harm and [m]not for good, declares the LORD: [n]it shall be given into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall burn it with fire.'

Message to the House of David

11"And to the house of the king of Judah say, 'Hear the word of the LORD, 12[†]O house of David! Thus says the LORD:

[o]“‘Execute justice [p]in the morning, and deliver from the hand of the oppressor him who has been robbed, [q]lest my wrath go forth like fire,
and burn with none to quench it,
because of your evil deeds.’”

13 [r]“Behold, I am against you, O inhabitant of the valley, O rock of the plain,
declares the LORD;
you who say, [s]‘Who shall come down against us,
or who shall enter our habitations?’
14[†] [t]I will punish you according to [u]the fruit of your deeds,
declares the LORD;
[v]I will kindle a fire in her forest,
[v]and it shall devour all that is around her.”

JEREMIAH 22 Thus says the LORD: “Go down to the house of the king of Judah and speak there this word, [2]and say, [w]‘Hear the word of the LORD, O king of Judah, who sits on the throne of David, you, and your servants, and your people who enter these gates. [3][†]Thus says the LORD: [x]Do justice and righteousness, and deliver from the hand of the oppressor him who has been robbed. And [y]do no wrong or violence [z]to the resident alien, [x]the fatherless, and the widow, nor [a]shed innocent blood in this place. [4][†]For if you will indeed obey this word, [b]then there shall enter the gates of this house kings who sit on the throne of David, riding in chariots and on horses, they and their servants and their people. [5]But if you will not obey these words, I [c]swear by myself, declares the LORD, that [d]this house shall become a desolation. [6]For thus says the LORD concerning the house of the king of Judah:

“‘You are like Gilead to me, like the summit of [e]Lebanon,
yet surely I will make you a desert,
[f]an uninhabited city. [1]

[7][†] [g]I will prepare destroyers against you,
each with his weapons,
[h]and they shall cut down your choicest cedars and cast them into the fire.

[8]“‘And many nations will pass by this city, and every man will say to his neighbor, [i]“Why has the LORD dealt thus with this great city?” [9][j]And they will answer, “Because they have forsaken the covenant of the LORD their God and worshiped other gods and served them.”’”

[10] [k]Weep not for him who is dead, nor grieve for him, [l]but weep bitterly for him who goes away, for he shall return no more to see his native land.

Message to the Sons of Josiah

[11][†]For thus says the LORD concerning Shallum the son of Josiah, king of Judah, who reigned instead of Josiah his father, and [m]who went away from this place: “He shall return here no more, [12]but [m]in the place where they have carried him captive, there shall he die, and he shall never see this land again.”

[13][†] [n]“Woe to him who builds his house by [o]unrighteousness, and his upper rooms by injustice, [p]who makes his neighbor serve him for nothing and does not give him his wages, [14] who says, ‘I will build myself a great house with spacious upper rooms,’ who cuts out windows for it, paneling it with cedar and [q]painting it with vermilion.
[15] Do you think you are a king because you compete in cedar?
Did not your father eat and drink and [r] do justice and righteousness?

[s] Then it was well with him.
16 [t] He judged the cause of the poor and needy;
[s] then it was well.
Is not this [u] to know me?
declares the LORD.
17 But you have eyes and heart only for your dishonest gain, [v] for shedding innocent blood,
and for practicing oppression and violence."

18 Therefore thus says the LORD concerning Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah:

[w] "They shall not lament for him, saying,
[x] 'Ah, my brother!' or 'Ah, sister!'
They shall not lament for him, saying,
[y] 'Ah, lord!' or 'Ah, his majesty!'
19 With the burial of a donkey [z] he shall be buried, dragged and dumped beyond the gates of Jerusalem."

20 "Go up to Lebanon, and cry out, and lift up your voice in Bashan;
cry out from [a] Abarim,
for all [b] your lovers are destroyed.
21 I spoke to you in your prosperity,
but you said, 'I will not listen.'
[c] This has been your way from [d] your youth, that you have not obeyed my voice.
22 [e] The wind shall shepherd all your shepherds, and [b] your lovers shall go into captivity;
[f] then you will be ashamed and confounded because of all your evil.
23 O inhabitant of [g] Lebanon, nested among the cedars,

how you will be pitied when pangs come upon you,
[h] pain as of a woman in labor!”

[24][†] [i]“As I live, declares the LORD, though Coniah the son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, were [j] the signet ring on my right hand, yet I would tear you off [25]and [k] give you [l] into the hand of those who seek your life, into the hand of those of whom you are afraid, even into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and into the hand of the Chaldeans. [26] [m] I will hurl you and [n] the mother who bore you into another country, where you were not born, and there you shall die. [27]But to the land to which they will long to return, there they shall not return.”

[28] Is this man [o] Coniah a despised, broken pot, a [p] vessel no one cares for?
Why are he and his children hurled and cast into a [q] land that they do not know?
[29][†] [r] O land, land, land,
hear the word of the LORD!
[30] Thus says the LORD:
“Write this man down as [s] childless,
a man who shall not succeed in his days,
[t] for none of his offspring shall succeed [t] in sitting on the throne of David and ruling again in Judah.”

The Righteous Branch

JEREMIAH 23 [†] [u]“Woe to the shepherds who destroy and scatter the sheep of my pasture!” declares the LORD. [2]Therefore thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, concerning [u] the shepherds who care for my people: “You have scattered my flock and have driven them away, and you have not attended to them. [v] Behold, I will attend to you for your evil deeds, declares the LORD. [3][†] [w] Then I will gather the remnant of my flock [x] out of all the countries where I have driven them, and I will bring them back to their fold, [y] and they shall be fruitful and multiply. [4] [z] I will set shepherds over them who will care for them, and they shall fear no more, nor be dismayed, neither shall any be missing, declares the LORD.

[5][†] [a]“Behold, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when I will raise up for David a righteous [b]Branch, and [c]he shall reign as king and deal wisely, and shall execute justice and righteousness in the land. [6][†]In his days Judah will be saved, and [d]Israel will [e]dwell securely. And this is the name by which he will be called: [f]‘The LORD is our righteousness.’

[7][†] [g]“Therefore, behold, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when they shall no longer say, ‘As the LORD lives who brought up the people of Israel out of the land of Egypt,’ [8]but ‘As the LORD lives who brought up and led the offspring of the house of Israel out of the north country and out of all the countries where he [1] had driven them.’ Then they shall dwell in their own land.”

Lying Prophets

[9]Concerning the prophets:

[h]My heart is broken within me;
  [i]all my bones shake;
I am like a drunken man,
  like a man overcome by wine, because of the LORD
  and because of his holy words.
10 [j]For the land is full of adulterers;
  [k]because of the curse [l]the land mourns,
  and [m]the pastures of the wilderness are dried up.
[n]Their course is evil,
  and their might is not right.
11[†] [o]“Both prophet and priest are ungodly;
  even [p]in my house I have found their evil,
declares the LORD.
12 [q]Therefore their way shall be to them like slippery paths [r]in the darkness, into which they shall be driven and fall,

for I will bring disaster upon them [s] in the year of their punishment,
declares the LORD.
13 In the prophets of [t] Samaria
[u] I saw an unsavory thing:
[v] they prophesied by Baal
[w] and led my people Israel astray.
14 But in the prophets of Jerusalem
I have seen a horrible thing:
[x] they commit adultery and walk in lies;
[y] they strengthen the hands of evildoers,
so that no one turns from his evil;
[z] all of them have become like Sodom to me,
[z] and its inhabitants like Gomorrah.”
15 [†] Therefore thus says the LORD of hosts concerning the prophets:
[a] “Behold, I will feed them with bitter food
[a] and give them [b] poisoned water to drink, for from the prophets of Jerusalem ungodliness has gone out into all the land.”

16 Thus says the LORD of hosts: “Do not listen to the words of the prophets who prophesy to you, [c] filling you with vain hopes. [d] They speak visions of their own minds, not from the mouth of the LORD. 17 They say continually to those who despise the word of the LORD, [e] ‘It shall be well with you’; and to everyone who [f] stubbornly follows his own heart, they say, [g] ‘No disaster shall come upon you.’”

18 For [h] who among them has stood in the council of the LORD to see and to hear his word, or who has paid attention to his word and listened?
19 [i] Behold, the storm of the LORD!
Wrath has gone forth,
[j] a whirling tempest;
it will burst upon the head of the wicked.
20 [k] The anger of the LORD will not turn back until he has executed and [k] accomplished

the intents of his heart.
[l] In the latter days you will understand it clearly.

[21][†] [m] "I did not send the prophets,
yet they ran;
I did not speak to them,
yet they prophesied.
[22] [n] But if they had stood in my council,
then they would have proclaimed my words to my people, [o] and they would have turned them from their evil way,
and [p] from the evil of their deeds.

[23] [q] "Am I a God at hand, declares the LORD, and not a God far away?
[24] [q] Can a man hide himself in secret places so that I cannot see him?
declares the LORD. [r] Do I not fill heaven and earth? declares the LORD. [25]I have heard what the prophets have said [s] who prophesy lies in my name, saying, [t] 'I have dreamed, I have dreamed!' [26]How long shall there be lies in the heart of [u] the prophets who prophesy lies, and who prophesy the deceit of their own heart, [27]who think to make my people forget my name [t] by their dreams that they tell one another, even as their [v] fathers forgot my name for Baal? [28] [w] Let the prophet who has a dream [x] tell the dream, but let him who has my word speak my word faithfully. [y] What has straw in common with wheat? declares the LORD. [29][†] [y] Is not my word like fire, declares the LORD, and [z] like a hammer that breaks the rock in pieces?
[30] [a] Therefore, behold, I am against the prophets, declares the LORD, who steal my words from one another. [31][†]Behold, I am against the prophets, declares the LORD, who use their tongues and declare, 'declares the LORD.'
[32]Behold, I am against those who prophesy lying dreams, declares the LORD, and who tell them and [b] lead my people astray by their lies and their recklessness, when [c] I did not send them or charge them. So they do not profit this people at all, declares the LORD.

[33] [d] "When one of this people, or a prophet or a priest asks you, 'What is the burden of the LORD?' you shall say to them, 'You are the burden, [2] and

[f]I will cast you off, declares the LORD.’ [34]And as for the prophet, priest, or one of the people who says, ‘The burden of the LORD,’ [d]I will punish that man and his household. [35]Thus shall you say, every one to his neighbor and every one to his brother, ‘What has the LORD answered?’ or ‘What has the LORD spoken?’ [36]But ‘the burden of the LORD’ you shall mention no more, for the burden is every man’s own word, and [g]you pervert the words of [h]the living God, the LORD of hosts, our God. [37]Thus you shall say to the prophet, ‘What has the LORD answered you?’ or ‘What has the LORD spoken?’ [38]But if you say, ‘The burden of the LORD,’ thus says the LORD, ‘Because you have said these words, “The burden of the LORD,” when I sent to you, saying, “You shall not say, ‘The burden of the LORD,’” [39]therefore, behold, I will surely lift you up and [f]cast you away from my presence, you and the city that I gave to you and your fathers. [40] [i]And I will bring upon you everlasting reproach and [i]perpetual shame, which shall not be forgotten.’”

The Good Figs and the Bad Figs

JEREMIAH 24 [†][j]After Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had taken into exile from Jerusalem [k]Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, together with [l]the officials of Judah, the craftsmen, and the metal workers, and had brought them to Babylon, the LORD showed me this vision: behold, [m]two baskets of figs placed before the temple of the LORD. [2]One basket had very good figs, [n]like first-ripe figs, but the other basket had [o]very bad figs, so bad that they could not be eaten. [3][†]And the LORD said to me, “What do you see, Jeremiah?” I said, “Figs, the good figs very good, and the bad figs very bad, so bad that they cannot be eaten.”

[4]Then the word of the LORD came to me: [5]“Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Like these good figs, so I will regard as good the exiles from Judah, [p]whom I have sent away from this place to the land of the Chaldeans. [6][†][q]I will set my eyes on them for good, and I will bring them back to this land. [r]I will build them up, and not tear them down; [s]I will plant them, and not pluck them up. [7][†][t]I will give them a heart to know that I am the LORD, [u]and they shall be my people [u]and I will be their God, [v]for they shall return to me with their whole heart.

[8][†]“But thus says the LORD: Like [w]the bad figs that are so bad they cannot be eaten, so will I treat [x]Zedekiah the king of Judah, his officials, the remnant of Jerusalem who remain in this land, and those who [y]dwell in the land of Egypt. [9]I will make them [z]a horror [1] to all the kingdoms of the earth, to be [a]a reproach, [b]a byword, [a]a taunt, and [c]a curse in all the places where I shall drive them. [10]And I will send [d]sword, famine, and pestilence upon them, until they shall be utterly destroyed from the land that I gave to them and their fathers.”

Seventy Years of Captivity

JEREMIAH 25 [†] [e]The word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the people of Judah, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah (that was the first year of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon), [2]which Jeremiah the prophet spoke to all the people of Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem: [3]“For twenty-three years, [f]from the thirteenth year of Josiah the son of Amon, king of Judah, to this day, the word of the LORD has come to me, and I have spoken [g]persistently to you, [h]but you have not listened. [4] [h]You have neither listened nor inclined your ears to hear, although the LORD [g]persistently sent to you all his servants the prophets, [5][†]saying, [i]‘Turn now, every one of you, [j]from his evil way and evil deeds, and [k]dwell upon the land that the LORD has given to you and your fathers from of old and forever. [6] [l]Do not go after other gods to serve and worship them, [m]or provoke me to anger [m]with the work of your hands. Then I will do you no harm.’ [7] [m]Yet you have not listened to me, declares the LORD, [m]that you might provoke me to anger [m]with the work of your hands to your own harm.

[8][†]“Therefore thus says the LORD of hosts: Because you have not obeyed my words, [9] [n]behold, I will send for all the tribes of the north, declares the LORD, and for Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, [o]my servant, and I will bring them against this land and its inhabitants, and against all these surrounding nations. I will devote them to destruction, [p]and make them a horror, a hissing, and an everlasting desolation. [10]Moreover, [q]I will banish from them the voice of mirth and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, [r]the grinding of the millstones and waste, and [t] these nations shall serve the king of Babylon [u] seventy years.

[12][†]Then after [u] seventy years are completed, [v] I will punish the king of Babylon and that nation, [v] the land of the Chaldeans, for their iniquity, declares the LORD, [v] making the land an everlasting waste. [13]I will bring upon that land all the words that I have uttered against it, everything written [w] in this book, which Jeremiah prophesied against all the nations. [14][†] [x] For many nations [x] and great kings shall make slaves even of them, [y] and I will recompense them according to their deeds and the work of their hands."

The Cup of the LORD's Wrath

[15][†]Thus the LORD, the God of Israel, said to me: [z] "Take from my hand this cup of the wine of wrath, and make all the nations to whom I send you drink it. [16]They shall drink and stagger and be crazed because of [a] the sword that I am sending among them."

[17][†]So I took the cup from the LORD's hand, [b] and made all the nations to whom the LORD sent me drink it: [18] [c] Jerusalem and the cities of Judah, its kings and officials, [d] to make them a desolation and a waste, a hissing and a curse, as at this day; [19][†] [e] Pharaoh king of Egypt, his servants, his officials, all his people, [20]and [f] all the mixed tribes among them; all the kings of [g] the land of Uz and all the kings of [h] the land of the Philistines ([h] Ashkelon, [h] Gaza, Ekron, and the remnant of [i] Ashdod); [21] [j] Edom, [k] Moab, and the sons of [l] Ammon; [22]all the kings of [m] Tyre, all the kings of [m] Sidon, and the kings of the coastland across [n] the sea; [23][†] [o] Dedan, [p] Tema, [q] Buz, and all who cut [r] the corners of their hair; [24]all the [s] kings of Arabia and all the kings of [f] the mixed tribes who dwell in the desert; [25]all the kings of Zimri, all the kings of [t] Elam, and all the kings of [u] Media; [26]all the kings of [v] the north, far and near, one after another, and all the kingdoms of the world that are on the face of the earth. And after them the king of [w] Babylon [1] shall drink.

[27]"Then you shall say to them, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: [x] Drink, be drunk and vomit, fall and rise no more, because of [y] the sword that I am sending among you.'

28 “And if they refuse to accept the cup from your hand to drink, then you shall say to them, ‘Thus says the LORD of hosts: [z] You must drink! 29 For behold, [a] I begin to work disaster at the city that is called by my name, and shall you go unpunished? You shall not go unpunished, [y] for I am summoning a sword against all the inhabitants of the earth, declares the LORD of hosts.’

30 “You, therefore, shall prophesy against them all these words, and say to them:

[b] “‘The LORD will roar from on high,
and from his holy habitation utter his voice;
he will roar mightily against his fold,
[c] and shout, like those who tread grapes, against all the inhabitants of the earth.
31 [†] The clamor will resound to the ends of the earth, for [d] the LORD has an indictment against the nations;
[e] he is entering into judgment with all flesh,
and the wicked he will put to the sword,
declares the LORD.’

32 “Thus says the LORD of hosts:
Behold, disaster is going forth from nation to nation,
[f] and a great tempest is stirring
[g] from the farthest parts of the earth!

33 [h] “And those pierced by the LORD on that day shall extend from one end of the earth to the other. [i] They shall not be lamented, [j] or gathered, or buried; [j] they shall be dung on the surface of the ground.

34 [k] “Wail, [l] you shepherds, and cry out,
[m] and roll in ashes, you lords of the flock,
for the days of your slaughter and dispersion have come,
and you shall fall like a choice vessel.
35 No refuge will remain [n] for the shepherds, nor escape for the lords of the flock.

[36] A voice—the cry [n] of the shepherds,
[o] and the wail of the lords of the flock!
For the LORD is laying waste their pasture,
[37] [p] and the peaceful folds are devastated
[q] because of the fierce anger of the LORD.
[38][†] Like a lion [r] he has left his lair, for their land has become a waste
because of [s] the sword of the oppressor, [q] and because of his fierce anger."

Jeremiah Threatened with Death

JEREMIAH 26 [†] [t] In the beginning of the reign of [u] Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah, this word came from the LORD: [2]"Thus says the LORD: [v] Stand in the court of the LORD's house, and speak to all the cities of Judah that come to worship in the house of the LORD [w] all the words that I command you to speak to them; [x] do not hold back a word. [3][†] [y] It may be they will listen, and every one turn from his evil way, [z] that I may relent of the disaster that I intend to do to them [a] because of their evil deeds. [4]You shall say to them, 'Thus says the LORD: [b] If you will not listen to me, to walk in my law that I have set before you, [5] [c] and to listen to the words of my servants the prophets whom I send to you [c] urgently, [c] though you have not listened, [6][†]then I will make this house [d] like Shiloh, and I will make this city [e] a curse for all the nations of the earth.'"

[7] [f] The priests and the prophets and all the people heard Jeremiah speaking these words in the house of the LORD. [8]And when Jeremiah had finished speaking all that the LORD had commanded him to speak to all the people, then [f] the priests and the prophets and all the people laid hold of him, saying, "You shall die! [9][†]Why have you prophesied in the name of the LORD, saying, 'This house shall be [d] like Shiloh, and this city shall be desolate, [g] without inhabitant'?" And all the people gathered around Jeremiah in the house of the LORD.

[10][†]When [h]the officials of Judah heard these things, they came up from the king’s house to the house of the LORD and took their seat in the [i]entry of the New Gate of the house of the LORD. [11][†]Then [f]the priests and the prophets said to the officials and to all the people, [j]“This man deserves the sentence of death, because he has prophesied against this city, as you have heard with your own ears.”

[12][†]Then Jeremiah spoke to all the officials and all the people, saying,
“The LORD sent me to prophesy against this house and this city all the words you have heard. [13]Now therefore [k]mend your ways and your deeds, [l]and obey the voice of the LORD your God, [z]and the LORD will relent of the disaster that he has pronounced against you. [14] [m]But as for me, behold, I am in your hands. Do with me as seems good and right to you. [15]Only know for certain that if you put me to death, [n]you will bring innocent blood upon yourselves and upon this city and its inhabitants, for in truth the LORD sent me to you to speak all these words in your ears.”

Jeremiah Spared from Death

[16][†] [o]Then the officials and all the people said to the priests and the prophets, [p]“This man does not deserve the sentence of death, for he has spoken to us in the name of the LORD our God.” [17][†] [q]And certain of [r]the elders of the land arose and spoke to all the assembled people, saying, [18][†]“Micah of Moresheth prophesied in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah, and said to all the people of Judah: ‘Thus says the LORD of hosts,

[s]“‘Zion shall be plowed as a field;
Jerusalem shall become a heap of ruins,
and the mountain of the house a wooded height.’

[19][†]Did Hezekiah king of Judah and all Judah put him to death? [t]Did he not fear the LORD and entreat the favor of the LORD, [u]and did not the LORD relent of the disaster that he had pronounced against them? [v]But we are about to bring great disaster upon ourselves.”

[20]There was another man who prophesied in the name of the LORD, Uriah the son of Shemaiah from [w]Kiriath-jearim. He prophesied against this city and against this land in words like those of Jeremiah. 21 And when [x] King Jehoiakim, with all his warriors and all the officials, heard his words, the king sought to put him to death. But when Uriah heard of it, he was afraid and fled and escaped to Egypt. 22 Then [x] King Jehoiakim sent to Egypt certain men, [y] Elnathan the son of [z] Achbor and others with him, 23 and they took Uriah from Egypt and brought him to King Jehoiakim, [a] who struck him down with the sword and dumped his dead body into the burial place of the common people.

24 But the hand of [b] Ahikam the son of Shaphan was with Jeremiah so that he was not given over to the people to be put to death.

The Yoke of Nebuchadnezzar

JEREMIAH 27 [†]In the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah [1] the son of Josiah, king of Judah, this word came to Jeremiah from the LORD. 2[†]Thus the LORD said to me: [c]"Make yourself straps and [d]yoke-bars, and put them on your neck. 3[†]Send word [2] to the king of [e]Edom, the king of [e]Moab, the king of the sons of [e]Ammon, the king of [e]Tyre, and the king of Sidon by the hand of the envoys who have come to Jerusalem to Zedekiah king of Judah. 4Give them this charge for their masters: 'Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: This is what you shall say to your masters: 5"It is I who [f]by my great power and my outstretched arm [g]have made the earth, with the men and animals that are on the earth, [h]and I give it to whomever it seems right to me. 6[†][i]Now I have given all these lands into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar, the king of Babylon, [j]my servant, [k]and I have given him also the beasts of the field to serve him. 7[l]All the nations shall serve him and [m]his son and [n]his grandson, [o]until the time of his own land comes. [p]Then many nations and great kings shall make him their slave.

8[†]""""But if any nation or kingdom will not serve this Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, [q]and put its neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon, I will punish that nation [r]with the sword, with famine, and with pestilence, declares the LORD, until I have consumed it by his hand. 9So [s]do not listen to your [t]prophets, your diviners, your dreamers, your [u]fortune-tellers, or your sorcerers, who are saying to you, 'You shall not serve the king of Babylon.' 10[v]For it is a lie that they are prophesying to you, with the result that you will be removed far from your land, and I will drive you out, and you will perish. 11[w]But any nation that will bring its neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon and serve him, I will leave on its own land, to work it and dwell there, declares the LORD.""""

12[†]To [x]Zedekiah king of Judah I spoke in like manner: [w]"Bring your necks under the yoke of the king of Babylon, and [y]serve him and his people and live. 13[z]Why will you and your people die [a]by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence, [b]as the LORD has spoken concerning any nation that will not serve the king of Babylon? 14[c]Do not listen to the words of the prophets who are saying to you, 'You shall not serve the king of Babylon,' [v] for it is a lie that they are prophesying to you. [15]I have not sent them, declares the LORD, but [v] they are prophesying falsely in my name, with the result that I will drive you out and you will perish, you and the prophets who are prophesying to you."

[16]Then I spoke to the priests and to all this people, saying, "Thus says the LORD: [c] Do not listen to the words of your prophets who are prophesying to you, saying, [d] 'Behold, the vessels of the LORD's house will now shortly be brought back from Babylon,' [v] for it is a lie that they are prophesying to you. [17] [c] Do not listen to them; [w] serve the king of Babylon and live. Why should this city [e] become a desolation? [18]If they are prophets, and if the word of the LORD is with them, then [f] let them intercede with the LORD of hosts, [g] that the vessels that are left in the house of the LORD, in the house of the king of Judah, and in Jerusalem may not go to Babylon. [19][†] [h] For thus says the LORD of hosts concerning the pillars, the sea, the stands, and the rest of the vessels that are left in this city, [20]which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon did not take away, [i] when he took into exile from Jerusalem to Babylon Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, and all the nobles of Judah and Jerusalem— [21][†]thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, [h] concerning the vessels that are left in the house of the LORD, in the house of the king of Judah, and in Jerusalem: [22] [j] They shall be carried to Babylon [k] and remain there [l] until the day when I visit them, declares the LORD. [m] Then I will bring them back [j] and restore them to this place."

Hananiah the False Prophet

JEREMIAH 28 [†]In that same year, at the beginning of the reign of [n] Zedekiah king of Judah, in the fifth month of the fourth year, Hananiah the son of [o] Azzur, the prophet from [p] Gibeon, spoke to me in the house of the LORD, in the presence of the priests and all the people, saying, [2][†]"Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: [q] I have broken the yoke of the king of Babylon. [3] [r] Within [s] two years I will bring back to this place all the vessels of the LORD's house, which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon took away from this place and carried to Babylon. [4]I will also bring back to this place [t] Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, and all the exiles from Judah who went to Babylon, declares the LORD, [q] for I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon."

[5]Then the prophet Jeremiah spoke to Hananiah the prophet in the presence of the priests and all the people who were standing in the house of the LORD, [6]and the prophet Jeremiah said, [u] "Amen! May the LORD do so; may the LORD make the words that you have prophesied come true, and bring back to this place from Babylon the vessels of the house of the LORD, and all the exiles. [7]Yet hear now this word that I speak in your hearing and in the hearing of all the people. [8][†] [v] The prophets who preceded you and me from ancient times prophesied war, famine, and pestilence against many countries and great kingdoms. [9] [w] As for the prophet who prophesies peace, when the word of that prophet comes to pass, then it will be known that the LORD has truly sent the prophet."

[10]Then the prophet Hananiah took the [x] yoke-bars from the neck of Jeremiah the prophet and broke them. [11]And Hananiah spoke in the presence of all the people, saying, [y] "Thus says the LORD: [z] Even so will I break the yoke of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon from the neck of [a] all the nations within two years." But Jeremiah the prophet went his way.

[12][†]Sometime after the prophet [b] Hananiah had broken the yoke-bars from off the neck of Jeremiah the prophet, the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: [13]"Go, tell Hananiah, 'Thus says the LORD: You have broken wooden bars, but you have made in their place bars of iron. [14]For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: I have put upon the neck of all these nations [c] an iron yoke to serve Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, [d] and they shall serve him, [e] for I have given to him even the beasts of the field.'" [15]And Jeremiah the prophet said to the prophet Hananiah, "Listen, Hananiah, [f] the LORD has not sent you, [g] and you have made this people trust in a lie. [16][†]Therefore thus says the LORD: 'Behold, I will remove you from the face of the earth. This year you shall die, [h] because you have uttered rebellion against the LORD.'"

[17]In that same year, in the seventh month, the prophet Hananiah died.

Jeremiah's Letter to the Exiles

JEREMIAH 29 [†]These are the words of the letter that Jeremiah the prophet sent from Jerusalem to [i]the surviving elders of the exiles, and to [j]the priests, [j]the prophets, and [j]all the people, whom Nebuchadnezzar had taken into exile from Jerusalem to Babylon. [2]This was after [k]King Jeconiah and the queen mother, the eunuchs, the officials of Judah and Jerusalem, the craftsmen, and the metal workers had departed from Jerusalem. [3]The letter was sent by the hand of Elasah the son of [l]Shaphan and Gemariah the son of [m]Hilkiah, whom Zedekiah king of Judah sent to Babylon to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon. It said: [4]"Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, to all the exiles whom I have sent into exile from Jerusalem to Babylon: [5][n]Build houses and live in them; plant gardens and eat their produce. [6]Take wives and have sons and daughters; take wives for your sons, and give your daughters in marriage, that they may bear sons and daughters; multiply there, and do not decrease. [7][†]But seek the welfare of the city where I have sent you into exile, and [o]pray to the LORD on its behalf, for in its welfare you will find your welfare. [8]For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: [p]Do not let your prophets and [q]your diviners who are among you deceive you, and do not listen to the dreams that they dream, [1] [9]for [r]it is a lie that they are prophesying to you in my name; [s]I did not send them, declares the LORD.

[10]"For thus says the LORD: [t]When seventy years are completed for Babylon, [u]I will visit you, [v]and I will fulfill to you my promise [v]and bring you back to this place. [11][†][w]For I know the plans I have for you, declares the LORD, plans for welfare [2] and not for evil, [x]to give you a future and a hope. [12][y]Then you will call upon me and come and pray to me, [y]and I will hear you. [13][†][z]You will seek me and find me, when you seek me [a]with all your heart. [14][†]I will be found by you, declares the LORD, [b]and I will restore your fortunes and [c]gather you from all the nations and all the places [d]where I have driven you, declares the LORD, and I will bring you back to the place from which I sent you into exile.

[15]"Because you have said, 'The LORD has raised up prophets for us in Babylon,' [16]thus says the LORD concerning [e]the king who sits on the throne of David, and concerning all the people who dwell in this city, your kinsmen who did not go out with you into exile: [17]'Thus says the LORD of hosts, behold, I am sending on them [f]sword, famine, and pestilence, and I will make them like [g]vile figs that are so rotten they cannot be eaten. [18]I will pursue them with [f]sword, famine, and pestilence, [h]and will make them a horror to all the kingdoms of the earth, [i]to be a curse, a terror, a hissing, and a reproach among all the nations [d]where I have driven them, [19]because they did not pay attention to my words, declares the LORD, [j]that I persistently sent to you by my servants the prophets, but you would not listen, declares the LORD.' [20]Hear the word of the LORD, all you exiles [k]whom I sent away from Jerusalem to Babylon: [21][†]'Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, concerning Ahab the son of Kolaiah and Zedekiah the son of Maaseiah, [l]who are prophesying a lie to you in my name: Behold, I will deliver them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and he shall strike them down before your eyes. [22] [m]Because of them [n]this curse shall be used by all the exiles from Judah in Babylon: "The LORD make you like Zedekiah and Ahab, [o]whom the king of Babylon roasted in the fire," [23]because they have done an outrageous thing in Israel, [p]they have committed adultery with their neighbors' wives, and [p]they have spoken in my name lying words that I did not command them. [q]I am the one who knows, [q]and I am witness, declares the LORD.'"

Shemaiah's False Prophecy

[24]To [r]Shemaiah of Nehelam you shall say: [25][†]"Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: You have sent letters in your name to all the people who are in Jerusalem, and to [s]Zephaniah the son of [t]Maaseiah the priest, and to all the priests, saying, [26]'The LORD has made you priest instead of Jehoiada the priest, to have [u]charge in the house of the LORD [v]over every madman who prophesies, to put him in [w]the stocks and neck irons. [27][†]Now why have you not rebuked Jeremiah [x]of Anathoth who is prophesying to you? [28]For he has sent to us in Babylon, saying, "Your exile will be long; [y]build houses and live in them, and plant gardens and eat their produce."'"

[29] [s] Zephaniah the priest read this letter in the hearing of Jeremiah the prophet. [30] [z] Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: [31][†]"Send to all the exiles, saying, 'Thus says the LORD concerning [a] Shemaiah of Nehelam: Because [a] Shemaiah had prophesied to you [b] when I did not send him, and has made you trust in a lie, [32]therefore thus says the LORD: Behold, I will punish [a] Shemaiah of Nehelam and his descendants. He shall not have anyone living among this people, [c] and he shall not see the good that I will do to my people, declares the LORD, [d] for he has spoken rebellion against the LORD.'"

Restoration for Israel and Judah

JEREMIAH 30 [†]The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD: [2][†]"Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: [e] Write in a book all the words that I have spoken to you. [3][†] [f] For behold, days are coming, declares the LORD, [g] when I will restore [h] the fortunes of my people, [i] Israel and Judah, says the LORD, [j] and I will bring them back to the land that I gave to their fathers, and they shall take possession of it."

[4][†]These are the words that the LORD spoke concerning [i] Israel and Judah:

[5] "Thus says the LORD:
We have heard a cry of panic,
    of terror, and no peace.
[6] Ask now, and see,
    can a man bear a child?
[k] Why then do I see every man with his hands on his stomach [k] like a woman in labor?
    [l] Why has every face turned pale?
[7][†] Alas! [m] That day is so great [n] there is none like it;
it is a time of distress for Jacob;
    yet he shall be saved out of it.

8[†]“And it shall come to pass in that day, declares the LORD of hosts, that I will [o]break his [p]yoke from off your neck, and I will [o]burst your bonds, [q]and foreigners shall no more make a servant of him. [1] 9[†]But they shall serve the LORD their God and [r]David their king, whom I will raise up for them.

10 [s]“Then fear not, [t]O Jacob my servant, declares the LORD,
nor be dismayed, O Israel;
for behold, [s]I will save you from far away, [u]and your offspring from the land of their captivity.
[s]Jacob shall return and have quiet and ease,
and none shall make him afraid.
11[†] [v]For I am with you to save you,
declares the LORD;
[v]I will make a full end of all the nations
among whom I scattered you,
but of you I will not make a full end.
[v]I will [w]discipline you in just measure,
and I will by no means leave you unpunished.

12 “For thus says the LORD:
[x]Your hurt is incurable,
[y]and your wound is grievous.
13 There is none to uphold your cause,
no medicine for your wound, [z]no healing for you.
14[†] [a]All your lovers have forgotten you;
they care nothing for you;
for I have dealt you the blow of [b]an enemy,
the punishment [c]of a merciless foe,
because your guilt is great,
[d]because your sins are flagrant.
15 [x]Why do you cry out over your hurt?
[x]Your pain is incurable.
Because your guilt is great,

[d] because your sins are flagrant,
I have done these things to you.
16 [e] Therefore all who devour you shall be devoured, and [f] all your foes, every one of them, shall go into captivity;
[g] those who plunder you shall be plundered,
[h] and all who prey on you I will make a prey.
17 [i] For I will restore [j] health to you,
and [k] your wounds I will heal,
declares the LORD,
because [l] they have called you an outcast:
[l] 'It is Zion, for whom no one cares!'

18 "Thus says the LORD:
Behold, [m] I will restore the fortunes of the tents of Jacob and have compassion on his dwellings;
the city shall be rebuilt on [n] its mound,
and the palace shall stand where it used to be.
19 [o] Out of them shall come songs of thanksgiving, and the voices of those who celebrate.
[p] I will multiply them, and they shall not be few;
I will make them honored, and they shall not be small.
20[†] [q] Their children shall be as they were of old,
and their congregation shall be established before me,
and I will punish all who oppress them.
21 [r] Their prince shall be one of themselves;
[r] their ruler shall come out from their midst;
[s] I will make him draw near, and he shall approach me, [t] for who would dare of himself to approach me?
declares the LORD.
22[†] [u] And you shall be my people,
and I will be your God."

23 [v] Behold [w] the storm of the LORD!
Wrath has gone forth,
a whirling tempest;

it will burst upon the head of the wicked.
24[†] [x]The fierce anger of the LORD will not turn back until he has executed and accomplished the intentions of his mind.
[y]In the latter days you will understand this.

The LORD Will Turn Mourning to Joy

JEREMIAH 31 [†] [z]“At that time, declares the LORD, [a]I will be the God of all the clans of Israel, and they shall be my people.”

2[†] Thus says the LORD:
“The people who survived the sword found grace in the wilderness;
[b]when Israel sought for rest,
3 the LORD appeared to him [1] from far away.
[c]I have loved you with an everlasting love;
therefore [d]I have continued [e]my faithfulness to you.
4[†] [f]Again I will build you, and you shall be built,
O virgin Israel!
[g]Again you shall adorn yourself with tambourines and shall go forth in [h]the dance of the merrymakers.
5 [i]Again you shall plant vineyards on the mountains of Samaria;
the planters shall plant
and shall enjoy the fruit.
6 For there shall be a day when watchmen will call in [j]the hill country of Ephraim: [k]‘Arise, and let us go up to Zion,
to the LORD our God.’”

7 For thus says the LORD:
[l]“Sing aloud with gladness for Jacob,
and raise shouts for [m]the chief of the nations;
proclaim, give praise, and say,

[n] ‘O LORD, save your people,
the remnant of Israel.’
[8] Behold, I will bring them [o] from the north country and [p] gather them from [q] the farthest parts of the earth, among them [r] the blind and the lame,
the pregnant woman and she who is in labor, together;
a great company, they shall return here.
[9][†] [s] With weeping they shall come,
[t] and with pleas for mercy I will lead them back,
I will make them [u] walk by brooks of water,
[v] in a straight path in which they shall not stumble, for [w] I am a father to Israel,
and Ephraim is [x] my firstborn.

[10][†] “Hear the word of the LORD, O nations, and declare it in the coastlands far away;
say, ‘He who scattered Israel will [p] gather him,
and will keep him [y] as a shepherd keeps his flock.’
[11] [z] For the LORD has ransomed Jacob and has redeemed him from [a] hands too strong for him.
[12] They shall come and sing aloud on the height of Zion,
[b] and they shall be radiant [c] over the goodness of the LORD, [d] over the grain, the wine, and the oil,
and over the young of the flock and the herd;
[e] their life shall be like a watered garden,
[f] and they shall languish no more.
[13][†] [g] Then shall the young women rejoice in the dance, and the young men and the old shall be merry.
[h] I will turn their mourning into joy;
I will comfort them, and give them gladness for sorrow.
[14] [i] I will feast the soul of the priests with abundance, and my people shall be satisfied with my goodness,
declares the LORD.”

[15][†] Thus says the LORD:

[j]“A voice is heard in [k]Ramah, lamentation and bitter weeping.
[l]Rachel is weeping for her children;
she refuses to be comforted for her children,
[m]because they are no more.”

16 [†] Thus says the LORD:
“Keep your voice from weeping,
and your eyes from tears,
for there is a reward for your work,
declares the LORD,
and [n]they shall come back from the land of the enemy.
17 [o]There is hope for your future,
declares the LORD,
and your children shall come back to their own country.
18 [†] I have heard [p]Ephraim grieving,
‘You have disciplined me, and I was disciplined,
like an untrained calf;
[q]bring me back that I may be restored,
for you are the LORD my God.
19 For after [r]I had turned away, I relented, and after I was instructed, [s]I struck my thigh; [t]I was ashamed, and I was confounded, because I bore the disgrace of my youth.’
20 [p]Is Ephraim my dear son?
[u]Is he my darling child?
For as often as I speak against him,
I do remember him still.
[v]Therefore my heart [2] yearns for him;
I will surely have mercy on him,
declares the LORD.

21 [†] [w]“Set up road markers for yourself;
make yourself guideposts;
[x]consider well the highway,

[w] the road by which you went.
Return, O virgin Israel, return to these your cities.
22[†] [y] How long will you waver,
[z] O faithless daughter?
For the LORD has created a new thing on the earth:
a woman encircles a man.”

23[†]Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: “Once more they shall use these words in the land of Judah and in its cities, [a] when I restore their fortunes:

[b] “‘The LORD bless you, [c] O habitation of righteousness,
[d] O holy hill!’

24 [e] And Judah and all its cities shall dwell there together, and [e] the farmers and those who wander with their flocks. 25For I will [f] satisfy the weary soul, and every languishing soul I will replenish.”

26At this I awoke and looked, and my sleep was pleasant to me.

27 [g] “Behold, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when [h] I will sow the house of Israel and the house of Judah with [i] the seed of man and the seed of beast. 28[†]And it shall come to pass that [j] as I have watched over them [k] to pluck up and break down, to overthrow, destroy, and bring harm, [j] so I will watch over them [l] to build and to plant, declares the LORD. 29[†]In those days they shall no longer say:

[m] “‘The fathers have eaten sour grapes, and the children’s teeth are set on edge.’

30 [n] But everyone shall die for his own iniquity. Each man who eats sour grapes, his teeth shall be set on edge.

The New Covenant

31[†] [o] “Behold, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when I will make [p] a new covenant with the house of Israel and the house of Judah, 32[†]not like the covenant that I made with their fathers on the day when [q] I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt, my covenant that they broke, [r] though I was their husband, declares the LORD. [33][†] [s] For this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, declares the LORD: [s] I will put my law within them, and I will write it [t] on their hearts. [u] And I will be their God, and they shall be my people. [34]And no longer shall each one teach his neighbor and each his brother, saying, ‘Know the LORD,’ [v] for they shall all know me, [w] from the least of them to the greatest, declares the LORD. For [x] I will forgive their iniquity, and [y] I will remember their sin no more.”

[35][†] Thus says the LORD,
who [z] gives the sun for light by day and [a] the fixed order of the moon and the stars for light by night, who stirs up the sea so that its waves roar—
[b] the LORD of hosts is his name:
[36] [c] “If this fixed order departs from before me, declares the LORD, then shall the offspring of Israel cease from being a nation before me forever.”

[37] Thus says the LORD:
“If the heavens above can be measured,
and the foundations of the earth below can be explored, [d] then I will cast off all the offspring of Israel for all that they have done,
declares the LORD.”

[38][†] [e] “Behold, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when the city shall be rebuilt for the LORD [f] from the Tower of Hananel to [g] the Corner Gate. [39] [h] And the measuring line shall go out farther, straight to the hill Gareb, and shall then turn to Goah. [40] [i] The whole valley of the dead bodies and the ashes, and all the fields as far as the [j] brook Kidron, to the corner of [k] the Horse Gate toward the east, [l] shall be sacred to the LORD. [m] It shall not be plucked up or overthrown anymore forever.”

Jeremiah Buys a Field During the Siege

JEREMIAH 32 [†]The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD [n]in the tenth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, [o]which was the eighteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar. [2][†]At that time the army of the king of Babylon was besieging Jerusalem, and Jeremiah the prophet [p]was shut up in [q]the court of the guard that was in the palace of the king of Judah. [3]For Zedekiah king of Judah had imprisoned him, saying, “Why do you prophesy and say, ‘Thus says the LORD: [r]Behold, I am giving this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall capture it; [4][s]Zedekiah king of Judah shall not escape out of the hand of the Chaldeans, [r]but shall surely be given into the hand of the king of Babylon, and shall speak with him face to face and see him eye to eye. [5]And [t]he shall take Zedekiah to Babylon, and there he shall remain until I visit him, declares the LORD. [u]Though you fight against the Chaldeans, you shall not succeed’?”

[6][†]Jeremiah said, “The word of the LORD came to me: [7]Behold, Hanamel the son of Shallum your uncle will come to you and say, [v]‘Buy my field that is at [w]Anathoth, [x]for the right of redemption by purchase is yours.’ [8]Then Hanamel my cousin came to me in [q]the court of the guard, in accordance with the word of the LORD, and said to me, ‘Buy my field that is at [w]Anathoth in the land of Benjamin, for the right of possession and redemption is yours; buy it for yourself.’ Then I knew that this was the word of the LORD.

[9][†]“And I bought the field at [w]Anathoth from Hanamel my cousin, and [y]weighed out the money to him, seventeen shekels of silver. [10][z]I signed the deed, [a]sealed it, [b]got witnesses, and [y]weighed the money on scales. [11][†]Then I took the sealed deed of purchase, containing the terms and conditions and the open copy. [12][†]And I gave the deed of purchase to [c]Baruch the son of Neriah son of Mahseiah, in the presence of Hanamel my cousin, in the presence of [d]the witnesses who signed the deed of purchase, and in the presence of all the Judeans who were sitting in [q]the court of the guard. [13][†]I charged [c]Baruch in their presence, saying, [14]‘Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Take these deeds, both this sealed deed of purchase and this open deed, and put them in an earthenware vessel, that they may last for a long time. [15][†]For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Houses and [e]fields and vineyards shall again be bought in this land.’

Jeremiah Prays for Understanding

[16]“After I had given the deed of purchase to [f]Baruch the son of Neriah, I prayed to the LORD, saying: [17][†]‘Ah, Lord GOD! It is [g]you who have made the heavens and the earth by your great power and by [h]your outstretched arm! [i]Nothing is too hard for you. [18][†][j]You show steadfast love to thousands, [j]but you repay the guilt of fathers [k]to their children after them, O great and [l]mighty God, whose name is the [m]LORD of hosts, [19] [n]great in counsel and [o]mighty in deed, [p]whose eyes are open to all the ways of the children of man, [q]rewarding each one according to his ways and according to the fruit of his deeds. [20][†]You have shown [r]signs and wonders in the land of Egypt, and to this day in Israel and among all mankind, [s]and have made a name for yourself, as at this day. [21] [t]You brought your people Israel out of the land of Egypt with signs and wonders, with a strong hand and [u]outstretched arm, [t]and with great terror. [22]And you gave them this land, [v]which you swore to their fathers to give them, [v]a land flowing with milk and honey. [23]And they entered and took possession of it. [w]But they did not obey your voice or walk in your law. They did nothing of all you commanded them to do. Therefore you have made all this disaster come upon them. [24][†]Behold, [x]the siege mounds have come up to the city to take it, and [y]because of sword and famine and pestilence [z]the city is given into the hands of the Chaldeans who are fighting against it. What you spoke has come to pass, and behold, you see it. [25][†]Yet you, O Lord GOD, have said to me, [a]“Buy the field for money [b]and get witnesses”—though [z]the city is given into the hands of the Chaldeans.’”

[26][†]The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: [27]“Behold, I am the LORD, [c]the God of all flesh. [d]Is anything too hard for me? [28]Therefore, thus says the LORD: [e]Behold, I am giving this city into the hands of the Chaldeans and into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and he shall capture it. [29]The Chaldeans who are fighting against this city [f]shall come and set this city on fire and burn it, [g]with the houses on whose roofs offerings have been made to Baal [g]and drink offerings have been poured out to other gods,

[h] to provoke me to anger. [30]For the children of Israel and the children of Judah have done nothing but evil in my sight [i] from their youth. The children of Israel have done nothing but [h] provoke me to anger [j] by the work of their hands, declares the LORD. [31]This city has aroused my anger and wrath, from the day it was built to this day, [k] so that I will remove it from my sight [32]because of all the evil of the children of Israel and the children of Judah that they did to provoke me to anger—[l] their kings and their officials, their priests and their prophets, the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. [33] [m] They have turned to me their back and not their face. And though I have taught them [n] persistently, they have not listened [o] to receive instruction. [34]They set up [p] their abominations in the house that is called by my name, to defile it. [35]They built the high places of Baal [q] in the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, [r] to offer up their sons and daughters to Molech, [s] though I did not command them, nor did it enter into my mind, that they should do [p] this abomination, [t] to cause Judah to sin.

They Shall Be My People; I Will Be Their God

[36]"Now therefore thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, concerning this city of which you say, [u] 'It is given into the hand of the king of Babylon by sword, by famine, and by pestilence': [37][†] [v] Behold, I will gather them from all the countries [w] to which I drove them in [x] my anger and my wrath and in great indignation. I will bring them back to this place, [y] and I will make them dwell in safety. [38][†] [z] And they shall be my people, and I will be their God. [39][†] [a] I will give them one heart and one way, that they may fear me forever, [b] for their own good and the good of their children after them.
[40][†] [c] I will make with them an everlasting covenant, that I will not turn away from doing good to them. [d] And I will put the fear of me in their hearts, that they may not turn from me. [41] [e] I will rejoice in doing them good, [f] and I will plant them in this land in faithfulness, with all my heart and all my soul.

[42]"For thus says the LORD: [g] Just as I have brought all this great disaster upon this people, so I will bring upon them all the good that I promise them.
[43] [h] Fields shall be bought in this land [i] of which you are saying, 'It is a desolation, without man or beast; [j] it is given into the hand of the Chaldeans.’ 44[†]Fields shall be bought for money, and [k] deeds shall be signed and [k] sealed and [k] witnessed, [l] in the land of Benjamin, [l] in the places about Jerusalem, [l] and in the cities of Judah, [l] in the cities of the hill country, [l] in the cities of the Shephelah, and in the cities of the Negeb; for [m] I will restore their fortunes, declares the Lord.”

The LORD Promises Peace

JEREMIAH 33 [†]The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah a second time, while he was still [n] shut up in the court of the guard: 2[†]“Thus says [o] the LORD who made the earth, [1] the LORD who formed it to establish it—[p] the LORD is his name: 3[†] [q] Call to me and I will answer you, [r] and will tell you great and hidden things that you have not known. 4For thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, concerning the houses of this city and the houses of the kings of Judah that were torn down to make a defense against [s] the siege mounds and against the sword: 5[†]They are coming in [t] to fight against the Chaldeans and to fill them [2] with the dead bodies of men whom I shall strike down [u] in my anger and my wrath, [v] for I have hidden my face from this city because of all their evil. 6[†] [w] Behold, I will bring to it health and healing, and I will heal them and reveal to them abundance of prosperity and security. 7 [x] I will restore the fortunes of Judah and the fortunes of Israel, [y] and rebuild them as they were [z] at first. 8 [a] I will cleanse them from all the guilt of their sin against me, [b] and I will forgive all the guilt of their sin and rebellion against me. 9[†] [c] And this city [3] shall be to me a name of joy, a praise and a glory before all the nations of the earth who shall hear of all the good that I do for them. They shall [d] fear and tremble because of all the good and all the prosperity I provide for it.

10[†]“Thus says the LORD: In this place [e] of which you say, ‘It is a waste without man or beast,’ in the cities of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem that are desolate, without man or inhabitant or beast, there shall be heard again 11 [f] the voice of mirth and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, the voices of those who sing, as they bring [g] thank offerings to the house of the LORD:

[h] “‘Give thanks to the LORD of hosts, for the LORD is good,
for his steadfast love endures forever!’

[x] For I will restore the fortunes of the land as at first, says the LORD.

[12]"Thus says the LORD of hosts: [i]In this place that is waste, without man or beast, and in all of its cities, there shall again be [j]habitations of shepherds [k]resting their flocks. [13] [l]In the cities of the hill country, [l]in the cities of the Shephelah, [l]and in the cities of the Negeb, in the land of Benjamin, [l]the places about Jerusalem, [l]and in the cities of Judah, [m]flocks shall again pass under the hands [n]of the one who counts them, says the LORD.

The LORD's Eternal Covenant with David

[14] [o]"Behold, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when [p]I will fulfill the promise I made to the house of Israel and the house of Judah. [15][†]In those days and at that time I will cause a righteous [q]Branch to spring up for David, and he shall execute justice and righteousness in the land. [16][†]In those days Judah will be saved, [r]and Jerusalem will dwell securely. And this is the name by which it will be called: [s]'The LORD is our righteousness.'

[17]"For thus says the LORD: [t]David shall never lack a man to sit on the throne of the house of Israel, [18] [u]and the Levitical priests shall never lack a man in my presence to offer burnt offerings, to burn grain offerings, and to make sacrifices forever."

[19][†]The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: [20] [v]"Thus says the LORD: [w]If you can break my covenant with the day and my covenant with the night, [x]so that day and night will not come at their appointed time, [21] [y]then also my covenant with David my servant may be broken, so that he shall not have a son to reign on his throne, and my covenant with the Levitical priests my ministers. [22][†]As [z]the host of heaven cannot be numbered and [z]the sands of the sea cannot be measured, so I will multiply the offspring of David my servant, and the Levitical priests who minister to me."

[23]The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: [24]"Have you not observed that these people are saying, 'The LORD has rejected the two clans that he chose'? Thus they have despised my people so that they are no longer a nation in their sight. [25]Thus says the LORD: [a]If I have not established my covenant with day and night and the fixed order of heaven and earth, [26]then I will reject the offspring of Jacob and David my servant and will not choose one of his offspring to rule over the offspring of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. [b] For I will restore their fortunes and will have mercy on them."

Zedekiah to Die in Babylon

JEREMIAH 34 [†]The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, when [c] Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and all his army [d] and all the kingdoms of the earth under his dominion and all the peoples were fighting against Jerusalem and all of its cities: [2]"Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Go and speak to [e] Zedekiah king of Judah and say to him, 'Thus says the LORD: [f] Behold, I am giving this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall burn it with fire. [3][†] [g] You shall not escape from his hand but shall surely be captured and delivered into his hand. [g] You shall see the king of Babylon eye to eye and speak with him face to face. And you shall go to Babylon.' [4]Yet hear the word of the LORD, O Zedekiah king of Judah! [h] Thus says the LORD concerning you: [h] 'You shall not die by the sword. [5]You shall die in peace. [i] And as spices were burned for your fathers, the former kings who were before you, so people shall [j] burn spices for you [k] and lament for you, saying, "Alas, lord!"' For I have spoken the word, declares the LORD."

[6][†]Then Jeremiah the prophet spoke all these words to Zedekiah king of Judah, in Jerusalem, [7]when the army of the king of Babylon was fighting against Jerusalem and against all the cities of Judah that were left, [l] Lachish and [m] Azekah, [n] for these were the only [o] fortified cities of Judah that remained.

[8][†]The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, after King Zedekiah [p] had made a covenant with all the people in Jerusalem [q] to make a proclamation of liberty to them, [9] [r] that everyone should set free his Hebrew slaves, male and female, [s] so that no one should enslave a Jew, his brother. [10]And they obeyed, all the officials and all the people who had entered into the covenant that everyone would set free his slave, male or female, so that they would not be enslaved again. They obeyed and set them free. [11]But afterward they turned around and took back the male and female slaves [r] they had set free, and brought them into subjection as slaves. [12]The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah from the LORD: [13][†]“Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: I myself made a covenant with your fathers when [t]I brought them out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of slavery, saying, [14][†] [u]‘At the end of seven years each of you must set free the fellow Hebrew who has been sold to you and has served you six years; [r]you must set him free from your service.’ But [v]your fathers did not listen to me or incline their ears to me. [15][†]You recently repented and did what was right in my eyes [q]by proclaiming liberty, each to his neighbor, and [w]you made a covenant before me in the [x]house that is called by my name, [16][†]but then you turned around [y]and profaned my name when each of you took back his male and female slaves, [z]whom you had set free according to their desire, and you brought them into subjection to be your slaves.

[17][†]“Therefore, thus says the LORD: You have not obeyed me [q]by proclaiming liberty, every one to his brother and to his neighbor; [a]behold, I proclaim to you liberty [b]to the sword, to pestilence, and to famine, declares the LORD. [c]I will make you a horror to all the kingdoms of the earth.
[18][†]And the men who transgressed my covenant and did not keep the terms of [w]the covenant that they made before me, I will make them like [1] [d]the calf that they cut in two and passed between its parts— [19]the officials of Judah, the officials of Jerusalem, [e]the eunuchs, the priests, and all the people of the land who passed between the parts of the calf. [20]And I will give them into the hand of their enemies [f]and into the hand of those who seek their lives. [g]Their dead bodies shall be food for the birds of the air and the beasts of the earth. [21]And [h]Zedekiah king of Judah and his officials I will give into the hand of their enemies and into the hand of those who seek their lives, into the hand of the army of the king of Babylon [i]which has withdrawn from you. [22]Behold, [j]I will command, declares the LORD, and will [k]bring them back to this city. [k]And they will fight against it and take it and burn it with fire. [l]I will make the cities of Judah a desolation [m]without inhabitant.”

The Obedience of the Rechabites

JEREMIAH 35 [†]The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD in the days of [n] Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah: [2][†]"Go to the house of the [o] Rechabites and speak with them and bring them to the house of the LORD, into one of [p] the chambers; then offer them wine to drink." [3][†]So I took Jaazaniah the son of Jeremiah, son of Habazziniah and his brothers and all his sons and the whole house of the Rechabites. [4]I brought them to the house of the LORD into [p] the chamber of the sons of Hanan the son of Igdaliah, [q] the man of God, which was near [p] the chamber of the officials, above [p] the chamber of [r] Maaseiah the son of Shallum, [s] keeper of the threshold. [5]Then I set before the Rechabites pitchers full of wine, and cups, and I said to them, "Drink wine." [6]But they answered, "We will drink no wine, for [t] Jonadab the son of Rechab, our father, commanded us, 'You shall not drink wine, neither you nor your sons forever. [7]You shall not build a house; you shall not sow seed; you shall not plant or have a vineyard; but you shall live in tents all your days, [u] that you may live many days in the land where you sojourn.' [8]We have obeyed the voice of Jonadab the son of Rechab, our father, in all that he commanded us, to drink no wine all our days, ourselves, our wives, our sons, or our daughters, [9]and not to build houses to dwell in. We have no vineyard or field or seed, [10]but we have lived in tents and have obeyed and done all that Jonadab our father commanded us. [11]But [v] when Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came up against the land, we said, 'Come, and let us go to Jerusalem for fear of [w] the army of the Chaldeans and [w] the army of the Syrians.' [x] So we are living in Jerusalem."

[12][†]Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: [13]"Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Go and say to the people of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, [y] Will you not receive instruction and listen to my words? declares the LORD. [14]The command that Jonadab the son of Rechab gave to his sons, to drink no wine, has been kept, and they drink none to this day, for they have obeyed their father's command. I have spoken to you [z] persistently, but you have not listened to me. [15][†]I have sent to you all my servants the prophets, sending them [z] persistently, saying, [a] 'Turn now every one of you from his evil way, and amend your deeds, and [b] do not go after other gods to serve them, and then you shall dwell in the land that I gave to you and your fathers.’ [c]But you did not incline your ear or listen to me. [16]The sons of Jonadab the son of Rechab have kept the command that their father gave them, but this people has not obeyed me. [17]Therefore, thus says the LORD, the God of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I am bringing upon Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem all the disaster that I have pronounced against them, [d]because I have spoken to them and they have not listened, [d]I have called to them and they have not answered.”

[18][†]But to the house of the Rechabites Jeremiah said, “Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Because you have obeyed the command of Jonadab your father and kept all his precepts and done all that he commanded you, [19]therefore thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Jonadab the son of Rechab shall never lack a man [e]to stand before me.”

Jehoiakim Burns Jeremiah’s Scroll

JEREMIAH 36 [†]In the [f]fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah, this word came to Jeremiah from the LORD: [2]“Take [g]a scroll and [h]write on it all the words that I have spoken to you against Israel and [i]Judah [j]and all the nations, [k]from the day I spoke to you, from the days of Josiah until today. [3] [l]It may be that the house of Judah will hear all the disaster that I intend to do to them, [m]so that every one may turn from his evil way, and [n]that I may forgive their iniquity and their sin.”

[4][†]Then Jeremiah called [o]Baruch the son of Neriah, and [o]Baruch wrote on [g]a scroll at the dictation of Jeremiah all the words of the LORD that he had spoken to him. [5]And Jeremiah ordered [o]Baruch, saying, [p]“I am banned from going to the house of the LORD, [6][†]so you are to go, and [q]on a day of fasting in the hearing of all the people in the LORD’s house you shall read the words of the LORD from the scroll that you have written at my dictation. You shall read them also in the hearing of all the men of Judah who come out of their cities. [7] [l]It may be that their plea for mercy will come before the LORD, [m]and that every one will turn from his evil way, for great is the anger and wrath that the LORD has pronounced against this people.” [8]And Baruch the son of Neriah did all that Jeremiah the prophet ordered him about reading from the scroll the words of the LORD in the LORD's house.

9 [r] In the fifth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah, [s] in the ninth month, all the people in Jerusalem and all the people who came from the cities of Judah to Jerusalem [t] proclaimed a fast before the LORD. 10Then, in the hearing of all the people, Baruch read the words of Jeremiah from the scroll, in the house of the LORD, in [u] the chamber of Gemariah the son of Shaphan the secretary, which was in the upper court, at the entry of the New Gate of the LORD's house.

11When Micaiah the son of Gemariah, son of [v] Shaphan, heard all the words of the LORD from the scroll, 12he went down to the king's house, into the secretary's chamber, and [w] all the officials were sitting there: [x] Elishama the secretary, [y] Delaiah the son of Shemaiah, [y] Elnathan [z] the son of Achbor, [y] Gemariah the son of [z] Shaphan, Zedekiah the son of Hananiah, and all the officials. 13And Micaiah told them all the words that he had heard, when Baruch read the scroll in the hearing of the people. 14Then all the officials sent Jehudi the son of Nethaniah, son of [a] Shelemiah, son of Cushi, to say to Baruch, "Take in your hand the scroll that you read in the hearing of the people, and come." So Baruch the son of Neriah took the scroll in his hand and came to them. 15And they said to him, "Sit down and read it." So Baruch read it to them. 16When they heard all the words, they turned one to another in fear. And they said to Baruch, [b] "We must report all these words to the king." 17Then they asked Baruch, "Tell us, please, how did you write all these words? Was it at his dictation?" 18Baruch answered them, "He dictated all these words to me, [c] while I wrote them with ink on the scroll." 19Then the officials said to Baruch, "Go and hide, you and Jeremiah, and let no one know where you are."

20So they went into the court to the king, having put the scroll in [d] the chamber of Elishama the secretary, and they reported all the words to the king. 21Then the king sent Jehudi to get the scroll, and he took it from the chamber of Elishama the secretary. And Jehudi read it to the king and all the officials who stood beside the king. 22It was [e] the ninth month, and the king was sitting in [f] the winter house, and there was a fire burning in the fire pot before him. 23[†]As Jehudi read three or four columns, the king would cut them off with a knife and throw them into the fire in the fire pot, until the entire scroll was consumed in the fire that was in the fire pot. [24]Yet [g] neither the king nor any of his servants who heard all these words was afraid, [h] nor did they tear their garments. [25]Even when [i] Elnathan and Delaiah and Gemariah [j] urged the king not to burn the scroll, he would not listen to them. [26]And the king commanded Jerahmeel the [k] king's son and Seraiah the son of Azriel and [l] Shelemiah the son of Abdeel to seize [m] Baruch the secretary and Jeremiah the prophet, but the LORD hid them.

[27]Now after the king had burned the scroll with the words that Baruch wrote at Jeremiah's dictation, the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: [28]"Take another scroll and write on it all the former words that were in the first scroll, which Jehoiakim the king of Judah has burned. [29][†]And concerning Jehoiakim king of Judah you shall say, 'Thus says the LORD, You have burned this scroll, saying, [n] "Why have you written in it that the king of Babylon will certainly come and destroy this land, and will cut off from it man and beast?" [30][†]Therefore thus says the LORD concerning Jehoiakim king of Judah: [o] He shall have none [p] to sit on the throne of David, [q] and his dead body shall be cast out to the heat by day and the frost by night. [31] [r] And I will punish him and his offspring and his servants for their iniquity. I will bring upon them and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem and upon the people of Judah all the disaster that I have pronounced against them, but they would not hear.'"

[32]Then Jeremiah took another scroll and gave it to [s] Baruch the scribe, the son of Neriah, who [t] wrote on it at the dictation of Jeremiah all the words of the scroll that Jehoiakim king of Judah had burned in the fire. And many similar words were added to them.

Jeremiah Warns Zedekiah

JEREMIAH 37 [†] [u] Zedekiah the son of Josiah, [v] whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon made king in the land of Judah, reigned instead of [w] Coniah the son of Jehoiakim. [2][†] [x] But neither he nor his servants nor the people of the land listened to the words of the LORD that he spoke through Jeremiah the prophet.

[3]King Zedekiah sent [y] Jehucal the son of [z] Shelemiah, and [a] Zephaniah the priest, the son of [b] Maaseiah, to Jeremiah the prophet, saying, “Please [c] pray for us to the LORD our God.” [4] [d] Now Jeremiah was still going in and out among the people, [e] for he had not yet been put in prison. [5][†] [f] The army of Pharaoh had come out of Egypt. And when [g] the Chaldeans who were besieging Jerusalem heard news about them, [h] they withdrew from Jerusalem.

[6]Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah the prophet: [7]“Thus says the LORD, God of Israel: Thus shall you say to the king of Judah who [i] sent you to me to inquire of me, ‘Behold, [j] Pharaoh’s army that came to help you is about to [k] return to Egypt, to its own land. [8]And [l] the Chaldeans shall come back and fight against this city. [l] They shall capture it and burn it with fire. [9]Thus says the LORD, Do not deceive yourselves, saying, “The Chaldeans will surely go away from us,” for they will not go away. [10] [m] For even if you should defeat the whole army of Chaldeans who are fighting against you, and there remained of them only wounded men, every man in his tent, they would rise up and [l] burn this city with fire.’”

Jeremiah Imprisoned

[11]Now when [n] the Chaldean army had withdrawn from Jerusalem at the approach of Pharaoh’s army, [12]Jeremiah set out from Jerusalem to go to [o] the land of Benjamin [p] to receive his portion there [q] among the people. [13]When he was at [r] the Benjamin Gate, a sentry there named Irijah the son of [s] Shelemiah, son of Hananiah, seized Jeremiah the prophet, saying, [t] “You are deserting to the Chaldeans.” [14][†]And Jeremiah said, “It is a lie; I am not deserting to the Chaldeans.” But Irijah would not listen to him, and seized Jeremiah and brought him to [u] the officials. [15][†]And the officials were enraged at Jeremiah, and they beat him [v] and imprisoned him in the house of Jonathan the secretary, for it had been made a prison.

[16][†] [w] When Jeremiah had come to the dungeon cells and remained there many days, [17][†]King Zedekiah sent for him and received him. The king questioned him [x] secretly in his house and said, “Is there any word from the LORD?” Jeremiah said, “There is.” Then he said, [y] “You shall be delivered into the hand of the king of Babylon.” [18]Jeremiah also said to King Zedekiah, “What wrong have I done to you or your servants or this people, [y] that you have put me in prison? [19] [z] Where are your prophets who prophesied to you, saying, ‘The king of Babylon will not come against you and against this land’? [20]Now hear, please, O my lord the king: [a] let my humble plea come before you and [b] do not send me back to the house of Jonathan the secretary, lest I die there.” [21]So King Zedekiah gave orders, and they committed Jeremiah to [c] the court of the guard. And a loaf of bread was given him daily from the bakers’ street, [d] until all the bread of the city was gone. So Jeremiah remained in [c] the court of the guard.

Jeremiah Cast into the Cistern

JEREMIAH 38 [†]Now Shephatiah the son of Mattan, Gedaliah the son of Pashhur, [e] Jucal the son of Shelemiah, and [f] Pashhur the son of Malchiah heard the words that Jeremiah was saying to all the people, [2][†]“Thus says the LORD: [g] He who stays in this city shall die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence, [g] but he who goes out to the Chaldeans shall live. He shall have his life as a prize of war, and live. [3]Thus says the LORD: [h] This city shall surely be given into the hand of the army of the king of Babylon and be taken.” [4][†]Then the officials said to the king, [i] “Let this man be put to death, [j] for he is weakening the hands of the soldiers who are left in this city, and the hands of all the people, by speaking such words to them. For this man is not seeking [k] the welfare of this people, but their harm.” [5][†]King Zedekiah said, “Behold, he is in your hands, [l] for the king can do nothing against you.” [6][†]So they took Jeremiah [m] and cast him into the cistern of Malchiah, the king’s son, which was in [n] the court of the guard, letting Jeremiah down [o] by ropes. [p] And there was no water in the cistern, but only mud, and [q] Jeremiah sank in the mud.

Jeremiah Rescued from the Cistern

[7][†]When [r] Ebed-melech [s] the Ethiopian, [t] a eunuch who was in the king’s house, heard that they had put Jeremiah into the cistern—the king was sitting [u] in the Benjamin Gate— [8][†] [r] Ebed-melech went from the king’s house and said to the king, [9]“My lord the king, these men have done evil in all that they did to Jeremiah the prophet by casting him into the cistern, and he will die there of [v]hunger, [w]for there is no bread left in the city.” [10]Then the king commanded [r]Ebed-melech the Ethiopian, “Take thirty men with you from here, and lift Jeremiah the prophet out of the cistern before he dies.” [11][†]So [r]Ebed-melech took the men with him and went to the house of the king, to a wardrobe in the storehouse, and took from there old rags and worn-out clothes, which he let down to Jeremiah in the cistern [x]by ropes. [12]Then [r]Ebed-melech the Ethiopian said to Jeremiah, “Put the rags and clothes between your armpits and [x]the ropes.” Jeremiah did so. [13]Then they drew Jeremiah up with [x]ropes and lifted him out of the cistern. And Jeremiah remained in the [n]court of the guard.

Jeremiah Warns Zedekiah Again

[14]King Zedekiah sent for Jeremiah the prophet and received him at the third entrance of the temple of the LORD. The king said to Jeremiah, “I will ask you a question; hide nothing from me.” [15]Jeremiah said to Zedekiah, “If I tell you, will you not surely put me to death? And if I give you counsel, you will not listen to me.” [16][†]Then King Zedekiah swore [y]secretly to Jeremiah, [z]“As the LORD lives, [a]who made our souls, I will not put you to death or deliver you into the hand of [b]these men who seek your life.”

[17]Then Jeremiah said to Zedekiah, “Thus says the LORD, the God of hosts, the God of Israel: [c]If you will surrender to [d]the officials of the king of Babylon, [e]then your life shall be spared, and this city shall not be burned with fire, and you and your house shall live. [18]But if you do not surrender to [d]the officials of the king of Babylon, [f]then this city shall be given into the hand of the Chaldeans, [f]and they shall burn it with fire, and you shall not escape from their hand.” [19][†]King Zedekiah said to Jeremiah, “I am afraid of the Judeans [g]who have deserted to the Chaldeans, lest I be handed over to them and they deal cruelly with me.” [20]Jeremiah said, “You shall not be given to them. Obey now the voice of the LORD in what I say to you, [h]and it shall be well with you, and your life shall be spared. [21][†]But if you refuse to [c]surrender, this is the vision which the LORD has shown to me:

[22]Behold, all the women left in the house of the king of Judah were being led out to the officials of the king of Babylon and were saying,

[i]“‘Your trusted friends have deceived you and prevailed against you;
now that your feet are sunk in the mud,
they turn away from you.’

[23][†]All your wives and [j]your sons shall be led out to the Chaldeans, and you yourself shall not escape from their hand, but shall be seized by the king of Babylon, and this city shall be burned with fire.”

[24][†]Then Zedekiah said to Jeremiah, “Let no one know of these words, and you shall not die. [25]If [k]the officials hear that I have spoken with you and come to you and say to you, ‘Tell us what you said to the king and what the king said to you; hide nothing from us and we will not put you to death,’ [26]then you shall say to them, [l]‘I made a humble plea to the king that he would not send me back to the house of Jonathan to die there.’” [27]Then all the officials came to Jeremiah and asked him, and he answered them as the king had instructed him. So they stopped speaking with him, for the conversation had not been overheard. [28][†]And Jeremiah remained [m]in the court of the guard until the day that Jerusalem was taken.

The Fall of Jerusalem

JEREMIAH 39 [†][n]In the ninth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the tenth month, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and all his army came against Jerusalem and besieged it. [2][†]In the eleventh year of Zedekiah, in the fourth month, on the ninth day of the month, a breach was made in the city. [3][†]Then all [o]the officials of the king of Babylon came [p]and sat in the middle gate: Nergal-sar-ezer of Samgar, Nebu-sar-sekim [q]the Rab-saris, Nergal-sar-ezer the Rab-mag, with all the rest of the officers of the king of Babylon. [4][†]When Zedekiah king of Judah and all the soldiers saw them, they fled, going out of the city at night by way of the king’s garden through the gate between the two walls; and they went toward [r]the Arabah. [5][†]But the army of the Chaldeans pursued them and overtook Zedekiah in [s]the plains of Jericho. And when they had taken him, they brought him up to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, at [t]Riblah, in the land of Hamath; [u]and he passed sentence on him. [6][†]The king of Babylon [v]slaughtered the sons of Zedekiah at [t]Riblah before his eyes, and the king of Babylon [v]slaughtered all the nobles of Judah. [7] [w]He put out the eyes of Zedekiah and bound him in chains to take him to Babylon. [8] [x]The Chaldeans burned the king’s house and the house of the people, [y]and broke down the walls of Jerusalem. [9][†]Then [z]Nebuzaradan, the [a]captain of the guard, carried into exile to Babylon the rest of the people who were left in the city, [b]those who had deserted to him, and the people who remained. [10]Nebuzaradan, the captain of the guard, [c]left in the land of Judah some of the poor people who owned nothing, and gave them vineyards and fields at the same time.

The LORD Delivers Jeremiah

[11][†]Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon gave command concerning Jeremiah through Nebuzaradan, the captain of the guard, saying, [12] [d]“Take him, look after him well, and do him no harm, but deal with him as he tells you.” [13][†]So [e]Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard, Nebushazban the Rab-saris, Nergal-sar-ezer the Rab-mag, [e]and all the chief officers of the king of Babylon [14]sent and took Jeremiah from [f]the court of the guard. They entrusted him to [g]Gedaliah the son of [h]Ahikam, son of [i]Shaphan, that he should take him home. So [j]he lived among the people.

[15][†]The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah [k]while he was shut up in the court of the guard: [16]“Go, and say to [l]Ebed-melech the Ethiopian, ‘Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: [m]Behold, I will fulfill my words against this city for harm and [n]not for good, and they shall be accomplished before you on that day. [17][†]But I will deliver you on that day, declares the LORD, and you shall not be given into the hand of the men [o]of whom you are afraid. [18][†]For I will surely save you, and you shall not fall by the sword, but you shall have your [p]life as a prize of war, [q]because you have put your trust in me, declares the LORD.’”

Jeremiah Remains in Judah

JEREMIAH 40 [†]The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD [r]after Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard had let him go from [s]Ramah, when he took him [t]bound in chains along with all the captives of Jerusalem and Judah who were being exiled to Babylon. 2[†]The captain of the guard took Jeremiah and said to him, [u]“The LORD your God pronounced this disaster against this place. 3The LORD has brought it about, and has done as he said. [v]Because you sinned against the LORD and did not obey his voice, this thing has come upon you. 4Now, behold, I release you today from [t]the chains on your hands. [w]If it seems good to you to come with me to Babylon, come, and I will look after you well, [w]but if it seems wrong to you to come with me to Babylon, do not come. [x]See, the whole land is before you; go wherever you think it good and right to go. 5If you remain, [1] then return to [y]Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, [z]whom the king of Babylon appointed governor of the cities of Judah, and dwell with him among the people. Or go wherever you think it right to go.” So the captain of the guard gave him an allowance of food and a present, and let him go. 6[†]Then Jeremiah went to [y]Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, at [a]Mizpah, and lived with him [b]among the people [c]who were left in the land.

7 [d]When all the captains of the forces in the open country and their men heard that [e]the king of Babylon had appointed Gedaliah the son of Ahikam governor in the land and had committed to him men, women, and children, those of [f]the poorest of the land who had not been taken into exile to Babylon, 8they went to Gedaliah at [a]Mizpah—[g]Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, [h]Johanan the son of Kareah, Seraiah the son of Tanhumeth, the sons of Ephai the Netophathite, [i]Jezaniah the son of the Maacathite, they and their men. 9[†]Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, swore to them and their men, saying, “Do not be afraid to serve the Chaldeans. Dwell in the land and serve the king of Babylon, [j]and it shall be well with you. 10As for me, I will dwell at [a]Mizpah, to represent you before the Chaldeans who will come to us. But as for you, [l]gather wine and summer fruits and oil, and store them in your vessels, and dwell in your cities that you have taken." [11]Likewise, when all the Judeans who were in [m]Moab and among [n]the Ammonites and in [o]Edom and in other lands heard that the king of Babylon had left a remnant in Judah and had appointed Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, as governor over them, [12][p]then all the Judeans returned from all the places to which they had been driven and came to the land of Judah, to Gedaliah at Mizpah. And they [q]gathered wine and summer fruits in great abundance.

[13][†]Now [r]Johanan the son of Kareah and [s]all the leaders of the forces in the open country came to Gedaliah at Mizpah [14]and said to him, "Do you know that Baalis the king of [t]the Ammonites has sent Ishmael the son of Nethaniah to take your life?" But Gedaliah the son of Ahikam would not believe them. [15]Then Johanan the son of Kareah spoke secretly to Gedaliah at Mizpah, "Please let me go and strike down Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and no one will know it. Why should he take your life, so that all the Judeans who are gathered about you would be scattered, [u]and the remnant of Judah would perish?" [16]But Gedaliah the son of Ahikam said to Johanan the son of Kareah, "You shall not do this thing, for you are speaking falsely of Ishmael."

Gedaliah Murdered

JEREMIAH 41 [†] [v]In the seventh month, Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, son of Elishama, of the royal family, one of the chief officers of the king, came with ten men to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, at [w]Mizpah. As they [x]ate bread together there at Mizpah, [2][†] [y]Ishmael the son of Nethaniah and the ten men with him rose up and struck down Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, with the sword, and killed him, [z]whom the king of Babylon had appointed governor in the land. [3][†]Ishmael also struck down all the Judeans who were with Gedaliah at [w]Mizpah, and the Chaldean soldiers who happened to be there.

[4][†]On the day after the murder of Gedaliah, before anyone knew of it, [5]eighty men arrived from [a]Shechem and [b]Shiloh and [c]Samaria, with [d]their beards shaved and [e]their clothes torn, and [d]their bodies gashed, [f]bringing grain offerings and incense to present at the temple of the LORD.

[6]And Ishmael the son of Nethaniah came out from [g]Mizpah to meet them, weeping as he came. As he met them, he said to them, “Come in to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam.” [7]When they came into the city, Ishmael the son of Nethaniah and the men with him slaughtered them and cast them into a cistern. [8]But there were ten men among them who said to Ishmael, “Do not put us to death, for we have [h]stores of wheat, barley, oil, and honey hidden in the fields.” So he refrained and did not put them to death with their companions.

[9]Now the cistern into which Ishmael had thrown all the bodies of the men whom he had struck down along with [1] Gedaliah was the large cistern that [i]King Asa had made for defense against [i]Baasha king of Israel; Ishmael the son of Nethaniah filled it with the slain. [10][†]Then Ishmael took captive all the rest of the people who were in Mizpah, [j]the king’s daughters and all the people who were left at Mizpah, whom [k]Nebuzaradan, the captain of the guard, had committed to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam. Ishmael the son of Nethaniah took them captive and set out to cross over to [l]the Ammonites.

[11][†]But when [m]Johanan the son of Kareah and [n]all the leaders of the forces with him heard of all the evil that Ishmael the son of Nethaniah had done, [12]they took all their men and went to fight against Ishmael the son of Nethaniah. They came upon him at [o]the great pool that is in [p]Gibeon. [13][†]And when all the people who were with Ishmael saw Johanan the son of Kareah and [q]all the leaders of the forces with him, they rejoiced. [14][r]So all the people whom Ishmael had carried away captive from Mizpah turned around and came back, and went to Johanan the son of Kareah. [15]But Ishmael the son of Nethaniah escaped from Johanan with eight men, and went to [s]the Ammonites. [16]Then Johanan the son of Kareah and [q]all the leaders of the forces with him took from Mizpah all the rest of the people whom he had recovered from Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, after he had struck down Gedaliah the son of Ahikam—soldiers, [t]women, children, and eunuchs, whom Johanan brought back from [u]Gibeon. [17]And they went and stayed at Geruth [v]Chimham near [w]Bethlehem, intending to go to Egypt [18]because of the Chaldeans. For they were afraid of them, because Ishmael the son of Nethaniah had struck down Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, [x] whom the king of Babylon had made governor over the land.

Warning Against Going to Egypt

JEREMIAH 42 [†]Then [y] all the commanders of the forces, and [z] Johanan the son of Kareah and Jezaniah the son of [a] Hoshaiah, and all the people [b] from the least to the greatest, came near [2]and said to Jeremiah the prophet, "Let [c] our plea for mercy come before you, and [d] pray to the LORD your God for us, for all [e] this remnant—[f] because we are left with but a few, as your eyes see us— [3]that [g] the LORD your God may show us the way we should go, and the thing that we should do." [4]Jeremiah the prophet said to them, "I have heard you. Behold, I will pray to the LORD your God according to your request, and [h] whatever the LORD answers you I will tell you. [h] I will keep nothing back from you." [5]Then they said to Jeremiah, [i] "May the LORD be a true and [j] faithful witness against us [k] if we do not act according to all the word [l] with which the LORD your God sends you to us. [6]Whether it is good or bad, we will obey the voice of the LORD our God to whom we are sending you, [m] that it may be well with us when we obey the voice of the LORD our God."

[7][†] [n] At the end of ten days the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah. [8]Then he summoned [z] Johanan the son of Kareah and [y] all the commanders of the forces who were with him, and all the people [b] from the least to the greatest, [9]and said to them, "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, [o] to whom you sent me to present your plea for mercy before him: [10][†]If you will remain in this land, [p] then I will build you up and not pull you down; I will plant you, and not pluck you up; [q] for I relent of the disaster that I did to you. [11][†] [r] Do not fear the king of Babylon, [r] of whom you are afraid. [s] Do not fear him, declares the LORD, [s] for I am with you, to save you and to deliver you from his hand. [12] [t] I will grant you mercy, that he may have mercy on you and let you remain in your own land. [13][†] [u] But if you say, 'We will not remain in this land,' disobeying the voice of the LORD your God [14]and saying, 'No, [v] we will go to the land of Egypt, where we shall not see war or [w] hear the sound of the trumpet or [x] be hungry for bread, and we will dwell there,' [15]then hear the word of the LORD, O remnant of Judah. Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: [y]If you set your faces to enter Egypt [z]and go to live there, [16]then the sword [a]that you fear shall overtake you there in the land of Egypt, and the famine of which you are afraid shall follow close after you to Egypt, [b]and there you shall die. [17]All the men who set their faces to go to Egypt to live there shall die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence. They shall have [c]no remnant or survivor from the disaster that I will bring upon them.

[18][†]"For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: [d]As my anger and my wrath were poured out on the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so my wrath will be poured out on you when you go to Egypt. [e]You shall become an execration, a horror, a curse, and a taunt. You shall see this place no more. [19][†]The LORD has said to you, O remnant of Judah, [f]'Do not go to Egypt.' [g]Know for a certainty that I have warned you this day [20]that you have gone astray at the cost of your lives. [h]For you sent me to the LORD your God, saying, [h]'Pray for us to the LORD our God, and [i]whatever the LORD our God says declare to us and we will do it.' [21]And I have this day declared it to you, but you have not obeyed the voice of the LORD your God in anything [j]that he sent me to tell you. [22][k]Now therefore know for a certainty that you shall die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence in the place where you desire to go to live."

Jeremiah Taken to Egypt

JEREMIAH 43 When Jeremiah finished speaking to all the people all these words of the LORD their God, with which the LORD their God had sent him to them, [2]Azariah the son of [l]Hoshaiah and [m]Johanan the son of Kareah and [n]all the insolent men said to Jeremiah, "You are telling a lie. The LORD our God did not send you to say, [o]'Do not go to Egypt to live there,' [3]but [p]Baruch the son of Neriah [q]has set you against us, [r]to deliver us into the hand of the Chaldeans, that they may kill us or take us into exile in Babylon." [4][†]So [m]Johanan the son of Kareah and all [s]the commanders of the forces and all the people did not obey the voice of the LORD, to remain in the land of Judah. [5]But Johanan the son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces took [t]all the remnant of Judah who had returned to live in the land of Judah from all the nations to which they had been driven— [6] [u] the men, the women, the children, [v] the princesses, and every person whom [w] Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard had left with [x] Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan; also Jeremiah the prophet and Baruch the son of Neriah. [7][†]And they came into the land of Egypt, for they did not obey the voice of the LORD. And they arrived at [y] Tahpanhes.

[8]Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah in [y] Tahpanhes: [9][†]“Take in your hands large stones and hide them in the mortar in the pavement that is at the entrance to Pharaoh’s palace in [y] Tahpanhes, in the sight of the men of Judah, [10]and say to them, ‘Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I will send and take Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, [z] my servant, [a] and I will set his throne above these stones that I have hidden, and he will spread his royal canopy over them. [11]He shall come [b] and strike the land of Egypt, [c] giving over to the pestilence those who are doomed to the pestilence, to captivity those who are doomed to captivity, and to the sword those who are doomed to the sword. [12][†] [d] I shall kindle a fire [e] in the temples of the gods of Egypt, and he shall burn them [f] and carry them away captive. [g] And he shall clean the land of Egypt [g] as a shepherd cleans his cloak of vermin, and he shall go away from there in peace. [13][†]He shall break the [h] obelisks of Heliopolis, which is in the land of Egypt, [e] and the temples of the gods of Egypt he shall burn with fire.’”

Judgment for Idolatry

JEREMIAH 44 [†]The word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the Judeans who lived in the land of Egypt, at [i] Migdol, at [j] Tahpanhes, at Memphis, and in the land of [k] Pathros, [2]“Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: You have seen all the disaster that I brought upon Jerusalem and upon all the cities of Judah. Behold, this day [l] they are a desolation, and no one dwells in them, [3]because of the evil that they committed, [m] provoking me to anger, [n] in that they went to make offerings [o] and serve other gods that they knew not, neither they, nor you, nor your fathers. [4][†] [p] Yet I persistently sent to you all my servants the prophets, saying, ‘Oh, do not do this abomination that I hate!’ [5] [q] But they did not listen [q] or incline their ear, to turn from their evil and make no offerings to other gods.

6 [r] Therefore my wrath and my anger were poured out and kindled in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem, [s] and they became a waste and a desolation, as at this day. 7 And now thus says the LORD God of hosts, the God of Israel: Why do you commit this great evil [t] against yourselves, to cut off from you [u] man and woman, [u] infant and child, from the midst of Judah, leaving you no remnant? 8 [†] [m] Why do you provoke me to anger with the works of your hands, [n] making offerings to other gods in the land of Egypt where you have come to live, so that you may be cut off and become [v] a curse and a taunt among all the nations of the earth? 9 [†]Have you forgotten the evil of your fathers, [w] the evil of the kings of Judah, [x] the evil of their [1] wives, your own evil, [y] and the evil of your wives, which they committed in the land of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem? 10 They have not humbled themselves even to this day, [z] nor have they feared, nor walked in my law and my statutes that I set before you and before your fathers.

11 [†]“Therefore thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: [a] Behold, I will set my face against you for harm, to cut off all Judah. 12 I will take the remnant of Judah who have [b] set their faces to come to the land of Egypt to live, and they shall all be consumed. [c] In the land of Egypt they shall fall; by the sword and by famine [c] they shall be consumed. [d] From the least to the greatest, they shall die by the sword and by famine, [e] and they shall become an oath, a horror, [v] a curse, and a taunt. 13 [f] I will punish those who dwell in the land of Egypt, as I have punished Jerusalem, with the sword, with famine, and with pestilence, 14 [g] so that none of the remnant of Judah who have come to live in the land of Egypt shall escape or survive [h] or return to the land of Judah, to which they desire to return to dwell there. For they shall not return, [i] except some fugitives.”

15 Then all the men who knew that [j] their wives had made offerings to other gods, and all the women who stood by, a great assembly, all the people who lived in [k] Pathros in the land of Egypt, answered Jeremiah: 16 “As for the word that you have spoken to us in the name of the LORD, [l] we will not listen to you. 17 [†] [m] But we will do everything that we have vowed, make offerings to [n] the queen of heaven [o] and pour out drink offerings to her, [p] as we did, both we and our fathers, our kings and our officials, in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem. For then we had plenty of food, and prospered, and saw no disaster. 18But since we left off making offerings to [n] the queen of heaven and pouring out drink offerings to her, we have lacked everything [q] and have been consumed by the sword and by famine.” 19And the women said, [2] “When we made offerings to the queen of heaven [r] and poured out drink offerings to her, was it [s] without our husbands’ approval that we made cakes for her bearing her image and poured out drink offerings to her?”

20Then Jeremiah said to all the people, [t] men and women, all the people who had given him this answer: 21[†] [u] “As for the offerings that you offered in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem, you and your fathers, your kings and your officials, and the people of the land, [v] did not the LORD remember them? Did it not come into his mind? 22 [w] The LORD could no longer bear your evil deeds and [x] the abominations that you committed. [y] Therefore your land has become [z] a desolation and a waste and a curse, [a] without inhabitant, as it is this day. 23It is because you made offerings [b] and because you sinned against the LORD and did not obey the voice of the LORD or walk in his law and in his statutes and in his testimonies [c] that this disaster has happened to you, as at this day.”

24Jeremiah said to all the people and all the women, “Hear the word of the LORD, [d] all you of Judah who are in the land of Egypt. 25Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: [e] You and your wives have declared with your mouths, and have fulfilled it with your hands, saying, ‘We will surely perform our vows that we have made, [f] to make offerings to the queen of heaven and to pour out drink offerings to her.’ Then confirm your vows and perform your vows! 26[†]Therefore hear the word of the LORD, [d] all you of Judah who dwell in the land of Egypt: [g] Behold, I have sworn by my great name, says the LORD, [h] that my name shall no more be invoked by the mouth of any man of Judah in all the land of Egypt, [i] saying, ‘As the Lord GOD lives.’ 27 [j] Behold, I am watching over them for disaster and not for good. [k] All the men of Judah who are in the land of Egypt shall be consumed by the sword and by famine, until there is an end of them. 28 [l] And those who escape the sword shall return from the land of Egypt to the land of Judah, [m] few in number; and all the remnant of Judah, who came to the land of Egypt to live, [n] shall know whose word will stand, mine or theirs. [29][†]This shall be the sign to you, declares the LORD, that I will punish you in this place, in order that you may know that [o] my words will surely stand against you for harm: [30]Thus says the LORD, Behold, I will give [p] Pharaoh Hophra king of Egypt into the hand of his enemies [q] and into the hand of those who seek his life, as I gave [r] Zedekiah king of Judah into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, who was his enemy and sought his life."

Message to Baruch

JEREMIAH 45 [†]The word that Jeremiah the prophet spoke to [s] Baruch the son of Neriah, [t] when he wrote these words in a book at the dictation of Jeremiah, [u] in the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah: [2]"Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, to you, O Baruch: [3][†]You said, [v] 'Woe is me! For the LORD has added sorrow to my pain. [w] I am weary with my groaning, [x] and I find no rest.' [4][†]Thus shall you say to him, Thus says the LORD: [y] Behold, what I have built I am breaking down, and what I have planted I am plucking up—that is, the whole land. [5][†]And [z] do you seek great things for yourself? Seek them not, for behold, [a] I am bringing disaster upon all flesh, declares the LORD. But I will give you [b] your life as a prize of war in all places to which you may go."

Judgment on Egypt

JEREMIAH 46 [†]The word of the LORD that came to Jeremiah the prophet [c] concerning the nations.

[2][†]About Egypt. [d] Concerning the army of Pharaoh Neco, king of Egypt, which was by the river Euphrates at Carchemish and which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon defeated in [e] the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah:

[3] [f] "Prepare buckler and shield, and advance for battle!
[4] [g] Harness the horses;

mount, O horsemen!
Take your stations with your helmets,
[f] polish your spears,
put on your armor!
5 Why have I seen it?
They are dismayed
and have turned backward.
Their [h] warriors are beaten down
and have fled in haste;
[i] they look not back—
[j] terror on every side!
declares the LORD.

6 “The swift cannot flee away,
nor the warrior escape;
[d] in the north by the river Euphrates
[k] they have stumbled and fallen.

7 “Who is this, [l] rising like the Nile,
like rivers [m] whose waters surge?
8 Egypt rises like the Nile,
like rivers [m] whose waters surge.
He said, ‘I will rise, I will cover the earth,
I will destroy cities and their inhabitants.’
9 [n] Advance, O horses, and rage, O chariots!
Let the warriors go out:
men of Cush and [o] Put who handle the shield,
[p] men of Lud, skilled in handling the bow.
10 [†] [q] That day is the day of the Lord GOD of hosts,
[r] a day of vengeance,
[s] to avenge himself on his foes.
[t] The sword shall devour and be sated and drink its fill of their blood.
For the Lord GOD of hosts holds [u] a sacrifice

[v] in the north country [w] by the river Euphrates.
11[†] [x] Go up to Gilead, and take [x] balm,
O virgin daughter of Egypt!
In vain you have used many medicines;
[y] there is no healing for you.
12 The nations have heard of your shame,
and the earth is full of your cry;
[z] for warrior has stumbled against warrior;
they have both fallen together."

13 The word that the LORD spoke to Jeremiah the prophet about the coming of [a] Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon to strike the land of Egypt:

14 "Declare in Egypt, and proclaim in [b] Migdol; proclaim in [b] Memphis and [b] Tahpanhes;
say, [c] 'Stand ready and be prepared,
for [d] the sword shall devour around you.'
15[†] Why are your mighty ones face down?
They do not stand [1]
because the LORD thrust them down.
16 He made many stumble, [f] and they fell,
and they said one to another,
'Arise, and let us go back to our own people and to the land of our birth, [g] because of the sword of the oppressor.'
17 Call the name of [h] Pharaoh, king of Egypt,
'Noisy one who lets the hour go by.'

18[†] [i] "As I live, declares the King, [j] whose name is the LORD of hosts, like [k] Tabor among the mountains and like [l] Carmel by the sea, shall one come.
19[†] [m] Prepare yourselves baggage for exile,
O [n] inhabitants of Egypt!
For [o] Memphis shall become a waste,

a ruin, [p]without inhabitant.

[20] “A beautiful [q]heifer is Egypt, but a biting fly [r]from the north has come upon her.
[21] Even her hired soldiers in her midst are like [s]fattened calves;
yes, they have turned and fled together;
they did not stand,
for the day of their calamity has come upon them,
[t]the time of their punishment.

[22] “She makes [u]a sound like a serpent gliding away;
for her enemies march in force and come against her with axes
[v]like those who fell trees.
[23] [v]They shall cut down her forest,
declares the Lord,
though it is impenetrable,
because [w]they are more numerous than locusts;
they are without number.
[24] The daughter of Egypt shall be put to shame;
she shall be delivered into the hand of [r]a people from the north.”

[25][†]The Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, said: “Behold, I am bringing punishment upon [x]Amon of [y]Thebes, and Pharaoh and Egypt [z]and her gods and her kings, upon Pharaoh and those who trust in him. [26][†] [a]I will deliver them into the hand of those who seek their life, into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and his officers. [b]Afterward Egypt shall be inhabited [c]as in the days of old, declares the Lord.

[27][†] [d]“But fear not, O Jacob my servant,
nor be dismayed, O Israel,
for behold, I will save you from far away,
and your offspring from the land of their captivity.
Jacob shall return and have quiet and ease,
and none shall make him afraid.

28 [d] Fear not, O Jacob my servant,
declares the LORD,
for I am with you.
I will make a full end of all the nations to which I have driven you,
but of you I will not make a full end.
[e] I will discipline you in just measure,
and I will by no means leave you unpunished.”

Judgment on the Philistines

JEREMIAH 47 The word of the LORD that came to Jeremiah the prophet [f] concerning the Philistines, before Pharaoh struck down [g] Gaza.

2[†] “Thus says the LORD:
[h] Behold, waters are rising [i] out of the north,
[h] and shall become an overflowing torrent;
they shall overflow [j] the land and all that fills it,
the city and those who dwell in it.
Men shall cry out,
and every inhabitant of the land shall wail.
3 At the noise of the stamping of the hoofs of his stallions, [l] at the rushing of his chariots, at the rumbling of their wheels, the fathers [m] look not back to their children,
so feeble are their hands,
4[†] because of the day that is coming to destroy all [f] the Philistines, to cut off from [n] Tyre and Sidon every helper that remains.
For the LORD is destroying the Philistines,
[o] the remnant of the coastland of [p] Caphtor.
5[†] [q] Baldness has come upon Gaza;
[r] Ashkelon has perished.
O remnant of their valley,
[s] how long will you gash yourselves?

[6][†] [t] Ah, sword of the Lord!
How long till you are quiet?
Put yourself into your scabbard;
rest and be still!
[7] How can it [1] be quiet
[u] when the Lord has given it a charge?
Against [v] Ashkelon and against the seashore [w] he has appointed it.”

Judgment on Moab

JEREMIAH 48 [†] [x] Concerning Moab.
Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel:

“Woe to [y] Nebo, for it is laid waste!
[z] Kiriathaim is put to shame, it is taken;
the fortress is put to shame [a] and broken down;
[2][†] the renown of Moab is no more.
In [b] Heshbon they planned disaster against her:
‘Come, let us cut her off [c] from being a nation!’
You also, O [d] Madmen, shall be brought to silence;
the sword shall pursue you.

[3][†] “A voice! A cry from [e] Horonaim, ‘Desolation and great destruction!’
[4] Moab is destroyed;
her little ones have made a cry.
[5][†] [e] For at the ascent of Luhith
they go up weeping; [1]
for [e] at the descent of Horonaim they have heard the distressed cry [2] of destruction.
[6] Flee! Save yourselves!
You will be like [f] a juniper in the desert!
[7][†] For, [g] because you trusted in your works and your treasures, you also shall be taken;

and [h] Chemosh [i] shall go into exile with [j] his priests and his officials.
8[†] [k] The destroyer shall come upon every city,
and no city shall escape;
the valley shall perish,
and [l] the plain shall be destroyed,
as the LORD has spoken.

9 “Give wings to Moab,
for she would fly away;
her cities shall become a desolation,
with no inhabitant in them.

10[†] [m] “Cursed is he who does [n] the work of the LORD with slackness, and cursed is he who keeps back his sword from bloodshed.

11[†] “Moab has been at ease from his youth and has [o] settled on his dregs;
he has not been emptied from vessel to vessel,
nor has he gone into exile;
so his taste remains in him,
and his scent is not changed.

12[†]“Therefore, behold, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when I shall send to him pourers who will pour him, and empty his vessels and break his [3] jars in pieces. 13[†]Then [p] Moab shall be ashamed of Chemosh, as [q] the house of Israel was ashamed of [r] Bethel, their confidence.

14 “How do you say, ‘We are heroes and mighty men of war’?
15[†] The destroyer of [s] Moab and his cities has come up, and the choicest of his young men have [t] gone down to slaughter, declares [u] the King, [u] whose name is the LORD of hosts.
16[†] The calamity of Moab is near at hand,
and his affliction hastens swiftly.
17 [v] Grieve for him, all you who are around him,

and all who know his name;
say, [w] ‘How the mighty scepter is broken,
the glorious staff.’

[18] [x] “Come down from your glory,
and sit on the parched ground,
O inhabitant of [y] Dibon!
For the destroyer of Moab has come up against you;
he has destroyed your strongholds.
[19] [z] Stand by the way [z] and watch,
O inhabitant of [a] Aroer!
Ask him who flees and her who escapes;
say, ‘What has happened?’
[20][†] Moab is put to shame, for it is broken;
[v] wail and cry!
Tell it beside [b] the Arnon, that [s] Moab is laid waste.

[21][†]“Judgment has come upon [c] the tableland, upon Holon, and [d] Jahzah, and Mephaath, [22]and [y] Dibon, and [e] Nebo, and Beth-diblathaim, [23]and [f] Kiriathaim, and Beth-gamul, and [g] Beth-meon, [24]and [h] Kerioth, and [i] Bozrah, and all the cities of the land of Moab, far and near. [25][j] The horn of Moab is cut off, and [k] his arm is broken, declares the Lord.

[26][†] [l] “Make him drunk, [m] because he magnified himself against the Lord, so that Moab shall [l] wallow in his vomit, [n] and he too shall be held in derision. [27] [o] Was not Israel a derision to you? [p] Was he found among thieves, that whenever you spoke of him [q] you wagged your head?

[28] [r] “Leave the cities, and dwell in the rock,
O inhabitants of Moab!
Be [s] like the dove that nests
in the sides of the mouth of a gorge.
[29][†] [t] We have heard of the pride of Moab—
he is very proud—of his loftiness, his pride, and his arrogance,

and the haughtiness of his heart.
30 I know his insolence, declares the LORD; [u] his boasts are false,
his deeds are false.
31[†] [v] Therefore I wail for Moab;
I cry out for all Moab;
for the men of [w] Kir-hareseth I mourn.
32 More than for [x] Jazer I weep for you,
[y] O vine of [z] Sibmah!
[a] Your branches passed over the sea, reached to the Sea of [x] Jazer;
on your summer fruits and your grapes
the destroyer has fallen.
33[†] [b] Gladness and joy have been taken away from the fruitful land of Moab;
I have made the wine cease from the winepresses;
no one treads them with shouts of joy;
the shouting is not the shout of joy.

34 [c] “From the outcry at Heshbon even to Elealeh, as far as Jahaz they utter their voice, from Zoar to [d] Horonaim and Eglath-shelishiyah. For the waters of Nimrim also have become desolate. 35[†]And I will bring to an end in Moab, declares the LORD, him who offers sacrifice in [e] the high place and makes offerings to his god. 36[†]Therefore my heart moans for Moab like a flute, and my heart moans like a flute for the men of [f] Kir-hareseth. [g] Therefore the riches they gained have perished.

37 [h] “For every head is shaved and every beard cut off. [i] On all the hands are gashes, and [j] around the waist is sackcloth. 38On all the housetops of Moab and in the squares there is nothing but lamentation, for I have broken Moab like [k] a vessel for which no one cares, declares the LORD. 39How it is broken! How they wail! [l] How Moab has turned his back in shame! So Moab [m] has become a derision and a horror to all that are around him.”

40[†] For thus says the LORD:
“Behold, [n] one shall fly swiftly like an eagle

[o] and spread his wings against Moab;
41 [p] the cities shall be taken and the strongholds seized.
[q] The heart of the warriors of Moab shall be in that day like the heart of [r] a woman in her birth pains; 42[†] Moab shall be [s] destroyed and be no longer a people, because [t] he magnified himself against the LORD.
43[†] [u] Terror, pit, and snare are before you, O inhabitant of Moab!
declares the LORD.
44 He who flees from the terror
shall fall into the pit,
and he who climbs out of the pit
shall be caught in the snare.
[v] For I will bring these things upon Moab,
the year of their punishment,
declares the LORD.

45[†] “In the shadow of Heshbon fugitives stop without strength, for fire came out from Heshbon, flame from the house of Sihon;
it has destroyed [w] the forehead of Moab,
the crown of [w] the sons of tumult.
46 [x] Woe to you, O Moab!
The people of [y] Chemosh are undone,
for your sons have been taken captive,
and your daughters into captivity.
47[†] [z] Yet I will restore the fortunes of Moab in the latter days, declares the LORD.”
Thus far is the judgment on Moab.

Judgment on Ammon

JEREMIAH 49 [†] [a]Concerning the Ammonites.
Thus says the LORD:

“Has Israel no sons?
Has he no heir?
Why then has [b]Milcom [c]dispossessed Gad,
and his people settled in its cities?
2[†] Therefore, behold, the days are coming,
declares the LORD,
when I will cause [d]the battle cry to be heard against [e]Rabbah of the Ammonites;
it shall become a desolate [f]mound,
and its villages shall be burned with fire;
then Israel shall dispossess those who dispossessed him,
says the LORD.

3[†] “Wail, O [g]Heshbon, for Ai is laid waste!
Cry out, O daughters of [e]Rabbah!
[h]Put on sackcloth,
lament, and run to and fro among the hedges!
For [i]Milcom shall go into exile,
[j]with his priests and his officials.
4 Why do you boast of your valleys,[1]
[k]O faithless daughter,
[l]who trusted in her treasures, saying,
‘Who will come against me?’
5[†] Behold, [m]I will bring terror upon you,
declares the Lord GOD of hosts,
from all who are around you,
and you shall be driven out, every man straight before him,
with none to gather the fugitives.

[6][†]“But [n] afterward I will restore the fortunes of the Ammonites, declares the LORD.”

Judgment on Edom

[7][†]Concerning [o] Edom.
Thus says the LORD of hosts:

[p] “Is wisdom no more in [p] Teman?
[q] Has counsel perished from the prudent?
[q] Has their wisdom vanished?
[8][†] [r] Flee, turn back, dwell in the depths,
O inhabitants of [s] Dedan!
For I will bring the calamity of Esau upon him,
[t] the time when I punish him.
[9] [u] If grape gatherers came to you, would they not leave [v] gleanings?
[u] If thieves came by night,
would they not destroy only enough for themselves?
[10] [w] But I have stripped Esau bare;
[u] I have uncovered his hiding places,
and he is not able to conceal himself.
His children are destroyed, and his brothers, and his neighbors; and [x] he is no more.
[11][†] [y] Leave your fatherless children; I will keep them alive;
[y] and let your widows trust in me.”

[12]For thus says the LORD: [z] “If those who did not deserve to drink the cup must drink it, [a] will you go unpunished? You shall not go unpunished, but you must drink. [13][†] [b] For I have sworn by myself, declares the LORD, that [c] Bozrah shall become [d] a horror, a taunt, a waste, and a curse, and all her cities shall be perpetual wastes.”

[14] [e] I have heard a message from the LORD, and an envoy has been sent among the nations:

[f]“Gather yourselves together and come against her,
and rise up for battle!
15 For behold, I will make you small among the nations, despised among mankind.
16 The horror you inspire has deceived you,
and the pride of your heart,
you who live in the clefts of the rock, [2]
who hold the height of the hill.
Though you [g]make your nest as high as the eagle’s,
I will bring you down from there,
declares the LORD.

17 [h]“Edom shall become a horror. [i]Everyone who passes by it will be horrified [i]and will hiss because of all its disasters. 18 [j]As when Sodom and Gomorrah and their [k]neighboring cities were overthrown, says the LORD, [l]no man shall dwell there, [l]no man shall sojourn in her. 19 [m]Behold, [n]like a lion coming up from [o]the jungle of the Jordan against a perennial pasture, I will suddenly make him [3] run away from her. And I will appoint over her whomever I choose. [p]For who is like me? [q]Who will summon me? [r]What shepherd can stand before me? 20 Therefore hear the plan that the LORD has made against [s]Edom and the purposes that he has formed against the inhabitants of [t]Teman: [u]Even the little ones of the flock shall be dragged away. Surely their fold shall be appalled at their fate. 21 At the sound of their fall [v]the earth shall tremble; the sound of their cry shall be heard at the Red Sea. 22 Behold, [w]one shall mount up and fly swiftly like an eagle and spread his wings against [x]Bozrah, and the heart of the warriors of Edom shall be in that day like the heart [y]of a woman in her birth pains.”

Judgment on Damascus

23 [†]Concerning [z]Damascus:

[a]“Hamath and [b]Arpad are confounded, for they have heard bad news;
they melt in fear,
[c]they are troubled like the sea that cannot be quiet.

24[†] [z]Damascus has become feeble, [d]she turned to flee, and panic seized her;
anguish and sorrows have taken hold of her,
as [y]of a woman in labor.
25 How is [e]the famous city not forsaken,
the city of my joy?
26 [f]Therefore her young men shall fall in her squares, and all her soldiers shall be destroyed in that day,
declares the LORD of hosts.
27 And [g]I will kindle a fire in the wall of [z]Damascus, and it shall devour the strongholds of [h]Ben-hadad.”

Judgment on Kedar and Hazor

28[†]Concerning [i]Kedar and the kingdoms of Hazor that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon struck down.

Thus says the LORD:
[j]“Rise up, advance against [i]Kedar!
Destroy [k]the people of the east!
29 [l]Their tents and their flocks shall be taken,
their [l]curtains and all their goods;
their camels shall be led away from them,
and men shall cry to them: [m]‘Terror on every side!’
30[†] [n]Flee, wander far away, dwell in the depths,
O inhabitants of Hazor!
declares the LORD.
For Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon has made a plan against you and formed a purpose against you.

31 [j]“Rise up, advance against a nation [o]at ease,
[p]that dwells securely,
declares the LORD,
[p]that has no gates or bars,
that dwells alone.

32 [q]Their camels shall become plunder, their herds of livestock a spoil.
[r]I will scatter to every wind
[s]those who cut the corners of their hair, and I will bring their calamity from every side of them,
declares the LORD.

33 Hazor shall become [t]a haunt of jackals,
an everlasting waste;
[u]no man shall dwell there;
[u]no man shall sojourn in her."

Judgment on Elam

34[†]The word of the LORD that came to Jeremiah the prophet concerning [v]Elam, in the beginning of the reign of [w]Zedekiah king of Judah.

35Thus says the LORD of hosts: "Behold, I will break [x]the bow of [v]Elam, the mainstay of their might. 36[†]And I will bring upon [v]Elam the four winds from the four quarters of heaven. And I will scatter them to all those winds, and there shall be no nation to which those driven out of [v]Elam shall not come. 37I will [y]terrify [v]Elam before their enemies and before those who seek their life. I will bring disaster upon them, [z]my fierce anger, declares the LORD. [a]I will send the sword after them, until I have consumed them, 38and I will set my throne in [v]Elam and destroy their king and officials, declares the LORD.

39[†]"But in the latter days [b]I will restore the fortunes of [v]Elam, declares the LORD."

Judgment on Babylon

JEREMIAH 50 [†]The word that the LORD spoke concerning [c]Babylon, concerning the land of the Chaldeans, [d]by Jeremiah the prophet:

2 "Declare among the nations and proclaim, set up a banner and proclaim,
conceal it not, and say:

[e] ‘Babylon is taken,
[f] Bel is put to shame,
Merodach is dismayed.
[e] Her images are put to shame,
her idols are dismayed.’

[3][†]“For [g] out of the north a nation has come up against her, [h] which shall make her land a desolation, and none shall dwell in it; [i] both man and beast shall flee away.

[4][†][j] “In those days and in that time, declares the Lord, [j] the people of Israel and the people of Judah shall come together, [k] weeping as they come, and they [l] shall seek the Lord their God. [5] [m] They shall ask the way to Zion, with faces turned toward it, [n] saying, ‘Come, let us join ourselves to the Lord in an [o] everlasting covenant that will never be forgotten.’

[6][†][p] “My people have been lost sheep. [q] Their shepherds have led them astray, turning them away on the mountains. From mountain to hill they have gone. They have forgotten their fold. [7][†]All who found them have devoured them, [r] and their enemies have said, ‘We are not guilty, for [s] they have sinned against the Lord, [t] their habitation of righteousness, the Lord, [u] the hope of their fathers.’

[8] [v] “Flee from the midst of Babylon, [v] and go out of the land of the Chaldeans, and be as male goats before the flock. [9]For behold, I am stirring up and bringing against Babylon [w] a gathering of great nations, from the north country. And they shall array themselves against her. From there she shall be taken. Their arrows are like a skilled warrior who does not return empty-handed. [10] [x] Chaldea shall be plundered; all who plunder her shall be sated, declares the Lord.

[11][†] [y] “Though you rejoice, though you exult,
O plunderers of my heritage,
though you frolic like a heifer in the pasture,
and neigh like stallions,

12 your mother shall be utterly shamed,
and she who bore you shall be disgraced.
Behold, she shall be the last of the nations,
[z] a wilderness, a dry land, and a desert.
13 [a] Because of the wrath of the LORD she shall not be inhabited but shall be an utter desolation;
[b] everyone who passes by Babylon shall be appalled,
[b] and hiss because of all her wounds.
14[†] [c] Set yourselves in array against Babylon all around,
[d] all you who bend the bow;
shoot at her, spare no arrows,
[e] for she has sinned against the LORD.
15 [f] Raise a shout against her all around;
she has surrendered;
her bulwarks have fallen;
[g] her walls are thrown down.
For [h] this is the vengeance of the LORD:
take vengeance on her;
[i] do to her as she has done.
16 Cut off from Babylon the sower, and the one who handles the sickle in time of harvest;
[j] because of the sword of the oppressor, [k] every one shall turn to his own people,
and every one shall flee to his own land.

17 [l] “Israel is a hunted sheep [m] driven away by lions. [n] First the king of Assyria [o] devoured him, and now at last [p] Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon [q] has gnawed his bones. 18[†]Therefore, thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, [r] I am bringing punishment on the king of Babylon and his land, [s] as I punished the king of Assyria. 19 [t] I will restore Israel to his pasture, and [t] he shall feed on [u] Carmel and in [u] Bashan, and his desire shall be satisfied on the hills of Ephraim and in [u] Gilead. 20[†]In those days and in that time, declares the LORD, [v] iniquity shall be sought in Israel, and there shall be none, and sin in Judah, and none shall be found, for [w]I will pardon those whom I leave as a remnant.

[21] “Go up against the land of Merathaim, [1]
and against the inhabitants of Pekod. [2] Kill, [x]and devote them to destruction, [3]
declares the LORD,
and do all that I have commanded you.
[22] [y]The noise of battle is in the land,
and great destruction!
[23] [z]How the hammer of the whole earth is cut down and broken!
[a]How Babylon [b]has become a horror among the nations!
[24][†] [c]I set a snare for you and you were taken, O Babylon, and [d]you did not know it;
you were found and caught,
because you opposed the LORD.
[25][†] The LORD has opened his armory and brought out [e]the weapons of his wrath, for the Lord GOD of hosts has a work to do in the land of the Chaldeans.
[26][†] Come against her from every quarter;
open her granaries;
[f]pile her up like heaps of grain, and devote her to destruction;
let nothing be left of her.
[27][†] Kill all [g]her bulls;
let them go down to the slaughter.
Woe to them, for their day has come,
[h]the time of their punishment.

[28]“A voice! They [i]flee and escape from the land of Babylon, [j]to declare in Zion the vengeance of the LORD our God, vengeance for [k]his temple.

29 [l] “Summon archers against Babylon, all those who bend the bow. [l] Encamp around her; let no one escape. [m] Repay her according to her deeds; do to her according to all that she has done. For she has [n] proudly defied the LORD, the Holy One of Israel. 30[†] [o] Therefore her young men shall fall in her squares, and all her soldiers shall be destroyed on that day, declares the LORD.

31[†] “Behold, I am against you, O [n] proud one,
declares the Lord GOD of hosts,
[p] for your day has come,
the time when I will punish you.
32[†] [n] The proud one shall stumble and fall,
with none to raise him up, [q] and I will kindle a fire in his cities,
and it will devour all that is around him.

33[†]“Thus says the LORD of hosts: [r] The people of Israel are oppressed, and the people of Judah with them. All who took them captive have held them fast; [s] they refuse to let them go. 34[†] [t] Their Redeemer is strong; [u] the LORD of hosts is his name. [v] He will surely plead their cause, that he may give rest to the earth, but unrest to the inhabitants of Babylon.

35 “A sword against the Chaldeans, declares the LORD, and against the inhabitants of Babylon,
and against [w] her officials and her [x] wise men!
36 A sword against the diviners, that they may become fools!
A sword against her [y] warriors,
that they may be destroyed!
37[†] A sword against her horses and against her chariots, and against all [z] the foreign troops in her midst,
that [a] they may become women!
[b] A sword against all her treasures,
that they may be plundered!
38[†] [c] A drought against her waters,

that they may be dried up!
[d] For it is a land of images, and they are mad over idols.

39 [†] [e] “Therefore wild beasts shall dwell with hyenas in Babylon, and ostriches shall dwell in her. She shall never again have people, nor be inhabited for all generations. 40 [f] As when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah and their neighboring cities, declares the LORD, [g] so no man shall dwell there, and no son of man shall sojourn in her.

41 [h] “Behold, a people comes from the north;
a mighty nation and many kings are stirring from the farthest parts of the earth.
42 They lay hold of bow and spear;
they are cruel and have no mercy.
The sound of them is like the roaring of the sea;
they ride on horses,
arrayed as a man for battle against you, O daughter of Babylon!

43 “The king of Babylon heard the report of them,
and his hands fell helpless;
anguish seized him,
pain as of a woman in labor.

44 [i] “Behold, like a lion coming up from the thicket of the Jordan against a perennial pasture, I will suddenly make them run away from her, and I will appoint over her whomever I choose. For who is like me? Who will summon me? What shepherd [j] can stand before me? 45 Therefore hear [k] the plan that the LORD has made against Babylon, [k] and the purposes that he has formed against the land of the Chaldeans: [l] Surely the little ones of their flock shall be dragged away; surely their fold shall be appalled at their fate. 46 [m] At the sound of the capture of Babylon the earth shall tremble, and her cry shall be heard among the nations.”

The Utter Destruction of Babylon

JEREMIAH 51 [†] Thus says the LORD: “Behold, I will stir up [n] the spirit of a destroyer against Babylon, against the inhabitants of Leb-kamai, [1] 2 [†] and I will send to Babylon winnowers, and [o] they shall winnow her,
and they shall empty her land,
when they come against her from every side
[p] on the day of trouble.
3 [q] Let not the archer bend his bow,
and let him not stand up in his armor.
Spare not her young men;
[r] devote to destruction [2] all her army.
4 They shall fall down slain in the land of the Chaldeans,
[s] and wounded in her streets.
5 [†] [t] For Israel and Judah have not been forsaken by their God, the LORD of hosts, but the land of the Chaldeans [3] is full of guilt against the Holy One of Israel.

6 [u] “Flee from the midst of Babylon;
let every one save his life!
[v] Be not cut off in her punishment,
[w] for this is the time of the LORD’s vengeance,
the repayment he is rendering her.
7 [†] Babylon was [x] a golden cup in the LORD’s hand, [y] making all the earth drunken;
[z] the nations drank of her wine;
therefore the nations went mad.
8 [a] Suddenly Babylon has fallen and been broken;
[b] wail for her!
[c] Take balm for her pain;
perhaps she may be healed.

9[†] We would have healed Babylon,
but she was not healed.
[d] Forsake her, and [e] let us go each to his own country, for [f] her judgment has reached up to heaven and has been lifted up even to the skies.
10 [g] The LORD has brought about our vindication;
[h] come, let us declare in Zion
the work of the LORD our God.

11[†] [i] "Sharpen the arrows!
Take up the shields!

[j] The LORD has stirred up the spirit of the kings of [k] the Medes, because [l] his purpose concerning Babylon is to destroy it, [m] for that is the vengeance of the LORD, the vengeance for [m] his temple.

12[†] [n] "Set up a standard against the walls of Babylon; [o] make the watch strong;
set up watchmen;
prepare the ambushes;
[l] for the LORD has both planned and done
what he spoke concerning the inhabitants of Babylon.
13 [p] O you who dwell by many waters, rich in treasures,
your end has come;
the thread of your life is cut.
14[†] [q] The LORD of hosts has sworn by himself:
Surely I will fill you with men, [r] as many as locusts,
[s] and they shall raise the shout of victory over you.

15[†] [t] "It is he who made the earth by his power, who established the world by his wisdom,
and by his understanding stretched out the heavens.
16 When he utters his voice there is a tumult of waters in the heavens, and he makes the mist rise from the ends of the earth.

He makes lightning for the rain,
and he brings forth the wind from his storehouses.
[17] Every man is stupid and without knowledge;
every goldsmith is put to shame by his idols,
for his images are false,
and there is no breath in them.
[18] They are worthless, a work of delusion;
at the time of their punishment they shall perish.
[19] Not like these is he who is the portion of Jacob,
for he is the one who formed all things,
and Israel is the tribe of his inheritance;
the LORD of hosts is his name.

[20][†] “You are my hammer and weapon of war:
with you I [u]break nations in pieces;
with you I destroy kingdoms;
[21] with you I break in pieces the horse and his rider;
with you I break in pieces the chariot and the charioteer;
[22] with you I break in pieces man and woman;
with you I break in pieces [v]the old man and the youth;
with you I break in pieces [v]the young man and the young woman;
[23] with you I break in pieces the shepherd and his flock;
with you I break in pieces the farmer and his team;
with you I break in pieces [w]governors and commanders.

[24][x]“I will repay Babylon and all the inhabitants of Chaldea before your very eyes for all the evil that they have done in Zion, declares the LORD.

[25][†] “Behold, I am against you, O destroying mountain,
declares the LORD,
which destroys the whole earth;
I will stretch out my hand against you,
and roll you down from the crags,
[y]and make you a burnt mountain.
[26] No [z]stone shall be taken from you for a corner and no stone for a foundation, but you shall be [a] a perpetual waste,

declares the LORD.

27 [b] “Set up a standard on the earth;
[c] blow the trumpet among the nations;
[d] prepare [e] the nations for war against her;
summon against her [f] the kingdoms, [g] Ararat, Minni, and [h] Ashkenaz;
appoint a [i] marshal against her;
[j] bring up horses like bristling locusts.
28 [d] Prepare [e] the nations for war against her,
the kings of [k] the Medes, [l] with their governors [l] and deputies,
and every [m] land under their dominion.
29 [n] The land trembles and writhes in pain,
[o] for the LORD’s purposes against Babylon stand, to make the land of Babylon a desolation,
without inhabitant.
30 The warriors of Babylon have ceased fighting;
they remain in their strongholds;
their strength has failed;
[p] they have become women;
[q] her dwellings are on fire;
[r] her bars are broken.
31 [†] One [s] runner runs to meet another, and one messenger to meet another,
to tell the king of Babylon that his city is taken on every side; 32 the fords have been [t] seized,
the marshes are burned with fire,
and the soldiers are in panic.
33 For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel:
[u] The daughter of Babylon is like [u] a threshing floor at the time when it is trodden; yet a little while and [v] the time of her harvest will come.”

34[†] “Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon [w] has devoured me;
he has crushed me;
he has made me an empty vessel;
[x] he has swallowed me like [y] a monster;
he has filled his stomach with my delicacies;
he has rinsed me out. [4] 35 The violence done to me and to my kinsmen be upon Babylon,” let the inhabitant of Zion say.
“My blood be upon the inhabitants of Chaldea,” let Jerusalem say.
36[†] Therefore thus says the LORD:
“Behold, [z] I will plead your cause and take vengeance for you.
[a] I will dry up her sea and [b] make her fountain dry, 37 and Babylon shall become [c] a heap of ruins,
[d] the haunt of jackals,
[e] a horror [e] and a hissing,
without inhabitant.

38 [f] “They shall roar together [g] like lions;
they shall growl like lions’ cubs.
39 [h] While they are inflamed [h] I will prepare them a feast and [i] make them drunk, that they may become merry, [i] then sleep a perpetual sleep and not wake, declares the LORD.
40 I will bring them down like lambs to the slaughter, like rams and male goats.

41 “How [j] Babylon [5] is taken,
[k] the praise of the whole earth [l] seized!
How Babylon has become a horror among the nations!
42 [m] The sea has come up on Babylon;
she is covered with its tumultuous waves.

43 Her cities have become a horror,
[n] a land of drought and a desert,
[o] a land in which no one dwells,
and through which no son of man passes.
44[†] And I will punish [p] Bel in Babylon, and [q] take out of his mouth [r] what he has swallowed.
[s] The nations shall no longer flow to him;
[t] the wall of Babylon has fallen.

45 “Go out of the midst of her, [u] my people!
Let every one save his life
from [v] the fierce anger of the Lord!
46 Let not your heart faint, and be not fearful
[w] at the report heard in the land, [x] when a report comes in one year and afterward a report in another year,
and violence is in the land,
[x] and ruler is against ruler.

47 “Therefore, behold, the days are coming when [y] I will punish the images of Babylon; [z] her whole land shall be put to shame,
and all her slain shall fall in the midst of her.
48[†] [a] Then the heavens and the earth,
and all that is in them,
shall sing for joy over Babylon, [b] for the destroyers shall come against them out of the north,
declares the Lord.
49[†] Babylon must fall for the slain of Israel,
[c] just as for Babylon have fallen the slain of all the earth.

50[†] [d] “You who have escaped from the sword, go, do not stand still!
Remember the Lord from far away,
and let Jerusalem come into your mind:

51 [e] ‘We are put to shame, for we have heard reproach;
[e] dishonor has covered our face,
[f] for foreigners have come into the holy places of the LORD’s house.’

52 “Therefore, behold, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when [y] I will execute judgment upon her images, [g] and through all her land
the wounded shall groan.
53 Though Babylon should [h] mount up to heaven, and though she should [i] fortify her strong height, yet destroyers would come from me against her,
declares the LORD.

54 [j] “A voice! A cry from Babylon!
The noise of great destruction from the land of the Chaldeans!
55 For the LORD is laying Babylon waste and stilling her mighty voice.
[k] Their waves roar like many waters;
the noise of their voice is raised, 56 for a destroyer has come upon her,
upon Babylon;
her warriors are taken;
their bows are broken in pieces, [l] for the LORD is a God of recompense;
he will surely repay.
57[†] [m] I will make drunk her officials and her wise men, [n] her governors, her commanders, and her warriors;
they shall sleep a perpetual sleep and not wake, declares [o] the King, whose name is the LORD of hosts.

58[†] “Thus says the LORD of hosts:
The broad [p] wall of Babylon shall be leveled to the ground, [q] and her high gates shall be burned with fire.

[r] The peoples labor for nothing,
and [s] the nations weary themselves only for fire."

[59][†]The word that Jeremiah the prophet commanded Seraiah [t] the son of Neriah, son of Mahseiah, when he went with Zedekiah king of Judah to Babylon, [u] in the fourth year of his reign. Seraiah was the quartermaster. [60][†] [v] Jeremiah wrote in a book all the disaster that should come upon Babylon, [w] all these words that are written concerning Babylon. [61]And Jeremiah said to Seraiah: "When you come to Babylon, see that you read all these words, [62]and say, 'O LORD, you have said concerning this place that you will cut it off, so [x] that nothing shall dwell in it, neither man nor beast, and it shall be [y] desolate forever.' [63][†]When you finish reading this book, [z] [a] tie a stone to it [z] and cast it into the midst of the Euphrates, [64]and say, [z] 'Thus shall Babylon sink, to rise no more, because of the disaster that I am bringing upon her, [b] and they shall become exhausted.'"

Thus far are the words of Jeremiah.

The Fall of Jerusalem Recounted

JEREMIAH 52 [†] [c] Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he became king, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Hamutal the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. [2]And he did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, [d] according to all that Jehoiakim had done. [3]For because of the anger of the LORD it came to the point in Jerusalem and Judah that he cast them out from his presence.

And Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon. [4][†] [e] And in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came with all his army against Jerusalem, and laid siege to it. And they built siegeworks all around it. [5]So the city was besieged till the eleventh year of King Zedekiah. [6]On the ninth day of the fourth month the famine was so severe in the city that there was no food for the people of the land. [7]Then a breach was made in the city, and all the men of war fled and went out from the city by night by the way of a gate between the two walls, by the king's garden, and the Chaldeans were around the city. And they went in the direction of the Arabah. [8]But the army of the Chaldeans pursued the king and overtook Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho, and all his army was scattered from him. [9]Then they captured the king and brought him up to the king of Babylon at Riblah in the land of Hamath, and he passed sentence on him. [10]The king of Babylon slaughtered the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes, and also slaughtered all the officials of Judah at [f]Riblah. [11] [g]He put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and bound him in chains, and the king of Babylon took him to Babylon, and put him in prison [g]till the day of his death.

The Temple Burned

[12][†] [h]In the fifth month, on [i]the tenth day of the month—that was [j]the nineteenth year of King Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon—Nebuzaradan the captain of the bodyguard, who [k]served the king of Babylon, entered Jerusalem. [13]And he burned the house of the LORD, and the king's house and all the houses of Jerusalem; every great house he burned down.
[14][†]And all the army of the Chaldeans, who were with the captain of the guard, broke down all the walls around Jerusalem. [15]And Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard carried away captive some of the poorest of the people and the rest of the people who were left in the city and [l]the deserters who had deserted to the king of Babylon, together with the rest of the artisans.
[16]But Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard left some of the poorest of the land to be vinedressers and plowmen.

[17]And the [m]pillars of bronze that were in the house of the LORD, and the stands and the [n]bronze sea that were in the house of the LORD, the Chaldeans broke in pieces, and [o]carried all the bronze to Babylon. [18]And they took away [p]the pots and the shovels and the snuffers and the basins and the dishes for incense and all the vessels of bronze used in the temple service; [19] [q]also the small bowls and the fire pans and the basins and the pots and [r]the lampstands and [s]the dishes for incense [s]and the bowls for drink offerings. What was of gold the captain of the guard took away as gold, and what was of silver, as silver. [20]As for the two pillars, the one sea, [t]the twelve bronze bulls that were under the sea, [1] and the stands, which Solomon the king had made for the house of the LORD, the bronze of all these things was beyond weight. [21]As for the pillars, the height of the one pillar was eighteen cubits, [2] [u]its circumference was twelve cubits, and its thickness was four fingers, and it was hollow. [22]On it was a capital of bronze. The height of the one capital was [v]five cubits. A network and pomegranates, all of bronze, were around the capital. And the second pillar had the same, with pomegranates. [23]There were ninety-six pomegranates on the sides; all the pomegranates were a hundred upon the network all around.

The People Exiled to Babylon

[24][†]And the captain of the guard took [w]Seraiah the chief priest, and [x]Zephaniah the second priest and the three keepers of the threshold; [25][†]and from the city he took an officer who had been in command of the men of war, and [y]seven men of the king's council, who were found in the city; and the secretary of the commander of the army, who mustered the people of the land; and sixty men of the people of the land, who were found in the midst of the city. [26]And Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard took them and brought them to the king of Babylon at [z]Riblah. [27]And the king of Babylon struck them down and put them to death at [z]Riblah in the land of Hamath. So Judah was taken into exile out of its land.

[28][†]This is the number of the people whom Nebuchadnezzar carried away captive: [a]in the seventh year, 3,023 Judeans; [29][b]in the eighteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar he carried away captive from Jerusalem 832 persons; [30]in the twenty-third year of Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard carried away captive of the Judeans 745 persons; all the persons were 4,600.

Jehoiachin Released from Prison

[31][†][c]And in the thirty-seventh year of the exile of Jehoiachin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the twenty-fifth day of the month, Evil-merodach king of Babylon, in the year that he began to reign, graciously freed [3] [d]Jehoiachin king of Judah and brought him out of prison. [32][†]And he spoke kindly to him and gave him a seat above the seats of [e]the kings who were with him in Babylon. [33]So Jehoiachin put off his prison garments.

And every day of his life he dined regularly at the king’s table, [34]and for his allowance, a regular allowance was given him by the king, according to his daily needs, until the day of his death, as long as he lived.

Study Notes for Jeremiah

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:1–19 Introduction. These verses introduce the book's historical background (vv. 1–3), Jeremiah's call and message (vv. 4–16), and the Lord's promised protection of Jeremiah (vv. 17–19). Thus, this section introduces the book's major settings, themes, and characters.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:1–3 Jeremiah lived in difficult times. He ministered from c. 627 B.C., or from the reign of Judah's last good king (Josiah), to sometime after the fall of Jerusalem to the Babylonians in 587. Jeremiah's preaching did not stop the nation's descent into exile.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:1 one of the priests. Jeremiah knew the written word of God and was charged with teaching it to the people (Hos. 4:1–3; Mal. 2:1–9). Anathoth (Jer. 11:21–23; 32:6–9) was 2–4 miles (3.2–6.4 km) northeast of Jerusalem, so Jeremiah grew up in the shadow of the capital city and its temple. Anathoth was one of the four towns in the land of Benjamin allotted to the priests (Josh. 21:17–18). Jeremiah was from the lineage of Abiathar, the priest Solomon replaced with Zadok (1 Kings 2:26–27, 35), fulfilling God's rejection of Eli's family (1 Sam. 2:27–36). Thus, Jeremiah was not an insider in temple politics.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:2 to whom the word of the LORD came. The text highlights that what follows comes from God. Jeremiah is God's messenger.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:3 Jehoiakim appears as the book's villain. He ruled c. 609–598 B.C. He hated Jeremiah's preaching (36:1–26). He favored Egypt over Babylon, which led Babylon to invade Judah and take a number of captives c. 605 B.C. (Daniel and his friends were some of the exiles taken to Babylon at that time; Dan. 1:1–2.) Jehoiakim then switched allegiance to Babylon, only to change back to Egypt, which led to a second deportation of Judeans in 597 B.C. (Ezekiel went to Babylon at this time.) Zedekiah was the last king of Judah (c. 597–586 B.C.). He was an inconsistent man who sought Jeremiah's advice but was unwilling to follow it (Jer. 21:1–10; 38:14–28). His opposition to Babylon eventually led to the defeat of Jerusalem by Babylonians in the fifth month, or July/August (see 39:1–10), of 587 or 586 B.C. This captivity lasted until c. 538–535 B.C., when Cyrus, the Persian conqueror of Babylon, allowed the Jews to return to their homeland (Ezra 1). Jeremiah prophesied that the exile would last 70 years, and it did (counting from 605 B.C.; see note on Jer. 25:11).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:5 God's plan for Jeremiah was that he be consecrated, or "set apart," for preaching God's word. Jeremiah's ministry is to be a prophet to the nations, not just to Israel (25:1–14; 46:1–51:64).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:8 Jeremiah can fear either God (Prov. 1:7) or men. He need not fear men, for God will deliver him, though the mention of deliverance means Jeremiah will face trouble. I am with you. See note on Jer. 30:11.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:9–10 God touches Jeremiah's mouth and sets it apart for his use (Isa. 6:4–7). That God puts his words in Jeremiah's mouth emphasizes the words' divine source (see Deut. 18:18). Jeremiah claims no credit for what follows. This word has power over nations and over kingdoms. The sovereign word of the sovereign God governs history. Jeremiah's message over the 40 years of his ministry is threefold: (1) he must pluck up and break down, which refers to preaching against sin; (2) he must destroy and overthrow, which relates to messages concerning judgment; and (3) he must build and plant, which means he must preach about hope and renewal. One or more of these three word pairs occur again in Jer. 18:7–11; 31:28; and 45:4.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:13–14 boiling pot, facing away from the north. This vision means that judgment will come from the north. Eventually Babylon fulfills this threat.

FACT

Watching like an almond tree. The Hebrew words for "almond" and "watching" are very similar. Because the almond tree was the first tree to bud in spring, it was said to be "watching for spring." God used the almond branch to teach Jeremiah that he is always watching over his word (1:11–12), so Jeremiah can trust him.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:16 God will use the invaders (v. 15) as his agents of judgments against Judah, for all their evil in forsaking him. The term "forsaking" indicates that they have abandoned their covenant God for other gods (2:1–8). Their sin amounts to harm or evil committed against God.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:18 Jeremiah is invincible as long as he does God's work. God's sovereignty is his comfort.

2:1–6:30 Israel's Covenantal Adultery. These five related messages were probably delivered during Josiah's reign (3:6). Jeremiah declares that God's chosen people commit spiritual adultery by loving idols more than the living God. Thus, they have broken their covenant vows and made themselves ripe for judgment. Jeremiah says that Israel is a faithless spouse (2:1–3:5); Israel can and should repent (3:6–4:4); disaster is coming (4:5–31); there are consequences for Judah's unwillingness to repent (ch. 5); and God has rejected his people (ch. 6).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:3 Israel was holy to the LORD, set apart for his purposes, just as Jeremiah was set apart for the Lord's purposes in his role as a prophet (1:5). Israel was the firstfruits of his (God's) harvest, his chosen and blessed people. God protected Israel. All who ate of it (that is, all who harmed Israel) faced disaster. Now disaster awaits Israel (1:14).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:5 The Israelites have been faithless to God even though God was faithful to Israel. They sought out lifeless, and therefore "worthless," idols (Isa. 44:9–20; Jer. 14:22; 51:17–18). As a result they became worthless covenant partners.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:6 The Israelites did not seek the Lord, the one whose sovereign power brought them up from the land of Egypt, the one who led them through a land of deserts, pits, drought, darkness, and desolation. They quickly forgot who had saved and sustained them.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:8 Three groups (priests, shepherds, and prophets) bear heavy responsibility for this unfaithfulness. The priests handle the law but did not know God. Their lack of faith meant they could not teach the people the knowledge of God (Hos. 4:1–3). The shepherds, the nation's rulers (see note on Jer. 3:15), rebelled against God's rule. The prophets prophesied by Baal rather than by the Spirit of God, a clear contrast to the task of a true prophet (1:17–19). Baal was a Canaanite storm god. Considered the source of fertility, he was thought to make both the earth and women reproduce. Such power was important in an agricultural economy. Worship practices included sexual activities for men and women at sacred shrines. Thus, people could worship sex and power and be considered righteous for doing so!

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:9 Given this situation, God will contend with Israel. This word introduces the idea of a lawsuit (25:31; compare Hos. 4:1–4).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:10–11 God's people have done worse than idolaters. Most nations are loyal to their lifeless deities, but Israel has forsaken their glory (that is, Yahweh and the covenants) for that which does not profit. Such rebellion simply makes no sense.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:12–13 The heavens, called as witnesses in the lawsuit (see note on v. 9), are shocked by Israel's abandoning the fountain of living waters for broken cisterns that can hold no water. Palestine has three sources of water. The best is fresh running water, such as flows from a spring or stream, which is called "living water" (see Lev. 14:5, ESV footnote; Gen. 26:19; John 4:10–11; Rev. 7:17). Next comes ground water, such as might collect in a well. Last is runoff water collected in a cistern (a pit hewn into the limestone and plastered to prevent seepage; see note on Jer. 38:6). Thus, in Jeremiah's image, not only have the Israelites traded the best of water supplies for the worst, but also their cistern is broken. All its water has leaked out and nothing but sludge remains. Israel's covenant infidelity is not just ungrateful and unnatural; it is also foolish. It leaves them without help in the coming difficult days.

FACT

Fresh water that flows from a spring or stream was known as living water in Palestine (2:12–13). It was the best and purest water. Jesus says that he is the source of true living water (John 4:10–14; 7:38).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:15 The lions are nations like Egypt, Assyria, and Babylon that have made Israel's cities lie in ruins, without inhabitant (vv. 18, 36).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:20 At the time of the exodus God broke Israel's bonds. He set the Israelites free, yet they refused to serve him. Indeed, under every green tree, the places where local idols were worshiped, the people bowed down like a whore. This stark language is meant to cause shame.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:21 God planted Israel in the Promised Land (Ex. 15:17) out of pure seed. Yet Israel has become a wild vine that bears bad fruit. For the image of Israel as a vine and vineyard, see notes on Isa. 5:1; Ezek. 15:1–8.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:28–29 Let them arise. God challenges the Israelites to have their helpless, lifeless gods save them. After all, they worship as many gods as they have cities!

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:34 Covenant infidelity always leads to ethical infidelity. God has found the lifeblood of the guiltless poor on Israel's skirts (Amos 4:1–5). Israel has brought false charges against the poor for her own gain.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:36–37 Israel changes her political course of action (v. 18) very easily, but whoever she chooses (whether Egypt or Assyria) will bring her shame. Placing one's hands on one's head was a sign of grief brought on by sexual shame. Tamar did so when Amnon raped her (2 Sam. 13:19). But Israel is actually guilty of seeking sexual shame. Her shame will be apparent when Assyria and Egypt fail to defeat Babylon. Israel has trusted allies whom God has rejected. She will chase her lovers, lose her virtue, and forfeit her land.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:1 Jeremiah may have Deut. 24:1–4 in mind, which answers the first question (will he return to her?) negatively and the second question (Would not that land be greatly polluted?) positively. With the words played the whore (see Jer. 2:20; 13:27), Jeremiah uses the image of Judah as God's unfaithful wife. Israel tries to alternate between God and idols (2:25, 27, 35–36), but God rejects this arrangement. Israel must commit herself exclusively to God.

FACT

Jeremiah lived during troubled times. He became a prophet during the reign of Josiah, who was the last faithful king in Judah's history. Josiah's death marked the beginning of the end for the nation of Judah. It would fall within two short decades.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:6 God speaks to Jeremiah in the days of King Josiah (after 627 B.C.; see 1:1–3) concerning the faithlessness of Israel, the northern kingdom. Israel played the whore by worshiping idols everywhere possible (2:20).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:12 God appoints Jeremiah to make an extraordinary offer of grace to the fallen, exiled northern tribes, now scattered in the north (in foreign lands). They should repent, since he will not deal with them angrily, for he is merciful.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:14 God asks the faithless children (literally, "the turning-away ones") to turn, or return, to him. If Israel will return, he will take her one from a city and two from a family . . . to Zion. This minority of ones and twos will be the true people of God (Isa. 6:11–13; 10:20–23).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:15 God will give this remnant (see note on v. 14) shepherds after his own heart, that is, leaders like David in whom God takes delight (1 Sam. 13:14). These shepherds will feed the people with knowledge and understanding, the very qualities they lacked when they turned from God and followed false teachers and priests (Hos. 4:1–3). Shepherds are a recurring theme in Jeremiah (Jer. 10:21; 23:1–4; 50:6; see Ezekiel 34). The term can refer specifically to civil leaders, such as the king (2 Sam. 5:2), or to leaders more generally (civil and religious). All were charged with leading God's people to show his holiness in their personal and corporate lives. The people need faithful shepherds, and God will supply them after the exile.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:16 Israel's exiles long for the ark of the covenant of the LORD in the temple at Jerusalem, for they consider it God's symbolic throne (2 Kings 19:15). In the days of restoration it will not come to mind and it shall not be made again. Whatever happens to the ark, it will no longer be essential to godly worship.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:17 At that time Jerusalem shall be called the throne of the LORD, thereby replacing the symbolic function of the ark. Then all nations shall gather to it (to Jerusalem; Isa. 2:1–5), and those who live there will be faithful to God (Isa. 4:2–6). This Jerusalem is ultimately the new Jerusalem, where God's people will live with him forever in the total absence of sin (Isa. 65:17–25; Rev. 21:1–8).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:21 Suddenly, a sound of the weeping and pleading of Israel's sons arises from the bare heights. Israel's sons finally recognize that they have perverted their way and have forgotten the LORD their God.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:22 God counsels the Israelites to return (repent) so he can heal their faithlessness, their worship of other gods. Here forgiveness is compared to physical healing (30:17; 33:6; Hos. 6:1; 14:4). Behold, we come to you. Israel responds positively by confessing that the Lord is their God.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:23 The Israelites also acknowledge that only God is the salvation of Israel. They further pledge sole loyalty to their covenant husband, as he asked them to do in vv. 11–18.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:25 The Israelites complete their confession by admitting that they deserve only shame and dishonor (Ps. 51:4). God was just in punishing them.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:1 True repentance includes removing detestable things (idols) from God's presence (Gen. 35:1–4) and not wavering in this decision. Israel must not try to serve both God and idols, as Judah is currently doing (Jer. 2:23–37).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:2 Grace leads to changed living. Israel's full repentance will glorify God. It will lead the nations to bless themselves in him—thus fulfilling God's promise to Abraham concerning the nations (Gen. 12:3)—and to glory (or "exult"; see Ps. 63:11) in him. God called Jeremiah to be a prophet to the nations (Jer. 1:5–10). Here he fulfills that calling.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:4 Changing the image, God tells the people of Judah to circumcise themselves to the LORD by removing the foreskin of their hearts (Deut. 10:16). The heart symbolizes the totality of one's will and emotions. Loving God with all one's heart is the essence of faith (Deut. 6:4–9; Mark 12:28–32). True circumcision is of the heart, not simply the flesh (Gen. 17:10–14).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:5–6 Judah and Jerusalem must prepare for war.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:7 lion. Many ancient nations likened themselves to lions, but here the text refers to Babylon, the chief destroyer of nations in Jeremiah's times. The land will be a waste . . . without inhabitant, so fleeing (as in vv. 5–6) will be useless.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:9 In that day refers to the day of the Lord, the day God judges, whether in history or at the final judgment that ends history. (See note on Amos 5:18–20 and The Day of the Lord in the Prophets.)

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:10 Jeremiah speaks in frustration. He claims God has said that all shall be well when in fact divine wrath is coming. Apparently he quotes the false prophets (6:14; 14:13; 23:16–17). He wonders why God has allowed these prophets to speak at all if they are so wrong. But elsewhere in Scripture, God sometimes sends deceiving spirits into the false prophets (see note on 1 Sam. 16:14). Though God himself never does evil, he sometimes sends evil agents to accomplish his purposes of judgment.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:18 The defeat will be so bitter it will touch Israel's heart, the very place God has tried to touch with his love.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:22 God says his people lack saving knowledge and a proper understanding of his ways and words (3:15; Hos. 4:1–3). Their only wisdom is in doing evil. Thus, they are foolish and stupid children. This strong language seeks to shock the people into repentance and to show Jeremiah that he shouldn't be sympathetic toward them.

FACT

A sad but faithful servant. Jeremiah was very open about the anguish he suffered as a prophet (4:19–26). In addition to being devastated by the wickedness of his beloved people, he also suffered much abuse from them. Yet despite his struggles, Jeremiah trusted in the Lord.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:23–25 Jeremiah portrays the coming judgment as a reversal of the creation process. The earth is once again without form and void (compare Gen. 1:2), the heavens have no light (compare Gen. 1:3), the mountains and hills quake (compare Gen. 1:9–11), and mankind (Gen. 1:26–31) and birds (Gen. 1:20–23) disappear.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:27 Despite the seeming totality of the destruction, God will not make a full end of the whole land (or "whole earth"). The creation will endure because of God's mercy (Hos. 11:1–9) and eternal plan (2 Pet. 3:1–13).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:1 What Abraham discovered when pleading for Sodom (Gen. 18:23–32), Jeremiah discovers now. There is not a single just, faithful, and covenant-keeping person in Jerusalem for whose sake God would pardon the whole people.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:3 struck them down, but they felt no anguish. God's discipline has not led to repentance; the people have merely become more hardened in their sin (see 2:14–19, 30; Amos 4:6–13).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:7 God cannot find a reason to pardon (see v. 1), for the Israelites swear by those who are no gods. They have committed adultery and trooped to the houses of whores even though their divine Husband has met all their real needs (2:1–8; Hos. 2:1–13). This imagery depicts spiritual adultery committed through physically taking part in the pagan fertility rites of Baal worship (Jer. 2:8).

FACT

Yokes are made of wooden bars tied to animals by leather thongs around their necks. This ensured that the two animals would work together to pull a plow. Jeremiah uses the yoke in 5:5 as a symbol of God's rule in his people's lives.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:14 God of hosts is a title often used to describe God as a judge (Isa. 3:1; 5:16). Jeremiah's true and rejected words become a fire that will consume the people. God will thus use him to judge the nation (Jer. 1:9–10).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:15 The destroyer, Babylon, was indeed ancient and famous for literature, religion, and for its inclination to go to war.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:18–19 Israel's punishment will be for disciplinary purposes, to bring them to their senses (see Lev. 26:14–20) and to educate them.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:23 Rather than a circumcised heart (4:4), the people have a stubborn and rebellious heart (5:3–5) that turns away from God (2:4–5), not toward him (3:11–14).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:25 Your iniquities have turned these away refers to the rain in v. 24 that had not come. The Israelites' sin had led to a change in weather and a loss of crops, through God’s judgment. good. The blessings of v. 24 could have been theirs.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:26–29 Wicked men grow fat and sleek through deeds of evil. The fatherless had no adult male in the family to protect and provide for them (see note on 7:6). The rulers did not protect their rights or the rights of the needy (see Isa. 1:16–23; Amos 2:6–7; 4:1–5). God must punish such oppression, just as he must punish constant spiritual and physical adultery (Jer. 5:9).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:30–31 The prophets and priests conspire to lie and oppress, rather than to teach God’s word and rule justly (2:8; 6:13; 14:14; 20:1–6). my people love to have it so. They crave such false teaching (compare 2 Tim. 4:3–4; 2 Pet. 2:1–3), but it will destroy them when the end comes (2 Kings 17:7–23; Jer. 39:1–10).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:1 The tribe Jeremiah serves most directly (Benjamin; 1:1) should flee for safety out of Jerusalem.

FACT

A faithful prophet. Despite persistent rejection, Jeremiah proclaimed the word of God for at least 40 years. His ministry lasted from a time when Judah still had the opportunity to change its ways and avoid punishment, to the time when judgment finally came as Jerusalem was destroyed and the people went into exile (586 B.C.).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:4–5 Armies are ready to attack at noon or even by night. A night attack was rare and done only when victory was certain or when surprise was necessary (see Judg. 7:19–23).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:7 Jerusalem should repent of evil (harmful acts; see 4:14), but instead she keeps her evil as fresh as well water. violence and destruction. Constant brutality against others. sickness and wounds. This occurs because of discipline from God (Lev. 26:23; Jer. 31:18) and violence in the land.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:9 the remnant. Those who survive, not those who believe.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:10 To whom shall I speak? Every segment of society (1:15–19; 5:3–5) has rejected God’s warning. Their hearts (4:4) and ears are uncircumcised, rendering them unwilling and unable to obey the word of the LORD.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:11 God orders (vv. 6, 9) Jeremiah to pour out words of wrath, not warning, as before, so that all ages experience judgment.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:13–15 Greed always leads to seeking unjust gain. prophet . . . priest. These religious leaders are as greedy as the people. Thus, they promise peace rather than the punishment of war, because that’s what the people want to hear (see 5:30–31). They feel no shame over their abomination (that is, spiritual perversion; Lev. 18:27). They must fall when the city falls.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:16 the ancient paths. The way of faithfulness revealed to Moses and the earlier prophets.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:17 watchmen. Moses and the prophets (2 Kings 17:7–18). trumpet. Blown to warn cities of danger (Jer. 4:5, 19, 21; 6:1). Here it refers to God’s word of warning.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:18–19 The nations, congregation, and earth are all called to hear God’s testimony against this people (Judah and Israel).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:20 Performing religious rituals, without faith and obedience, is unacceptable to God (Isa. 1:10–19; Amos 5:21–24; Mic. 6:6–8).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:22–23 great nation. Babylon. the farthest parts of the earth. Babylon’s army had outposts all over the ancient world. This army has no mercy. Its horses are so numerous that their thundering hoofs sound like the roaring sea (4:13, 29).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:25 Jerusalemites dare not leave the city for fear of capture (Lam. 4:18–19). terror is on every side. A common phrase in Jeremiah describing the experience of invasion (Jer. 20:10; 46:5; 49:29; Lam. 2:22).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:26 daughter. Jerusalem represents the whole nation (see 4:31). As for an only son describes mourning for a unique and irreplaceable person (see Amos 8:10).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:27–29 tester of metals. Jeremiah’s task is to assess how much impurity remains in a people called to be pure. The ancient refining process used heated lead to draw out ore from silver. Despite Jeremiah’s words being like a bellows and like lead used to purify silver, all is in vain, for the impurity (the wicked) remains in the metal (the land).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:1–10:25 False Religion and an Idolatrous People. These chapters give evidence of the truth of God’s accusations in chs. 2–6. Judah takes comfort in the temple while breaking God’s commands (7:1–8:3), rejecting the covenantal instruction (8:4–17), living deceitfully (8:18–9:9), grieving the prophet (9:10–26), and engaging in idolatry (10:1–16). Exile awaits this rebellious community (10:17–25).

FACT

Judah considered their temple a guarantee of God’s favor, despite their idolatry and wickedness. They accused Jeremiah of blasphemy when he prophesied against Jerusalem. Sadly, Judah’s corrupt worship and failure to repent would eventually lead to the destruction of the temple.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:1–2 Jeremiah takes God’s message to the temple-going public.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:3 Though the Israelites come to worship (v. 2), they must amend (literally, “make good”) their patterns of life. Such change is necessary if they are to dwell in this place, the Promised Land.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:4 temple of the LORD. Apparently the Israelites either believed the temple would never be destroyed or thought swearing by the temple kept them safe.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:6 sojourner. A resident alien living in Judah. fatherless. Either through death, desertion, or irresponsible sexual acts. widow. Either through death or desertion. These three groups lack social protection and so are given special care (Deut. 24:19–21).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:10 go on doing. The people feel justified in sinning, as they did before they came to “worship.”

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:12–14 Shiloh. This was the central sanctuary (about 19 miles [31 km] north of Jerusalem) prior to the monarchy (Judg. 21:19; 1 Sam. 1:3). because of the evil of my people. Constant sin caused God to shut down this old site. What happened to Shiloh will happen to Jerusalem. Judah's trust in a physical site is misplaced.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:15 cast you out. To foreign lands (Deut. 28:64–68). Ephraim is another name for Israel, the northern kingdom, and also the area where Shiloh was located.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:16 do not pray . . . do not intercede. This is an unusual command for a dire situation. After many warnings, God has made the decision to punish, and he will not hear (respond to) further pleas from Jeremiah. This is a decisive change on God's part; previously (e.g., Ex. 32:10–14), he would accept intercession.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:22–23 Acceptable sacrifices are based on a right relationship created by faith in the God who delivers (Ex. 19:3–8). Only those who believe will obey; only those who walk in all God's ways because of their faith can be God's people.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:25–26 Starting with Moses (Deut. 34:10–12), God sent his servants the prophets to instruct, encourage, and warn Israel. With few exceptions (e.g., Josh. 24:31), each generation did worse than their fathers.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:29 the generation of his wrath. The generation that experienced loss of the Promised Land.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:31 high places of Topheth . . . Hinnom. See 2 Kings 23:10; Isa. 30:33; Jer. 19:6–14. Children were burned alive at these places as sacrifices to Molech and other gods, even though human sacrifice was banned in the law (Lev. 20:2–5). God hated this practice. Child sacrifice was practiced by Canaanites and Phoenicians. The offering of children, especially the firstborn, was seen as a means of manipulating their false deities.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:32 When Babylon conquers Jerusalem, the dead bodies will be heaped so high that the valley will be renamed the Valley of Slaughter (19:1–9).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:34 I will silence . . . the voice of the bridegroom. Normal joy will end, so weddings will not occur (16:9; 25:10). The land shall become a waste—another consequence of covenantal disobedience (Lev. 26:31, 33).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:1–2 Removing bones from a grave was a great insult (2 Kings 23:16–18). Victorious invaders often did this (Amos 2:1). Ironically, these bones will be placed in full view of the sun and the moon and all the host of heaven that Judah worshiped (Jer. 7:17–19).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:8 The Judeans possess God's law, just as they possess the temple. But their scribes, the professional copiers and teachers of the Scriptures, have altered God's word to fit their own desires. Thus, they have made it into a lie.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:9 These so-called wise men will be put to shame (2:26; 6:15) because of their changing of God's word. Rejecting God's word proves they are really unwise.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:11 Peace, peace. See 6:12–15. The wicked prophets and priests are like incompetent doctors who tell a patient he or she is healthy when in fact the patient is desperately sick (17:9). Contrast Isa. 57:18–21.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:15 Israel looked for peace, but only the peace offered by false teachers (v. 11). Such so-called healing brings only terror.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:18–22 In this exchange between Judah and God, the people claim that God has deserted them, but God notes their ongoing worship of idols. They reply that they are not saved (and readers must assume that this is because they are not faithful). Jeremiah is wounded because of his people's wounds, or sins (v. 11). This prophet cares deeply for his hearers. Their health has not been restored (v. 22) because they have consulted the wrong spiritual physicians (vv. 11–12). They prefer false prophets to God's written and revealed word.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:1 Jeremiah is often called the "weeping prophet" based on this verse, but this nickname does not do justice to his overall ministry. He cares deeply for Judah, but he does much more than weep.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:2 Despite his compassion, Jeremiah understands the people are all adulterers and treacherous men. They swear covenant faithfulness but sin against God and neighbor. He wishes to flee from them.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:3 The Israelites have no saving knowledge of God (2:8; 8:7; see Judg. 2:10; Hos. 4:6; John 1:10; 14:17; 16:3; 1 John 2:3).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:12–14 The wise man knows the land is ruined because the people of Judah have forsaken God's law, followed their own hearts, and followed their fathers in worshiping Baal (see 2:23).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:15 Bitter food . . . poisonous water refer to both bitter hearts that prefer disobedience (Deut. 29:18) and bitter experiences related to defeat (Lam. 3:15, 19).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:23–24 The truly wise man (4:22; 8:8–9; 9:12–14) learns what God teaches. He knows why Judah will fall and is grieved and humbled by that knowledge. Thus, he will not boast in his wisdom. Knowing God means knowing his steadfast love (covenant faithfulness), justice (right judgment), and righteousness (right behavior, especially in keeping his promises). See Ex. 34:6–7; Ps. 103:8; Joel 2:12–14; Jonah 3:9–4:2. let him who boasts boast in this. Compare 1 Cor. 1:31; 2 Cor. 10:17.

FACT

The wailing women mentioned in 9:17 were probably professional mourners. In many ancient cultures, such people were paid to sing or deliver eulogies at funerals.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:25–26 In coming days God will punish all people who are uncircumcised in heart (see 4:3–4).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:3–5 Idols are made by people, so idols have no power to speak or act. Serving them makes no sense (Isa. 44:9–20).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:8–9 Taking instruction from idols is foolish. Idols may be made of the finest materials by the finest craftsman, but they remain human creations. Tarshish represents the ends of the earth. The location of Uphaz is unknown.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:11–13 All false gods shall perish. They were created by humans, but the living God made and established the world by wisdom and understanding (51:15–19). The false gods' "instruction" (10:8) makes people foolish, while God's instruction makes people wise.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:19–20 Jerusalem expresses her woes (Lam. 1:20–22; 2:20–22).

FACT

God's storehouses. Just like around the world today, people in Bible times needed places to store things. The Lord also has "storehouses" (10:13), for things like rain and lightning and wind!

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:21 shepherds. Judah's leaders (see note on 3:15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:23–25 Jeremiah turns to God for wisdom (vv. 11–16), for he needs God to direct his steps. He knows God can correct a person, and only does so justly (Heb. 12:5–11). He asks that the idolatrous nations attacking Judah may soon receive divine correction.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:1–20:18 Jeremiah's Struggles with God and Judah. As the nation faces invasion, Jeremiah struggles to serve God faithfully. He is surprised by opposition (11:1–12:17), stunned over feeling betrayed by God (13:1–15:21), renewed by God (16:1–17:18), burdened by opposition (17:19–18:23), and prepared to continue serving (19:1–20:18).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:2 this covenant. The Mosaic law.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:4 I brought them out. God alone deserves credit for the exodus (Ex. 20:1–2). iron furnace. Egypt forced Israel to make bricks (Ex. 5:1–21). My people . . . your God underscores the relational nature of the covenant. For similar language, see Deut. 4:20 and 1 Kings 8:51.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:9 conspiracy. Against Yahweh, to serve other gods (v. 10).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:10 iniquities of their forefathers. Idolatry committed with the golden calf (Ex. 32:1–6), Baal (Judg. 2:11–15), and other false gods (Jer. 7:16–20; 8:2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:11–12 disaster. The nation's destruction by Babylon.

FACT

Judah's good king Josiah rediscovered the Book of the Law, reinstituted the Passover, and destroyed foreign idols. And yet Jeremiah had to declare that the end was coming for Judah (11:11), just as it had for Israel a hundred years before.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:13 Superstitious polytheism (worship of many gods) fills Jerusalem. Baal. See 2:8.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:14 do not pray. God will not grant Jeremiah's prayer for a delay in punishment (see 7:16; 14:11).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:16 Green olive tree signifies fruitfulness and economic prosperity (Ps. 52:8). great tempest. The storm of invasion (see Ezek. 1:24).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:18–20 God reveals a plot against Jeremiah, who commits his future to his deliverer.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:21 Anathoth. Jeremiah's hometown (1:1). Do not prophesy. Even Jeremiah's old friends hate his message, for it exposes their sins. They prefer false prophets (5:12–13).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:22–23 God will protect his word and his prophet. sword . . . famine. Babylon's attacks and natural disaster will overwhelm Anathoth.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:1 Righteous. God defines and does what is fair and correct. complain. Jeremiah laments his situation. His basic question is naive; he assumes that sinful people never harm God's servants, despite the warnings in 1:17–19.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:2 You plant them. Jeremiah believes God has blessed hypocrites who pretend to trust in him (Ps. 73:1–3).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:3 In contrast, Jeremiah's heart is right with God. He wants God's enemies to be set . . . apart for the day of slaughter.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:5–6 God responds with a rebuke and a caution. Jeremiah must prepare for worse times. He cannot trust even family and friends.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:7 God has forsaken his people, the beloved of his soul, turning them over to judgment. His suffering exceeds Jeremiah's.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:9 The hyena and birds represent Babylon, the enemy who stalks Judah.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:10–11 shepherds have destroyed my vineyard. On God's people as his vineyard, see note on Isa. 5:1. Judah's leaders have misled God's people, resulting in oppression and judgment (Isa. 3:1–5; 5:1–13; Jer. 2:8; 4:9–10). no man lays it to heart. No leader pays attention and guides Judah to repent (Isa. 42:18–25).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:12 sword of the LORD. Babylon is simply God's instrument for punishing Judah.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:15 compassion. Wrath is never God's final word to his covenant people (Deut. 30:1–10; Lam. 3:19–38; Hos. 11:1–9).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:16–17 God also has compassion on the nations who learn his ways, swear by his name, and obey his word. He is the Creator of all nations (10:1–16).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:1 This is the first of several symbolic acts Jeremiah performs to reveal God's will.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:2–7 God orders Jeremiah to place underclothing in a rocky place. Of course, it gets ruined by the weather.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:8–11 The Judeans' prideful, idolatrous ways cling to them like an undergarment. Like Jeremiah's garment, this pride will be ruined.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:15–17 be not proud. Jeremiah urges Judah to repent. darkness. A common ancient Near Eastern symbol of judgment. my eyes will weep. Once again, Jeremiah expresses grief (compare 4:19–21; 9:1).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:19 Negeb. Lands south of Jerusalem. shut up. They are awaiting or experiencing the Babylonian siege. If these cities are threatened, Jerusalem has already fallen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:20–22 flock. Judah’s people. friends. Babylon was once Judah’s ally (Isa. 39:1–8).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:26–27 skirts . . . shame. Judah’s spiritual adultery will be exposed (Lam. 1:9). lewd whorings. See Ezek. 16:1–58; 23:1–48. Woe. Coming judgment (Isa. 5:8–23).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:1 drought. Judah experiences drought during the invasion by Babylon (see Deut. 28:23–24).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:7 Jeremiah intercedes, recognizing Judah’s rebellion and spiritual unfaithfulness (see Amos 7:1–9).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:8–9 we are called by your name. God has been Israel’s deliverer in the past. Jeremiah wonders if God will help the nation for the sake of his reputation (Lam. 1:20–22; 2:20–22).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:10 God is able to save, but Israel’s constant unfaithfulness must be addressed. For God remembering his people’s iniquity and sins, see Hos. 7:2; 8:13; and contrast Ps. 25:7; 79:8; Isa. 43:25; Jer. 31:34.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:15 Sword and famine. Babylon and the drought (compare 11:22–23).

FACT

The primary calling of the prophet was to serve as God’s spokesperson. There were many prophets, however, and they sometimes declared conflicting messages. The way to determine if a prophet was speaking God’s words was to see if the prophecy was actually fulfilled (see Deut. 18:18–22).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:19 Why have you struck us? Jeremiah questions God again, declaring that the people were misled. He wonders if God has rejected them (see Lam. 5:22).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:20–22 Jeremiah expresses his faith on behalf of Judah, but the people do not share his convictions, as God knows. remember. See v. 10.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:2–3 Judah has four places to go: plague (pestilence), battle (sword), starvation (famine), and exile (captivity).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:4 make them a horror. They will serve as a reminder of God's wrath for all nations (Deut. 28:25). Manasseh ruled Judah c. 697–642 B.C. He committed idolatry, practiced child sacrifice, used fortune-tellers, and generally led Judah to hate God's word (2 Chron. 33:1–9). He repented late in life (2 Chron. 33:10–20).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:5 Who? Judah has no allies, and God has left them.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:6 relenting. God is weary of holding back punishment. The people do not change their ways despite the mercy he shows when he relents.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:7 The primary reason for punishment was that they did not turn from their ways.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:9 She who bore seven. A mother with the perfect number of sons losing all she has represents Judah's reversal of fortunes.

FACT

A noonday attack on a city (15:8) was unusual. The heat would have been uncomfortable for soldiers in their armor, and the element of surprise would have been gone. Therefore most raids took place at night. An army probably wouldn't attack at noon unless it was strong enough to be sure of victory.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:13–14 Judah's sins have brought her to the edge of financial ruin and exile.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:15 you know. God has seen Jeremiah's suffering. take me not away. Jeremiah asks to be spared when death strikes.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:16 Your words were found, and I ate them. As a true prophet, Jeremiah digested, delighted in, and spoke God's words in God's name for the people's good.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:18 a deceitful brook. Jeremiah accuses God of failing to protect him.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:19 If you utter what is precious. God rebukes Jeremiah, urging repentance and faithful, truthful speech about himself. Jeremiah must side with God, not with the people.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:20–21 God repeats his promise to protect (1:17–19). God will deliver Jeremiah, but the promise implies continued persecution.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:2 As a symbol to the nation, Jeremiah is instructed not to marry. Such living messages were intended to shock the people into repentance (see 13:1–14). Singleness, however, will prove to be a blessing for Jeremiah (16:3–4).

FACT

Singleness for a prophetic purpose. The Lord told Jeremiah not to get married. This was probably intended as a symbolic warning that life would soon be very difficult for people with children (16:1–4).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:5 God commands Jeremiah not to attend funerals or mourn the dead, again as a testimony that God has taken away his peace. God's protection (steadfast love) is based on his grace and Israel's covenant faithfulness.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:13 a land. A place of exile (15:14). serve other gods. The ultimate punishment (Deut. 28:64). no favor. A reversal of Ex. 34:6–7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:14–15 God will restore Israel after exile. This renewal will be so astounding it will be greater than the first exodus (32:37; see Deut. 30:1–10).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:19–20 Jeremiah's confession of faith indicates he has repented, as he was ordered to do (15:19–21). The nations will come to Yahweh, rejecting their idols (10:1–16) and confessing that Yahweh alone is God and is able to save.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:1–3 pen of iron . . . point of diamond. These were tools for carving on stone, which is what their heart has become. beside every green tree, on the high hills, on the mountains. Serving idols in every conceivable location is the sin engraved on their hearts.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:5 Cursed. Experiencing negative consequences (Deut. 28:15–68).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:6 like a shrub in the desert. Alone and without resources when disaster comes.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:7 Blessed. Filled with God-defined benefits. whose trust is the LORD. Only trust in God motivates confident obedience in times of crisis.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:8 tree planted by water. Settled with resources no matter what happens. A perfect contrast to the “shrub in the desert” (v. 6; see Ps. 1:3).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:9 heart. The human will and emotions (see vv. 5–7). desperately sick. The sinful heart cannot be cured without God’s help (15:18; 30:12, 15; Mic. 1:9). who can understand it? A rhetorical question expecting a negative answer. However, this strongly negative assessment of the human heart does not describe the believer’s heart under the new covenant; God promises to write his law on his people’s hearts (Jer. 31:33; 32:40; see Ezek. 36:26; Heb. 10:22).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:12–13 glorious throne. The temple (14:21; Ps. 80:1). our sanctuary. A place of security when the people trust Yahweh, but a place of thieves when they do not (Jer. 7:1–15). written in the earth. Those who turn away from God shall die and be buried without honor (Ps. 69:28). fountain of living water. Source of spiritual strength (Jer. 17:5–8; see note on 2:12–13).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:14 Jeremiah prays for his own healing and salvation. my praise. That which he most values and speaks of with most joy.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:16 the day of sickness. Judah’s spiritual unfaithfulness and its punishment.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:17–18 For now Jeremiah stands with God, not the people. Thus he fulfills God’s commands in 1:7–10, 17–19; 15:19–21.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:24–27 Restoration of Sabbath rest and worship will result in permanent rule by David’s lineage, permanent life in the land, and permanent worship. Refusal to keep the Sabbath will result in fire in its gates, a metaphor for destruction (Amos 1:3–2:5).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:4 spoiled. It did not develop properly. reworked. The potter shaped and reshaped the wet clay to keep the developing vessel symmetrical.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:6 can I not do with you? As its maker, God can reshape Israel.

FACT

Repentance is mentioned more than a hundred times in Jeremiah. The Lord promised to forgive and heal the people if they turned from their sins (18:5–11). Few responded to Jeremiah’s call for repentance, but the Lord promised that someday they would respond (33:14–26).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:7 pluck up, break down, destroy. Judgment metaphors from agriculture, construction, and war. See 1:10; 31:28; 45:4. If. Many of the biblical prophecies are conditional. Whether or not the people repent matters, because the goal of prophecy, more than simply telling the future, is the moral formation of God’s people. See note on Jonah 3:4.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:8 turns. From sin to God.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:9 Build and plant are restoration metaphors from construction and agriculture. See 1:10; 42:10.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:10 relent of the good. Remove the blessing the people could have received.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:13 Who has heard? Judah’s covenant breaking is unprecedented. See 2:10–11 for a similar question.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:14–16 Does the snow of Lebanon leave . . . Do the mountain waters run dry? Both questions expect a negative answer. In contrast, Judah has done the unnatural thing and deserted God.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:18 The people rejected the notion that Jeremiah was right and all their leaders wrong (1:17–19; 2:8; 5:13, 31; 6:13).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:19–20 my adversaries. Those plotting against Jeremiah.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:1 Go, buy. The third symbolic act (see 13:1–7; 16:1–9). earthenware flask. A general term for a container. elders of the people. Civic leaders. elders of the priests. Religious leaders.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:2 Potsherd Gate. Uncertain location but likely a dumping ground for broken containers.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:3 Ears . . . will tingle with shock and horror at an account of judgment (see 1 Sam. 3:11; 2 Kings 21:12).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:4 blood of innocents. Likely child sacrifices made to Molech (7:31).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:7 the plans of Judah and Jerusalem. Their proposed solution to the threat Babylon poses (see 18:12).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:9 eat the flesh. Because of the lack of food caused by the siege, the people of Judah will turn to cannibalism (Deut. 28:53; 2 Kings 6:24–29; Lam. 4:10).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:10 break the flask. A symbolic act representing Jerusalem’s defeat.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:12 like Topheth. An overcrowded cemetery. Proper burial is impossible there.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:1 chief officer. Head overseer of temple supplies and activities; probably also handled troublemakers (29:26).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:3 not . . . Pashhur, but Terror On Every Side. Pashhur may mean "tear off." The idea is that God has previously "torn off" pieces of Judah and given them to invaders. Now he will cause terror in every part of Jerusalem.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:4 False teachers are the ultimate terror. They lead others to believe lies, which will result in Babylon capturing all Judah.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:5 I will give. God, not Babylon, is the ruler. all the treasures. In the palace and temple. carry them to Babylon. Treasure, people, and the kings of Judah will go to Babylon (Isa. 39:1–8).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:6 go into captivity. In 605, 597, and 587 B.C. all your friends. Those who believed Pashhur when he prophesied falsely that Jeremiah was wrong (vv. 1–2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:7–8 deceived me . . . stronger than I . . . laughingstock. Jeremiah expresses his displeasure over his circumstances, even accusing God of deceiving and overpowering him (see 12:1–4; 15:10–21; Jeremiah's complaints are not always justified). Soon his complaint moves to praise (20:9–13), but then returns to distress over his calling (vv. 14–18).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:9 burning fire . . . in my bones. When Jeremiah decides not to preach, he apparently feels intense (and possibly bodily) pain, as if the words are trying to burst forth. He cannot stop proclaiming God's words.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:13–14 praise the LORD! . . . Cursed be the day! It is true that God merits praise for his protection. It is also true that Jeremiah lives a hard life. See 15:10 and Job 3:3.

FACT

Mind or kidneys? The word translated "mind" in 20:12 is actually the Hebrew word for "kidneys" (see ESV footnote). Because the kidneys were hidden deep within the body, they were seen as the source of emotions and even wisdom.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:18 Jeremiah's ministry causes him hard work, sorrow, and shame. He accepts his role, but has no illusions of fame, approval, or appreciation.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:1–29:32 Jeremiah's Confrontations. Having solidified his relationship with God, Jeremiah confronts his enemies and their beliefs. He opposes kings (21:1–23:8), false prophets (23:9–40), the people (24:1–25:38), and false belief (26:1–29:32).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:1–2 Zedekiah. The last king of Judah (597–586 B.C.). Pashhur. Most likely a different man than in 20:1–2. Zephaniah. Not the prophet. making war against us. Most likely in 588 B.C. due to Zedekiah not paying tribute money to Babylon. wonderful deeds. Such as the exodus or the deliverance of Jerusalem in 701 B.C. (Isa. 36:1–37:36).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:3–6 God will bring the Babylonians into the city (v. 4), fight alongside them against Judah (v. 5), and give them complete victory (v. 6).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:8–9 Jerusalemites have two choices: surrender to Babylon and live, or fight Babylon and die.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:12 house of David. Zedekiah and his officials. Execute justice. Based on God's written word (Deut. 17:14–20). deliver from the hand. Make certain the weak receive protection and justice. These are the marks of a great king.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:14 fruit of your deeds. Judah has participated in idolatry, oppression, and covenant infidelity. These acts have led to invasion.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:3 The king and those with him are not to use their power for personal advantage, but are to rule in justice and righteousness. "Justice" means making right decisions according to God's commands and case laws. "Righteousness" means doing what is correct according to God's moral standards (see 4:2; 9:24). deliver. Rescue from harm. This passage spells out the responsibilities of the ideal king over God's people (see 7:6; contrast 22:13, 15). The messianic King will carry this out (23:5; 33:15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:4 obey this word. To protect the weak (v. 3), which is a major role of kings. then there shall enter. If David's descendants would turn to the Lord, they would continue to rule Judah. The prophecies of destruction were conditional; the exile was not inevitable.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:7 destroyers . . . shall cut down your choicest cedars. Like the temple (Ps. 74:4–8), David's lineage will be cut down (Ps. 89:38–45).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:11 Shallum. Another name for Jehoahaz, who reigned for just three months in 609 B.C. (2 Kings 23:31–33). He followed Josiah (640–609).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:13–14 Jehoiakim (609–598 B.C.) built a palace for himself while his people suffered. He required his subjects to work on the project without compensation. Contrast this with v. 3.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:24 Coniah. Another name for Jehoiachin, who ruled three months (598–597 B.C.); also called Jeconiah (24:1). Babylon removed him and put Zedekiah (597–587 B.C.) in power. Jehoiachin was later treated well in exile (52:31–34; 2 Kings 24:8–9; 25:27–30). signet ring. Used to imprint a person's signature and thus represent his authority (Hag. 2:23).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:29–30 Judah (the land) must understand that David's descendants will cease to rule Judah. none of his offspring. This raises a severe problem: Will God keep his promise made in 2 Sam. 7:16? If so, how? See Jer. 23:5–6.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:1–2 shepherds. See note on 3:15. Rather than bind up, heal, protect, and feed their sheep, Judah's leaders have destroyed and scattered them (10:21; Ezek. 34:2; Zech. 11:15–17). attend to you. Judge them because they have not judged God's people well.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:3 gather. Bring back to Judah from exile. This process began in 538 B.C. (Ezra 1–2). For the expectation, see Jer. 29:14; 31:8, 10; Ezek. 11:17; 28:25.

FACT

The faithful remnant. In many places, the Bible speaks of a "remnant," that is, a relatively small group of people, who will remain faithful to the Lord (23:3; compare Ezra 9:8; Isa. 10:20; Rom. 11:5).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:5 God will honor his covenant with David (2 Sam. 7:1–25). a righteous Branch (see notes on Zech. 3:8–9; 6:12) . . . shall reign

as king. This Davidic king, a “branch” from the tree of David, will embody all good kingly characteristics: making good decisions, ruling fairly, and correctly dispensing justice (see Isa. 11:1–10). The NT authors saw that these and other messianic promises were fulfilled in Jesus (Matt. 2:2; Luke 1:32; 19:38; John 1:49).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:6 Judah will be saved. For the whole people being “saved,” see Ex. 14:30. God rescues his people from danger—including the danger to which their own sin has subjected them—and provides for them the conditions in which faithful life can flourish. dwell securely. Free from enemies. The LORD is our righteousness. A play on the new king’s name, Zedekiah, which means “the LORD is my righteousness.” Even though Zedekiah fails, a new king will come. See Isaiah 40–66, which foretells the return from exile, which leads to the raising up of David’s heir, the Messiah.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:7–8 they shall no longer say. The people’s return and the Messiah’s subsequent reign will be so great as to overshadow the exodus (see 16:14–15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:11–12 Spiritual adultery begins with ungodly spiritual leaders. Such “guides” will be like slippery paths in the darkness. The people need spiritual leaders—specifically prophet and priest—who will be godly examples (a recurring theme in Jeremiah; 2:8; 5:31; 6:13; 8:10; 14:18).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:15 Compare 9:15. Judah’s ungodliness begins with those who teach God’s ways falsely (see Ex. 20:7).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:21–22 “I did not send the prophets.” True prophets would have asked the people to repent of their unfaithfulness.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:29 like fire. God’s word, in contrast to that of the false prophets, burns the straw of falsehood (v. 28). like a hammer. God’s word shatters the sinful heart.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:31–32 God opposes those who falsely claim to speak his words through their lying dreams and harmful lies.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 24:1 Nebuchadnezzar (see 21:1–2). taken into exile. In 597 B.C. Jeconiah. Also called Jehoiachin (52:31) and Coniah (22:24).

officials. Civil servants. craftsmen, metal workers. Persons useful to the conquerors. vision. See 1:11–16. For the image of figs, see 29:14.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 24:3 The good figs are the exiles.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 24:6 build . . . plant. God will restore the exiles (1:10; 12:2; 18:9).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 24:7 I will give them a heart to know. Saving knowledge of God (see 4:4; 31:31–34; see note on 9:3) based on God's sovereign grace. be my people. Special covenantal relationship (31:31–34). They shall return by repenting (Deut. 30:1–10).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 24:8 The disgustingly bad figs are (1) the king, (2) the remaining people in Judah, and (3) the people who fled to Egypt to escape the invasion.

The Babylonian Empire

c. 597, 586, 582 B.C.

Jeremiah witnessed multiple deportations of many of his fellow Judeans to Babylon (see 52:28–30), which he and other prophets had foretold would happen if the people did not repent of their wickedness. Jeremiah specifically foretold that the exiles would remain in Babylon for 70 years, after which time the Lord would punish the Babylonians themselves for their wickedness (25:11–12).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:1 fourth year of Jehoiakim. 605 B.C.

FACT

Seventy years in Babylon. Jeremiah saw many of his fellow Judeans exiled to Babylon during his lifetime. He predicted that they would remain there for 70 years (25:11–12), and Ezra 1:1 records the precise fulfillment of that prophecy.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:5–6 Turn now. The consistent prophetic message was one of repentance from idolatry so that the people could have a right relationship with God.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:8–9 tribes of the north. See 1:13–16; 3:12, 18; 4:6; 6:1; etc. Nebuchadnezzar . . . my servant. See 27:6; 43:10. Though earth's greatest king, he is controlled by God. devote them to destruction. See notes on Lev. 27:28–29; Deut. 20:16–18. This is what God's people were to do to the Canaanites (Deut. 7:2); now it will be their fate instead.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:11 seventy years. This is probably counted from the first exile in 605 B.C. to the first return, variously dated from 538 to 535 (2 Chron. 36:21; Ezra 1:1). However, 70 may be a round number, as it is elsewhere (Ps. 90:10; see Matt. 18:22).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:12 Persia conquered Babylon in 539 B.C. God punishes sin wherever it exists.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:14 many nations. Persia and its allies. great kings. Cyrus and his successors.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:15 cup of . . . wrath. See Isa. 51:17; Rev. 18:6.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:17 made all the nations . . . drink it. Through a symbolic act in Jeremiah's role as prophet to the nations (1:5).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:19 Egypt. Prior to 605 B.C., Egypt dominated Judah, but Babylon's victory at Carchemish that year gave Babylon power over Egypt and the countries Egypt ruled.

FACT

When Nebuchadnezzar defeated the Egyptian army at Carchemish in 605 B.C., it marked the beginning of Egypt's decline as a power in the region and the beginning of Babylon's rise (see 46:2 and note on 25:19). Judah fell to Babylon in 586.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:23–26 Nations far distant from Judah will be conquered by Babylon. Indeed, all the kingdoms of the world shall drink the cup of Babylon’s wrath. Afterward the king of Babylon shall drink the cup of Persia’s wrath. All these cups come from God, who speaks through Jeremiah.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:31 God’s voice will reach the ends of the earth, for his indictment of sin encompasses all flesh. His sword will touch all wicked persons (see v. 29).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:38 The sword of the oppressor (Babylon) is the result of God’s fierce anger. This lion will devour his prey completely.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:1 The events of this chapter occur c. 609 B.C.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:3 God’s reason for sending Jeremiah is to offer Judah one more chance to turn from . . . evil so that he may relent from punishing. This is generally the intent of prophetic preaching in Scripture (see 18:7–8).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:6 Shiloh. See note on 7:12–14. a curse. See 24:9 and 25:18.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:9 Why have you prophesied? Jeremiah’s audience considers a sermon against Jerusalem and the temple to be disrespectful to God. Jeremiah considers their sinful deeds the real show of disrespect (7:11–15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:10 officials. Judges, in this instance. took their seat. To judge the matter. entry of the New Gate. The place where judicial proceedings occurred (see Amos 5:12, 15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:11 The priests and the prophets claim Jeremiah has committed treason because he prophesied against this city.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:12 The LORD sent me. Jeremiah claims to speak only God’s words (1:4–10) concerning the city and temple (this house).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:16 The officials (judges) and people (assembled community) oppose the religious leaders’ wishes.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:17 elders of the land. Most likely civic leaders from other cities.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:18 Micah. The biblical prophet. prophesied. This verse quotes Mic. 3:12. days of Hezekiah. 715–687 B.C.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:19 The elders note how Hezekiah and the people understood Micah's words and repented. God then stopped Sennacherib's invasion of Judah in 701 B.C. (2 Kings 18–19). The elders advise obedience to Jeremiah's words. This shows that Micah's oracle was considered scripture by this time. It also shows that prophecy has a moral purpose, rather than simply telling the future (see note on Jer. 18:7; see also Isa. 38:1–6).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:1 beginning of the reign of Zedekiah. 597 B.C.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:2 Make yourself straps. Jeremiah was to engage in yet another symbolic act (see 13:1–11; 16:1–9; 19:1–15) by wearing the "straps" and yoke-bars that harnessed an animal.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:3–4 A group of envoys had come to Jerusalem to plot strategy for opposing Babylon. Jeremiah, God's envoy, gave a message for these ambassadors to take to their kings.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:6–7 Nebuchadnezzar . . . my servant. See 25:8–9. make him their slave. See 27:12, 14. Babylon's rule will not last forever.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:8 Until the era of Nebuchadnezzar's grandsons, the nations must serve Babylon or face sword, famine, and pestilence (14:1–12; 16:4; 18:21; 21:7–9).

FACT

Jeremiah's unpopular message. While all the other prophets were predicting victory over Babylon, Jeremiah told the people it was God's will that they serve Babylon for a certain number of years. Then, God would rescue them and would judge Babylon (ch. 27). Needless to say, Jeremiah's message did not make him very popular with either the people or the king.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:12–15 Having delivered God's message to the other nations, Jeremiah now tells Zedekiah the same thing: serving Babylon is God's will.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:19 pillars. Located in the temple and overlaid with bronze (1 Kings 7:15–22). sea. A tank holding water to clean the area where sacrifices were made (1 Kings 7:23–26). Stands supported the sea and were overlaid with bronze (1 Kings 7:27–37). vessels. Bronze basins (1 Kings 7:38). See illustrations.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:21–22 The items noted in v. 19 will indeed go to Babylon, but will also return. The pieces were taken in 587 B.C. They were returned in 538–535, when the Israelites returned to Jerusalem (Ezra 1:7–8; 5:13–17).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 28:1 Gibeon. A town 6 miles (9.7 km) northwest of Jerusalem. Thus, Hananiah, like Jeremiah, lived in the territory of Benjamin (1:1–3).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 28:2–4 Thus says the LORD. Hananiah claimed divine authority for his false prophecy. I have broken the yoke . . . Within two years. Hananiah contradicts Jeremiah's prophecy concerning Babylon (27:8–11) and the temple's vessels (27:19–22).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 28:8–9 Jeremiah's point is that peace and security is the rarer of the two messages described here. Peace requires repentance (26:18–19), which has not occurred.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 28:12–15 God says that Hananiah's prophecy turns the yoke-bars of surrender into a yoke of devastation by leading people to ignore God's advice to surrender to Nebuchadnezzar (27:1–11).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 28:16–17 Hananiah's prophecy was rebellion against the LORD. He died two months after uttering it (vv. 1–4).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:1 This letter reassures these exiles that God has not abandoned them or forgotten his purpose for them. At the same time, since its contents would be widely known back home in Judah, it also reinforces Jeremiah's announcements of coming judgment on those who remained there. All the people were taken into exile in 597 B.C. by Nebuchadnezzar.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:7 The exiles should hope and work for Babylon's success, for they will share in this success. Welfare covers all aspects of peace and plenty (see note on John 14:27). The people of Israel were true to their calling when they brought blessing to the Gentiles (Gen. 12:2–3).

FACT

Why were Israel’s craftsmen taken? Craftsmen were highly prized by conquering kings (29:2). They could provide assistance with the king’s projects as well as offer secrets of the trade that had been passed down through the generations.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:11 God’s plans for the exiles are for welfare (see note on v. 7), not evil, or “calamity.” Having sought Babylon’s welfare, the exiles will receive God’s welfare in the form of a future and a hope in their homeland.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:13 You will seek me and find me. This amazing promise from the infinitely righteous, holy God to sinful people echoes a promise in Deut. 4:29. It remains true (John 6:37).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:14 I will bring you back. After 70 years, Israel’s repentant prayers and changed hearts will lead to God’s restoration of the nation (see Deut. 30:1–10).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:21–22 As vv. 8–9 indicate, false prophets addressed the exiles. prophesying a lie. See 27:10, 14, 16; 28:15; 29:9. The lie is not specified, but they probably promised a quick return from exile. strike them down. The penalty for their lies contrasts with God’s protection of Jeremiah (1:17–19). Their fate will be so terrible that they will become a curse used to condemn others.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:25 Shemaiah sent letters from Babylon to counter Jeremiah’s prior correspondence (vv. 4–23). Zephaniah. Not the prophet. See 21:1–2.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:27–28 Shemaiah does not consider Jeremiah’s letter (vv. 4–23) either comforting or true. Rather, he believes prophets like Hananiah who prophesy a short exile (ch. 28). Anathoth. See 1:1–3.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:31–32 Shemaiah is revealed as a false prophet who makes people trust in lies (28:15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:1–33:26 Restoration for Judah and Israel. The book now turns to positive themes. At last Jeremiah may "build and plant" (1:10). He claims that God will restore the nation (ch. 30), make a new covenant with Israel (ch. 31), bring Israel back to the Promised Land (ch. 32), and honor his covenant with David (ch. 33).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:1 This message (chs. 30–31) is undated, unlike chs. 24–29.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:2 Write in a book. See 25:13; 36:2. This would preserve the words for future generations.

FACT

Books in the OT could refer to any written material (see 30:2). Usually this was in the form of papyrus scrolls. Pages were glued together end to end so they could be rolled up. A typical papyrus page was similar to the pages used in printers today. Scrolls were usually around 20 pages long, or roughly 15 feet (4.5 m).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:3 days are coming. Seventy years in the future (25:12).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:4 These promises of hope include the long-defeated Israel, not just Judah. The whole nation will be united again.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:7 That day. The day of the Lord, the day of judgment (Isa. 2:6–22; Amos 5:18–20; etc.; see also The Day of the Lord in the Prophets). time of distress for Jacob. Israel will suffer. yet he shall be saved out of it. The day of judgment will remove Israel's foes.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:8 yoke. See 2:20; 5:5; 27:8–12; 28:1–17. burst your bonds. See 2:20; 5:5. foreigners. Such as Egypt, Assyria, Babylon, and Persia. servant. As Israel was in pre-exodus days (Ex. 2:23–25; 5:10–23).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:9 The people will respond to deliverance by serving God and the Davidic king (23:1–8). For David as the name of the Davidic king (and ultimately the Messiah), see Ezek. 34:23–24; 37:24–25; Hos. 3:5. This service will be a complete reversal of their previous disobedience.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:11 I am with you to save you. For God to be "with" someone is for him to help that person to carry out his calling (1:8, 19; 20:11; 42:11; see Gen. 39:2–3). make a full end. Completely destroy (Jer. 46:28).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:14 lovers. Former allies and their gods (3:1–2; 4:30; 22:20–23; Lam. 1:2, 19). the blow of an enemy. God turned from fighting for Israel (Ex. 15:1–18) to fighting against Israel (Jer. 11:14–17; 15:1–9; 27:8). guilt is great. Israel sought other gods in violation of their covenant with God.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:20 established before me. They will regain God's favor.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:22 Jeremiah expects the privileges of the covenant (Ex. 29:45; Lev. 26:12; Deut. 27:9) to be renewed, especially after the exile (see Jer. 24:7; 31:33; Ezek. 37:23; Zech. 8:8).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:24 God's intentions include removing the wicked in Israel (v. 23), displacing Israel's enemies, and establishing Israel's king (v. 21). Israel will be God's pure people again, yet only in the latter days, that is, sometime in the unspecified future.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:1–40 This chapter includes the most famous passage in Jeremiah, the promise of a new covenant (vv. 31–40). Leading up to that passage, God promises Israel that they will be his people (vv. 1–14), he will have mercy on weary Israel (vv. 15–26), and he will make Israel secure (vv. 27–30).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:1 At that time. In the latter days (30:24), God will reunite Israel with Judah under his covenantal leadership.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:2 Israel's exile experience mirrors the exodus era. In both, those who escaped death found grace and rest in the desert. After exile, Israel will again follow God (2:1–3).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:4 virgin Israel. The northern kingdom (vv. 5–6).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:9 God will provide for all their needs as the exiles return. father to Israel. See Ex. 4:22–23; Hos. 11:1–9.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:10 God, Israel's great shepherd (Isa. 40:11), will gather and keep (guard) his sheep.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:13 When God restores Israel's lives he will also restore their joy. God will comfort them. See Isa. 40:1.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:15 Ramah. Five miles (8 km) north of Jerusalem and on the route to exile (40:1). Rachel. Jacob's second and favorite wife (Gen. 29:30). Joseph was her son and the father of Ephraim and Manasseh (Gen. 30:22–24; 41:50–52). Rachel was buried near Bethlehem (Gen. 35:19–20). Jeremiah focuses on the grief of the exile, as if it touched Rachel herself. See Matt. 2:18.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:16–17 God promises that Rachel's children will return from exile.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:18 Ephraim recognizes God's discipline (see Lev. 26:14–26; Deut. 30:1–10) and pleads for restoration (Lam. 5:21–22).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:21 Israel should mark the way they went out (to exile), for they will return on the same road.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:22 How long will you waver, that is, how long will you wait to fulfill the prophecy of v. 6? faithless daughter. What Ephraim has been in the past. a new thing. A new beginning (Isa. 43:19; 48:7).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:23–25 Jeremiah addresses Judah, who will soon join Israel in exile. God will restore Judah and its rejoicing, just as he will Israel's (vv. 2–7).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:28 At that time God will be as determined to plant and build as he was to tear down and destroy (see 1:10).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:29–30 sour grapes . . . teeth are set on edge. This proverb was apparently common (see Lam. 5:7; Ezek. 18:2). The negation of the proverb (they shall no longer say) means that no one will suffer for the sins of others, because national rebellion against God will cease. The remnant will become the majority.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:31–34 God’s people have a long-standing problem. Most are circumcised in body but so few are circumcised in heart (that is, truly know the Lord). God will remedy this problem. The benefits that God will provide—knowledge of the Lord and forgiveness—were all offered in the OT but all-too-rarely accepted.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:31 The new covenant will provide a fresh start for Israel and Judah, the first recipients of both the old and now the new covenant (see note on vv. 31–34). This is the only OT passage to use the specific term “new covenant”; for NT uses of the phrase, see Luke 22:20; 2 Cor. 3:6; Heb. 8:8–12.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:32 This new covenant will be different in that it will not be broken, as Israel and Judah broke the first one despite God’s faithfulness as a good husband.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:33 Rather than writing the law on tablets and scrolls (see Ex. 34:1; Deut. 31:9–13) and asking the people to internalize it (Deut. 6:4–9), God will write it on their hearts from the start. He will be the God of this new covenant, just as he was for the old covenant partners who loved him.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:35–36 God gives a fixed order to the natural creation. It is just as impossible for the new covenant (vv. 31–34) to cease as it is for the natural order to cease.

JEREMIAH

Jeremiah was born in Anathoth, a small town outside of Jerusalem. Called by God as a young man, he served as a prophet for more than 40 years. Jeremiah had a difficult life. By God's command, he never married, and he apparently had only two converts during his entire ministry. The nation of Judah did not respond favorably to his messages of repentance. He was scorned in his own hometown and even falsely imprisoned on charges that he was collaborating with the Babylonian invaders. Like many of the Lord's prophets, Jeremiah suffered public mockery and physical abuse. Yet God used his faithful servant to deliver the good news that in future days God would make a new, unbreakable covenant with his people (31:31). Hebrews 8:8–12 quotes Jeremiah 31:31–34 as evidence that this new covenant has come through the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus Christ. (Jeremiah 31:31–34)

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:38–40 Jerusalem will soon be destroyed, yet God will eventually rebuild it. When it is totally sacred to the Lord (Zech. 14:20–21), it will not be plucked up or overthrown anymore forever. At that time Jerusalem will be Zion, the new Jerusalem, the city where God lives with his people in the permanent absence of sin (Isa. 4:2–6; 25:6–12; 65:17–25).

FACT

Jeremiah said that Jerusalem would someday be rebuilt from the Tower of Hananel to the Corner Gate (31:38). This is probably where the Babylonian army broke through the walls of Jerusalem. It was on the north side of the city, where the land was flat. There were steep valleys around the rest of the city, which would have made it harder to invade.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:1 tenth year. c. 588–587 B.C.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:2–5 Babylon was besieging Jerusalem. This siege lasted about a year (see 39:1; 52:4). Jeremiah was imprisoned by Zedekiah (37:11–21) for prophesying that Babylon would conquer Jerusalem (21:1–10; 34:1–5; 37:6–10).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:6–7 Hanamel . . . will come to you. God revealed what would occur. right of redemption. See Lev. 25:25–32. When property was sold due to financial problems, a relative would buy it back so that it could stay in the family. The person who bought it back was called a “kinsman-redeemer” (see “redeemer,” Ruth 4:1).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:9 Because of God’s word, Jeremiah buys the field, even though Babylon will soon invade the land. seventeen shekels. About seven ounces.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:11 sealed deed . . . open copy. Scribes wrote two copies of the transaction. They rolled up and sealed the first copy, leaving the second open for viewing.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:12 Baruch was Jeremiah’s disciple and scribe (36:4; 45:1–5).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:13–14 Jeremiah had Baruch place the precious document in an earthenware storage vessel for safekeeping.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:15 Now the point of this symbolic act (see also 13:1–14; 16:1–13; 18:1–11; 19:1–15; 27:1–28:17) is revealed: God will return the people to the land, and fields will be bought and sold again.

FACT

Sealing documents in earthenware vessels (32:14) was a common way to preserve them for future generations. The Dead Sea Scrolls, one of the most important biblical archaeological discoveries, were found in vessels similar to the one Jeremiah used.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:17 Jeremiah’s prayer begins by confessing that God is the all-powerful Creator (made the heavens), for whom nothing is too hard (see Gen. 18:14). God has infinite power and can do all that he wills to do. However, that does not mean God can do anything, for he cannot act contrary to his own character (see 2 Tim. 2:13; Heb. 6:18).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:18 steadfast love to thousands. Covenant love to countless generations. See Ex. 34:6–7; Joel 2:12–14; Jonah 4:2. repay the guilt. In many cases, both fathers and children have sinned in the same ways, so both suffer the consequences of their actions. See Ex. 20:5–6; Jer. 3:25; 14:20.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:20–23 God has revealed his characteristics (vv. 17–19) by his great acts, such as sending the plagues in Egypt, leading Israel in the exodus, giving Israel the Promised Land, and bearing with Israel until he allowed Babylon to invade.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:24 What you spoke has come to pass. All God's threats, beginning with 1:9–16, were fulfilled.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:25 Given the certain Babylonian victory, Jeremiah wonders why God directed him to buy land.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:26–27 God confirms Jeremiah's confession (v. 17). He is the Creator of all flesh, and nothing is too hard for him to accomplish.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:37 I will gather them. See 23:7–8; 29:10–14; 31:1–9.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:38 they shall be my people. See 24:7; 30:22; 31:33.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:39 one heart. United together to serve God (Ezek. 11:19; see Deut. 6:4–9; Jer. 4:4).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:40–41 everlasting covenant. See Isa. 55:3; Ezek. 16:60; 37:26; compare Jer. 31:31–40. God's covenant will not cease: he will do good to his people, place fear of him in their hearts, and plant them in this land. God will provide everything needed to keep the covenant. I will rejoice in doing them good. God keeps his promises with great delight.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:44 Just as Jeremiah has purchased land (vv. 1–15), others will do the same in future times.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:1 second time . . . in the court of the guard. See 32:1–2.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:2 God the Creator (10:16; 32:17), who formed and established the earth, makes the promises that follow. His word was as powerful in Jeremiah’s time as in Gen. 1:1–2:3. His promises cannot fail.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:3 hidden things. Future things that God will now reveal.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:5 God reveals that all current efforts to repel Babylon will fail. Because of Jerusalem’s evil deeds, God will fill it with dead bodies.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:6–8 God promises health and healing for Jerusalem’s “wounds”—its devastation, disgrace, and sin (30:16–17; see 33:7–8)—but first he will cleanse them from all the guilt of their sin.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:9 Jerusalem has become a warning for other nations (see 15:4; 24:9; 29:18), but in the future it will be a testimony to God’s goodness.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:10–11 voice of gladness. Jeremiah correctly prophesied that joy would cease when Jerusalem was made desolate (7:34; 16:9; 25:10). But now he prophesies that joy will be restored, with worship being the most important joy (30:19; Ps. 107:22; 136:1–26).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:15 Branch. The Davidic messianic offspring (see Isa. 4:2; Zech. 3:8; 6:12). execute justice and righteousness. A key role God and his Messiah will play (Isa. 9:7; 11:5; Jer. 23:5–6; see 22:3, 13, 15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:16 The Messiah’s coming will mean salvation for Judah and Jerusalem. The city will be so changed that it will be called: “The LORD is our righteousness,” the name given to the Messiah in 23:6.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:19–21 See 31:35–37. Like the new covenant, God’s covenant with David and Levi will endure forever. This does not contradict the NT teaching about a new covenant (31:31), for Christ fulfills the promise that one of David’s descendants will always reign over the house of Israel.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:22 Like Abraham’s descendants, the offspring of David will be too many to be counted (Gen. 15:1–6), for there will be many believers in the Messiah. They will share the Messiah’s inheritance (Rom. 8:17).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:1–45:5 God Judges Judah. Having declared Judah and Israel's current sins (chs. 2–29) and future renewal (chs. 30–33), Jeremiah now depicts Judah's final days. He does so while declaring God's faithfulness and Judah's infidelity (chs. 34–35), Judah's rejection of God's word (ch. 36), Judah's last days before Jerusalem's destruction (chs. 37–39), Judah's pointless rebellion against Babylon after the city's fall (chs. 40–41), and Judah's useless rebellion against God (chs. 42–45).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:1 This message came when Babylon's invasion was in full force (c. 587 B.C.).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:3–5 Zedekiah will lose the battle and his freedom. He will go to Babylon with many of his people (21:7). Second Kings 25:6–7 records the fulfillment of this prophecy. Zedekiah meets the king of Babylon eye to eye (in Riblah), his sons are slain, his eyes are put out, and he is led to Babylon. Nonetheless, God will allow Zedekiah to die in peace, for he is David's descendant (see Jer. 52:11).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:6–7 With only weeks remaining before Jerusalem's fall, Jeremiah speaks to Zedekiah again.

FACT

Burning of spices during funerals (34:5) served a number of purposes. If a burial was delayed, spices would mask any unpleasant odors. Since they were expensive, spices were also a way of displaying wealth and honoring the memory of the deceased.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:8–11 When Jerusalem feared that defeat was imminent, the people freed all Hebrew slaves, or bondservants, so they could fight, but afterward, when the threat subsided, they took away their freedom again.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:13 covenant with your fathers. The Mosaic covenant, which was based on God freeing Israel from the house of slavery (see Ex. 20:2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:14 Israelites could become indentured servants of other Israelites for a period of six years, but then were to be set free (Ex.

21:2; Deut. 15:12).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:15 repented. Of not obeying God's word on indentured persons. made a covenant. Performed a solemn covenant ceremony in the temple, setting the servants free.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:16 turned around. Repented of repenting. profaned my name. Invoked in the ceremony. took back. Enslaved again those who had been set free.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:17 Because the servants have not been set free, God sets the nation "free" to be consumed by sword, pestilence, and famine. See 14:1–12; 15:1–4; 29:17–18; 32:24.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:18–20 make them like the calf. Put the covenant breakers to death by the sword. passed between its parts. Covenant-ratification ceremonies (vv. 16–17) often included cutting a sacrifice in two and having the parties walk between the halves of the sacrifice (Gen. 15:7–17). Presumably the cutting of the sacrifice warned the parties of the consequences of breaking the covenant. Judah and its leaders have broken the covenant and must suffer the consequences of their actions.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:1 days of Jehoiakim. King 609–598 B.C.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:2 Rechabites. Nomadic tribe that originated with the Kenites (Judg. 4:11; 1 Sam. 15:6; 1 Chron. 2:55) and was associated with Jehu's coup in 842 B.C. (2 Kings 10:15–17).

FACT

The Lord commended the Rechabites for keeping the commandments of their founder (ch. 35), which included abstaining from wine and not building permanent houses. The Rechabites obeyed after being told only once, while the people of Judah continued to disobey the Lord after being warned many times.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:3–4 man of God. Synonym for "prophet" (1 Sam. 9:6; 1 Kings 12:22; 17:24).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:12–14 The Lord points out the stark contrast between the Rechabites, who have kept the command of Jonadab (see vv. 8–11), and his people Israel, who have not listened to him.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:15–16 God sent regular reminders of his covenant with Judah through the prophets (7:23–25; 25:3–4; 32:33), to no avail. The Rechabites needed be told only once to obey their ancestor.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:18–19 The Lord tells the Rechabites that because they have obeyed their own spiritual leader (vv. 8–10) they will stand before the God of Israel. "Stand before" is a synonym for serving God in his presence, often in the temple (see 7:10; 15:19).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:1 fourth year. Probably in 605 B.C., prior to Babylon controlling Judah (2 Kings 24:1) and also prior to Babylon taking captives from Judah (Dan. 1:1–4).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:4 Baruch (see 32:12–16) was Jeremiah's friend and fellow servant of God (36:32; 45:1–5). Jeremiah dictated the words for the scroll to Baruch.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:6 you are to go. Evidence of Baruch's commitment to God and his word. day of fasting. Usually called in times of emergency (see Joel 2:15–17), perhaps on the occasion of the Babylonian invasion of 605 B.C. (Jer. 36:1). read the words. As Jeremiah's representative, Baruch was to make a public proclamation of God's warning.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:23–24 The king and his servants show no regard for God's word. To them the scroll is merely fuel for the fire. To cut . . . off God's words with a knife and burn them showed foolish, proud disregard for a message from their all-powerful Creator and Judge.

BARUCH

Baruch, whose name means “blessed,” was Jeremiah’s friend, scribe, and disciple. Like Jeremiah, Baruch was a faithful servant of God. He helped Jeremiah purchase a field from one of the prophet’s relatives. The Lord would use this as a symbol of hope despite the disaster that was to befall Judah: since the field had been bought and paid for, they could be assured that, after the exile, some of the people would return to the land. Baruch also recorded Jeremiah’s prophecies on a scroll, and because Jeremiah had been barred from entering the temple, it was Baruch himself who read the words of the scroll. It was a warning from God to the nation of Judah. These prophecies angered the king so much that he burned the scroll. Baruch experienced serious persecution alongside Jeremiah. (Jeremiah 36:4–10)

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:29 Jehoiakim burned the scroll because he did not believe Babylon’s invasion would succeed (7:1–15; 26:9).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:30 Because of his disregard for God’s word, Jehoiakim will have no heir to succeed him and will not receive a respectable burial (22:18–19). This judgment is fulfilled in 37:1.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:1 Zedekiah. Reigned c. 597–586 B.C. Coniah. Another name for Jehoiachin, who reigned for only three months in 598–597 B.C. (2 Kings 24:8–9); also called Jeconiah (Jer. 24:1). He was removed in keeping with the prophecy in 36:30.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:2 A new ruler did not bring a new attitude toward God’s words.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:5–9 Egypt marched against Babylon c. 588 B.C., drawing the Babylonians away from Jerusalem. But God’s word for Zedekiah is that Babylon will come back. Believing anything else is self-deception.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:14 Despite Jeremiah’s denials and his long track record of truth-telling, Irijah detained him and brought him to the officials (26:10–24).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:15 enraged. At Jeremiah’s teaching and denial (36:29).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:16 dungeon cells. The phrase refers to either a cell in a cistern (see note on 38:6) or a vaulted room underground. Either option indicates a damp, unhealthy place.

FACT

The dungeon cells or cisterns in which Jeremiah was imprisoned (chs. 37–38) were most likely dark, damp rooms without enough room to stand up in. Cisterns were dug out of rock, had a small opening, and spread out at the bottom. Escape from such a place was virtually impossible.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:17 Desperate for good news (21:1–2), Zedekiah sends for Jeremiah, only to learn that God’s word remains one of judgment.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:1 Even after imprisonment, Jeremiah keeps speaking God’s truth. Jucal. Another name for Jehucal. See 37:3. Pashhur. See 21:1. All these officials were apparently pro-Egyptian in foreign policy matters.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:2–3 This is a summary of Jeremiah’s message concerning Jerusalem for all 10 years of Zedekiah’s reign. See 27:1–15.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:4 Unlike in 26:16–24, the officials think Jeremiah should die. They believe his words undermine the war effort. Ironically, though his advice is sound, they believe it will harm the people.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:5 Zedekiah gives Jeremiah to his opponents, but God has promised to protect his life (1:17–19).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:6 Unlike in 37:20–21, Jeremiah cannot avoid imprisonment in a cistern. Cisterns were dug out of rock, had a small opening, and spread out at the bottom. Escape from such a place was virtually impossible, so perhaps only notorious prisoners were put there (see Gen. 37:20, with ESV footnote). sank in the mud. A slow, filthy way to die.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:7 the Ethiopian. A foreigner who most likely was forced to serve Judah’s king. Benjamin Gate. See 37:13.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:8–9 Ebed-melech shows himself superior in character to the weak Zedekiah. He recognizes the injustice Jeremiah has suffered and his life-threatening circumstances (see 39:16–18).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:11–13 Ebed-melech continues to prove resourceful on Jeremiah's behalf.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:16 secretly. Zedekiah's promise had no public weight (37:17).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:19–20 Zedekiah feared displeasing people in Jerusalem (vv. 4–5) and feared being turned over to Judeans who had already surrendered to Babylon. But Jeremiah promises that obedience to God's word (27:1–15) will result in his survival.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:21–22 Refusal to obey carries dire consequences.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:23 Without obedience to God's word, Zedekiah, his family, and Jerusalem will all suffer terrible fates.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:24 Let no one know. Jeremiah's future seems to lie in Zedekiah's hands, but God has promised him protection (1:17–19; 38:5).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:28 the day that Jerusalem was taken. Babylon renewed the siege, as Jeremiah had promised (see 37:6–10). Babylon eventually triumphed.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:1 ninth year . . . tenth month. Perhaps December 589/January 588 B.C. Babylon . . . came against Jerusalem.

Babylon Attacks Judah

586 B.C.

The Babylonians had invaded Judah at least once before in 597 B.C., but in 586 Nebuchadnezzar completely destroyed the walls of Jerusalem and the temple as punishment for Zedekiah's rebellion. Zedekiah himself fled Jerusalem but was caught by the Babylonians near Jericho and sent to Riblah to face judgment.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:2 eleventh year . . . fourth month. Perhaps June/July 587 B.C. The siege lasted over two years.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:3 middle gate. Mentioned only here. Perhaps in the middle of the northern wall, since Babylon would likely have attacked from the north, the flattest terrain. The officials . . . sat in the gate as judges.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:4 Zedekiah now learns that Jeremiah was God's true prophet. king's garden. Most likely on the south side of Jerusalem. Arabah. A region extending from the Jordan River Valley to the area south of the Dead Sea.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:5 Zedekiah did not get far when he fled (v. 4). The plains of Jericho were perhaps as few as 14 miles (23 km) east of Jerusalem. Riblah. In Syria, 65 miles (105 km) north of Damascus. Nebuchadnezzar ruled his armies and pronounced judgment on enemies there.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:6–7 Nebuchadnezzar was harsher than Zedekiah feared his countrymen would be (38:19).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:9–10 The people who were left in the city and those who had deserted were taken to Babylon. Not every Judean was taken, for the poorest people, who owned nothing, were given what remained in Judea.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:11–12 do him no harm. God was still protecting Jeremiah (see 1:19).

FACT

Free vineyards. After they conquered Judah and shipped all the leading citizens to Babylon, the Babylonians gave vineyards to some of the poor Judeans who remained in the land (39:10). This would have made the people less likely to rebel and would allow them to resume farming after many years of war.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:13–14 Nebuchadnezzar's officials (v. 3) released Jeremiah from prison, which probably made some of the people think he was collaborating with the Babylonian king.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:15–16 Before Jerusalem fell, God sent a word concerning Ebed-melech, who had saved Jeremiah from the cistern (38:7–13).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:17 I will deliver you. This is the same promise that God gave Jeremiah at the outset of his ministry (1:19). on that day. God's day of judgment on Jerusalem (39:1–10).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 39:18 put your trust in me. Ebed-melech, an Ethiopian Gentile, had saving faith in God.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:1 Nebuzaradan. See 39:11–14. Ramah. Five miles (8 km) north of Jerusalem. along with all the captives. By some mistake (see 39:11–12), Jeremiah had been taken away with the exiles.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:2–5 Nebuzaradan recognizes the truth of Jeremiah's preaching about Jerusalem's fall. As Nebuchadnezzar ordered (39:11–12), Nebuzaradan offered Jeremiah a choice of where to live and put him under Gedaliah's protection.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:6 Mizpah. About 5–8 miles (8–13 km) north of Jerusalem (Judg. 20:1–3). lived with him. In the governor's house (Jer. 39:14).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:9 Perhaps Judah's surviving soldiers (vv. 7–8) wanted Gedaliah to lead a revolt. If so, they were disappointed. He gave them the same advice Jeremiah gave the exiles in 29:1–9.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 40:13–14 Apparently the former soldiers (vv. 7–9) appreciated Gedaliah. They warned him of a plot against his life involving Baalis the king of the Ammonites, and Ishmael, one of the "captains of the forces in the open country" (vv. 7–8), but he did not believe the rumors. The Ammonites opposed Babylon (27:3) and would therefore oppose Gedaliah.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:1 seventh month. October, most likely 587 B.C., though perhaps as late as 582 (see 52:30). The Feast of Booths took place in this month, and the pilgrims mentioned in 41:4–5 may have come for that festival.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:2 As Johanan had feared (40:13–16), Ishmael (see 40:13–16) did plan to kill Gedaliah. Killing a host was considered a cowardly act. Killing the man Nebuchadnezzar had appointed governor was foolish and dangerous.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:3 Ishmael killed all the Judeans who were with Gedaliah, thus carrying out a political massacre.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:4–5 eighty men. Probably pilgrims for the Feast of Booths.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:10 Ishmael took hostages.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:11–12 Johanan and other former soldiers (40:7–8, 13–16) pursued the treasonous Ishmael. The city of Gibeon was about 3 miles (4.8 km) southwest of Mizpah (see note on 40:6). Ishmael took an indirect route, perhaps to elude capture, but he did not get far.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 41:13–15 Johanan rescued the hostages and killed two of Ishmael's men, but Ishmael . . . escaped to Ammon.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:1–4 The leaders ask Jeremiah to seek God's will. They are desperate and devastated and claim to desire to know the thing that they should do.

FACT

The town of Geruth Chimham (41:17) may have been named after the Chimham mentioned in 2 Sam. 19:37–40 (see also "sons of Barzillai," 1 Kings 2:7), who apparently served King David in a time of great need. It was common for members of the royal court to be paid for their services in land rather than money.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:7–9 Jeremiah waits for God's word (see 28:11–12), and when it comes he summons the people. At the end of ten days. Though Jeremiah was a faithful and true prophet of God, he could not give prophecies whenever he wanted. He had to wait for the Lord to speak to him.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:10 Jeremiah delivers a word of promise: God has ceased bringing disaster. If the people stay in Judah, God will build and plant them, which are metaphors for renewal (1:10; 24:6; 31:28).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:11 with you, to save you and to deliver you. God gives the people the same promise he gave Jeremiah at his call (1:19; see also 39:17). Their lives will be as safe as Jeremiah's has been.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:13–17 Rejecting God's promise and fleeing to Egypt will result in Judah experiencing what they fear. Babylon will defeat Egypt; the exiles are safer in Judah.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:18 God's anger and wrath were warned about (4:4; 7:20; 21:5), then poured out (39:1–10).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 42:19–20 Jeremiah could hardly speak more plainly: to obey means life; to disobey means death.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:4–6 Johanan and company did not obey the voice of the LORD. Rather, they took to Egypt the captives they had rescued (41:11–18). They also took Jeremiah and Baruch (43:6) as hostages.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:7 Tahpanhes. In the eastern delta of Egypt. See 2:16.

FACT

Tahpanhes (43:7) was a fortified city in the eastern part of the Nile delta, near what is now the Suez Canal. Archaeologists have found a large building that may have served as a governor's residence. Since all such buildings would have belonged to the state, this may be "Pharaoh's palace" mentioned in v. 9.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:9–10 Jeremiah performs another symbolic act. Compare 13:1–14; 16:1–13; 19:1–15; 27:1–28:17; 32:1–15. This time he places large stones near one of Pharaoh's palaces and promises that God will place Nebuchadnezzar's throne on these stones.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:12 as a shepherd cleans his cloak of vermin. Nebuchadnezzar will pick off Egypt's cities as easily as a shepherd picks lice off his clothing.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 43:13 obelisks of Heliopolis. Sacred pillars in the temples of Heliopolis, about 5 miles (8 km) northeast of Cairo. Jeremiah highlights the gods’ powerlessness. See 10:1–16.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:1 The diversity of locations in Egypt emphasizes that the message that follows is for all the Judeans . . . in the land of Egypt. Clearly many Judean refugees had fled to Egypt.

Jeremiah Prophesies against Egypt

c. 586 B.C.

Many of the leading families who had been freed from Ishmael chose to flee to Egypt to escape the Babylonians' wrath over Gedaliah's murder. Though Jeremiah himself warned against this course of action, he apparently was forced to accompany the refugees to Tahpanhes in Egypt, where he delivered a prophecy against Egypt and all the Judeans who had fled there. Archaeological evidence has corroborated the influx of significant populations of Judean refugees during this time as far south as Elephantine (near Syene), at the first cataract of the Nile River.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:4–5 This disaster came upon Jerusalem because the people rejected God's servants the prophets and refused to turn from idolatry (25:4; 35:15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:8 Already the Judeans who have fled to Egypt (v. 1) have begun to worship the gods that their new nation serves.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:9–10 The people commit the same acts Jeremiah condemned in 7:16–20. Despite all they have endured, they continue to reject God's word revealed through Moses (9:13–14; 26:4–6).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:11–14 Babylon will complete its role as an instrument of God's wrath (27:1–15) against Judah's idolatrous remnant. Judah will become a warning to other peoples (18:16; 24:9; 29:18; 34:17).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:17–18 The refugees will continue to worship the queen of heaven, which most likely refers to Ishtar, the goddess of fertility. The whole nation (fathers, kings, officials) participated in the cult (see 7:18).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:21–23 Jeremiah argues that Judah's participation in idolatry led to their defeat. God remembered what they did, and he acted accordingly.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:26 These Judeans have reversed salvation history by returning to Egypt and her gods. So, God will take back the name he revealed to Moses (Ex. 3:14; 6:2–3) and the saving, covenantal presence his name symbolizes.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 44:29–30 God offers the people a sign: when Egypt's current king dies, they will know that God has spoken truly. Hophra ruled Egypt c. 589–570 B.C. He supported Zedekiah against Babylon (37:5), so he was probably a special favorite of the Judeans. hand of his enemies. Domestic enemies overthrew Hophra in 570 B.C. and killed him three years later.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 45:1 fourth year of Jehoiakim. About 605 B.C. See 36:1.

FACT

Pharaoh Hophra had a tumultuous nineteen-year reign. To the northeast he faced the Babylonians as they invaded Israel; to the west, the armies of Greece were invading Libya. He sent an army to Jerusalem to assist the Israelites but they were defeated, as were his forces in Libya. His own general overthrew him in 570 B.C., and he was killed in battle three years later, thus fulfilling Jeremiah's prophesy (44:30).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 45:3 Baruch felt the effects of sharing Jeremiah's ministry and persecution (36:19; 43:3, 6). the LORD has added sorrow. Baruch felt that God was unjust, and he viewed the great events of the day as difficulties for him.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 45:4 God states that he has lost much more than Baruch has.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 45:5 Apparently Baruch hoped for great personal success, not pain and suffering. Seek them not. Fame and ease are not available. I am bringing disaster upon all flesh. Not just on Judah, but on Egypt (44:29–30; 46:1–28) and many other nations (chs. 47–51). give you your life. See 1:17–19 and 39:15–18.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:1–51:64 God's Judgment on the Nations. Jeremiah has already declared God's sovereignty over the nations (27:1–15). Here he describes God's coming judgment on Egypt (ch. 46), Philistia (ch. 47), Moab (ch. 48), Ammon (49:1–6), Edom (49:7–22), Damascus (49:23–33), the ends of the earth (49:34–39), and Babylon (chs. 50–51).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:1 This introduces chs. 46–51. The word of the LORD . . . concerning the nations. God is not the God of the Jews only, but is Lord of all the earth. In chs. 46–51 his words show that he holds all nations and all people accountable for their actions (see notes on Mark 6:18; Acts 17:31; Rom. 2:14–16).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:2 At Carchemish, Babylon defeated Egypt, taking full control of the region. fourth year of Jehoiakim. 605 B.C. (25:1; 36:1; 45:1). Jehoiakim had been placed in power by Egypt (2 Kings 23:34). When Babylon defeated Egypt, Jehoiakim switched sides, yet only after Nebuchadnezzar attacked Judah (2 Kings 24:1; Dan. 1:1).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:10 day of the Lord. The day that GOD judges Egypt by sending Babylon against them. See The Day of the Lord in the Prophets. holds a sacrifice. Egypt's army is the sacrifice (Isa. 34:1–7; Zeph. 1:7–9).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:11 Gilead. On the eastern side of the Jordan River. balm. Soothing substance placed in wounds (8:22; Gen. 37:25). many medicines. A metaphor for strategy. Healing refers to aid from another country.

FACT

The balm of Gilead (46:11) was an ointment used to treat wounds. It was probably made from the sap of a tree.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:15–16 God causes Egypt's defeat. Babylon remains God's instrument for punishing idolatry (27:1–15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:18 the King. God rules the heavens and the earth (Ps. 103:19). hosts. Armies. Tabor . . . Carmel. Nebuchadnezzar shall tower over Egypt like these two mountains.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:19 Memphis was the capital of Egypt.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:25 Israel's God commands armies (hosts), and he sends these armies against Egypt and her gods and her kings. Amon was the chief god of Thebes, the capital of Upper (southern) Egypt. Babylon's conquest will include Egypt's southern regions.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:26 Despite the devastation, Egypt will endure. God will leave Egypt with a remnant, one that will turn to him (Isa. 19:19–25).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 46:27–28 fear not. See 30:10–11 and Isa. 41:8–10. This promise of renewal includes Israel, not just Judah.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 47:2 Babylon invades Gaza like flood waters that overflow the land and all that fills it.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 47:4 because of the day. This day of loss is a day of God's judgment (46:10). Tyre and Sidon. These Phoenician cities were likely Gaza's allies. Coastal cities were often the last places to fall in land-dominated wars.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 47:5 Baldness means either that Gaza's citizens shaved their heads as part of a mourning ritual (see Isa. 22:12; Amos 8:10) or that the land was shaved clean of inhabitants and cities. gash yourselves. Either as a sign of mourning (Jer. 41:5) or when praying to one's gods (1 Kings 18:28).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 47:6–7 God's punishing sword (12:12) will not rest until it completes its work against Ashkelon (47:1) and the seashore.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:1 The location of Nebo is uncertain; perhaps it was near Mount Nebo, 12 miles (19 km) east of the northernmost point of the Dead Sea. Kiriathaim was probably near Nebo. fortress. One or both of the cities were fortresses that could house refugees from the countryside. When such places fell, defeat was total.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:2 Heshbon was northeast of Mount Nebo.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:3 Horonaim. Location uncertain, perhaps in southwest Moab. If so, cities from north (vv. 1–2) to south have suffered in the invasion.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:5 ascent of Luhith. Perhaps in southern Moab on the way to Zoar. See Isa. 15:5. descent of Horonaim. Location unknown, but perhaps farther south than Luhith. See Isa. 15:5. The contrast between ascent and descent means the cry of destruction has reached the heights and depths of Moab.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:7 Chemosh was Moab's national deity. Human sacrifice was part of Moab's rituals for Chemosh (2 Kings 3:27). shall go into exile. Images of a defeated nation's gods were often taken to the temples of the victorious nation (1 Sam. 5:1–12; Isa. 46:1–2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:8 destroyer. Babylon. Nebuchadnezzar defeated Moab c. 582 B.C. Every city and region, valley and plain was devastated.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:10 Babylon will do its work as God's instrument of judgment (27:1–15) with urgency, not laziness.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:11 Moab has survived many previous invasions (v. 9). Thus, Moab has become complacent and settled on his dregs (Zeph. 1:12), like wine allowed to age. Moab produced wine (Isa. 16:8–11), so the comparison is appropriate.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:12 pour him . . . break his jars. Babylon will empty Moab like one pours wine from a jar. It will smash Moab like one smashes and disposes of old jars (13:12–14; 19:1–15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:13 ashamed of Chemosh. Because this god cannot save (10:1–25). ashamed of Bethel. At Bethel, Jeroboam I established one of his chief high places in his new religion (1 Kings 12:25–33). Worship there was part of the reason God judged Israel (2 Kings 17:9).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:15 See 46:18. The Lord is the King of all nations. Even Babylon must obey him (see 27:1–15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:16 near at hand. See v. 8. Moab had only a few years to change its ways.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:20 The fleeing ones explain that Moab is broken (v. 12). The Arnon is a river just south of Aroer (v. 19).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:21–24 All of Moab's cities are lost in this judgment time.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:26 drunk. By drinking the cup of God's wrath (25:15–26). wallow in his vomit. See 25:27.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:29–30 the pride of Moab. See Isa. 16:6.

FACT

Doves are known for hiding their nests in high cliffs and other places difficult to reach (48:28).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:31 Compare Isa. 16:7, 11. God mourns over the necessity of judging Moab.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:33 The shout of joy heard when new wine is made will be replaced by the shouts of warriors (25:30–31). See Isa. 16:8–10.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:35 God's judgment will bring Moab's idolatry to an end (see Isa. 15:2, 5).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:36 my heart moans. God mourns that Moab's people will lose the possessions they spent a lifetime collecting. Though God in his justice brings righteous judgment against sinners and takes delight in the purity and holiness of his judgment, he also feels sorrow at the destruction that the judgment brings upon human beings created in his image (see Ezek. 18:32; 33:11; Matt. 23:37; Luke 19:41).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:40 spread his wings against. Babylon will swoop down on Moab like a bird capturing prey (see 49:22; Lam. 4:19; Ezek. 17:3–8).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:42 Moab . . . magnified itself against the LORD by failing to accept God's word concerning Babylon's role as a divine instrument of judgment. See 27:1–15.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:43–44 Moab will be hunted down and captured like animals. See Isa. 24:17–18; Lam. 3:52–55; Amos 5:18–20.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:45 house of Sihon. See Num. 21:21. forehead . . . crown. Probably refers to Moab's northern regions.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 48:47 God makes the same promise of restoration to Moab that he did to Judah in 29:14. The latter days most likely refers to a time when Moabites will take refuge in the Messiah (see 49:6, 39; Isa. 16:3–5).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:1 Ammonites. People living north of Moab. Their capital was Rabbah, present-day Amman, Jordan. During Jehoiakim's reign they raided Judah (2 Kings 24:2), and they conspired with Judah and others against Babylon during Zedekiah's reign (Jer. 27:3). Milcom. Or Molech, Ammon's chief god (1 Kings 11:5, 7). Milcom means "their king." dispossessed Gad. In the aftermath of the Assyrian invasion of 734–732 B.C., Ammon occupied some territory belonging to the Israelite tribe Gad.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:2 Israel shall dispossess. Israel will retake the cities lost in 734–732 B.C. (v. 1).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:3 Heshbon. See 48:2. Ai. Location unknown; not the Ai of Josh. 7:1–9. Rabbah. See note on Jer. 49:1. Milcom shall go into exile. See 48:7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:5 I will bring terror. God is sovereign over all nations; he will send an invader. every man straight before him. The Ammonites will flee by the quickest route possible. Nebuchadnezzar defeated Ammon c. 582 B.C.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:6 God will restore Ammon's fortunes, just as he will for Israel and Moab. See 29:14 and 48:47.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:7 Edom. Descendants of Esau (Gen. 36:1–19) who lived south of the Dead Sea toward the Gulf of Aqaba. Obadiah 10–14 indicates that Edom benefited from Jerusalem's fall. wisdom . . . in Teman. Teman was in northern Edom. Obadiah 8 indicates Edom was famous for its wise men; they will soon vanish.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:8 Dedan. A site southeast of Edom.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:11–12 God may protect Edom's fatherless children and widows, but the nation as a whole will drink the cup of destruction (25:28–29; Lam. 4:21).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:13 Bozrah. Capital of Edom, 25 miles (40 km) southeast of the Dead Sea. Like Jerusalem (15:4; 24:9), Bozrah shall become a horror to other nations.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:23 Damascus. See Isa. 17:1–6 and Amos 1:3–5. The chief Aramean city, home to kings Ben-hadad (1 Kings 20) and Hazael (2 Kings 8:7–15). Assyria dominated Damascus from 732 to 609 B.C., and Babylon did so after 605. Hamath and Arpad. Hamath was 115 miles (185 km) north of Damascus, and Arpad was 95 miles (153 km) north of Hamath. heard bad news. About Damascus, from a great distance.

FACT

The jungle of the Jordan was the bottommost region of the Jordan Valley. Filled with dense thickets and lush plant life, it provided an ideal hunting ground for animals such as lions (49:19; compare 12:5).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:24 Damascus's distress is so great she is too terrified to flee. She is like a woman in labor. See 4:31 and 48:41.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:28 Kedar. A significant Arab clan (2:10; Isa. 21:16–17). Kedar engaged in sheep breeding (Isa. 60:7) and traded with Phoenicia (Ezek. 27:21). kingdoms of Hazor. Probably a term designating several nomadic tribes in northern Arabia (Ps. 120:5; Isa. 42:11).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:30 plan . . . purpose. See v. 20. God devises plans that Nebuchadnezzar puts into practice (27:1–15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:34 Elam. East of Babylon in the lower Tigris River Valley. Conquered by Assyria in 640 B.C. beginning of the reign of Zedekiah. c. 597 B.C.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:36–38 God will send invaders against Elam and destroy it. set my throne. Most likely the throne of Nebuchadnezzar (27:1–15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 49:39 For the same promise to other nations, see 33:26; 49:6; and note on 48:47. These verses predict a future salvation for Gentiles.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:1–2 Babylon is taken. Persia conquered Babylon in 539 B.C. (Isa. 13:1–14:23; 21:9). Bel was the title ("Lord") of the chief god of Babylon, depicted as a storm god and source of life (Isa. 46:1). Merodach (Babylonian "Marduk") was the personal name of this god.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:3 In Jeremiah, trouble comes from the north (1:14). Like Judah's cities (4:27; 10:22; 25:18; etc.), Babylon shall become a desolation (Isa. 13:9).

FACT

How Babylon fell. Cyrus captured the well-fortified city of Babylon using a simple but clever plan. The Euphrates River ran directly through the city, and there were spiked gates where it entered and exited. Cyrus's army dug canals upstream to divert the flow of the river. With the water level lowered, his soldiers slipped under the spiked gates and took the city during the night.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:4–5 When Babylon falls, Israel and Judah shall join together (3:6–18) to seek the LORD their God (31:9). everlasting covenant. The new covenant (32:40; see 31:31–40).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:6 From mountain to hill they have gone. Probably for fertility cult worship (2:20).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:7 Because their leaders ("shepherds," v. 6) have led them astray and then forsaken them, Israel and Judah have been devoured by their foes, all of whom God has sent (27:1–15). their habitation of righteousness. God is his people's only security (31:23) and only righteousness (23:6). the hope of their fathers. He is the covenant God of Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, David, and their offspring (33:26).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:11–13 Babylon once rejoiced over its destruction of Judah, God's heritage, like a calf frolicking or a stallion snorting. Soon Babylon will be ashamed and become an utter desolation (see v. 2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:14–15 Just as Judah and Israel faced defeat because they sinned against the LORD, the same will happen to Babylon for the same reason. Babylon's defeat is the vengeance of the LORD for all her oppressive ways.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:18 Just as God used Babylon to punish Assyria (c. 612–609 B.C.), so God will use Persia to punish Babylon (539).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:20 When God restores his people, no sin will be found in them, not because they have never sinned, but because he will pardon them (31:34) and purify their hearts (see Rev. 21:27).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:24 you did not know it. The defeat surprised Babylon. opposed the LORD. In part by crediting its success to its own power and its own gods (Isa. 10:5–19), but more significantly by not worshiping and serving the one true God.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:25 The armies that defeat Babylon carry the weapons of God's wrath (v. 9; Isa. 13:1–5).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:26 Babylon's dead will be piled up like heaps of grain pouring out of granaries. devote her to destruction. See note on 25:8–9.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:27 bulls. A technical term for choice young bulls, probably referring to Babylon's soldiers (Isa. 34:6–7). go down to the slaughter. A picture of defeat in battle (Jer. 48:15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:30 See 49:26. on that day. God's day of judging Babylon.

FACT

Babylon was conquered in one night, while the king feasted in pride, using the golden vessels stolen from the temple (Daniel 5). Jeremiah sees this as the Lord taking vengeance for his temple (Jer. 50:28; 51:11).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:31 O proud one. As was true of Assyria (Isa. 10:5–34), Babylon's pride was the cause of its downfall.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:32 none to raise him up. No ally will be able to deliver Babylon on the day of punishment.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:33 held them fast. Part of Babylon's sin against God was its oppression of Israelite and Judean captives. Once held, they were never released. Babylon was like the pharaoh of the exodus (Ex. 5:2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:34 Redeemer. A kinsman who avenged, protected, secured release, and retained property for a relative (Lev. 25:23–34, 47–55). plead their cause. Act as Israel's advocate in a legal case. rest to the earth.

From Babylon’s oppressive ways. unrest to . . . Babylon. Literally, “shake” Babylon with war and destruction.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:37 foreign troops. Paid foreign solders. that they may become women! That is, weak in terms of physical strength in combat. It was shameful for a nation to allow women to fight in war. See note on Nah. 3:12–13.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:38 Babylon’s idols will not be able to help when God dries up the nation’s waters.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 50:39–40 See Isa. 13:19–22. These verses paint a picture of defeat and desolation.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:1 Leb-kamai is a code name for Chaldea (Babylon; see ESV footnote). It may simply refer to Babylon as God’s enemy because the nation opposed God (50:24).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:2 Just as God winnowed Judah (15:7), so he will winnow Babylon . . . on the day of trouble (see 2:28).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:5 Despite all the judgments that God has sent on Judah and Israel, he has not . . . forsaken them, for he will unite them (3:6–18) and give them a new covenant (31:31–40).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:7 golden cup. A metaphor for Babylon’s wealth (v. 13) and role as God’s instrument of judgment (25:15–26).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:9 We. Perhaps Babylon’s allies. would have healed Babylon. Would have come to her aid, but such attempts would be pointless because her sins have reached up to heaven, where God sees and judges.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:11 Medes. See Isa. 13:17–18. Cyrus incorporated the Medes into the Persian Empire in 550 B.C. vengeance for his temple. See Jer. 50:28.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:12 standard. Signal. See 4:6 and Isa. 13:2. watchmen. Persons charged with making certain that Babylon has not figured out the invader's plan. ambushes. Intended to catch Babylon unaware as soldiers leave the city.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:14 sworn by himself. The highest name and authority (Isa. 45:23; 62:8; Amos 6:8; Heb. 6:13).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:15–19 Stated also in 10:12–16. God alone created and rules the earth. Israel forgot this and was judged; Babylon has ignored this and will be judged (Dan. 5:13–30).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:20–23 In the past Babylon was God's hammer, or instrument of judgment (50:23). Now a new nation will play that role as Babylon becomes like the nations it defeated.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:25 As in Dan. 2:35, 44–45, Babylon is compared to a great mountain that once destroyed others but will now be destroyed. A volcano may be the basis for the metaphor, but the exact meaning is uncertain.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:31–32 Several messengers tell Babylon's king the same news: the city is surrounded, the water escape routes are cut off, and the places of hiding (marshes) have been torched. No wonder the soldiers are in panic.

FACT

The Ashkenaz (51:27) were also known as the Scythians. They were nomads famed for their horseback-riding abilities. Most Scythians lived north of the Black Sea but some migrated as far away as northern Iran. It is believed that Attila the Hun was a direct descendant of the Scythians.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:34–35 like a monster. Though Nebuchadnezzar was sent by God against Jerusalem (27:1–15), he was unnecessarily violent and brutal in how he treated Judah (50:17–18; 51:11, 24).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:36 plead your cause. See 50:33–34. dry up her sea. Cut off her fertility. See 51:13.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:44 Bel. See note on 50:1–2. what he has swallowed. Babylon believed that its god gave its victories, but he has no power to help in its time of need. wall. The tops of Babylon's walls were wide enough for several chariots to travel side by side.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:48 All of creation will sing for joy when Babylon, the great destroyer, falls.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:49 Babylon made other nations drink the cup of God's wrath (25:15–25), and soon Babylon will drink the same cup (25:26).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:50 Remember the LORD. Israel must recall and renew its covenant with God (2:2–3; 31:31–40). The Israelites should let Jerusalem enter their thoughts and draw them home.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:57 make drunk. See 25:15–29; 51:38–40. the King. God, not human monarchs like Nebuchadnezzar, rules the universe (46:18).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:58 broad wall of Babylon. See note on v. 44. high gates. Babylon's walls and gates were for defensive purposes, but they could not protect her in the end (v. 53). peoples labor for nothing. Humans work hard to build great cities to make names for themselves, but God rules history (45:1–5; Hab. 2:12–14).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:59 Seraiah the son of Neriah. Probably Baruch's brother (32:12). went with Zedekiah. Apparently Zedekiah was summoned to Babylon to explain his questionable behavior (27:1–15). fourth year. 594–593 B.C. quartermaster. Responsible for the king's travel arrangements.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:60–62 Jeremiah wrote in a book all these words concerning Babylon (most likely 50:2–51:58). read all these words. Apparently Seraiah was sent to deliver this message, as Baruch was sent in 36:1–8.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 51:63–64 Jeremiah's final symbolic act (see 13:1–14; 16:1–9; 19:1–15; etc.) fulfills his initial call to be a prophet to the nations (1:5). Thus far are the words of Jeremiah indicates Jeremiah's last words either in the whole book or in the scroll composed in 594–593 B.C.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:1–34 Conclusion: The Fall of Jerusalem. The book ends by describing Jerusalem's fall and Zedekiah's blinding (vv. 1–11), the destruction of the temple (vv. 12–23), the exiling of the people (vv. 24–30), and the continuation of the Davidic lineage (vv. 31–34). There are parallels with Jeremiah 39 and 2 Kings 24–25.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:1 Zedekiah ruled c. 597–586 B.C. Nebuchadnezzar placed him in power to replace Jehoiachin, Zedekiah's nephew (2 Kings 24:17). Jeremiah of Libnah. Otherwise unknown. Jeremiah the prophet, this Jeremiah, and one other person (Jer. 35:3) have the same name.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:4–6 Nebuchadnezzar punished Zedekiah's rebellion (v. 3) by laying siege to Jerusalem (39:1–2). Because the siege lasted over a year and because of famine in the land (15:1–4), the city could hold out no longer.

Sieges were designed with one purpose in mind: to get the citizens of a city to give up without a fight. By surrounding a city, an invader could cut off not only a city's food and water supply but also any means of escape. Once this was done, it was only a matter of time before thirst and hunger set in.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:12 fifth month. One month after the breach in the city walls (v. 6) Nebuzaradan (39:9–10), Nebuchadnezzar's representative, entered Jerusalem to complete its destruction.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:14 The Chaldean army . . . broke down all the walls, leaving the city defenseless. Nehemiah began rebuilding the walls c. 445 B.C. (Neh. 2:11–3:32).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:24 The temple's chief leaders were taken into exile.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:25 Nebuzaradan also exiled several civic leaders. sixty men of the people of the land. Most likely leaders of various parts of Judah who took refuge in Jerusalem during the invasion.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:28–30 Nebuchadnezzar took captives from Judah in stages. Many people had fled to other nations (44:1, 8), and many were left in the land (ch. 40). The seventh year was c. 597 B.C., when Nebuchadnezzar replaced Jehoiachin with Zedekiah (2 Kings 24:17).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:31 the exile of Jehoiachin. See vv. 1, 29; 2 Kings 24:17. Evil-merodach. Nebuchadnezzar's successor, who reigned c. 562–560 B.C. Perhaps to show his goodwill, he treated Jehoiachin with favor.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 52:32–34 Whatever Evil-merodach's motives, Jehoiachin was treated well as long as he lived. David's descendants, like the rest of the people, waited in exile for the 70 years to end (25:12; 29:1–14).

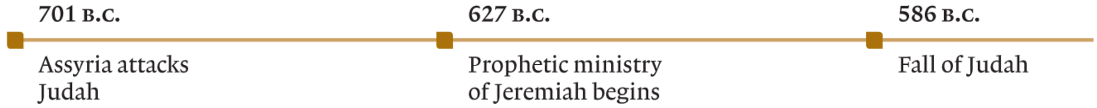
Introduction to Lamentations

Introduction to Lamentations

Timeline



Author and Date

The author of this literary masterpiece is unknown. Lamentations provides eyewitness testimony of Babylon’s destruction of Jerusalem in 586 B.C. in vivid, poetic detail. It was likely written between 586 and 516 B.C., with an early date being more probable.

Theme

The key passage in Lamentations is 3:19–24, which affirms that belief in God’s mercy and faithfulness is the key to a restored relationship with God. Forgiveness is possible even for people who have deserved God’s judgment (1:18). Hope, not despair, is the central theme in Lamentations.

Purpose

Lamentations was most likely written to be prayed or sung in worship services devoted to asking God’s forgiveness. Such services began as early as the months after the temple’s destruction in 586 B.C. (Jer. 41:4–5). They continued after the temple was rebuilt during Zechariah’s time (c. 520 B.C.; see Zech. 7:3–5; 8:19). In later years, Lamentations was read and sung as part of annual observances marking the temple’s destruction.

Key Themes

Lamentations presents many key theological realities from an important era in Israel's history:

1. It includes memorable prayers that confess sin, express renewed hope, and declare total dependence on God's grace.
2. It is the only book in the Bible written by a person who actually lived through the divine judgment the Bible often refers to as "the day of the Lord" (see Joel 2:1–2; Amos 5:18; Zeph. 1:14–16).
3. It provides great insight into the nature of pain, sin, and redemption.
4. Like so many other OT passages, Lamentations teaches that Jerusalem fell:

a. because of the people's sins (1:18);
b. because they rejected God's word sent through the prophets (2:8, 14, 17);
c. because their leaders led them astray (4:13).

1. It affirms God's never-ceasing mercy (3:19–24; compare Deut. 30:1–10). Readers can know that God never gives up on his people, even when they sin greatly.
2. Lamentations agrees with the Psalms that prayer is the way to restore a broken relationship with God. It also shares the Psalms' emphasis on God's sovereignty (see Ps. 103:19).
3. Like many of the prophets, Lamentations warns of the "day of the Lord." This is the day when God judges sin. That day has already occurred in historical events like the destruction of Jerusalem in 586 B.C. It will occur again at the end of time as the final "day of the Lord." People need to take seriously the warnings about such days of judgment.

The Global Message of Lamentations

Jewish tradition tells us that Lamentations was written by Jeremiah, though no author is identified in the book itself. Regardless of who wrote it, the historical events of Lamentations overlap significantly with those of Jeremiah. The key event in Lamentations, as in Jeremiah, is the capture and destruction of Jerusalem by Babylon in 586 B.C.

The Catastrophe in Lamentations

Such a disaster in the life of God's people cannot be overestimated. The author of Lamentations recounts some horrific circumstances taking place in Jerusalem as the city starves, yet the greatest disaster is the apparent failure of God's covenant with Israel. The entire Old Testament has been gradually working toward the fulfillment of the promises made to Abraham in Genesis 12:1–3—promises of blessing, descendants, and land. With the destruction of Jerusalem and the exile of the people to Babylon, the third of these—the promise of land—appears to have failed. And not only are God's people failing to enjoy promises made to them, but they are also now failing to be a light to the nations. Instead of bringing God's saving purposes to the world, they are being conquered by a godless nation.

The Hope in Lamentations

Lamentations points to the people's sins as a reason Jerusalem is falling (Lam. 1:18), as well as leaders who have failed (4:13) and people who have refused to follow their leaders. Even in the midst of this low point in Israel's history, however, hope remains. At the climax of the book, God's covenant faithfulness is affirmed and celebrated. "The steadfast love of the LORD never ceases" (3:22). God "will have compassion according to the abundance of his steadfast love" (3:32).

This steadfast love is expressed ultimately in the coming of Christ, the great hope of Old and New Testament believers alike. Those who trust in the Lord can know, when facing adversity, that they will never be forsaken by their Father, because Jesus hung on the cross and cried out in lamentation and was forsaken by his Father. We can know that God has not "utterly rejected us" (Lam. 5:22) because God's own Son was rejected in our place. And one day, because of Christ's restorative work, the city that was destroyed 2,500 years ago will come down out of heaven, restored and remade, in glory and beauty (Rev. 21:2, 10–11).

Universal Themes in Lamentations

The reality of pain. Lamentations has much to say about pain. God seems to be absent, and his promises seem to be forgotten (Lam. 1:12; 2:1). Indeed, God himself is inflicting this pain upon his own people (2:1–8; 3:32). Women are being raped (5:11) and are even boiling and eating their own children (2:20; 4:10). The cause of all this pain is unmistakably clear: the people have sinned (1:5, 8, 14). They "have been very rebellious" (1:20). Yet while Lamentations speaks of pain resulting from a very specific historical event, the dismay and despair that resound through its pages are universal experiences in this fallen world, right up to the present time. Indeed, God's own people often suffer greatly due to their loyalty to Christ (Matt. 10:16–25; Acts 14:22; 2 Tim. 3:12).

The certainty of God's mercy. Just as pain is a global and ever-present experience, however, so too is God's mercy for those who trust him through Christ. Although it recounts suffering as bluntly and awfully as anywhere in the Bible, the high point of Lamentations is its spelling out of a steady trust that "the LORD is good to those who wait for him" (Lam. 3:25), for "the steadfast love of the LORD never ceases; his mercies never come to an end" (3:22). As surely as judgment awaits the faithless, mercy awaits the faithful—those who look to God, waiting on him, trusting in his Son, and yielding themselves to him.

The importance of godly leadership. As in the book of Jeremiah, so in Lamentations we see that it is those who were called to lead God's people who are largely responsible for misleading them. We read that it was "the sins of her prophets and the iniquities of her priests" (Lam. 4:13) that resulted in the Lord giving vent to his wrath and pouring out his anger on Jerusalem (4:11). In Lamentations as well as around the world and down through time, as the leaders of a people go, so go the people. As we learn from the judges and kings of Israel earlier in the Old Testament, wicked leadership breeds corporate wickedness, while godly leadership breeds corporate godliness.

The Global Message of Lamentations for Today

The central message of Lamentations for the church today around the world is that of God’s sustaining grace in the midst of suffering. One thinks of global poverty and mismanagement of wealth, various kinds of assault on the dignity of the human individual, and conflict at the level of the family all the way up to international conflict. Persecution, too, is as widespread and as volatile as ever it was before. More than 200 million people in over 60 nations today are socially sidelined and denied various human rights due to their loyalty to Christ.

Mere words of encouragement are not enough in the face of such difficulty. Much better is social and political advocacy and solidarity, even as we “weep with those who weep” (Rom. 12:15). Beneath all such activity, however, stands the greatest hope of all: God’s unfailing, unstoppable mercy toward his beloved people. The Lord himself sovereignly oversees all that his children go through, yet “he does not afflict from his heart or grieve the children of men” (Lam. 3:33). “For the Lord will not cast off forever, but, though he cause grief, he will have compassion according to the abundance of his steadfast love” (3:31–32).

God draws near to his suffering saints. Indeed, in Jesus Christ, God has drawn closer to us than could have been imagined—he has become one of us, sharing in all that we suffer in this fallen world (Heb. 2:14–18; 4:14–16). Remembering him and his cross, and the glory into which he entered and into which we too shall enter (Rom. 8:17), we trustingly submit to him and his fatherly governance of our lives and the lives of our brothers and sisters around the world today.

How Lonely Sits the City

LAMENTATIONS 1 [†] [a]How lonely sits the city that was full of people!
How like [b]a widow has she become,
she who was great among the nations!
She who was [c]a princess among the provinces has become [d]a slave.

2 [†] [e]She weeps bitterly in the night,
with tears on her cheeks;
[f]among all her lovers
she has [g]none to comfort her;
[h]all her friends have dealt treacherously with her;
they have become her enemies.

3 [†] [i]Judah has gone into exile because of affliction and hard servitude;
[j]she dwells now among the nations,
[k]but finds no resting place;
her pursuers have all overtaken her in the midst of her distress. [1]

4 [†] The roads to Zion mourn, for none come to [l]the festival;
[m]all her gates are desolate;
her priests [n]groan;
her virgins have been afflicted, [2]
and she herself suffers bitterly.

5 [†] [o]Her foes have become the head;
her [p]enemies prosper,
because [q]the LORD has afflicted her [r]for the multitude of her transgressions;

[s] her children have gone away, captives before the foe.

6 From the daughter of Zion
all her majesty has departed.
Her princes have become like deer [t] that find no pasture;
they fled without strength before the pursuer.

7[†] Jerusalem remembers
in the days of her affliction and wandering [u] all the precious things that were hers from [v] days of old.
When her people fell into the hand of the foe,
and there was none to help her,
her foes gloated over her;
they [w] mocked at her downfall.

8[†] [x] Jerusalem sinned grievously;
therefore she became filthy;
all who honored her despise her, [y] for they have seen her nakedness;
she herself [z] groans and turns her face away.

9[†] Her uncleanness was [a] in her skirts;
[b] she took no thought of her future; [3] therefore her fall is terrible;
[c] she has no comforter.
“O LORD, behold my affliction, for the enemy has [d] triumphed!”

10 The enemy has stretched out his hands over all her [e] precious things; for she has seen [f] the nations

enter her sanctuary, those whom you [g] forbade to enter your congregation.

11 All her people [z] groan
as [h] they search for bread;
they trade their [e] treasures for [i] food
to revive their strength.
“Look, O LORD, and see,
for I am despised.”

12 “Is it nothing to you, all [j] you who pass by?
[k] Look and see if there is any sorrow like my sorrow, which was brought upon me, which [l] the LORD inflicted on [m] the day of his fierce anger.

13 [†] “From on high he [n] sent fire;
into my bones [4] he made it descend;
[o] he spread a net for my feet;
he turned me back;
[p] he has left me stunned,
faint all the day long.

14 “My transgressions were bound [5] into [q] a yoke;
by his hand they were fastened together;
they were set upon my neck;
he caused my strength to fail;
the Lord gave me into the hands of those whom I cannot withstand.

15 “The Lord rejected
all my mighty men in my midst;
he summoned an assembly against me
to crush my young men;

[r] the Lord has trodden as in a winepress
the virgin daughter of Judah.

16 “For these things [s] I weep;
my eyes flow with tears;
for [t] a comforter is far from me,
one to [u] revive my spirit;
my children are desolate,
for the enemy has prevailed.”

17 [v] Zion stretches out her hands, but [t] there is none to comfort her;
the LORD has commanded against Jacob that his neighbors should be his foes; Jerusalem has become a filthy thing among them.

18[†] [w] “The LORD is in the right, [x] for I have rebelled against his word;
but hear, all you peoples,
and see my suffering;
[y] my young women and my young men have gone into captivity.

19 “I called to [z] my lovers, but they deceived me;
my priests and elders perished in the city, while [a] they sought food
to revive their strength.

20 “Look, O LORD, for I am in distress; [b] my stomach churns;
my heart is wrung within me,
because I have been very rebellious.
[c] In the street the sword bereaves;

in the house it is like death.

21[†] “They heard [6] [d] my groaning, yet [e] there is no one to comfort me.
All my enemies have heard of my trouble;
[f] they are glad that you have done it.
You have brought [7] the day you announced;
[f] now let them be as I am.

22 [g] “Let all their evildoing come before you,
and deal with them
as [h] you have dealt with me because of all my transgressions;
for [d] my groans are many,
and [i] my heart is faint.”

The Lord Has Destroyed Without Pity

LAMENTATIONS 2 [†] How the Lord in his anger has set the daughter of Zion [j] under a cloud!
[k] He has cast down from heaven to earth
the splendor of Israel;
he has not remembered [l] his footstool in the day of his anger.

2 The Lord [m] has swallowed up [n] without mercy
all the habitations of Jacob;
in his wrath [o] he has broken down
the strongholds of the daughter of Judah;
he has brought [p] down to the ground [p] in dishonor
the kingdom [q] and its rulers.

3[†] He has cut down in [r] fierce anger
all [s] the might of Israel; [t] he has withdrawn from them his right hand in the face of the enemy;

[u] he has burned like a flaming fire in Jacob, consuming all around.

4 [v] He has bent his bow like an enemy, with his right hand set [w] like a foe;
and he has killed all who were delightful in our eyes in the tent of the daughter of Zion;
he has poured out his fury like fire.

5 [w] The Lord has become like an enemy;
[x] he has swallowed up Israel;
[y] he has swallowed up all its palaces;
he has laid in ruins its strongholds, and he has multiplied in the daughter of Judah [z] mourning and lamentation.

6[†] He has laid waste his booth like a garden, laid in ruins [a] his meeting place;
[a] the LORD has made Zion forget festival and [b] Sabbath, and in his fierce indignation has spurned king and priest.

7 [c] The Lord has scorned his altar,
[d] disowned his sanctuary;
[e] he has delivered into the hand of the enemy
the walls of her palaces;
[f] they raised a clamor in the house of the LORD
as on the day of festival.

8[†] [g] The LORD determined to lay in ruins
[h] the wall of the daughter of Zion;
[i] he stretched out the measuring line;
he did not restrain his hand from destroying;
[j] he caused rampart and wall to lament;
[j] they languished together.

[9][†] Her gates have sunk into the ground;
[k]he has ruined [k]and broken her bars;
[l]her king and princes are among the nations;
the law is no more,
and [m]her prophets find no vision from the LORD.

[10] The elders of the daughter of Zion
[n]sit on the ground [o]in silence;
[p]they have thrown dust on their heads and [q]put on sackcloth;
the young women of Jerusalem have bowed their heads to the ground.

[11][†] [r]My eyes are spent with weeping;
[s]my stomach churns;
[t]my bile is poured out to the ground
[u]because of the destruction of the daughter of my people, [v]because infants and babies [w]faint
in the streets of the city.

[12] They cry to their mothers,
[x]“Where is bread and wine?”
[w]as they faint like a wounded man
in the streets of the city, as their life is poured out on their mothers’ bosom.

[13] What can I say for you, [y]to what compare you,
O daughter of Jerusalem?
[y]What can I liken to you, that I may comfort you,
O virgin daughter of Zion?
[z]For your ruin is vast as the sea;
who can heal you?

14[†] [a] Your prophets have seen for you false and deceptive visions;
[b] they have not exposed your iniquity to [c] restore your fortunes, [d] but have seen for you [e] oracles that are false and misleading.

15 All who pass along the way
clap their hands at you; [f] they hiss and wag their heads
at the daughter of Jerusalem:
“Is this the city that was called [g] the perfection of beauty,
[g] the joy of all the earth?”

16 [h] All your enemies rail against you;
they hiss, they gnash their teeth,
they cry: “We [i] have swallowed her!
Ah, this is the day we longed for;
now we have it; [j] we see it!”

17[†] The Lord has done what he purposed;
he has carried out [k] his word,
which he commanded [l] long ago;
[m] he has thrown down [n] without pity;
[o] he has made the enemy rejoice over you and exalted the [p] might of your foes.

18[†] Their heart cried to the Lord.
O [q] wall of the daughter of Zion,
[r] let tears stream down like a torrent
[s] day and night!
[t] Give yourself no rest,
[u] your eyes no respite!

19 “Arise, [v] cry out in the night, at the beginning of the night watches!
[w] Pour out your heart like water before the presence of the Lord!
[x] Lift your hands to him for the lives of your children, [y] who faint for hunger
at the head of every street.”

20 [†] Look, O LORD, and see!
[z] With whom have you dealt thus?
[a] Should women eat the fruit of their womb,
the children of [b] their tender care?
Should [c] priest and prophet be killed in the sanctuary of the Lord?

21 In the dust of the streets
[d] lie the young and the old;
[d] my young women and my young men have fallen by the sword; [e] you have killed them in the day of your anger, slaughtering [f] without pity.

22 [†] You summoned as if to [g] a festival day
[h] my terrors on every side,
[i] and on the day of the anger of the LORD
no one escaped or survived;
[j] those whom I held and raised my enemy destroyed.

Great Is Your Faithfulness

LAMENTATIONS 3 [†] [k] I am the man who has seen affliction under the [l] rod of his wrath;
2 he has driven and brought me

[m] into darkness without any light;
3 surely against me he turns his hand again and again the whole day long.

4[†] He has made my flesh and my skin waste away;
[n] he has broken my bones;
5 [o] he has besieged and enveloped me with [p] bitterness and tribulation; 6 [q] he has made me dwell in darkness like the dead of long ago.

7 [r] He has walled me about so that [s] I cannot escape;
he has made my chains heavy;
8 though [t] I call and cry for help,
he shuts out my prayer;
9 [r] he has blocked my ways with blocks of stones;
he has made my paths crooked.

10 [u] He is a bear lying in wait for me,
a lion in hiding;
11 [v] he turned aside my steps and [u] tore me to pieces;
[w] he has made me desolate;
12 [x] he bent his bow [y] and set me as a target for his arrow.

13 He drove into my kidneys
[z] the arrows of his quiver;
14[†] [a] I have become the laughingstock of all peoples,
[b] the object of their taunts all day long.
15 [c] He has filled me with bitterness;
he has sated me with [d] wormwood.

16 [e] He has made my teeth grind on gravel, and [f] made me cower in ashes;
17 my soul is bereft of peace;

I have forgotten what happiness [1] is;
18 [g] so I say, “My endurance has perished;
so has my hope from the LORD.”

19[†] [h] Remember my affliction and my wanderings,
[d] the wormwood and [i] the gall!
20 My soul continually remembers it
[j] and is bowed down within me.
21[†] But this I call to mind,
and [k] therefore I have hope:

22[†] [l] The steadfast love of the LORD never ceases; [2]
[l] his mercies never come to an end;
23[†] they are new [m] every morning;
[n] great is your faithfulness.
24[†] [o] “The LORD is my portion,” says my soul,
[k] “therefore I will hope in him.”

25[†] The LORD is good to those who [p] wait for him, to the soul who seeks him.
26[†] [q] It is good that one should wait quietly for the salvation of the LORD.
27[†] [r] It is good for a man that he bear
the yoke [s] in his youth.

28 Let him [t] sit alone in silence
when it is laid on him;
29[†] [u] let him put his mouth in the dust—
there may yet be hope;
30 [v] let him give his cheek to the one who strikes, and let him be filled with insults.

31[†] [w] For the Lord will not cast off forever,
32 but, though he [x] cause grief, [y] he will have compassion

[z] according to the abundance of his steadfast love;
33 [a] for he does not afflict from his heart or [b] grieve the children of men.

34[†] To crush underfoot
all [c] the prisoners of the earth, 35 [d] to deny a man justice in the presence of the Most High, 36 to subvert a man in his lawsuit,
[d] the Lord does not approve.

37[†] [e] Who has spoken and it came to pass, unless the Lord has commanded it?
38 [f] Is it not from the mouth of the Most High that good and bad come?
39 [g] Why should a living man complain,
a man, about the punishment of his sins?

40 Let us test and examine our ways,
[h] and return to the LORD!
41[†] [i] Let us lift up our hearts and hands to God in heaven:
42[†] [j] "We have transgressed and [k] rebelled, and you have not forgiven.

43 "You have wrapped yourself with anger and pursued us,
[l] killing without pity;
44 [m] you have wrapped yourself with a cloud so that no prayer can pass through.
45 [n] You have made us scum and garbage among the peoples.

46 [o] "All our enemies
open their mouths against us; 47 [p] panic and pitfall have come upon us, devastation and [q] destruction;

48[†] [r] my eyes flow with rivers of tears because of the destruction of the daughter of my people.

49 [r] “My eyes will flow without ceasing, without respite,
50 [s] until the LORD from heaven looks down and sees;
51[†] my eyes cause me grief
at the fate of all the daughters of my city.

52 [t] “I have been hunted [u] like a bird
by those who were my enemies [v] without cause;
53 [w] they flung me alive into the pit
[x] and cast stones on me;
54[†] [y] water closed over my head;
I said, [z] ‘I am lost.’

55[†] [a] “I called on your name, O LORD, from the depths of the pit;
56 [b] you heard my plea, ‘Do not close your ear to my cry for help!’
57 [c] You came near when I called on you;
you said, [d] ‘Do not fear!’

58[†] “You have [e] taken up my cause, [f] O Lord;
you have [e] redeemed my life.
59[†] You have seen the wrong done to me, [g] O LORD;
judge my cause.
60 You have seen all their vengeance,
all [h] their plots against me.

61 [i] “You have heard their taunts, O LORD,
all [h] their plots against me.
62 The lips and thoughts [j] of my assailants are against me all the day long.

63 [k] Behold their sitting and their rising;
[l] I am the object of their taunts.

64 [m] “You will repay them, [3] O LORD,
[n] according to the work of their hands.
65[†] You will give them [4] dullness of heart;
your curse will be [5] on them.
66 You will pursue them [6] in anger and [o] destroy them from under [p] your heavens, O LORD.” [7]

The Holy Stones Lie Scattered

LAMENTATIONS 4 [†] [q] How the gold has grown dim, how the pure gold is changed!
The holy stones lie scattered
[r] at the head of every street.

2[†] The precious sons of Zion, worth their weight in [s] fine gold,
how they are regarded as [t] earthen pots,
the work of a potter’s hands!

3[†] Even jackals offer the breast;
they nurse their young,
but the daughter of my people has become cruel,
like the ostriches in the wilderness.

4 The tongue of the nursing infant [u] sticks to the roof of its mouth for thirst; [v] the children beg for food,
but no one gives to them.

5 Those who once feasted on delicacies perish in the streets;
[w] those who were brought up in purple embrace ash heaps.

6[†] [x] For the chastisement [1] of the daughter of my people has been greater than the punishment [2] of Sodom, [y] which was overthrown in a moment,
and no hands were wrung for her. [3]

7[†] Her princes were purer than snow, whiter than milk;
their bodies were more ruddy than coral,
the beauty of their form [4] was like sapphire. [5]

8[†] [z] Now their face is blacker than soot;
they are not recognized in the streets;
their skin has shriveled on their bones;
it has become as dry as wood.

9[†] Happier were the victims of the sword than the victims of hunger, who wasted away, pierced by lack of the fruits of the field.

10[†] [a] The hands of [b] compassionate women
[c] have boiled their own children;
[d] they became their food
during the destruction of the daughter of my people.

11[†] [e] The LORD gave full vent to his wrath;
he poured out his hot anger,
and [f] he kindled a fire in Zion that consumed its foundations.

12 [g] The kings of the earth did not believe,
nor any of the inhabitants of the world, that foe or enemy could enter the gates of Jerusalem.

13[†] This was for [h]the sins of her prophets and [h]the iniquities of her priests, who shed in the midst of her
the blood of the righteous.

14 [i]They wandered, blind, through the streets;
they were so defiled with blood [j]that no one was able to touch their garments.

15 “Away! [k]Unclean!” people cried at them.
“Away! Away! Do not touch!”
So they became fugitives and wanderers;
people said among the nations,
“They shall stay with us no longer.”

16[†] [l]The LORD himself[6] has scattered them;
he will regard them no more;
[m]no honor was shown to the priests,
[n]no favor to the elders.

17 [o]Our eyes failed, ever watching [o]vainly for help;
in our watching we watched for [p]a nation which could not save.

18[†] [q]They dogged our steps
so that we could not walk in our streets; [r]our end drew near; our days were numbered,
for our end had come.

19 Our pursuers were [s]swifter than the eagles in the heavens;
they chased us on the mountains;

they lay in wait for us in the wilderness.

20[†] [t]The breath of our nostrils, [u]the Lord’s anointed, was captured [v]in their pits, of whom we said, [w]“Under his shadow
we shall live among the nations.”

21[†] [x]Rejoice and be glad, O daughter of Edom, you who dwell in [y]the land of Uz;
but to you also [z]the cup shall pass;
you shall become drunk and strip yourself bare.

22[†] [a]The punishment of your iniquity, O daughter of Zion, is accomplished;
he will keep you in exile no longer; [7] but [b]your iniquity, O daughter of Edom, he will punish;
he will uncover your sins.

Restore Us to Yourself, O Lord

LAMENTATIONS 5 [†] [c]Remember, O Lord, what has befallen us;
look, and see [d]our disgrace!
2[†] [e]Our inheritance has been turned over to strangers, our homes to foreigners.
3 We have become orphans, fatherless;
our mothers are like widows.
4 We must pay for the water we drink;
the wood we get must be bought.
5[†] [f]Our pursuers are at our necks; [1]
we are weary; we are given no rest.
6 We have given the hand to [g]Egypt, and to [g]Assyria, to get bread enough.
7[†] Our fathers sinned, and are no more;
[h]and we bear their iniquities.
8 [i]Slaves rule over us;
there is none to deliver us from their hand.

9[†] [j] We get our bread at the peril of our lives, because of the sword in the wilderness.
10 [k] Our skin is hot as an oven with [l] the burning heat of famine.
11 Women are raped in Zion, young women in the towns of Judah.
12[†] [m] Princes are hung up by their hands;
[n] no respect is shown to the elders.
13 Young men are compelled to [o] grind at the mill, and boys stagger [p] under loads of wood.
14[†] [n] The old men have left the city gate,
the young men [q] their music.
15 [q] The joy of our hearts has ceased;
[r] our dancing has been turned to mourning.
16[†] [s] The crown has fallen from our head;
woe to us, for we have sinned!
17 For this [t] our heart has become sick,
for these things [u] our eyes have grown dim, 18 for Mount Zion which lies desolate;
[v] jackals prowl over it.
19[†] [w] But you, O Lord, reign forever;
your throne endures to all generations.
20 [x] Why do you forget us forever,
why do you forsake us for so many days?
21[†] [y] Restore us to yourself, O Lord, that we may be restored!
Renew our days as of old—22 [z] unless you have utterly rejected us, and you remain exceedingly angry with us.

Study Notes for Lamentations

1:1–22 How Lonely Sits the City. Lamentations begins with a description of Jerusalem’s destruction (vv. 1–11) and reports of her calls for help (vv. 12–22). Jerusalem speaks in vv. 9b, 11b–16, and 18–22. A narrator speaks in vv. 1–9a, 10–11a, and 17.

FACT

A book named “How”? In the Hebrew Bible, the title of the book of Lamentations is actually “How.” This is the first word in the book, and it occurs again at the beginning of chs. 2 and 4. It expresses “how” much Jerusalem has suffered.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:1 How. An exclamation often associated with expressions of grief (e.g., Isa. 1:21; Jer. 48:17). Note the contrasts: full of people/lonely; great/widow; princess/slave. Jerusalem’s losses are terrible.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:2 Jerusalem weeps bitterly in the night because of her losses (v. 1). lovers . . . friends. Her former allies (see vv. 16, 17; Jer. 22:20–22).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:3 gone into exile. See Jer. 52:24–30. because of affliction and hard servitude. See Lam. 1:7, 9; 3:1, 19. Exiles were often forced to work constantly. Such labor reminds readers of Israel’s Egyptian bondage (see Ex. 1:1–14; 2:23; 6:6). dwells now among the nations . . . no resting place. A reversal of God’s own promises to Israel (e.g., Deut. 12:10).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:4 Devastated Jerusalem lacks worshipers (see Jer. 41:4–5) to travel her roads, enter her gates, and attend any festival. The virgins were women who participated in joyful processions (Ps. 68:24–25) and dances (Jer. 31:4)

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:5 her enemies prosper. Babylon has conquered Jerusalem (Jer. 52:1–30) because of her transgressions, that is, she has willfully broken God’s law (see Lam. 1:5, 14, 22; Amos 1:3, 6, 9; etc.). Jerusalem’s sins have harmed her children, that is, her inhabitants.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:7 In exile the people recall the days of David, Solomon, and Josiah (all the precious things) in days of old. These precious things have been replaced with worthless things like the gloating and mocking of enemies.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:8 Jerusalem sinned grievously. See v. 5. filthy. Literally, “impurity”; see v. 17.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:9 Her uncleanness. The sins she committed (v. 8) were in her skirts, that is, they clung to her. She took no thought of her future in the sense that she did not expect things to turn out as they had, despite God’s warnings in Lev. 26:14–46, Deut. 28:15–68, and the Prophetic Books. O LORD, behold my affliction. Jerusalem speaks for the first time, asking God to take note of what the enemy has done.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:13 From on high he sent fire. Fire is a common way of describing judgment (Amos 1:3–2:5). The phrase reminds readers of Sodom and Gomorrah (see Gen. 19:23–29; Lam. 4:6). into my bones. The very core of Jerusalem’s being (Jer. 20:9).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:18 Jerusalem confesses that God is in the right (see Ps. 51:4) for judging her rebellion. but hear. Nonetheless, she desires comfort from all you peoples.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 1:21 no one to comfort me. See vv. 9, 16, 17. the day you announced. The day of judgment promised by Moses and the prophets (see vv. 12–13; Isa. 2:6–22; Jer. 12:3). let them be as I am. Jerusalem asked that God judge her foes; Jer. 27:7 and 46:1–51:64 promise that this will in fact happen.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:1–22 God Has Set Zion under a Cloud. This chapter emphasizes the completeness of God’s judgment on Jerusalem. The verses unfold in three parts, each of which has a different main speaker. In vv. 1–10 the speaker describes the effects of God’s punishment. In vv. 11–19 a prophetic voice like Jeremiah’s grieves the city’s losses and counsels her to cry out to God. In vv. 20–22 Jerusalem again asks God to see what she has suffered and to act on her behalf.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:1 How. See note on 1:1. the Lord in his anger. Over Judah's long-term sin (1:9, 14, 18, 20, 22). under a cloud. A symbol for the darkness of God's punishment (see 2 Sam. 22:12; Jer. 13:16). He has cast down. See Lam. 1:12, 21–22. From heaven to earth describes Israel's fall from great favor (see Deut. 28:1–14) to terrible devastation (see Deut. 28:15–68). he has not remembered. In contrast to when he mercifully reached out to deliver his people (Ex. 2:23–25). his footstool. Probably a symbol for Jerusalem itself.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:3 God's right hand, which in times past shattered Pharaoh's army (Ex. 15:6, 12) was now withdrawn . . . in the face of the enemy.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:6 laid waste his booth. Destroyed the temple, the place where his name and his presence dwell (1 Kings 9:1–9). his meeting place. The temple. forget. The memory of these celebrations is growing dim, for they no longer occur.

Parallels between Jeremiah and Lamentations

Jeremiah	Lamentations
I will make this house like Shiloh (chs. 7, 26)	The Lord has scorned . . . his sanctuary (2:7)
Let my eyes run down with tears (14:17–22)	my eyes flow with rivers of tears (3:48–51)
can I not do with you as this potter has done? (18:6)	regarded as earthen pots, the work of a potter's hands! (4:2)
eat the flesh of their sons and their daughters (19:9)	Should women eat the fruit of their womb? (2:20)
vain hopes (23:16)	Your prophets have seen for you false and deceptive visions (2:14)

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:8 The LORD determined. God's plan (see Jer. 18:11; 29:20; 36:3; 50:45) was to overthrow the rebellious people.

FACT

Stretching out the measuring line (2:8) is a military action. If the army did not have enough troops to guard a captured city, they might measure out certain lengths of wall to destroy. By doing this, they ensured that the city could not defend itself if it tried to rebel against its new captors.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:9 God caused loss of protection (gates, bars, walls [v. 7]), loss of leadership (king and princes), and loss of revelations of his will (her prophets find no vision).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:11 my bile. Literally, “my liver,” that is, emotions. daughter of my people. A term of endearment for Jerusalem (3:48; see Jer. 8:19–22; 14:17). infants and babies. Jerusalem’s most helpless people suffer because of their parents’ failures (see Lam. 2:20; 4:10; Deut. 28:41, 53–57; Jer. 10:20).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:14 Judah’s prophets were part of the problem (see Jer. 14:13–22; 23:9–40; Ezek. 13:1–19; Hos. 4:5). They gave false and deceptive visions. See Jer. 27:14–15. not exposed your iniquity. Their sins were the ultimate source of their problems, but the prophets did not urge them to repent (see Jer. 5:30–31).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:17 what he purposed. See 1:18 and 2:8. God sent the people away because of their sins (see Lev. 26:14–39; Deut. 28:64–68). God carried out his word, which he delivered through Moses and the prophets (2 Kings 17:7–23).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:18–19 Now Jerusalem (daughter of Zion) must cry out to God, just as the speaker (v. 11) has cried out for Jerusalem. She must turn to God for the sake of her children, who are fainting for hunger (see v. 12).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:20 With whom have you dealt thus? Jerusalem was God’s chosen city (1 Kings 9:1–9), yet God has judged her (Jer. 7:1–8:3). eat the fruit of their womb. Cannibalism of this type occurred in wartime (see 2 Kings 6:24–31). Moses had warned that such things would happen if Israel broke her covenant with God (see Lev. 26:29; Deut. 28:52–57; Jer. 19:1–9; Ezek. 5:10).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 2:22 a festival day. The old festivals (see 1:4, 15; 2:6, 7) have been replaced by a new “festival”: the day of the anger of the LORD.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:1–66 I Am the Man Who Has Seen Affliction. Chapter 3 has one speaker, a man who has endured suffering, experienced God's faithfulness (vv. 1–24), and accepted God's sovereignty and goodness (vv. 25–39). He prays for renewal (vv. 40–47) and remains confident of God's concern for him and Israel (vv. 48–66).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:1–2 I am the man. A new speaker, who has experienced God's wrath and desires to teach others what he has learned. Darkness without any light describes the terror of the day of the Lord (see Joel 2:1–2; Amos 5:18; Zeph. 1:14–16).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:4–6 He has made my flesh and my skin waste away. Literally, "he has swallowed up my flesh and my skin." For "swallow" as a symbol of judgment, see 2:2, 5, 8, 16. he has broken. For "breaking" as a symbol of punishment, see 1:15 ("crush") and 2:9. Jerusalem was besieged by Babylon; the speaker in this chapter (see note on 3:1–2) was besieged by bitterness and tribulation.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:14 Like Jerusalem (1:7), the speaker has endured shame and mocking.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:19–20 A prayer for God to remember all that the speaker has suffered. God has not remembered Jerusalem and protected her (see note on 2:1). wormwood. See 3:15. gall. Or "bitterness," see vv. 5, 15. Remembering the events that he asks God to remember causes his soul to bow down.

FACT

Wormwood was a bitter-tasting shrub that grew wild along the rocky slopes of Palestine. In Scripture, its bitter taste is often symbolic of hardship and sorrow.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:21 This verse marks a change in the speaker's attitude. The contentment he remembers renews the hope lost in v. 18. In view of vv. 22–23, 32, he may be reflecting on Ex. 34:6–7, which these verses echo.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:22 God's steadfast love (his "covenant mercy" or beneficial action on his people's behalf) never ceases, even in the face of Judah's unfaithfulness and the resulting "day of the LORD" (see Joel 2:1–2; Amos 5:18; Zeph. 1:14–16). mercies. Or "compassion." This type of mercy replaces judgment with restoration. never come to an end. God is willing to begin anew with those who repent.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:23 new every morning. Each day presents another opportunity to experience God's grace. faithfulness. God's constant goodness and personal integrity remain intact no matter what happens.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:24 my portion. As with the Levites (Num. 18:20), God is the speaker's only inheritance (see Ps. 73:26).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:25 The LORD is good. God's goodness is the core of his character (Neh. 9:25; Ps. 34:8; 86:5; Hos. 3:5).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:26 wait quietly. In prayer and expectation. salvation. In this case, deliverance from danger, not salvation from sin.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:27 He must bear the yoke of punishment for sin (v. 18; see 1:14). In his youth indicates that the suffering is temporary.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:29 put his mouth in the dust. Assume a posture that shows his humility and dependence on God. There may yet be hope because of God's faithfulness (see v. 24).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:31–33 not cast off forever. God's anger is temporary (Ps. 103:9). He judges people to bring them to repentance and renewal. Though he cause grief, in this case because of the people's covenant breaking, he will have compassion. See Ex. 34:6–7; Lam. 3:22; Hos. 11:1–9. steadfast love. See Lam. 3:22. does not afflict from his heart. God's first instinct is not to punish. He does so only when his patience with sinners does not lead to their repentance.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:34–36 The Lord does not approve (v. 36) of those who crush others underfoot (perhaps a reference to the Israelites being crushed by Babylon).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:37 spoken and it came to pass. Just as in creation (see Gen. 1:3; Ps. 33:9), God speaks and things happen, including Jerusalem's destruction (Lam. 1:5, 12–16; 2:1–10).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:41 The people should lift up their hearts (where repentance begins; see Deut. 30:1–10; Jer. 4:3–4) and their hands, showing their total dependence on God.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:42 you have not forgiven. God has not let their actions go unpunished.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:48 my eyes flow with . . . tears. Like Jerusalem (1:16; 2:11, 18), the speaker weeps for what has happened to the city. the daughter of my people. A term of endearment for Jerusalem (see 2:11).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:51 my eyes cause me grief. What he has witnessed saddens the speaker.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:54 I am lost. There seemed to be no hope (see v. 18).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:55–57 In the depths of the pit (the worst days of his suffering), the speaker called upon God, who had placed him there. you heard my plea. See Ps. 30:2; 103:4. God not only came near, offering his comforting and saving presence, but also gave reassuring and empowering words of courage (Do not fear!). See Jer. 1:17–19.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:58 taken up my cause. God has taken the speaker's side against his attackers (v. 52). redeemed my life. God's acts on his behalf resulted in deliverance (see Lev. 25:47–54; Ruth 4:1–12; Jer. 1:17–19; 39:11–40:6).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:59–60 God has seen the wrong done to the speaker. Jerusalem prayed for this in 1:9, 11, 20. True relief cannot come until God judges in favor of the speaker and against his enemies for all their plots (see Jer. 11:18–12:6; 17:18; 18:23).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 3:65 your curse. The judgment that comes because of their actions (see Deut. 28:15–68).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:1–22 How the Gold Has Grown Dim. Chapter 4 returns to themes in chs. 1–2 yet also announces the completion of Jerusalem's punishment. The chapter can be divided into four segments: the suffering of Jerusalem's children (4:1–10), God's punishing of Jerusalem's religious leaders (vv. 11–16), the power of Jerusalem's enemies (vv. 17–20), and the end of Jerusalem's suffering (vv. 21–22).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:1 How. See note on 1:1. the gold has grown dim. Perhaps because it has been covered with dirt or has been burned. holy stones. The people, according to 3:2. at the head of every street. See 2:19; 4:5, 8, 14. Suffering occurs in every section of the city.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:2 earthen pots. To be shattered.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:3–4 Even wild animals feed their young, but Jerusalem's mothers cannot feed their children. The siege, famine, and devastation are too severe (see Jer. 15:1–4). like the ostriches in the wilderness. In Job 39:13–17 these creatures abandon their eggs.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:6 Jerusalem's sin has been greater than that of Sodom, for she had greater knowledge of God's will. Therefore, her punishment has been greater than Sodom's.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:7 more ruddy than coral. Their bodies were perfectly formed and healthy. beauty of their form. Their faces were handsome.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:8 blacker than soot. A compete reversal of v. 7.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:9 Happier were the victims of the sword. Because they died quickly (see v. 6). pierced by lack. Rather than by a sword.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:10 The most compassionate women in the land were so hungry that they boiled their own children (see 2:20; Lev. 26:29; Deut. 28:52–57; 2 Kings 6:29). during the destruction. During Babylon's siege of Jerusalem (Jer. 37:21).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:11 that consumed its foundations. Babylon was God's instrument in carrying out this task (Jer. 52:12–13).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:13 sins of her prophets. They did not warn and instruct the people (see Jer. 5:30–31; 23:9–40). iniquities of her priests. They failed to teach the people God's word and its directions for godly living (see Hos. 4:1–9; Mal. 2:1–9).

FACT

The fall of Jerusalem. Jerusalem had been invaded several times, but had always survived. Finally, however, because of the people's continued rebellion, the Lord allowed the Babylonians to conquer Jerusalem in 586 B.C. Chapter 4 contrasts Judah's glory days with its pitiful state after judgment.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:16 The Lord himself . . . scattered them. See 1:4, 19; 4:13; 5:12. no honor . . . no favor. Because of their sins, the priests and prophets had lost the respect usually reserved for their persons and offices (4:13).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:18 our end had come. The day of the Lord (see Joel 2:1–2; Amos 5:18; Zeph. 1:14–16) had arrived.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:20 The people depended on Jerusalem's king, the LORD's anointed, so much that he was like the very breath of their nostrils. They had lived under the shadow of his protection. Yet he was captured. See Jer. 39:1–10.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:21 Edom took great joy in Jerusalem's fall and profited from her destruction (Ps. 137:7; Joel 3:19; Obad. 10–14). but to you also the cup shall pass. See Jer. 49:7–22, especially v. 12.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 4:22 accomplished. Their punishment has ended, and now the long, hard, slow recovery of life, worship, and society can begin. keep you in exile no longer. Jews began to return to the area by 538–535 B.C. (see Ezra 1:1–2:70; Jer. 29:10–14; Dan. 9:1–2).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:1–22 Restore Us to Yourself, O Lord. This concluding chapter is the community's plea for restoration. It includes an opening petition (v. 1), a description of the problems the people have faced (vv. 2–18), and an urgent plea for a restored relationship with their Lord (vv. 19–22).

FACT

Lamentations contains five poems that mourn the fall of Judah and the sin that caused it. Chapters 1–3 and 4 are acrostic poems. This means that each verse starts with a different letter of the Hebrew alphabet, in alphabetical order. Psalm 119 is another example of an acrostic poem.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:1 This verse continues the book's emphasis on God "seeing" the people's terrible situation (see 1:11, 20; 2:20; 3:63). Remember, O LORD. A common theme in the book (see 1:7; 2:1; 3:19, 20), "remember" reminds readers of events like the exodus (Ex. 2:23–25), when God acted on Israel's behalf.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:2 Our inheritance. The Promised Land, which was the physical evidence of Israel's relationship with God (Deut. 4:21, 38).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:5 pursuers. Probably persons to whom they owe money, or the foreign officers who rule over them. are at our necks. Always desiring either payment or more work.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:7 Past mistakes (v. 6) have led to terrible present realities. Though the Lord does not condemn people for others' sins (see Jer. 31:29–30; Ezek. 18:2), they can certainly suffer because of what others have done. It is also sadly possible to sin in a manner similar to one's ancestors (see Dan. 9:16).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:9 sword. A metaphor for thieves (2 Kings 13:20–21) or famine (Deut. 28:22).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:12 Princes. Or “officials.” hung up by their hands. Most likely for execution (see Gen. 40:19; Est. 2:23), perhaps by Babylon’s servants to discourage rebellion. elders. See Lam. 1:19; 2:10; 4:16.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:14–15 old men. Civic leaders. have left the city gate. They no longer sat where decisions were made and business was conducted.

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:16 The crown has fallen. The Davidic king (4:20) and Jerusalem were considered crowning glories (see Jer. 13:18).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:19–22 The book closes with a plea for renewal. The people confess God’s eternal nature and kingship (v. 19), regret their ongoing suffering (v. 20), ask for renewal (v. 21), and wonder when renewal will come, given God’s understandable anger (v. 22).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:19 God reigns as king of the universe (Ps. 103:19) forever (Ps. 90:1–17; 102:12–13). Whatever forgiveness, renewal, and relief Jerusalem will receive must come from God, whose throne endures to all generations (Ps. 45:6–7; 93:1–2).

LAMENTATIONS—NOTE ON 5:21 Restore us. Restoration depends on a right relationship with God (Jer. 31:18), and only God can do the restoring.

Author and Date

The first dated message in Ezekiel is from the summer of 593 B.C., four years after Nebuchadnezzar deported the first group of exiles to Babylon. The latest dated oracle is 22 years later, in April 571 B.C. If Ezekiel was 30 years old when his ministry began (1:1), the final vision of the book came when he was about 50.

Theme and Purpose

Ezekiel spoke to a people forced from their home because they had broken faith with their God. As the spokesman for the Lord, Ezekiel spoke oracles that defended his reputation as a holy God (see especially 36:22–23). The primary purpose of Ezekiel's message was to restore God's glory before Israel, who had rejected him in front of the watching nations.

Background

Ezekiel prophesied during a time of great confusion following Israel's exile to Babylon in 597 B.C. A former Judean king was among the exiles (the 18-year-old Jehoiachin), and the Babylonians had appointed a puppet king to the throne in Jerusalem (Jehoiachin's uncle, Zedekiah).

In times of crisis, God sent prophets to bring his message to his people. Judah's exile was therefore a period of intense prophetic activity. (Jeremiah also served during this time.)

Ezekiel's fellow exiles were his main audience, but his oracles also communicated to people who remained in Judah.

Key Themes

1. As a priest, Ezekiel was deeply concerned with restoring God's people to holiness. His understanding of the depth of Israel's sin is clear in his version of Israel's history (ch. 20). Even the oracles about a restored Israel (chs. 40–48) include a way to deal with the people's sin so they can survive in the presence of a holy God. Ezekiel's concern with sin also accounts for the many places where the book echoes the laws given in the Pentateuch, as well as the similarities between Ezekiel's new temple (chs. 40–42) and the Exodus tabernacle.
2. Israel was subject to its national God. However, this God is no tribal deity. He is supreme over all nations. Therefore Nebuchadnezzar, king of mighty Babylon, was simply a tool in God's hand to accomplish God's purpose (e.g., 21:19–23; 30:25). God's absolute supremacy is most clearly demonstrated in the battle against Gog, the final enemy (chs. 38–39), where God alone crushes Gog's vast hostile forces.
3. Ezekiel declares judgment on those clinging to false hope, but offers true hope to those who accept God's judgment (37:11). He linked God's judgment with the hope of a new heart and spirit (36:22–32).
4. The condemnation of Israel's "princes" (e.g., ch. 19) finds its hopeful counterpart in the promise of a future "prince" who would rule with justice (34:23–24) and connect the people to God (46:1–18).

The Near East at the Time of Ezekiel

c. 593 B.C.

Ezekiel recorded his visions and prophecies while living near Babylon, where he had been exiled years earlier. By Ezekiel's time, the Babylonian Empire had conquered almost all of the area along the eastern coast of the Mediterranean Sea. It would eventually conquer even the land of Egypt, where many other Judeans had fled.

The Global Message of Ezekiel

The book of Ezekiel is filled with global significance, both for the world of Ezekiel's time and for our own world today.

Israel's Failure

Ezekiel lived and prophesied among the Jewish exiles in Babylon immediately after the fall of Jerusalem in 586 B.C. This was a tragic time in Israel's history. God's promises to Abraham, including the promise that his descendants would live and flourish in the Promised Land, seemed to have been long forgotten. Another cause for discouragement was the way Israel had failed in its calling to be a light to the nations. Instead, the nations had influenced Israel, introducing idolatry and other forms of faithlessness into the life of God's covenant people.

A particular focus of Ezekiel is the way in which Israel's failures reflect on God himself. In the eyes of the surrounding nations, God is spurned on account of Israel's lack of loyalty to him. God is therefore going to take matters directly into his own hands: "It is not for your sake, O house of Israel, that I am about to act, but for the sake of my holy name. . . . And the nations will know that I am the LORD" (Ezek. 36:22–23). Throughout Ezekiel, therefore, we hear God determining to act "for the sake of his name" (20:9, 14, 22, 44; 36:22) and "that they might know that I am the LORD" (20:12, 26). God's glory was at stake in Israel's fidelity—or lack thereof.

God's Solution

At the same time, Israel's own fate was bound up with the fate of God's honor. God says to Israel, "through you I will vindicate my holiness before their eyes. I will take you from the nations and gather you from all the countries and bring you into your own land. I will sprinkle clean water on you" (36:23–25). God would not vindicate his own name and honor at Israel's expense, but rather through mercifully restoring them to himself. Throughout the book of Ezekiel, then, the focus constantly swivels between God's holiness and mercy, his glory and his grace, his righteous hostility toward his people's sin and his covenantally bound love for them. Both his holiness and his covenant love are key characteristics of God. They are nonnegotiable, definitive divine attributes. Neither can be compromised.

Only in Christ is this tension resolved. For it is only in Christ that God's holiness and justice, on the one hand, and his mercy and love, on the other, are reconciled without compromising either. For in Christ God's righteous justice is satisfied, and yet God's amazing grace is on full display as believers receive freely the benefits of Christ's atoning work.

Another way we see Ezekiel's prophecy anticipate Christ is through the whole-Bible theme of spiritual marriage and adultery. Ezekiel 16 and 23, for example, graphically portray Israel's faithlessness in terms of whoredom: God is the divine husband, Israel is the faithless wife. This metaphor carries on into the New Testament, where Christ is the great Bridegroom who gives himself up for the sake of his bride (Eph. 5:25–27, 32; compare Mark 2:19; John 3:29). Indeed, this is the note on which the New Testament ends, as the new Jerusalem comes down out of heaven and Christ is depicted as a sacrificial "Lamb" who has given his life for the sake of "the Bride, the wife of the Lamb" (Rev. 21:9).

Universal Themes in Ezekiel

The witness of God's people to the world. The catastrophe into which Ezekiel was born—exile to Babylon—was the polar opposite of what God had called Israel to do. Israel was to be a light to the nations (Gen. 12:1–3; Isa. 49:6; 60:3). Instead, the nations had brought darkness to Israel (see Ezek. 34:12–13). Ezekiel shows how this capitulation to the godless ways of the nations detracts from God's own glory. It is the welfare of God's name, not only the welfare of Israel, that is at stake in Israel's corporate life. God's people then and now are called to bring the mercy of God to all the nations of the world, so that God might be properly glorified, and the peoples of the earth might be restored to their Maker.

God is Lord of all the nations. Regardless of whether God's own people are faithful to their mission to be a light to the nations, Ezekiel teaches us that the God of Israel is no tribal deity but is Lord of all the nations of the world. Even the mighty king of Babylon, seemingly invincible, does only what the God of Israel decrees (Ezek. 21:19–23; 30:25). In the climactic battle against Gog, too, we see God's global supremacy as he crushes this rebellious foe (chs. 38–39).

The Global Message of Ezekiel for Today

The core message of Ezekiel for the worldwide church today is its radical God-centeredness. The God who is presented in Ezekiel is utterly transcendent, perfectly holy, and not to be relegated to the sidelines of the corporate life of his people. At the same time, the Lord is depicted in Ezekiel as great not only in holiness but in mercy. In spite of his people's faithlessness, he is not abandoning them but will himself sprinkle them clean and give them new hearts (Ezek. 11:19–20; 36:25–26).

In our God-minimizing world today, the message of Ezekiel is much needed. Around the world, sin manifests itself not only in outright rebellion and transgression but also in a subtle sidelining of God, both individually and corporately. Trust in political power replaces trust in God's rightful rule. The false security of money replaces the only solid refuge in God. The passing delights of sexual immorality replace the lasting delights of walking with God. Consumerism and a flood of advertising dull us into thinking that this world is our one shot at truly living. Greedy consumption of the earth's resources by a powerful few replaces wise stewardship of what God has entrusted to the human race.

In an age of God-minimization, the global church has an urgent message: Our God reigns. He rules over all in power and might, and one day judgment will fall upon those who cling to the things of this world. Yet our message is two-pronged: not only does God reign in might and justice and judgment-to-come, he also invites into his goodness any who will bow their knee to him (Ezek. 37:23). To those who do, their lifeless bones will be given life, the very breath of God (37:1–14). They will be sprinkled clean (36:25). One day Eden will be restored, and all those from around the world who entrust themselves to the Lord will be part of that great and final restoration (36:33–36).

Ezekiel in Babylon

EZEKIEL 1 [†] [a] In the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, on the fifth day of the month, as I was among the exiles by [b] the Chebar canal, [c] the heavens were opened, and I saw [d] visions of God. [1] 2[†]On the fifth day of the month (it was [e] the fifth year of [f] the exile of King Jehoiachin), 3the word of the Lord came to Ezekiel [g] the priest, the son of Buzi, in the land of the Chaldeans by [b] the Chebar canal, and [h] the hand of the Lord was upon him there.

The Glory of the Lord

4[†]As I looked, behold, [i] a stormy wind came [j] out of the north, and a great cloud, with [k] brightness around it, and fire flashing forth continually, and in the midst of the fire, [l] as it were gleaming metal. [2] 5And from the midst of it came the likeness of [m] four living creatures. [n] And this was their appearance: they had a human likeness, 6 [o] but each had four faces, and each of them had four wings. 7Their legs were straight, and the soles of their feet were like the sole of a calf’s foot. And they sparkled [p] like burnished bronze. 8Under their wings [q] on their four sides [r] they had human hands. And the four had their faces and their wings thus: 9[†]their wings touched one another. [s] Each one of them went straight forward, [q] without turning as they went. 10[†]As for the likeness of their faces, [t] each had a human face. The four had the face of a lion on the right side, the four had the face of an ox on the left side, and the four had the face of an eagle. 11Such were their faces. And their wings were spread out above. Each creature had two wings, each of which touched the wing of another, while [u] two covered their bodies. 12[†] [s] And each went straight forward. [v] Wherever the spirit [3] would go, they went, without turning as they went. 13As for the likeness of the living creatures, their appearance was [w] like burning coals of fire, [w] like the appearance of torches moving to and fro among the living creatures. [x] And the fire was bright, and out of the fire went forth lightning. 14And the living creatures [y] darted to and fro, [z] like the appearance of a flash of lightning.

15[a]Now as I looked at the living creatures, I saw a wheel on the earth beside the living creatures, one for each of the four of them. [4] 16[a]As for the appearance of the wheels and their construction: their appearance was like [b]the gleaming of beryl. [c]And the four had the same likeness, their appearance and construction being as it were a wheel within a wheel.
17[d]When they went, they went [e]in any of their four directions [5] [f]without turning as they went. 18And their rims were tall and awesome, [g]and the rims of all four were full of eyes all around. 19[h]And when the living creatures went, the wheels went beside them; [i]and when the living creatures rose from the earth, the wheels rose. 20[j]Wherever the spirit wanted to go, they went, and the wheels rose along with them, [j]for the spirit of the living creatures [6] was in the wheels. 21[h]When those went, these went; and when those stood, these stood; [i]and when those rose from the earth, the wheels rose along with them, [j]for the spirit of the living creatures was in the wheels.

22[†]Over the heads of the living creatures there was [k]the likeness of an expanse, shining like awe-inspiring [l]crystal, spread out above their heads.
23And under the expanse their wings were [m]stretched out straight, one toward another. [n]And each creature had two wings covering its body.
24And when they went, I heard the sound of their wings [o]like the sound of many waters, like [p]the sound of the [q]Almighty, a sound of tumult [r]like the sound of an army. When they stood still, they let down their wings. 25And there came a voice from above [s]the expanse over their heads. When they stood still, they let down their wings.

26And above the expanse over their heads there was [t]the likeness of a throne, [t]in appearance [u]like sapphire; [7] and seated above the likeness of a throne was [v]a likeness with a human appearance. 27And [w]upward from what had the appearance of his waist I saw as it were [x]gleaming metal, like the appearance of fire enclosed all around. And downward from what had the appearance of his waist I saw as it were the appearance of fire, and [y]there was brightness around him. [8] 28[†]Like the appearance of [z]the bow that is in the cloud on the day of rain, so was the appearance of the brightness all around.

Such was the appearance of the likeness of [a] the glory of the LORD. And when I saw it, [b] I fell on my face, and I heard the voice of one speaking.

Ezekiel’s Call

EZEKIEL 2 [†]And he said to me, [c] “Son of man, [1] [d] stand on your feet, and I will speak with you.” [2][†]And as he spoke to me, [e] the Spirit entered into me and [f] set me on my feet, and I heard him speaking to me. [3]And he said to me, “Son of man, I send you to the people of Israel, to [g] nations of rebels, who have rebelled against me. [h] They and their fathers have transgressed against me to this very day. [4]The descendants also are [i] impudent and stubborn: I send you to them, and you shall say to them, ‘Thus says the Lord GOD.’ [5]And [j] whether they hear or refuse to hear (for they are [g] a rebellious house) [k] they will know that a prophet has been among them. [6]And you, son of man, [l] be not afraid of them, nor be afraid of their words, [m] though briers and thorns are with you and you sit on [n] scorpions. [2] Be not afraid of their words, nor be dismayed at their looks, for they are a rebellious house. [7]And you shall speak my words to them, [j] whether they hear or refuse to hear, for they are a rebellious house.

[8][†]“But you, son of man, hear what I say to you. [o] Be not rebellious like that rebellious house; open your mouth and [p] eat what I give you.” [9]And when I looked, behold, [q] a hand was stretched out to me, and behold, [r] a scroll of a book was in it. [10]And he spread it before me. And it had writing [s] on the front and on the back, and there were written on it words of lamentation and mourning and woe.

EZEKIEL 3 [†]And he said to me, [c] “Son of man, eat whatever you find here. [t] Eat this scroll, and go, speak to the house of Israel.” [2]So I opened my mouth, and he gave me this scroll to eat. [3][†]And he said to me, “Son of man, feed your belly with this scroll that I give you and fill your stomach with it.” [u] Then I ate it, and it was in my mouth [v] as sweet as honey.

[4][†]And he said to me, [w] “Son of man, go to the house of Israel and speak with my words to them. [5][†]For you are not sent to a people of foreign speech and a hard language, but to the house of Israel— [6]not to many peoples of foreign speech and a hard language, whose words you cannot understand. [x] Surely, if I sent you to such, they would listen to you. 7 [y] But the house of Israel will not be willing to listen to you, for they are not willing to listen to me: because all the house of Israel [z] have a hard forehead and a stubborn heart. 8 [a] Behold, I have made your face as hard as their faces, and your forehead as hard as their foreheads. 9 Like [b] emery harder than flint have I made your forehead. [c] Fear them not, nor be dismayed at their looks, for they are a rebellious house.” 10 [†]Moreover, he said to me, “Son of man, [d] all my words that I shall speak to you receive [e] in your heart, and hear with your ears. 11 And go to the exiles, [f] to your people, and speak to them and say to them, [g] ‘Thus says the Lord GOD,’ [h] whether they hear or refuse to hear.”

12 [i] Then the Spirit [1] lifted me up, and I heard behind me the voice [2] of [j] a great earthquake: “Blessed be the glory of the LORD from its place!” 13 It was the sound of the wings of [k] the living creatures as they touched one another, and the sound of the wheels beside them, and the sound of [l] a great earthquake. 14 [†] [m] The Spirit lifted me up and took me away, and I went in bitterness in the heat of my spirit, the [n] hand of the LORD being strong upon me. 15 [o] And I came to the exiles at Tel-abib, who were dwelling [o] by the Chebar canal, and I sat where they were dwelling. [3] And [p] I sat there [q] overwhelmed among them [r] seven days.

A Watchman for Israel

16 [†] [s] And at the end of seven days, the word of the LORD came to me:
17 [t] “Son of man, [u] I have made you a watchman for the house of Israel.
Whenever you hear a word from my mouth, you shall [v] give them warning from me. 18 [†] [w] If I say to the wicked, [x] ‘You shall surely die,’ [v] and you give him no warning, nor speak to warn the wicked from his wicked way, in order to save his life, that wicked person [y] shall die for [4] his iniquity, [z] but his blood I will require at your hand. 19 [a] But if you warn the wicked, and he does not turn from his wickedness, or from his wicked way, he shall die for his iniquity, [b] but you [c] will have delivered your soul. 20 [d] Again, if a righteous person turns from his righteousness and commits injustice, [e] and I lay a stumbling block before him, he shall die. [v] Because you have not warned him, he shall die for his sin, [d]and his righteous deeds that he has done shall not be remembered, [z]but his blood I will require at your hand. [21]But if you warn the righteous person not to sin, and he does not sin, he shall surely live, because he took warning, and you will have delivered your soul.”

[22][†][f]And the hand of the LORD was upon me there. And he said to me, “Arise, go out into [g]the valley, [5] and [h]there I will speak with you.” [23]So I arose and went out into the valley, and behold, [i]the glory of the LORD stood there, like the glory that I had seen [j]by the Chebar canal, [i]and I fell on my face. [24][k]But the Spirit entered into me and set me on my feet, and he spoke with me and said to me, “Go, shut yourself within your house. [25][†]And you, O son of man, behold, [l]cords will be placed upon you, and you shall be bound with them, so that you cannot go out among the people. [26]And I will make your tongue cling to the roof of your mouth, so that [m]you shall be mute and unable to reprove them, [n]for they are a rebellious house. [27][o]But when I speak with you, I will open your mouth, and you shall say to them, [p]‘Thus says the Lord GOD.’ [q]He who will hear, let him hear; and he who will refuse to hear, let him refuse, for they are a rebellious house.

The Siege of Jerusalem Symbolized

EZEKIEL 4 [†]“And you, [r]son of man, [s]take a brick and lay it before you, and engrave on it a city, even Jerusalem. [2][t]And put siegeworks against it, [u]and build a siege wall against it, [v]and cast up a mound against it. Set camps also against it, [w]and plant battering rams against it all around. [3][†]And you, take an iron griddle, and place it as an iron wall between you and the city; [x]and set your face toward it, [y]and let it be in a state of siege, and press the siege against it. This is [z]a sign for the house of Israel.

[4][†]“Then lie on your left side, and place the punishment [1] of the house of Israel upon it. For the number of the days that you lie on it, [a]you shall bear their punishment. [5]For I assign to you a number of days, [b]390 days, [c]equal to the number of the years of their punishment. [a]So long shall you bear [d]the punishment of the house of Israel. [6]And when you have completed these, you shall lie down a second time, but on your right side, and [e] bear [f] the punishment of the house of Judah. [g] Forty days I assign you, a day for each year. [7][†] [h] And you shall set your face toward the siege of Jerusalem, [i] with your arm bared, and you shall prophesy against the city. [8]And behold, [j] I will place cords upon you, so that you cannot turn from one side to the other, till you have completed [k] the days of your siege.

[9]"And you, take wheat and barley, beans and lentils, millet and emmer, [2] and put them into a single vessel and make your [l] bread from them. [m] During the number of days that you lie on your side, [n] 390 days, you shall eat it. [10][†]And your food that you eat shall be [o] by weight, [p] twenty shekels [3] a day; from day to day [4] you shall eat it. [11][†]And water you shall drink [o] by measure, the sixth part of a hin; [5] from day to day you shall drink. [12][†]And you shall eat it as a barley cake, baking it [q] in their sight on human dung." [13]And the LORD said, "Thus shall the people of Israel eat [r] their bread unclean, among the nations where I will drive them." [14]Then I said, [s] "Ah, Lord GOD! Behold, I have never defiled myself. [6] [t] From my youth up till now I have never eaten [u] what died of itself or was torn by beasts, nor has [v] tainted meat come into my mouth." [15]Then he said to me, "See, I assign to you cow's dung instead of human dung, on which you may prepare your bread." [16][†]Moreover, he said to me, [w] "Son of man, behold, [x] I will break the supply [7] of bread in Jerusalem. They shall eat bread [o] by weight and with anxiety, and they shall drink water [o] by measure and in dismay. [17]I will do this that they may lack bread and water, and [y] look at one another in dismay, and [z] rot away because of their punishment.

Jerusalem Will Be Destroyed

EZEKIEL 5 [†]"And you, [a] O son of man, take a [b] sharp sword. Use it as [c] a barber's razor and [d] pass it over your head and your beard. Then take balances for weighing and divide the hair. [2] [e] A third part you shall burn in the fire [f] in the midst of the city, [g] when the days of the siege are completed. And a third part you shall take and strike with the sword all around the city. [h] And a third part you shall scatter to the wind, and [i] I will unsheathe the sword after them. [3] [j] And you shall take from these a small number and bind them in the skirts of your robe. [4] [k] And of these again you shall take some and cast them into the midst of the fire and burn them in the fire. From there a fire will come out into all the house of Israel.

5[†]“Thus says the Lord GOD: [l]This is Jerusalem. I have set her [m]in the center of the nations, with countries all around her. 6And she has rebelled against my rules by doing wickedness [n]more than the nations, and against my statutes more than [m]the countries all around her; for they have rejected my rules and have not walked in my statutes. 7Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because you are [o]more turbulent than the nations that are all around you, [p]and have not walked in my statutes or obeyed my rules, [q]and have not [1] even acted according to the rules of the nations that are all around you, 8[†]therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I, even I, [r]am against you. [s]And I will execute judgments [2] in your midst [t]in the sight of the nations. 9And because of all your abominations I will do with you [u]what I have never yet done, and the like of which I will never do again. 10Therefore [v]fathers shall eat their sons in your midst, and sons shall eat their fathers. [s]And I will execute judgments on you, [w]and any of you who survive I will scatter to all the winds. 11[†]Therefore, [x]as I live, declares the Lord GOD, surely, [y]because you have defiled my sanctuary [z]with all your detestable things and with all your [a]abominations, [b]therefore I will withdraw. [3] [c]My eye will not spare, and I will have no pity. 12[d]A third part of you shall die of pestilence and be consumed with famine in your midst; [d]a third part shall fall by the sword all around you; [d]and a third part I will scatter to all the winds and will unsheathe the sword after them.

13[e]“Thus shall my anger spend itself, and I will vent my fury upon them and satisfy myself. And they shall know that [f]I am the LORD—that I have spoken in my jealousy—[e]when I spend my fury upon them. 14Moreover, I will make you [g]a desolation and [h]an object of reproach among [i]the nations all around you and in the sight of all who pass by. 15You shall be [4] a reproach and a taunt, a warning [j]and a horror, to [i]the nations all around you, [k]when I execute judgments on you in anger and fury, and [l]with furious rebukes—I am the LORD; I have spoken— 16when I send against you [5] [m]the deadly arrows of famine, arrows for destruction, which I will send to destroy you, and when I bring more and more famine upon [n]you and break your supply [6] of bread. 17I will send famine and [o]wild beasts against you, [p] and they will rob you of your children. Pestilence and [q] blood shall pass through you, and I will bring the sword upon you. I am the LORD; I have spoken."

Judgment Against Idolatry

EZEKIEL 6 [†]The word of the LORD came to me: [2][†] [r] "Son of man, [s] set your face toward [t] the mountains of Israel, and [u] prophesy against them, [3][†]and say, [v] You mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD! Thus says the Lord GOD to [w] the mountains and [x] the hills, to [y] the ravines and the valleys: Behold, I, even I, will bring a sword upon you, [z] and I will destroy your high places. [4] [z] Your altars shall become desolate, and your [a] incense altars shall be broken, and I will cast down your slain before your idols. [5] [z] And I will lay the dead bodies of the people of Israel before their idols, [b] and I will scatter your bones around your altars. [6]Wherever you dwell, [c] the cities shall be waste and [d] the high places ruined, so that your altars will be waste and ruined, [1] your idols broken and destroyed, your [a] incense altars cut down, and your works wiped out. [7]And the slain shall fall in your midst, and you shall know that I am the LORD.

[8][†] [e] "Yet I will leave some of you alive. When you have among the nations [f] some who escape the sword, and when you are scattered through the countries, [9]then those of you who escape [g] will remember me among the nations where they are carried captive, how [h] I have been broken over their whoring heart that has departed from me and over their eyes [i] that go whoring after their idols. [g] And they will be loathsome in their own sight for the evils that they have committed, for all their abominations. [10]And they shall know that I am the LORD. [j] I have not said in vain that I would do this evil to them."

[11]Thus says the Lord GOD: [k] "Clap your hands [l] and stamp your foot and say, Alas, because of all the evil abominations of the house of Israel, [m] for they shall fall by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence. [12] [n] He who is far off shall die of pestilence, and he who is near shall fall by the sword, and he who is left and is preserved shall die of famine. [o] Thus I will spend my fury upon them. [13]And you shall know that I am the LORD, [p] when their slain lie among their idols around their altars, [q] on every high hill, [r] on all the mountaintops, [s] under every green tree, and under [t] every leafy oak, wherever [u] they offered pleasing aroma to all their idols. [14] And [v] I will stretch out my hand against them and [w] make the land desolate and waste, [x] in all their dwelling places, from the wilderness to [y] Riblah. [2] Then [z] they will know that I am the LORD.”

The Day of the Wrath of the LORD

EZEKIEL 7 The word of the LORD came to me: 2[†]“And you, [a]O son of man, thus says the Lord GOD to the land of Israel: [b]An end! The end has come upon the four corners of the land. [1] 3[†]Now [b]the end is upon you, and [c]I will send my anger upon you; [d]I will judge you according to your ways, and I will punish you for all your abominations. 4[e]And my eye will not spare you, nor will I have pity, but [f]I will punish you for your ways, while your abominations are in your midst. [g]Then you will know that I am the LORD.

5“Thus says the Lord GOD: Disaster [h]after disaster! [2] Behold, it comes. 6[b]An end has come; the end has come; it has awakened against you. Behold, it comes. 7[i]Your doom [3] has come to you, O inhabitant of the land. [j]The time has come; the day is near, a day of tumult, and not [k]of joyful shouting on the mountains. 8Now I will soon [l]pour out my wrath upon you, and [m]spend my anger against you, [d]and judge you according to your ways, and I will punish you for all your abominations. 9[e]And my eye will not spare, nor will I have pity. I will punish you according to your ways, while your abominations are in your midst. [n]Then you will know that I am the LORD, who strikes.

10[†][o]“Behold, the day! Behold, it comes! [p]Your doom has come; [q]the rod has blossomed; pride has budded. 11[r]Violence has grown up into [q]a rod of wickedness. [s]None of them shall remain, nor their abundance, nor their wealth; neither shall there be preeminence among them. [4] 12[†][j]The time has come; the day has arrived. Let not [t]the buyer rejoice, nor [t]the seller mourn, [u]for wrath is upon all their multitude. [5] 13For [v]the seller shall not return to what he has sold, while they live. [w]For the vision concerns all their multitude; it shall not turn back; and because of his iniquity, none can maintain his life. [6]

14“They have blown the trumpet and made everything ready, but none goes to battle, [x]for my wrath is upon all their multitude. 15[y]The sword is without; pestilence and famine are within. [z]He who is in the field dies by the sword, [z]and him who is in the city famine and pestilence devour.

16 [a] And if any survivors escape, they will be on the mountains, like [b] doves of the valleys, all of them moaning, each one over his iniquity. 17[†] [c] All hands are feeble, and all knees turn to water. 18 [d] They put on sackcloth, and [e] horror covers them. Shame is on all faces, and [f] baldness on all their heads. 19They cast their silver into the streets, and their gold is like an unclean thing. [g] Their silver and gold are not able to deliver them in the day of the wrath of the LORD. They cannot satisfy their hunger or fill their stomachs with it. [h] For it was [i] the stumbling block of their iniquity. 20 [j] His beautiful ornament they used for pride, and [k] they made their abominable images and their detestable things of it. Therefore [l] I make it an unclean thing to them. 21And I will give it into the hands of [m] foreigners for prey, [n] and to the wicked of the earth for spoil, and [l] they shall profane it. 22I will turn my face from them, and [l] they shall profane my treasured [7] place. Robbers shall enter [l] and profane it.

23 [o] "Forge a chain! [8] [p] For the land is full of bloody crimes [q] and the city is full of violence. 24I will bring [r] the worst of the nations to take possession of their houses. [s] I will put an end to the pride of the strong, [t] and their holy places [9] shall be profaned. 25 [u] When anguish comes, [v] they will seek peace, but there shall be none. 26[†] [w] Disaster comes upon disaster; [x] rumor follows rumor. [y] They seek a vision from the prophet, while [z] the law [10] perishes from the priest and [a] counsel from the elders. 27The king mourns, the prince is wrapped in despair, and the hands of the people of the land are paralyzed by terror. According to their way [b] I will do to them, and according to their judgments I will judge them, [c] and they shall know that I am the LORD."

Abominations in the Temple

EZEKIEL 8 [†] [d] In the sixth year, in the sixth month, on the fifth day of the month, [e] as I sat in my house, with [f] the elders of Judah sitting before me, [g] the hand of the Lord GOD fell upon me there. 2Then I looked, and behold, [h] a form that had the appearance of a man. [1] [h] Below what appeared to be his waist was fire, and above his waist was something like the appearance of brightness, like [i] gleaming metal. [2] 3[†]He [j] put out the form of a hand and took me by a lock of my head, and the Spirit lifted me up [k]between earth and heaven and [l]brought me in [m]visions of God to Jerusalem, [n]to the entrance of the gateway of the inner court that faces north, [o]where was the seat of the [p]image of jealousy, [q]which provokes to jealousy. [4][†]And behold, [r]the glory of the God of Israel was there, like the vision that I saw [s]in the valley.

[5][†]Then he said to me, [t]"Son of man, lift up your eyes now toward the north." So I lifted up my eyes toward the north, and behold, north of [u]the altar gate, in the entrance, was this [p]image of jealousy. [6]And he said to me,
"Son of man, [v]do you see what they are doing, [w]the great abominations that the house of Israel are committing here, [x]to drive me far from my sanctuary? But you will see still greater abominations."

[7]And he brought me to the entrance of the court, and when I looked, behold, there was a hole in the wall. [8]Then he said to me, "Son of man, [y]dig in the wall." So I dug in the wall, and behold, there was an entrance.
[9]And he said to me, "Go in, and see [z]the vile abominations that they are committing here." [10][†]So I went in and saw. And there, [a]engraved on the wall all around, was [b]every form of [c]creeping things and loathsome beasts, and all the idols of the house of Israel. [11][†]And before them stood [d]seventy men of [e]the elders of the house of Israel, with Jaazaniah the son of [f]Shaphan standing among them. Each had his censer in his hand, and [g]the smoke of the cloud of incense went up. [12]Then he said to me, "Son of man, have you seen what the elders of the house of Israel are doing [h]in the dark, each [i]in his room of pictures? For they say, [j]'The LORD does not see us, the LORD has forsaken the land.'" [13]He said also to me, [k]"You will see still greater abominations that they commit."

[14][†]Then he brought me to [l]the entrance of the north gate of the house of the LORD, and behold, there sat women weeping for Tammuz. [15]Then he said to me, "Have you seen this, O [t]son of man? [k]You will see still greater abominations than these."

[16][†]And he brought me into [m]the inner court of the house of the LORD.
And behold, at the entrance of the temple of the LORD, [n]between the [o]porch and [p]the altar, were about twenty-five men, [q]with their backs to the temple of the LORD, and their faces toward the east, worshiping [r]the sun toward the east. [17]Then he said to me, “Have you seen this, O [s]son of man? Is it too light a thing for the house of Judah to commit [t]the abominations that they commit here, that [u]they should fill the land with violence and [v]provoke me still further to anger? Behold, they put the branch to their [3] nose. [18]Therefore [w]I will act in wrath. [x]My eye will not spare, nor will I have pity. [y]And though they cry in my ears with a loud voice, I will not hear them.”

Idolaters Killed

EZEKIEL 9 [†]Then he cried in my ears with a loud voice, saying, “Bring near the executioners of the city, [z]each with his destroying weapon in his hand.” [2]And behold, six men came from the direction of [a]the upper gate, which faces north, each with his weapon for slaughter in his hand, and with them was [b]a man clothed in linen, with a writing case at his waist. And they went in and stood beside [c]the bronze altar.

[3][†]Now [d]the glory of the God of Israel had gone up from the cherub on which it rested to [e]the threshold of the house. And he called to [b]the man clothed in linen, who had the writing case at his waist. [4]And the LORD said to him, “Pass through the city, through Jerusalem, and [f]put a mark on the foreheads of the men who [g]sigh and groan over all the abominations that are committed in it.” [5]And to [h]the others he said in my hearing, “Pass through the city after him, and strike. [i]Your eye shall not spare, and you shall show no pity. [6][†][j]Kill old men outright, young men and maidens, little children and women, but [k]touch no one on whom is the mark. And [l]begin at my sanctuary.” So they began with the elders who were before the house. [7]Then he said to them, [m]“Defile the house, and fill the courts with the slain. Go out.” So they went out and struck in the city. [8][†]And while they were striking, and I was left alone, [n]I fell upon my face, and cried, [o]“Ah, Lord GOD! [p]Will you destroy all the remnant of Israel [q]in the outpouring of your wrath on Jerusalem?”

[9][†]Then he said to me, [r]“The guilt of the house of Israel and Judah is exceedingly great. [s]The land is full of blood, and the city full of injustice.

For [t] they say, ‘The LORD has forsaken the land, and the LORD does not see.’
[10]As for me, [u] my eye will not spare, nor will I have pity; [v] I will bring their deeds upon their heads.”

[11]And behold, [w] the man clothed in linen, with the writing case at his waist, brought back word, saying, “I have done as you commanded me.”

The Glory of the LORD Leaves the Temple

EZEKIEL 10 [†]Then I looked, and behold, [x] on the expanse that was over the heads of the cherubim there appeared above them something [y] like a sapphire, [1] in appearance like a throne. [2][†]And he said to [z] the man clothed in linen, “Go in among [a] the whirling wheels underneath the cherubim. Fill your hands with [b] burning coals from between the cherubim, and [c] scatter them over the city.”

And he went in [d] before my eyes. [3]Now the cherubim were standing [e] on the south side of the house, when the man went in, and [f] a cloud filled [g] the inner court. [4][†]And [h] the glory of the LORD [i] went up from the cherub to the threshold of the house, and the house [f] was filled with the cloud, and the court was filled with [j] the brightness of the glory of the LORD. [5]And [k] the sound of the wings of the cherubim was heard as far as the outer court, [k] like the voice of God Almighty when he speaks.

[6]And when he commanded [l] the man clothed in linen, [m] “Take fire from between [n] the whirling wheels, from between the cherubim,” he went in and stood beside a wheel. [7]And a cherub stretched out his hand from between the cherubim to the fire that was between the cherubim, and took some of it and put it into the hands of the man clothed in linen, who took it and went out. [8]The cherubim appeared to have [o] the form of a human hand under their wings.

[9][†] [p] And I looked, and behold, there were four wheels beside the cherubim, one beside each cherub, and [q] the appearance of the wheels was [r] like sparkling [s] beryl. [10]And as for their appearance, the four had the same likeness, as if a wheel were within a wheel. [11] [t] When they went, they went in any of their four directions [2] [u] without turning as they went, [v] but in whatever direction the front wheel [3] faced, the others followed without turning as they went. 12 [w] And their whole body, their rims, and their spokes, their wings, [4] and the wheels were full of eyes all around—the wheels that the four of them had. 13 As for the wheels, they were called in my hearing [n] "the whirling wheels." 14 [x] And every one had four faces: [y] the first face was the face of the cherub, and the second face was [z] a human face, and the third the face of a lion, and the fourth the face of an eagle.

15 [a] And the cherubim mounted up. These were [b] the living creatures that I saw by [c] the Chebar canal. 16 [d] And when the cherubim went, the wheels went beside them. And [d] when the cherubim lifted up their wings to mount up from the earth, the wheels did not turn from beside them. 17 [e] When they stood still, these stood still, and when they mounted up, these mounted up with them, for the spirit of the living creatures [5] was in them.

18 [f] Then [g] the glory of the Lord went out from the threshold of the house, and stood over the cherubim. 19 [h] And the cherubim lifted up their wings and mounted up from the earth [i] before my eyes as they went out, with the wheels beside them. And they stood at the entrance of the [j] east gate of the house of the Lord, and [k] the glory of the God of Israel was over them.

20 [l] These were the living creatures that I saw [m] underneath the God of Israel by [n] the Chebar canal; and I knew that they were cherubim. 21 [o] Each had four faces, and each four wings, and underneath their wings [p] the likeness of human hands. 22 [q] And as for the likeness of their faces, they were the same faces whose appearance I had seen by the Chebar canal. [r] Each one of them went straight forward.

Judgment on Wicked Counselors

EZEKIEL 11 [†] [s] The Spirit lifted me up and brought me to [t] the east gate of the house of the Lord, which faces east. And behold, at the entrance of the gateway there were [u] twenty-five men. And I saw among them Jaazaniah [v] the son of Azzur, and [w] Pelatiah the son of Benaiah, princes of the people. 2 [†] And he said to me, [x] "Son of man, these are the men who devise iniquity and who give wicked counsel in this city; 3 [y] who say, [z] 'The time is not near [1] to build houses. [a]This city is the cauldron, and we are the meat.' [4]Therefore prophesy against them, prophesy, O son of man."

[5]And [b]the Spirit of the LORD fell upon me, and he said to me, "Say, Thus says the LORD: So you think, O house of Israel. [c]For I know the things that come into your mind. [6][d]You have multiplied your slain in this city and have filled its streets with the slain. [7][†]Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: [e]Your slain whom you have laid in the midst of it, [a]they are the meat, and [a]this city is the cauldron, but you shall be brought out of the midst of it. [8][f]You have feared the sword, and I will bring the sword upon you, declares the Lord GOD. [9]And I will bring you out of the midst of it, and [g]give you into the hands of foreigners, and [h]execute judgments upon you. [10][i]You shall fall by the sword. I will judge you at the border of Israel, [j]and you shall know that I am the LORD. [11][k]This city shall not be your cauldron, nor shall you be the meat in the midst of it. I will judge you at the border of Israel, [12]and you shall know that I am the LORD. For you have not walked in my statutes, nor obeyed my rules, [l]but have acted according to the rules of the nations that are around you."

[13][†]And it came to pass, while I was prophesying, [m]that [n]Pelatiah the son of Benaiah died. [o]Then I fell down on my face and cried out with a loud voice and said, [o]"Ah, Lord GOD! [p]Will you make a full end of the remnant of Israel?"

Israel's New Heart and Spirit

[14][†]And the word of the LORD came to me: [15][q]"Son of man, your brothers, even your brothers, your kinsmen, [2] the whole house of Israel, all of them, are those of whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem have said, [r]'Go far from the LORD; to us this land is given for a possession.' [16]Therefore say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Though I removed them far off among the nations, and though I scattered them among the countries, yet [s]I have been a sanctuary to them for a while [3] in the countries where they have gone.' [17]Therefore say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: [t]I will gather you from the peoples and assemble you out of the countries where you have been scattered, [t]and I will give you the land of Israel.' [18]And when they come there, [u]they will remove from it all its [v]detestable things and all its abominations. [19][w]And I will give them one heart, and [x]a new spirit I will put within them. [y]I will remove the heart of stone from their flesh [z]and give them a heart of flesh, [20][a]that they may walk in my statutes and keep my rules and obey them. [b]And they shall be my people, and I will be their God. [21][c]But as for those whose heart goes after their detestable things and their abominations, [d]I will [4] bring their deeds upon their own heads, declares the Lord GOD.”

[22][†][e]Then the cherubim lifted up their wings, with the wheels beside them, [e]and the glory of the God of Israel was over them. [23]And the glory of the LORD went up from the midst of the city and [f]stood on the mountain that is on the east side of the city. [24][g]And the Spirit lifted me up and brought me [h]in the vision by the Spirit of God [i]into Chaldea, to the exiles. Then the vision that I had seen went up from me. [25]And I told the exiles all the things that the LORD had shown me.

Judah’s Captivity Symbolized

EZEKIEL 12 [†]The word of the LORD came to me: [2][†][j]“Son of man, you dwell in the midst of [k]a rebellious house, [l]who have eyes to see, but see not, who have ears to hear, but hear not, for they are [k]a rebellious house. [3][†]As for you, son of man, prepare for yourself [m]an exile’s baggage, and go into exile by day [n]in their sight. You shall go like an exile from your place to another place [n]in their sight. [o]Perhaps they will understand, though [1] they are a rebellious house. [4]You shall bring out your baggage by day in their sight, as baggage for exile, and you shall go out yourself [p]at evening in their sight, as those do who must go into exile. [5]In their sight [q]dig through the wall, and bring your baggage out through it. [6]In their sight you shall lift the baggage upon your shoulder and carry it out at dusk. You shall cover your face that you may not see the land, for I have made you [r]a sign for the house of Israel.”

[7][s]And I did as I was commanded. [t]I brought out my baggage by day, as baggage for exile, and in the evening I dug through the wall with my own hands. I brought out my baggage at dusk, carrying it on my shoulder in their sight.

[8][†]In the morning the word of the LORD came to me: [9][u]“Son of man, has not the house of Israel, [v]the rebellious house, said to you, [w]‘What are you doing?’ [10]Say to them, ‘Thus says the Lord GOD: This oracle concerns[2] [x]the prince in Jerusalem and all the house of Israel who are in it.’[3] [11]Say, [y]‘I am a sign for you: [z]as I have done, so shall it be done to them. They shall go into exile, into captivity.’ [12][a]And the prince who is among them shall lift his baggage upon his shoulder at dusk, and shall go out. [b]They shall dig through the wall to bring him out through it. [c]He shall cover his face, that he may not see the land with his eyes. [13][†][d]And I will spread my net over him, and he shall be taken in my snare. And [e]I will bring him to Babylon, the land of the Chaldeans, [e]yet he shall not see it, and he shall die there. [14][f]And I will scatter toward every wind all who are around him, his helpers and all his troops, [g]and I will unsheathe the sword after them. [15][h]And they shall know that I am the LORD, when I disperse them among the nations and scatter them among the countries. [16][i]But I will let a few of them escape from the sword, from famine and pestilence, that they may declare all their abominations among the nations where they go, [j]and may know that I am the LORD.”

[17]And the word of the LORD came to me: [18][k]“Son of man, [l]eat your bread with quaking, and drink water with trembling and with anxiety. [19]And say to the people of the land, Thus says the Lord GOD concerning the inhabitants of Jerusalem in the land of Israel: [m]They shall eat their bread with anxiety, [m]and drink water in dismay. In this way [n]her land will be stripped of all it contains, [o]on account of the violence of all those who dwell in it. [20][p]And the inhabited cities shall be laid waste, and the land shall become a desolation; and you shall know that I am the LORD.”

[21][†]And the word of the LORD came to me: [22]“Son of man, [q]what is this proverb that you[4] have about the land of Israel, saying, [r]‘The days grow long, and every vision comes to nothing’? [23]Tell them therefore, ‘Thus says the Lord GOD: I will put an end to this proverb, and they shall no more use it as a proverb in Israel.’ But say to them, [s]The days are near, and the fulfillment[5] of every vision. [24][t]For there shall be no more any [u]false vision or flattering divination within the house of Israel. [25]For I am the LORD; I will speak [v]the word that I will speak, and it will be performed. [w]It will no longer be delayed, but in your days, [x] O rebellious house, I will speak the word and perform it, declares the Lord GOD."

26 And the word of the LORD came to me: 27 "Son of man, behold, they of the house of Israel say, [y] 'The vision that he sees is [z] for many days from now, and he prophesies of times far off.' 28 Therefore say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: [w] None of my words will be delayed any longer, [v] but the word that I speak will be performed, declares the Lord GOD."

False Prophets Condemned

EZEKIEL 13 [†]The word of the LORD came to me: 2 [a]“Son of man, prophesy against the prophets of Israel, who are prophesying, and say to those [b]who prophesy from their own hearts: ‘Hear the word of the LORD!’ 3Thus says the Lord GOD, Woe to the foolish prophets who follow their own spirit, and have seen nothing! 4Your prophets have been like jackals among ruins, O Israel. 5 [c]You have not gone up into the breaches, or built up a wall for the house of Israel, that it might stand in battle in the day of the LORD. 6 [d]They have seen false visions and lying divinations. They say, ‘Declares the LORD,’ [e]when the LORD has not sent them, and yet they expect him to fulfill their word. 7Have you not seen a false vision and uttered a lying divination, [f]whenever you have said, ‘Declares the LORD,’ although I have not spoken?”

8Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: “Because you have uttered falsehood and seen lying visions, therefore behold, [g]I am against you, declares the Lord GOD. 9My hand will be against the prophets who see false visions and who give lying divinations. They shall not be in the council of my people, [h]nor be enrolled in the register of the house of Israel, [i]nor shall they enter the land of Israel. [j]And you shall know that I am the Lord GOD. 10[†]Precisely because they have misled my people, [k]saying, ‘Peace,’ when there is no peace, and because, when the people build a wall, [l]these prophets smear it with whitewash, [1] 11say to those who smear it with whitewash that it shall fall! [m]There will be a deluge of rain, and you, O great hailstones, will fall, and a stormy wind break out. 12And when the wall falls, will it not be said to you, ‘Where is the coating with which you smeared it?’ 13Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: [m]I will make a stormy wind break out in my wrath, [m]and there shall be a deluge of rain in my anger, and great hailstones in wrath to make a full end. 14And I will break down the wall that you have smeared with whitewash, and bring it down to the ground, so that its foundation will be laid bare. When it falls, you shall perish in the midst of it, [n]and you shall know that I am the LORD. 15Thus will I spend my wrath upon the wall and upon those who have smeared it with whitewash, and I will say to you, The wall is no more, nor those who smeared it, [16]the prophets of Israel who prophesied concerning Jerusalem [k]and saw visions of peace for her, when there was no peace, declares the Lord GOD.

[17][†]“And you, son of man, [o]set your face against [p]the daughters of your people, [q]who prophesy out of their own hearts. Prophesy against them [18]and say, Thus says the Lord GOD: Woe to the women [r]who sew magic bands upon all wrists, and [s]make veils for the heads of persons of every stature, in [t]the hunt for souls! Will you hunt down souls belonging to my people and keep your own souls alive? [19]You have profaned me among my people [u]for handfuls of barley [v]and for pieces of bread, putting to death souls who should not die and keeping alive souls who should not live, by your lying to my people, who listen to lies.

[20]“Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, [w]I am against [x]your magic bands with which you hunt the souls like birds, and I will tear them from your arms, and I will let the souls whom you hunt go free, the souls like birds. [21]Your veils also I will tear off and [y]deliver my people out of your hand, and they shall be no more in your hand as prey, [z]and you shall know that I am the LORD. [22][†][a]Because you have disheartened the righteous falsely, although I have not grieved him, and [b]you have encouraged the wicked, that [c]he should not turn from his evil way to save his life, [23][d]therefore you shall no more see false visions nor practice divination. I will deliver my people out of your hand. And you shall know that I am the LORD.”

Idolatrous Elders Condemned

EZEKIEL 14 [†]Then certain of the [e]elders of Israel came to me [e]and sat before me. [2]And the word of the LORD came to me: [3][f]“Son of man, these men have taken their idols into their hearts, and set [g]the stumbling block of their iniquity before their faces. [h]Should I indeed let myself be consulted by them? [4]Therefore speak to them and say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: Any one of the house of Israel who takes his idols into his heart and sets the stumbling block of his iniquity before his face, and yet comes to the prophet, [i]I the LORD will answer him as he comes with the multitude of his idols, [5][j] that I may lay hold of the hearts of the house of Israel, [k] who are all estranged from me through their idols.

[6]“Therefore say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord GOD: [l] Repent and turn away from your idols, and turn away your faces from all your abominations. [7]For any one of the house of Israel, or of the strangers who sojourn in Israel, [k] who separates himself from me, taking his idols into his heart and putting the stumbling block of his iniquity before his face, and yet comes to a prophet to consult me through him, [m] I the LORD will answer him myself. [8]And [n] I will set my face against that man; I [o] will make him a sign and a byword [n] and cut him off from the midst of my people, [p] and you shall know that I am the LORD. [9][†]And if the prophet is deceived and speaks a word, [q] I, the LORD, have deceived that prophet, and I will stretch out my hand against him and will destroy him from the midst of my people Israel. [10]And they shall bear their punishment [1]—the punishment of the prophet and the punishment of the inquirer shall be alike— [11]that the house of Israel may no more go astray from me, nor [r] defile themselves anymore with all their transgressions, [s] but that they may be my people and I may be their God, declares the Lord GOD.”

Jerusalem Will Not Be Spared

[12][†]And the word of the LORD came to me: [13][t] “Son of man, when a land sins against me [u] by acting faithlessly, and I stretch out my hand against it and [v] break its supply [2] of bread and send famine upon it, and [w] cut off from it man and beast, [14][x] even if these three men, [y] Noah, [z] Daniel, and [a] Job, were in it, [b] they would deliver but their own lives by their righteousness, declares the Lord GOD.

[15][c] “If I cause wild beasts to pass through the land, and they ravage it, [d] and it be made desolate, so that no one may pass through because of the beasts, [16]even if these three men were in it, [e] as I live, declares the Lord GOD, they would deliver neither sons nor daughters. They alone would be delivered, but [f] the land would be desolate.

[17]“Or [g] if I bring a sword upon that land and say, Let a sword pass through the land, [h] and I cut off from it man and beast, [18][x] though these three men were in it, as I live, declares the Lord GOD, they would deliver neither sons nor daughters, but they alone would be delivered.

[19]“Or [i] if I send a pestilence into that land and pour out my wrath upon it with blood, to cut off from it man and beast, [20]even if Noah, Daniel, and Job were in it, as I live, declares the Lord GOD, they would deliver neither son nor daughter. They would deliver but their own lives by their righteousness.

[21]“For thus says the Lord GOD: How much more [j] when I send upon Jerusalem my four disastrous acts of judgment, [k] sword, [l] famine, [m] wild beasts, and [n] pestilence, to cut off from it man and beast! [22]But behold, [o] some survivors will be left in it, sons and daughters who will be brought out; behold, when they come out to you, and [p] you see their ways and their deeds, you will be consoled for the disaster that I have brought upon Jerusalem, for all that I have brought upon it. [23]They will console you, when you see their ways and their deeds, and you shall know that I have not done without cause all that I have done in it, declares the Lord GOD.”

Jerusalem, a Useless Vine

EZEKIEL 15 [†]And the word of the LORD came to me: [2] [q] “Son of man, how does [r] the wood of the vine surpass any wood, the vine branch that is among the trees of the forest? [3]Is wood taken from it to make anything? Do people take [s] a peg from it to hang any vessel on it? [4] [t] Behold, it is given to the fire for fuel. When the fire has consumed both ends of it, and the middle of it is charred, is it useful for anything? [5] [u] Behold, when it was whole, it was used for nothing. How much less, when the fire has consumed it and it is charred, can it ever be used for anything! [6]Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: [v] Like the wood of the vine among the trees of the forest, [t] which I have given to the fire for fuel, so have I given up the inhabitants of Jerusalem. [7] [w] And I will set my face against them. Though [x] they escape from the fire, the fire shall yet consume them, [y] and you will know that I am the LORD, [w] when I set my face against them. [8] [z] And I will make the land desolate, because [a] they have acted faithlessly, declares the Lord GOD.”

The LORD’s Faithless Bride

EZEKIEL 16 [†]Again the word of the LORD came to me: [2][†] [b]“Son of man, [c]make known to Jerusalem her abominations, [3]and say, Thus says the Lord GOD to Jerusalem: Your origin and your birth are of the land of the Canaanites; your father was an [d]Amorite and your mother a [e]Hittite. [4][†]And as for your birth, [f]on the day you were born your cord was not cut, nor were you washed with water to cleanse you, nor rubbed with salt, nor wrapped in swaddling cloths. [5]No eye pitied you, to do any of these things to you out of compassion for you, [g]but you were cast out on the open field, for you were abhorred, [f]on the day that you were born.

[6][†]“And when I passed by you and saw you wallowing [h]in your blood, I said to you [h]in your blood, ‘Live!’ I said to you [h]in your blood, ‘Live!’ [7][†] [i]I made you flourish like a plant of the field. And you grew up and became tall [j]and arrived at full adornment. Your breasts were formed, and your hair had grown; yet [k]you were naked and bare.

[8][†]“When I passed by you again and saw you, behold, you were at the age for love, and [l]I spread the corner of my garment over you and covered your nakedness; I made my vow to you [m]and entered into a covenant with you, declares the Lord GOD, [n]and you became mine. [9][†]Then I bathed you with water and washed off your blood from you and [o]anointed you with oil. [10][†] [p]I clothed you also with embroidered cloth and shod you with fine leather. I wrapped you in fine linen and covered you with silk. [1] [11] [q]And I adorned you with ornaments and [r]put bracelets on your wrists and a chain on your neck. [12]And I put a ring on your nose and earrings in your ears and a beautiful crown on your head. [13]Thus you were adorned with gold and silver, and your clothing was of fine linen and silk and embroidered cloth. [s]You ate fine flour and honey and oil. [t]You grew exceedingly beautiful and advanced to royalty. [14][†]And [u]your renown went forth among the nations because of your beauty, for it was perfect through the splendor that I had bestowed on you, declares the Lord GOD.

[15][†] [v]“But you trusted in your beauty [w]and played the whore [2] because of your renown [x]and lavished your whorings [3] on any passerby; your beauty [4] became his. [16]You took some of your garments and made for yourself colorful shrines, and on them played the whore. The like has never been, nor ever shall be. [5] 17You also took [y] your beautiful jewels of my gold and of my silver, which I had given you, and [z] made for yourself images of men, and with them played the whore. 18And you took your embroidered garments to cover them, [a] and set my oil and my incense before them. 19 [b] Also my bread that I gave you—[s] I fed you with fine flour and oil and honey—you set before them for [c] a pleasing aroma; and so it was, declares the Lord GOD. 20 [d] And you took your sons and your daughters, whom you had borne to me, and [e] these you sacrificed to them to be devoured. Were your whorings so small a matter 21that you slaughtered my children and delivered them up as an offering by fire to them? 22And in all your abominations and your whorings you did not remember [f] the days of your youth, [g] when you were naked and bare, wallowing in your blood.

23[†]"And after all your wickedness (woe, woe to you! declares the Lord GOD), 24you built yourself [h] a vaulted chamber and made yourself a lofty place in every square. 25At the head of every street [i] you built your lofty place and made [j] your beauty an abomination, [k] offering yourself [6] to any passerby and multiplying your whoring. 26 [w] You also played the whore [l] with the Egyptians, your lustful neighbors, [m] multiplying your whoring, [n] to provoke me to anger. 27Behold, therefore, I stretched out my hand against you [o] and diminished your allotted portion [p] and delivered you to the greed of your enemies, [q] the daughters of the Philistines, who were ashamed of your lewd behavior. 28 [w] You played the whore also [r] with the Assyrians, because you were not satisfied; yes, you played the whore with them, and still you were not satisfied. 29You multiplied your whoring also with the trading land [t] of Chaldea, and even with this you were not satisfied.

30[†]"How sick is your heart, [7] declares the Lord GOD, because you did all these things, the deeds of a brazen prostitute, 31building your vaulted chamber at the head of every street, and making your lofty place in every square. Yet you were not like a prostitute, [u] because you scorned payment. 32Adulterous wife, who receives strangers instead of her husband! 33Men give gifts to all prostitutes, [v] but you gave your gifts to all your lovers, bribing them to come to you from every side with your whorings. 34So you were different from other women in your whorings. No one solicited you to play the whore, and [v]you gave payment, while no payment was given to you; therefore you were different.

[35][†]“Therefore, O prostitute, hear the word of the LORD: [36]Thus says the Lord GOD, Because your lust was poured out and your nakedness uncovered in your whorings with your lovers, and with all your abominable idols, [w]and because of the blood of your children that you gave to them, [37]therefore, behold, [x]I will gather all your lovers with whom you took pleasure, all those you loved and [y]all those you hated. [z]I will gather them against you from every side [a]and will uncover your nakedness to them, that [b]they may see all your nakedness. [38][c]And I will judge you [d]as women who commit adultery and [e]shed blood are judged, and bring upon you the blood of wrath and jealousy. [39]And I will give you into their hands, and they shall throw down your [f]vaulted chamber and break down [g]your lofty places. [h]They shall strip you of your clothes and take [i]your beautiful jewels and leave you [j]naked and bare. [40][k]They shall bring up a crowd against you, [l]and they shall stone you and cut you to pieces with their swords. [41][l]And they shall [m]burn your houses and [n]execute judgments upon you in the sight of many women. [o]I will make you stop playing the whore, and [p]you shall also give payment no more. [42][q]So will I satisfy my wrath on you, and my jealousy shall depart from you. I will be calm and will no more be angry. [43]Because you have not remembered [r]the days of your youth, but have enraged me with all these things, therefore, behold, [s]I have returned your deeds upon your head, declares the Lord GOD. Have you not [t]committed lewdness in addition to all your abominations?

[44]“Behold, everyone [u]who uses proverbs will use this proverb about you: ‘Like mother, like daughter.’ [45]You are the daughter of your mother, who loathed her husband and her children; and you are the sister of [v]your sisters, who loathed their husbands and their children. [w]Your mother was a Hittite and [w]your father an Amorite. [46]And [x]your elder sister is Samaria, who lived with her daughters to the north of you; and [y]your younger sister, who lived to the south of you, is Sodom with her daughters. [47][z]Not only did you walk in their ways and do according to their abominations; within a very little time [a]you were more corrupt than they in all your ways. [48][b]As I live, declares the Lord GOD, your sister [c]Sodom and her daughters have not done as you and your daughters have done. [49][†]Behold, this was the guilt of your sister Sodom: she and her daughters had pride, [d]excess of food, and prosperous ease, but did not aid the poor and needy. [50]They were haughty and [e]did an abomination before me. So [f]I removed them, when I saw it. [51][g]Samaria has not committed half your sins. You have committed more abominations than they, and [h]have made your sisters appear righteous by all the abominations that you have committed. [52][i]Bear your disgrace, you also, for you have intervened on behalf of your sisters. Because of your sins in which you acted more abominably than they, they are more in the right than you. So be ashamed, you also, and bear your disgrace, for you have made your sisters appear righteous.

[53][†][j]"I will restore their fortunes, both the fortunes of Sodom and her daughters, and the fortunes of Samaria and her daughters, and I will restore your own fortunes in their midst, [54]that you may bear your disgrace [k]and be ashamed of all that you have done, [l]becoming a consolation to them. [55]As for your sisters, Sodom and her daughters shall return to their former state, [j]and Samaria and her daughters shall return [m]to their former state, [j]and you and your daughters shall return [m]to your former state. [56]Was not your sister Sodom a byword in your mouth [n]in the day of your pride, [57]before your wickedness was uncovered? Now you have become [o]an object of reproach for the daughters of Syria [8] and all those around her, and for [p]the daughters of the Philistines, [q]those all around who despise you. [58][r]You bear the penalty of your lewdness and your abominations, declares the LORD.

The LORD's Everlasting Covenant

[59]"For thus says the Lord GOD: I will deal with you as you have done, you [s]who have despised the oath in breaking the covenant, [60][†]yet [t]I will remember my covenant with you [u]in the days of your youth, [v]and I will establish for you an everlasting covenant. [61][w]Then you will remember your ways [x]and be ashamed when you take [y]your sisters, both your elder and your younger, and I give them to you [z]as daughters, but not on account of [9] the covenant with you. [62]I will establish my covenant with you, [a]and you shall know that I am the LORD, [63]that you may remember and be confounded, and [b]never open your mouth again because of your shame, when I atone for you for all that you have done, declares the Lord GOD.”

Parable of Two Eagles and a Vine

EZEKIEL 17 [†]The word of the LORD came to me: [2][†] [c]“Son of man, [d]propound a riddle, and speak a parable to the house of Israel; [3][†]say, Thus says the Lord GOD: [e]A great eagle [f]with great wings and long pinions, [f]rich in plumage of many colors, came [g]to Lebanon [h]and took the top of the cedar. [4]He broke off the topmost of its young twigs and carried it to a land of trade and set it in a city of merchants. [5]Then he took of the seed of the land [i]and planted it in fertile soil. [1] He placed it beside abundant waters. [j]He set it like a willow twig, [6]and it sprouted and became a [k]low [l]spreading vine, and its branches turned toward him, and its roots remained where it stood. So it became a vine and produced branches and put out boughs.

[7][†] [m]“And there was another great eagle with great wings and much plumage, [m]and behold, this vine bent its roots toward him and shot forth its branches toward him from [n]the bed where it was planted, that he might water it. [8][†] [i]It had been planted on good soil by abundant waters, that it might produce branches and bear fruit and become a noble vine.

[9]“Say, Thus says the Lord GOD: [m]Will it thrive? Will he not pull up its roots and cut off its fruit, so that it withers, so that all its fresh sprouting leaves wither? It will not take a strong arm or many people to pull it from its roots. [10]Behold, it is planted; will it thrive? [o]Will it not utterly wither when the east wind strikes it—wither away on the bed where it sprouted?”

[11][†]Then the word of the LORD came to me: [12]“Say now to [p]the rebellious house, [q]Do you not know what these things mean? Tell them, behold, [r]the king of Babylon came to Jerusalem, and took her king and her princes and brought them to him to Babylon. [13] [s]And he took one of the royal offspring [2] [t]and made a covenant with him, [u]putting him under oath ([v]the chief men of the land he had taken away), [14]that the kingdom might be humble and not lift itself up, and keep his covenant that it might stand. [15] [w]But he rebelled against him by sending his ambassadors [x]to Egypt, that they might give him horses and a large army. [y] Will he thrive? Can one escape who does such things? Can he [z] break the covenant and yet escape?

16 [a] "As I live, declares the Lord GOD, surely [b] in the place where the king dwells [c] who made him king, whose oath he despised, and whose covenant with him he broke, in Babylon he shall die. 17 [d] Pharaoh with his mighty army and great company will not help him in war, [e] when mounds are cast up and siege walls built to cut off many lives. 18 He despised the oath in breaking the covenant, and behold, he gave his hand and did all these things; he shall not escape. 19 [†]Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: As I live, surely it is my oath that he despised, and my covenant that he broke. I will return it upon his head. 20 [f] I will spread my net over him, and he shall be taken in my snare, and I will bring him to Babylon [g] and enter into judgment with him there [h] for the treachery he has committed against me. 21 And all the pick [3] of his troops shall fall by the sword, [i] and the survivors shall be scattered to every wind, and you shall know that [j] I am the LORD; I have spoken."

22 [†]Thus says the Lord GOD: [k] "I myself will take a sprig from the lofty top of the cedar and will set it out. [l] I will break off from the topmost of its young twigs a tender one, and [m] I myself will plant it on a high and lofty mountain. 23 [n] On the mountain height of Israel will I plant it, that it may bear branches and produce fruit and become a noble cedar. [o] And under it will dwell every kind of bird; in the shade of its branches birds of every sort will nest. 24 And all the trees of the field shall know that I am the LORD; [p] I bring low the high tree, and make high the low tree, dry up [q] the green tree, and make [q] the dry tree flourish. [r] I am the LORD; I have spoken, and I will do it."

The Soul Who Sins Shall Die

EZEKIEL 18 [†]The word of the LORD came to me: 2 "What do you [1] mean [s] by repeating this proverb concerning the land of Israel, [t] 'The fathers have eaten sour grapes, and the children's teeth are set on edge'? 3 [u] As I live, declares the Lord GOD, [v] this proverb shall no more be used by you in Israel. [4]Behold, all souls are mine; the soul of the father as well as the soul of the son is mine: [w]the soul who sins shall die.

[5][†]“If a man is righteous and does [x]what is just and right— [6]if he [y]does not eat upon the mountains or [z]lift up his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel, [a]does not defile his neighbor’s wife [b]or approach [c]a woman in her time of menstrual impurity, [7][d]does not oppress anyone, but [e]restores to the debtor his pledge, [f]commits no robbery, [g]gives his bread to the hungry [g]and covers the naked with a garment, [8][h]does not lend at interest [h]or take any profit, [2] withholds his hand from injustice, [i]executes true justice between man and man, [9][j]walks in my statutes, and keeps my rules by acting faithfully—he is righteous; [k]he shall surely live, declares the Lord GOD.

[10]“If he fathers a son who is violent, [l]a shedder of blood, who does any of these things [11](though he himself did none of these things), [m]who even eats upon the mountains, [n]defiles his neighbor’s wife, [12]oppresses the poor and needy, [o]commits robbery, [o]does not restore the pledge, [p]lifts up his eyes to the idols, [q]commits abomination, [13][r]lends at interest, and takes profit; shall he then live? He shall not live. He has done all these abominations; he shall surely die; [s]his blood shall be upon himself.

[14]“Now suppose this man fathers a son who sees all the sins that his father has done; he sees, and does not do likewise: [15]he does not eat upon the mountains or lift up his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel, does not defile his neighbor’s wife, [16]does not oppress anyone, [t]exacts no pledge, [u]commits no robbery, [v]but gives his bread to the hungry [v]and covers the naked with a garment, [17]withholds his hand from iniquity, [3] takes no interest or profit, obeys my rules, [w]and walks in my statutes; he shall not die for his father’s iniquity; [x]he shall surely live. [18]As for his father, because he practiced extortion, robbed his brother, and did what is not good among his people, [y]behold, he shall die for his iniquity.

[19][†]“Yet you say, [z]‘Why should not the son suffer for the iniquity of the father?’ When the son has done [a]what is just and right, and has been careful to observe all my statutes, [b]he shall surely live. [20][†][c]The soul who sins shall die. [d]The son shall not suffer for the iniquity of the father, nor the father suffer for the iniquity of the son. [e]The righteousness of the righteous shall be upon himself, [f]and the wickedness of the wicked shall be upon himself.

[21] [g]"But if a wicked person turns away from all his sins that he has committed and keeps all my statutes and does [h]what is just and right, [i]he shall surely live; he shall not die. [22] [j]None of the transgressions that he has committed shall be remembered against him; for the righteousness that he has done he shall live. [23] [k]Have I any pleasure in the death of the wicked, declares the Lord GOD, and not rather that he should turn from his way and live? [24] [l]But when a righteous person turns away from his righteousness and does injustice and does the same abominations that the wicked person does, shall he live? [m]None of the righteous deeds that he has done shall be remembered; for [n]the treachery of which he is guilty and the sin he has committed, for them he shall die.

[25][†] [o]"Yet you say, 'The way of the Lord is not just.' Hear now, O house of Israel: Is my way not just? Is it not your ways that are not just? [26] [l]When a righteous person turns away from his righteousness and does injustice, he shall die for it; for the injustice that he has done he shall die. [27]Again, [p]when a wicked person turns away from the wickedness he has committed and does what is just and right, he shall save his life. [28]Because he considered and turned away from all the transgressions that he had committed, he shall surely live; he shall not die. [29]Yet the house of Israel says, 'The way of the Lord is not just.' O house of Israel, are my ways not just? Is it not your ways that are not just?

[30][†]"Therefore [q]I will judge you, O house of Israel, every one according to his ways, declares the Lord GOD. [r]Repent and turn from all your transgressions, [s]lest iniquity be your ruin. [4] [31] [t]Cast away from you all the transgressions that you have committed, and [u]make yourselves a new heart and a new spirit! [v]Why will you die, O house of Israel? [32] [w]For I have no pleasure in the death of anyone, declares the Lord GOD; [r]so turn, and live."

A Lament for the Princes of Israel

EZEKIEL 19 [†]And you, [x]take up a lamentation for the princes of Israel, [2]and say:

What was your mother? [y]A lioness!
Among lions she crouched;
in the midst of young lions she reared her cubs.
[3] And she brought up one of her cubs;
[z]he became a young lion,
[a]and he learned to catch prey;
he devoured men.
[4] The nations heard about him;
[b]he was caught in their pit,
[c]and they brought him with hooks to the land of Egypt.
[5] When she saw that she waited in vain,
that her hope was lost, [d]she took another of her cubs and made him a young lion.
[6] He prowled among the lions;
he became a young lion,
and he learned to catch prey;
he devoured men,
[7] and seized[1] their widows.
He laid waste their cities, and the land was appalled and all who were in it at the sound of his roaring.
[8] [e]Then the nations set against him from provinces on every side;
[f]they spread their net over him;
[b]he was taken in their pit.
[9] With hooks [e]they put him in a cage[2] and [g] brought him to the king of Babylon;

they brought him into custody, that his voice should no more be heard on [h] the mountains of Israel.

10 [†] Your mother was [i] like a vine in a vineyard [3] planted by the water,
[j] fruitful and full of branches
[k] by reason of abundant water.
11 Its strong stems became rulers' scepters;
it towered aloft
among the thick boughs; [4] it was seen in its height with the mass of its branches.
12 But the vine was plucked up in fury,
cast down to the ground;
[l] the east wind dried up its fruit;
they were stripped off and withered.
As for its strong stem,
fire consumed it.
13 [m] Now it is planted in the wilderness,
in a dry and thirsty land.
14 [n] And fire has gone out from the stem of its shoots, has consumed its fruit,
[o] so that there remains in it no strong stem,
no scepter for ruling.

This is [p] a lamentation and has become a lamentation.

Israel's Continuing Rebellion

EZEKIEL 20 [†] [q] In the seventh year, in the fifth month, on the tenth day of the month, certain of [r] the elders of Israel came to inquire of the LORD, [s] and sat before me. 2 And the word of the LORD came to me: 3 [t] "Son of man, speak to the elders of Israel, and say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD, Is it to inquire of me that you come? [u] As I live, declares the Lord GOD, [v] I will not be inquired of by you. 4 [w] Will you judge them, son of man, will you judge them? [x] Let them know the abominations of their fathers, 5[†]and say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: [y] On the day when I chose Israel, [z] I swore [1] to the offspring of the house of Jacob, [a] making myself known to them in the land of Egypt; [z] I swore to them, saying, I am the LORD your God. 6On that day I swore to them that [b] I would bring them out of the land of Egypt into a land that I had searched out for them, a land [b] flowing with milk and honey, [c] the most glorious of all lands. 7And I said to them, [d] Cast away the detestable things [e] your eyes feast on, every one of you, and do not defile yourselves with [f] the idols of Egypt; [g] I am the LORD your God. 8 [h] But they rebelled against me and were not willing to listen to me. [i] None of them cast away the detestable things their eyes feasted on, nor did they forsake the idols of Egypt.

“Then I said I would pour out my wrath upon them [j] and spend my anger against them in the midst of the land of Egypt. 9[†] [k] But I acted [l] for the sake of my name, [m] that it should not be profaned in the sight of the nations among whom they lived, [n] in whose sight I made myself known to them in bringing them out of the land of Egypt. 10 [o] So I led them out of the land of Egypt and brought them into the wilderness. 11 [p] I gave them my statutes and made known to them my rules, [q] by which, if a person does them, he shall live. 12Moreover, I gave them [r] my Sabbaths, as a sign between me and them, [s] that they might know that I am the LORD who sanctifies them. 13 [t] But the house of Israel rebelled against me in the wilderness. [u] They did not walk in my statutes but rejected my rules, by which, if a person does them, he shall live; [v] and my Sabbaths they greatly profaned.

[t] “Then I said I would pour out my wrath upon them in the wilderness, to make a full end of them. 14But I acted for the sake of my name, that it should not be profaned in the sight of the nations, [w] in whose sight I had brought them out. 15Moreover, [x] I swore to them in the wilderness [y] that I would not bring them into the land that I had given them, a land [z] flowing with milk and honey, [z] the most glorious of all lands, 16because they rejected my rules and did not walk in my statutes, and profaned my Sabbaths; [a] for their heart went after their idols. 17Nevertheless, [b] my eye spared them, and I did not destroy them or [c] make a full end of them in the wilderness.

[18]"And I said to [d] their children in the wilderness, Do not walk [e] in the statutes of your fathers, nor keep their rules, [f] nor defile yourselves with their idols. [19] [g] I am the LORD your God; [h] walk in my statutes, and be careful to obey my rules, [20]and [i] keep my Sabbaths holy that [j] they may be a sign between me and you, that you may know that I am the LORD your God. [21] [k] But the children [l] rebelled against me. [m] They did not walk in my statutes and were not careful to obey my rules, by which, if a person does them, he shall live; they profaned my Sabbaths.

[n] "Then I said I would pour out my wrath upon them and spend my anger against them in the wilderness. [22][†] [o] But I withheld my hand [p] and acted for the sake of my name, [q] that it should not be profaned in the sight of the nations, in whose sight I had brought them out. [23] [r] Moreover, [s] I swore to them in the wilderness [t] that I would scatter them among the nations and disperse them through the countries, [24]because they had not obeyed my rules, but had rejected my statutes and profaned my Sabbaths, [u] and their eyes were set on their fathers' idols. [25] [v] Moreover, I gave them statutes that were not good and rules by which they could not have life, [26]and I defiled them through [w] their very gifts [w] in their offering up all their firstborn, that I might devastate them. I did it [x] that they might know that I am the LORD.

[27][†]"Therefore, [y] son of man, speak to the house of Israel and say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: In this also your fathers blasphemed me, by [z] dealing treacherously with me. [28]For when I had brought them into the land that [a] I swore to give them, then wherever they saw [b] any high hill or any leafy tree, there they offered their sacrifices and there they presented [c] the provocation of their offering; there they sent up their pleasing aromas, and there they poured out their drink offerings. [29](I said to them, [d] What is the high place to which you go? So its name is called Bamah [2] to this day.)

[30]"Therefore say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord GOD: [e] Will you defile yourselves after the manner of your fathers and go [f] whoring after their detestable things? [31]When you present your gifts and [g] offer up your children in fire, [3] you defile yourselves with all your idols to this day.

And [h] shall I be inquired of by you, O house of Israel? [i] As I live, declares the Lord GOD, I will not be inquired of by you.

[32][†] [j] “What is in your mind shall never happen—the thought, [k] ‘Let us be like the nations, like the tribes of the countries, [l] and worship wood and stone.’

The LORD Will Restore Israel

[33][†] [i] “As I live, declares the Lord GOD, [m] surely with a mighty hand and an outstretched arm and [n] with wrath poured out I will be king over you. [34] [o] I will bring you out from the peoples and gather you out of the countries where you are scattered, with a mighty hand and an outstretched arm, and with wrath poured out. [35] [p] And I will bring you into the wilderness of the peoples, [q] and there I will enter into judgment with you [r] face to face. [36] [s] As I entered into judgment with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so I will enter into judgment with you, declares the Lord GOD. [37] I will make you [t] pass under the rod, and I will bring you into the bond of the covenant. [38] [u] I will purge out the rebels from among you, and those who transgress against me. [v] I will bring them out of the land where they sojourn, [w] but they shall not enter the land of Israel. [x] Then you will know that I am the LORD.

[39][†] “As for you, O house of Israel, thus says the Lord GOD: [y] Go serve every one of you his idols, now and hereafter, if you will not listen to me; [z] but my holy name you shall no more profane with your gifts and your idols.

[40][†] [a] “For on my holy mountain, the mountain height of Israel, declares the Lord GOD, there [b] all the house of Israel, all of them, shall serve me in the land. [c] There I will accept them, and there I will require your contributions and the choicest of your gifts, with all your sacred offerings. [41] As a pleasing aroma I will accept you, when [d] I bring you out from the peoples and gather you out of the countries where you have been scattered. And [e] I will manifest my holiness among you in the sight of the nations. [42] [f] And you shall know that I am the LORD, when I bring you into the land of Israel, the country that [g] I swore to give to your fathers. [43] [h] And there you shall remember your ways and all your deeds with which you have defiled yourselves, [h] and you shall loathe yourselves for all the evils that you have committed. [44]And you shall know that I am the LORD, [i] when I deal with you for my name's sake, [j] not according to your evil ways, nor according to your corrupt deeds, O house of Israel, declares the Lord GOD."

[45][†] [4] And the word of the LORD came to me: [46] [k] "Son of man, [l] set your face toward the southland; [5] [m] preach against the south, and prophesy against the forest land in the Negeb. [47]Say to the forest of the Negeb, Hear the word of the LORD: Thus says the Lord GOD, Behold, [n] I will kindle a fire in you, and it shall devour every [o] green tree in you and every [o] dry tree. The blazing flame shall not be quenched, and [p] all faces from south to north shall be scorched by it. [48] [q] All flesh shall see that I the LORD have kindled it; it shall not be quenched." [49]Then I said, [r] "Ah, Lord GOD! They are saying of me, [s] 'Is he not a maker of parables?'"

The LORD Has Drawn His Sword

EZEKIEL 21 [†] [1] The word of the LORD came to me: [2] [t] "Son of man, [u] set your face toward Jerusalem and [v] preach against the sanctuaries. [2] Prophesy against the land of Israel [3][†]and say to the land of Israel, Thus says the LORD: [w] Behold, I am against you and will draw [x] my sword from its sheath and [y] will cut off from you both righteous and wicked. [4]Because I will cut off from you both righteous and wicked, therefore my sword shall be drawn from its sheath against all flesh from south to north. [5] [z] And all flesh shall know that I am the LORD. I have drawn [x] my sword from its sheath; [a] it shall not be sheathed again.

[6][†]"As for you, son of man, [b] groan; with breaking heart and bitter grief, [c] groan before their eyes. [7] [d] And when they say to you, 'Why do you groan?' you shall say, 'Because of the news [e] that it is coming. [f] Every heart will melt, and [g] all hands will be feeble; every spirit will faint, and [g] all knees will be weak as water. [h] Behold, it is [e] coming, and it will be fulfilled,'" declares the Lord GOD.

[8][†]And the word of the LORD came to me: [9] [t] "Son of man, prophesy and say, Thus says the Lord, say:

[i]"A sword, a sword is sharpened and also polished,
10 [j] sharpened for slaughter,
[j] polished to flash like lightning!

(Or [k] shall we rejoice? You have despised the rod, my son, [l] with everything of wood.) [3] [11]So the sword is given to be polished, that it may be grasped in the hand. It is sharpened and polished [m] to be given into the hand of the slayer. [12][†] [n] Cry out and wail, son of man, for it is against my people. It is against all the princes of Israel. They are delivered over to the sword with my people. [o] Strike therefore upon your thigh. [13]For it will not be a testing—what could it do if you despise [p] the rod?" [4] declares the Lord GOD.

[14][†]"As for you, [q] son of man, prophesy. [r] Clap your hands and let the sword come down twice, [s] yes, three times, [5] the sword for those to be slain. It is the sword for the great slaughter, which surrounds them, [15]that their hearts may melt, and many stumble. [6] At all their gates I have given the glittering sword. Ah, it is made like lightning; [t] it is taken up [7] for slaughter. [16]Cut sharply to the right; set yourself to the left, wherever your face is directed. [17]I also will [r] clap my hands, [u] and I will satisfy my fury; [v] I the LORD have spoken."

[18][†]The word of the LORD came to me again: [19]"As for you, son of man, mark two ways for [w] the sword of the king of Babylon to come. Both of them shall come from the same land. And make [x] a signpost; make it [x] at the head of the way to a city. [20]Mark a way [y] for the sword to come to Rabbah of the Ammonites and to Judah, into Jerusalem the fortified. [21]For the king of Babylon stands [z] at the parting of the way, at the head of the two ways, to use divination. He shakes the arrows; he consults [a] the teraphim; [8] he looks at the liver. [22]Into his right hand comes the divination for Jerusalem, [b] to set battering rams, to open the mouth with murder, to lift up the voice with shouting, to set battering rams against the gates, [c] to cast up mounds, to build siege towers. [23]But to them it will seem like a false divination. [d] They have sworn solemn oaths, but he brings their guilt to remembrance, [e] that they may be taken.

[24][†]“Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because you have made your guilt to be remembered, in that your transgressions are uncovered, so that in all your deeds your sins appear—because you have come to remembrance, [f]you shall be taken in hand. [25]And you, O profane [9] [g]wicked one, prince of Israel, [h]whose day has come, [i]the time of your final punishment, [26]thus says the Lord GOD: Remove the turban and take off the crown. Things shall not remain as they are. [j]Exalt that which is low, and bring low that which is exalted. [27]A ruin, ruin, ruin I will make it. [k]This also shall not be, [l]until he comes, the one to whom judgment belongs, and I will give it to him.

[28]“And you, [m]son of man, prophesy, and say, Thus says the Lord GOD [n]concerning the Ammonites and concerning their reproach; say, [o]A sword, a sword [p]is drawn for the slaughter. [o]It is polished to consume and to flash like lightning— [29]while [q]they see for you false visions, while they divine lies for you—to place you on the necks of the profane wicked, [r]whose day has come, the time of their final punishment. [30][†][p]Return it to its sheath. In the place where you were created, in the land of your origin, [s]I will judge you. [31]And [t]I will pour out my indignation upon you; [u]I will blow upon you with the fire of my wrath, and I will deliver you into the hands of [v]brutish men, skillful to destroy. [32]You shall be fuel for the fire. Your blood shall be in the midst of the land. [w]You shall be no more remembered, [x]for I the LORD have spoken.”

Israel’s Shedding of Blood

EZEKIEL 22 [†]And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, [2]“And you, [y]son of man, [z]will you judge, will you judge [a]the bloody city? [b]Then declare to her all her abominations. [3]You shall say, Thus says the Lord GOD: A city that sheds blood in her midst, so that [c]her time may come, and that makes idols to defile herself! [4]You have become guilty [a]by the blood that you have shed, and defiled by the idols that you have made, and you have brought [c]your days near, the appointed time of [1] your years has come. [d]Therefore I have made you a reproach to the nations, and a mockery to all the countries. [5]Those who are near and those who are far from you will mock you; [e]your name is defiled; [f]you are full of tumult.

[6][†]“Behold, [g]the princes of Israel in you, every one according to his power, have been bent on shedding blood. [7]Father and mother [h]are treated with contempt in you; the sojourner [i]suffers extortion in your midst; the fatherless and the widow [i]are wronged in you. [8][j]You have despised my holy things and [k]profaned my Sabbaths. [9][†][l]There are men in you who slander to shed blood, and people in you [m]who eat on the mountains; [n]they commit lewdness in your midst. [10]In you [o]men uncover their fathers’ nakedness; in you they violate women who are unclean in their menstrual impurity. [11][p]One commits abomination with his neighbor’s wife; [q]another lewdly defiles his daughter-in-law; [r]another in you violates his sister, his father’s daughter. [12][†]In you [s]they take bribes to shed blood; [t]you take interest and profit [2] and make gain of your neighbors by extortion; but [u]me you have forgotten, declares the Lord GOD.

[13]“Behold, [v]I strike my hand at [w]the dishonest gain that you have made, and at [x]the blood that has been in your midst. [14][y]Can your courage endure, or can your hands be strong, in the days that I shall deal with you? [z]I the LORD have spoken, and I will do it. [15][a]I will scatter you among the nations and disperse you through the countries, and [b]I will consume your uncleanness out of you. [16]And [c]you shall be profaned by your own doing [d]in the sight of the nations, [e]and you shall know that I am the LORD.”

[17][†]And the word of the LORD came to me: [18][f]“Son of man, the house of Israel has become [g]dross to me; all of them are [h]bronze and tin and iron and lead in the furnace; they are [i]dross of silver. [19]Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because you have all become dross, therefore, behold, I will gather you into the midst of Jerusalem. [20]As one gathers silver and bronze and iron and lead and tin into a furnace, [j]to blow the fire on it in order to melt it, so I will gather you [k]in my anger and in my wrath, and I will put you in and melt you. [21]I will gather you and blow on you with the fire of my wrath, and you shall be melted in the midst of it. [22]As silver is melted in a furnace, so you shall be melted in the midst of it, and you shall know that I am the LORD; [l]I have poured out my wrath upon you.”

[23][†]And the word of the LORD came to me: [24]“Son of man, say to her,
You are a land that is [m]not cleansed [n]or rained upon in the day of indignation. 25 [o]The conspiracy of her prophets in her midst is [p]like a roaring lion [q]tearing the prey; they have devoured human lives; they have taken treasure and precious things; they have made many widows in her midst. 26 [r]Her priests [s]have done violence to my law and [t]have profaned my holy things. [u]They have made no distinction between the holy and the common, neither have they taught the difference between the unclean and the clean, and [v]they have disregarded my Sabbaths, [w]so that I am profaned among them. 27 [x]Her princes in her midst are like wolves [y]tearing the prey, [z]shedding blood, destroying lives to get dishonest gain. 28And [a]her prophets have smeared whitewash for them, [b]seeing false visions and divining lies for them, saying, 'Thus says the Lord GOD,' when the LORD has not spoken. 29The people of the land [c]have practiced extortion and committed robbery. They have oppressed the poor and needy, and [c]have extorted from the sojourner without justice. 30[†] [d]And I sought for a man among them [e]who should build up the wall [e]and stand in the breach before me for the land, that I should not destroy it, but I found none. 31Therefore [f]I have poured out my indignation upon them. I have consumed them with the fire of my wrath. I have returned [g]their way upon their heads, declares the Lord GOD."

Oholah and Oholibah

EZEKIEL 23 [†]The word of the LORD came to me: 2 [h]"Son of man, there were [i]two women, the daughters of one mother. 3[j]They played the whore in Egypt; [j]they played the whore [k]in their youth; there their breasts were pressed and their virgin bosoms [1] handled. 4[†]Oholah was the name of the elder and Oholibah the name of her sister. [l]They became mine, and they [m]bore sons and daughters. As for their names, Oholah is [n]Samaria, and Oholibah is Jerusalem.

5"Oholah played the whore [o]while she was mine, and [p]she lusted after her lovers [q]the Assyrians, warriors 6clothed in purple, [r]governors and commanders, [s]all of them desirable young men, [t]horsemen riding on horses. 7She bestowed her whoring upon them, the choicest men of Assyria all of them, and she defiled herself with all the idols of everyone after whom she lusted. 8She did not give up her whoring [u]that she had begun in Egypt; for in her youth men had lain with her and handled her virgin bosom and poured out their whoring lust upon her. 9Therefore [v]I delivered her into the hands of her lovers, into the hands of the Assyrians, after whom she lusted. 10 [w]These uncovered her nakedness; [x]they seized her sons and her daughters; and as for her, they killed her with the sword; and she became [y]a byword among women, [z]when judgment had been executed on her.

11[†] [a]"Her sister Oholibah saw this, and she became [b]more corrupt than her sister [2] in her lust and in her whoring, which was worse than that of her sister. 12[†]She lusted after the Assyrians, governors and commanders, warriors clothed in full armor, horsemen riding on horses, [s]all of them desirable young men. 13And I saw that she was defiled; they both took the same way. 14[†]But she carried her whoring further. She saw men [c]portrayed on the wall, the [d]images of [e]the Chaldeans portrayed in vermilion, 15wearing belts on their waists, with flowing turbans on their heads, all of them having the appearance of officers, a likeness of Babylonians whose native land was Chaldea. 16When she saw them, she lusted after them and [f]sent messengers to them [e]in Chaldea. 17And the Babylonians came to her [g]into the bed of love, and they defiled her with their whoring lust. And after she was defiled by them, [h]she turned from them in disgust. 18When she carried on her whoring so openly and flaunted her nakedness, I turned in disgust from her, as I had turned in disgust from her sister. 19[†]Yet she increased her whoring, [i]remembering the days of her youth, when she played the whore in the land of Egypt 20and lusted after her lovers there, whose members were like those of donkeys, and whose issue was like that of horses. 21Thus you longed for the lewdness of your youth, when the Egyptians handled your bosom and pressed [3] your young breasts."

22[†]Therefore, O Oholibah, thus says the Lord GOD: "Behold, I will stir up against you your lovers [h]from whom you turned in disgust, [j]and I will bring them against you from every side: 23the Babylonians and all the Chaldeans, [k]Pekod and Shoa and Koa, and all the Assyrians with them, [l]desirable young men, [l]governors and commanders all of them, officers and men of renown, all of them riding on horses. 24And they shall come against you from the north [4] with chariots and wagons and a host of peoples. [m] They shall set themselves against you on every side with buckler, shield, and helmet; and [n] I will commit the judgment to them, and [o] they shall judge you according to their judgments. 25 And I will direct my jealousy against you, [p] that they may deal with you in fury. They shall cut off your nose and your ears, and your survivors shall fall by the sword. [q] They shall seize your sons and your daughters, and your survivors shall be devoured by fire. 26 [r] They shall also strip you of your clothes and take away your beautiful jewels. 27 [s] Thus I will put an end to your lewdness and [t] your whoring begun in the land of Egypt, so that you shall not lift up your eyes to them or remember Egypt anymore.

28 "For thus says the Lord GOD: [u] Behold, I will deliver you into the hands of those whom you hate, [v] into the hands of those from whom you turned in disgust, 29 and [w] they shall deal with you in hatred and take away all the fruit of your labor [x] and leave you naked and bare, and [y] the nakedness of your whoring shall be uncovered. Your lewdness and your whoring 30 have brought this upon you, because [z] you played the whore with the nations and defiled yourself with their idols. 31 You have gone the way of your sister; [a] therefore I will give [b] her cup into your hand. 32 [†] Thus says the Lord GOD:

"You shall drink your sister's cup that is deep and large;
you shall be laughed at and held in derision,
for it contains much;
33 you will be filled with [c] drunkenness and sorrow.
[c] A cup of horror and desolation,
the cup of [d] your sister Samaria; 34 [e] you shall drink it and drain it out,
and gnaw its shards,
and tear your breasts;

for I have spoken, declares the Lord GOD. 35 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because [f] you have forgotten me and [g] cast me behind your back, you yourself [h] must bear the consequences of your lewdness and whoring."

36[†]The LORD said to me: [i]“Son of man, [j]will you judge Oholah and Oholibah? Declare to them their abominations. 37For [k]they have committed adultery, [l]and blood is on their hands. With their idols they have committed adultery, and they have even [m]offered up [5] to them for food the children whom they had borne to me. 38Moreover, this they have done to me: [n]they have defiled my sanctuary on the same day and [o]profaned my Sabbaths. 39For when [p]they had slaughtered their children in sacrifice to their idols, on the same day [q]they came into my sanctuary to profane it. And behold, [r]this is what they did in my house. 40They even sent for men to come from afar, [s]to whom a messenger was sent; and behold, they came. For them you bathed yourself, [t]painted your eyes, [u]and adorned yourself with ornaments. 41You sat on [v]a stately couch, with a table spread before it [w]on which you had placed my incense and [x]my oil. 42The [y]sound of a carefree multitude was with her; and with men of the common sort, drunkards [6] were brought from the wilderness; and they put [z]bracelets on the hands of the women, and [a]beautiful crowns on their heads.

43“Then I said of her who was worn out by adultery, Now they will continue to use her for a whore, even her! [7] 44For they have gone in to her, as men go in to a prostitute. Thus they went in to Oholah and to Oholibah, lewd women! 45But righteous men [b]shall pass judgment on them with the sentence of adulteresses, and with the sentence of women who shed blood, because they are adulteresses, and blood is on their hands.”

46For thus says the Lord GOD: [c]“Bring up a vast host against them, and make them [d]an object of terror and [e]a plunder. 47[f]And the host shall stone them and cut them down with their swords. [g]They shall kill their sons and their daughters, and [h]burn up their houses. 48[i]Thus will I put an end to lewdness in the land, that all women may take warning and not commit lewdness as you have done. 49And they shall return your lewdness upon you, and [j]you shall bear the penalty for your sinful idolatry, and [k]you shall know that I am the Lord GOD.”

The Siege of Jerusalem

EZEKIEL 24 [†] [l]In the ninth year, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: [2][†] [m]“Son of man, write down the name of this day, this very day. The king of Babylon has laid siege to Jerusalem this very day. [3]And [n]utter a parable to [o]the rebellious house and say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD:

“Set on [p]the pot, set it on;
pour in water also;
[4] put in it the pieces of meat,
all the good pieces, [q]the thigh and the shoulder;
fill it with choice bones.
[5] Take the choicest one of the flock;
pile the logs [1] under it;
boil it well;
seethe also its bones in it.

[6]“Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: [r]Woe to the bloody city, to [p]the pot whose corrosion is in it, and whose corrosion has not gone out of it! Take out of it piece after piece, without making any choice. [2] [7]For the blood she has shed is in her midst; she put it on [s]the bare rock; [t]she did not pour it out on the ground to cover it with dust. [8]To rouse my wrath, to take vengeance, I have set on the bare rock the blood she has shed, that it may not be covered. [9]Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Woe to the bloody city! [u]I also will make the pile great. [10][†]Heap on the logs, kindle the fire, boil the meat well, mix in the spices, [3] and let the bones be burned up. [11]Then set it empty upon the coals, that it may become hot, and its copper may burn, [v]that its uncleanness may be melted in it, its corrosion consumed. [12] [w]She has wearied herself with toil; [4] its abundant corrosion does not go out of it. Into the fire with its corrosion! [13]On account of your unclean lewdness, because I would have cleansed you and you were not cleansed from your uncleanness, [x]you shall not be cleansed anymore till [y]I have satisfied my fury upon you. [14] [z]I am the LORD. I have spoken; it shall come to pass; I will do it. I will not go back; [a]I will not spare; [b]I will not relent;

[c] according to your ways and your deeds you will be judged, declares the Lord GOD.”

Ezekiel’s Wife Dies

[15][†]The word of the LORD came to me: [16] [d] “Son of man, behold, I am about to take the delight of your eyes away from you at a stroke; yet you shall not mourn or weep, nor shall your tears run down. [17]Sigh, but not aloud; make no mourning for the dead. [e] Bind on your turban, and [f] put your shoes on your feet; do not cover your lips, [g] nor eat the bread of men.” [18]So I spoke to the people in the morning, and [h] at evening my wife died. And on the next morning I did [i] as I was commanded.

[19][†]And [j] the people said to me, “Will you not tell us what these things mean for us, that you are acting thus?” [20]Then I said to them, “The word of the LORD came to me: [21]‘Say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord GOD: [k] Behold, I will profane my sanctuary, the pride of your power, the delight of your eyes, and the yearning of your soul, and [l] your sons and your daughters whom you left behind shall fall by the sword. [22]And [m] you shall do as I have done; [m] you shall not cover your lips, [g] nor eat the bread of men. [23] [m] Your turbans shall be on your heads and your shoes on your feet; you shall not mourn or weep, but [n] you shall rot away in your iniquities and groan to one another. [24]Thus shall Ezekiel be to you [o] a sign; [m] according to all that he has done you shall do. When this comes, then [p] you will know that I am the Lord GOD.’

[25][†]“As for you, [q] son of man, surely on the day when I take from them [r] their stronghold, their joy and glory, the delight of their eyes and their soul’s desire, and also their sons and daughters, [26] [s] on that day a fugitive will come to you to report to you the news. [27]On that day your mouth [t] will be opened to the fugitive, and you shall speak and be no longer mute. [u] So you will be a sign to them, and [v] they will know that I am the LORD.”

Prophecy Against Ammon

EZEKIEL 25 [†]The word of the LORD came to me: 2 [w]"Son of man, [x]set your face toward [y]the Ammonites and prophesy against them. 3[†]Say to the Ammonites, Hear the word of the Lord GOD: [z]Thus says the Lord GOD, Because you said, [a]'Aha!' over my [b]sanctuary when it was profaned, and over the land of Israel when it was made desolate, and over the house of Judah when they went into exile, 4[†]therefore behold, I am handing you over to [c]the people of the East for a possession, and they shall set their encampments among you and make their dwellings in your midst. They shall eat your fruit, and they shall drink your milk. 5I will make [d]Rabbah a [e]pasture for camels and Ammon [1] [e]a fold for flocks. [v]Then you will know that I am the LORD. 6For thus says the Lord GOD: Because [f]you have clapped your hands [g]and stamped your feet and [h]rejoiced with all the [i]malice within your soul against the land of Israel, 7therefore, behold, [j]I have stretched out my hand against you, and [k]will hand you over as plunder to the nations. And I will cut you off from the peoples and will make you perish out of the countries; I will destroy you. Then you will know that I am the LORD.

Prophecy Against Moab and Seir

8"Thus says the Lord GOD: Because [l]Moab and [m]Seir [2] said, 'Behold, the [n]house of Judah is like all the other nations,' 9therefore [l]I will lay open the flank of Moab from the cities, from its cities on its frontier, the glory of the country, [o]Beth-jeshimoth, [p]Baal-meon, and [q]Kiriathaim. 10I will give it [r]along with the Ammonites [s]to the people of the East as a possession, [t]that the Ammonites may be remembered no more among the nations, 11 [l]and I will execute judgments upon Moab. [u]Then they will know that I am the LORD.

Prophecy Against Edom

12[†]"Thus says the Lord GOD: Because [v]Edom acted revengefully against the house of Judah and has grievously offended [w]in taking vengeance on them, [13]therefore thus says the Lord GOD, [x]I will stretch out my hand against Edom and cut off from it man and beast. And I will make it desolate; from [y]Teman even to [z]Dedan they shall fall by the sword. [14]And I will lay my vengeance upon Edom [a]by the hand of my people Israel, and they shall do in Edom according to my anger and according to my wrath, and [b]they shall know my vengeance, declares the Lord GOD.

Prophecy Against Philistia

[15]"Thus says the Lord GOD: Because [c]the Philistines [d]acted revengefully and took vengeance [e]with malice of soul to destroy in never-ending enmity, [16]therefore thus says the Lord GOD, [x]Behold, I will stretch out my hand against the Philistines, and I will cut off [f]the Cherethites and destroy the rest of the seacoast. [17]I will execute great vengeance on them [g]with wrathful rebukes. [h]Then they will know that I am the LORD, when I lay my vengeance upon them."

Prophecy Against Tyre

EZEKIEL 26 [†] [i]In the eleventh year, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: [2][j]"Son of man, because [k]Tyre said concerning Jerusalem, [l]'Aha, the gate of the peoples is broken; it has swung open to me. I shall be replenished, now that she is laid waste,' [3][†]therefore thus says the Lord GOD: [m]Behold, I am against you, O Tyre, and will bring up [n]many nations against you, [o]as the sea brings up its waves. [4][†]They shall destroy the walls of Tyre and break down her towers, and I will scrape her soil from her and [p]make her a bare rock. [5]She [q]shall be in the midst of the sea a place for the spreading of nets, [r]for I have spoken, declares the Lord GOD. And she shall become plunder for the nations, [6][†]and her daughters on the mainland shall be killed by the sword. [s]Then they will know that I am the LORD.

[7]"For thus says the Lord GOD: [t]Behold, I will bring against Tyre [u]from the north Nebuchadnezzar [1] king of Babylon, [v]king of kings, with horses and chariots, and with horsemen and a host of many soldiers. [8]He will kill with the sword [w]your daughters on the mainland. [x]He will set up a siege wall against you and throw up a mound against you, and raise [y]a roof of shields against you. [9][z]He will direct the shock of his battering rams against your walls, and with his axes he will break down your towers. [10]His horses will be so many that their dust will cover you. Your walls will shake at the noise of the horsemen and wagons and chariots, when he enters your gates as men enter a city that has been breached. [11]With the hoofs of his horses he will trample all your streets. He will kill your people with the sword, and your mighty pillars will fall to the ground. [12][†]They will plunder [a]your riches and loot [a]your merchandise. They will break down your walls and destroy your pleasant houses. Your stones and timber and [b]soil they will cast into the midst of the waters. [13][c]And I will stop the music of your songs, and [d]the sound of your lyres shall be heard no more. [14][†][p]I will make you a bare rock. [q]You shall be a place for the spreading of nets. You shall never be rebuilt, [r]for I am the LORD; I have spoken, declares the Lord GOD.

[15]"Thus says the Lord GOD to Tyre: Will not [e]the coastlands shake at the sound of your fall, [f]when the wounded groan, when slaughter is made in your midst? [16]Then all [g]the princes of the sea will step down from their thrones and [h]remove their robes and strip off their embroidered garments. They will clothe themselves with trembling; [i]they will sit on the ground and [j]tremble every moment and [k]be appalled at you. [17]And they will [l]raise a lamentation over you and say to you,

"'How you have perished,
    you who were inhabited from the seas,
O city renowned,
    [m]who was mighty on the sea;
she and her inhabitants [n]imposed their terror on all her inhabitants!
[18] Now the coastlands tremble on the day of your fall, and the coastlands that are on the sea are dismayed at your passing.'

[19][†]“For thus says the Lord GOD: When I make you a city laid waste, like the cities that are not inhabited, [o]when I bring up the deep over you, and the great waters cover you, [20]then [p]I will make you go down with those who go down to the pit, to the people of old, and I will make you to dwell in the world below, among ruins from of old, [p]with those who go down to the pit, so that you will not be inhabited; but I will set beauty [q]in the land of the living. [21]I will bring you [r]to a dreadful end, and you shall be no more. [s]Though you be sought for, you will never be found again, declares the Lord GOD.”

A Lament for Tyre

EZEKIEL 27 [†]The word of the LORD came to me: [2]“Now you, [t]son of man, [u]raise a lamentation over Tyre, [3]and say to Tyre, who dwells at [v]the entrances to the sea, [w]merchant of the peoples to many coastlands, thus says the Lord GOD:

“O Tyre, you have said,
    ‘I am [x]perfect in beauty.’
[4] Your borders are [y]in the heart of the seas;
    your builders made perfect your beauty.
[5] They made all your planks of fir trees from [z]Senir;
they took [a]a cedar from Lebanon to make a mast for you.
[6] Of [b]oaks of Bashan
    they made your oars;
they made your deck of pines
    from [c]the coasts of Cyprus, inlaid with ivory.
[7] [d]Of fine embroidered linen from Egypt was your sail,
    serving as your banner;
blue and purple from [c]the coasts of Elishah was your awning.

8[†] The inhabitants of Sidon and [e] Arvad were your rowers;
your skilled men, O Tyre, were in you;
they were [f] your pilots.
9 The elders of [g] Gebal and her skilled men were in you, [h] caulking your seams;
all the ships of the sea with their mariners were in you to barter for your wares.

10[†] [i] “Persia and [j] Lud and [i] Put were in your army as your men of war. [k] They hung the shield and helmet in you; they gave you splendor. 11[†]Men of [e] Arvad and Helech were on your walls all around, and men of Gamad were in your towers. They hung their shields on your walls all around; they made [x] perfect your beauty.

12[†] [l] “Tarshish did [m] business with you because of your great wealth of every kind; silver, iron, tin, and lead they exchanged for your [n] wares. 13[†] [o] Javan, [p] Tubal, and [p] Meshech traded with you; they exchanged human beings and vessels of bronze for your merchandise. 14From [q] Beth-togarmah they exchanged horses, war horses, and mules [r] for your wares. 15The men of [s] Dedan [1] traded with you. Many coastlands were your own special markets; they brought you in payment ivory tusks and ebony. 16Syria [t] did business with you because of your abundant goods; they exchanged for your wares [u] emeralds, [u] purple, [v] embroidered work, [w] fine linen, coral, and [x] ruby. 17Judah and the land of Israel traded with you; they exchanged for your merchandise [y] wheat of [z] Minnith, meal, [2] honey, oil, and [a] balm. 18 [b] Damascus did business with you for your abundant goods, because of your great wealth of every kind; wine of Helbon and [c] wool of Sahar 19and casks of wine [3] from Uzal they exchanged for your wares; wrought iron, [d] cassia, and [e] calamus were bartered for your merchandise. 20Dedan traded with you in saddlecloths for riding. 21Arabia and all the princes of [f] Kedar were your favored dealers [f] in lambs, rams, and goats; in these they did business with you. 22The traders of [g] Sheba and [g] Raamah traded with you; they exchanged [h] for your wares [i] the best of all kinds of spices and all precious stones and gold. 23 [j] Haran, Canneh, [j] Eden, traders of Sheba, [k] Asshur, and Chilmad traded with you. [24]In your market these traded with you in choice garments, in clothes of [l] blue and [l] embroidered work, and in carpets of colored material, bound with cords and made secure. [25] [m] The ships of [n] Tarshish traveled for you with your merchandise. So you were filled and heavily laden [o] in the heart of the seas.

[26] “Your rowers have brought you out into the high seas.
[p] The east wind has wrecked you
in the heart of the seas.
[27] Your riches, your wares, your merchandise, your mariners and [q] your pilots, [r] your caulkers, your dealers in merchandise, and all your men of war who are in you,
with all your crew
that is in your midst, sink into the heart of the seas
[s] on the day of your fall.
[28] At the sound of the cry of your pilots
[t] the countryside shakes,
[29] and down from their ships
[u] come all who handle the oar.
The mariners and all the pilots of the sea stand on the land
[30] [u] and shout aloud over you and cry out bitterly.
[v] They cast dust on their heads
[w] and wallow in ashes;
[31] they [x] make themselves bald for you and put sackcloth on their waist, and they weep over you in bitterness of soul,
with bitter mourning.
[32] In their wailing they [y] raise a lamentation for you and lament over you:
[z] ‘Who is like Tyre,

like one destroyed in the midst of the sea?
33 When your wares came from the seas,
[a] you satisfied many peoples;
with your abundant wealth and merchandise
[a] you enriched the kings of the earth.
34 Now [b] you are wrecked by the seas,
in the depths of the waters;
your merchandise and all your crew in your midst have sunk with you.
35 [c] All the inhabitants of the coastlands are appalled at you,
and [d] the hair of their kings bristles with horror;
their faces are convulsed.
36 [e] The merchants among the peoples [f] hiss at you;
[g] you have come to a dreadful end
and shall be no more forever.'"

Prophecy Against the Prince of Tyre

EZEKIEL 28 [†]The word of the LORD came to me: 2[†] [h] "Son of man, say to [i] the prince of Tyre, Thus says the Lord GOD:

[j] "Because your heart is proud,
and [k] you have said, 'I am a god,
I sit in the seat of the gods,
in the heart of the seas,'
yet [l] you are but a man, and no god,
[m] though you make your heart like the heart of a god—
3 [n] you are indeed wiser [o] than [p] Daniel;
no secret is hidden from you;
4 by your wisdom and your understanding [q] you have made wealth for yourself, and have gathered gold and silver into your treasuries;
5 by your great wisdom in your trade

you have increased your wealth, and [j] your heart has become proud in your wealth—
6 therefore thus says the Lord GOD:
[r] Because you make your heart
like the heart of a god,
7[†] therefore, behold, I will bring [s] foreigners upon you,
the most ruthless of the nations;
and they shall draw their swords against [t] the beauty of your wisdom and defile [t] your splendor.
8 [u] They shall thrust you down into the pit, [v] and you shall die the death of the slain
in the heart of the seas.
9 [w] Will you still say, 'I am a god,' in the presence of those who kill you, though [l] you are but a man, and no god,
in the hands of those who slay you?
10 [x] You shall die the death of the uncircumcised
by the hand of foreigners;
[y] for I have spoken, declares the Lord GOD."

A Lament over the King of Tyre

11[†]Moreover, the word of the LORD came to me: 12 [z] "Son of man, [a] raise a lamentation over [b] the king of Tyre, and say to him, Thus says the Lord GOD:

"You were the signet of perfection, [1]
[c] full of wisdom and [d] perfect in beauty.
13 You were in [e] Eden, the garden of God;
[f] every precious stone was your covering,
[g] sardius, topaz, and diamond,
beryl, onyx, and jasper,
sapphire, [2] [f] emerald, and carbuncle;
and crafted in gold were your settings and your engravings. [3]

[i] On the day that you were created they were prepared.
[14] You were an anointed [j] guardian cherub.
I placed you; [4] you were on [k] the holy mountain of God;
in the midst of the stones of fire you walked.
[15] You were blameless in your ways
[l] from the day you were created, till unrighteousness was found in you.
[16] In the abundance of [m] your trade you were filled with violence in your midst, and you sinned;
so I cast you as a profane thing from [k] the mountain of God, and I destroyed you, [5] [j] O guardian cherub,
from the midst of the stones of fire.
[17] [n] Your heart was proud because of [o] your beauty;
you corrupted your wisdom for the sake of your splendor.
I cast you to the ground;
I exposed you before kings,
to feast their eyes on you.
[18] By the multitude of your iniquities, in the unrighteousness of your trade
you profaned your sanctuaries;
so [p] I brought fire out from your midst;
it consumed you,
and I turned you to ashes on the earth
[q] in the sight of all who saw you.
[19] All who know you among the peoples
are appalled at you; [r] you have come to a dreadful end
and shall be no more forever."

Prophecy Against Sidon

[20][†]The word of the LORD came to me: [21] [s] "Son of man, [t] set your face toward [u] Sidon, and [t] prophesy against her [22]and say, Thus says the Lord GOD:

“Behold, [v]I am against you, O Sidon, and [w]I will manifest my glory in your midst.
And [x]they shall know that I am the LORD [y]when I execute judgments in her and [z]manifest my holiness in her; [23] for I will send [a]pestilence into her,
and blood into her streets;
and the slain shall fall in her midst,
by the sword that is against her on every side.
Then they will know that I am the LORD.

[24][†]“And for the house of Israel [b]there shall be no more a brier to prick or [c]a thorn to hurt them among all their neighbors [d]who have treated them with contempt. Then they will know that I am the Lord GOD.

Israel Gathered in Security

[25]“Thus says the Lord GOD: [e]When I gather the house of Israel from the peoples among whom they are scattered, and [z]manifest my holiness in them in the sight of the nations, [f]then they shall dwell in their own land that I gave to my servant Jacob. [26][g]And they shall dwell securely in it, and they shall build houses and plant vineyards. They shall dwell securely, [h]when I execute judgments upon all their neighbors [d]who have treated them with contempt. [x]Then they will know that I am the LORD their God.”

Prophecy Against Egypt

EZEKIEL 29 [†][i]In the tenth year, in the tenth month, on the twelfth day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: [2][j]“Son of man, [k]set your face against [l]Pharaoh king of Egypt, [m]and prophesy against him and [n]against all Egypt; [3][†]speak, and say, Thus says the Lord GOD:

[o]“Behold, I am against you,
Pharaoh king of Egypt,
[p]the great dragon that lies in the midst of his streams,

[q] that says, ‘My Nile is my own;
I made it for myself.’
4 I will [r] put hooks in your jaws, and make the fish of your streams stick to your scales;
and I will draw you up out of the midst of your streams, with all the fish of your streams that stick to your scales.
5 [s] And I will cast you out into the wilderness, you and all the fish of your streams;
you shall fall [t] on the open field,
and [u] not be brought together or gathered.
To the beasts of the earth and to the birds of the heavens
[s] I give you as food.

6[†]Then all the inhabitants of Egypt [v] shall know that I am the LORD.

“Because you [1] have been [w] a staff of reed to the house of Israel,
7 [x] when they grasped you with the hand, you broke and tore all their shoulders; and when they leaned on you, you broke and made all their loins to shake. [2] 8Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: [y] Behold, I will bring a sword upon you, and will cut off from you man and beast, 9[†]and the land of Egypt shall be a desolation and a waste. [v] Then they will know that I am the LORD.

[z] “Because you [3] said, ‘The Nile is mine, and I made it,’ 10[†]therefore, [z] behold, I am against you and [a] against your streams, and [a] I will make the land of Egypt an utter waste and desolation, [b] from Migdol to Syene, as far as the border of Cush. 11 [c] No foot of man shall pass through it, and no foot of beast shall pass through it; it shall be uninhabited forty years. 12 [d] And I will make the land of Egypt a desolation in the midst of desolated countries, and her cities shall be a desolation forty years among cities that are laid waste. [e] I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and disperse them through the countries.

13“For thus says the Lord GOD: At the end of forty years [f] I will gather the Egyptians from the peoples among whom they were scattered, 14and [g] I will restore the fortunes of Egypt and bring them back to [h] the land of Pathros, the land of their origin, and there they shall be a lowly kingdom.

15 It shall be the most lowly of the kingdoms, [i] and never again exalt itself above the nations. And I will make them so small that they will never again rule over the nations. 16 And it shall never again be [j] the reliance of the house of Israel, recalling their iniquity, when they turn to them for aid. [k] Then they will know that I am the Lord GOD."

17 [†] [l] In the twenty-seventh year, in the first month, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: 18 [m] "Son of man, [n] Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon made his army labor hard against Tyre. Every head was made bald, and every shoulder was rubbed bare, yet neither he nor his army got anything from Tyre to pay for the labor that he had performed against her. 19 [†]Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: [o] Behold, I will give the land of Egypt to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon; [p] and he shall carry off its wealth [4] [q] and despoil it and plunder it; and it shall be the wages for his army. 20 [r] I have given him the land of Egypt as his payment for which he labored, because they worked for me, declares the Lord GOD.

21 [†]"On that day [s] I will cause a horn to spring up for the house of Israel, and [t] I will open your lips among them. [u] Then they will know that I am the LORD."

A Lament for Egypt

EZEKIEL 30 [†]The word of the LORD came to me: 2 [†] [v] "Son of man, prophesy, and say, Thus says the Lord GOD:

[w] "Wail, 'Alas for the day!'
3 [w] For the day is near,
[x] the day of the LORD is near;
it will be [y] a day of clouds,
a time of doom for [1] the nations.
4 [z] A sword shall come upon Egypt,
[a] and anguish shall be in [b] Cush,
when the slain fall in Egypt,
and [c] her wealth [2] is carried away,
and [d] her foundations are torn down.

5 [b] Cush, and [e] Put, and Lud, and [f] all Arabia, and Libya, [3] and the people of the land that is in league, [4] shall fall with them by the sword.

6 "Thus says the LORD:
[g] Those who support Egypt shall fall,
    and [h] her proud might shall come down;
[i] from Migdol to Syene
    they shall fall within her by the sword,
declares the Lord GOD.
7 [j] And they shall be desolated in the midst of desolated countries, and their cities shall be in the midst of cities that are laid waste.
8 [k] Then they will know that I am the LORD, when [l] I have set fire to Egypt,
    and [g] all her helpers are broken.

9 "On that day [m] messengers shall go out from me in ships to terrify the unsuspecting [b] people of Cush, and [a] anguish shall come upon them on the day of Egypt's doom; [5] for, behold, it comes!

10 "Thus says the Lord GOD:

[n] "I will put an end to the wealth of Egypt,
    by the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon.
11 He and his people with him, [o] the most ruthless of nations, shall be brought in to destroy the land, [z] and they shall draw their swords against Egypt and fill the land with the slain.
12 And [p] I will [q] dry up the Nile and will sell the land into the hand of [r] evildoers;
[s] I will bring desolation upon the land and everything in it,
    by the hand of [t] foreigners;
[u] I am the LORD; I have spoken.

13 [†] "Thus says the Lord GOD:

[v] "I will destroy the idols and put an end to the images in [w] Memphis; [x] there shall no longer be a prince from the land of Egypt;

so [y] I will put fear in the land of Egypt.
14 I will make [z] Pathros a desolation and will set fire to [a] Zoan
[b] and will execute judgments on [c] Thebes.
15 And I will pour out my wrath on Pelusium,
the stronghold of Egypt,
and cut off the multitude [6] of Thebes.
16 And I will set fire to Egypt;
Pelusium shall be in great agony;
Thebes shall be breached,
and [w] Memphis shall face enemies [7] by day.
17 The young men of On and of Pi-beseth shall fall by the sword, and the women [8] shall go into captivity.
18 At [d] Tehaphnehes [e] the day shall be dark,
when I break there the yoke bars of Egypt, and [f] her proud might shall come to an end in her;
she shall be covered by a cloud,
and her daughters shall go into captivity.
19 Thus [g] I will execute judgments on Egypt.
[h] Then they will know that I am the LORD."

Egypt Shall Fall to Babylon

20[†] [i] In the eleventh year, in the first month, on the seventh day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: 21 [j] "Son of man, [k] I have broken the arm of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and behold, [l] it has not been bound up, to heal it by binding it with a bandage, so that it may become strong to wield the sword. 22 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I am against Pharaoh king of Egypt and [m] will break his arms, both the strong arm and the one that was broken, and I will make the sword fall from his hand. 23[†] [n] I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them through the countries. 24 And [o] I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon and put [p] my sword in his hand, but I will break the arms of Pharaoh, and he will groan before him [q] like a man mortally wounded. [25]I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, but the arms of Pharaoh shall fall. [r] Then they shall know that I am the LORD, [s] when I put my sword into the hand of the king of Babylon and he stretches it out against the land of Egypt. [26]And I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them throughout the countries. Then they will know that I am the LORD.”

Pharaoh to Be Slain

EZEKIEL 31 [†] [t] In the eleventh year, in the third month, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: 2 [u] "Son of man, say to Pharaoh king of Egypt and to [v] his multitude:

[w] "Whom are you like in your greatness?
3 Behold, [x] Assyria was a [y] cedar in [z] Lebanon, with beautiful branches and [a] forest shade, [b] and of towering height, its top among the clouds. [1] 4 The waters nourished it;
the deep made it grow tall, making [c] its rivers flow around the place of its planting, sending forth its streams to all the trees of the field.
5 So [d] it towered high above all the trees of the field; its boughs grew large and its branches long from [e] abundant water in its shoots.
6 [f] All the birds of the heavens made their nests in its boughs;
under its branches all the beasts of the field gave birth to their young, and under its shadow
lived all great nations.
7 It was [g] beautiful in its greatness,
in the length of its branches;
[e] for its roots went down to abundant waters.
8[†] [h] The cedars [i] in the garden of God could not rival it, nor the fir trees equal its boughs;
neither were the plane trees

like its branches;
no tree [i] in the garden of God was its equal in beauty.
9 I made it beautiful in the mass of its branches, and all the trees of [j] Eden envied it,
that were in the garden of God.

10[†]“Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because [k] it [2] towered high and set its top among the clouds, and [l] its heart was proud of its height, 11I will give it into the hand of a mighty one of the nations. He shall surely deal with it as its wickedness deserves. I have cast it out. 12 [m] Foreigners, [m] the most ruthless of nations, have cut it down and left it. [n] On the mountains and in all the valleys its branches have fallen, and its boughs have been broken in all [o] the ravines of the land, and [p] all the peoples of the earth have gone away from its shadow and left it. 13 [q] On its fallen trunk dwell all the birds of the heavens, and on its branches are all the beasts of the field. 14 [r] All this is in order that no trees by the waters may grow to towering height or set their tops among the clouds, and that no trees that drink water may reach up to them in height. For they are all given over to death, [s] to the world [t] below, among the children of man, [3] with those who go down to the pit.

15“Thus says the Lord GOD: On the day [u] the cedar [4] went down to Sheol I caused mourning; I closed the deep over it, and restrained its rivers, and many waters were stopped. I clothed Lebanon in gloom for it, and all the trees of the field fainted because of it. 16 [v] I made the nations quake at the sound of its fall, [u] when I cast it down to Sheol with those who go down to the pit. [w] And all the trees of Eden, the choice and best of Lebanon, all that drink water, [x] were comforted in the world below. 17They also went down to Sheol with it, [y] to those who are slain by the sword; yes, [z] those who were its arm, [a] who lived under its shadow among the nations.

18 [b] “Whom are you thus like in glory and in greatness [w] among the trees of Eden? [c] You shall be brought down with [w] the trees of Eden to the world below. [d] You shall lie among the uncircumcised, [y] with those who are slain by the sword.

[b] “This is Pharaoh and all his multitude, declares the Lord GOD.”

A Lament over Pharaoh and Egypt

EZEKIEL 32 [†] [e] In the twelfth year, in the twelfth month, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: 2[†] [f] “Son of man, [g] raise a lamentation over [h] Pharaoh king of Egypt and say to him:

“You consider yourself [i] a lion of the nations, but you are like [j] a dragon [k] in the seas;
[l] you burst forth in your rivers, trouble the waters with your feet,
and foul their rivers.
3 Thus says the Lord GOD:
[m] I will throw my net over you with a host of [n] many peoples, and [o] they will haul you up in my dragnet.
4 And [p] I will cast you on the ground;
on the open field I will fling you,
and will cause all the birds of the heavens to settle on you,
and I will gorge the beasts of the whole earth with you.
5 I will strew your flesh [q] upon the mountains and fill the valleys with your carcass. [1] 6 I will drench the land even to the mountains with your flowing blood, and the ravines will be full of you.
7[†] [r] When I blot you out, [s] I will cover the heavens and make their stars dark;
I will cover the sun with a cloud,
and the moon shall not give its light.
8 All the bright lights of heaven will I make dark over you,
and [t] put darkness on your land,
declares the Lord GOD.

9“I will trouble the hearts of many peoples, when I bring your destruction among the nations, into the countries that you have not known. 10 [u] I will make many peoples appalled at you, and the hair of their kings shall bristle with horror because of you, when [v] I brandish my sword before them. [w] They shall tremble every moment, every one for his own life, on the day of your downfall.

11“For thus says the Lord GOD: [x] The sword of the king of Babylon shall come upon you. 12I will cause [y] your multitude to fall by the swords of mighty ones, all of them [z] most ruthless of nations.

[a] “They shall bring to ruin the pride of Egypt, and all its multitude [2] shall perish.
13 I will destroy all its beasts from beside many waters;
[b] and no foot of man shall trouble them anymore,
nor shall the hoofs of beasts trouble them.
14[†] Then [c] I will make their waters clear, and cause their rivers to run like oil,
declares the Lord GOD.
15 When I make the land of Egypt desolate, and when the land [d] is desolate of all that fills it,
when I strike down all who dwell in it,
then [e] they will know that I am the LORD.

16 [f] This is a lamentation that shall be chanted; the daughters of the nations shall chant it; over Egypt, and over [g] all her multitude, shall they chant it, declares the Lord GOD.”

17[†] [h] In the twelfth year, in the twelfth month, [3] on the fifteenth day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: 18 [i] “Son of man, [j] wail over [g] the multitude of Egypt, and [k] send them down, her and the daughters of majestic nations, [l] to the world below, to those who have gone down to the pit:

19[†] [m] ‘Whom do you surpass in beauty?
Go down and [n] be laid to rest with the uncircumcised.’

20 They shall fall amid those [o] who are slain by the sword. Egypt [4] is delivered to the sword; drag her away, and [p] all her multitudes. 21 The mighty chiefs [q] shall speak of them, [r] with their helpers, out of the midst of Sheol: 'They have come down, they lie still, [s] the uncircumcised, [o] slain by the sword.'

22 [†] [t] "Assyria is there, and all her company, [u] its graves all around it, all of them slain, fallen by the sword, 23 whose graves are set in [v] the uttermost parts of the pit; and her company is all around her grave, all of them slain, fallen by the sword, [w] who spread terror [x] in the land of the living.

24 [y] "Elam is [z] there, and all her multitude around her grave; all of them [a] slain, fallen by the sword, who went down uncircumcised into [b] the world below, who spread their terror in the land of the living; and [c] they bear their shame [b] with those who go down to the pit. 25 [d] They have made her a bed among the slain with all her multitude, [e] her graves all around it, all of them uncircumcised, slain by the sword; for terror of them was spread in the land of the living, and they bear their shame with those who go down to the pit; they are placed among the slain.

26 [f] "Meshech-Tubal is [e] there, and all her multitude, [e] her graves all around it, all of them uncircumcised, slain by the sword; for they spread their terror in the land of the living. 27 And [g] they do not lie with the mighty, the fallen from among the uncircumcised, who went down to Sheol with their weapons of war, whose swords were laid under their heads, and whose iniquities are upon their bones; for the terror of the mighty men was in the land of the living. 28 But as for you, you shall be broken [h] and lie among the uncircumcised, with those who are slain by the sword.

29 [i] "Edom is [j] there, her kings and all her princes, who for all their might are laid with those who are killed by the sword; they lie with the uncircumcised, with those who go down to the pit.

30 "The princes [k] of the north are there, all of them, and all the [l] Sidonians, who have gone down in shame with the slain, [m] for all the terror that they caused by their might; they lie uncircumcised with those who are slain by the sword, and [n] bear their shame with those who go down to the pit.

31 "When Pharaoh sees them, he [o] will be comforted for [p] all his multitude, Pharaoh and all his army, slain by the sword, declares the Lord

GOD. 32 [q] For I spread terror [r] in the land of the living; and he shall be laid to rest among [s] the uncircumcised, with those who are slain by the sword, Pharaoh and all his multitude, declares the Lord GOD.”

Ezekiel Is Israel’s Watchman

EZEKIEL 33 [†]The word of the LORD came to me: 2 [t] “Son of man, speak to [u] your people and say to them, If [v] I bring the sword upon a land, and the people of the land take a man from among them, and make him their [w] watchman, 3 and if he sees the sword coming upon the land and [x] blows the trumpet and warns the people, 4 then if anyone who hears the sound of the trumpet does not take warning, and the sword comes and takes him away, [y] his blood shall be upon his own head. 5 [z] He heard the sound of the trumpet and did not take warning; his blood shall be upon himself. But if he had taken warning, he would have saved his life. 6 [a] But if the watchman sees the sword coming and does not blow the trumpet, so that the people are not warned, and the sword comes and takes any one of them, [a] that person is taken away in his iniquity, but his blood I will require at the watchman’s hand.

7 [b] “So you, [t] son of man, I have made a watchman for the house of Israel. [b] Whenever you hear a word from my mouth, you shall give them warning from me. 8 [c] If I say to the wicked, O wicked one, you shall surely die, [c] and you do not speak to warn the wicked to turn from his way, [c] that wicked person shall die in his iniquity, but his blood I will require at your hand. 9 [d] But if you warn the wicked to turn from his way, and he does not turn from his way, [d] that person shall die in his iniquity, [e] but you will have delivered your soul.

Why Will You Die, Israel?

10 “And you, [f] son of man, say to the house of Israel, Thus have you said: ‘Surely our transgressions and our sins are upon us, and [g] we rot away because of them. [h] How then can we live?’ 11 [†]Say to them, [i] As I live, declares the Lord GOD, [j] I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turn from his way and live; [k] turn back, turn back from your evil ways, [k] for why will you die, O house of Israel?

[12] [t] "And you, son of man, say to [l] your people, [m] The righteousness of the righteous shall not deliver him when he transgresses, [n] and as for the wickedness of the wicked, he shall not fall by it when he turns from his wickedness, [m] and the righteous shall not be able to live by his righteousness [1] when he sins. [13] Though I say to the righteous that he shall surely live, yet [m] if he trusts in his righteousness and does injustice, none of his righteous deeds shall be remembered, but in his injustice that he has done he shall die. [14] Again, [o] though I say to the wicked, [p] 'You shall surely die,' yet [q] if he turns from his sin and does what is just and right, [15] if the wicked [r] restores the pledge, [s] gives back what he has taken by robbery, and walks [t] in the statutes of life, not doing injustice, he shall surely live; he shall not die. [16] [u] None of the sins that he has committed shall be remembered against him. He has done what is just and right; he shall surely live.

[17] "Yet [l] your people say, [v] 'The way of the Lord is not just,' when it is their own way that is not just. [18] [w] When the righteous turns from his righteousness and does injustice, he shall die for it. [19] And [x] when the wicked turns from his wickedness and does what is just and right, he shall live by this. [20] Yet you say, 'The way of the Lord is not just.' O house of Israel, [y] I will judge each of you according to his ways."

Jerusalem Struck Down

[21] [†]In the [z] twelfth year [a] of our exile, in the tenth month, on the fifth day of the month, [b] a fugitive from Jerusalem came to me and said, [c] "The city has been struck down." [22] [d] Now [e] the hand of the LORD had been upon me the evening before the fugitive came; and he had opened my mouth by the time the man came to me in the morning, so my mouth was opened, and I was no longer mute.

[23] [†]The word of the LORD came to me: [24] [f] "Son of man, the inhabitants of these [g] waste places in the land of Israel keep saying, [h] 'Abraham was only one man, yet he got possession of the land; but [i] we are many; the land is surely given us to possess.' [25] [†]Therefore say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: [j] You eat flesh with the blood and [k] lift up your eyes to your idols and [l] shed blood; shall you then possess the land? [26] [m] You rely on the sword, [n] you commit abominations, and [n] each of you defiles his neighbor’s wife; shall you then possess the land? [27]Say this to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: [o] As I live, surely those who are in [p] the waste places shall fall by [q] the sword, and whoever is in the open field I will give to [q] the beasts to be devoured, and those who are in [r] strongholds and in caves shall die by [q] pestilence. [28] [s] And I will make the land a desolation and a waste, and [t] her proud might shall come to an end, and [u] the mountains of Israel shall be so desolate that none will pass through. [29] [v] Then they will know that I am the LORD, when I have made the land a desolation and a waste because of all their abominations that they have committed.

[30][†]“As for you, [f] son of man, [w] your people who talk together about you by the walls and at the doors of the houses, say to one another, each to his brother, ‘Come, and hear what the word is that comes from the LORD.’ [31] [x] And they come to you as people come, and they sit before you as my people, and they hear what you say but they will not do it; for [y] with lustful talk in their mouths they act; their heart is set on their gain. [32]And behold, you are to them like one who sings lustful songs with a beautiful voice and [z] plays [2] well on an instrument, for [a] they hear what you say, but they will not do it. [33] [b] When this comes—and come it will!—[c] then they will know that a prophet has been among them.”

Prophecy Against the Shepherds of Israel

EZEKIEL 34 [†]The word of the LORD came to me: [2][†] [d] “Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel; prophesy, and say to them, even to the shepherds, Thus says the Lord GOD: [e] Ah, shepherds of Israel [f] who have been feeding yourselves! [g] Should not shepherds feed the sheep? [3] [h] You eat the fat, you clothe yourselves with the wool, [i] you slaughter the fat ones, but you do not feed the sheep. [4] [j] The weak you have not strengthened, the sick you have not healed, [h] the injured you have not bound up, [h] the strayed you have not brought back, [k] the lost you have not sought, and with force and [l] harshness you have ruled them. [5] [m] So they were scattered, because there was no shepherd, and [n]they became food for all the wild beasts. [6]My sheep were scattered; they wandered over all the mountains and on every high hill. My sheep were scattered over all the face of the earth, [o]with none to search or seek for them.

[7]“Therefore, you shepherds, hear the word of the LORD: [8][p]As I live, declares the Lord GOD, surely because [q]my sheep have become a prey, and my sheep have become food for all the wild beasts, since there was no shepherd, and because my shepherds have not searched for my sheep, but the shepherds have fed themselves, and have not fed my sheep, [9]therefore, you shepherds, hear the word of the LORD: [10]Thus says the Lord GOD, [r]Behold, I am against the shepherds, and [s]I will require my sheep at their hand and [t]put a stop to their feeding the sheep. [u]No longer shall the shepherds feed themselves. [v]I will rescue my sheep from their mouths, that they may not be food for them.

The Lord GOD Will Seek Them Out

[11][†]“For thus says the Lord GOD: [w]Behold, I, I [x]myself will search for my sheep and will seek them out. [12]As a shepherd seeks out his flock when he is among his sheep that have been scattered, so will I seek out my sheep, and I will rescue them from all places where they have been scattered on [y]a day of clouds and [z]thick darkness. [13]And I will bring them out from the peoples [a]and gather them from the countries, and will bring them into their own land. And I will feed them on [b]the mountains of Israel, by the ravines, and in all the inhabited places of the country. [14][c]I will feed them with good pasture, and on the mountain heights of Israel shall be their grazing land. [d]There they shall lie down in good grazing land, and on rich pasture they shall feed on the mountains of Israel. [15][e]I myself will be the shepherd of my sheep, [d]and I myself will make them lie down, declares the Lord GOD. [16][f]I will seek the lost, [g]and I will bring back the strayed, and I will bind up the injured, and I will strengthen the weak, and [h]the fat and the strong I will destroy.[1] I will feed them in justice.

[17][†]“As for you, my flock, thus says the Lord GOD: [i]Behold, I judge between sheep and sheep, between rams and [j]male goats. [18]Is it not enough for you to feed on the good pasture, that you must tread down with your feet the rest of your pasture; and to drink of [k]clear water, that you must muddy the rest of the water with your feet? [19]And must my sheep eat what you have trodden with your feet, and drink what you have muddied with your feet?

[20]“Therefore, thus says the Lord GOD to them: Behold, I, I myself will judge between the fat sheep and the lean sheep. [21]Because you push with side and shoulder, and [l]thrust at all the [m]weak with your horns, till you have scattered them abroad, [22]I will rescue [2] my flock; [n]they shall no longer be a prey. And I will judge between sheep and sheep. [23][†]And [o]I will set up over them one shepherd, [p]my servant David, and he shall feed them: he shall feed them and be their shepherd. [24]And [q]I, the LORD, will be their God, and my servant David shall be prince among them. [r]I am the LORD; I have spoken.

The LORD’s Covenant of Peace

[25][†][s]“I will make with them a covenant of peace and [t]banish wild beasts from the land, [u]so that they may dwell securely in the wilderness and sleep in the woods. [26]And I will make them and the places all around my hill [v]a blessing, and [w]I will send down the showers in their season; they shall be [x]showers of blessing. [27][y]And the trees of the field shall yield their fruit, and the earth shall yield its increase, [u]and they shall be secure in their land.
And [z]they shall know that I am the LORD, when [a]I break the bars of their yoke, and [a]deliver them from the hand of those who enslaved them.
[28][n]They shall no more be a prey to the nations, [t]nor shall the beasts of the land devour them. [u]They shall dwell securely, and none shall make them afraid. [29]And I will provide for them [b]renowned plantations so that [c]they shall no more be consumed with hunger in the land, and no longer [d]suffer the reproach of the nations. [30]And they shall know that [q]I am the LORD their God with them, and that they, the house of Israel, are my people, declares the Lord GOD. [31]And you are my sheep, [e]human sheep of my pasture, and I am your God, declares the Lord GOD.”

Prophecy Against Mount Seir

EZEKIEL 35 [†]The word of the LORD came to me: 2[f]“Son of man, [g]set your face [h]against [i]Mount Seir, and prophesy against it, 3and say to it, Thus says the Lord GOD: [j]Behold, I am against you, Mount Seir, and [k]I will stretch out my hand against you, [l]and I will make you a desolation and a waste. 4[m]I will lay your cities waste, and you shall become a desolation, and you shall know that I am the LORD. 5[†]Because [n]you cherished perpetual enmity and gave over the people of Israel to the power of the sword [o]at the time of their calamity, [p]at the time of their final punishment, 6therefore, [q]as I live, declares the Lord GOD, I will prepare you for blood, and blood shall pursue you; [r]because you did not hate bloodshed, therefore blood shall pursue you. 7[l]I will make Mount Seir a waste [m]and a desolation, and I will cut off from it [s]all who come and go. 8And I will fill [t]its mountains with the slain. On your hills and in your valleys and in all [t]your ravines [u]those slain with the sword shall fall. 9[l]I will make you a perpetual desolation, and [m]your cities shall not be inhabited. Then [v]you will know that I am the LORD.

10[†]“Because you said, [w]‘These two nations and these two countries shall be mine, and [x]we will take possession of them’—although the [y]LORD was there— 11therefore, [q]as I live, declares the Lord GOD, I will deal with you [z]according to the anger and [z]envy that you showed because of your hatred against them. And [a]I will make myself known among them, when I judge you. 12And you shall know that I am the LORD.

[b]“I have heard all the revilings that you uttered against the mountains of Israel, saying, ‘They are laid desolate; [c]they are given us to devour.’ 13And [b]you magnified yourselves against me [d]with your mouth, and multiplied your words against me; I heard it. 14Thus says the Lord GOD: [e]While the whole earth rejoices, I will make you desolate. 15As you [f]rejoiced over the inheritance of the house of Israel, because it was desolate, so I will deal with you; you shall be desolate, [g]Mount Seir, and all Edom, all of it. Then [h]they will know that I am the LORD.

Prophecy to the Mountains of Israel

EZEKIEL 36 [†]“And you, [i]son of man, prophesy to [j]the mountains of Israel, and say, O mountains of Israel, hear the word of the LORD. [2]Thus says the Lord GOD: Because [k]the enemy said of you, [l]‘Aha!’ and, ‘The ancient [m]heights have become our possession,’ [3]therefore prophesy, and say, Thus says the Lord GOD: Precisely because [n]they made you desolate and crushed you from all sides, so that you became the possession of the rest of the nations, and [o]you became the talk and evil gossip of the people, [4]therefore, O mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD: Thus says the Lord GOD to [p]the mountains and the hills, the ravines and the valleys, [q]the desolate wastes and the deserted cities, which have become [r]a prey and derision to the rest of the nations all around, [5]therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Surely I have spoken in [s]my hot jealousy against the rest of the nations and [t]against all Edom, who [u]gave my land to themselves as a possession [v]with wholehearted joy and [w]utter contempt, that they might make its pasturelands a prey. [6]Therefore prophesy concerning the land of Israel, and say to [j]the mountains and hills, to the ravines and valleys, Thus says the Lord GOD: [x]Behold, I have spoken in my jealous wrath, because you have suffered [y]the reproach of the nations. [7]Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: [z]I swear that the nations that are all around you [y]shall themselves suffer reproach.

[8][†]“But you, O mountains of Israel, [a]shall shoot forth your branches and yield your fruit to my people Israel, for [b]they will soon come home. [9]For [c]behold, I am for you, and I will turn to you, and [d]you shall be tilled and sown. [10]And [e]I will multiply people on you, the whole house of Israel, all of it. [f]The cities shall be inhabited and the waste places rebuilt. [11]And I will multiply on you [g]man and beast, and [h]they shall multiply and be fruitful. And I will cause you to be inhabited as in [i]your former times, and [j]will do more good to you than ever before. [k]Then you will know that I am the LORD. [12]I will let people walk on you, even my people Israel. [l]And they shall possess you, and you shall be their inheritance, and you shall no longer [m]bereave them of children. [13]Thus says the Lord GOD: Because they say to you, [n]‘You devour people, and you bereave your nation of children,’

[14]therefore you shall no longer devour people and no longer bereave your nation of children, declares the Lord GOD. [15]And I will not let you hear anymore [y]the reproach of the nations, and you shall no longer bear the disgrace of the peoples and no longer cause your nation to stumble, declares the Lord GOD."

The LORD's Concern for His Holy Name

[16][†]The word of the LORD came to me: [17] [o]"Son of man, when the house of Israel lived in their own land, [p]they defiled it by their ways and their deeds. Their ways before me were [q]like the uncleanness of a woman in her menstrual impurity. [18]So [r]I poured out my wrath upon them [s]for the blood that they had shed in the land, for the idols [t]with which they had defiled it. [19] [u]I scattered them among the nations, and they were dispersed through the countries. [v]In accordance with their ways and their deeds I judged them. [20]But when they came to the nations, wherever they came, [w]they profaned my holy name, in that people said of them, 'These are the people of the LORD, and yet they had to go out of his land.' [21]But I had concern [x]for my holy name, which the house of Israel had profaned among the nations to which they came.

I Will Put My Spirit Within You

[22][†]"Therefore say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord GOD: [y]It is not for your sake, O house of Israel, that I am about to act, but for the sake of my holy name, [w]which you have profaned among the nations to which you came. [23] [z]And I will vindicate the holiness of my great name, which has been profaned among the nations, and which you have profaned among them. [a]And the nations will know that I am the LORD, declares the Lord GOD, when through you I vindicate my holiness before their eyes. [24][†] [b]I will take you [c]from the nations and gather you from all the countries and [d]bring you into your own land. [25] [e]I will sprinkle clean water on you, and you shall be clean from [f]all your uncleannesses, and [g]from all your idols [h]I will cleanse you. [26][†]And I will give you [i]a new heart, and [i]a new spirit I will put within you. [i]And I will remove the heart of stone from your flesh and give you a heart of flesh. 27[j] And I will put my Spirit within you, [i] and cause you to walk in my statutes and [k] be careful to obey my rules. [1] 28[†] [l] You shall dwell in the land that I gave to your fathers, and [m] you shall be my people, and I will be your God. 29And [n] I will deliver you from all your uncleannesses. And [o] I will summon the grain and make it abundant and [p] lay no famine upon you. 30[q] I will make the fruit of the tree and the increase of the field abundant, [o] that you may never again suffer the disgrace of famine among the nations. 31[†]Then [r] you will remember your evil ways, and your deeds that were not good, and you will loathe yourselves for your iniquities and your abominations. 32[y] It is not for your sake that I will act, declares the Lord GOD; let that be known to you. Be ashamed and confounded for your ways, O house of Israel.

33[†]“Thus says the Lord GOD: On the day that [s] I cleanse you from all your iniquities, [t] I will cause the cities to be inhabited, and the waste places shall be rebuilt. 34And the land that was desolate shall be tilled, instead of being the desolation that it was in the sight of all who passed by. 35And they will say, ‘This land that was desolate has become like [u] the garden of Eden, and the waste and desolate and ruined cities are now fortified and inhabited.’ 36Then [v] the nations that are left all around you shall know that I am the LORD; I have rebuilt the ruined places and [w] replanted that which was desolate. [x] I am the LORD; I have spoken, and I will do it.

37“Thus says the Lord GOD: This also [y] I will let the house of Israel ask me to do for them: [z] to increase their people like [a] a flock. 38Like the flock for sacrifices, [2] [b] like the flock at Jerusalem during her appointed feasts, so [t] shall the waste cities be filled with flocks of people. [c] Then they will know that I am the LORD.”

The Valley of Dry Bones

EZEKIEL 37 [†] [d] The hand of the LORD was upon me, and [e] he brought me out in the Spirit of the LORD and set me down in the middle of the valley; [1] it was full of bones. [2]And he led me around among them, and behold, there were very many on the surface of the valley, and behold, they were very dry. [3][†]And he said to me, [f] "Son of man, [g] can these bones live?" And [h] I answered, "O Lord GOD, you know." [4][†]Then he said to me, [i] "Prophesy over these bones, and say to them, [j] O dry bones, hear the word of the LORD. [5]Thus says the Lord GOD to these bones: Behold, I will cause [k] breath [2] to enter you, and you shall live. [6] [l] And I will lay sinews upon you, and will cause flesh to come upon you, and [l] cover you with skin, and put breath in you, and you shall live, [m] and you shall know that I am the LORD."

[7]So I prophesied [n] as I was commanded. And as I prophesied, there was a sound, and behold, [o] a rattling, [3] and the bones came together, bone to its bone. [8]And I looked, and behold, there were sinews on them, and flesh had come upon them, and skin had covered them. But [p] there was no breath in them. [9][†]Then he said to me, [i] "Prophesy to the breath; prophesy, [f] son of man, and say to the breath, Thus says the Lord GOD: Come from [q] the four winds, O breath, and breathe on these slain, that they may live." [10]So I prophesied [n] as he commanded me, and [r] the breath came into them, and they lived and stood on their feet, an exceedingly great army.

[11]Then he said to me, [f] "Son of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel. Behold, they say, 'Our bones are dried up, and [s] our hope is lost; [t] we are indeed cut off.' [12][†]Therefore [i] prophesy, and say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, [u] I will open your graves and raise you from your graves, O my people. And [v] I will bring you into the land of Israel. [13]And [w] you shall know that I am the LORD, when I open your graves, and raise you from your graves, O my people. [14][†]And [x] I will put my Spirit within you, and you shall live, and I will place you in your own land. Then you shall know that I am the LORD; [y] I have spoken, and I will do it, declares the LORD."

I Will Be Their God, They Shall Be My People

[15][†]The word of the LORD came to me: [16][†] [z]“Son of man, [a]take a stick [4] and write on it, ‘For [b]Judah, and [c]the people of Israel associated with him’; then take another stick and write on it, ‘For [b]Joseph (the stick of [d]Ephraim) and all the house of Israel associated with him.’ [17]And [e]join them one to another into one stick, that [f]they may become [g]one in your hand. [18]And when [h]your people say to you, [i]‘Will you not tell us what you mean by these?’ [19][†]say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I am about to take [j]the stick of Joseph (that is in the hand of Ephraim) and the tribes of Israel associated with him. And I will join with it the [j]stick of Judah, [5] and [k]make them one stick, [g]that they may be one in my hand. [20]When the sticks on which you write are in your hand [l]before their eyes, [21][†]then say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, [m]I will take the people of Israel from the nations among which they have gone, and will gather them from all around, and [m]bring them to their own land. [22]And [n]I will make them one nation in the land, on [o]the mountains of Israel. And [p]one king shall be king over them all, and they shall be no longer [q]two nations, and no longer divided into two kingdoms. [23] [r]They shall not [s]defile themselves anymore [t]with their idols and their detestable things, or with any of their transgressions. But [u]I will save them from all the backslidings [6] in which they have sinned, and will cleanse them; and [v]they shall be my people, and I will be their God.

[24][†]“My servant [w]David [x]shall be king over them, and they shall all have [y]one shepherd. [z]They shall walk in my rules and be careful to obey my statutes. [25] [a]They shall dwell in the land that I gave to my servant Jacob, where your fathers lived. They and their children and their children’s children shall dwell there [b]forever, and David my servant shall be their prince [c]forever. [26][†] [d]I will make a covenant of peace with them. It shall be [e]an everlasting covenant with them. And I will set them in their land [7] and [f]multiply them, and will [g]set my sanctuary in their midst forevermore. [27][†] [h]My dwelling place shall be with them, [v]and I will be their God, and they shall be my people. [28]Then [i]the nations will know that [j]I am the LORD who sanctifies Israel, when [g]my sanctuary is in their midst forevermore.”

Prophecy Against Gog

EZEKIEL 38 [†]The word of the LORD came to me: [2][†] [k]“Son of man, [l]set your face toward [m]Gog, of the land of [n]Magog, the [o]chief prince of [p]Meshech [1] and [p]Tubal, and [q]prophesy against him [3]and say, Thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, [r]I am against you, O Gog, chief prince of Meshech [2] and Tubal. [4] [s]And I will turn you about and [t]put hooks into your jaws, and I will bring you out, and [u]all your army, horses and horsemen, all of them clothed in full armor, a great host, all of them with buckler and shield, wielding swords. [5][†] [v]Persia, [w]Cush, and [v]Put are with them, all of them with shield and helmet; [6][†] [x]Gomer and all his [y]hordes; [z]Beth-togarmah from [a]the uttermost parts of the north with all his hordes—[u]many peoples are with you.

[7] [b]“Be ready and keep ready, you and all your hosts that are assembled about you, and be a guard for them. [8][†] [c]After many days you will be mustered. [d]In the latter years you will go against [d]the land that is restored from war, the land whose people [e]were gathered from many peoples upon [f]the mountains of Israel, which had been a continual waste. Its people were brought out from the peoples and [g]now dwell securely, all of them. [9]You will advance, coming on [h]like a storm. You will be [i]like a cloud covering the land, you and all your [y]hordes, and many peoples with you.

[10][†]“Thus says the Lord GOD: On that day, [j]thoughts will come into your mind, and you will devise an evil scheme [11]and say, ‘I will go up against [k]the land of unwalled villages. I will fall upon [l]the quiet people who dwell securely, all of them dwelling without walls, and having no bars or gates,’ [12]to seize spoil and carry off plunder, to turn your hand against [m]the waste places that are now inhabited, and [m]the people who were gathered from the nations, who have acquired livestock and goods, [n]who dwell at the center of the earth. [13] [o]Sheba and [p]Dedan and the merchants of Tarshish and all [q]its leaders [3] will say to you, ‘Have you come to seize spoil? Have you assembled your hosts to carry off plunder, to carry away silver and gold, to take away livestock and goods, to seize great spoil?’

[14]“Therefore, [r]son of man, prophesy, and say to [s]Gog, Thus says the Lord GOD: On that day when my people Israel are [g]dwelling securely, [t]will you not know it? [15]You will come from your place out of [u]the uttermost parts of the north, you and [v]many peoples with you, [w]all of them riding on horses, a great host, a mighty army. [16][†]You will come up against my people Israel, [i]like a cloud covering the land. [x]In the latter days I will bring you against my land, that the nations may know me, when through you, O Gog, [y]I vindicate my holiness before their eyes.

[17]“Thus says the Lord GOD: Are you [z]he of whom I spoke in former days by my servants the prophets of Israel, who in those days prophesied for years that I would bring you against them? [18]But on that day, the day that Gog shall come against the land of Israel, declares the Lord GOD, [a]my wrath will be roused in my anger. [19]For [b]in my jealousy and in my blazing wrath I declare, On that day [c]there shall be a great earthquake in the land of Israel. [20] [d]The fish of the sea and the birds of the heavens and the beasts of the field and all creeping things that creep on the ground, and all the people who are on the face of the earth, [e]shall quake at my presence. And [f]the mountains shall be thrown down, and the cliffs shall fall, and every wall shall tumble to the ground. [21] [g]I will summon a sword against Gog [4] on all my mountains, declares the Lord GOD. [h]Every man’s sword will be against his brother. [22]With pestilence and bloodshed [i]I will enter into judgment with him, and [j]I will rain upon him and [k]his hordes and the many peoples who are with him [l]torrential rains and hailstones, [m]fire and sulfur. [23]So I will show my greatness and my [n]holiness and [o]make myself known in the eyes of many nations. Then [p]they will know that I am the LORD.

EZEKIEL 39 [†]“And you, [q]son of man, [r]prophesy against [s]Gog and say, Thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, [t]I am against you, O Gog, [u]chief prince of [v]Meshech [1] and [v]Tubal. [2] [w]And I will turn you about and drive you forward, and bring you up from [x]the uttermost parts of the north, and lead you against the [y]mountains of Israel. [3]Then [z]I will strike your bow from your left hand, and [z]will make your arrows drop out of your right hand. [4] [a]You shall fall on [y]the mountains of Israel, you and all your [b]hordes and the peoples who are with you. [c]I will give you to birds of prey of every sort and to the beasts of the field to be devoured. [5]You shall fall in the open field, for [d]I have spoken, declares the Lord GOD. [6] [e]I will send fire on [f] Magog and on those [g] who dwell securely in [h] the coastlands, and [i] they shall know that I am the LORD.

[7]“And [j] my holy name I will make known in the midst of my people Israel, and [k] I will not let my holy name be profaned anymore. And [l] the nations shall know that I am [m] the LORD, the Holy One in Israel. [8] [n] Behold, it is coming and it will be brought about, declares the Lord GOD. That is the day [o] of which I have spoken.

[9][†]“Then those who dwell in the cities of Israel will go out and [p] make fires of the weapons and burn them, shields and bucklers, bow and arrows, [q] clubs [2] and spears; and they will make fires of them for seven years, [10]so that they will not need to take wood out of the field or cut down any out of the forests, for [p] they will make their fires of the weapons. [r] They will seize the spoil of those who despoiled them, and plunder those who plundered them, declares the Lord GOD.

[11]“On that day I will give to [s] Gog a place for burial in Israel, the Valley of the Travelers, east of the sea. It will block the travelers, for there Gog and all his multitude will be buried. It will be called the Valley of [t] Hamon-gog. [3] [12]For [u] seven months the house of Israel will be burying them, in order [v] to cleanse the land. [13]All the people of the land will bury them, and it will bring them renown on the day that [w] I show my glory, declares the Lord GOD. [14]They will set apart men to travel through the land regularly and bury those travelers remaining on the face of the land, so as [v] to cleanse it. At [4] the end of [x] seven months they will make their search. [15]And when these travel through the land and anyone sees a human bone, then he shall set up a sign by it, till the buriers have buried it in the Valley of [y] Hamon-gog. [16](Hamonah [5] is also the name of the city.) Thus shall they cleanse the land.

[17]“As for you, [z] son of man, thus says the Lord GOD: [a] Speak to [b] the birds of every sort and to [b] all beasts of the field, ‘Assemble and come, gather from all around to [c] the sacrificial feast that I am preparing for you, a great sacrificial feast on the mountains of Israel, and you shall eat flesh and drink blood. [18] [d] You shall eat the flesh of the mighty, and drink the blood of the princes of the earth—of rams, of lambs, and of he-goats, of bulls, all of them [e] fat beasts of Bashan. [19]And you shall eat fat till you are filled, and drink blood till you are drunk, at the sacrificial feast that I am preparing for you. [20]And you shall be filled at my table with horses and charioteers, with mighty men and all kinds of warriors,’ declares the Lord GOD.

[21][†]“And [f]I will set my glory among the nations, and all the nations shall see [g]my judgment that I have executed, and [g]my hand that I have laid on them. [22] [h]The house of Israel shall know that I am the LORD their God, from that day forward. [23]And [i]the nations shall know that the house of Israel went into captivity for their iniquity, because they dealt so treacherously with me that [j]I hid my face from them and [k]gave them into the hand of their adversaries, and they all fell by the sword. [24]I dealt with them [l]according to their uncleanness and their transgressions, and hid my face from them.

The LORD Will Restore Israel

[25][†]“Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Now [m]I will restore the fortunes of Jacob and have mercy on [n]the whole house of Israel, and [o]I will be jealous for my holy name. [26]They shall [p]forget their shame and all the treachery they have practiced against me, when [q]they dwell securely in their land with [r]none to make them afraid, [27] [s]when I have brought them back from the peoples and gathered them from their enemies’ lands, [t]and through them have vindicated my holiness in the sight of many nations. [28] [h]Then they shall know that I am the LORD their God, because I sent them into exile among the nations and then assembled them into their own land. I will leave none of them remaining among the nations anymore. [29] [u]And I will not hide my face anymore from them, when [v]I pour out my Spirit upon the house of Israel, declares the Lord GOD.”

Vision of the New Temple

EZEKIEL 40 [†] [w]In the twenty-fifth year [x]of our exile, at the beginning of the year, on the tenth day of the month, [y]in the fourteenth year after the city was struck down, on that very day, [z]the hand of the LORD was upon me, and he brought me to the city. [1] [2]In [a]visions of God he brought me to the land of Israel, and set me down on [b]a very high mountain, on which was a structure like a city to the south. [3]When he brought me there, behold, there was [c]a man whose appearance was [d]like bronze, with [e]a linen cord and [f]a measuring reed in his hand. And he was standing in the gateway. [4]And the man said to me, [g]“Son of man, [h]look with your eyes, and [h]hear with your ears, and set your heart upon all that I shall show you, for you were brought here in order that I might show it to you. [i]Declare all that you see to the house of Israel.”

The East Gate to the Outer Court

[5][†]And behold, there was [j]a wall all around the outside of the temple area, and the length of the measuring reed in the man’s hand was six long cubits, [k]each being a cubit and a handbreadth [2] in length. So he measured the thickness of the wall, one reed; and the height, one reed. [6]Then he went into [l]the gateway facing east, [m]going up its steps, and measured the threshold of the gate, one reed deep. [3] [7]And [n]the side rooms, one reed long and one reed broad; and the space between the side rooms, five cubits; and the threshold of the gate by the vestibule of the gate at the inner end, one reed. [8]Then he measured the vestibule of the gateway, on the inside, one reed. [9]Then he measured the vestibule of the gateway, eight cubits; [o]and its jambs, two cubits; and the vestibule of the gate was at the inner end. [10]And there were three side rooms on either side of the east gate. [p]The three were of the same size, and the jambs on either side were of the same size. [11]Then he measured the width of the opening of the gateway, ten cubits; and the length of the gateway, thirteen cubits. [12]There was a barrier before the side rooms, one cubit on either side. And the side rooms were six cubits on either side. [13]Then he measured the gate from the ceiling of the one side room to the ceiling of the other, a breadth of twenty-five cubits; the openings faced each other. [14]He measured also [q]the vestibule, twenty cubits. And around the vestibule of the gateway was the court. [4] [15]From the front of the gate at the entrance to the front of the inner vestibule of the gate was fifty cubits. [16]And the gateway had [r]windows all around, narrowing inwards toward the side rooms and toward their [s]jambs, and likewise the vestibule had windows all around inside, and on the jambs were [t]palm trees.

The Outer Court

[17]Then he brought me into [u]the outer court. And behold, there were [v]chambers and a [w]pavement, all around the court. [x]Thirty chambers faced the pavement. [18]And the pavement ran along the side of the gates, corresponding to the length of the gates. This was the lower pavement. [19]Then he measured the distance from the inner front of the lower gate to the outer front of the inner court, [5] a hundred cubits on the east side and on the north side. [6]

The North Gate

[20]As for [y]the gate that faced toward the north, belonging to [u]the outer court, he measured its length and its breadth. [21]Its [n]side rooms, three on either side, and its jambs and its vestibule were of the same size as those of [z]the first gate. Its length was [a]fifty cubits, and its breadth [b]twenty-five cubits. [22]And [c]its windows, its vestibule, and [c]its palm trees were of the same size as those of the gate that faced toward the east. And by seven steps [d]people would go up to it, and find its vestibule before them. [23]And opposite the gate on the north, as on the east, was a gate to [e]the inner court. And [f]he measured from gate to gate, a hundred cubits.

The South Gate

[24]And he led me toward the south, and behold, there was a gate on the south. And [g]he measured its jambs and its vestibule; they had the same size as the others. [25]Both it and its vestibule [h]had windows all around, like the windows of the others. Its length was fifty cubits, and its breadth twenty-five cubits. [26]And there were seven steps leading up to it, and its vestibule was before them, and it had [i]palm trees on its jambs, one on either side. [27]And there was a gate on the south of [j]the inner court. And he measured from gate to gate toward the south, a hundred cubits.

The Inner Court

[28][†]Then he brought me to [j]the inner court through the south gate, and [k]he measured the south gate. It was of the same size as the others. [29]Its

[l] side rooms, its jambs, and its vestibule were of the same size as the others, and both it and its vestibule [m] had windows all around. [m] Its length was fifty cubits, and its breadth twenty-five cubits. 30And there were vestibules all around, twenty-five cubits long and five cubits broad. 31Its vestibule faced the outer court, and [i] palm trees were on its jambs, and [n] its stairway had eight steps.

32Then he brought me to the inner court on the east side, and [o] he measured the gate. It was of the same size as the others. 33Its side rooms, its jambs, and its vestibule were of the same size as the others, and both it and its vestibule had windows all around. Its length was fifty cubits, and its breadth twenty-five cubits. 34 [p] Its vestibule faced the outer court, and it had palm trees on its jambs, on either side, and its stairway had eight steps.

35Then he brought me to [q] the north gate, and [r] he measured it. It had the same size as the others. 36Its side rooms, its jambs, and its vestibule were of the same size as the others, [7] and it had windows all around. Its length was fifty cubits, and its breadth twenty-five cubits. 37Its vestibule [8] faced the outer court, and it had palm trees on its jambs, on either side, and its stairway had eight steps.

38There was [s] a chamber with its door in the vestibule of the gate, [9] [t] where the burnt offering was to be washed. 39And in the vestibule of the gate were two [u] tables on either side, on which the [v] burnt offering and the [w] sin offering and the [x] guilt offering were to be slaughtered. 40And off to the side, on the outside as one goes up to the entrance of the north gate, were two tables; and off to the other side of the vestibule of the gate were two tables. 41 [y] Four tables were on either side of the gate, eight tables, [z] on which to slaughter. 42And there were four tables [a] of hewn stone for the burnt offering, a cubit and a half long, and a cubit and a half broad, and one cubit high, on which the instruments were to be laid with which the [v] burnt offerings and the sacrifices were slaughtered. 43And hooks, [10] a handbreadth long, were fastened all around within. And on the tables the flesh of the offering was to be laid.

Chambers for the Priests

[44]On the outside of the inner gateway there were two [b]chambers[11] in the [c]inner court, one[12] at the side of the north gate facing south, the other at the side of the south[13] gate facing north. [45]And he said to me, “This chamber that faces south is for the priests [d]who have charge of the temple, [46]and the chamber that faces north is for the priests [e]who have charge of the altar. These are [f]the sons of Zadok, who alone[14] among the sons of Levi may come [g]near to the LORD to minister to him.” [47]And he measured the court, [h]a hundred cubits long and [h]a hundred cubits broad, a square. And [i]the altar was in front of the temple.

The Vestibule of the Temple

[48]Then he brought me to [j]the vestibule of the temple and measured the [k]jambs of the vestibule, five cubits on either side. And the breadth of the gate was fourteen cubits, and the sidewalls of the gate[15] were three cubits on either side. [49] [l]The length of the vestibule was twenty cubits, and the breadth twelve[16] cubits, and people would go up to it by ten steps.[17] And there were pillars beside the jambs, one on either side.

The Inner Temple

EZEKIEL 41 [†]Then he brought me to [m]the nave and measured the [n]jambs. On each side six cubits[1] was the breadth of the jambs.[2] [2]And the breadth of the entrance was ten cubits, and the sidewalls of the entrance were five cubits on either side. And he measured the length of the nave,[3] [o]forty cubits, and its breadth, [p]twenty cubits. [3]Then he went [q]into the inner room and measured the jambs of the entrance, two cubits; and the entrance, six cubits; and the sidewalls on either side[4] of the entrance, seven cubits. [4]And he measured [r]the length of the room, twenty cubits, and its breadth, twenty cubits, across [s]the nave. And he said to me, “This is [t]the Most Holy Place.”

[5]Then he measured the wall of the temple, six cubits thick, and the breadth of [u]the side chambers, four cubits, [u]all around the temple. [6]And the side chambers were in three stories, one over another, [v]thirty in each story. There were offsets [5] all around the wall of the temple to serve as supports for the side chambers, [w] so that they should not be supported by the wall of the temple. [7]And it became broader as it wound upward to the side chambers, because the temple was enclosed upward all around the temple. Thus the temple had a broad area upward, and [x] so one went up from the lowest story to the top story through the middle story. [8]I saw also that the temple had a raised platform all around; the foundations of the side chambers measured a full reed of [y] six long cubits. [9]The thickness of the outer wall of the side chambers was five cubits. [z] The free space between the side chambers of the temple and the [10] [a] other chambers was a breadth of [b] twenty cubits all around the temple on every side. [11]And the doors of the [c] side chambers opened on [d] the free space, one door toward the north, and another door toward the south. And the breadth of the free space was five cubits all around.

[12]The building that was facing [e] the separate yard on the west side was seventy cubits broad, and the wall of the building was five cubits thick all around, and its length ninety cubits.

[13]Then he measured the temple, [f] a hundred cubits long; and the yard and the building with its walls, a hundred cubits long; [14]also the breadth of the east front of the temple and the yard, a hundred cubits.

[15]Then he measured the length of [g] the building facing the yard that was at the back and [h] its galleries [6] on either side, a hundred cubits.

The inside of the nave and the vestibules of the court, [16] [i] the thresholds and [j] the narrow windows and the galleries all around the three of them, opposite the threshold, were paneled with wood all around, from the floor up to the windows (now the windows were covered), [17]to the space above the door, even to the inner room, and on the outside. And on all the walls all around, inside and outside, was a measured pattern. [7] [18]It was carved of [k] cherubim and [l] palm trees, a palm tree between cherub and cherub. Every cherub had two faces: [19] [m] a human face toward the palm tree on the one side, and the face of a young lion toward the palm tree on the other side. They were carved on the whole temple all around. [20]From the floor to above the door, cherubim and palm trees were carved; similarly the wall of the nave.

[21]The doorposts of [n]the nave were squared, and in front of [o]the Holy Place was something resembling [22][p]an altar of wood, three cubits high, two cubits long, and two cubits broad. [8] Its corners, its base, [9] and its walls were of wood. He said to me, “This is [q]the table that is before the LORD.” [23]The nave and the Holy Place had each [r]a double door. [24]The double doors had two leaves apiece, [s]two swinging leaves for each door. [25]And on the doors of the nave were carved cherubim and palm trees, [t]such as were carved on the walls. And there was [u]a canopy [10] of wood in front of [v]the vestibule outside. [26]And there were [j]narrow windows and palm trees on either side, on the sidewalls of the vestibule, [w]the side chambers of the temple, and the [u]canopies.

The Temple’s Chambers

EZEKIEL 42 [†]Then he led me out into [x]the outer court, [y]toward the north, and he brought me to [x]the chambers that were opposite [z]the separate yard and opposite [a]the building on the north. [2]The length of the building whose door faced north was [b]a hundred cubits, [1] and [c]the breadth fifty cubits. [3]Facing [d]the twenty cubits that belonged to the inner court, and facing [e]the pavement that belonged to the outer court, was [f]gallery [2] against gallery in three stories. [4]And [g]before the chambers was a passage inward, ten cubits wide and [h]a hundred cubits long, [3] and [g]their doors were on the north. [5]Now the upper chambers were narrower, for the galleries took more away from them than from the lower and middle chambers of the building. [6]For they were in three stories, and they had no pillars like the pillars of the courts. Thus the upper chambers were set back from the ground more than the lower and the middle ones. [7]And [i]there was a wall outside parallel to the chambers, toward the outer court, opposite the chambers, [j]fifty cubits long. [8]For the chambers on the outer court were fifty cubits long, while those opposite [k]the nave [4] were [l]a hundred cubits long. [9]Below these chambers was [m]an entrance on the east side, as one enters them from the outer court.

[10]In the thickness of [n]the wall of the court, on the south [5] also, opposite [o]the yard and opposite [o]the building, there were [p]chambers [11]with [q]a passage in front of them. They were similar to the chambers on the north, of the same length and breadth, with the same exits [6] and arrangements and [q] doors, [12]as were the entrances of the chambers on the south. There was an entrance at the beginning of the passage, the passage before [n] the corresponding wall on the east as one enters them. [7]

[13]Then he said to me, "The north chambers and the south chambers opposite [o] the yard are the holy chambers, [r] where the priests who approach the LORD [s] shall eat the [t] most holy offerings. There they shall put the most holy offerings—[t] the grain offering, [u] the sin offering, and [u] the guilt offering—for the place is holy. [14]When the priests enter the Holy Place, they shall not go out of it into the outer court [v] without laying there the garments in which they minister, for these are holy. [v] They shall put on other garments before they go near to that which is for the people."

[15][†]Now when he had finished measuring the interior of the temple area, he led me out by [w] the gate that faced east, and measured the temple area all around. [16]He measured the east side with [x] the measuring reed, 500 cubits by the measuring reed all around. [17]He measured the north side, 500 cubits by the measuring reed all around. [18]He measured the south side, 500 cubits by the measuring reed. [19]Then he turned to the west side and measured, 500 cubits by the measuring reed. [20]He measured it on the four sides. It had [y] a wall around it, [z] 500 cubits long and [z] 500 cubits broad, [a] to make a separation between the holy and the common.

The Glory of the LORD Fills the Temple

EZEKIEL 43 [†]Then he led me to [b]the gate, the gate facing east. 2And behold, [c]the glory of the God of Israel was coming from the east. And [d]the sound of his coming was like the sound of many waters, and [e]the earth shone with his glory. 3And [f]the vision I saw was just like the vision that I had seen [g]when he [1] came to destroy the city, and just like [h]the vision that I had seen [i]by the Chebar canal. And [j]I fell on my face. 4As [c]the glory of the LORD [k]entered the temple by the gate facing east, 5[l]the Spirit lifted me up and brought me into [m]the inner court; and behold, [n]the glory of the LORD filled the temple.

6[†][o]While the man was standing beside me, [p]I heard one speaking to me out of the temple, 7and he said to me, [q]“Son of man, this is [r]the place of my throne and [s]the place of the soles of my feet, [t]where I will dwell in the midst of the people of Israel forever. And the house of Israel shall no more [u]defile my holy name, neither they, nor their kings, by their whoring and by the dead bodies [2] of their kings at their high places, [3] 8by setting their threshold by my threshold and their doorposts beside my doorposts, with [v]only a wall between me and them. They have [w]defiled my holy name by their abominations that they have committed, so I have consumed them in my anger. 9Now let them put away their whoring and the dead bodies of their kings far from me, [t]and I will dwell in their midst forever.

10“As for you, [q]son of man, [x]describe to the house of Israel the temple, that they may be ashamed of their iniquities; and they shall measure the plan. 11And if they are ashamed of all that they have done, [x]make known to them the design of the temple, its arrangement, [y]its exits and its entrances, that is, its whole design; and make known to them as well all its statutes and its whole design and all its laws, and write it down [z]in their sight, so that they may observe all its laws and all its statutes and carry them out. 12This is the law of the temple: the whole territory on the top of [a]the mountain [b]all around shall be most holy. Behold, this is the law of the temple.

The Altar

13[†]“These are the measurements of [c]the altar by cubits (the cubit being [d]a cubit and a handbreadth): [4] its base shall be one cubit high [5] and one cubit broad, with a rim of one span [6] around its edge. And this shall be the height of the altar: 14from the base on the ground to the lower ledge, two cubits, with a breadth of one cubit; and from the smaller ledge to the larger ledge, four cubits, with a breadth of one cubit; 15and the altar hearth, four cubits; and from the altar hearth projecting upward, [e]four horns. 16The altar hearth shall be [f]square, twelve cubits long by twelve broad. 17The ledge also shall be square, fourteen cubits long by fourteen broad, with a rim around it half a cubit broad, and its base one cubit all around. [g]The steps of the altar shall face east.”

18[†]And he said to me, [h]“Son of man, thus says the Lord GOD: These are the ordinances for the altar: On the day when it is erected for offering burnt offerings upon it and [i]for throwing blood against it, 19you shall give to [j]the Levitical priests [k]of the family of Zadok, who draw near to me to minister to me, declares the Lord GOD, [l]a bull from the herd for a sin offering. 20And [m]you shall take some of its blood and put it on [e]the four horns of the altar and on the four corners of the ledge and upon [n]the rim all around. [o]Thus you shall purify the altar and make atonement for it. 21You shall also take the bull of the sin offering, and [p]it shall be burned in the appointed place belonging to the temple, outside the sacred area. 22And on the second day you shall offer a male goat without blemish for a sin offering; and the altar shall be purified, as it was purified with the bull. 23When you have finished [o]purifying it, you shall offer a bull from the herd without blemish and [q]a ram from the flock without blemish. 24You shall present them before the LORD, and the priests [r]shall sprinkle salt on them and offer them up as a burnt offering to the LORD. 25[s]For seven days you shall provide daily a male goat for a sin offering; also, a bull from the herd and a ram from the flock, without blemish, shall be provided. 26Seven days shall they make atonement for the altar and cleanse it, and so consecrate it. [7] 27And when they have completed these days, then [t]from the eighth day onward the priests shall offer on the altar your burnt offerings and your [u]peace offerings, and [v]I will accept you, declares the Lord GOD.”

The Gate for the Prince

EZEKIEL 44 [†]Then he brought me [w]back to the outer gate of the sanctuary, [x]which faces east. And it was shut. [2]And the LORD said to me, “This gate shall remain shut; it shall not be opened, and no one shall enter by it, for [y]the LORD, the God of Israel, has entered by it. Therefore it shall remain shut. [3]Only [z]the prince may sit in it [a]to eat bread before the LORD. He [b]shall enter by way of the vestibule of the gate, and shall go out by the same way.”

[4][†]Then he brought me by way of [c]the north gate to the front of the temple, and I looked, and behold, [d]the glory of the LORD filled the temple of the LORD. And [e]I fell on my face. [5]And the LORD said to me, [f]“Son of man, mark well, [g]see with your eyes, [g]and hear with your ears all that I shall tell you concerning [h]all the statutes of the temple of the LORD and all its laws. And mark well [h]the entrance to the temple and all the exits from the sanctuary. [6]And say to [i]the rebellious house, [1] to the [j]house of Israel, Thus says the Lord GOD: O house of Israel, [k]enough of all your abominations, [7]in [l]admitting foreigners, [m]uncircumcised in heart and flesh, to be in my sanctuary, [n]profaning my temple, when you offer to me my food, the fat and the blood. You [2] have broken my covenant, in addition to all your abominations. [8]And [o]you have not kept charge of my holy things, but you have set others to keep my charge for you in my sanctuary.

[9]“Thus says the Lord GOD: [p]No foreigner, uncircumcised in heart and flesh, of all the foreigners who are among the people of Israel, shall enter my sanctuary. [10][†]But [q]the Levites who went far from me, going astray from me after their idols [r]when Israel went astray, [s]shall bear their punishment. [3] [11]They shall be [t]ministers in my sanctuary, having oversight [u]at the gates of the temple and ministering in the temple. They shall slaughter the burnt offering and the sacrifice for the people, and [v]they shall stand before the people, to minister to them. [12]Because they ministered to them before their idols and became [w]a stumbling block of iniquity to the house of Israel, therefore I have [x]sworn concerning them, declares the Lord GOD, and they shall bear their punishment. [13]They [y]shall not come near to me, to serve me as priest, nor come near any of my holy things and the things that are most holy, but [z]they shall bear their shame and the abominations that they have committed. [14]Yet I will appoint them to keep [a] charge of the temple, [b] to do all its service and all that is to be done in it.

Rules for Levitical Priests

[15][†]“But [c] the Levitical priests, [c] the sons of Zadok, who kept [a] the charge of my sanctuary [r] when the people of Israel went astray from me, shall come near to me [d] to minister to me. And they shall stand before me to offer me [e] the fat and the blood, declares the Lord GOD. [16]They shall enter my sanctuary, and they shall approach [f] my table, to minister to me, and they shall keep my charge. [17]When they enter the gates of the inner court, they shall wear [g] linen garments. They shall have nothing of wool on them, while they minister at the gates of the inner court, and within. [18]They shall have linen turbans on their heads, and linen undergarments around their waists. They shall not bind themselves with anything that causes sweat. [19]And when they go out into the outer court to the people, they shall put off the garments in which they have been ministering [h] and lay them in the holy chambers. And [i] they shall put on other garments, [j] lest they transmit holiness to the people with their garments. [20] [k] They shall not shave their heads or [l] let their locks grow long; they shall surely trim the hair of their heads. [21] [m] No priest shall drink wine when he enters the inner court. [22] [n] They shall not marry a widow or a divorced woman, but only virgins of the offspring of the house of Israel, or a widow who is the widow of a priest. [23] [o] They shall teach my people the difference between the holy and the common, and [o] show them how to distinguish between the unclean and the clean. [24] [p] In a dispute, they shall act as judges, and they shall judge it according to my judgments. They shall keep my laws and my statutes in all my appointed feasts, and [q] they shall keep my Sabbaths holy. [25] [r] They shall not defile themselves by going near to a dead person. However, for father or mother, for son or daughter, for brother or unmarried sister they may defile themselves. [26] [s] After he [4] has become clean, they shall count seven days for him. [27]And on the day that he goes into the Holy Place, [t] into the inner court, to minister in the Holy Place, [u] he shall offer his sin offering, declares the Lord GOD.

28 [v] “This shall be their inheritance: I am their inheritance: and [w] you shall give them no possession in Israel; I am their possession. 29 [x] They shall eat the grain offering, the sin offering, and the guilt offering, and [y] every devoted thing in Israel shall be theirs. 30 [z] And the first of all the firstfruits of all kinds, and every offering of all kinds from all your offerings, shall belong to the priests. [a] You shall also give to the priests the first of your dough, [b] that a blessing may rest on your house. 31 [c] The priests shall not eat of [d] anything, whether bird or beast, that has died of itself or is torn by wild animals.

The Holy District

EZEKIEL 45 [†]“When [e] you allot the land as an inheritance, [f] you shall set apart for the LORD a portion of the land as a holy district, 25,000 cubits [1] long and 20,000 [2] cubits broad. It shall be holy throughout its whole extent. 2 [g] Of this a square plot of 500 by 500 cubits shall be for the sanctuary, with fifty cubits for [h] an open space around it. 3 And [i] from this measured district you shall measure off a section 25,000 cubits long and 10,000 broad, [j] in which shall be the sanctuary, [k] the Most Holy Place. 4 [l] It shall be the holy portion of the land. It shall be for the priests, who minister in the sanctuary and approach the LORD to minister to him, and it shall be a place for their houses and a holy place for the sanctuary. 5 [m] Another section, 25,000 cubits long and 10,000 cubits broad, shall be for the Levites who minister at the temple, as their possession for cities to live in. [3] 6 “Alongside the portion set apart as the holy district [n] you shall assign for the property of the city an area 5,000 cubits broad and 25,000 cubits long. [o] It shall belong to the whole house of Israel.

The Portion for the Prince

7 [p] “And to [q] the prince shall belong the land on both sides of the holy district and the property of the city, alongside the holy district and the property of the city, on the west and on the east, corresponding in length to one of the tribal portions, and extending from the western to the eastern boundary 8 of the land. It is to be his property in Israel. And [r] my princes shall no more oppress my people, but [s] they shall let the house of Israel have the land according to their tribes.

9[†]“Thus says the Lord God: [t] Enough, O princes of Israel! Put away violence and oppression, and execute justice and righteousness. Cease [u] your evictions of my people, declares the Lord God.

10 [v] “You shall have just balances, a just ephah, and a just bath. [4] 11The ephah and the bath shall be [w] of the same measure, [x] the bath containing one tenth of a homer, [5] and the ephah one tenth of a homer; the homer shall be the standard measure. 12 [y] The shekel shall be twenty gerahs; [6] twenty shekels plus twenty-five shekels plus fifteen shekels shall be your mina. [7]

13[†] [z] “This is the offering that you shall make: one sixth of an ephah from each homer of wheat, and one sixth of an ephah from each homer of barley, 14and as the fixed portion of oil, measured in baths, one tenth of a bath from each cor [8] (the cor, like the homer, contains [a] ten baths). [9] 15And one sheep from every flock of two hundred, from the watering places of Israel for grain offering, burnt offering, and peace offerings, [b] to make atonement for them, declares the Lord God. 16All the people of the land shall be obliged to give this offering to the prince in Israel. 17 [c] It shall be the prince’s duty to furnish the burnt offerings, grain offerings, and drink offerings, at the feasts, the new moons, and the Sabbaths, all the appointed feasts of the house of Israel: he shall provide the sin offerings, grain offerings, burnt offerings, and peace offerings, to make atonement on behalf of the house of Israel.

18[†]“Thus says the Lord God: In the first month, [d] on the first day of the month, you shall take a bull from the herd without blemish, and [e] purify the sanctuary. 19 [f] The priest shall take some of the blood of the sin offering and put it [g] on the doorposts of the temple, the four corners of the ledge of the altar, and the posts of the gate of the inner court. 20You shall do the same on the seventh day of the month for anyone who has sinned through error or ignorance; so you shall make atonement for the temple.

21 [h] “In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, you shall celebrate the Feast of the Passover, and for seven days unleavened bread shall be eaten. 22On that day the prince [i] shall provide for himself and all the people of the land a young bull for a sin offering. [23]And on [j] the seven days of the festival he shall provide as a burnt offering to the LORD seven young bulls and seven rams without blemish, on each of the seven days; and [k] a male goat daily for a sin offering. [24]And [l] he shall provide as [m] a grain offering an ephah for each bull, an ephah for each ram, and a hin [10] of oil to each ephah. [25] [n] In the seventh month, on the fifteenth day of the month and for the seven days of the feast, [o] he shall make the same provision for sin offerings, burnt offerings, and grain offerings, and for the oil.

The Prince and the Feasts

EZEKIEL 46 [†]“Thus says the Lord GOD: [p] The gate of [q] the inner court that faces east shall be shut on the six working days, but on the Sabbath day it shall be opened, and [r] on the day of the new moon it shall be opened. [2] [s] The prince shall enter by the vestibule of the gate from outside, and shall take his stand by [t] the post of the gate. [u] The priests shall offer his burnt offering and his peace offerings, and he shall worship at [v] the threshold of the gate. Then he shall go out, but the gate shall not be shut until evening. [3] [w] The people of the land shall bow down at the entrance of that gate before the LORD on the Sabbaths and on the new moons. [4] [x] The burnt offering that the prince offers to the LORD [y] on the Sabbath day shall be six lambs without blemish and a ram without blemish. [5]And [z] the grain offering with the ram shall be an ephah, [1] and the grain offering with the lambs shall be [a] as much as he is able, together with a hin [2] of oil to each ephah. [6]On the day of the new moon he shall offer a bull from the herd without blemish, and six lambs and a ram, which shall be without blemish. [7]As a grain offering he shall provide an ephah with the bull and an ephah with the ram, and with the lambs [b] as much as he is able, together with a hin of oil to each ephah. [8][†] [c] When the prince enters, he shall enter by the vestibule of the gate, and he shall go out by the same way.

[9] [d] “When the people of the land [e] come before the LORD at the appointed feasts, he who enters by the north gate to worship shall go out by the south gate, and he who enters by the south gate shall go out by the north gate: no one shall return by way of the gate by which he entered, but each shall go out straight ahead. [10]When they enter, [f] the prince shall enter with them, and when they go out, he shall go out.

[11]"At the feasts and the appointed festivals, [z] the grain offering with a young bull shall be an ephah, and with a ram an ephah, and with the lambs [b] as much as one is able to give, together with a hin of oil to an ephah. [12]When the prince provides [g] a freewill offering, either a burnt offering or peace offerings as a freewill offering to the LORD, [h] the gate facing east shall be opened for him. And he shall offer his burnt offering or his peace offerings [i] as he does on the Sabbath day. Then he shall go out, and after he has gone out the gate shall be shut.

[13][j] "You shall provide a lamb a year old without blemish for a burnt offering to the LORD daily; morning by morning you shall provide it. [14]And [k] you shall provide a grain offering with it morning by morning, one sixth of an ephah, and one third of a hin of oil to moisten the flour, as a grain offering to the LORD. This is a perpetual statute. [15]Thus the lamb and the meal offering and the oil shall be provided, morning by morning, for [l] a regular burnt offering.

[16][†]"Thus says the Lord GOD: If the prince makes a gift to any of his sons as his inheritance, it shall belong to his sons. It is their property by inheritance. [17]But if he makes a gift [m] out of his inheritance to one of his servants, it shall be his to [n] the year of liberty. Then it shall revert to the prince; surely it is his inheritance—it shall belong to his sons. [18] [o] The prince shall not take any of the inheritance of the people, [p] thrusting them out of their property. He shall give his sons their inheritance out of his own property, so that none of my people shall be [q] scattered from his property."

Boiling Places for Offerings

[19]Then he brought me through the entrance, which was [r] at the side of the gate, to the north row of [s] the holy chambers for the priests, and behold, a place was there at the extreme western end of them. [20]And he said to me, "This is the place where the priests [t] shall boil the guilt offering and the sin offering, and where [u] they shall bake the grain offering, in order not to bring them out into the outer court and so [v] transmit holiness to the people."

[21]Then he brought me out to the outer court and led me around to the four corners of the court. And behold, in each corner of the court there was another court— [22]in the four corners of the court were small [3] courts, forty cubits [4] long and thirty broad; the four were of the same size. [23]On the inside, around each of the four courts was a row of masonry, with hearths made at the bottom of the rows all around. [24]Then he said to me, "These are the kitchens where those who [w] minister at the temple [t] shall boil the sacrifices of the people."

Water Flowing from the Temple

EZEKIEL 47 [†]Then he brought me back to [x] the door of the temple, and behold, [y] water was issuing from below [z] the threshold of the temple toward the east (for the temple faced east). The water was flowing down from below the south end of the threshold of the temple, south of [a] the altar. [2]Then he brought me out by way of [b] the north gate and led me around on the outside to [c] the outer gate that faces toward the east; and behold, the water was trickling out on the south side.

[3]Going on eastward with a measuring line in his hand, [d] the man measured a thousand cubits, [1] and then led me through the water, and it was ankle-deep. [4]Again he measured a thousand, and led me through the water, and it was knee-deep. Again he measured a thousand, and led me through the water, and it was waist-deep. [5]Again he measured a thousand, and it was a river that I could not pass through, for the water had risen. It was deep enough to swim in, a river that could not be passed through. [6]And he said to me, [e] "Son of man, [f] have you seen this?"

Then he led me back to the bank of the river. [7]As I went back, I saw on the bank of the river [g] very many trees on the one side and on the other. [8][†]And he said to me, "This water flows toward the eastern region and goes down into [h] the Arabah, and enters the sea; [2] when the water flows into [i] the sea, the water will become fresh. [3] [9]And wherever the river goes, [4] every living creature that swarms will live, and there will be very many fish. For this water goes there, that the waters of the sea [5] may become fresh; so everything will live where the river goes. [10][†]Fishermen will stand beside the sea. From [j]Engedi to [k]Eneglaim it will be a place for the spreading of nets. Its fish will be of very many kinds, like the fish of [l]the Great Sea. [6] [11][†]But its swamps and marshes will not become fresh; they are to be left for salt. [12]And on the banks, [m]on both sides of the river, there will grow [n]all kinds of trees for food. [o]Their leaves will not wither, nor their fruit fail, [p]but they will bear fresh fruit every month, because the water for them flows from the sanctuary. Their fruit will be for food, and [p]their leaves for healing."

Division of the Land

[13][†]Thus says the Lord GOD: "This is the boundary [7] by which [q]you shall divide the land for inheritance among the twelve tribes of Israel. [r]Joseph shall have two portions. [14]And you shall divide equally what [s]I swore [t]to give to your fathers. [u]This land shall fall to you as your inheritance.

[15][†]"This shall be the boundary of the land: On the north side, from [l]the Great Sea [v]by way of Hethlon to Lebo-hamath, and on to [w]Zedad, [8] [16][x]Berothah, Sibraim (which lies on the border between [y]Damascus and [v]Hamath), as far as Hazer-hatticon, which is on the border of Hauran. [17]So the boundary shall run from the sea to [z]Hazar-enan, which is on the northern border of Damascus, with the border of Hamath to the north. [9] This shall be the north side. [10]

[18]"On the east side, the boundary shall run between Hauran and Damascus; along the Jordan between [a]Gilead and the land of Israel; to [b]the eastern sea and as far as Tamar. [11] This shall be the east side.

[19]"On the south side, it shall run from [c]Tamar as far as [d]the waters of Meribah-kadesh, from there along [e]the Brook of Egypt [12] to [f]the Great Sea. This shall be the south side.

[20]"On the west side, the Great Sea shall be the boundary to a point [v]opposite Lebo-hamath. This shall be the west side.

[21][†][g]"So you shall divide this land among you according to the tribes of Israel. [22][h]You shall allot it as an inheritance for yourselves and [i]for the sojourners who reside among you and have had children among you. [j]They shall be to you as native-born children of Israel. With you they shall be allotted an inheritance among the tribes of Israel. 23In whatever tribe the sojourner resides, there you shall assign him his inheritance, declares the Lord GOD.

EZEKIEL 48 [†]“These are the names of the tribes: Beginning at the northern extreme, beside [k] the way of Hethlon [l] to Lebo-hamath, as far as [m] Hazar-enan (which is on the northern border of [n] Damascus over against Hamath), and [1] extending from the east side to the west, [2] [o] Dan, one portion. 2Adjoining the territory of Dan, from the east side to the west, [o] Asher, one portion. 3Adjoining the territory of Asher, from the east side to the west, [o] Naphtali, one portion. 4Adjoining the territory of Naphtali, from the east side to the west, Manasseh, one portion. 5Adjoining the territory of Manasseh, from the east side to the west, Ephraim, one portion. 6Adjoining the territory of Ephraim, from the east side to the west, Reuben, one portion. 7Adjoining the territory of Reuben, from the east side to the west, Judah, one portion.

8[†]“Adjoining the territory of Judah, from the east side to the west, shall be [p] the portion which you shall set apart, 25,000 cubits [3] in breadth, and in length equal to one of the tribal portions, from the east side to the west, with [q] the sanctuary in the midst of it. 9The portion that you shall set apart for the LORD shall be 25,000 cubits in length, and 20,000 [4] in breadth. 10 [r] These shall be the allotments of the holy portion: the priests shall have an allotment measuring 25,000 cubits on the northern side, 10,000 cubits in breadth on the western side, 10,000 in breadth on the eastern side, and 25,000 in length on the southern side, with the sanctuary of the LORD in the midst of it. 11This shall be for [s] the consecrated priests, [t] the sons of Zadok, who kept my charge, who did not go astray when the people of Israel went astray, [u] as the Levites did. 12And it shall belong to them as a special portion from the holy portion of the land, a most holy place, adjoining the territory of the Levites. 13 [v] And alongside the territory of the priests, the Levites shall have an allotment 25,000 cubits in length and 10,000 in breadth. The whole length shall be 25,000 cubits and the breadth 20,000. [5] 14They [w] shall not sell or exchange any of it. They shall not alienate [x] this choice portion of the land, for it is holy to the LORD.

15 [y] "The remainder, 5,000 cubits in breadth and 25,000 in length, shall be [z] for common use for the city, for dwellings and for [a] open country. In the midst of it shall be the city, 16 and these shall be its measurements: [b] the north side 4,500 cubits, the south side 4,500, the east side 4,500, and the west side 4,500. 17 And the city shall have open land: on the north 250 cubits, on the south 250, on the east 250, and on the west 250. 18 The remainder of the length alongside the holy portion shall be 10,000 cubits to the east, and 10,000 to the west, and it shall be alongside the holy portion. [c] Its produce shall be food for the workers of the city. 19 And the workers of the city, from all the tribes of Israel, shall till it. 20 The whole portion that [d] you shall set apart shall be 25,000 cubits square, that is, the holy portion together with the property of the city.

21 [e] "What remains on both sides of the holy portion and of the property of the city shall belong to the prince. Extending from the 25,000 cubits of the holy portion to the east border, and westward from the 25,000 cubits to the west border, parallel to the tribal portions, it shall belong to the prince. [f] The holy portion with the sanctuary of the temple shall be in its midst. 22 It shall be separate from the property of the Levites and the property of the city, which are in the midst of that which belongs to the prince. The portion of the prince shall lie between the territory of Judah and the territory of Benjamin.

23 [†] "As for the rest of the tribes: from the east side to the west, Benjamin, one portion. 24 Adjoining the territory of Benjamin, from the east side to the west, Simeon, one portion. 25 Adjoining the territory of Simeon, from the east side to the west, Issachar, one portion. 26 Adjoining the territory of Issachar, from the east side to the west, Zebulun, one portion. 27 Adjoining the territory of Zebulun, from the east side to the west, Gad, one portion. 28 And adjoining the territory of Gad to the south, the boundary shall run [g] from Tamar to the waters of [g] Meribah-kadesh, from there along the Brook of Egypt [6] to [h] the Great Sea. [7] 29 This is the land that [i] you shall allot as an inheritance among the tribes of Israel, and these are their portions, declares the Lord GOD.

The Gates of the City

30[†]“These shall be [j] the exits of the city: On the north side, which is to be [k] 4,500 cubits by measure, 31 [l] three gates, the gate of [m] Reuben, the gate of [m] Judah, and the gate of [m] Levi, the gates of the city being named after the tribes of Israel. 32On the east side, which is to be 4,500 cubits, three gates, the gate of Joseph, the gate of Benjamin, and the gate of Dan. 33On the south side, which is to be 4,500 cubits by measure, three gates, the gate of Simeon, the gate of Issachar, and the gate of Zebulun. 34On the west side, which is to be 4,500 cubits, three gates, [8] the gate of Gad, the gate of Asher, and the gate of Naphtali. 35[†]The circumference of the city shall be 18,000 cubits. And [n] the name of the city from that time on shall be, [o] The LORD Is There.”

Study Notes for Ezekiel

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:1–3:27 Inaugural Vision. The story of Ezekiel's call as a prophet is the most complex of all the "prophetic call stories" in the OT. It is also one of the most carefully structured. Ezekiel has a vision of the glory of God (1:1–28). He receives his prophetic commission through swallowing a scroll that God offers him (2:1–3:11). Doing so strengthens him and trains him in obedience. After the glory of God withdraws (3:12–15), Ezekiel is appointed to be a "watchman" (3:16–21). Then he has another encounter with God's glory (3:22–27).

FACT

The Babylonians exiled people from Judah and Jerusalem in stages. Daniel and his friends were taken in 605 B.C. Ezekiel was deported in 597 B.C., along with King Jehoiachin and many others (2 Kings 24:8–17). The final exile occurred 10 years later.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:1 The mention of the Chebar canal means that Ezekiel was near Nippur. He is not in the city of Babylon itself (see map). Visions of God links this vision (1:4–3:15) with 8:3 and 40:2.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:2 Probably the "thirtieth year" of v. 1 should be linked with the fifth year of the exile of King Jehoiachin (593 B.C.). Jehoiachin's exile is the reference point for dates throughout the book.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:4 A stormy wind announces the Lord's approach, as in Job 38:1. The north is associated with God's home (see Ps. 48:2), and in Jeremiah it indicates the source of divine judgment (Jer. 1:13–15). The phrase as it were shows that Ezekiel is struggling for the right words to describe the vision.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:9 Their wings touched recalls the description of the cherubim in the Most Holy Place in Solomon's temple (1 Kings 6:27). The four-sided form of the creatures ensures that they can do the impossible: go straight forward, in any direction, but without turning.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:10 The creatures' shape was mainly human, but each had four faces. Many suggestions have been made to explain their symbolism. Certainly each creature is majestic in its realm, whether among the wild (lion) and domestic (ox) animals, or in the air (eagle).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:12 The term spirit can refer either to God's spirit or to wind. Given v. 20, it seems likely that this is a reference to a "spirit" distinct from that of the living creatures (see ESV footnote).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:22–23 The term expanse appears four times in the immediate context (vv. 22–23, 25–26). Compare Gen. 1:6–8, 14–20, where it is used nine times. There the expanse forms the dome of the sky. Here it is a horizontal layer above the wings of the creatures. The rest of the vision is beyond the expanse (Ezek. 1:26–28).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 1:28 bow . . . on the day of rain. Given the threatening message that follows, the bow is likely a symbolic reference to the Lord sending arrows of lightning (see Ps. 7:12–13; Hab. 3:9). The glory of the LORD is his demonstrated presence with his people. It was visible as a bright light in the wilderness (Ex. 16:7) and accessible through the sanctuary (Ex. 40:34–35). In Ezekiel the term appears in Ezek. 1:28; 3:12, 23; 8:4; 9:3; 10:4, 18–19; 11:22–23; 43:2–5; 44:4. This glory will leave the impure temple (chs. 9–11) and then will return to the restored temple (43:2–5).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 2:1 Ezekiel is never addressed by name in this book, but 93 times he is called son of man. Daniel is the only other person addressed like this in the OT (Dan. 8:17). The Hebrew idiom "son of x" indicates membership in a class. "Son of man" identifies Ezekiel as a human creature before the supreme creator.

FACT

Son of man (or "son of Adam") highlights the prophet's humanity before the holy God. Ezekiel is called "son of man" 93 times in this book.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 2:2–4 God describes Israel as rebels (see also "rebellious house," vv. 5–7) throughout this inaugural vision. This deep-seated trait (and their fathers; see v. 4) will be emphasized again in Ezekiel's review of Israel's history in ch. 20. Ezekiel is sent to speak on God's behalf (you shall say to them), but he is not yet told what to say.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 2:8–10 Ezekiel is told he must open his mouth and eat the scroll of a book. When it is unrolled, writing is visible on its front and back. The scroll is full, just as Ezekiel soon will be (3:3). Its words are all audible, though their precise content remains unspecified.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:1–2 The command to eat is now combined with the commission to go and speak.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:3 feed your belly. Having tasted the scroll, the prophet learns that the words of mourning are not bitter, as one would expect, but sweet as honey.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:4 The command to go and speak is repeated in v. 11, framing this second speech (vv. 4–11). While the first speech emphasized divine sending (2:3–4), here the focus is on the prophet's action.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:5–7 Contrary to what he expected, Ezekiel is warned that taking God's word to another nation would be easier than taking God's words to his own people.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:10 This charge contains one of the few descriptions of prophetic experience in the OT. Ezekiel's ministry will have both a psychological (receive in your heart) and an auditory (hear with your ears) element (compare Job 32:18–20; Jer. 20:7–9).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:14 The phrase in the heat appears 30 times in the OT. The ESV generally translates it "in wrath" or "in fury." Ezekiel has gained God's perspective on his people's sin, and his anger reflects that.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:16–21 Ezekiel is assigned to be a watchman for Judah. This role is expanded in 33:1–9, the passage introducing the second phase of Ezekiel's ministry.

FACT

Tel-abib was located along the Chebar canal near Babylon. Ezekiel settled there with a community of fellow deportees from Judah (3:15). Many exiles prospered in Babylon, and when the Persians allowed them to return to Jerusalem, many decided to stay.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:18–19 Although the intent of prophetic messages is clearly to warn the wicked and thus save his life (compare 33:8), the greater concern in these verses is the importance of Ezekiel delivering the warnings faithfully. If the warning is issued, the prophet's life is saved (delivered your soul; see 3:21), even if the wicked continue to rebel against God.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:22–23 Here the valley is the broad river valley of Mesopotamia.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 3:25–27 Ezekiel has already eaten the message (vv. 1–3) and absorbed God's perspective on the people's sin (v. 14). Now his identification with the prophetic message is pushed even further. His actions and words must come under God's direct control. Ezekiel will be mute until Jerusalem's fall (see 33:22). So, how will he warn the people if he cannot speak? The solution: the Lord will enable him to speak the words of prophecy (I will open your mouth). The concluding words echo the divine commission in 2:4, 7.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:1–24:27 Judgment on Jerusalem and Judah. The oracles of chs. 4–24 come before Jerusalem's downfall in 587 B.C. Although the sequence appears to be chronological, there is also some grouping by theme and type of literature: chs. 4–7 include several symbolic actions; chs. 8–11 comprise the second major vision sequence in the book, Ezekiel's first "temple vision"; chs. 15–23 are dominated by "parables" and extended metaphors. Almost the only hopeful statement comes in 11:14–21, which anticipates the latter half of the book. Yet even that passage includes the familiar warnings against sin.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:1–5:4 Ezekiel is called upon to dramatize his prophecy, using actions rather than words to convey the divine message. As in most cases in the book, only the instructions are recorded, and not the report of the performance and its reception.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:1–2 The symbolic actions in these verses describe a siege in miniature form. Brick was the common building material in Babylon, though not in Jerusalem. Repeating against it five times emphasizes the danger for the city.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:3 The sign ensures that the siege, which could have been interpreted as God’s passive neglect, will be understood as his deliberate hostility against his people.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:4 The number of the days, as specified in vv. 5–9, corresponds to periods of exile for Israel and Judah. Compare the announcement of the 40 years of wilderness wandering in Num. 14:33–34.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:7 The arm bared (compare Isa. 52:10) suggests the “outstretched arm” (e.g., Ex. 6:6; Ezek. 20:33–34) with which the Lord acts on behalf of his people. In this situation, however, the Lord is acting against Jerusalem. Ezekiel’s silence (3:26) gives way to speech when he is told to prophesy against the city.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:10 The twenty shekels ration of bread amounts to just 8 ounces (0.23 kg).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:11 The sixth part of a hin is roughly equivalent to 1.4 pints (0.6 liters).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:12–15 Ezekiel objects when he is told to use human dung for fuel. Animal dung was a common fuel (v. 15; see 1 Kings 14:10), but Ezekiel, as a priest, regards food as holy (e.g., Lev. 22:7–8) and excrement as defiling (Deut. 23:12–14).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 4:16 Supply of bread in Hebrew is “staff of bread” (see ESV footnote), which probably refers to a method of storage. To break the staff (see 5:16; 14:13; also Ps. 105:16) is synonymous with famine.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:1–4 razor. Priests were not to shave off their hair (44:20; see also Lev. 21:5), so shaving his head and beard shamed and defiled Ezekiel.

FACT

God sometimes asked Ezekiel to act out his prophetic message. In ch. 4, God asks him to lie on his side for 430 days. In ch. 5, Ezekiel shaves his beard, a shameful act for a priest, to warn the people that God would judge Jerusalem for its rebellion.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:5–17 These verses comment on Ezekiel's dramatic presentation of prophecy (4:1–5:4).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:8–10 eat their sons. This gruesome prospect sometimes became a reality during siege warfare (see Lam. 4:10). This was one of God's judgments for breaking the covenant (Deut. 28:49–57).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 5:11 Deuteronomy often uses the phrase "eye not pitying" to describe the attitude that the Israelites must have in order to carry out stern judgment when issues of purity or loyalty are at stake (e.g., Deut. 13:8; 19:13). The same Hebrew is used here for God's eye that will not spare his own sinful people.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:1–7:27 These two extended oracles are both addressed to "geography": the "mountains" (6:2) and "land" (7:2) of Israel, although in both cases the real audience is human (see 6:6).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:2 set your face. Another favorite phrase of Ezekiel, expressing determination. The hills and mountains that Ezekiel addresses were linked to improper worship (see 1 Kings 14:22–23; 2 Chron. 21:11; Jer. 3:6).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:3 The treaty curses of Leviticus 26 are the background for this verse. This is especially clear in the threat to bring a sword upon you (also Ezek. 5:17; 11:8; 14:17; 29:8; and 33:2). The high places were cultic worship sites that were to be destroyed.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 6:8–10 leave some of you alive. Complete destruction is avoided with the promise that a remnant will be spared (compare 5:3). The survivors' sorrow is matched by the striking description of God's deep grief at the people's idolatry: I have been broken (6:9). This is the same verb that God uses in v. 6 to describe what will happen to the idols.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:2 The address to the land (literally, "soil") of Israel uses a phrase unique to Ezekiel (found 17 times in the book, always referring to the people Israel). Compare "the mountains of Israel," 6:2. The announcement of an end (also 7:3, 6) echoes Amos 8:2, where God announces the coming outpouring of his wrath.

FACT

God sent the prophets to warn Israel that the Day of the Lord was coming, when God would judge his people for their rebellion against him (see 3:19; Amos 5:18–20; Isa. 2:12). Here Ezekiel specifically condemns Jerusalem's crime and violence (7:23).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:3 Abominations are offenses that God despises, that make someone or something impure. The term appears 41 times in Ezekiel.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:10 Behold, the day! The "day of the Lord" is a prominent theme in the Hebrew prophets (see note on Amos 5:18–20). It refers to near or future judgment of the Lord on Israel and the nations (see Joel 2:1–11). This judgment also reveals God's glory and restores his people. Ezekiel's development of the theme relates most closely to Amos 8:9–10. Among the many concepts shared by Ezekiel 7 and Amos 8 are the "day" itself, violence and wealth, agricultural metaphors, foiled commerce, desecration of holy things, and withholding of divine direction.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:12–13 The transactions described here connect with the laws of Lev. 25:26–27. There is no opportunity to redeem property because death will come first.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:17 all knees turn to water. The Hebrew suggests a loss of bladder control due to panic.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 7:26 Loss of divine direction from the prophet, priest, and elders provides another link to Jeremiah, where the sinful Judeans assume that such guidance will always be available to them (Jer. 18:18).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:1–11:25 Ezekiel's "temple vision," the second of his four dramatic visions, has strong connections with the opening vision (chs. 1–3) and the concluding vision (chs. 40–48), which is a mirror image to this one. In his vision, Ezekiel is taken on a tour and is shown a series of pictures of idolatrous worship in the temple (ch. 8), the citywide slaughter of idolaters (ch. 9), the destruction of Jerusalem by fire, and the gradual withdrawal of the presence of the Lord from the temple (ch. 10). The vision culminates in the contrast of judgment on wicked officials (11:1–13) with an oracle of hope (11:14–21) before God's glory departs completely (11:22–25). As a whole, the vision emphasizes God's righteous rejection of this generation of Judeans.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:1–18 Ezekiel is transported in his vision to the temple complex at the heart of Jerusalem (vv. 1–4). In a series of locations, including both the center and the periphery of the temple, various cultic practices, termed abominations, are revealed.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:1 The vision took place in September 592 B.C., just over a year after the inaugural vision (see 1:1–3:27). Clearly there were "prophets" among the exiles stirring up rebellion (see Jer. 29:20–23). Thus the elders seek a word from Ezekiel.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:3 When interpreting chs. 8–11, one must keep in mind that what Ezekiel sees are dreamlike visions of God. This is spiritual, not "natural," reality. The inner gateway locates Ezekiel within the temple-palace complex, but not yet at its center.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:4 glory. See note on 1:28.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:5–6 The first of the four scenes finds Ezekiel with his back to the altar, facing an image of jealousy, which remains unidentified. The vagueness is deliberate: focus remains on what provokes God's outrage, not on the specifics of the image itself. It will get worse (still greater abominations; see vv. 13, 15). These sins are "greater" in the sense of being more hateful to God. This can be because of such factors as bringing him more dishonor, bringing greater harm to others, expressing defiance of God’s warnings or indifference to his love, sinning more boldly in public, or sinning by those with greater responsibility.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:10 The images engraved on the walls break the second commandment (Ex. 20:4) and violate the standards in Deut. 4:15–18.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:11 The presence of Jaazaniah the son of Shaphan among the 70 elders may have been a shock. He was probably a member of the clan of Shaphan (2 Kings 22:8–10), which had proved loyal to Yahweh’s cause in Jeremiah’s ministry (e.g., Jer. 26:24).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:14–15 Moving farther north, Ezekiel sees women weeping for Tammuz. This ancient Mesopotamian cult celebrated the shepherd-king and god of vegetation. Mourning rites among women in this cult are recorded in extrabiblical sources.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 8:16 The final scene, which is the briefest, states simply and starkly the worst of the offenses against God. The twenty-five men are not further identified, but the location between the porch and the altar would normally be reserved for priests. At this sacred place they worship the sun, which is prohibited in Deut. 4:19. This action contrasts sharply with what priests ought to do here (compare Ps. 26:6–7; Joel 2:17).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:1–11 A team of seven angels carries out the execution of the unfaithful in Jerusalem at God’s command. Only one of them is assigned the job of protecting the faithful. The prophet’s anguished intervention does not change the Lord’s mind about the judgment.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:3–7 The seventh angel, in the role of scribe, puts a mark on the foreheads (v. 4) of those who are faithful to the Lord. Preserving a remnant has been a feature of chs. 4–7. Here, the mark is the Hebrew letter taw. In the script of Ezekiel’s day it would be an X. Ancient Christian interpretation saw this symbol as an anticipation of the cross.

FACT

A writing case (9:2) was standard equipment for scribes. The case provided a surface for writing upon and a place for storing pens and ink. It also contained a knife for keeping the pens sharp.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:6 they began with the elders. Just as the leaders had led the people astray, so now judgment begins with them. house. The temple.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:8 Ah, Lord God! Will you destroy all the remnant? Compare 11:13.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 9:9–10 God pointedly responds to the elders' claim that he does not know what they are doing (the Lord does not see; compare 8:12 and 9:9).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:1–22 Two actions are interwoven here: the second (visionary) phase of city destruction (vv. 1–8), and the further withdrawal of the glory of God from the temple (vv. 9–22).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:2 The man clothed in linen, a "preserving angel" in ch. 9, now becomes an agent of destruction.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:4 glory. See note on 1:28.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 10:9–22 While this section is mostly description, the action in vv. 18–19 is crucial. At the threshold (v. 18) of the east gate of the temple (v. 19), the glory of the God of Israel is ready to depart from the midst of his sinful people. The departure will be slow and in stages, perhaps symbolizing how the Lord gives the people every opportunity to repent.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:1–13 Ezekiel sees 25 men—a different group from 8:16, and at a different location. Unlike the previous group, the problem here is not with worship but with politics, although the precise issue at stake is unclear. The overall impression is that the thing they fear will come upon them (11:8) and that they have brought divine judgment on themselves.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:1 The named individuals are otherwise unknown; on Pelatiah, see v. 13. Princes of the people does not refer to royalty; the identical phrase is translated "leaders of the people" in Neh. 11:1.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:2–3 cauldron . . . meat. The imagery is best understood to indicate fear that led to mistrusting God. The idea is further developed in ch. 24.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:7–12 The focus here is on the distinction between the court officials and the people who have been killed.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:13 The significance of Ezekiel's shock at the death of Pelatiah the son of Benaiah may lie in the meaning of his name: "the Lord delivers," son of "the Lord builds," has died!

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:14–21 Ezekiel's outcry in v. 13 apparently prompts one of the most important statements of hope in the book, one closely connected to the "new heart" passage in 36:22–32. In 11:15 the voice of those left in Judah taunts the exiles. God's response in v. 16 shows that God's own action brought about the exile (I removed . . . I scattered); it also redefines the relationship between God and the remnant remaining in Judah: the real sanctuary is not the temple but God himself. That new relationship is marked by a new spirit and a heart of flesh (v. 19) provided by God himself. This enables faithful living, which was impossible with a heart of stone. Ezekiel stresses both God's provision (here and in 36:26–27) and the importance of a correct human response ("make yourselves a new heart and a new spirit," 18:31).

FACT

Hearts of flesh to replace hearts of stone. The Lord says that his rebellious people have a "heart of stone" (11:19), but he promises to someday give them a "heart of flesh," enabling them to love and obey him.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 11:22–25 The vision concludes on a tragic note. God leaves his city, which means divine absence and thus death for the people.

The mountain . . . on the east is the Mount of Olives. God’s absence from Jerusalem will continue until 43:1–5.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:1–28 The predictions of exile in this chapter come during a time when the exile has already begun. Thus, the chapter probably relates to the uncertain decade between 597 B.C. (the deportation during the reign of Jehoiachin, during which Ezekiel was exiled) and 587 (the final fall of Jerusalem, during the reign of Zedekiah).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:2 On Ezekiel’s use of the phrase rebellious house (also vv. 9, 25), see note on 2:2–4.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:3 In their sight is repeated seven times in vv. 3–7, further underlining the prophecy’s main point. The hope that they will understand (literally, that they will “see”) also develops this theme.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:8–15 The explanation of the symbolic actions has both a broad and a narrow application. Verse 10 targets the prince in Jerusalem—a reference to Zedekiah, whom Ezekiel refuses to refer to as “king.” The rest of v. 10 and the plural references of v. 11 broaden the scope to the remaining Judeans. Verses 12–15 detail the fate of Zedekiah as recorded in 2 Kings 25. Still, this remains a sign for you (plural, Ezek. 12:11), that is, for Ezekiel’s fellow exiles.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:13 he shall not see it. The fate of Zedekiah is clearly in view here. Compare 2 Kings 25:7; Jer. 52:11.

FACT

Though Zedekiah was king of Judah at the time, Ezekiel refused to call him king. Instead, he calls him “the prince in Jerusalem” (12:10). This is because Zedekiah was a “puppet king” placed on the throne by the Babylonians.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 12:21–28 Apparently the delay in the prophecy’s fulfillment allowed time for counter-prophecies to be given. These false statements are answered here.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:1–14:11 Chapters 13–14 condemn those who speak false prophecy (ch. 13) and ignore true prophecy (14:1–11).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:1–23 Two groups are condemned: male "prophets" who simply prophesy falsely (vv. 1–16), and women who pretend to be prophets (vv. 17–23). Compare Mic. 3:5–7.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:1–9 Introductory and concluding phrases and distinctive content separate these verses from those that follow. The basic charge—that these prophets speak their own delusions—is voiced in vv. 2–3 and developed throughout. The metaphors of vv. 4–5 are striking. Like jackals (v. 4; compare Jer. 9:11) these false prophets are scavengers, but they ought to have protected the people by speaking God's word to them (Ezek. 22:30; see also Ps. 106:23).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:10–16 A further connection with Jeremiah brackets this second oracle: the false declaration of peace (vv. 10, 16; compare Jer. 6:14; 8:11). The false prophets' word of well-being gives the people false hope.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:17–21 Attention turns to women who give prophecies out of their own imaginations. The term "prophetess," used to describe genuine agents of God (e.g., Miriam in Ex. 15:20; Deborah in Judg. 4:4; Huldah in 2 Kings 22:14), is avoided in describing these impostors. Focus shifts to magical practices. The striking phrase hunt for souls (Ezek. 13:18, 20) identifies this activity as spiritual manipulation. Such behavior is forbidden in Lev. 19:26, 31 and Deut. 18:10–14.

FACT

The women in 13:17 who "prophesy out of their own hearts" were false prophets and magicians. Unlike Miriam (Ex. 15:20), Deborah (Judg. 4:4), and Huldah (2 Kings 22:14), these female prophets did not speak God's words.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 13:22–23 The false female prophets of the preceding oracle are addressed in v. 23 (you shall no more).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:1–11 The theme of false prophecy continues (vv. 9–11). The elders in exile (v. 1) approach Ezekiel (compare 8:1; 20:1). They want him to give them a word from the Lord, but the Lord knows they are idolaters. The key verse in this section is God's question in 14:3 (Should I indeed . . . be consulted by them?), which brings three responses. Verses 4–5 give an apparent "yes," but what it might mean to lay hold of the hearts (v. 5) is explained in the following verses. The second response comes in vv. 6–8: any divine answer to the idolatrous elders will involve calling for their repentance (v. 6); if they do not repent, God will reject them (v. 8). In his third response (vv. 9–11), God acknowledges that he himself has deceived that prophet but that they shall bear their punishment, with the ultimate goal that Israel may no more go astray from me (compare 1 Kings 22:13–28).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:9 I, the LORD, have deceived that prophet. One of the forms of God's judgment is allowing people to believe falsehood, or even (as in this verse) leading them to believe falsehood. Yet Scripture also consistently affirms human responsibility for the decision to sin (note the idolatry [v. 7] that came before this deception, and the just punishment from God [vv. 9–10]). Moreover, Scripture states that God himself cannot lie (Titus 1:2; Heb. 6:18), and it never excuses human beings for speaking or believing falsehood.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 14:12–23 Five distinct paragraphs make up this oracle. The first four describe four forms of divine judgment on Jerusalem: famine (vv. 12–14); beasts (vv. 15–16); sword (vv. 17–18); and pestilence (vv. 19–20). The final paragraph provides a summary and holds open the possibility that a remnant will be spared (vv. 21–23). All five paragraphs emphasize the accountability of each person for his or her own life. Compare 3:16–21 and ch. 18.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 15:1–8 Comparing Israel to a vine is a common OT theme (e.g., Ps. 80:8–16; Jer. 2:21). (On Israel as a vineyard, see Isa. 5:1–7; Jer. 12:10; as an olive tree, see Jer. 11:16; Rom. 11:17–24.) The mixing of vine imagery and spiritual unfaithfulness in Jer. 2:20–21 is also found in Ezekiel 15–16. Ezekiel further develops the vine metaphor in ch. 17 (compare 19:10–14). Here in 15:1–8, the point is simple: the wood of a vine is fit only for burning—and so it is with the inhabitants of Jerusalem (v. 6). Such a pessimistic evaluation matches God's evaluation of the whole of Israelite history in ch. 20.

FACT

Ezekiel compares the Jerusalemites to a vine that can only be used as fuel for a fire (ch. 15). In the Bible, the people of God are often compared to a vine. Jesus describes his relationship with his followers using vine imagery in John 15:1–11.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:1–63 Chapter 16 includes brutal violence and shocking sexual language. It shows that the infidelity of Jerusalem has brought upon it the just punishment of God. In no way does it justify any human punishment of adultery. Verses 1–43 follow the story of the abandoned child who became a bride; vv. 44–58 broaden the "family" to include two "sisters," Samaria and Sodom; and vv. 59–63 conclude both parts.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:1–43 The oracle has three phases. Verses 1–14 tell the story of an abandoned girl (v. 6) who becomes a queen (v. 13). God is the king who found her. Verses 15–34 describe the sexual sins the "queen" commits despite her husband's generosity. Verses 35–43 announce the coming judgment of the faithless bride.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:2 The instruction to deliver the oracle comes in semi-legal language: make known (compare 20:4; Job 13:23) expresses the idea of an arraignment in court.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:4–5 cast out. Leaving a newborn child outside implies an unwanted birth and certain death. The other actions that Ezekiel describes are the usual practice for welcoming a newborn.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:6 Blood is an important theme throughout Ezekiel. Usually it refers to violence, but here it involves life (compare Gen. 9:4).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:7 The story quickly moves from infancy to puberty. Still naked, the girl is vulnerable and in need of resources of all kinds.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:8 Now at a marriageable age, the girl is taken as a wife. Spread . . . my garment signals intent to marry (compare Ruth 3:9), and the covenant signifies formal commitment (Mal. 2:14).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:9 The cleansing actions here mirror those of v. 4. Blood in this case indicates her menstrual cycle has begun.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:10–13 Only after the covenant has been entered are the gifts of clothing and jewelry given. This signifies her status as royalty (v. 13).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:14 God asserts that Jerusalem's renown and beauty were entirely of his making (that I had bestowed).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:15 Played the whore in the OT usually refers to unrestrained sexual immorality. When used metaphorically of one's relationship with God, it usually includes idol worship.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:23–29 Jerusalem's "whorings" included multiple partners.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:30–34 This summary of vv. 15–34 accuses Jerusalem of being uniquely promiscuous. It draws together the two preceding metaphors. The marriage metaphor relates to infidelity and adultery, which betray the exclusive loyalty of the covenant relationship. The prostitution metaphor relates to the number of partners, which breaks God's standard of commitment only to him.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:35–43 Because . . . therefore (vv. 36–37 and v. 43) presents the sins and punishments in two parts (vv. 36–42, 43). Adultery, along with other illicit sexual relationships, was one of a number of capital crimes in Israel's law, so the announcement of execution here is not surprising. Other aspects of the punishments described here do not fit Israelite law so simply. It is unclear how stripping the culprit (v. 37) relates to the law about adultery. Perhaps it is a case of "poetic justice" in which Jerusalem returns to the nakedness in which she was found (v. 4).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:49–52 Jerusalem's crimes include social justice issues (v. 49), not just idolatry. She mistreats other people and God.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:53–58 Here judgment is assumed and a future restoration is envisioned. Both here and in the conclusion (vv. 59–63), the people feel shame at their previous acts. Restoring each to their former state (v. 55) puts Jerusalem on the same level as her "sisters," who have been similarly forgiven.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 16:60 The term everlasting covenant also occurs in 37:26 and elsewhere in the OT (see Isa. 61:8). In Jer. 32:40 it appears in the context of bringing together the old northern and southern kingdoms.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:1–24 If ch. 16 can be said to express a theological point of view, ch. 17 seems to be more political in nature. It is a sort of "fable," a story form in which plants and animals are used to teach a lesson (e.g., Judg. 9:8–15). Here two eagles, a cedar tree, and a vine are the main actors, and the story centers on the fortunes of the vine (compare Isa. 5:1–7; Ezek. 19:10–14). The story illustrates Judah's political fortunes, and ultimately its future under God. The fable is told in 17:1–12 and then is explained, first on the natural plane (vv. 11–18) and then in theological terms (vv. 19–21). Finally the fable resumes, describing an ideal future (vv. 22–24).

FACT

A "fable" with an important message. Ezekiel's story about the two eagles, the cedar tree, and the vine could be considered a type of "fable." A fable is a story in which animals or plants are the main characters. Though they are sometimes entertaining to read, biblical fables teach important lessons.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:2 This oracle (vv. 1–10) appears as a riddle, designed to provoke thought, and a parable (also translated "proverb"; see 12:22), which relies on comparison.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:3–5 The terms of the description are significant, for they indicate the status of the various characters. This is the greater eagle, taking a topmost twig as well as a seed.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:7 The second eagle lacks the magnificence of the first, while still remaining “great.”

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:8 The new orientation of the vine to the second eagle threatens its choice location and flourishing state.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:11–18 The first part identifies the characters of the fable (vv. 11–15) before spelling out the moral of the story (vv. 16–18). The first eagle is the king of Babylon, Nebuchadnezzar, who takes her king, that is, Judah’s king Jehoiachin (the “twig”), to Babylon (v. 12). The royal offspring (the “seed”) is Zedekiah (v. 13). Zedekiah’s failure was to break his covenant with Nebuchadnezzar (vv. 13–14) by turning to Egypt (v. 15), whose king was Hophra, the lesser eagle. Ultimately, hope in Egyptian aid will prove useless (v. 17; see Jer. 37:6–10). Breaking this political covenant will bring disaster on Zedekiah and his people (Ezek. 17:18).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:19–21 God takes full responsibility for the disaster to come (return . . . spread . . . bring . . . enter, all first-person verbs). This is not just a military defeat, but divine judgment.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 17:22–24 God’s action continues. The terms of the parable are used to sketch an ideal messianic future. God chooses a new sprig from the topmost part of the cedar (v. 22) and plants it himself (v. 23).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:1–32 God holds each generation accountable for its own sins.

FACT

Are God’s judgments fair? Some of the exiles complained that God was punishing them for their parents’ sins (ch. 18). Ezekiel replies that God will not judge on the basis of a parent’s sins; neither will he forgive because of a parent’s righteousness. God’s judgement is fair.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:1–4 The fathers have eaten sour grapes, and children's teeth are set on edge. Despite the popularity of this proverb, says Ezekiel, the soul who sins shall die, not others. Compare Jer. 31:29–30.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:5–18 Ezekiel describes three generations: a righteous father (vv. 5–9) and his wicked son (vv. 10–13), who in turns fathers a righteous son (vv. 14–18).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:19–24 Why should not the son suffer for the iniquity of the father? Ezekiel anticipates his audience clinging to their traditional understanding, which is summarized in the now irrelevant proverb (vv. 1–2).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:20–24 The soul who sins shall die. Verses 21–24 explain this teaching in what might seem a surprising way. Verses 21–22 consider the wicked person who then repents and lives rightly before God. Verse 24 considers the opposite scenario. Sandwiched between these is the central declaration of God's "pleasure" (v. 23) in repentance, and a denial that he has any pleasure in the death of the wicked (see note on 33:11).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:25–29 The way of the Lord is not just. "Just" has the sense of "weighed" or "measured," that is, in conformity to a standard (compare 1 Sam. 2:3). This objection is amusing, coming from people who do not live justly.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 18:30–32 Repentance is not being urged on Jerusalem, for the preceding chapters affirm that its destruction is assured. Rather, the exiles are pressed to repent and take responsibility for their moral lives. Thus the appeal is to make yourselves a new heart and spirit, in contrast to 11:19 and 36:26, where these are the gift of God. The fact that God is not pleased when anyone dies (18:32; compare v. 23 and note on 33:11) is the basis for the final command to turn, and live.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:1–14 Ezekiel presents two further political allegories (vv. 1–9 and vv. 10–14). The whole is presented as a lamentation (v. 1), a distinctive form of Hebrew poetry. Both allegories refer to a mother (vv. 2, 10). One cannot be certain whether a literal queen mother is in view (then most likely Hamutal; 2 Kings 23:31; 24:18), or whether this is a symbolic reference to the nation of Judah (compare Gen. 49:9 and "mother" of Babylon as a nation, Jer. 50:12). The first cub (Ezek. 19:3–4) applies most closely to Jehoahaz, who was taken captive to Egypt by Pharaoh Neco (2 Kings 23:31–35). The second cub's identity in Ezek. 19:5–9 is much more problematic. Jehoiachin is most likely (2 Kings 24:12).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 19:10–14 For details, see the parable of the eagles and the vine in ch. 17. Whereas the lioness-and-cubs story fixed attention on the fate of individuals, the vine-and-stems story refers to the whole dynasty. Ezekiel 19:12b, 14 singles out one particular strong stem, normally translated "staff." Here it refers to a living branch. The reference is probably to Zedekiah, the last Davidic king. His attempts at power politics ended in disaster.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:1–44 This lengthy oracle has two main parts: a review of Israel's history of offending the Lord (vv. 1–31), and a preview of her future restoration (vv. 33–44). (Verse 32 is a turning point between the two parts.)

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:1–31 This recital of Israel's history is unique in the Bible, involving a very different interpretation of both the nature of the exodus experience and God's dealings with his people. The narration focuses entirely on life outside the Promised Land—an important consideration for an audience of exiles.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:1–4 This is the third occasion on which elders seek an oracle (see also 8:1; 14:1). It is not given. Justification for this "silence" comes in the form of a recital of Israel's history. The narrative begun in 20:1–4 concludes in vv. 27–31. The oracle was given in August 591 B.C. About a year has passed since the temple vision (see 8:1). The command to speak is renewed in 20:27.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:5–26 Israel's story is told in five broad movements. The author describes the exodus generation first while they were in Egypt (vv. 5–8), then in the exodus itself (vv. 9–13), and then in the wilderness (vv. 14–17). The story of the wilderness generation follows in two phases (vv. 18–21, 22–26).

FACT

The Hebrew word for swearing an oath (20:5) literally means "I raised my hand." In courtrooms today, people are asked to raise their right hand as they take an oath, promising to tell the truth.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:9–13 But I acted for the sake of my name (v. 9; see vv. 14, 22) is one of the repeated themes in Ezekiel. God's reputation, not Israel's merit, is the basis for God's patience and grace.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:22–26 The statutes that were not good and rules by which they could not have life are a mixture of Israelite and pagan customs that the people followed. The fact that they were offering up all their firstborn in fire (see v. 31) is an example of this mixing of beliefs.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:27–31 As Ezekiel turns from history to application, life in the land itself is in view for the first time. On worship on the high places (vv. 28–29), see note on 6:3.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:32 This verse acts as a turning point between the history in the preceding passage and the future orientation that follows. It encourages readers to obey the warning of Deut. 28:64.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:33–38 As in the exodus, God will bring the people to the desert (v. 34). There he will judge between the faithful and the wicked (vv. 35–38). Only the faithful will return home (v. 38).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:39–44 The people must choose between idols and God (v. 39). The faithful will turn from their former evil idolatry and will serve God (vv. 40, 43). Both Israel (v. 44) and the nations (v. 41) will then recognize God's glory.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:40 The holy mountain is the place of God's renewed presence with his people. This is especially prominent in the latter chapters of Isaiah (e.g., Isa. 56:7; 66:20). Its height is celebrated in the psalms about Zion (compare Ps. 48:1–3).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:45–21:32 An oracle using the symbolism of fire (20:45–49) leads to a series of oracles using the sword as a symbol (ch. 21).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 20:45–49 The command to set your face and its orientation to the southland are both reminiscent of 6:2. Here, however, all-consuming fire is the destroying agent, which clearly indicates the thoroughness of God's coming judgment (destroying both green tree and dry tree).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:1–7 The opening words directly correspond with those of 20:46–47: set your face, preach, prophesy, and say all appear in the same order in those preceding verses. Now, however, the people addressed are clearly identified. The "southland" is Jerusalem, the "south" is now sanctuaries, the "forest land" is the land of Israel (see note on 7:2). No doubt remains about the focus of the Lord's judgment, and the destroying agent is identified as the drawn sword (21:3).

FACT

Like Jesus, the prophets sometimes used parables to explain their messages. Parables convey a message by comparing one thing with another. Ezekiel apparently found the parable God gave him in 20:49 particularly difficult to deliver (see also 17:2).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:3–4 The righteous and wicked correspond to the "green" and "dry" trees of 20:47. Here God predicts a judgment that will come on the whole nation and will affect everyone. Sometimes the righteous suffer not because of judgment for their own sin, but because they live in a fallen world.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:6–7 These verses seem to continue describing the destruction of both "righteous and wicked" (see note on vv. 3–4). The groan and breaking heart of v. 6 point back to 9:4, which identifies the righteous by this behavior. Verse 7 of ch. 21 echoes 7:17 and the reaction to the coming day of the Lord. The closing phrase, behold . . . it will be fulfilled, echoes 7:5–6, 10.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:8–17 This oracle uses the image of a sharpened sword. Verses 8–13 focus on the nature of the sword itself, honed to razor sharpness. Verses 14–17 describe its lethal effect.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:12 The princes of Israel may refer to the tragic events at Riblah (2 Kings 25:6–7). Strike . . . your thigh is an action associated with lament (see Jer. 31:19).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:14, 17 As in 6:11, to clap your hands communicates nervous anxiety, perhaps in anticipation of the approaching judgment.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:18–29 In v. 11 the sword was committed to the "hand of the slayer," identified here as the king of Babylon. Ezekiel performs another symbolic action (see ch. 4). He draws (presumably on the ground) a map with a forked road, and adds road signs. It is unknown how much of the rest of the action was actually performed or whether it was simply narrated. It describes Nebuchadnezzar at his camp, probably somewhere in Syria, deciding whether to head west toward Jerusalem or east toward Rabbah (21:20, modern Amman, Jordan). He decides to attack Jerusalem (v. 22).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:24–27 Now that God has given the sword to the Babylonian king, judgment on Jerusalem is announced. The "wicked" prince of Israel must be Zedekiah.

FACT

Strange religious practices. The pagan King Nebuchadnezzar employed three means of divination to decide what he should do (21:21). Shaking arrows is similar to casting lots. The teraphim are household gods (small figurines). "Looking at the liver" means examining the liver of a sacrificed animal.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 21:30–32 The instruction to return the sword to its sheath (v. 30) completes the action begun in v. 3. With its work done, Babylon is now subject to judgment (as was Assyria in Isa. 10:5–19). The conclusion in Ezek. 21:31–32 points in two directions: fire of my wrath refers back to the parable of the fire that began this oracle (20:45–49), and it anticipates the conclusion to a later oracle (22:31). Fuel for the fire points back to 20:45–49, while the reference to blood prepares the way for ch. 22.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:1–31 This chapter includes three distinct but thematically related oracles. Each convicts Jerusalem of practicing vile impurities that God refuses to tolerate. The first describes this behavior in detail (vv. 1–16); the second uses the metaphor of melting for ridding Jerusalem of its impurities (vv. 17–22); the third surveys the city's inhabitants. None of the oracles provides any reason for preventing the city's destruction (vv. 23–31).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:1–16 Issues of purity are key here. Although guilt is included, the issue is not primarily legal. The repetition of defiled in vv. 3–5 (also v. 11) points to ethical or ritual impurity. So does the distinctive joining of blood and idols in vv. 3–4 (compare 16:36; 36:18).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:6–12 In you, that is, in Jerusalem, all the sins on this long list occur. Every area of life is affected, for these sins violate God's laws for the protection of worship, parental authority, human life, marriage, property, and truth. In short, they include all the matters addressed in the Ten Commandments; see Ex. 20:1–17.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:9 To eat on the mountains (see 18:6, 15) is to participate in forbidden sacrificial rites.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:12 This verse explains why these sins have occurred: but me you have forgotten.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:17–22 The metaphor of melting is found elsewhere in the OT (see Isa. 48:10 and Jer. 6:29). Here, however, the point is not to get purified silver but to be rid of the impure metal, that is, Jerusalem's inhabitants (compare Isa. 1:22, 25). Jerusalem is portrayed as a heap of useless material.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:23–31 Here, rather than surveying types of behavior (as in vv. 6–12), Ezekiel surveys the people involved. The issue is still impurity (a land . . . not cleansed, v. 24). This oracle could be seen as a commentary on 7:23–27, where prophet, priest, elders, and king mislead the city (compare Zeph. 3:3–4).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 22:30 There is no one to stand in the breach (compare 13:5; Ps. 106:23) who might prevent the destruction.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:1–49 The allegory of the unfaithful sisters parallels ch. 16. Jerusalem's destruction is depicted as yet more just and certain in light of the judgment that befell her sister Samaria. The oracle falls into two main parts: 23:1–35 tell the story and its outcome, with a condensed version following in vv. 36–49.

FACT

Samaria was defeated by the Assyrians in 722 B.C., bringing the northern kingdom of Israel to an end. Judah's final defeat came in 587 B.C. Ezekiel portrays the two kingdoms as two sisters (ch. 23). Their unfaithfulness to God caused their defeat.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:1–35 In the first part of this oracle (vv. 1–21), the behavior of the unfaithful sisters is individually described. The younger sister (Jerusalem) not only exceeds her older sister's (Samaria's) unfaithfulness by involving more partners, but she "saw" (v. 11) what happened to Samaria yet increased her own sinfulness. Judgment follows (vv. 22–31).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:4 The names Oholah and Oholibah are identified as Samaria and Jerusalem. The significance of the symbolism of these names is not known.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:11 The notice that Oholibah saw this is the only hint Ezekiel gives that she ought to have learned the lessons of her older sister.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:12 The Assyrians dominated Manasseh's era (see 2 Chron. 33:11).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:14–17 The empire of the Babylonians followed that of the Assyrians (v. 12).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:19 Usually, remembering the days of one's youth means that a person has come to his or her senses (e.g., 16:22). Here, such memories cause Oholibah to become more wicked.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:22–31 As in ch. 16, the lovers become the punishers. Twice here the phrase thus says the Lord GOD (23:22, 28) introduces announcements of judgment (vv. 22–27; 28–31). The longer first section describes the political agents of destruction, while the second is a summary.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:32–35 Two further thus says introductions frame the final outcomes. The cup (see v. 31) is a common image of punishment (see Jer. 25:15–29; compare Isa. 51:17–23).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 23:36–49 Having reached a stopping point, the oracle restarts, once again naming Oholah and Oholibah (v. 36; see note on v. 4). The familiar pattern of accusation and analysis (vv. 36–45) leading to judgment (vv. 46–49) is again followed. The growing interest in the worship life of the cities matches the political unfaithfulness identified in vv. 5–21.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:1–27 The two losses recounted here almost certainly belong together, and they come at a turning point in Ezekiel's prophetic career. The first loss (vv. 1–14) is that of the city of Jerusalem: the beginning of the Babylonian siege marks the beginning of the end for Jerusalem. The second loss, that of Ezekiel's own wife (vv. 15–24), leads to his most memorable symbolic action. The final three verses, 25–27, are a promise for Ezekiel himself.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:1–14 This is the last of Ezekiel's "parables" (see 12:22). It uses imagery already found in the temple vision (see 11:2–3) but further develops and clarifies it here. As the Babylonians lay siege to Jerusalem, it is likened to a boiling pot. A brief "song" in 24:3b–5 receives two explanations in vv. 6–14.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:1–5 The oracle is precisely dated in v. 1. It corresponds exactly to the date given in 2 Kings 25:1 (see also Jer. 39:1; 52:4) and is equivalent to January 587 B.C. (or 588 if counted by years of exile).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:2 The king of Babylon has laid siege to Jerusalem this very day. Jerusalem was 880 miles (1,416 km) from Babylon, a journey of several weeks. God revealed the invasion to Ezekiel while it was happening.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:10–14 The extent of the corruption and rot demands that both the pot and its contents be completely consumed (v. 11; see 22:15). The repetition of first-person pronouns in 24:14 emphasize that this is God's work, and it is certain to happen.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:15–24 No further reference is made to a date, but the placement of this account next to the oracle about the siege of Jerusalem is significant. Ezekiel has performed other symbolic actions (4:1–5:17; 12:1–28; 21:19–20), but this must be the most painful. He is now about 35 years old. He is told that his wife will die, and that he must not mourn. She dies, and he does not mourn. Ezekiel has learned that there is nothing that God cannot ask of him.

FACT

When Ezekiel's wife suddenly dies, God tells him not to mourn. This was to be a sign to the people that they should not mourn when their beloved temple is destroyed. God asked Ezekiel to do difficult things in order to warn his people.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:19–24 The people are disturbed by Ezekiel's apparent lack of grief, but his action symbolizes what awaits them: the desecration of the temple will be devastating and numbing, breaking the people's spirit.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 24:25–27 As for you, son of man. The final verses of this oracle are for Ezekiel himself. They continue the language of loss found in the preceding verses. The prophecy foretells the destruction of Jerusalem and the arrival of a fugitive bearing the news. Ezekiel's speech will be regained when this happens. Once again Ezekiel will be a sign to them, as he had been at the death of his wife.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:1–32:32 Oracles against Foreign Nations. At this moment in the dramatic downfall of Jerusalem, Ezekiel's focus shifts. The fate of the city is left hanging as he presents a collection of oracles against foreign nations. Not all the oracles are dated, but most seem to fall within the period 587–585 B.C. (for the exception, see note on 29:17–21). Several other prophetic books include prophecies addressed to nations other than Israel and Judah (e.g., Isaiah 13–23; Jeremiah 46–51; Amos 1–2; Zephaniah 2). The primary purpose of such prophecies is to show that all peoples are under the authority of the King of kings, whether for judgment or for blessing. The reasons for judgment tend to be the same in both the foreign and domestic oracles within a given book. In Ezekiel, Judah and Jerusalem are punished for impurity and oppression, and so are the foreign nations. However, Ezekiel often simply announces God's opposition to these nations without offering an explicit reason for the opposition. The oracles unfold in three large sections: first, Judah's nearest neighbors are condemned (Ezekiel 25), followed by extended oracles against Tyre (chs. 26–28) and Egypt (chs. 29–32). Two smaller oracles—one against Sidon, the other looking to Israel's regathering—are included at the halfway point (28:20–26). In all, seven nations stand condemned.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:1–17 Apart from the old northern kingdom of Israel, Judah had four immediate neighbors. They were Ammon on the northeast (vv. 1–7), Moab to the east across the Dead Sea (vv. 8–11), Edom to the south (vv. 12–14), and Philistia to the west (vv. 15–17). Excluding Philistia, but including Tyre and Sidon (chs. 26–28), these nations joined with Judah against Babylon early in Zedekiah's reign (see Jer. 27:3). Each of these oracles has a similar structure, as well as similar content: condemnation for arrogant cruelty toward Judah.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:3 The leading reason for judgment against Ammon is the insult they gave to my sanctuary. God's reputation is the primary concern.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:4 To punish Ammon, God uses the people of the East, that is, desert nomads. The people that even mighty Babylon could not conquer will fall to mere nomads.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 25:12–14 The Lord assigned my people Israel to be the agent of his wrath against Edom, their long-time foe.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:1–28:19 In terms of length, Ezekiel's oracles against Tyre are second only to his oracles against Egypt (29:1–32:32). This is probably because, of the nations addressed by Ezekiel, only Tyre and Egypt had the power to withstand Babylon: Egypt's power was military, Tyre's was economic.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:1–21 The destruction of Tyre by the Babylonians is described in four oracles grouped into two pairs: Verses 1–6 and 7–14 look toward Tyre's destruction; vv. 15–18 and 19–21 look back after the destruction, describing reactions to Tyre's defeat. The prophecy combines predictions that would be fulfilled in the attack by Nebuchadnezzar, who besieged Tyre for 13 years, from 585–572 B.C. (vv. 7–11). It also describes the conquest by Alexander the Great in 332 (the complete destruction predicted in vv. 3–6 and vv. 12–14). Some parts of ch. 26 were not even fulfilled until after the time of Alexander (see note on v. 14). Old Testament prophecies often combine elements fulfilled in the near future with some that are not fulfilled till a more distant time.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:3 The agents of destruction here are many nations. They are described as the crashing of the sea and its waves. The description that follows continues this figurative language. This threat was fulfilled partially by Nebuchadnezzar's siege, and then more fully by Alexander the Great's conquest in 332 B.C. Both Nebuchadnezzar and Alexander led military forces from "many nations," whom they had conquered. Nebuchadnezzar's title "king of kings" (v. 7) is confirmed in historical records from Assyria. When he attacked Tyre, Alexander the Great had the help of 80 ships from Persia and 120 from Cyprus, plus soldiers from other nations.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:4–5 Tyre's location in the midst of the sea, often seen in extrabiblical sources as a sign of its security, is now described in mocking language (see also v. 17). Tyre was indeed destroyed and made like a bare rock by Alexander's conquest.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:6 Her daughters on the mainland are the villages on the mainland near the island city of Tyre. They were destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar and again by Alexander.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:12 That Tyre's wealth should be subject to plunder is poetic justice, given the city's greed (v. 2). However, by the time

Nebuchadnezzar conquered Tyre, much of value had already been removed. Apparently little wealth remained after 13 years of siege (see 29:18). Later, Alexander the Great conquered Tyre by building a 2,600-foot (800-m) land bridge from the mainland out to the island fortress, thus fulfilling the prophecy of this verse, your stones and timber and soil they will cast into the midst of the waters. These materials came from the destruction of the city's settlements on the mainland (26:6, 8.)

FACT

A prophecy fulfilled. The city of Tyre was on an island about a half mile from the coast, with some of its people living in villages on the mainland. Alexander the Great conquered Tyre by first destroying those villages and then using the rubble to build a causeway to the island fortress. This fulfilled Ezekiel's prophecy that Tyre's stones, timber, and soil would be cast into the midst of the water (26:12).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:14 You shall never be rebuilt. Tyre was rebuilt and reconquered several times after Alexander the Great, so the complete fulfillment of this prophecy did not come immediately. The modern city of Tyre is of modest size and is near the ancient site, though not identical to it. Archaeological photographs of the ancient site show ruins scattered over many acres. No city has been rebuilt over these ruins, thus fulfilling this prophecy.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 26:19–21 These verses are a preview of the close of the entire foreign-nation oracle collection, which mourns the arrival of the nations in the underworld place of the dead (32:17–32). The repeated phrase those who go down to the pit (twice, 26:20; compare 32:18) refers to those whom death has separated from communion with God.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:1–36 This second installment of the prophecy against Tyre is both simple and complex. It follows a simple story line, in the form of a lament, but the language and technical details are complex. In spite of these obscure details and uncertain place names, however, the force of the lament is clear enough: for all its splendor and in spite of its wealth, Tyre is doomed.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:8–9 The mariners came from various Phoenician coastal cities.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:10 Persia (modern Iran), Lud (probably in Asia Minor), and Put (Libya) mark a vast geographical triangle from which foreign mercenaries were recruited.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:11 The identities of the final group of place names are uncertain. They complete the beauty boasted of in vv. 3–4.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:12–25 The impressive range of merchant connections begins and ends with Tarshish, probably in southern Spain. Tyre's trade stretched along the whole extent of the Mediterranean.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 27:13 The names Javan, Tubal, and Meshech first occur as sons of Japheth in Gen. 10:2 (repeated in 1 Chron. 1:5). By Ezekiel's time the names signified geographical regions, perhaps peopled by descendants of those men. The primary importance of the names here is to signify the far-off places where Tyre did business.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:1–10 Although in lament form, this new oracle against Tyre has the familiar pattern of indictment (vv. 2b–6) and outcome (vv. 7–10). Pride is at the center of the charge. The word heart occurs eight times in vv. 2–8.

FACT

Tyre's wealth came through its port, where it received goods from all around the Mediterranean—often items other nations did not have access to (28:1–10). Their pride in their wealth would lead to their destruction.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:2 Tyre's king is called a prince. This is probably a synonym for "king" (compare Ps. 76:12, where it is a poetic parallel to "kings").

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:7–8 Here the agents of divine punishment are unnamed foreigners. Elsewhere they are identified as the Babylonians (26:7; 29:18; compare 30:10–11).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:11–19 These verses describe Tyre's extravagant pretensions (compare vv. 4–5) leading to its utter devastation (vv. 18–19). Tyre is likened to a second Adam, clearly a created being (vv. 13, 15) and yet a cherub (v. 14). The cherub is in the garden of God (v. 13) and on the mountain of God (vv. 14, 16). Some believe that v. 17 compares the downfall of the proud king of Tyre to the arraignment of and curse on Satan in Gen. 3:1–15.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:20–23 Sidon is often mentioned alongside Tyre (e.g., Jer. 47:4; Joel 3:4; Zech. 9:2). This association survived into NT times (e.g., Matt. 11:21–22; Luke 10:13–14). This brief oracle contains no accusation against Sidon but simply announces God's opposition to it.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 28:24–26 This hopeful note occurs precisely at the halfway point in Ezekiel's oracles against other nations (chs. 25–32). The defeat of God's enemies will result in the well-being of God's own people. Since "scattering" is one of the primary judgments on Israel (e.g., Lev. 26:33; Deut. 28:64), "gathering" (Ezek. 28:25) is one of God's distinctive saving responses (compare Deut. 30:3). This theme will be repeated throughout the latter part of Ezekiel.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:1–32:32 The seventh and last of the nations addressed, Egypt (like Tyre) receives seven oracles. If the chief interest in Tyre was economic, the leading issue for Egypt is military power.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:1–16 The two main charges against Egypt come out clearly in the first three oracles. Verses 1–6a portray Egypt's pride in putting itself in God's place. Verses 6b–9a condemn Egypt for its part in the destruction of Judah. The third section returns to the charge of pride and subjects Egypt more fully to God's judgment. The date of these prophecies noted in v. 1 is January 587 B.C., just after Babylon laid siege to Jerusalem, and after Hophra came to power in Egypt.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:3 The phrase Behold, I am against you also appears in 28:22. There it is addressed to Sidon. The figure of the dragon has both natural and supernatural elements. At one level, it is a symbolic name for the Nile crocodile (also 32:2). At another level it represents a cosmic creature opposed to the rule of God and defeated by him (e.g., Isa. 27:1; 51:9). The claim to be the maker of the Nile amounts to claiming to be God (compare Tyre; Ezek. 28:2).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:6b–9a The second accusation against Egypt is given in the because . . . therefore form seen often in Ezekiel. A river-related metaphor appears again. This time, however, Egypt is the staff of reed (that is, a useless staff made from a flimsy reed) that fails to give support.

FACT

Hooks in your jaws (29:4) is a reference to crocodile hunting. Large hooks were baited with pork and cast into the river. When a crocodile bit the baited hook, it was quickly hauled to shore.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:9b–16 A brief because section (v. 9b) repeats the accusation against Egypt from v. 3. A much longer and literal judgment speech (vv. 10–16) follows. The judgment has elements (vv. 10–12) that match those pronounced against Israel and Judah. That Egypt should also be restored (vv. 13–16) is more surprising, but not unparalleled (see Jer. 46:26; compare Jer. 48:47; 49:6, 39). Restored Egypt will, however, be cured of its pride (Ezek. 29:14–15).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:10–11 The desolation of Egypt, which lasts forty years, reminds Egypt that God rules their future (see v. 9b). This “forty years” is probably a symbolic number that parallels Israel’s wandering in the wilderness for 40 years.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:17–21 This is the latest-dated oracle in the book, coming in April 571 B.C. Nebuchadnezzar’s siege of Tyre had ended with Tyre still in existence but subject to the Babylonians (see 26:1–28:19).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:19 I will give the land of Egypt to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon. This prophecy was given in 571 B.C. Nebuchadnezzar conquered Egypt in 568 (Jeremiah 43–44).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 29:21 The final promise appears to be for Ezekiel himself. The phrase open your lips confirms that, after all those years, Ezekiel’s prophetic ministry was to be proven correct.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:1–19 The third of the seven anti-Egypt oracles is the only undated one. It is comprised of four related prophecies. Each is introduced by Thus says the Lord (vv. 2, 6, 10, 13) and each echoes themes seen elsewhere in Ezekiel’s oracles. Together they announce the fall of Egypt and her allies to Nebuchadnezzar (v. 10).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:2–5 The cry of the day (v. 2) and the announcement that the day is near (v. 3) point to the "day of the Lord" concept seen in 7:10–27 (see notes there). Ezekiel combines this theme with the "sword of the Lord" in a subtle way at 21:8–10, but here the connection is clearer with the reference to the sword.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:13–19 Since Ezekiel uses so many place names, he obviously knows Egypt well (see 29:14; compare Mic. 1:10–15). Each place is linked to a judgment that will fall upon it. The places and things that are judged amount to a complete rejection of Egyptian religion and politics.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:20–26 The dates return in this fourth Egypt oracle, locating this unit in April 587 B.C. This oracle contrasts the weakness of Hophra's forces with the might of Babylon.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 30:23 scatter . . . and disperse (see also v. 26). This language appeared in 29:12. The fear of being displaced from the Promised Land is one of the strongest in the OT (e.g., Gen. 11:4; compare Ezek. 28:24–26).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:1–18 Ezekiel's fifth oracle against Egypt dates to June 587 B.C., only a few weeks after the preceding unit. Here the prophet points to Assyria as an object lesson for Egypt. In its dying days, the once-mighty Assyrian Empire looked to Egypt for help against the growing power of Babylon (c. 610 B.C.). Even together they could not withstand the Babylonians. That had been just 23 years earlier, well within living memory. In Isaiah's prophecies, given even earlier, proud Assyria was destroyed by the Lord (Isa. 10:5–19). This, Ezekiel says, is the fate awaiting Egypt.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:8–9 The garden of God is mentioned three times and compared with Eden (also vv. 16, 18). I (God) made it beautiful, leaving no room for self-admiration (v. 9).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 31:10–14 Mighty one of the nations, paralleled by the most ruthless of nations, refers elsewhere to Babylon (28:7). Those who once prospered in Egypt's shadow now leave it.

FACT

A tree cut down. The Assyrians believed that a sacred tree, whose roots were fed by a vast underground ocean, brought life to its nation. When Ezekiel talked about this "tree" being cut down (31:1–18), he was symbolically describing the end of once-mighty Assyria.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:1–16 This oracle repeats the call to "lament" (vv. 2, 16). The poem is built around the identification of Pharaoh as a "dragon" (v. 2), recalling 29:3 (see note). The date is March 585 B.C., some time after the fall of Jerusalem (see note on 33:21–22).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:2 Egypt is a dragon, the chaotic beast associated with the Nile's crocodile (see note on 29:3).

FACT

Lions and dragons. Egypt saw itself as a lion, a nation that hunted and devoured other nations. But Ezekiel compares Egypt to a dragon—a near-sighted crocodile that stirs up muddy waters, attracting attention to itself. Egypt's boasting will be its downfall, as the Lord sends Babylon to conquer and humiliate it.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:7–8 The darkness on your land alludes to the exodus story (see 30:13–19; also Ex. 10:21–23).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:14 Egypt's fall to Babylon (vv. 11–13) provides an opportunity for nature to recover, with the waters and rivers pointing back to v. 2.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:17–32 This is the seventh and final oracle against Egypt and the last of the entire foreign-nation oracle collection. It returns to a theme introduced briefly in an oracle on the sinking of Tyre in 26:20, and already used against Egypt in 31:14, 16. In a grand finale, all the nations are gathered together in the pit (32:18), in Sheol (v. 21), the place of the dead. Egypt joins them there, Pharaoh receiving no comfort from the welcome he receives (v. 31). In drawing the nations together in this place over which God alone has power, Ezekiel again demonstrates God's sovereignty. This oracle occurs two weeks later than the previous one (fifteenth day; compare "first day," v. 1).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:19 The Egyptians practiced circumcision. Thus their place with the uncircumcised would be cause for deep shame.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 32:22–23 Assyria is in the uttermost parts of the pit. Ezekiel's Sheol has levels of shame, and Assyria's appears to be the deepest. See vv. 26–27.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:1–39:29 After the Fall of Jerusalem. Following the central collection of foreign-nation oracles, the focus returns to Judah (or "the house of Israel," as Ezekiel usually calls it). Before Jerusalem's fall, Ezekiel's message was primarily warning and doom, with occasional hints of hope. After Jerusalem's destruction (33:21–22), the balance is reversed.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:1–20 On the brink of hope, there is a brief pause to remind Ezekiel and his audience of their mutual responsibilities: vv. 1–9 describes again the role of the prophet as "watchman" (see 3:16–21); 33:10–20 takes another look at individual responsibility (see 18:21–29).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:1–9 See also 3:16–21. God, prophet, and people are tightly bound together in these verses. The role of the watchman (33:2, 6, 7) dominates. He must act on what he sees (vv. 3, 6). The whole oracle is addressed to your people. They are responsible to obey the watchman's warnings (vv. 4–5). The watchman must be alert for God's actions (If I bring the sword . . . and if he sees, vv. 2–3).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:11 I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked. The Bible is clear that God will punish sin and maintain his holiness and justice. At the same time, God feels sorrow over the punishment and death of creatures created in his image.

FACT

Watchmen. The Lord appointed Ezekiel to be a "watchman" over Israel (33:7). People depended on the watchman not only to remain vigilant but also to sound the alarm if the city was in danger. It was then up to the people to decide whether to heed these warnings or ignore them.

EZEKIEL

Ezekiel ministered during the same troubled times as the prophet Jeremiah. He was among the thousands of Judeans exiled to Babylon, where he probably spent the remainder of his life. About five years into the exile, at the age of 30, Ezekiel was called as a prophet. God commanded him to speak the word of God fearlessly to the people, regardless of whether or not they listened. He was appointed as a "watchman" for Israel (3:17; 33:1–9), whose task it was to warn the people that God would punish them unless they repented. Courageous sermons, dramatic visions, and symbolic actions characterized Ezekiel's ministry. God asked Ezekiel to enact difficult messages, often at a great personal cost. When his wife died, Ezekiel was commanded not to mourn for her, as a sign to Israel (24:15–27). Like Jeremiah, Ezekiel remained a faithful, humble servant despite his difficult life as a prophet. (Ezekiel 33:1–9)

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:21–22 This brief report provides the hinge on which the book of Ezekiel turns. Ezekiel's muteness was first encountered in 3:22–27, and a precise date had been given when the siege of Jerusalem began (24:1–2, 25–27). The date is now January 585 B.C., about five months after the fall of the city. The arrival of the fugitive confirms the word spoken at the beginning of the siege (24:25–27), affirms Ezekiel's prophetic ministry, and establishes the work of God in bringing it about. It also gives weight to the words that follow.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:23–29 Ezekiel addresses those left in Judah after its fall. The Judeans' logic of arguing (v. 24) from God's blessings to the one (Abraham) to his presumed blessing the many (themselves) is deeply flawed.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:25–26 You eat flesh with the blood. The Hebrew is literally "you eat over the blood," a saying used also in Lev. 19:26. The reference is to improper sacrifice.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 33:30–33 Ezekiel's fellow exiles may have liked his message against Israelites back home (vv. 23–29). Their enjoyment of the rebuke aimed at their land-grabbing relatives ends when Ezekiel accuses them of also being greedy (v. 31). They treat prophetic words as mere entertainment (v. 32) rather than as messages from God that should be obeyed.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:1–31 As the move toward restoration continues, Ezekiel describes the nation and its leaders as sheep and shepherds. He addresses the shepherds (vv. 1–16) and then the sheep (vv. 17–31).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:2–6 Describing rulers as shepherds was widespread in the ancient Near East. David is the model of a shepherd-king (2 Sam. 5:2; Ps. 78:70–72), but the greatest example is God himself (e.g., Ps. 80:1). Jesus identifies himself as the "good shepherd" (John 10:11, 14). feeding yourselves. Not only are the shepherds neglecting the sheep; they are benefiting from their positions of power while the flock suffers.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:11–16 God intervenes to reverse, step by step, the process described above. He repairs the damage caused by the failed shepherds (vv. 2–6, 8) by seeking the scattered sheep (v. 12), gathering and feeding them (vv. 13–14), and ensuring their security (v. 15). On the announcement of God himself as shepherd (v. 15), see note on vv. 23–24.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:17–31 The remainder of the chapter is addressed to the flock: vv. 17–22 condemn victimization within the flock; vv. 23–24 return to the provision of a faithful shepherd; and vv. 25–31 describe how spiritual renewal among the people will affect the natural world.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:23–24 Ezekiel's announcement of a Davidic shepherd (v. 23; compare 37:24) is similar to Jeremiah's (Jer. 23:5–6). Ezekiel 34:24 affirms the relationship of God and people. Because it is close to v. 15, some commentators wonder whether the shepherd is divine (v. 15) or human (v. 23). This passage may look forward to the divine-human nature of the Messiah. Such an interpretation would explain John 10:11–18, where Jesus says that he is the "good shepherd." In doing so, Jesus claims to be both the Davidic Messiah (Ezek. 34:23) and the incarnate God of Israel (v. 15; compare John 1:14). Ezekiel is reluctant to acknowledge any king except God, so he refers to David as prince.

FACT

God called his people's leaders the shepherds of Israel. But instead of protecting and providing for their sheep, they abused them. God promised to judge the shepherds, rescue his sheep, and appoint a shepherd like David (34:23; compare John 10:11–18).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 34:25–31 The covenant of peace announced in v. 25 extends to the renewal of the natural world. Compare Isa. 11:1–9, where such peace is part of the messianic age. Covenant curses have been the focus, but the covenant also contained blessings (compare Lev. 26:4–6; Deut. 28:8–14). Showers of blessing refers not only to literal rain but also to abundant blessings from God.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 35:1–36:15 Ezekiel now turns his focus to Mount Seir (ch. 35) and the mountains of Israel (36:1–15). The prophecies against Mount Seir should be read as a preface to the address to the mountains of Israel.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 35:1–15 Mount Seir (v. 2) is identified with Edom (v. 15) much as Mount Zion is identified with Judah. An oracle against Edom appears in 25:12–14 (see note there), and its theme is echoed here. Compare also the book of Obadiah.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 35:1–4 The first oracle is little more than an announcement of God’s opposition to Mount Seir and his intention to destroy it. “Mount Seir” was the highland region southeast of the Dead Sea.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 35:5–9 Edom is treated here much as Israel was in ch. 6.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 35:10–12a Edom’s land-grab is condemned. Two nations refers to Israel and Judah as separate kingdoms (see 37:15–28). Just as Edom treated Israel and Judah poorly, so it will be treated.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:1–15 Earlier God announced judgment on the mountains of Israel (ch. 6). Now he announces their restoration.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:8–15 But you signals a transition. The focus shifts from Israel’s bleak past to its promising future. As in the “covenant of peace” (34:25–30), the people’s well-being is connected to the land’s fruitfulness. Verses 8–11 of ch. 36 present a series of blessings; the new is even better than the old.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:16–38 This key passage summarizes Ezekiel’s prophecy: in spite of their failings, God will restore his people for the sake of his name.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:22–32 This passage is often compared to Jeremiah's "new covenant" text (Jer. 31:31–34). The structure of this passage reinforces its message. The outer verses relate the responses of God (Ezek. 36:22–23) and people (vv. 31–32). Nested within the next layer are the return and purification brought about in renewal (vv. 24–25, 28–30). At the heart of the passage is the divine gift of the new heart and spirit, which enables a correct response (vv. 26–27).

FACT

Israel was called to be a light to the nations (Isa. 42:6), but instead, their sinful behavior "profaned" God's name before their unbelieving neighbors (Ezek. 36:22–23). The Lord expects his people to bring honor to his name all around the globe.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:22–23 It is not for your sake. The fundamental reason why God acts on Israel's behalf is not grace and mercy, though he is certainly gracious and merciful; rather, God acts primarily for the sake of my holy name. The phrase will know that I am the LORD concludes the oracle and summarizes its purpose. People should give God the recognition and honor that is rightfully his.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:24–25 Restoring God's reputation first requires the renewal of his people. The reference to cleansing by sprinkling clean water on you recalls the cleansing by sprinkling for touching a dead body (Num. 19:13, 20). This may suggest that the idols of Ezek. 36:25 are comparable to dead things. Many interpreters see this picture of cleansing by water as the background to Jesus' words in John 3:5, "Unless one is born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God"; compare the mention of "my Spirit" in Ezek. 36:27.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:26–27 God's work moves from external to internal with the gift of a new heart and new spirit (see 11:19; compare 18:31). The outer purification will be no use without the inner desire to live rightly before God (36:27). The connection of "water" (v. 25) and "Spirit" (v. 27) lies behind John 3:5. I will put my Spirit within you predicts an effective inward work of God in the "new covenant."

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:28–30 With God’s people now inclined to keep faith with God, they will be restored to the land. Linking the restoration of people and land is a continuing theme in this part of Ezekiel (e.g., 34:25–31).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:31–32 you will loathe yourselves. The response of the renewed people is to see themselves as God sees them. not for your sake. The fact that God is acting for his own sake reaffirms v. 22.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 36:33–36 As seen in vv. 28–30, the land enjoys the benefits of the people’s cleansing. The mention of Eden emphasizes the nature of this act as re-creation (see 28:13; compare 37:1–14). One purpose for Israel’s experience in the land was to show the whole world a restored Edenic life, lived in God’s presence and with his blessing.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:1–14 This vision is one of the most famous passages in Ezekiel. While it stands on its own as a statement of God’s power to re-create his people, the context is significant. The promised gift of a new heart and spirit (36:26–27) left questions (such as, how can this be? and can it be true for us?). Chapter 37 addresses these questions.

FACT

Although Jerusalem was defeated (33:21–22), Ezekiel preaches a message of hope in chs. 33–48. In ch. 37, his vision of a valley of dry bones promises that God’s Spirit will restore Israel. This is one of the most famous passages in Ezekiel.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:1 The vast landscape of dry bones suggests the aftermath of battle, the ultimate outcome of the judgment of ch. 6.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:3 The question can these bones live? anticipates the exiles’ view of their own situation (v. 11): total hopelessness. It also introduces one of the key words in the passage: the verb “to live” appears in vv. 3, 5, 6, 9, 10, and 14. Ezekiel’s response leaves the outcome to God’s sovereignty.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:4–6 God commands Ezekiel to do what seems pointless (prophesy over these bones). God promises that he will perform the impossible: bring the bones back to life with his breath. This is the same Hebrew word used for “the Spirit” in v. 1 (see note on 1:12). It appears seven more times in the vision.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:9–10 The second phase of prophesying is addressed to the breath (or wind or spirit/Spirit; see note on 1:12). The coming of the wind/breath/spirit that gives life is a powerful reminder of God's creative work in Gen. 2:7. God creates, and God re-creates.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:12–13 I will open your graves and raise you from your graves, O my people. The vision of national revival changes into the metaphor of a cemetery, which seems to be related to the experience of exile (v. 12b). By using this language, Ezekiel also contributes to OT teaching on resurrection (see Dan. 12:2–3; Isa. 26:19; Hos. 6:1–2; 13:14; also Job 19:25–27; Ps. 17:15).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:14 The fundamental lesson of the vision is repeated: when the Spirit is present, God's people are enabled to live. This is the only basis on which hope can be offered to the despairing community.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:15–28 The idea of homecoming in the "dry bones" vision (vv. 1–14) provides a link to this oracle (see vv. 21, 25–26). This dramatized prophecy prompts questions from the onlookers (v. 18), which leads to two oracles: vv. 19–20 announce the reunification of the old northern and southern kingdoms; vv. 21–23 give the renewed nation its moral and political shape. Verses 24–28 further explain the second oracle. The closing verses, with their allusions to the temple, provide a bridge to chs. 40–48.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:16 Joseph, as father of Ephraim (see Gen. 48:5, 8–20), represents the northern kingdom of Israel. Judah represents the southern kingdom.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:19 make them one stick. Israel first went into exile a century earlier. Judah was now scattered as well. But God will reunite them.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:21–22 This renewed national unity requires a secure national home. The reunion takes concrete political shape under the rule of one king, which is not Ezekiel's usual title for the messianic figure (compare "prince," v. 25).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:24–25 The assignment of David as shepherd-king and prince recalls 34:23–24 as well as several passages in Jeremiah (e.g., Jer. 23:5; 30:9). Divine enabling to live rightly (Ezek. 37:23) strengthens the people's moral awareness.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:26 The covenant of peace (see 34:25) and everlasting covenant (see 16:60) appeared individually earlier in Ezekiel. Here they come together to provide the foundation for the renewed nation. The joining of these covenants also combines political life and the natural world, as if people and land are joined.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 37:27–28 My dwelling place shall be with them. The oracle's conclusion emphasizes the importance of God's presence to the renewed people. The "dwelling place" recalls the wilderness tabernacle. The sanctuary (see v. 26) points to the temple, in particular the renewed temple, which will occupy Ezekiel's attention in ch. 44.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:1–39:29 Ezekiel addresses the mysterious Gog, ruler of the equally mysterious Magog (see note on 38:2). He pronounces judgment on Gog for attacking the renewed Israel (38:1–3, 7–13). However, there is a power greater than Gog. The sovereign God of Israel reigns over Gog's plans, which will be used to defend God's holiness (38:14–16). Gog and his hordes attack, bringing danger to God's people and to the natural world. But the army meets the wrath of God, who brings honor to himself before the nations (38:17–23). Gog's army falls (39:1–6), an event that strengthens God's people as they see the greatness of their God (39:7–8). No question will remain about the reason for Israel's earlier exile: the all-powerful God withdrew from them because of their treachery, but this final victory displays God's supremacy (39:21–24) and marks the final restoration of his people (39:25–29).

FACT

Gog and Magog. In chs. 38–39, Ezekiel prophesies that a mysterious ruler called Gog from an unknown land called Magog will attack Israel. There are many suggestions about who and what Gog and Magog mean, but no agreement has been reached.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:2 Gog, of the land of Magog. These two names have been the focus of extensive speculation in both Jewish and Christian literature, and there is no agreement on their meaning. Many interpreters understand 38:1–39:29 to be a prophecy concerning an attack against Israel in a more distant future. In the NT, Gog and Magog are the names of the nations led by Satan to attack Jerusalem at the end of the "thousand years" (Rev. 20:8). Although the other geographical names in this passage can be identified (see notes on Ezek. 38:5; 38:6), “Gog” and “Magog” remain unknown. Perhaps the intention of the prophecy is simply to point to a yet-unknown future leader of a great attack against God’s people, one whose identity will not be known until the prophecy is fulfilled. No time is specified in the prophecy either, except the vague “In the latter years” (v. 8) and “In the latter days” (v. 16). Meshech and Tubal, first named in Gen. 10:2, are in Asia Minor (see note on Ezek. 27:13).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:5 Gog’s allies are described in terms similar to Tyre’s allies in 27:10. Together with 38:2, 6, this passage describes enemies coming against Israel from all sides: Meshech, Tubal, Gomer, and Beth-togarmah from the north (vv. 2, 6), and Persia, Cush, and Put from the south.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:6 The uttermost parts of the north seems to refer to enemies that will come from regions far north of Israel, without specifically identifying these enemies.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:8 Locating this episode in the latter years in the land that is restored puts this oracle into the future (see the “latter days” in v. 16). It is not necessarily the absolute end of time.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:10–13 It is clear that Gog remains firmly under God’s control and, in fact, acts at God’s direction (vv. 4, 16). But Gog will still be held responsible for his plans to plunder the now-fertile land of restored Israel (the quiet people who dwell securely).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 38:16 like a cloud. Huge numbers of Gog’s soldiers will come against Israel. This theme is repeated throughout these chapters. Once again, God is sovereign over Gog’s actions (I will bring you). Gog is a tool used to defend God’s holiness. In this way, Gog is similar to Pharaoh in the exodus (see Ex. 7:3–5).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:1–6 God’s opposition to Gog is repeated as the invasion of Israel proceeds. Gog’s army falls solely by the hand of God. On Meshech and Tubal, see notes on 27:13; 38:2. uttermost parts. See note on 38:6.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:9 The seven years of fuel provided by the enemy’s abandoned weapons corresponds to the “seven months” of burial in v. 14.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:21–24 all the nations shall see my judgment. This demonstration of God’s power serves as his defense before the nations. It also puts Israel’s exile into proper perspective. Their expulsion from their land was not because their God was incapable of protecting them. On the contrary, their sin compelled God to hide his face (vv. 23, 24; compare v. 29) from them, leaving them to the punishment they deserved for their iniquity of turning against God (see Deut. 31:18).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 39:25–29 The final element of the oracle focuses on Israel rather than Gog. These brief verses echo many of the restoration passages in chs. 34–37, including the themes of renewal for the whole house of Israel (39:25), the turning away from previous treachery (v. 26), and the gathering and return of those once scattered (vv. 27–28).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:1–48:35 Vision of Restoration. With the last date in the book appearing at 40:1, Ezekiel arrives at the beginning of the end. The book’s final vision establishes God’s absolute supremacy among his people. The vision of chs. 40–48 is a direct counterpart to the pre-destruction vision in chs. 8–11, in which the wickedness practiced in Jerusalem drove the holy God from his temple. In chs. 40–42, Ezekiel is again taken on a tour, this time of the new temple, leading to the return of the glory of God (43:1–5). The voice of the Lord instructs Ezekiel in the regulations for Israel’s renewed worship life (43:6–46:24). When the “tour” resumes, Ezekiel witnesses the river flowing from the temple, which brings life to the world (46:19–47:12). The book concludes with the division of the land among the tribes, with the new city and new temple at its heart, with equal access for all (47:13–48:35). The vision describes the actual presence of God within the temple. Chapters 40–42 prepare for this; ch. 43 records God’s actual return to the temple; chs. 44–46 provide the rules for worship in God’s presence; ch. 47 describes its effects; and ch. 48 describes access to the temple. The vision thus builds on themes of earlier oracles: the supremacy of God; the requirements demanded by his holiness; revitalization by his Spirit; honoring God by living in holiness; and preserving the purity of the community by maintaining divine justice.

FACT

The prophecy in chs. 40–48 is one of the most difficult passages in the Bible. But certain points are clear. It looks forward to a time when God will dwell among his people. It also emphasizes his supremacy in all things.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:1–42:20 Fourteen years after the destruction of Jerusalem, Ezekiel is given a vision of a rebuilt temple, just as he had been given a temple vision 20 years earlier (8:1). As on that occasion, a heavenly being leads him around the temple precincts. This time, however, the vision does not reveal the sin of Ezekiel's people but the splendor of his God. The temple itself appears to be geometrically idealized. It is a square structure, with the most sacred place being both the innermost and the uppermost. Ezekiel is led back to the outer court in ch. 42, where various chambers of the temple area are identified. See illustration.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:1–4 The date corresponds to April 573 B.C. About 12 years have passed since the last dated oracle (32:1). The phrase visions of God links this vision with 1:1 and 8:3. The ruined city is in the prophet's mind (40:1) as the vision of a new city comes to him (v. 2).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:5–27 The tour with accompanying measurements begins at the main east entrance. The main units of measurement are given (v. 5): the reed, about 10 feet (3.1 m), which was equal to six long cubits of about 20 inches (50 cm). The outer wall is thus about 10 feet high and 10 feet thick (v. 5; 3 m high and 3 m thick).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 40:28–49 Ezekiel's guide then leads him into the inner court by way of the south gate (v. 28). The descriptions are briefer since the design is repeated from the outer gates. The sequence now is south gate (vv. 28–31), east gate (vv. 32–34), and north gate (vv. 35–37). This area is reserved for priestly use. The furnishings and tools used in sacrificial ceremonies are described in vv. 38–43. The chambers used by two classes of ministering priests (see 44:9–31) are found in the north and south gates (40:44–47). Ezekiel and his guide then approach the central structure of the inner court, the temple building itself (vv. 48–49). With 10 steps (v. 49; compare vv. 22, 31), it is the tallest of any set of stairs.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 41:1–26 The temple floor plan and structure is described in detail. The nave (v. 1) is the main hall of the temple. Ezekiel is guided into its interior but does not follow his guide into the Most Holy Place (v. 4). Verses 5–11 describe the three-story structure built into the temple's walls. A building is located to the extreme west of the temple complex (v. 12), but no purpose is identified for it.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 42:1–14 Ezekiel is led to the outer court. He describes the construction of the chambers in the wall of the court's north area (vv. 1–9). Clearly the same arrangement is meant in vv. 10–12, although it appears that south is more likely the original reading in v. 10 (see ESV footnote). In these rooms the priests prepare for their duties (vv. 13–14).

Ezekiel's Temple Vision

Ezekiel's final vision of an ideal temple (and city, and land; chs. 40–48) forms a counterpart to the vision of chs. 8–11. In each case he is taken on a tour of the structure, but whereas in the earlier vision he discovers abominations and perverted worship, in this final vision all is in readiness for the perpetual dwelling of the glory of the God of Israel. In chs. 8–10 most of the movement centers on the gate structures to the north and finally focuses on the main sacrificial altar, from which central point the slaughtering angels begin their work (9:6b). In this final vision Ezekiel's tour begins and ends at the East Gate, but passes by the same areas as those he saw in the earlier vision. With the "tour" completed, he is again outside the main East Gate as he senses the approach of the glory of God returning the same way as Ezekiel had seen him go.

Temple Plan

The labels below are arranged from the innermost, and most sacred, area and moving outward. It must be borne in mind that "temple" can have two quite distinct references: it can refer generally to the entire "temple" complex, including the outer gates and court; in its more "strict" reference the "temple" is the innermost structure itself, which has a single (eastern) entrance and contains the Most Holy Place.

	Reference	Explanation
A	41:4	The "Most Holy Place."
B	41:3	The inner room of the temple.
C	41:2	The entrance to the temple.
D	43:13–17	The imposing altar; although the number of stairs is not given, the entire altar structure is about 16 feet (4.9 m) tall, so many steps would have been required. This area of the inner court was accessible only by priests—not even the prince was permitted entry.
E	40:46	Chamber for Zadokite priests.
F	40:45	Chamber for "priests who have charge of the temple."
G	40:17–19	The outer court, with its 30 chambers in the outer wall (40:17).
H	46:21–24	The temple "kitchens," one in each corner of the outer court.
I	40:17	The 30 outer chambers.
J	46:2	The "prince's gate": from its threshold he worships on each Sabbath while the priests bring the offerings into the inner court.
K	43:1	The main east gate, through which "the glory of the God of Israel" returns to his temple (see 10:19; 11:22–23).

Temple Tour

	Reference	Explanation
1	40:6	The eastern (main) gate begins the tour; the E–W axis of the temple should be noted; if a line is drawn from the east gate to the Most Holy Place, there is a sequence of three elevations, as the space in the inner temple becomes increasingly constricted.
2	40:17	From this vantage point in the outer court, Ezekiel is shown the main features of this “plaza” area.
3	40:20	The northern-facing gate.
4	40:24	En route to the southern-facing gate, no details are given of the outer facade of the inner court; the architectural details of this area must remain speculative.
5	40:28	Ezekiel’s entry to the inner court is by way of its south gate . . .
6	40:32	. . . then to the east gate (past the imposing altar, not yet described) . . .
7	40:35	. . . and on to the north gate, which includes areas for handling sacrificial animals.
8	40:48; 41:1	Ezekiel approaches the inner temple structure itself, first describing its entrance; he is then stationed outside the entrance while his guide first measures its interior, then the exterior.
9	42:1	They exit the inner court through its north gate to explore the northwestern quadrant of the outer court.
10	42:15	Ezekiel and his guide leave the temple from the east gate by which they first entered. From this vantage point, Ezekiel was able to watch the return of “the glory of the God of Israel” moments later (43:1–5).

Letters in the diagram represent locations within the temple complex; numbers indicate the stages in Ezekiel’s temple tour.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 42:15–20 Finally, Ezekiel and his guide return to the place where they began, the main east gate of the temple complex (v. 15; see 40:5–6). Starting there, and proceeding counterclockwise, the external dimensions are measured as 500 cubits by 500 cubits square (roughly 830 feet/253 m).

The sacredness of the entire space is emphasized by the closing comment, that the wall separates the holy and the common.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:1–5 The return of God's glory to the temple is one of the most dramatic moments in the book. His return is the counterpart to his departure in 10:18–22 and 11:23. It also completes the temple tour: all that was lacking from this sacred space was God. However, this moment also forms a new beginning. The arrival of God's glory in his temple begins a new era in the relationship between God and the people. This becomes the focus of the rest of the vision.

FACT

The Lord returns to his temple. Because of the people's rebellion, the glory of the Lord departed from the temple in Ezekiel's vision (10:18–22). But later Ezekiel has a vision in which God returns to the temple (43:1–5), beginning a new era in his relationship with his people. In the NT, the apostle Paul teaches that those who believe in Christ are the "temple" in which God is pleased to dwell (1 Cor. 3:16).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:6–46:18 The emphasis now is on the activities that are to take place in the temple. The main altar and its round of sacrifices is the first element put in place (43:13–27). The identification of the prince's gate in 44:1–3 introduces the regulations concerning access to the temple area and the rules governing priests (44:4–31). Chapter 45 includes the arrangements of the lands around the temple (45:1–6), exhortations to justice (45:9–12), and regulations concerning offerings and sacrifices, Sabbaths, and festivals (45:13–46:15). Instructions concerning the "prince" are interspersed but are emphasized at 45:7–8 and 46:16–18. There is no other OT body of legislation like this outside the Pentateuch, which is probably why it is called the law of the temple (43:12). Thus Ezekiel can be seen as a second Moses, meeting with God on the mount of the new temple.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:6–12 God's return to the temple sets everything right again, but his holiness places demands on his people. Verses 7–9 combine promise and warning. The bond between God and his people is unbreakable (I will dwell . . . forever, v. 7) but he will not tolerate their earlier idolatry (vv. 8–9). This temple (v. 10) has no royal palace next to it to defile it, in contrast to Solomon's temple/palace complex (see 1 Kings 7:8). As Ezek. 43:11–12 makes clear, these measurements and regulations are not merely interesting details but communicate something of the character of God.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:13–17 The altar's design is described. The altar is square, like the temple itself, with a horn at each corner (e.g., Ex. 29:12; Ps. 118:27).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 43:18–27 This section describes the purification rituals required for the altar before it is ready for regular use.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:1–3 The main east gate of the temple is significant on many levels (see 43:1–5). Ezekiel is taken back to the outer court to see the main east gate closed. It will no longer be used because the LORD . . . has entered by it (44:2). God will not need it to enter or exit again. Only one individual may use this divine entrance: the prince (v. 3; compare 34:23–24; 37:24–25), mentioned in this vision for the first time. Significantly, even the prince does not use the gate merely for access to the temple but rather for sharing in a fellowship meal before the LORD.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:4 The way of the north gate is the one designated for the use of "priests who have charge of the temple" (40:44–45). It is the gate most used by Ezekiel in this vision (e.g., 47:2; compare 8:3, the starting point for the pre-destruction temple vision).

FACT

The prince (44:3) in the visions of restoration is also called God's servant David (34:23–24; 37:24–25). This prince will rule over God's people forever. Jesus' followers viewed him as this promised ruler (Matt. 1:1; Luke 18:38).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:10–14 The Levites are gatekeepers and temple attendants. These are suitable roles for a class of priests who had previously failed in their sacred duties (v. 12).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 44:15–31 The privilege of serving at the altar and in the sanctuary itself before the Lord (v. 15) falls to the Zadokite priests. Zadok was a priest of Aaron's line in David's time (2 Sam. 20:25). He remained faithful to David and then to Solomon in the power struggle over succession to David's throne (1 Kings 1:39). The regulations about the priests' activities have a close relationship with those given in the Pentateuch (especially Leviticus 21 and Numbers 18; see ESV cross-references for parallels).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:1–8 This definition of a sacred space within the wider context of renewed Israel provides a summary that will be described in greater detail in 48:8–22. Ezekiel depicts three strips of 25,000 cubits (about 7.7 miles/12 km) oriented from east to west as expected, given the temple's east-west axis. The central strip of 10,000 cubits north to south (about 3 miles/4.8 km) contains the sanctuary (45:2) and is the region where the Zadokite priests live (vv. 3–4). The strip of equal size north of it is home for the Levites (v. 5). The southernmost strip, half as deep, is the district for the whole house of Israel (v. 6), which also contains the city itself. Included on either side to the east and west are areas 5,000 cubits wide (about 1.5 miles/2.4 km) and 25,000 cubits deep. This space is given to the prince (vv. 7–8a) for his property (v. 8b; see 1 Kings 21).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:9–12 The direction to the prince to be content with the land he owns inspires a sharp criticism in v. 9, and a call to exercise justice and righteousness. It recalls the disapproval of 22:27. It is striking to find such a text in a restoration setting, but it is a reminder that the national leaders should be acting in these ways now.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:13–17 The community's offering to God includes agricultural produce (vv. 13–14) and livestock (v. 15a). Although the prince provides offerings for the festivals and regular services (v. 17), the whole community is involved. The tax to be borne by the community is fairly small, at the rate of about 1/60 for cereals, 1/100 for oil, and 1/200 for sheep.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 45:18–25 The purification ritual assigned for the new year in vv. 18–20 resembles the cleansing of the altar in 43:18–27. The Feasts of Passover (45:21–24) and Tabernacles (v. 25) follow. In both cases, dealing with sin (v. 25) is essential to the feast. This represents a shift from the nature of Passover elsewhere in the OT, where it is a memorial celebration (Exodus 12; 2 Chron. 30:1–27; 35:1–19).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:1–3 The whole community—prince, priests, and people—participates in the weekly and monthly observances, but the prince plays the key role. The east gate of the inner court is where these observances occur. This gate separates the most sacred and the outer court. The prince takes his place in the gateway but does not enter the inner court, which is reserved for the priests. The gateway remains open (v. 2), so the people in the outer court can see the inner sanctuary (v. 3).

FACT

The Passover described by Ezekiel is quite different than the one first observed in Exodus 12. The original Passover was a time to remember how death had passed over the Israelites before their exodus from Egypt. This new Passover emphasizes offerings to atone for sin (45:21–24).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:8–10 The movements of prince and people are coordinated for festival gatherings. The prince's use of the east gate is allowed only on certain occasions (v. 8). The movement of the crowd (v. 9) is clear, although no explanation is offered. Every worshiper uses the outer court. Passing by the east gate makes them aware of the holy inner court as well.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 46:16–18 The prince's territories are protected from permanently belonging to another family. This does not limit the prince's generosity—servants can still receive gifts (v. 17)—but property returns to the prince in the year of liberty.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:1–12 The tour brings Ezekiel back into the inner court. The door of the temple (v. 1) is that of the sanctuary itself. There begins one of the most striking scenarios in the entire vision. A trickle of water miraculously flows from the south side of the sanctuary's threshold and makes its way south of the altar (v. 1), out the east gate to the outer court, and then out of the main east gate (v. 2). The trickle becomes a powerful river as Ezekiel and his guide wade into the stream, the guide measuring as they go (vv. 3–5). Sitting at the river bank, the guide explains the life-giving properties of the river (vv. 6–12). This aspect of the vision fits with 34:25–31 in affirming that renewal affects the entire natural world.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:8 The Arabah generally refers to the Jordan (Rift) Valley, usually the part south of the Dead Sea. Here it probably refers in a more limited sense to the plains of Jericho (compare 2 Kings 25:4–5), as the waters are heading to the sea, that is, the Dead Sea.

FACT

The Dead Sea is the saltiest body of water in the world. Nearly 35 percent salt, it is six times saltier than the ocean and twice as salty the Great Salt Lake in Utah. In Ezekiel’s vision, the water from the temple turned the Dead Sea into fresh water (47:8). This is a picture of how the Lord Jesus Christ can give life to those who were dead in sin (Eph. 2:1–5).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:10 Engedi and Eneglaim are both on the shores of the Dead Sea. Engedi is located about midway on its west side, but the location of Eneglaim remains uncertain.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:11 The saltiness of the Dead Sea will remain at certain points.

Ezekiel's Vision of Israel's New Boundaries

c. 571 B.C.

Ezekiel's final vision describes the boundaries of a restored Israel, including the allotment to each tribe and the temple. Rather than following the boundaries traditionally occupied by the Israelites, which included Gilead east of the Jordan River and excluded land north of Tyre, Ezekiel's new boundaries generally follow those described by Moses in Numbers 34. Ezekiel's vision also departs from the traditional allotment of the land among the 12 tribes and reassigns the land in horizontal bands from north to south.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:13–48:35 The final element in Ezekiel's vision is the allotment of land for the whole of Israel (47:13–23) and for the 12 tribes (48:1–7, 23–29), and the provision of access to the new city (48:30–35). These are clearly figurative boundaries, with the strips of land being simply drawn east to west in equal amounts. And yet the overall boundaries correspond to those of Num. 34:1–12 (compare 1 Kings 8:65).

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:13 As in 37:16, Joseph is considered a patriarch. His two portions are the tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:15–20 The borders of the land are described beginning on the north, which is the most difficult of the boundaries to describe.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 47:21–23 Resident aliens, or sojourners, are also given land as permanent settlers among the people of Israel.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 48:1–7 The equal distribution of this territory among the 12 tribes begins in the north working south toward the central sacred district. Each tribe is allocated a strip running east to west (v. 1). Judah, the leading tribe of the old southern kingdom, borders the temple area to the north. North of Judah is Reuben, the firstborn of the patriarchs.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 48:8–22 Much of this material has already been seen in 45:1–8 (see note there). The important addition is the location of the city and its surrounding region. It is placed in the southernmost east-west strip adjoining the Levites' territory (48:15–19). At 4,500 cubits square, the city itself is about 1.4 miles (2.3 km) square.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 48:23–29 The distribution of territory to the tribes continues south of the city. It begins with Benjamin (v. 23). Benjamin's land had previously been to the immediate north of Judah in the old tribal land holdings.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 48:30–35 Finally, the city gates are assigned to the 12 tribes. Because the sons of Levi (the priests, who have no property; see 44:28) require access to the city as well, the gates correspond to Jacob's 12 sons. Thus, Ephraim and Manasseh are here represented by Joseph.

EZEKIEL—NOTE ON 48:35 The city's new name is to be The LORD Is There. Ezekiel's final vision, and the whole of the book, is about the reality of God's presence among his people (compare Rev. 22:3).

Author and Date

Daniel wrote this book in the sixth century B.C. It records the events of Daniel's life and the visions that he saw from the time of his exile in 605 B.C. (1:1) until 536 B.C., the third year of King Cyrus (10:1).

Theme

The book's central theme is God's sovereignty over history, empires, and kings (2:21; 4:34–37). All the kingdoms of this world will come to an end and will be replaced by the Lord's kingdom, which will never pass away (2:44; 7:27). Though trials and difficulties will continue for God's people up until the end, those who are faithful will be raised to glory, honor, and everlasting life in this final kingdom (12:1–3).

Key Themes

1. It is possible to live a faithful life while surrounded by pagan influences, if one serves the Lord wholeheartedly (ch. 1).
2. God can give his faithful servants abilities that cause even unbelievers to appreciate them (chs. 2; 3; 6). Nevertheless, believers should not assume that God will always rescue them from harm (3:16–18).
3. God humbles the proud and raises up the humble. Even the hearts of the greatest kings are under his control (chs. 4; 5).

4. This world will be a place of persecution for God’s people, getting worse and worse rather than better and better (chs. 2; 7). The Lord will judge the kingdoms of this world and bring them to an end, replacing them with his own kingdom that will never end. This kingdom will be ruled by “one like a son of man” who comes “with the clouds,” a figure who combines human and divine traits (7:13).
5. God is sovereign over the course of history, even over those who rebel against him and seek to destroy his people (ch. 8).
6. The Babylonian exile was not the end of Israel’s history of rebellion and judgment. In the future, Israel would continue to sin against the Lord, and Jerusalem would be handed over to her enemies, who would damage her temple and do other offensive things (chs. 8; 9; 12). Eventually, though, the anointed ruler would come to deliver God’s people from their sins (9:24–27).
7. These earthly events are reflections of a great conflict between angelic forces of good and evil (ch. 10). Prayer is a significant weapon in that conflict (9:23).
8. God rules over all of these conflicts and events, he limits the damage they do, and he has a precise timetable for the end of his people’s persecutions. At that time he will finally intervene to cleanse and deliver his people (ch. 12).
9. In the meantime, believers must be patient and faithful in a hostile world, looking to the Lord alone for deliverance (11:33–35).

Outline

The book of Daniel is made up of two halves, each of which has its own literary style. The first half (chs. 1–6) contains stories from the lives of Daniel and his three friends, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. They show how God’s people should live in a world that is not their home (compare Jer. 29:5–7; Heb. 13:14). The second half of the book (Daniel 7–12) contains apocalyptic visions. They are designed to reassure God’s people that, in spite of their present persecution and suffering, God is in control and will ultimately be victorious.

The Setting of Daniel: The Babylonian Empire

c. 605–536 B.C.

Though their empire was short-lived by comparison with the Assyrians before them and the Persians after them, the Babylonians dominated the Near East during the early days of Daniel, and they were responsible for his initial exile to Babylon. Daniel himself, however, outlived the Babylonian Empire, which fell to the Persians in 538 B.C. (See also the map on p. 1163, "The Empires of Daniel's Visions: The Persians.")

The Global Message of Daniel

Daniel in Redemptive History

The book of Daniel recounts events of worldwide proportion in Daniel's own day that continue to have decisive significance for the global church today.

Israel's homelessness. Daniel was a Jew who lived far from his homeland, about six hundred years before Christ. He first served under Babylon's King Nebuchadnezzar, and then under the Persian king Cyrus. As with other prophets such as Jeremiah and Ezekiel, Daniel lived and wrote in the swirling events associated with the exile of Judah to Babylon in the sixth century B.C. It was a tumultuous time for God's people.

What was especially painful was the apparent end of Israel's special covenant relationship with God—including their presence in the long-awaited and hard-won Promised Land (Numbers—Joshua). Exiled from this land, Israel seems to have forfeited their relationship with God through their persistent faithlessness. Yet the book of Daniel confronts such discouragement in at least three ways.

God's encouragement. First, Daniel reminds us that God will not abandon his people. In a long prayer Daniel declares that Yahweh is "the great and awesome God, who keeps covenant and steadfast love with those who love him and keep his commandments" (Dan. 9:4). This does not mean God keeps covenant only with those who never sin—the very next verse of Daniel's prayer acknowledges his and others' sin (9:5). Rather, for those who trust the Lord, despite their sin, he will prove faithful to redeem and finally restore them. Second, we learn that wherever God's people are in the world, God provides them the means to be faithful to him. Suffering through exile does not prevent faithfulness. Third, we see in Daniel that God's plan to bring blessing to all the nations has not been foiled, despite the disobedience of his people. Rather, God governs all world events through his sovereign power and good pleasure, and he is determined to bring his saving presence to all the ends of the earth.

Finally, the book of Daniel plays its role, along with every other Old Testament book, in preparing us for the coming Messiah, Jesus Christ. For example, Daniel speaks of one "like a son of man" who comes in great power and glory (Dan. 7:13–14) and Jesus draws on the language of Daniel 7 to describe himself as the "Son of Man" in the Gospels.

A cosmic war. Viewing Daniel from a broad perspective, we see in this book the way God's kingdom always clashes with this world's kingdoms. Ultimately we see this conflict come to a climax in Christ, who ushers in God's kingdom even as he is rejected by this world's kingdoms, both religious (the Jews) and irreligious (the Romans). And in Revelation, picking up much of the imagery of Daniel, we see the final clash between "Babylon"—the godless superpowers of this world, led by Satan—and faithful believers, led by Christ.

Universal Themes in Daniel

Strangers and exiles in this world. Daniel and his friends lived in a hostile environment in which their fundamental loyalty to God was deeply tested. Their presence in Babylon, serving in the king's court among a foreign people unfriendly toward the God of the Jews, is a picture of what it means for believers all around the world to live in similarly hostile environments. The apostle Peter called the first-century Gentile believers to whom he wrote "elect exiles of the Dispersion" (1 Pet. 1:2) and "sojourners" (1 Pet. 2:11). Just as God's people were scattered ("dispersed") from the Promised Land in Daniel's time, so believers today are scattered throughout the world, often outnumbered and living among antagonistic people groups. The book of Daniel is encouraging as it provides a portrait of what faithfulness in such situations looks like. It reminds us that faithfulness to God is our glad duty no matter what may result (see Dan. 3:16–18).

God's sovereignty over world affairs. Throughout Daniel, and especially in chapters 4–5, we see God's utter sovereignty over global affairs. As mighty King Nebuchadnezzar confessed, "all the inhabitants of the earth are accounted as nothing, and he does according to his will among the host of heaven and among the inhabitants of the earth; and none can stay his hand" (Dan. 4:35). This was deep comfort for God's people in Daniel's day as they were reminded of the Lord's invincible sovereignty, and the same holds true today.

The Global Message of Daniel for Today

The book of Daniel has much to say to the global church today. In Daniel we see God exercising his sovereign wisdom over all world affairs, even the actions of the most powerful individual rulers of his day. In a world of clashing ideologies and godless worldviews, it is easy to lose hope that truth will prevail. Conflicts rage all around us, great and small, including at times systemic oppression of whole people groups or nations.

The book of Daniel rebukes our weak faith amid such thoughts. For Daniel himself lived in a time of unprecedented international strife. Yet we find in his prophecy an exalted view of God and a quiet trust in the Lord's providential governing of all human affairs, even conflict and evil. The Lord always reigns in perfect righteousness.

Most wonderfully, we see in Daniel the sure hope of a coming ruler—"an anointed one, a prince" (Dan. 9:25)—who will put all injustice and wickedness to flight and restore the world and the people of God. He will come to "put an end to sin, and to atone for iniquity, and to bring in everlasting righteousness" (9:24). He will be "like a son of man" and will be given glory so "that all peoples, nations, and languages should serve him" (7:13–14). In Christ this anointed prince has come. He came once to inaugurate his rule two thousand years ago. One day he will come again to bring it to final and righteous completion.

Daniel Taken to Babylon

DANIEL 1 [†]In the third year of [a]the reign of Jehoiakim king of Judah, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came to Jerusalem and besieged it. [2]And the Lord gave Jehoiakim king of Judah into his hand, with some of [b]the vessels of the house of God. And he brought them to [c]the land of Shinar, to the house of his god, [d]and placed the vessels in the treasury of his god. [3][†]Then the king commanded Ashpenaz, [e]his chief eunuch, to bring some of the people of Israel, both of the royal family [1] and of [f]the nobility, [4]youths without [g]blemish, of good appearance and [h]skillful in all wisdom, endowed with knowledge, understanding learning, and competent to stand in the king's palace, and to [i]teach them the literature and language of the [j]Chaldeans. [5][†]The king assigned them a daily portion of [k]the food that the king ate, and of [l]the wine that he drank. They were to be educated for [m]three years, and at the end of that time they were to [n]stand before the king. [6]Among these were [o]Daniel, [p]Hananiah, [p]Mishael, and [p]Azariah of the tribe of Judah. [7]And [e]the chief of the eunuchs [q]gave them names: [r]Daniel he called Belteshazzar, Hananiah he called Shadrach, Mishael he called Meshach, and Azariah he called Abednego.

Daniel's Faithfulness

[8][†]But Daniel [s]resolved that he would not [t]defile himself with [k]the king's food, or with [l]the wine that he drank. Therefore he asked the chief of the eunuchs to allow him not to [t]defile himself. [9] [u]And God gave Daniel favor and compassion in the sight of the chief of the eunuchs, [10]and the chief of the eunuchs said to Daniel, "I fear my lord the king, who assigned your food and your drink; for why should he see that you were in worse condition than the youths who are of your own age? So you would endanger my head with the king." [11]Then Daniel said to the steward whom the chief of the eunuchs had assigned over Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, [12]"Test your servants for [v]ten days; let us be given vegetables to eat and water to drink. [13]Then let our appearance and the appearance of the youths who eat [k]the king's food be observed by you, and deal with your servants according to what you see.” 14So he listened to them in this matter, and tested them for ten days. 15At the end of ten days it was seen that they were better in appearance and fatter in flesh than all the youths who ate [k]the king’s food. 16 [w]So the steward took away their food and the wine they were to drink, and gave them [x]vegetables.

17[†]As for these four youths, [y]God gave them learning and [z]skill in all literature and wisdom, and Daniel had [a]understanding in all visions and dreams. 18At the end of [b]the time, when the king had commanded that they should be brought in, the chief of the eunuchs brought them in before Nebuchadnezzar. 19And the king spoke with them, and among all of them none was found like Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah. Therefore [c]they stood before the king. 20And in every matter of wisdom and understanding about which the king inquired of them, he found them ten times better than all [d]the magicians and [e]enchanters that were in all his kingdom. 21[†]And Daniel [f]was there until the first year of [g]King Cyrus.

Nebuchadnezzar’s Dream

DANIEL 2 [†]In the second year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuchadnezzar had dreams; [h]his spirit was troubled, and [i]his sleep left him. 2[†]Then the king commanded that [d]the magicians, [e]the enchanters, the [j]sorcerers, and [k]the Chaldeans be summoned to tell the king his dreams. So they came in and [l]stood before the king. 3And the king said to them, “I had a dream, and [h]my spirit is troubled to know the dream.” 4[†]Then [k]the Chaldeans said to the king in Aramaic, [1] [m]“O king, live forever! Tell your servants the dream, and we will show the interpretation.” 5[†]The king answered and said to [k]the Chaldeans, “The word from me is firm: if you do not make known to me the dream and its interpretation, you shall be [n]torn limb from limb, [n]and your [o]houses shall be laid in ruins. 6But if you show the dream and its interpretation, [p]you shall receive from me gifts and rewards and great honor. [q]Therefore show me the dream and its interpretation.” 7They answered a second time and said, “Let the king tell his servants the dream, and we will show its interpretation.” 8The king answered and said, “I know with certainty that you are trying to [r]gain time, because you see that the word from me is firm— [9]if you do not make the dream known to me, [s]there is but one sentence for you. You have agreed to speak lying and corrupt words before me till [t]the times change. [u]Therefore tell me the dream, and I shall know that you can show me its interpretation.” [10] [v]The Chaldeans answered the king and said, “There is not a man on earth who can meet the king’s demand, for no great and powerful king has asked such a thing of any magician or enchanter or [v]Chaldean. [11][†]The thing that the king asks is difficult, and no one can show it to the king except [w]the gods, whose dwelling is not with flesh.”

[12]Because of this the king was angry and [x]very furious, and [y]commanded that all [z]the wise men of Babylon be destroyed. [13]So the decree went out, and the wise men were about to be killed; and they sought [a]Daniel and his companions, to kill them. [14][†]Then Daniel replied with prudence and discretion to [b]Arioch, the [c]captain of the king’s guard, who had gone out to kill the wise men of Babylon. [15][†]He declared [2] to Arioch, the king’s captain, “Why is the decree of the king [d]so urgent?” Then Arioch made the matter known to Daniel. [16]And Daniel went in and requested the king to appoint him a time, that he might show the interpretation to the king.

God Reveals Nebuchadnezzar’s Dream

[17]Then Daniel went to his house and made the matter known to [e]Hananiah, [e]Mishael, and [e]Azariah, his companions, [18] [f]and told them to seek mercy from the [g]God of heaven concerning this mystery, so that Daniel and his companions might not [h]be destroyed with the rest of the wise men of Babylon. [19]Then the mystery was revealed to Daniel in [i]a vision of the night. Then Daniel [j]blessed the [g]God of heaven. [20]Daniel answered and said:

[k]“Blessed be the name of God forever and ever, [l]to whom belong wisdom and might.
[21] [m]He changes times and seasons;
    [n]he removes kings and sets up kings;
[o]he gives wisdom to the wise

[o] and knowledge to those who have understanding;
[22] [p] he reveals deep and hidden things;
[p] he knows what is in the darkness,
[q] and the light dwells with him.
[23][†] To you, O [r] God of my fathers,
[s] I give thanks and praise, for [t] you have given me wisdom and might,
and have now made known to me what [u] we asked of you,
for you have made known to us the king’s matter.”

[24]Therefore Daniel went in to [v] Arioch, whom the king had appointed to destroy the wise men of Babylon. He went and said thus to him: “Do not destroy the wise men of Babylon; bring me in before the king, and I will show the king the interpretation.”

[25][†]Then [v] Arioch brought in Daniel before the king [w] in haste and said thus to him: “I have found [x] among the exiles from Judah a man who will make known to the king the interpretation.” [26]The king declared to Daniel, [y] whose name was Belteshazzar, [z] “Are you able to make known to me the dream that I have seen and its interpretation?” [27]Daniel answered the king and said, “No wise men, [a] enchanters, [a] magicians, or [b] astrologers can show to the king the mystery that the king has asked, [28]but [c] there is a God in heaven who reveals mysteries, and he has made known to King Nebuchadnezzar [d] what will be in the latter days. Your dream and [e] the visions of your head as you lay in bed are these: [29]To you, O king, as you lay in bed came thoughts of what would be after this, [f] and he who reveals mysteries made known to you what is to be. [30][†]But [g] as for me, this mystery has been revealed to me, not because of any wisdom that I have more than all the living, but in order that the interpretation may be made known to the king, and that [h] you may know the thoughts of your mind.

Daniel Interprets the Dream

[31]“You saw, O king, and behold, a great image. This image, mighty and of exceeding brightness, stood before you, and its appearance was frightening. [32] [i] The head of this image was of fine gold, [j] its chest and arms of silver, its middle and [j] thighs of bronze, [33] [k] its legs of iron, its feet partly of iron and partly of clay. [34]As you looked, a stone was cut out [l] by no human hand, and it struck the image on its feet of iron and clay, and [m] broke them in pieces. [35]Then the iron, the clay, the bronze, the silver, and the gold, all together were broken in pieces, and became [n] like the chaff of the summer threshing floors; and the wind carried them away, so that [o] not a trace of them could be found. But the stone that struck the image became [p] a great mountain [q] and filled the whole earth.

[36]"This was the dream. Now we will tell the king its interpretation. [37][†]You, O king, [r] the king of kings, to whom [s] the God of heaven [t] has given the kingdom, the power, and the might, and the glory, [38]and into whose hand he has given, wherever they dwell, the children of man, [u] the beasts of the field, and the birds of the heavens, making you rule over them all—you are [v] the head of gold. [39][†] [w] Another kingdom inferior to you shall arise after you, and yet a third kingdom [v] of bronze, [x] which shall rule over all the earth. [40][†]And [y] there shall be a fourth kingdom, strong as iron, because iron [z] breaks to pieces and shatters all things. And like iron that crushes, it shall [z] break and crush all these. [41]And as you saw [a] the feet and toes, partly of potter's clay and partly of iron, it shall be a divided kingdom, but some of the [y] firmness of iron shall be in it, just as you saw iron mixed with the soft clay. [42]And as the toes of the feet were partly iron and partly clay, so the kingdom shall be partly strong and partly brittle. [43][†]As you saw the iron mixed with soft clay, so they will mix with one another in marriage,[3] but they will not hold together, just as iron does not mix with clay. [44]And in the days of those kings [b] the God of heaven will set up [c] a kingdom that shall never be destroyed, nor shall the kingdom be left to another people. [d] It shall break in pieces all these kingdoms and bring them to an end, and [c] it shall stand forever, [45]just as [e] you saw that [f] a stone was cut from a mountain by no human hand, and that [d] it broke in pieces the iron, the bronze, the clay, the silver, and the gold. A [g] great God has made known to the king what shall be after this. The dream is certain, and its interpretation sure."

Daniel Is Promoted

[46][†]Then King Nebuchadnezzar [h]fell upon his face and [i]paid homage to Daniel, and commanded that [j]an offering and [k]incense be offered up to him. [47]The king answered and said to Daniel, “Truly, your [l]God is God of gods and [m]Lord of kings, and [n]a revealer of mysteries, for you have been able to reveal this mystery.” [48]Then the king gave Daniel high honors and many great [o]gifts, and made him ruler over the whole [p]province of Babylon and [q]chief prefect over all the wise men of Babylon. [49]Daniel made a request of the king, and he [r]appointed [s]Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego over the affairs of [p]the province of Babylon. But Daniel [t]remained at the king’s court.

Nebuchadnezzar’s Golden Image

DANIEL 3 [†]King Nebuchadnezzar made an image of gold, whose height was sixty cubits [1] and its breadth six cubits. He set it up on [u]the plain of Dura, in [v]the province of Babylon. [2][†]Then King Nebuchadnezzar sent to gather [w]the satraps, the prefects, and [x]the governors, the counselors, the treasurers, the justices, the magistrates, and all the officials of the provinces to come to the dedication of the image that King Nebuchadnezzar had set up. [3][†]Then [w]the satraps, the prefects, and the governors, the counselors, the treasurers, the justices, the magistrates, and all the officials of the provinces gathered for the dedication of the image that King Nebuchadnezzar had set up. And they stood before the image that Nebuchadnezzar had set up. [4]And the herald [y]proclaimed aloud, “You are commanded, O [z]peoples, nations, and languages, [5]that when you hear the [a]sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe, and every kind of music, you [b]are to fall down and worship the golden image that King Nebuchadnezzar has set up. [6]And whoever does not fall down and worship shall immediately [c]be cast into a burning fiery furnace.” [7]Therefore, as soon as all the peoples heard the sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe, and every kind of music, all [z]the peoples, nations, and languages fell down and worshiped the golden image that King Nebuchadnezzar had set up.

The Fiery Furnace

[8]Therefore at that time certain [d] Chaldeans [e] came forward and maliciously accused the Jews. [9]They declared [2] to King Nebuchadnezzar, “O king, live forever! [10]You, O king, [f] have made a decree, that every man who [g] hears the sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe, and every kind of music, [g] shall fall down and worship the golden image. [11]And whoever does not fall down and worship [c] shall be cast into a burning fiery furnace. [12][†]There are certain Jews whom you have [h] appointed over the affairs of [v] the province of Babylon: [i] Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. These men, O king, [j] pay no attention to you; they do not serve your gods or worship the golden image that you have set up.”

[13]Then Nebuchadnezzar [k] in furious rage commanded that [i] Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego be brought. So they brought these men before the king. [14]Nebuchadnezzar answered and said to them, “Is it true, O Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, that you do not serve my gods or worship the golden image that I have set up? [15]Now if you are ready when [l] you hear the sound of the horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe, and every kind of music, to fall down and worship the image that I have made, well and good. [3] But if you do not worship, [c] you shall immediately be cast into a burning fiery furnace. And [m] who is the god who will deliver you out of my hands?”

[16][i] Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego answered and said to the king, “O Nebuchadnezzar, we have no need to answer you in this matter. [17]If this be so, [n] our God whom we serve is able to deliver us from the burning fiery furnace, and he will deliver us out of your hand, O king. [4] [18][†]But if not, be it known to you, O king, that we will not serve your gods or worship the golden image that you have set up.”

[19][†]Then Nebuchadnezzar was [o] filled with fury, and the expression of his face [p] was changed against [i] Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. He ordered the furnace heated seven times more than it was usually heated. [20]And he ordered some of the mighty men of his army [q] to bind [i] Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, and to cast them into the burning fiery furnace. [21]Then these men were [q] bound in their cloaks, their tunics, [5] their hats, and their other garments, and they were thrown into the burning fiery furnace. [22][†]Because the king's order was [r] urgent and the furnace overheated, the flame of the fire killed those men who took up [s] Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. [23]And these three men, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, fell [q] bound into the burning fiery furnace.

[24][†]Then King Nebuchadnezzar was [t] astonished and rose up [u] in haste. He declared to his [v] counselors, "Did we not cast three men [w] bound into the fire?" They answered and said to the king, "True, O king." [25]He answered and said, "But I see four men unbound, [x] walking in the midst of the fire, and they [y] are not hurt; and the appearance of the fourth is like [z] a son of the gods."

[26]Then Nebuchadnezzar came near to the door of the burning fiery furnace; he declared, [s] "Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, servants of the [a] Most High God, come out, and come here!" Then [s] Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego came out from the fire. [27][†]And the [b] satraps, the prefects, the governors, and [v] the king's counselors gathered together and saw that [c] the fire had not had any power over the bodies of those men. The hair of their heads was not singed, their [d] cloaks were not harmed, and no smell of fire had come upon them. [28][†]Nebuchadnezzar answered and said, "Blessed be the God of [s] Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, who [e] has sent his angel and [f] delivered his servants, who [g] trusted in him, and set aside [6] the king's command, and yielded up their bodies rather than [h] serve and worship any god except their own God. [29]Therefore [i] I make a decree: Any [j] people, nation, or language that speaks anything against the God of [s] Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego [k] shall be torn limb from limb, and their houses laid in ruins, for there is no other god who is able to rescue in this way." [30][†]Then the king promoted [s] Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego in [l] the province of Babylon.

Nebuchadnezzar Praises God

DANIEL 4 [†] [1] King Nebuchadnezzar to all [m] peoples, nations, and languages, [n] that dwell in all the earth: [o] Peace be multiplied to you! [2]It has seemed good to me to show the [p] signs and wonders that the [q] Most High God has done for me.

[3] How great are [p] his signs, how mighty his [p] wonders!
[r] His kingdom is an everlasting kingdom,
[r] and his dominion endures from generation to generation.

Nebuchadnezzar’s Second Dream

[4] [2] I, Nebuchadnezzar, was at ease in my house and prospering in my palace. [5]I saw a dream that made me afraid. As I lay in bed the fancies and [s] the visions of my head alarmed me. [6]So [t] I made a decree that [u] all the wise men of Babylon should be brought before me, that they might make known to me the interpretation of the dream. [7][†]Then [v] the magicians, the enchanters, the Chaldeans, and the astrologers came in, and I told them the dream, but [w] they could not make known to me its interpretation. [8]At last Daniel came in before me—he who was named [x] Belteshazzar after the name of my god, and in whom is [y] the spirit of the holy gods [3]—and I told him the dream, saying, [9]“O Belteshazzar, [z] chief of the magicians, because I know that [y] the spirit of the holy gods is in you and that no [a] mystery is too difficult for you, tell me [s] the visions of my dream that I saw and their interpretation. [10][†] [s] The visions of my head as I lay in bed were these: I saw, and [b] behold, a tree in the midst of the earth, and its height was great. [11] [c] The tree grew and became strong, and its top reached to heaven, and it was visible to the end of the whole earth. [12] [d] Its leaves were beautiful and its fruit abundant, and in it was food for all. [e] The beasts of the field found shade under it, and [e] the birds of the heavens lived in its branches, and all flesh was fed from it.

[13]“I saw in [s] the visions of my head as I lay in bed, and behold, [f] a watcher, [g] a holy one, came down from heaven. [14]He [h] proclaimed aloud and said thus: [i] ‘Chop down the tree and [j] lop off its branches, [j] strip off its leaves and scatter its fruit. [j] Let the beasts flee from under it and the birds from its branches. [15]But leave the stump of its roots in the earth, bound with a band of iron and bronze, amid the tender grass of the field. Let him be wet with the dew of heaven. Let his portion be with the beasts in the grass of the earth. [16]Let his mind be changed from a man’s, and let a beast’s mind be given to him; [k] and let seven periods of time [l] pass over him. [17]The sentence is by the decree of [f] the watchers, the decision by the word of [g] the holy ones, to the end that the living may know that the Most High [m] rules the kingdom of men [n] and gives it to whom he will and [o] sets over it the lowliest of men.’ [18]This dream I, King Nebuchadnezzar, saw. And you, O [p] Belteshazzar, tell me the interpretation, because [q] all the wise men of my kingdom are not able to make known to me the interpretation, but you are able, for [r] the spirit of the holy gods is in you.”

Daniel Interprets the Second Dream

[19]Then Daniel, whose name was [p] Belteshazzar, was [s] dismayed for a while, and [t] his thoughts alarmed him. The king answered and said, “Belteshazzar, let not the dream or the interpretation alarm you.” Belteshazzar answered and said, “My lord, [u] may the dream be for those who hate you [u] and its interpretation for your enemies! [20] [v] The tree you saw, which grew and became strong, so that its top reached to heaven, and it was visible to the end of the whole earth, [21] [w] whose leaves were beautiful and its fruit abundant, and in which was food for all, under which beasts of the field found shade, and in whose branches the birds of the heavens lived—[22][†] [x] it is you, O king, who have grown and become strong. [y] Your greatness has grown and reaches to heaven, [y] and your dominion to the ends of the earth. [23][†]And because the king saw [z] a watcher, a holy one, coming down from heaven and saying, [a] ‘Chop down the tree and destroy it, but leave the stump of its roots in the earth, bound with a band of iron and bronze, in the tender grass of the field, and let him be wet with the dew of heaven, and let his portion be with the beasts of the field, till [b] seven periods of time pass over him,’ [24]this is the interpretation, O king: It is a decree of the Most High, which has come upon my lord the king, [25][†] [c] that you shall be driven from among men, and your dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field. You shall be made [d] to eat grass like an ox, and you shall be wet with the dew of heaven, and [b] seven periods of time shall pass over you, till [e] you know that the Most High rules the kingdom of men and gives it to whom he will. [26]And as it was commanded [f] to leave the stump of the roots of the tree, your kingdom shall be confirmed for you from the time that you know that Heaven rules. 27[†]Therefore, O king, let my counsel be acceptable to you: break off your sins by [g] practicing righteousness, [h] and your iniquities by showing mercy to the oppressed, [i] that there may perhaps be a lengthening of your prosperity."

Nebuchadnezzar's Humiliation

28[†]All this came upon King Nebuchadnezzar. 29At the end of twelve months he was walking on the roof of the royal palace of Babylon, 30and the king answered and said, [j] "Is not this great Babylon, which I have built by [k] my mighty power as a royal residence and for [k] the glory of my majesty?" 31 [l] While the words were still in the king's mouth, there fell a voice from heaven, "O King Nebuchadnezzar, to you it is spoken: The kingdom has departed from you, 32 [m] and you shall be driven from among men, and your dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field. And you shall be made to eat grass like an ox, and seven periods of time shall pass over you, [m] until you know that the Most High rules the kingdom of men and gives it to whom he will." 33Immediately the word was fulfilled against Nebuchadnezzar. [m] He was driven from among men and ate grass like an ox, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven till his hair grew as long as eagles' feathers, and his nails were like birds' claws.

Nebuchadnezzar Restored

34[†] [n] At the end of the days I, Nebuchadnezzar, lifted my eyes to heaven, and [o] my reason returned to me, and I blessed the Most High, and praised and honored [p] him who lives forever,

[q] for his dominion is an everlasting dominion, and [q] his kingdom endures from generation to generation; 35 [r] all the inhabitants of the earth are accounted as nothing, and [s] he does according to his will among the host of heaven and among the inhabitants of the earth; [t] and none can stay his hand
  or [u] say to him, "What have you done?"

36At the same time [v]my reason returned to me, and for [w]the glory of my kingdom, [w]my majesty and splendor returned to me. [x]My counselors and [y]my lords sought me, and I was established in my kingdom, and still more greatness was [z]added to me. 37Now I, Nebuchadnezzar, [a]praise and extol and honor the [b]King of heaven, [c]for all his works are right and his ways are just; and [d]those who walk in pride he is able to humble.

The Handwriting on the Wall

DANIEL 5 [†] [e]King Belshazzar [f]made a great feast for a thousand of his [g]lords and drank wine in front of the thousand.

2 [e]Belshazzar, when he tasted the wine, commanded that [h]the vessels of gold and of silver that Nebuchadnezzar his father [1] had taken out of the temple in Jerusalem be brought, that the king and his lords, his wives, and his concubines might drink from them. 3Then they brought in [h]the golden vessels that had been taken out of the temple, the house of God in Jerusalem, and the king and his lords, his wives, and his concubines drank from them. 4They drank wine and [i]praised the [j]gods of gold and silver, bronze, iron, wood, and stone.

5[†] [k]Immediately [l]the fingers of a human hand appeared and wrote on the plaster of the wall of the king's palace, opposite the lampstand. And the king saw [m]the hand as it wrote. 6 [n]Then the king's color changed, [o]and his thoughts alarmed him; [p]his limbs gave way, and [q]his knees knocked together. 7 [r]The king called loudly to bring in [r]the enchanters, the [s]Chaldeans, and [t]the astrologers. The king declared [2] to the wise men of Babylon, [u]"Whoever reads this writing, and shows me its interpretation, shall be clothed with purple and have a chain of gold around his neck and [v]shall be the third ruler in the kingdom." 8Then all the king's wise men came in, but [w]they could not read the writing or make known to the king the interpretation. 9Then King Belshazzar was greatly [x]alarmed, and his [n]color changed, and his [y]lords were perplexed.

10[†]The queen, [3] because of the words of the king and his lords, came into the banqueting hall, and the queen declared, [z]"O king, live forever! Let not your thoughts alarm you [a]or your color change. 11There is a man in your kingdom [b]in whom is the spirit of the holy gods. [4] In the days of your father, [c]light and understanding and wisdom like the wisdom of the gods were found in him, and King Nebuchadnezzar, your father—your father the king—[d]made him chief of the magicians, [r]enchanters, Chaldeans, and astrologers, 12 [e]because an excellent spirit, knowledge, and [f]understanding [f]to interpret dreams, explain riddles, and [g]solve problems were found in this Daniel, [h]whom the king named Belteshazzar. Now let Daniel be called, and he will show the interpretation.”

Daniel Interprets the Handwriting

[13][†]Then Daniel was brought in before the king. The king answered and said to Daniel, “You are that Daniel, one of [i]the exiles of Judah, whom the king my father brought from Judah. [14]I have heard of you that [b]the spirit of the gods[5] is in you, and that [c]light and understanding and excellent wisdom are found in you. [15]Now [j]the wise men, the [k]enchanters, have been brought in before me to read this writing and make known to me its interpretation, but [l]they could not show the interpretation of the matter. [16][m]But I have heard that you can give interpretations and [n]solve problems. [o]Now if you can read the writing and make known to me its interpretation, [o]you shall be clothed with purple and have a chain of gold around your neck and [p]shall be the third ruler in the kingdom.”

[17]Then Daniel answered and said before the king, [q]“Let your gifts be for yourself, and give your rewards to another. Nevertheless, I will read the writing to the king and make known to him the interpretation. [18][†]O king, the [r]Most High God [s]gave [t]Nebuchadnezzar your father [u]kingship and greatness and glory and majesty. [19]And because of the greatness that he gave him, [v]all peoples, nations, and languages [w]trembled and feared before him. Whom he would, he killed, and whom he would, he kept alive; whom he would, he raised up, and whom he would, he humbled. [20]But [x]when his heart was lifted up and his spirit was hardened so that he dealt proudly, [y]he was brought down from his kingly throne, and his glory was taken from him. [21][z]He was driven from among the children of mankind, and his mind was made like that of a beast, and his dwelling was with the wild donkeys. He was fed grass like an ox, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven, [z]until he knew that the [r]Most High God rules the kingdom of mankind and sets over it whom he will. [22]And you his son,[6] [a]Belshazzar, [b]have not humbled your heart, though you knew all this, [23][†]but you have lifted up yourself against [c]the Lord of heaven. And [d]the vessels of his house have been brought in before you, and you and your lords, your wives, and your concubines have drunk wine from them. [e]And you have praised the gods of silver and gold, of bronze, iron, wood, and stone, which do not see or hear or know, [f] but the God in whose hand is your breath, and [g] whose are all your ways, [h] you have not honored.

24“Then from his presence [i] the hand was sent, and this writing was inscribed. 25[†]And this is the writing that was inscribed: MENE, MENE, TEKEL, and PARSIN. 26This is the interpretation of the matter: MENE, God has numbered [7] the days of your kingdom and brought it to an end; 27TEKEL, [j] you have been weighed [8] in the balances and found wanting; 28[†]PERES, your kingdom is divided and given to [k] the Medes and [l] Persians.” [9]

29Then [a] Belshazzar gave the command, and Daniel [m] was clothed with purple, a chain of gold was put around his neck, and a proclamation was made about him, that he should be the third ruler in the kingdom.

30[†] [n] That very night [a] Belshazzar the [o] Chaldean king was killed. 31 [10] And [p] Darius [k] the Mede received the kingdom, being about sixty-two years old.

Daniel and the Lions’ Den

DANIEL 6 [†]It pleased Darius to set over the kingdom [q] 120 [r] satraps, to be throughout the whole kingdom; 2and over them [s] three high officials, of whom Daniel was one, to whom these [r] satraps should give account, so that the king might suffer no loss. 3Then this Daniel became [t] distinguished above all [s] the other high officials and [r] satraps, because [u] an excellent spirit was in him. And the king planned [v] to set him over the whole kingdom. 4[†]Then [s] the high officials and [r] the satraps [w] sought to find a ground for complaint against Daniel with regard to the kingdom, [x] but they could find no ground for complaint or any fault, because he was faithful, [x] and no error or fault was found in him. 5Then these men said, “We shall not find any ground for complaint against this Daniel unless we find it in connection with the law of his God.”

6[†]Then these [s] high officials and [r] satraps came by agreement [1] to the king and said to him, “O [y] King Darius, live forever! 7All the [s] high officials of the kingdom, the prefects and the satraps, the [z] counselors and the governors are agreed that the king should establish an ordinance and enforce an [a]injunction, that whoever makes petition to any god or man for thirty days, except to you, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions. [8][†]Now, O king, establish [a]the injunction and sign the document, so that it cannot be changed, according to [b]the law of [c]the Medes and the Persians, [d]which cannot be revoked.” [9]Therefore King Darius signed the document and [a]injunction.

[10][†]When Daniel knew that the document had been signed, he went to his house where [e]he had windows in his upper chamber open [f]toward Jerusalem. He got down on his knees [g]three times a day and prayed and [h]gave thanks before his God, as he had done previously. [11]Then these men came by agreement and found Daniel making petition and plea before his God. [12]Then they [i]came near and said before the king, concerning the injunction, “O king! Did you not sign [j]an injunction, that anyone who makes petition to any god or man within thirty days except to you, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions?” The king answered and said, “The thing stands fast, according to the law of [c]the Medes and Persians, [d]which cannot be revoked.” [13]Then they answered and said before the king, [k]“Daniel, who is one [l]of the exiles [k]from Judah, [m]pays no attention to you, O king, or [j]the injunction you have signed, but makes his petition [g]three times a day.”

[14]Then [n]the king, when he heard these words, [n]was much distressed and set his mind to deliver Daniel. And he labored till the sun went down to rescue him. [15]Then these men came by agreement to the king and said to the king, “Know, O king, that it is a law of the Medes and Persians that no [j]injunction or ordinance that the king establishes can be changed.”

[16][†]Then the king commanded, and Daniel was brought and cast into the den of lions. The king declared [2] to Daniel, “May [o]your God, whom you serve continually, deliver you!” [17][p]And a stone was brought and laid on the mouth of the den, [q]and the king sealed it [r]with his own signet and with the signet of his [s]lords, that nothing might be changed concerning Daniel. [18]Then the king went to his palace and spent the night fasting; [t]no diversions were brought to him, and [u]sleep fled from him.

[19][†]Then, at break of day, the king arose and went in haste to the den of lions. [20]As he came near to the den where Daniel was, he cried out in a tone of anguish. The king declared to Daniel, “O Daniel, servant of [v]the living God, [o]has your God, whom you serve continually, [w]been able to deliver you from the lions?” [21]Then Daniel said to the king, [x]“O king, live forever! [22]My God [y]sent his angel [z]and shut the lions’ mouths, and they have not harmed me, because I was found blameless [a]before him; [a]and also before you, O king, I have done no harm.” [23]Then the king was exceedingly glad, and commanded that Daniel be taken up out of the den. So Daniel was taken up out of the den, and [b]no kind of harm was found on him, because he had trusted in his God. [24][†]And the king commanded, and [c]those men who had maliciously accused Daniel were brought and cast into the den of lions—they, their children, and their wives. And before they reached the bottom of the den, the lions overpowered them and broke all their bones in pieces.

[25][†]Then King Darius wrote to all [d]the peoples, nations, and languages [e]that dwell in all the earth: [f]“Peace be multiplied to you. [26][g]I make a decree, that in all my royal dominion [h]people are to tremble and fear before the God of Daniel, for [i]he is [j]the living God, enduring forever;

his kingdom shall never be destroyed,
[j]and his dominion shall be [k]to the end.
[27] He delivers and rescues;
he works [l]signs and wonders in heaven and on earth, he who has [m]saved Daniel from the power of the lions.”

[28][†]So this Daniel prospered during the reign of Darius and [n]the reign of [o]Cyrus the Persian.

Daniel's Vision of the Four Beasts

DANIEL 7 [†]In the first year of [p]Belshazzar king of Babylon, [q]Daniel saw a dream and [r]visions of his head as he lay in his bed. Then he wrote down the dream and told the sum of the matter. 2Daniel declared, [1] "I saw in my vision by night, and behold, [s]the four winds of heaven were stirring up the great sea. 3[†]And four great beasts [t]came up out of the sea, different from one another. 4[†]The first was like a lion and had eagles' wings. Then as I looked its wings were plucked off, and it was lifted up from the ground and made to stand on two feet like a man, and the mind of a man was given to it. 5[†]And behold, [u]another beast, a second one, like a bear. It was raised up on one side. It had three ribs in its mouth between its teeth; and it was told, 'Arise, devour much flesh.' 6[†]After this I looked, and behold, another, like a [v]leopard, with four wings of a bird on its back. And the beast had four heads, and [w]dominion was given to it. 7[†]After this I saw in the night visions, and behold, a fourth beast, [x]terrifying and dreadful and exceedingly strong. It had great iron teeth; [x]it devoured and broke in pieces [x]and stamped what was left with its feet. It was different from all the beasts that were before it, and [y]it had ten horns. 8[†]I considered the horns, and behold, [z]there came up among them another horn, a little one, [z]before which three of the first horns were plucked up by the roots. And behold, in this horn were eyes like the eyes of a man, and [a]a mouth speaking great things.

The Ancient of Days Reigns

9[†]"As I looked,

[b]thrones were placed,
    and the [c]Ancient of Days took his seat; [d]his clothing was white as snow,
    and [e]the hair of his head like pure wool;
his throne was fiery flames;
    [f]its wheels were burning fire.
10[†] [g]A stream of fire issued and came out from before him;

[h] a thousand thousands [i] served him,
[h] and ten thousand times ten thousand [j] stood before him;
the [k] court sat in judgment,
and [l] the books were opened.

[11][†]“I looked then because of the sound of [a] the great words that the horn was speaking. And as I looked, [m] the beast was killed, and its body destroyed [m] and given over to be burned with fire. [12]As for the rest of the beasts, [n] their dominion was taken away, but their lives were prolonged for a season and a time.

The Son of Man Is Given Dominion

[13][†]“I saw in the night visions, and [o] behold, with the clouds of heaven

there came one like a son of man, and he came to the [c] Ancient of Days
and was presented before him.
[14] [p] And to him was given dominion and glory and a kingdom, that all [q] peoples, nations, and languages should serve him;
[r] his dominion is an everlasting dominion,
which shall not pass away,
and his kingdom one that shall not be destroyed.

Daniel’s Vision Interpreted

[15][†]“As for me, Daniel, my spirit within me [2] was anxious, and [s] the visions of my head alarmed me. [16]I approached one of those who stood there and asked him the truth concerning all this. So he told me and made known to me the interpretation of the things. [17] [t] ‘These four great beasts are four kings who shall arise out of the earth. [18]But [u] the saints of the Most High shall receive the kingdom and possess the kingdom forever, forever and ever.’

[19]“Then I desired to know the truth about [v]the fourth beast, which was different from all the rest, exceedingly terrifying, with its teeth of iron and claws of bronze, and which devoured and broke in pieces and stamped what was left with its feet, [20] [w]and about the ten horns that were on its head, and the other horn that came up and before which three of them fell, the horn that had eyes and a mouth that spoke great things, and that seemed greater than its companions. [21]As I looked, this horn [x]made war with the saints and prevailed over them, [22]until the [y]Ancient of Days came, and [u]judgment was given for the saints of the Most High, and the time came when [u]the saints possessed the kingdom.

[23]“Thus he said: ‘As for [v]the fourth beast, there shall be a fourth kingdom on earth,

    which shall be different from all the kingdoms,
and it shall devour the whole earth,
    and trample it down, and break it to pieces.
[24] As for the ten horns, out of this kingdom ten kings shall arise,
    and another shall arise after them;
he shall be different from the former ones,
    and shall put down three kings.
[25] [z]He shall speak words against the Most High,
    and shall wear out the saints of the Most High,
    and shall think to [a]change the times and the law;
and they shall be given into his hand
    for [b]a time, times, and half a time.
[26] [c]But the court shall sit in judgment, and [d]his dominion shall be taken away,
    to be consumed and destroyed [e]to the end.
[27] [f]And the kingdom and the dominion and the greatness of the kingdoms under the whole heaven shall be given to the people of [f]the saints of the Most High; [g]his kingdom shall be an everlasting kingdom,

and all dominions shall serve and obey him.’ [3]

[28][†]“Here is the end of the matter. [h] As for me, Daniel, my [i] thoughts greatly alarmed me, [j] and my color changed, but [k] I kept the matter in my heart.”

Daniel’s Vision of the Ram and the Goat

DANIEL 8 [†]In the third year of the reign of [l] King Belshazzar a vision appeared to me, Daniel, [m] after that which appeared to me [m] at the first. [2]And I saw in the vision; and when I saw, I was in [n] Susa the citadel, which is in the province of [o] Elam. And [p] I saw in the vision, [p] and I was at the [q] Ulai canal. [3][†]I raised my eyes and saw, and behold, [r] a ram standing on the bank of the canal. It had two horns, and both horns were high, but one was higher than the other, and the higher one came up last. [4]I saw [s] the ram charging westward and northward and southward. No [t] beast [u] could stand before him, [v] and there was no one who could rescue from his power. [w] He did as he pleased and [x] became great.

[5][†]As I was considering, behold, a [y] male goat came from the west across the face of the whole earth, without touching the ground. And the goat had [y] a conspicuous horn between his eyes. [6]He came to [z] the ram with the two horns, which I had seen standing on the bank of the canal, [a] and he ran at him in his powerful wrath. [7][†]I saw him come close to the ram, [b] and he was enraged against him and struck the ram and broke his two horns. [c] And the ram had no power to stand before him, but he [d] cast him down to the ground and trampled on him. And there was no one who could rescue the ram from his power. [8][†]Then [y] the goat [e] became exceedingly great, but when he was strong, the great horn was broken, and instead of it there came up four [f] conspicuous horns toward [f] the four winds of heaven.

[9][†]Out of one of them came [g] a little horn, which grew exceedingly great toward [h] the south, toward the east, and toward [i] the glorious land. [10][j] It grew great, [k] even to the host of heaven. And some of the host [k] and some [1] of [l] the stars it threw down to the ground and [m] trampled on them. [11][†] [n] It became great, even as great as [o] the Prince of the host. [p] And the regular burnt offering was taken away from him, and the place of his sanctuary was overthrown. [12][†]And a host will be given over to it together with the regular burnt offering because of transgression, [2] and it will throw truth to the ground, and [q] it will act and prosper. [13]Then I heard [r] a holy one speaking, and another holy one said to the one who spoke, [s] “For how long is the vision concerning the regular burnt offering, [t] the transgression that makes desolate, and the giving over of the sanctuary and host to be trampled underfoot?” [14]And he said to me, [3] “For 2,300 [u] evenings and mornings. Then the sanctuary shall be restored to its rightful state.”

The Interpretation of the Vision

[15][†]When I, Daniel, had seen the vision, I [v] sought to understand it. And behold, there stood before me one having [w] the appearance of a man. [16] [x] And I heard a man’s voice [x] between the banks of the [y] Ulai, and it called, [z] “Gabriel, make this man understand the vision.” [17]So he came near where I stood. And when he came, [a] I was frightened [b] and fell on my face. But he said to me, “Understand, [c] O son of man, that the vision is for [d] the time of the end.”

[18]And when he had spoken to me, [e] I fell into a deep sleep with my face to the ground. But [f] he touched me and made me stand up. [19]He said, “Behold, I will make known to you what shall be at the latter end of [g] the indignation, for it refers to [h] the appointed time of the end. [20][†]As for [i] the ram that you saw with the two horns, these are the kings of [j] Media and Persia. [21]And [k] the goat [4] is the king of Greece. And [k] the great horn between his eyes is [l] the first king. [22] [m] As for the horn that was broken, in place of which four others arose, four kingdoms shall arise from his [5] nation, [n] but not with his power. [23][†]And at the latter end of their kingdom, when the transgressors have reached their limit, a king of bold face, one who understands riddles, shall arise. [24]His power shall be great— [o] but not by his own power; and he shall cause fearful destruction [p] and shall succeed in what he does, [q] and destroy mighty men and the people who are the saints. [25][†] [r] By his cunning he shall make deceit prosper under his hand, and in his own mind [s] he shall become great. [t] Without warning he shall destroy many. And he [s] shall even rise up against the Prince of princes, and he shall be broken—but [u] by no human hand. 26 The vision of [v] the evenings and the mornings that has been told [w] is true, but [x] seal up the vision, [y] for it refers to many days from now.”

27 [†]And [z] I, Daniel, was overcome and lay sick for some days. Then I rose and went about the king’s business, but I was appalled by the vision [a] and did not understand it.

Daniel’s Prayer for His People

DANIEL 9 [†] [b]In the first year of [c]Darius the son of Ahasuerus, by descent a [d]Mede, who was made king over the realm of the [e]Chaldeans— [2][†]in the first year of his reign, I, Daniel, perceived in the books the number of years that, according to [f]the word of the LORD to Jeremiah the prophet, must pass before the end of the desolations of Jerusalem, namely, seventy years.

[3][†]Then I turned my face to the Lord God, seeking him by [g]prayer and pleas for mercy with fasting and sackcloth and ashes. [4][†]I prayed to the LORD my God and [h]made confession, saying, [i]“O Lord, the [i]great and awesome God, who [j]keeps covenant and steadfast love with those who love him and keep his commandments, [5] [k]we have sinned and done wrong and acted wickedly [l]and rebelled, turning aside from your commandments and rules. [6] [m]We have not listened to [n]your servants the prophets, who spoke in your name to [o]our kings, our princes, and our fathers, and to all the people of the land. [7]To you, [p]O Lord, belongs righteousness, but to us open shame, as at this day, to the men of Judah, to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and to all Israel, [q]those who are near and [q]those who are far away, in [r]all the lands to which you have driven them, because of [s]the treachery that they have committed against you. [8]To us, O LORD, belongs open shame, to our kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, because [k]we have sinned against you. [9] [t]To the Lord our God belong mercy and forgiveness, for we have rebelled against him [10] [m]and have not obeyed the voice of the LORD our God by walking in his laws, which he set before us by [n]his servants the prophets. [11][†] [u]All Israel has transgressed your law and turned aside, [v]refusing to obey your voice. [w]And the curse and oath [x]that are written in the Law of [y]Moses the servant of God have been poured out upon us, because [k]we have sinned against him. [12]He has confirmed his words, which he spoke against us and against [z]our rulers who ruled us, [1] by [a]bringing upon us a great calamity. [b]For under the whole heaven there has not been done anything like what has been done against Jerusalem. [13] [x]As it is written in the Law of Moses, all this calamity has come upon us; yet we have not entreated the favor of the Lord our God, [c] turning from our iniquities and gaining insight by your truth. [14] [d] Therefore the Lord has kept ready the calamity and has brought it upon us, [e] for the Lord our God is righteous in all the works that he has done, and [f] we have not obeyed his voice. [15]And now, O Lord our God, who brought your people out of the land of Egypt [g] with a mighty hand, and [h] have made a name for yourself, as at this day, [i] we have sinned, we have done wickedly.

[16]"O Lord, [j] according to all your righteous acts, let your anger and your wrath turn away from your city Jerusalem, [k] your holy hill, [l] because for our sins, and for [m] the iniquities of our fathers, [n] Jerusalem and your people have become [o] a byword among all who are around us. [17][†]Now therefore, O our God, listen to the prayer of your servant and to his pleas for mercy, and for your own sake, O Lord, [2] [p] make your face to shine upon [q] your sanctuary, which is desolate. [18] [r] O my God, incline your ear and hear. Open your eyes and see [s] our desolations, and [t] the city that is called by your name. For we do not present our pleas before you because of our righteousness, but because of your great mercy. [19]O Lord, hear; O Lord, forgive. O Lord, pay attention and act. [u] Delay not, [v] for your own sake, O my God, because [t] your city and [w] your people are called by your name."

Gabriel Brings an Answer

[20][†] [x] While I was speaking and praying, confessing my sin and the sin of my people Israel, and presenting my plea before the Lord my God for [y] the holy hill of my God, [21]while I was speaking in prayer, the man [z] Gabriel, whom I had seen in the vision at the first, [a] came to me in swift flight at [b] the time of the evening sacrifice. [22] [c] He made me understand, speaking with me and saying, "O Daniel, I have now come out to give you [d] insight and understanding. [23] [e] At the beginning of your pleas for mercy a word went out, [f] and I have come to tell it to you, for [g] you are greatly loved. Therefore consider the word [h] and understand the vision.

The Seventy Weeks

[24][†] [i]“Seventy weeks [3] are decreed about your people and [j]your holy city, to finish [k]the transgression, to put an end to sin, [l]and to atone for iniquity, [m]to bring in everlasting righteousness, to seal both vision and prophet, and [n]to anoint a most holy place. [4] [25][†] [o]Know therefore and understand that [p]from the going out of the word to restore and [q]build Jerusalem to the coming of an [r]anointed one, a [s]prince, there shall be seven weeks. Then for sixty-two weeks it shall be built again [5] with squares and moat, [t]but in a troubled time. [26]And after the sixty-two weeks, an anointed one shall [u]be cut off and shall have nothing. And the people of the prince who is to come [v]shall destroy the city and the sanctuary. [w]Its [6] end shall come with a flood, [x]and to the end there shall be war. [y]Desolations are decreed. [27][†]And he shall make a strong covenant with many for one week, [7] and for half of the week he shall put an end to sacrifice and offering. [z]And on the wing of abominations shall come one who makes desolate, until [a]the decreed end is poured out on the desolator.”

Daniel’s Terrifying Vision of a Man

DANIEL 10 [†] [b]In the third year of Cyrus king of Persia a word was revealed to Daniel, [c]who was named Belteshazzar. And [d]the word was true, and it was a great conflict. [1] And [e]he understood the word and [e]had understanding of the vision.

[2][†]In those days I, Daniel, was mourning for [f]three weeks. [3]I ate no delicacies, no meat or wine entered my mouth, nor did I [g]anoint myself at all, for [f]the full three weeks. [4]On the twenty-fourth day of the first month, as I was standing [h]on the bank of the great river ([i]that is, the Tigris) [5][†][j]I lifted up my eyes and looked, and behold, [k]a man clothed in linen, [l]with a belt of fine [m]gold from Uphaz around his waist. [6]His body was like [n]beryl, his face [o]like the appearance of lightning, [p]his eyes like flaming torches, his arms and [q]legs like the gleam of burnished bronze, and [q]the sound of his words like the sound of a multitude. [7][r]And I, Daniel, alone saw the vision, for the men who were with me did not see the vision, but a great trembling fell upon them, and they fled to hide themselves. [8]So I was left alone and saw this great vision, and [s] no strength was left in me. My radiant appearance was fearfully changed, [2] [t] and I retained no strength. 9Then I heard the sound of his words, [u] and as I heard the sound of his words, I fell on my face in deep sleep [u] with my face to the ground.

10[†]And behold, [v] a hand touched me and set me trembling on my hands and knees. 11And he said to me, “O Daniel, [w] man greatly loved, [x] understand the words that I speak to you, and [y] stand upright, for [z] now I have been sent to you.” And when he had spoken this word to me, I stood up trembling. 12Then he said to me, [a] “Fear not, Daniel, for from the first day that you [b] set your heart to understand and [b] humbled yourself before your God, [c] your words have been heard, [d] and I have come because of your words. 13[†] [e] The prince of the kingdom of Persia withstood me [f] twenty-one days, but [g] Michael, one of the chief princes, came to help me, for I was left there with the kings of Persia, 14 [d] and came to make you understand what is to happen to your people [h] in the latter days. For [i] the vision is for days yet to come.”

15[†]When he had spoken to me according to these words, [j] I turned my face toward the ground [k] and was mute. 16And behold, [l] one in the likeness of the children of man [m] touched my lips. Then I opened my mouth and spoke. I said to him who stood before me, “O my lord, by reason of the vision pains have come upon me, and [n] I retain no strength. 17How can my lord’s servant talk with my lord? For now no strength remains in me, and no breath is left in me.”

18Again [l] one having the appearance of a man [m] touched me and strengthened me. 19And he said, [o] “O man greatly loved, [p] fear not, peace be with you; be strong and of good courage.” And as he spoke to me, I was strengthened and said, “Let my lord speak, for you have strengthened me.” 20[†]Then he said, “Do you know why I have come to you? But now I will return to fight against the [q] prince of Persia; and when I go out, behold, the prince of [r] Greece will come. 21[†]But I will tell you [s] what is inscribed in the book of truth: there is none who contends by my side against these except [t] Michael, your prince.

The Kings of the South and the North

DANIEL 11 [†]“And as for me, [u] in the first year of [u] Darius the Mede, I stood up to confirm and strengthen him.

[2][†]“And now I will show you [v] the truth. Behold, three more kings shall arise in Persia, and a fourth shall be far richer than all of them. And when he has become strong through his riches, he shall stir up all against the kingdom of Greece. [3][†]Then [w] a mighty king shall arise, who shall rule with great dominion and [x] do as he wills. [4][†]And as soon as he has arisen, [y] his kingdom shall be broken and divided [y] toward the [z] four winds of heaven, but [a] not to his posterity, nor according to the authority with which he ruled, for his kingdom shall be plucked up and go to others besides these.

[5][†]“Then the king of the south shall be strong, but one of his princes shall be stronger than he [b] and shall rule, and his authority shall be a great authority. [6][†]After some years [c] they shall make an alliance, and the daughter of the king of the south shall come to the king of the north to make an agreement. But she shall not retain the strength of her arm, and he and his arm shall not endure, but she shall be given up, and her attendants, he who fathered her, and he who supported [1] her in those times.

[7][†]“And from a branch from her roots one shall arise in his place. He shall come against the army and enter the [d] fortress of the king of the north, and he shall deal with them and shall prevail. [8]He shall also carry off to Egypt their gods with their metal images and their precious [e] vessels of silver and gold, and for some years he shall refrain from attacking the king of the north. [9]Then the latter shall come into the realm of the king of the south but shall return to his own land.

[10][†]“His sons shall wage war and assemble a multitude of great forces, which shall keep coming [f] and overflow and pass through, and again shall carry the war as far as his [d] fortress. [11][†]Then the king of the south, [g] moved with rage, shall come out and fight against the king of the north. [h] And he shall raise a great multitude, but it shall be given into his hand. [12]And when the multitude is taken away, his heart shall be exalted, and he shall cast down tens of thousands, but he shall not prevail. [13][†]For the king of the north shall again [i]raise a multitude, greater than the first. And [j]after some years [2] he shall come on with a great army and abundant supplies.

[14][†]“In those times many shall rise against the king of the south, and the violent among your own people shall lift themselves up in order to fulfill the vision, but [k]they shall fail. [15][†]Then the king of the north shall come and [l]throw up siegeworks and take a well-fortified city. And the forces of the south shall not stand, or even his best troops, for there shall be no strength to stand. [16]But he who comes against him shall [m]do as he wills, and [n]none shall stand before him. And he shall stand in [o]the glorious land, with destruction in his hand. [17][†]He shall [p]set his face to come with the strength of his whole kingdom, and he shall bring terms of an agreement and perform them. He shall give him the daughter of women to destroy the kingdom, [3] but it shall not stand or be to his advantage. [18]Afterward he shall turn his face to the coastlands and shall capture many of them, but a commander shall put an end to his insolence. Indeed, [4] he [q]shall turn his insolence back upon him. [19]Then he shall turn his face back toward the [r]fortresses of his own land, but he shall [s]stumble and fall, [t]and shall not be found.

[20][†]“Then shall arise in his place one who shall send an [u]exactor of tribute for the glory of the kingdom. But within a few days he shall be broken, neither in anger nor in battle. [21][†]In his place shall arise a contemptible person to whom royal majesty has not been given. [v]He shall come in without warning and obtain the kingdom [w]by flatteries. [22]Armies shall be [x]utterly swept away before him and broken, even the prince of the covenant. [23]And from the time that an alliance is made with him he shall act deceitfully, and he shall become strong with a small people. [24][†][y]Without warning he shall come into [z]the richest parts [5] of the province, and he shall do what neither his fathers nor his fathers’ fathers have done, scattering among them plunder, spoil, and goods. He shall devise plans against strongholds, but only for a time. [25][†]And he shall stir up his power and his heart against [a]the king of the south with a great army. And the king of the south shall wage war with an exceedingly great and mighty army, but he shall not stand, for plots shall be devised against him. [26]Even those who eat his food shall break him. His army shall be [b]swept away, and many shall fall down slain. [27]And as for the two kings, their hearts shall be bent on doing evil. They shall speak lies at the same table, but to no avail, for [c]the end is yet to be at the time appointed. [28][†]And he shall return to his land with great wealth, but his heart shall be set against the holy covenant. And he shall work his will and return to his own land.

[29][†]“At the time appointed he shall return and come into the south, but it shall not be this time as it was before. [30]For ships of [d]Kittim shall come against him, and he shall be afraid and withdraw, and shall turn back and [e]be enraged and [e]take action against the holy covenant. He shall turn back and pay attention to those who forsake the holy covenant. [31][†]Forces from him shall appear and [f]profane the temple and fortress, and shall take away the regular burnt offering. And [g]they shall set up the abomination that makes desolate. [32]He shall seduce with flattery those who violate the covenant, but the people who know their God shall stand firm and take action. [33][†][h]And the wise among the people shall make many understand, though for some days they shall stumble by sword and flame, by captivity and plunder. [34]When they stumble, they shall receive a little help. And many shall join themselves to them with flattery, [35]and some of the wise shall stumble, so that they may be refined, [i]purified, and [j]made white, until [k]the time of the end, [k]for it still awaits the appointed time.

[36][†]“And the king shall [l]do as he wills. [m]He shall exalt himself and magnify himself above every god, [n]and shall speak astonishing things against [o]the God of gods. [p]He shall prosper [q]till the indignation is accomplished; for what is decreed shall be done. [37][†]He shall pay no attention to the gods of his fathers, or to the one beloved by women. He shall not pay attention to any other god, for [m]he shall magnify himself above all. [38]He shall honor the god of fortresses instead of these. A god whom his fathers did not know he shall honor [r]with gold and silver, with precious stones and costly gifts. [39][†]He shall deal with the strongest fortresses with the help of a foreign god. Those who acknowledge him he shall load with honor. He shall make them rulers over many and [s]shall divide the land for a price. [6]

[40][†][t]“At the time of the end, the king of the south shall attack [7] him, but the king of the north shall rush upon him [u]like a whirlwind, with chariots and horsemen, and with many ships. And he shall come into countries and [v] shall overflow and pass through. 41He shall come into [w] the glorious land. And tens of thousands shall fall, but these shall be delivered out of his hand: [x] Edom and [x] Moab and the main part of the [x] Ammonites. 42He shall stretch out his hand against the countries, and the land of Egypt shall not escape. 43He shall become ruler of the treasures of gold and of silver, and all the precious things of Egypt, and the [y] Libyans and the [z] Cushites shall follow in his train. 44[†]But news from the east and the north shall alarm him, and he shall go out with great fury to destroy and devote many to destruction. 45And he shall pitch his palatial tents between the sea and the glorious holy mountain. Yet he shall come to his end, with none to help him.

The Time of the End

DANIEL 12 [†]“At that time shall arise [a] Michael, the great prince who has charge of your people. And [b] there shall be a time of trouble, such as never has been since there was a nation till that time. But at that time your people shall be delivered, [c] everyone whose name shall be found written in the book. 2And many of those who [d] sleep in [e] the dust of the earth shall [e] awake, [f] some to everlasting life, and [f] some to shame and everlasting contempt. 3 [g] And those who are wise [h] shall shine like the brightness of the sky above; [1] and [i] those who turn many to righteousness, like the stars forever and ever. 4But you, Daniel, [j] shut up the words and [k] seal the book, until [l] the time of the end. [m] Many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall increase.”

5[†]Then I, Daniel, looked, and behold, two others stood, one on [n] this bank of the stream and one on that bank of the stream. 6And someone said to [o] the man clothed in linen, who was above the waters of the stream, [2] [p] “How long shall it be till the end of these wonders?” 7And I heard [o] the man clothed in linen, who was above the waters of the stream; [q] he raised his right hand and his left hand toward heaven and [r] swore by him who lives forever that it would be for a [s] time, times, and half a time, and that when the shattering of [t] the power of [t] the holy people comes to an end all these things would be finished. 8I heard, [u] but I did not understand. Then I said, “O my lord, what shall be the outcome of these things?” 9He said, [v] “Go your way, Daniel, [w] for the words are shut up and sealed until the time of the end. 10[†] [x] Many shall purify themselves and make themselves white and be refined, but [y] the wicked shall act wickedly. And none of the wicked shall understand, [g] but those who are wise shall understand. 11[†]And from the time that [z] the regular burnt offering is taken away and [a] the abomination that makes desolate is set up, there shall be 1,290 days. 12[†] [b] Blessed is he who waits and arrives at the 1,335 days. 13 [c] But go your way till the end. [d] And you shall rest and shall stand in your allotted place at [e] the end of the days.”

Study Notes for Daniel

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:1–6:28 Daniel and the Three Friends at the Babylonian Court. The Hebrew exiles live faithfully to the Lord while serving in the court of Nebuchadnezzar and his successors, from 605 B.C. to the fall of Babylon (539) and into the early years of Persian rule. Their service brings blessing to the Gentiles.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:1–21 Daniel describes how he and his three friends were taken into exile (vv. 1–7), remained undefiled (vv. 8–16), and were promoted and preserved (vv. 17–21).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:1–2 In the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim . . . , Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came to Jerusalem. Nebuchadnezzar took Daniel and other promising young people to Babylon to be trained in Babylonian culture and literature. This deportation was the beginning of what came to be known as the Babylonian exile. This exile was the result of the people's sin (Lev. 26:33, 39). Nebuchadnezzar was the Babylonian king c. 605–562 B.C. See 2 Kings 24:1–25:26; Jer. 39:1–18; 52:1–30.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:3–4 Some of the royal family and nobility were also exiled. Their exile fulfilled Isaiah's prophecy to King Hezekiah in 2 Kings 20 and Isaiah 39, a century earlier. Hezekiah had shown the representatives of Babylon around his treasuries, hoping to win a political partner against the Assyrians. Because he had thus failed to trust in the Lord, it was prophesied that the treasures he had shown the Babylonians, as well as some of his own descendants, would be carried off to Babylon.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:5–7 Nebuchadnezzar forced the exiles into adopting Babylonian culture by depriving them of their religious and cultural identity and creating dependence on the royal court. They were given names linked with Babylonian deities in place of Israelite names linked with their God.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:8–16 Daniel and his three friends kept their original names and resolved not to defile themselves with the king's food and drink (v. 8). They avoided the rich diet as a way of protecting themselves from being tempted by Babylonian culture. Their restricted diet continually reminded them that they were the people of God in a foreign land. They were dependent for their food, indeed for their very lives, upon God, not King Nebuchadnezzar. The Lord gave Daniel favor with his captors (v. 9), and the steward honored their request for a special diet. At the end of a trial period, Daniel and his friends looked fitter than those who had consumed a high-calorie diet.

FACT

What's in a name? Changing a person's name (1:7) was a sign of having power over that person. Conquering rulers often did this to their captives as a means of making them more a part of their new culture.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:17–21 God also gave Daniel and his friends exceptional knowledge of Babylonian literature and wisdom. In addition, he gave Daniel the ability to understand all visions and dreams. God's favor enabled Daniel and his friends to answer all of Nebuchadnezzar's questions, so that he found them ten times better than all of his pagan advisers.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 1:21 until the first year of King Cyrus. That is, 539 B.C., when Cyrus conquered Babylon. God provided for Daniel throughout 70 years of exile.

DANIEL

Daniel was a young man from a noble family who was deported from Judah to Babylon by King Nebuchadnezzar (605 B.C.). The Babylonians trained Daniel for three years in their language and culture. The Lord blessed Daniel with exceptional wisdom in these areas. He also gave Daniel the ability to interpret dreams. When Daniel interpreted a dream for Nebuchadnezzar, the grateful king gave him an important position in the royal court. After the fall of the Babylonian Empire, Daniel served in a similar role in the Medo-Persian Empire that succeeded it (6:28). Daniel was a faithful servant of the Lord who consistently refused to disobey God. At the same time, he remained respectful to those in authority over him. Daniel, along with his friends Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, did precisely what God had commanded the exiles to do in Jeremiah 29:7: they were a blessing to their captors while at the same time remaining true to their Lord amid extraordinary pressures. (Daniel 1:17–21)

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:1–49 Nebuchadnezzar expects his own interpreters to tell him the content of his dream, perhaps to prove that they are genuinely qualified to interpret it (vv. 1–16). Daniel's God shows himself superior by revealing to Daniel both the content and the interpretation of Nebuchadnezzar's dream (vv. 17–49).

FACT

The dreams of a king (2:1) had significance for his nation as a whole because dreams were thought to be the shadows of future events. If the dreams of a king could be correctly interpreted, then the appropriate actions could be taken to preserve the kingdom.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:1 In the ancient world, dreams were thought to give an indication of future events. A king's dreams had significance for the nation as a whole. The interpretation was important so that the king might prepare for or try to prevent the events the dream foretold.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:2 Nebuchadnezzar had a staff specializing in dream interpretation: the magicians, the enchanters, the sorcerers, and the Chaldeans. "Chaldeans" initially referred to a part of the Babylonian Empire. It developed into a descriptive term for a special group, known for their knowledge about magic and interpreting dreams.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:4 From this point until the end of ch. 7, the text switches from Hebrew to Aramaic, the official language of the Babylonian royal court.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:5–6 Contrary to normal procedure, the king demanded that his interpreters recount the dream itself as well as its interpretation. If the interpreters succeeded, they would be given great rewards. If they failed, they would be executed and their houses would be destroyed.

The City of Babylon

The city of Babylon reached its zenith under Nebuchadrezzar II (Nebuchadnezzar of Scripture, who reigned 605–562 B.C.). He restored and enlarged it, making it the largest city seen in the world up to that time. The Euphrates River flowed through it, with the oldest quarter of the city lying on the east bank of the river. The city was surrounded by a city wall with fortified gates that were named after the various Babylonian deities. The Esagila Complex on the east bank of the Euphrates contained the Temple of Marduk with its associated seven-storied ziggurat Etemenanki.

From Esagila, the Processional Way (its walls lined with glazed bricks with representations of lions) led to the Ishtar Gate (which was decorated with glazed brick reliefs of dragons and young bulls). Beside the Ishtar Gate stood two immense fortified palaces. A bridge led over the Euphrates to the western part of the city. No evidence of the famed Hanging Gardens of Babylon has been found, but if anything like this was ever constructed here, it would have been during this time, at the height of the city's splendor. The city was captured by Cyrus the Persian in 539 B.C.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:11 These men consider the king's demand unreasonable. No human being could know another person's dream unless it was revealed by the gods, whose dwelling is not with flesh. Their own words reveal the power of Israel's God, who does exactly what they say is impossible.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:14–24 Daniel leads his friends in praying to the true God for insight.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:15–16 Daniel requested from Arioch an appointment with the king to reveal the dream and its interpretation. This shows Daniel's faith because he did this even before God had revealed the dream to him.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:23 When God answered Daniel's prayer, he praised and thanked God for his wisdom and might.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:25–28 Arioch was eager to claim the credit for finding an interpreter for the king's dream. Daniel, however, was careful to credit God with revealing the mystery. Daniel was able to interpret it because there is a God in heaven who reveals mysteries.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:30 God made known the interpretation of the dream so that Nebuchadnezzar would know this great God controlled future events, and so that he would be aware of what was coming.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:37–38 According to Daniel's interpretation, the head of gold was Nebuchadnezzar. God gave him great authority, power, and glory. Babylon itself was an amazing achievement, with its hanging gardens (one of the famed Seven Wonders of the ancient world), many temples, and a bridge crossing the Euphrates River. Thus the head of gold is a fitting description.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:39 After Nebuchadnezzar's time there will be two more kingdoms (Medo-Persia [539–331 B.C.] and Greece [331–63 B.C.]). Each will be inferior to the previous one, though still strong and powerful.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:40 The fourth kingdom (the Roman Empire) will be strong as iron, yet also unstable.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:43–44 God will establish a kingdom that shall never be destroyed, his final kingdom, which will ultimately destroy all other kingdoms. Though it starts small, it will grow to fill the earth and endure forever. The stone that will break in pieces all these other four kingdoms is most likely Christ.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 2:46–49 Nebuchadnezzar recognized and honored Daniel's God. He also promoted Daniel and his friends within the Babylonian court, giving them further opportunity to bring peace and welfare to the city where the Lord had exiled them, as Jeremiah had counseled (Jer. 29:1–14).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:1–30 Nebuchadnezzar commands all peoples under his rule to worship a golden image. Daniel's friends refuse, out of loyalty to their God. When God delivers them from the fiery furnace, Nebuchadnezzar's respect for their God increases.

FACT

Daniel's languages. The book of Daniel was written in both Hebrew (1:1–2:3; 7:1–12:13) and Aramaic (2:4–7:28). In OT times, Aramaic was the language used by several people groups in the Middle East (see 2 Kings 18:26).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:1 The image of gold reflects the statue in Nebuchadnezzar's dream, except it is made entirely of gold. It is as if Nebuchadnezzar were asserting that there would be no other kingdoms after his. It was sixty cubits (90 feet/27 m) high and six cubits (9 feet/2.7 m) wide. Its location on a plain in Babylon recalls the Tower of Babel (Gen. 11:1–9), as does its purpose to provide a unifying center for all people.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:2 satraps. A governor of a satrapy (province).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:3 Chapter 3 repeatedly states that this was the image that King Nebuchadnezzar had set up. It is unclear whether the image represented Nebuchadnezzar or one of his gods. All of the leading officials from throughout his empire were gathered before the statue for its dedication. The unity of Nebuchadnezzar's empire was based on worship of the golden image.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:12 Certain "Chaldeans" (see note on 2:2) observed that Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego had not bowed to the statue. They charged the young men with ingratitude for the positions they held and disbelief in Nebuchadnezzar's gods.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:18 But if not. There is no doubt in the three men's minds that God has the power to save them. They also realize that God may choose not to save them.

SHADRACH, MESHACH, AND ABEDNEGO

Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego were Jewish exiles and friends of Daniel in Babylon. As he did for Daniel, God gave them a remarkable understanding of Babylonian literature and culture. They, too, were given positions of great leadership in Babylon. Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego were always faithful to God and trusted him entirely. While they showed deep respect for King Nebuchadnezzar, they were unwilling to follow any orders that would mean compromising their faith. When commanded to worship a golden image, they refused to do so, even though it meant being cast into a fiery furnace. The three men assured Nebuchadnezzar that their God was able to save them from the furnace, but that even if he chose not to save them, they would still not deny him. (Daniel 3:16–18)

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:19 In anger, Nebuchadnezzar orders the furnace superheated. Seven times more than it was usually heated is probably a figurative expression meaning “as hot as possible.”

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:22 Nebuchadnezzar’s order resulted in the death of his own soldiers. The Lord is able to protect his servants better than Nebuchadnezzar can protect his.

The Traditional View of Daniel’s Visions

	Babylonian Empire (625–539 B.C.)	Medo–Persian Empire (539–331 B.C.)	Greek Empire (331–63 B.C.)	Roman Empire (63 B.C.–A.D. 476)	Future Events
Vision of Statue (ch. 2)	head of gold (vv. 36–38)	chest and arms of silver (vv. 32, 39)	middle and thighs of bronze (vv. 32, 39)	legs of iron; feet of iron and clay (vv. 33, 40–43)	messianic kingdom: the stone (vv. 44–45)
Vision of Tree (ch. 4)	Nebuchadnezzar humbled (vv. 19–37)
Vision of Four Beasts (ch. 7)	lion with wings of eagle (v. 4)	bear raised up on one side (v. 5)	leopard with four wings and four heads (v. 6)	terrifying beast with iron teeth (v. 7)	Antichrist: little horn uttering great boasts (vv. 8–11)
Vision of Ram and Goat (ch. 8)		ram with two horns: one longer than the other (vv. 2–4)	male goat with one horn: it was broken and four horns came up (vv. 5–8); Antiochus IV (vv. 23–26)

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:24–25 Daniel’s friends were joined in the fire by a fourth individual, who had the appearance of a divine being like a son of the gods. This was either a physical appearance of Christ before his incarnation or an angel. Either way, this is a demonstration of God’s presence with believers in distress.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:27 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego were completely untouched by the fire. Their clothes were not harmed nor their hair singed, and they did not even smell of fire—a testimony to the Lord's protection.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:28 Nebuchadnezzar's question in v. 15 had been decisively answered, as he is forced to testify. Yet his heart is not yet changed: the God of whom he spoke was still the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, or their . . . God, not his own.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 3:30 Nebuchadnezzar shows that he appreciates the integrity of these men.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:1–37 Nebuchadnezzar has another dream, and Daniel again is the only one of his officials able to interpret it. This dream concerns Nebuchadnezzar's own need to acknowledge that the God of Israel is the true God. Through humiliation, Nebuchadnezzar learns that lesson.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:1–3 The narrative begins at the end of the story, with the letter of praise to God that Nebuchadnezzar wrote after his recovery. From being a persecutor of the faithful, Nebuchadnezzar has become a witness to the faith.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:7 This time Nebuchadnezzar tells the wise men of Babylon the dream.

FACT

A tree represents King Nebuchadnezzar in his dream (4:5–27). Trees can symbolize great kingdoms in the Bible. Ezekiel 31:2–9 compares Assyria to a cedar that shelters the nations. Jesus uses a tree to describe God's kingdom (Mark 4:32).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:10–16 In this dream, Nebuchadnezzar saw an enormous tree whose top touched the heavens. While Nebuchadnezzar was looking on, however, a watcher, a holy one, came down and ordered that the tree be cut down. The tree was not completely destroyed, however. Its stump would remain in the ground for seven periods of time. "Seven" signifies completion. Most scholars, however, believe that this refers to seven years.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:22 In his interpretation, Daniel identified the enormous tree as Nebuchadnezzar: it is you, O king.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:23 The image of the tree reaching to the heavens is a reminder of the Tower of Babel (Gen. 11:1–9). Such pride ends in disaster. Nebuchadnezzar, who thought of himself in godlike terms, would become beastlike so that he could learn that he is merely human. When the tree was cut down, the stump and the roots were allowed to remain, bound in iron and bronze, possibly suggesting that Nebuchadnezzar's kingdom will be protected and then established more firmly after he learned to honor the true God.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:25 Nebuchadnezzar will experience a full period of judgment, seven periods of time, in this animal-like state. When Nebuchadnezzar acknowledged that God the Most High rules the kingdom of men and gives it to whom he will, Nebuchadnezzar's kingdom will be restored to him.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:27 Therefore, O king . . . break off your sins by practicing righteousness, and . . . showing mercy to the oppressed. This appeal for repentance implied that the outcome shown to Nebuchadnezzar in the dream could be changed. If Nebuchadnezzar would humble himself, God would not need to humble him further.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:28–33 A year went by, but Nebuchadnezzar was unchanged. The view from the roof of the royal palace of Babylon included numerous ornate temples, the hanging gardens, and the outer wall of the city. As he looked at these accomplishments, Nebuchadnezzar boasted to himself of his mighty power and glory. Immediately, the sentence of judgment was announced from heaven. His royal authority was taken from him, and he was driven away from Babylon. He ate grass and lived wild in the open air like the beasts of the field, growing his hair and nails long.

FACT

The city of Babylon had some of the most impressive buildings of the ancient Near East. It was home to the famous Hanging Gardens, which was one of the Seven Wonders of the ancient world. Its outer walls were wide enough for chariots driven by four horses to pass each other.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 4:34–37 At the end of God’s appointed time of judgment, Nebuchadnezzar raised his eyes to heaven and his reason was restored. Once brought low by God, he was restored to control of his kingdom. He blessed the Most High, and praised and honored him who lives forever.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:1–31 Daniel explains to Belshazzar, the last king of Babylon, that the writing on the wall is a message that the true God rules over all. In his own time, this true God will vindicate his name against those who defile it, no matter how powerful they are.

NEBUCHADNEZZAR

Nebuchadnezzar was the powerful King of Babylon who destroyed Jerusalem and deported a number of the city’s inhabitants to his own land. When the king had a dream that only Daniel could interpret, he acknowledged the power of Daniel’s God. The mighty king had to be brought very low, however, before he turned to the Lord. After failing to heed a warning from God, Nebuchadnezzar was forced to live in the wilderness, where he ate grass and lived like an animal. At the end of God’s appointed time of judgment, however, Nebuchadnezzar turned to the Lord and he regained his sanity. God restored his kingdom to him, demonstrating that the Lord is able to humble the proud and exalt the humble. The great and mighty persecutor of Israel, the destroyer of Jerusalem, was humbled by God’s grace and brought to confess God’s mercy. (Daniel 4:28–37)

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:1–4 Belshazzar was a co-regent of Babylon c. 553–539 B.C. At the center of Belshazzar’s great feast were the vessels of gold and of silver that had been taken from the Jerusalem temple by Nebuchadnezzar. Nebuchadnezzar was not literally the father of Belshazzar; Belshazzar was the son of Nabonidus, with whom he shared co-regency during the closing years of the Babylonian monarchy. The word “father” in Aramaic, like Hebrew, can mean “ancestor” or “predecessor” (v. 2, ESV footnote). Belshazzar wanted to emphasize his direct connection to Nebuchadnezzar, who had been the greatest of all Babylonian kings.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:5–9 The fingers of a mysterious hand wrote on the plaster of the palace wall opposite the lampstand, where its message could be clearly seen. The king’s response was terror: literally, the “joints of his loins were loosened.” None of the Babylonian magicians were able to interpret the writing. Anyone who interpreted the writing would be clothed with purple, an expensive color in the ancient world, and would wear a chain of gold, a mark of high rank. He would also be the third ruler in the kingdom, which may refer to being next highest to King Nabonidus and the co-regent Belshazzar.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:10–12 The queen most likely refers to the queen mother. She reminded Belshazzar of Daniel, whose ability to solve problems had been repeatedly demonstrated during the reign of Nebuchadnezzar. Nebuchadnezzar had appointed him chief of his wise men, because the spirit of the holy gods enabled him to answer difficult questions.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:13–31 Daniel alone is able to decipher the writing on the wall. It is a message from the true God, telling of the end of the Babylonian Empire.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:18 Daniel contrasted Belshazzar with Nebuchadnezzar, to whom the Most High God gave . . . kingship and greatness and glory and majesty. Nebuchadnezzar was given godlike powers to kill and keep alive, to raise up and to humble. Yet when he became proud, God humbled him until he confessed the power of God.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:23 Belshazzar knew of Nebuchadnezzar's humbling, yet he lifted himself up . . . against the Lord of heaven by using the sacred vessels from the Jerusalem temple for an idolatrous feast.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:25 Daniel interpreted the writing . . . Mene, Mene, Tekel, and Parsin. The words are clearly Aramaic. They describe a sequence of weights, decreasing from a mina to a shekel to a half-shekel. Read as verbs, the sequence becomes: "Numbered, numbered, weighed, and divided." The Lord had numbered the days of Belshazzar's kingdom and brought it to an end because he had been judged and found lacking.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:28 As a result of God's judgment, Belshazzar's kingdom will be divided and given to the Medes and the Persians.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 5:30–31 Belshazzar gave Daniel the promised reward, but it was an empty gift. That very night Belshazzar's rule ended, when the Medes and the Persians entered Babylon. Belshazzar was killed and replaced as king by Darius the Mede. The identity of Darius the Mede and the exact nature of his relationship to Cyrus are not certain. Cyrus was already king of Persia at the time when Babylon fell to the Persians (539 B.C.).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:1–28 The events of ch. 6 recall the events of ch. 3. However, while ch. 3 took place in the Babylonian royal court, ch. 6 takes place in the court of the Medo-Persians who had conquered Babylon. Daniel refuses to treat King Darius as the gods' chief representative. When God delivers Daniel from the lions, Darius learns to respect Daniel's God.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:1–3 satraps. See note on 3:2. The three high officials oversaw the satraps' work. As one of these three, Daniel received the reward promised by Belshazzar. Daniel did such an excellent job in this role that Darius planned to set him over the whole kingdom.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:4–15 The other officials in the Medo-Persian court are jealous of Daniel's success. They conspire to get the king to issue an edict that Daniel cannot obey.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:6–7 Darius likely viewed this law as a way to unite the kingdom by identifying himself as the sole mediator between the people and the gods.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:8 the law of the Medes and the Persians, which cannot be revoked. This does not mean that Medo-Persian kings never changed their mind, but to do so would be an embarrassment.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:10 Daniel continued his practice of prostrating himself three times daily toward Jerusalem. This must have made it easy for his enemies to gather the evidence necessary to convict him.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:16–18 The mouth of the den was covered with a stone, which was then sealed with the signet rings of the king and his lords. Humanly speaking, Daniel was left all alone. Yet Darius's last words to Daniel pointed to a higher source of help: "May your God, whom you serve continually, deliver you!"

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:19–23 At break of day, Darius hurried to the lions' den. He discovered that Daniel had spent a comfortable night even though surrounded by wild animals, while Darius himself had been unable to sleep (v. 18) though surrounded by royal luxury. Because Daniel trusted in his God and was found blameless before him, God sent his angel and shut the mouths of the lions so that they were unable to hurt him.

FACT

Lions' dens (6:17) were built to house captured lions, which would be later released and hunted for sport. Ancient writings other than the Bible also include stories of people being placed in cages with predatory animals.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:24 After Daniel's release, those who had schemed against him were thrown to the same lions. Anyone who made a false accusation would be punished by receiving the same fate they had sought for their victim. The sentence was also carried out on the families of the guilty men: their children, and their wives.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:25–27 Darius, like Nebuchadnezzar, confesses the awesome power and protection of Daniel's God: he is the living God . . . his kingdom shall never be destroyed.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 6:28 This closing comment reminds the reader that most of Daniel's life was spent in exile. Yet God protected him right up to the time of King Cyrus, when Daniel's prayers for Jerusalem finally began to be answered. Cyrus was God's chosen instrument to return the Jews from exile. He issued a decree that they could return to their homeland and rebuild Jerusalem.

7:1–12:13 The Visions of Daniel. These chapters describe Daniel's apocalyptic visions, which reassure God's people that, in spite of exile and persecution, God is still in control of history and will make sure that his purposes are fulfilled.

FACT

Opening the books. Scribes recorded the daily events and activities of royal courts. These writings served as records for the archives and also could provide testimony for court hearings. Daniel's first readers would have understood quite well his vision of God opening the books (7:10).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:1–28 In the first vision, four beasts represent four mighty kings (or kingdoms); nevertheless, God's plan to exalt his faithful will be victorious.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:1–2 Daniel received the vision during the first year of Belshazzar (c. 552 B.C.). He saw that four winds of heaven were stirring up the great sea, a symbol for chaos and potential rebellion against God.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:3 This sea produced four startling creatures, one after the other, each more frightening than the preceding one. These creatures are identified in v. 17.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:4 The first beast was like a lion with eagles' wings; it had the strength and majesty of a lion combined with the speed and power of an eagle. This beast had his wings plucked off and was transformed into a man, recalling the humbling and restoration of Nebuchadnezzar. Most scholars think the lion represents Babylon.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:5 The second beast was like a bear, raised up on one side. Many scholars think this suggests the unequal power of the two countries combined in the Medo-Persian Empire. It had a mouth full of the ribs of its previous victim(s); these may have been the people Cyrus conquered to unify his nation. However, the beast was told to arise and devour even more. The three ribs could also represent the three countries that Medo-Persia conquered (Babylon, 539 B.C.; Lydia, 546; and Egypt, 525).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:6 The third beast was like another composite animal, part leopard, part bird, with four wings and four heads. It combined ferocity and speed with the ability to see in all four directions at once. But the four wings emphasize even more the element of speed. Many scholars believe this corresponds well to Alexander the Great's conquest of the known world by age 32. After his death in 323 B.C., his empire was divided among four of his generals. These four rulers are symbolized by the four heads.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:7 The fourth beast cannot be described in terms of earthly animals. It was terrifying and dreadful, exceedingly strong, with great iron teeth that devoured and crushed, and it trampled down whatever it did not eat. Its head had ten horns, symbolizing increased strength. This final, terrifying beast most likely represents the Roman Empire.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:8 Even more surprisingly, another small horn came up among the horns, uprooting three of the 10 others. This horn had eyes and a mouth that spoke arrogantly. The 10 horns likely signify 10 rulers or kingdoms. The little horn was significantly different than the others, for it had teeth of iron, claws of bronze, and eyes like the eyes of a man. It started “little” but grew up to overpower three of the other horns. Some scholars understand this horn to refer to Antiochus IV Epiphanes, but many have understood it to refer to the Antichrist.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:9–12 At the center of Daniel’s vision was the heavenly courtroom, with thrones set up for judgment. The Ancient of Days, God himself, sat on the central throne. His clothing was white as snow, representing purity. His hair was as white as pure wool, symbolizing the wisdom that comes with great age. His chariot-throne was flaming with fire, images of the divine warrior’s power to destroy his enemies. A stream of fire flowed out from before him, and angelic attendants surrounded him.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:10 Ten thousand times ten thousand is an uncountable multitude, representing not one kingdom but all the kingdoms of the earth standing before God. The books that were opened represent God’s records of the deeds of those on the earth.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:11–12 As Daniel kept watching, the boastful little horn was finally silenced: the beast was killed, and its body destroyed and given over to be burned with fire. Daniel looked back at the other beasts and their dominion was taken away, but they were not destroyed like this last beast. Their kingdoms remained for a time set by God and then were incorporated into the following kingdom.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:13–14 The one like a son of man combines human and divine traits in one person. This son of man seems also to be greater than any mere human, for to come on the clouds is a clear symbol of divine authority. This son of man is given dominion and glory and a kingdom. He will rule over the entire world forever. Thus, he must be much more than a personified representative of Israel, and certainly more than a mere angel, for no created being would have the right to rule the entire world forever. Jesus refers to himself as “son of man” more than any other title, and this role is ultimately fulfilled in Rev. 19:11–16 when Jesus comes at the end of the age to judge and rule the nations. At the end of Jesus’ earthly ministry, when he claimed to be this heavenly “son of man,” his opponents said he had committed blasphemy because he was claiming God’s power as his own.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:15–27 Daniel's vision returns to the four beasts (vv. 1–8). As for the "little" horn from the fourth beast (vv. 7–8), who made war with the saints and prevailed over them (v. 21) and who shall wear out the saints (v. 25), many take this to represent the Antichrist, whom they expect in the end times. Other interpreters think there is not enough precise data to identify the little horn. It is clear, however, that this king will blaspheme against God, oppress the saints, and try to abolish the calendar and the law, which govern how God's people worship. The saints will be handed over into his power for a time, times, and half a time (v. 25)—totaling three and a half times, or half of a total period of seven times of judgment. The angel's primary concern is the judgment to come and the triumph of the saints, rather than the identity of the little horn. The central point of the vision is that God limits the time when the beastly kingdoms of the earth will oppress the saints. In the heavenly court, the beasts will finally be destroyed.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 7:28 Daniel is stunned by the vision revealed in this chapter; he has only enough strength to think about it.

The Empires of Daniel's Visions: The Persians

c. 538–331 B.C.

After Cyrus the Great united the Median and Persian empires, he overthrew the Babylonians and established the greatest power the world had ever known. Under later rulers the Persian Empire eventually extended from Egypt and Thrace to the borders of India, and Cyrus himself declared, "the LORD, the God of heaven, has given me all the kingdoms of the earth" (2 Chron. 36:23; Ezra 1:2). Consistent with his regular policies to promote loyalty among his subjugated peoples, Cyrus immediately released the exiled Jews from their captivity in Babylon and even sponsored the rebuilding of the temple.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:1–27 In this next vision, Daniel sees what is to come of the Medo-Persian Empire, Alexander the Great's empire, and the Hellenistic empires that succeed it. The upheavals to come will mean terrible times for God's people, but they must endure, knowing that God rules over all.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:3 In this vision, Daniel saw an all-powerful ram with two horns, one of which was longer than the other. The ram represents the Medo-Persian Empire, with the higher horn representing the stronger, Persian part.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:5 a male goat came from the west. Alexander the Great came from Greece, which was to the "west" of both Babylon and Persia. without touching the ground. Alexander conquered the mighty Persian Empire with amazing speed.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:7 he was enraged. Alexander's father was king of Macedonia and brought all of Greece under his control by 336 B.C. Alexander was only 20 when his father was murdered, but he consolidated his hold on Greece and unified the Greeks.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:8 the goat became exceedingly great. Alexander the Great's kingdom extended all the way to India, exceeding any kingdom before it in size. there came up four conspicuous horns. After the death of Alexander the Great in 323 B.C., four of his generals divided his kingdom into four parts.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:9–10 A little horn grows out of one of the four horns and expands his realm. Most scholars identify this little horn as Antiochus IV Epiphanes (ruled 175–164 B.C.). Antiochus IV tried to unify his kingdom by forcing his subjects to adopt Greek cultural and religious practices. He banned circumcision, ended sacrifice at the temple in Jerusalem, and deliberately defiled the temple by sacrificing a pig on the altar and placing a pagan religious object in the Most Holy Place. This horn grew great, even to the host of heaven, and some of the stars it threw down to the ground. This probably refers to the faithful who were killed during Antiochus IV's reign.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:11 The Prince of the host probably refers to God, because of the similar expression "Prince of princes" in v. 25. the place of his sanctuary was overthrown. When the Jews refused to adopt Antiochus IV's pagan religion, he punished them severely.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:12–14 Because of renewed transgression on the part of God's people, the saints and the temple sacrifices were handed over to Antiochus IV, but only for a limited period: 2,300 evenings and mornings, or a little over six years. In the end, the little horn will be judged and the sanctuary restored to its rightful state. Unlike the less precise "time, times, and half a time" of 7:25, this period is measured in days, suggesting that God has a precise calendar for the times of his people's suffering.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:15–26 The angel Gabriel explains to Daniel that the vision concerns the future of the region, which God rules for his purposes. The vision is given to prepare God's people for the coming events, even the severe persecutions under Antiochus IV Epiphanes.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:20–22 Unlike the vision of ch. 7, the vision of 8:3–14 is precisely interpreted by the angel. The two-horned ram represents the kings of Media and Persia, of whom Cyrus, king of Persia, became the dominant partner. The goat was the king of Greece, Alexander the Great. See note on v. 8.

FACT

Gabriel is the first angel mentioned by name in the Bible (8:16; 9:21). Michael, the only other angel named in Scripture, also appears in Daniel (10:13, 21; 12:1). In the NT, Gabriel was the angel who announced the births of John the Baptist and Jesus (Luke 1:19, 26). Michael appears again in Rev. 12:7.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:23 The "little horn" of v. 9 corresponds to a king of bold face, who was completely wicked. This describes Antiochus IV Epiphanes (reigned 175–164 B.C.). See note on vv. 9–10.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:25 he shall even rise up against the Prince of princes. This title refers to God. Antiochus IV rebels against even God's legitimate sovereignty, as he shows by desecrating the temple (see note on 11:31–32).

The Empires of Daniel’s Visions: The Greeks

c. 335–303 B.C.

The ascension of Alexander the Great to the throne of the Macedonian kingdom (in northern Greece) spelled the end for the mighty Persian Empire. After gaining the loyalty of the other city-states of Greece, Alexander’s astounding military prowess and success enabled him to systematically overtake virtually all of Persia’s former territory within 12 years. Soon after he died in Babylon at age 33 (323 B.C.), Alexander’s conquered territory was divided among his generals, who constantly vied for power among each other until their territories resembled those shown here (c. 303).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 8:27 Even though Daniel did not fully understand the vision, he was nonetheless overcome and appalled, for he recognized the severity of the suffering coming on his own people. Like the other prophets, he sympathized with his people when they faced the judgment of God. Yet in spite of his deep concern for the future, he went about the king’s business.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:1–27 While reading the book of Jeremiah and realizing that the “seventy years” (v. 2) are almost over (see Jer. 29:10), Daniel turns to God in prayer, seeking mercy for Jerusalem. The angel Gabriel appears to him (Dan. 9:21) and explains that another period of 70 “sevens” is at hand for God’s people. The name Yahweh (represented by LORD, in small capital letters), not used elsewhere in Daniel, is used seven times in this chapter, emphasizing God’s covenantal relationship to his people. This vision occurs in Darius’s first year (539 B.C.), about 11 years after the one in ch. 8. Daniel appears to be over 80 years old. On the identity of Darius the Mede, see note on 5:30–31.

FACT

Daniel’s prayer. Jeremiah prophesied that God would restore his people after 70 years in Babylon (Jer. 25:11–14; 29:10). With this in mind, Daniel prays for Israel’s restoration (Dan. 9:1–19).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:1–19 Daniel knows why the exile came upon the Jewish people, and he confesses his own and his people’s sins and prays for forgiveness and mercy.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:2 Some interpreters understand the seventy years to extend from 605 B.C. to the first return of the exiles in 538, following Cyrus’s decree allowing the Jews to return. Others suggest that the 70 years extend from 586 B.C., when Nebuchadnezzar destroyed Jerusalem, to 515, when the rebuilding of the temple was completed under Zerubbabel. Jeremiah 29:10–14 suggests that at the end of the 70 years Israel will pray to God and he will hear them. This passage may suggest a time when the temple is complete and is being used for prayer. Both interpretations are reasonable, but Daniel appears to be suggesting the first interpretation. At the end of the 70 years Babylon will be punished, which fits well with the events of 539 B.C.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:3 Daniel began to pray for the restoration of God’s people to their land. Daniel also fasted and put on sackcloth and ashes.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:4 Daniel’s prayer begins with praise of God’s power and justice. Daniel pleads with God to show grace to his people.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:11 Under the terms of the Sinai covenant, the unfaithfulness that Daniel confesses in vv. 5–11 would result in the exile of God’s people from the Land of Promise. Yet when his people repented of their sins, the Lord would gather them again to the land.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:17 Daniel asked the Lord to show favor to his sanctuary and to end the exile, thus honoring his own name.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:20–27 The angel Gabriel, first seen in ch. 8, appears to Daniel and reveals that there is more to come. This is clear proof that Daniel's prayer has been heard and his request for favor has been honored by the Lord.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:24–27 There are many suggested interpretations of the seventy weeks, but there are three main views: (1) the passage refers to events surrounding Antiochus IV Epiphanes (175–164 B.C.); (2) the 70 sevens are to be understood figuratively; and (3) the passage refers to events around the time of Christ. Most scholars understand the 70 "sevens" to be made up of 70 periods of seven years, or 490 years, but they apply these years to different periods of time. (See diagram.) In any case, the important point is that God has appointed a certain amount of time until the end of his people's suffering, and thus they should not lose heart.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:24 Gabriel says Daniel's requests for his people and city will be answered. Cyrus fulfilled this when he allowed the Jews to return home. Gabriel also explains when Jerusalem will be completely cleansed. The transgression, sin, and iniquity that had led God to abandon Israel will ultimately be atoned for. God will bring everlasting righteousness, making his people into a holy nation. Because of their past neglect of the prophets' words, the Lord will seal their words as an ancient document writer might seal a letter. God will stamp the words of the prophets as authentic expressions of his mind through their fulfillment. To anoint a most holy place might refer to the sanctuary in Jerusalem and its reconsecration by Judas Maccabeus in 164 B.C. Or, it might refer to the "anointing" of the heavenly most holy place by Christ when he died. The Lord was committed to bring in the promised new covenant of Jer. 31:31–33.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:25–26 The promised restoration of God's people and sanctuary will come in three stages. The first seven periods of sevens will run from the issuing of the decree to restore and rebuild Jerusalem to the time when that rebuilding is complete. This period of restoration will be a time of trouble, as will the subsequent sixty-two periods of sevens after the city had been rebuilt. The messianic ruler will make his appearance at the end of these 69 sevens. Even the appearing of this anointed one, a prince, will not immediately usher in the peace and righteousness that Jer. 31:31–33 anticipated. Instead, the anointed one will himself be cut off, leaving him with nothing, surely a reference to the crucifixion of Christ. After the cutting off of the anointed one, the people of the prince who is to come will destroy Jerusalem and its sanctuary. Many commentators understand this “coming prince” as a reference to the Roman general Titus, whose army destroyed Jerusalem in A.D. 70, or as a reference to a future antichrist. Other interpreters understand him to be the same “anointed prince” anticipated in Dan. 9:25. This person is addressed as “anointed one,” where the focus is on his priestly work of offering himself as a sacrifice, and as a “ruler” whose people fail to submit to his rule. The principal cause of the destruction of the city and temple of Jerusalem in A.D. 70 was the transgression of God’s people in rejecting the Messiah that God had sent to them (Luke 19:41–44).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 9:27 he shall put an end to sacrifice and offering. In one interpretation, this refers to Christ’s atonement. With the death of Jesus on the cross, the atoning sacrifices of the OT were abolished. In another interpretation, if “the prince who is to come” (v. 26) is not the Messiah but an opponent of God’s people, then “he shall put an end to sacrifice and offering” means he will destroy the temple, and thus the prediction refers to the destruction of Jerusalem. A third interpretation argues that this will be fulfilled at the end of the church age, during the great tribulation. The final part of v. 27 is extremely difficult to translate. Literally, it reads, “In the middle of that seven, he will put an end to sacrifice and offering, and on account of the extremity [or “wing”] of abominations that cause desolation, until the end that has been decreed, it will be poured out unto desolation.” On the connection of abominations and makes desolate, see note on 11:31–32.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:1–12:13 Conflicts on earth reflect conflicts in the heavens, and this will continue to the end, when God will ultimately win the battle.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:1–11:1 A heavenly visitor tells Daniel about conflict in heaven. He explains that he has met resistance from other spiritual powers. He has come to tell Daniel about future events.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:1 Chapters 10–12 form a single vision, received in the third year of Cyrus king of Persia. Two years earlier, the first party of Jewish exiles had returned to Jerusalem, but they faced severe opposition and had stopped their rebuilding work.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:2–3 As a sign of identification with the trials of his brothers and sisters in Judah, Daniel was in mourning for three weeks. He went without meat or wine and did not use the lotions that made life more comfortable.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:5–6 Daniel received a vision of a heavenly being, dressed in linen, with a belt of fine gold . . . around his waist. His body glowed with inner light, like beryl, a gemstone. His face shone like lightning. His eyes were like torches and his arms and legs like polished bronze. The sound of his words echoed like the roar of a crowd. Yet this glorious figure was unable to complete his task without the help of Michael (v. 13), so it is unlikely that this is a physical manifestation of God or Christ.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:10–12 This messenger encouraged Daniel by telling him that he was greatly loved by God. He had been sent to Daniel to give him insight in response to his prayer about the situation in Jerusalem.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:13 The angelic messenger was delayed on his journey twenty-one days by the prince of the kingdom of Persia, an evil angel associated with the Persian Empire. Although this spiritual opponent was powerful enough to delay God’s messenger for a period of three weeks, all he could do was delay him. When Michael, one of the chief princes, came to help him, the angel was finally able to complete his journey.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:15–16 On hearing of the power of the evil spiritual forces, Daniel was overtaken by such a sense of weakness that he was bowed to the ground, unable even to speak until the angel touched him on the lips.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:20 The angel declared that he would return to the fight against the prince of Persia, and after that against the prince of Greece.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 10:21 The book of truth most likely refers to God’s plan for Israel and the world.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:1 Mention of the first year of Darius the Mede (539 B.C.) is significant since it was the year when the decree was issued that allowed the Jews to return to their homeland.

The Empires of Daniel's Visions: The Ptolemies and the Seleucids (Early)

c. 323–198 B.C.

The two most powerful successors to Alexander, Ptolemy and Seleucus, continued to expand their domains into territory claimed by other generals of Alexander, and they repeatedly clashed with each other over land along the eastern coast of the Mediterranean Sea, including the land later called Palestine.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:2 Three more kings will arise in Persia after Cyrus, and then a fourth, who will be richer and more powerful than the others. This fourth king was Xerxes I (486–464 B.C.), who invaded Greece, only to be defeated at the Battle of Salamis (480).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:3 The prophecy skips over several lesser Persian kings to focus on the mighty king who will bring down the Persian Empire and rule a vast realm. He is Alexander the Great (336–323 B.C.). See note on 7:6.

FACT

The mighty king mentioned in 11:3 is Alexander the Great, who reigned from 336 to 323 B.C. Alexander created one of the largest empires in ancient history, stretching from Greece to India. He brought the Greek language and culture to the Middle East, which is why the NT was originally written in Greek.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:4 as soon as he has arisen, his kingdom shall be broken and divided toward the four winds of heaven. See note on 8:8.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:5 Ptolemy I Soter (323–285 B.C., king of the south) was a very capable general under Alexander. He became ruler of Egypt. About the same time, Seleucus I Nicator (king of the north) started out as a lesser general under Alexander and was given Babylon to rule. One of the other generals, Antigonus I Monophthalmus, took over Babylon and caused Seleucus to flee (c. 316 B.C.) to Ptolemy I Soter in Egypt to serve under him. Thus for a short time Seleucus I became one of his princes. Then Antigonus was defeated at Gaza in 312 B.C., and Seleucus returned to Babylon to retake his former authority. He increased significantly in power and took over the areas of Babylon, Syria, and Media, so that he was stronger than Ptolemy I Soter.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:6 the daughter of the king of the south shall come to the king of the north to make an agreement. There was constant conflict between the Ptolemaic (Egyptian) and Seleucid (Syrian) kingdoms. Around 250 B.C. there was an attempt at peace. Ptolemy II Philadelphus (reigned 285–246; “the king of the south”) sent his daughter Berenice to marry Antiochus II Theos (reigned 261–246; “the king of the north”). Antiochus II then planned to divorce his first wife, Laodice, and disinherit her sons so that he could marry Berenice and have a child who would rule over the Seleucid kingdom. But Laodice had Antiochus II and Berenice poisoned, fulfilling the words she shall not retain the strength of her arm and he and his arm shall not endure.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:7–9 Egypt’s Ptolemy II was succeeded by Berenice’s brother, Ptolemy III Euergetes I (reigned 246–221 B.C.), a branch from her roots. In retaliation for the death of his sister, Ptolemy III invaded the Seleucid kingdom and conquered its capital, Antioch (He shall come against the army and enter the fortress of the king of the north). He took the Syrian gods and other precious vessels of silver and gold. He even returned to Egypt some of the sacred idols taken by the Persian monarch Cambyses in 524 B.C. when he had sacked the Egyptian temples. Afterward Ptolemy III made a peace treaty with Seleucus II Callinicus (reigned 246–226 B.C.) and he did refrain from attacking them so that he could work on expanding his kingdom in the Aegean area. Verse 9 says that Seleucus II shall come into the realm of the king of the south, but there is no record of such an invasion, and he must have retreated hastily (shall return to his own land).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:10 After Seleucus II Callinicus's death in 226 B.C., his sons continued fighting with the Ptolemies. Seleucus III was murdered after a short reign, but his brother took the disorganized state and made it a strong nation. In 219–218 B.C. Antiochus III advanced through Phoenicia and Palestine as far as the Ptolemies' fortress in Raphia.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:11–12 Ptolemy IV Philopator (reigned 221–204 B.C., king of the south) responded quickly to Antiochus III's advances. Antiochus III was defeated at Raphia. Antiochus III's losses were very high (Ptolemy IV cast down tens of thousands), yet Ptolemy IV's victory was short-lived (he shall not prevail).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:13 After about 15 years, Antiochus III (the Great, reigned 223–187 B.C., the king of the north) invaded Phoenicia and Syria with a great army. Ptolemy IV had died (203 B.C.), and Antiochus III intended to use the instability around the young new king, Ptolemy V Epiphanes (reigned 203–180 B.C.), to his advantage. It worked, at least initially, and by 201 B.C. the fortress of Gaza had been recaptured.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:14 There was instability in the beginning of Ptolemy V Epiphanes's reign (many shall rise against the king of the south). A large number of Jews were tired of the heavy taxation, and thus preferred to be ruled by the Seleucids. Many Jews revolted (the violent among your own people) against Egyptian rule. General Scopas of the Egyptian army, angered at their rebellion, punished the leaders of Jerusalem and Judah.

The Empires of Daniel's Visions: The Ptolemies and the Seleucids (Late)

c. 198–133 B.C.

By the second century B.C., the Seleucid Empire was losing its grip on much of its territory, and the Roman Empire was rapidly expanding throughout the Mediterranean world. In an attempt to unite his empire and shore up his defenses against these pressures, Antiochus IV Epiphanes imposed a strict policy of Hellenization over his domain, which now included the land of Israel. His policy proved too abhorrent for many Jews, including the Maccabean (also called Hasmonean) family, and in 167 B.C. they led a revolt that established a new, independent kingdom of Israel.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:15–16 Antiochus III the Great (the king of the north) fought against General Scopas and the forces of the south at the battle of Panium, a well-fortified city, in 198 B.C. The Egyptian forces were soundly defeated and they fled to Sidon, where General Scopas finally surrendered. Antiochus took control of Phoenicia and Palestine, which remained under Syrian control until Pompey's invasion in 63 B.C. established Roman rule.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:17–19 After General Scopas's surrender, Egypt was forced into an alliance with the Syrians. Antiochus III the Great even gave his daughter, Cleopatra (not the famous one from a later period), to Ptolemy V in marriage. Antiochus III hoped that her offspring would rule over Egypt to give him further power, but Cleopatra supported Ptolemy V Epiphanes instead of her father (it shall not stand or be to his advantage). Verses 18–19 record Antiochus III’s initial successes in the region of the coastlands (a reference to Asia Minor and possibly also mainland Greece). Ultimately he was defeated by Roman and Greek troops. The Romans forced him to sign a treaty at Apanea in 188 B.C. and surrender territory, much of his military force, and 20 hostages (one was his son Antiochus IV Epiphanes). He was also forced to pay a large tribute to Rome. He returned home and was killed by an angry mob (he shall stumble and fall) while he was trying to steal from a temple of Zeus in Elymais to pay for the heavy tribute to Rome.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:20 Seleucus IV Philopater (reigned 187–175 B.C.) succeeded his father, Antiochus III the Great. Seleucus IV sent a “tax collector,” Heliodorus, to collect the money to pay Rome their yearly tribute of 1,000 talents. He even tried to steal from the temple in Jerusalem, but decided against it after being terrified by a dream. Seleucus IV was not killed in anger, or in battle, but was poisoned by Heliodorus.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:21–23 In his place shall arise a contemptible person. Antiochus IV Epiphanes (reigned 175–164 B.C.) is the “little horn” of ch. 8. He took the name Antiochus “Epiphanes,” but others called him “Epimanes” (“madman”). Seleucus IV Philopater’s son, Demetrius I Soter, was the rightful heir to the throne. He was imprisoned in Rome, so Antiochus IV Epiphanes took the throne, even though royal majesty had not been given to him. He paid off important people for supporting him (obtain the kingdom by flatteries). Ptolemy VI Philometer (reigned 181–145 B.C.) of Egypt came against Antiochus IV but was defeated and held as a hostage. Later Ptolemy VI (the prince of the covenant) made an alliance with Antiochus IV to regain his throne because his brother (Ptolemy VIII Euergetes II Physcon) had taken it while he was imprisoned in Syria. This worked, and he received his throne back. Later he broke this covenant and joined with his brother Ptolemy VIII to force Antiochus IV out of Pelusium, one of Egypt’s fortress cities.

FACT

The reign of Antiochus IV Epiphanes (175–164 B.C.) was disastrous for the Jews (11:21–35; see 8:9–14, 23–25). He banned circumcision, ended the sacrifices, and defiled the temple. Judas Maccabeus led a revolt against him in 167 B.C.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:24 Without warning, Antiochus IV Epiphanes retaliated and stole from some of the richest parts of Egypt's territory. He appeared to divide the goods among his soldiers, but his grand plans against Egypt's strongholds lasted only for a time.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:25–27 These verses appear to refer to the events of Antiochus IV Epiphanes's first battle with Egypt and explain in more detail why Ptolemy VI Philometer was defeated. Ptolemy VI's own trusted counselors (those who eat his food) encouraged him to go against Antiochus IV (his uncle), and he was defeated. Then the two kings, Antiochus IV and Ptolemy VI (now the former's prisoner), made a covenant to regain control of Egypt from Ptolemy VI's brother, Ptolemy VIII. Neither king intended to keep the covenant (they shall speak lies to each other). Their alliance had initial success capturing Memphis, but it failed to capture all of Egypt. Ptolemy VIII continued to rule in Alexandria. Later the two brothers, Ptolemy VI and Ptolemy VIII, joined forces and ruled together over all of Egypt.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:28 Antiochus IV Epiphanes returned to his land after raiding Egypt in 169 B.C. On his way home he stopped in Palestine and found a rebellion going on. He dealt viciously with the Jews (his heart shall be set against the holy covenant), killing eighty thousand men, women, and children and looting the temple. The Jews were furious at the brutality of this ruler and began a full-fledged revolt.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:29–30 In 168 B.C. (that is, the time appointed by God) Antiochus IV Epiphanes invaded Egypt again. This time he met with a humiliating defeat. The Romans had joined forces with the Ptolemies, and Antiochus IV was no match for the Roman army. In 167 B.C. he turned his anger toward Palestine (and be enraged and take action against the holy covenant) and sent his chief tax collector, Apollonius, to Jerusalem. Initially Apollonius appeared to come in peace, but on the Sabbath he began killing people and looting the city. He also rewarded those Jews who supported the Hellenistic policies.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:31–32 Later in 167 B.C., Syrian forces came back to stop the Jewish religious practices. They entered the temple. They stopped the regular burnt offering, and on the fifteenth day of Chislev (December), 167 B.C., they set up an altar or idol devoted to Zeus (Jupiter) in the temple (the abomination that makes desolate; compare 9:27; 12:11). They then offered up sacrifices (likely swine) on the altar. This act is commonly called the “abomination of desolation,” which comes from the translation of the Greek phrase. This is the background for Jesus’ prediction of “the abomination of desolation spoken of by the prophet Daniel” (Matt. 24:15–16). Antiochus IV’s flattery enticed some of the Jews to turn against the covenant. But some faithful Jews (those who know their God) chose to stand strong and die rather than go against God’s laws, and many did die.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:33–35 the wise among the people shall make many understand. This likely refers to those who truly fear God and who will encourage others to fight and even die rather than offer unclean sacrifices to God. In this time of persecution, the nation will receive a little help, which probably refers to the small forces that initially rebelled against the Syrians in Modein, 17 miles (27 km) northwest of Jerusalem. They were led by Mattathias, a priest, and later by his third son Judas Maccabeus. The rest of v. 34 probably has in view the many who would join themselves to the Maccabean rebellion out of necessity to save their lives, though it may more specifically refer to those who joined with the Maccabeans and killed those who were sympathetic to the Seleucids. Some of the wise shall stumble likely describes true believers who will die in this persecution. Through this persecution they will be refined, purified, and made white.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:36 Toward the end of the prophecy, the focus of the vision seems to shift. It now addresses a situation that is greater than the persecution under Antiochus IV. The remainder of the chapter is often thought to deal with the “Antichrist,” which many believe is the figure described in 2 Thess. 2:3–4; Rev. 13:5–8. Though Antiochus IV was powerful, he was able to do as he wills only up to a point, since the Romans were much more powerful than he.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:37–38 Antiochus IV viewed himself as a god, as his nickname “Epiphanes” (“[god] manifest”) made clear. But it is doubtful that he fulfilled the prophecy that he shall magnify himself above all. He abandoned the gods of his fathers, including Apollo, and showed no regard for the one beloved by women, probably the god Adonis or Dionysius. Instead, he worshiped Zeus, a god who embodied military strength. All these were Greek gods, so there is some question as to whether Antiochus IV abandoned “the gods of his fathers.” Instead, the person being described will worship the god of fortresses and will spend lavishly to support this strength.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:39 The passage probably speaks of a future king, one who will truly "do as he wills," will deal with the strongest fortresses, and will make his followers rulers over many. Many interpreters see here another prediction of the Antichrist, whom they connect to the "little horn" of ch. 7 and the ruler of 9:26 who is to come.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:40–41 At the time of the end there will be a major battle where armies will come from the north and the south to attack this powerful ruler in the land of Israel (the glorious land). Edom and Moab and the main part of the Ammonites will escape from him, possibly because of their connection with Israel or because they are out of his way.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 11:44–45 One striking difference between Antiochus IV Epiphanes and the Antichrist lies in the events surrounding the king's death. Antiochus IV died during a relatively minor campaign against Persia in 164 B.C., not between the sea and Jerusalem after a grand and successful assault on Egypt. When compared to the precision of fulfillment of the early verses of ch. 11, these later verses may be looking for a greater fulfillment that is yet to come at the time of the end. the glorious holy mountain. This is the Temple Mount in Jerusalem.

The Maccabean Kingdom

c. 167–63 B.C.

The Maccabean kingdom of Israel had its beginnings when the priest Mattathias and his family refused to obey the Seleucid rulers' order to sacrifice to the pagan god Zeus at Modein. They led a revolt that initially controlled only the territory of Judea in the vicinity of Jerusalem. Over the next hundred years, however, the Maccabean rulers slowly added portions of territory to the kingdom until it resembled the borders of the territory allotted to the Israelite tribes by Joshua.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:1–4 A time of trouble unlike any other is a desperate time. Sometime afterward there will be a resurrection of the dead. Those who were faithful in life, everyone whose name shall be found written in the book, will rise to everlasting life in glory, while the others will rise to shame and everlasting contempt. The faithful will shine brightly like the stars forever and ever. However, in the meantime, Daniel was instructed to shut up the words and seal the book. He was to do this because the message of the book was not fully understandable, and also to keep the message safe for future generations of God’s people to read.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:5–13 Daniel and his angelic companion ask the divine messenger two related questions: How long shall it be till the end of these wonders? And what shall be the outcome of these things? The answer to the question “How long?” has two parts: “for a time, times, and half a time” and for “1,290 days.” Revelation 11:3 and 12:6 apparently look back to this idea, though the number in those two verses is 1,260 days. “A time, times, and half a time” (probably three and a half times) focuses on the limited nature of this period as half of a complete period of judgment.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:10 Those who are wise will be able to determine specifically when the three and a half years of the tribulation start, namely, “from the time that the regular burnt offering is taken away.”

FACT

Purity. In 12:10, “white” symbolizes purity, as in clothing that is clean rather than dirty (see 7:9). “Refined” means purified or cleansed. Revelation similarly pictures saints wearing white clothes (Rev. 4:4; 7:13–14; 19:8).

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:11 The specification of 1,290 days emphasizes the precision with which the period is measured, predetermined by God to the very day. In this time many will purify themselves, and their enemies will shatter the Jewish nation. Then God will step in to defend them.

DANIEL—NOTE ON 12:12–13 The additional figure of 1,335 days, 45 days longer than the 1,290-day period, heightens the sense of mystery that surrounds the Lord’s timing and emphasizes the need for the saints to persevere under suffering. God’s people are to go on living faithfully in this corrupt world, confident of the inheritance that is stored up for them at the end of the days.

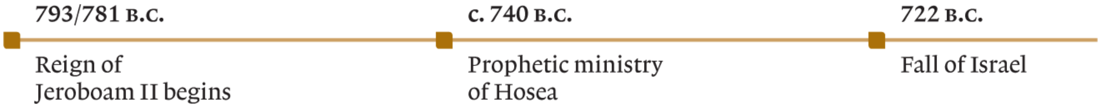
Introduction to Hosea

Introduction to Hosea

Timeline



Author and Date

Hosea prophesied during the latter half of the eighth century B.C. (c. 753–722 B.C.). This period was an extremely difficult time in Israel's history, just before the northern kingdom went into exile.

Audience and Purpose

Hosea's primary audience was Ephraim (another name for the northern kingdom, Israel), which is mentioned 35 times in the book. Hosea wanted to see Israel turn back to God.

Background and Overview

Israel is the Lord's bride, but Israel has instead joined itself to Baal, the false god worshiped in Syria-Palestine. Worshiping Baal violates the first of the Ten Commandments (Ex. 20:3). It is also a betrayal of God's intimate union with his people. Therefore Hosea describes it as spiritual adultery, an offense against the marriage between the Lord and Israel. He compares Israel's spiritual unfaithfulness to the ingratitude of a wayward wife. Such unfaithfulness justifies the Lord's coming judgment. But punishment is not ultimately what the Lord wants for his people. He desires that they leave their sin. He wants them to return to the One who first loved them and who can provide what is best for them.

Key Themes

1. Hosea frequently refers to the Pentateuch, the foundation of Israel’s relationship to God (e.g., 1:10; 6:7; 7:13; 9:6–10; 11:1–4; 12:2–5, 9–10, 12–13; 13:4–6).
2. Hosea stresses divine sovereignty. God speaks in the first person, “I,” almost a hundred times in the book.
3. Hosea’s personal life illustrates the Lord’s compassion (chs. 1–3).
4. Isolation/exile, which is coming upon Israel, is a way to restoration (1:6–7; 2:14–23; 5:6–6:3; 11:8–11; 12:9).

Outline

Chapters 1–3 use Hosea’s own marriage as a parable for the relationship between God and Israel. The dominant image is of Israel as an unfaithful wife. Chapters 4–14 detail the comparison, with its series of accusations, warnings, appeals, and motivations for God’s people to return.

The Near East at the Time of Hosea

c. 740 B.C.

Hosea prophesied to Israel and Judah during the decades leading up to the fall of the northern kingdom to Assyria. The resurgence of this ancient empire dominated much of the politics of the ancient Near East from the time of Jeroboam until Assyria’s demise at the end of the seventh century B.C.

The Global Message of Hosea

Hosea in Redemptive History

The book of Hosea depicts God's relationship with his people through a metaphor that occurs throughout the Bible, though nowhere as strongly and pervasively as in Hosea: the metaphor of marriage. The Lord has yoked himself to Israel in the most intimate way, likened to the most profound of human relationships. Tragically, however, Israel has proven faithless—in the Lord's stark terms, they have "played the whore" (Hos. 2:5). God's people have committed spiritual adultery, going after other gods and forsaking their sacred relationship with the Lord.

Embedded within the book of Hosea, then, is a powerful and ever-relevant reminder for God's people around the world and down through time. God has bound himself to his people in the most personal, self-giving way possible. He is theirs; they are his. He and they belong to one another. They have committed themselves to one another. It is nothing less than adultery when members of God's church forsake him to flirt with the idols of this world, whatever form those idols may take in various parts of the world.

Hosea's prophecy comes in the eighth century B.C., as Assyria is threatening to invade Israel and exile God's people out of the Promised Land. After rescuing his people from Egyptian bondage and bringing them into this land (Exodus—Joshua), God had granted Israel's wish for a human king to rule over them (1 Samuel), yet Israel's kings have continually proved faithless (1 Samuel—2 Chronicles). God is therefore about to bring Assyria to conquer and exile Israel.

For the sake of David and the covenant made with him, however (2 Samuel 7), God will restore the kingship one day, and thus restore the people (see Hos. 3:5). This restoration ultimately comes in Jesus, the true and final Son of David (Matt. 21:9; Rev. 22:16), who restores the kingdom (Mark 1:15) and will one day cause every knee all over the world to bow to him (Phil. 2:9–11; 1 Cor. 15:24–28).

Universal Themes in Hosea

The horror of faithlessness to God. The importance of remaining steadfastly loyal to the Lord is not a regional concern; all God's people in all parts of the world are constantly tempted to compromise or even abandon faithfulness to God. The specific forms of temptation vary—what tempts a French believer living in downtown Paris will differ from what entices a Chilean believer living in the rural Andes mountains. Wherever we live, however, the core battle remains: will we be faithful to God, or will we commit spiritual adultery, trusting in the gods of the age in our particular corner of the world?

God's deep compassion for his people. Despite his people's utter faithlessness over many generations, God cannot forsake them once and for all. "How can I give you up, O Ephraim? How can I hand you over, O Israel? . . . My heart recoils within me; my compassion grows warm and tender" (Hos. 11:8). God speaks to his wayward people in terms of deep affection. He has bound himself to them, and while he must discipline them, even the pain of discipline will serve to restore them (1:6–7; 2:14–23; 3:1–5; 11:8–11; 14:4–5). Believers today can be confident that as they trust him wholeheartedly, they cannot finally be separated from the Lord's love for them, even amid suffering, persecution, sickness, and economic hardship.

Divine sovereignty and rule. Almost one hundred times throughout Hosea, God speaks in the first person: "I . . ." It is the Lord who will judge his people; it is the Lord who will bring punishments on his people; and yet it is the Lord who will have mercy on his people. The affairs of his covenant people, and the affairs of the nations of the world, are in God's hand. This is great encouragement for believers around the world today.

The Global Message of Hosea for Today

The book of Hosea is rich in relevance for the church today. Because Hosea describes God's relationship with his people in terms of marriage, we learn of the significance God attaches both to the institution of marriage as well as to the church's relationship to God.

Human marriage. The divine institution of marriage (see Gen. 2:24; Matt. 19:3–6) is foundational to the flourishing of human society. Around the world today, however, various cultural pressures threaten to weaken this institution. Polygamy, homosexuality, adultery, fatherlessness, and gender confusion are rampant in different parts of the world. Through the prophecy of Hosea believers are strengthened as we see the significance of the covenant bond formed when one man and one woman become one flesh. We also see that when a spouse is unfaithful, God can restore the marriage—for God, supremely in Christ, has restored us to himself despite our faithlessness. He refuses to divorce his people.

Divine marriage. Hosea sobers us with the realization that the human marriage relationship is instituted by God to portray an even more profound relationship: that of God to his people. Wherever human beings call on God's name through Jesus Christ, regardless of ethnicity or cultural background, God enters into a covenant relationship with them. God pledges never to leave or forsake his people in this relationship. They will be his people, and he will be their God (Jer. 24:7; 31:33; Ezek. 37:27; Zech. 8:8). Ultimately, God secures this relationship through sending his own Son to redeem a people for himself. The worldwide church is therefore the Bride of Christ (Eph. 5:32; Rev. 21:9).

HOSEA 1 [†]The word of the LORD that came to Hosea, the son of Beeri, [a] in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, and in the days of [b] Jeroboam the son of Joash, king of Israel.

Hosea's Wife and Children

[2][†]When the LORD first spoke through Hosea, the LORD said to Hosea, [c] "Go, take to yourself a wife of whoredom and have [d] children of whoredom, for [e] the land commits great whoredom by forsaking the LORD."
[3][†]So he went and took Gomer, the daughter of Diblaim, and she conceived and bore him a son.

[4][†]And the LORD said to him, "Call his name Jezreel, for in just a little while [f] I will punish the house of Jehu for the blood of Jezreel, and [g] I will put an end to the kingdom of the house of Israel. [5]And on that day [h] I will break the bow of Israel [i] in the Valley of Jezreel."

[6][†]She conceived again and bore a daughter. And the LORD said to him, [j] "Call her name No Mercy, [1] for [k] I will no more have mercy on the house of Israel, to forgive them at all. [7]But [l] I will have mercy on the house of Judah, and I will save them by the LORD their God. I [m] will not save them by bow or by sword or by war or by horses or by horsemen."

[8][†]When she had weaned No Mercy, she conceived and bore a son.
[9]And the LORD said, [n] "Call his name Not My People, [2] for [o] you are not my people, and I am not your God." [3]

[10][†] [4] Yet [p] the number of the children of Israel shall be [q] like the sand of the sea, which cannot be measured or numbered. [r] And [s] in the place where it was said to them, [o] "You are not my people," it shall be said to them, [t] "Children [5] of [u] the living God." [11][†]And [v] the children of Judah and the children of Israel shall be gathered together, and [w] they shall appoint for themselves one head. And they shall go up from the land, for great shall be the day of Jezreel.

Israel's Unfaithfulness Punished

HOSEA 2 [†] [1] Say to your brothers, [x] "You are my people," [2] and to your sisters, [y] "You have received mercy." [3]

[2][†] “Plead with your mother, plead—for [z] she is not my wife, and I am not her husband—
that she put away [a] her whoring from her face, and her adultery from between her breasts;
[3] lest [b] I strip her naked and make her as [c] in the day she was born, and [d] make her like a wilderness,
and make her like a parched land,
and kill her with thirst.
[4][†] [e] Upon her children also I will have no mercy,
[f] because they are children of whoredom.
[5] For [g] their mother has played the whore;
she who conceived them has acted shamefully.
For [h] she said, ‘I will go after my lovers,
who [i] give me my bread and my water,
my wool and my flax, my oil and my drink.’
[6][†] Therefore [j] I will hedge up her [4] way with thorns, and [k] I will build a wall against her,
so that she cannot find her paths.
[7] She shall pursue her lovers
but not overtake them,
and she shall seek them
but shall not find them.
[l] Then she shall say,
‘I will go and return to [m] my first husband,
[l] for it was better for me then than now.’
[8][†] And [n] she did not know that it was [o] I who gave her [p] the grain, the wine, and the oil, and who lavished on [q] her silver and gold,
[r] which they used for Baal.
[9] Therefore [s] I will take back my grain in its time,

and my wine in its season,
and [s] I will take away my wool and my flax,
which were to cover her nakedness.
10 Now [t] I will uncover her lewdness in the sight of her lovers,
and no one shall rescue her out of my hand.
11 [u] And I will put an end to all her mirth, her feasts, her [v] new moons, her [v] Sabbaths,
and all her [w] appointed feasts.
12 And [x] I will lay waste her vines and her fig trees, [y] of which she said,
'These are [z] my wages,
which my lovers have given me.'
I will make them a forest,
[a] and the beasts of the field shall devour them.
13 And [b] I will punish her for [c] the feast days of the Baals when she burned offerings to them and [d] adorned herself with her ring and jewelry, and went after her lovers and forgot me, declares the LORD.

The LORD's Mercy on Israel

14[†] "Therefore, behold, I will allure her,
and [e] bring her into the wilderness,
and [f] speak tenderly to her.
15[†] And there I will give her her vineyards and make the Valley of Achor [5] a door of hope.
And there she shall answer [g] as in the days of her youth, as at the time when she came out of the land of Egypt.

16[†]"And [h] in that day, declares the LORD, you will call me 'My Husband,' and no longer will you call me 'My Baal.' 17For [i] I will remove the names of the Baals from her mouth, and they shall be remembered by name no more. 18And [j] I will make for them a covenant on that day with the beasts of the field, the birds of the heavens, and the creeping things of the ground. And [k]I will abolish [6] the bow, the sword, and war from the land, and I will make you lie down in [l]safety. [19][†]And I will betroth you to me [m]forever. [n]I will betroth you to me in righteousness and in justice, in steadfast love and in mercy. [20] [n]I will betroth you to me in faithfulness. And [o]you shall know the LORD.

[21][†] “And [p]in that day [q]I will answer, declares the LORD,
  I will answer the heavens,
  and they shall answer the earth, [22] and the earth shall answer the grain, the wine, and the oil, and they shall answer [r]Jezreel, [7]
  [23] and [s]I will sow her for myself in the land.
And [t]I [u]will have mercy on No Mercy, [8] and [v]I will say to Not My People, [9] [w]‘You are my people’;
  and he shall say, ‘You are my God.’”

Hosea Redeems His Wife

HOSEA 3 [†]And the LORD said to me, [x]“Go again, love a woman who is loved by another man and is an adulteress, even as the LORD loves the children of Israel, though they turn to other gods and love cakes of raisins.” [2][†]So I bought her for fifteen shekels of silver and a [y]homer and a lethech [1] of barley. [3][†]And I said to her, “You must [z]dwell as mine for many days. You shall not play the whore, or belong to another man; so will I also be to you.” [4]For the children of Israel [z]shall dwell many days [a]without king or prince, [b]without sacrifice or [c]pillar, without [d]ephod or [e]household gods. [5][†]Afterward [f]the children of Israel shall return and [g]seek the LORD their God, and [h]David their king, [i]and they shall come in fear to the LORD and to his goodness in the [j]latter days.

The LORD Accuses Israel

HOSEA 4 [†] [k]Hear the word of the LORD, O children of Israel, for [l]the LORD has a controversy with the inhabitants of the land.

There is no faithfulness or steadfast love,
and [m] no knowledge of God in the land;
2 [n] there is swearing, lying, murder, stealing, and committing adultery;
they break all bounds, and [o] bloodshed follows bloodshed.
3 Therefore [p] the land mourns, and all who dwell in it languish, [q] and also the beasts of the field and the birds of the heavens, [r] and even the fish of the sea are taken away.

4 [s] Yet let no one contend,
and let none accuse,
for with you is [t] my contention, O priest. [1] 5[†] You shall stumble by day;
the prophet also shall stumble with you by night;
and I will destroy [u] your mother.
6[†] My people are destroyed [v] for lack of knowledge;
[w] because you have rejected knowledge,
I reject you [x] from being a priest to me.
And since you have forgotten the law of your God,
[y] I also will forget your children.

7 [z] The more they increased,
the more they sinned against me;
[a] I will change their glory into shame.
8 [b] They feed on the sin [2] of my people;
they are greedy for their iniquity.
9 [c] And it shall be like people, like priest;
I will punish them for their ways and repay them for their deeds.
10[†] [d] They shall eat, but not be satisfied;
they shall play the whore, but not multiply,
because they have forsaken the LORD to cherish 11whoredom, wine, and new wine, which [e] take away the understanding.

12[†] My people [f]inquire of a piece of wood,
and their walking staff gives them oracles.
For [g]a spirit of whoredom has led them astray,
and they have left their God to play the whore.
13 [h]They sacrifice on the tops of the mountains and burn offerings on the hills, [i]under oak, poplar, and terebinth, because their shade is good.
Therefore your daughters play the whore,
and your brides commit adultery.
14[†] I will not punish your daughters when they play the whore, nor your brides when they commit adultery;
for [j]the men themselves go aside with prostitutes and sacrifice with [k]cult prostitutes, and a people [l]without understanding shall come to ruin.

15[†] Though you play the whore, O [m]Israel, let not [m]Judah become guilty.
[n]Enter not into [o]Gilgal, nor go up to [p]Beth-aven,
and swear not, “As the Lord lives.”
16 Like a stubborn heifer, Israel is stubborn;
can the Lord now feed them like a lamb in a broad pasture?

17 [q]Ephraim is joined to idols;
[r]leave him alone.
18 When their drink is gone, they give themselves to whoring;
[s]their rulers [3] dearly love shame.
19 [t]A wind has wrapped them [4] in its wings,
and they shall [u]be ashamed because of their sacrifices.

Punishment Coming for Israel and Judah

HOSEA 5 [†] [v] Hear this, O priests!
Pay attention, O house of Israel!
Give ear, O house of the king!
For the judgment is for you;
for [w] you have been a snare at Mizpah and a net spread upon [x] Tabor.
2 And [y] the revolters [z] have gone deep into slaughter, but [a] I will discipline all of them.

3 [b] I know Ephraim,
and Israel is not hidden from me;
for now, O Ephraim, you have played the whore;
Israel is defiled.
4 [c] Their deeds do not permit them to return to their God.
For [d] the spirit of whoredom is within them,
and they know not the Lord.

5 [e] The pride of Israel testifies to his face; [1]
Israel and [f] Ephraim shall stumble in his guilt;
[f] Judah also shall stumble with them.
6 [g] With their flocks and herds they shall go to seek the Lord,
[g] but they will not find him;
[h] he has withdrawn from them.
7 [i] They have dealt faithlessly with the Lord;
for they have borne alien children.
Now the new moon shall devour them with their fields.

8 [j] Blow the horn in [k] Gibeah,
the trumpet in [l] Ramah.
Sound the alarm at [m] Beth-aven;
we follow you, [2] O Benjamin!
9 Ephraim shall become a desolation in the day of punishment;

among the tribes of Israel
I make known what is sure.
10[†] The princes of Judah have become like [n] those who move the landmark;
upon them I will pour out my wrath like water.
11 Ephraim is [o] oppressed, crushed in judgment, because he was determined to go after filth. [3] 12 But I am [p] like a moth to Ephraim, and [p] like dry rot to the house of Judah.

13[†] When Ephraim saw his sickness, and Judah [q] his wound,
then Ephraim went [r] to Assyria, and sent to the great king. [4] [s] But he is not able to cure you or heal [q] your wound.
14 For I will be [t] like a lion to [u] Ephraim, and like a young lion to the house of [u] Judah.
[v] I, even I, will tear and go away;
I will carry off, and no one shall rescue.

15[†] [w] I will return again to my place, until they acknowledge their guilt and seek my face,
and [x] in their distress earnestly seek me.

Israel and Judah Are Unrepentant

HOSEA 6 “Come, let us [y] return to the Lord;
for [z] he has torn us, that he may heal us;
he has struck us down, and [a] he will bind us up.
2[†] After two days [b] he will revive us;
on the third day he will raise us up,
that we may live before him.

3 [c] Let us know; [c] let us press on to know the LORD;
[d] his going out is sure as the dawn;
he will come to us [e] as the showers,
[f] as the spring rains that water the earth."

4[†] What shall I do with you, [g] O [h] Ephraim?
What shall I do with you, O [h] Judah?
Your love is [i] like a morning cloud,
[i] like the dew that goes early away.
5[†] Therefore I have hewn them by the prophets;
I have slain them [j] by the words of my mouth,
and my judgment goes forth as the light.
6[†] For [k] I desire steadfast love [1] and not sacrifice,
[l] the knowledge of God rather than burnt offerings.

7[†] But [m] like Adam they [n] transgressed the covenant;
[o] there they dealt faithlessly with me.
8 [p] Gilead is a city of evildoers,
[q] tracked with blood.
9 As robbers [r] lie in wait for a man,
so the priests band together;
they murder on the way to [s] Shechem;
they commit villainy.
10 In the house of Israel I have seen a horrible thing;
[t] Ephraim's whoredom is there; [u] Israel is defiled.

11 For you also, O [u] Judah, [v] a harvest is appointed, when [w] I restore the fortunes of my people.
HOSEA 7 [x] When I would heal Israel,
the iniquity of Ephraim is revealed,
and the evil deeds of [y] Samaria;
for [z] they deal falsely;
the thief breaks in,
and the bandits raid outside.

2[†] But they do not consider that [a] I remember all their evil.
Now [b] their deeds surround them;
[c] they are before my face.
3 By their evil [d] they make [d] the king glad,
and the princes by their treachery.
4[†] [e] They are all adulterers;
they are like a heated oven whose baker ceases to stir the fire, from the kneading of the dough
until it is leavened.
5 On the day of [f] our king, the princes became sick with the heat of wine;
he stretched out his hand with mockers.
6 For with hearts like an oven [g] they approach their intrigue;
all night their anger smolders;
in the morning it blazes like a flaming fire.
7 All of them are hot as an oven,
and they devour their rulers.
All [h] their kings [i] have fallen,
and none of them calls upon me.

8[†] Ephraim [j] mixes himself with the peoples;
Ephraim is a cake not turned.
9 [k] Strangers devour his strength,
and [l] he knows it not;
gray hairs are sprinkled upon him,
and [l] he knows it not.
10 [m] The pride of Israel testifies to his face; [1]
[n] yet they do not return to the LORD their God, nor seek him, for all this.

11 Ephraim is like a dove,
[o] silly and without sense,
calling to [p] Egypt, going to [q] Assyria.

12 As they go, [r] I will spread over them my net;
I will bring them down like birds of the heavens;
[s] I will discipline them [t] according to the report made to their congregation.
13 [u] Woe to them, for they have strayed from me!
Destruction to them, for they have rebelled against me!
[v] I would redeem them,
but [w] they speak lies against me.

14[†] [x] They do not cry to me from the heart, but [y] they wail upon their beds;
for grain and wine they gash themselves;
they rebel against me.
15 Although [z] I trained and strengthened their arms, yet they devise evil against me.
16[†] They [a] return, but not upward; [2]
they are [b] like a treacherous bow; their princes shall fall by the sword
because of [c] the insolence of their tongue.
This shall be their derision [d] in the land of Egypt.

Israel Will Reap the Whirlwind

HOSEA 8 [†] Set [e] the trumpet to your lips!
One [f] like a vulture is over the house of the LORD, because [g] they have transgressed my covenant and rebelled against my law.
2[†] To me they cry,
[h] "My God, we—Israel—know you."
3 Israel has spurned the good;
the enemy shall pursue him.

4[†] [i] They made kings, [j] but not through me.
They set up princes, but I knew it not.
With their silver and gold they made idols
for their own destruction.
5[†] [k] I have [1] spurned your calf, O Samaria.
My anger burns against them.
[l] How long will they be incapable of innocence?
6 For it is from Israel;
a craftsman made it;
it is not God.
[k] The calf of Samaria
[m] shall be broken to pieces. [2]

7 For [n] they sow the wind, and they shall reap the whirlwind.
The standing grain has no heads;
it shall yield no flour;
if it were to yield,
[o] strangers would devour it.
8 [p] Israel is swallowed up; already they are among the nations
as [q] a useless vessel.
9 For [r] they have gone up to Assyria,
[s] a wild donkey wandering alone;

Ephraim has hired lovers.
10 Though they hire allies among the nations,
I will soon gather them up.
And [t] the king and princes [u] shall soon writhe
because of the tribute.

11 Because Ephraim [v] has multiplied altars for sinning, they have become to him altars for sinning.
12 [w] Were I to write for him my laws by the ten thousands,
they would be regarded as a strange thing.
13 As for my sacrificial offerings, [x] they sacrifice meat and eat it,
but the LORD does not accept them.
[y] Now he will remember their iniquity
and punish their sins;
[z] they shall return to Egypt.
14 For [a] Israel has forgotten [b] his Maker and [c] built palaces,
and [a] Judah has multiplied fortified cities;
so [d] I will send a fire upon his cities,
and it shall devour her strongholds.

The LORD Will Punish Israel

HOSEA 9 [†] Rejoice not, O Israel!
Exult not like the peoples;
[e] for you have played the whore, forsaking your God.
[f] You have loved a prostitute's wages on all threshing floors.
2 [g] Threshing floor and wine vat shall not feed them,
and [g] the new wine shall fail them.
3 [†] They shall not remain in [h] the land of the LORD,
but [i] Ephraim shall return to Egypt,
and [j] they shall eat unclean food in Assyria.

4 [k] They shall not pour drink offerings of wine to the LORD,
[l] and their sacrifices shall not please him.
It shall be like [m] mourners’ bread to them;
all who eat of it shall be defiled;
for their bread shall be for their hunger only;
[n] it shall not come to the house of the LORD.

5 [o] What will you do on the day of the appointed festival, and on the day of the feast of the LORD?
6[†] For behold, they are going away from destruction;
but [p] Egypt shall gather them;
Memphis shall bury them.
Nettles shall possess [q] their precious things of silver;
[r] thorns shall be in their tents.

7 [s] The days of punishment have come;
the days of recompense have come;
Israel shall know it.
[t] The prophet is a fool;
the man of the spirit is mad, because of your great iniquity and great hatred.
8 The prophet is [u] the watchman of Ephraim with my God;
yet [v] a fowler’s snare is on all his ways,
and hatred in the house of his God.
9[†] [w] They have deeply corrupted themselves as [x] in the days of Gibeah:
[w] he will remember their iniquity;
he will punish their sins.

10[†] Like grapes in the wilderness,
[y] I found Israel.
Like the first fruit on the fig tree
in its first season,
I saw your fathers.

But [z] they came to Baal-peor and [a] consecrated themselves to the thing of shame, and [b] became detestable like the thing they loved.
11 Ephraim’s [c] glory shall fly away like a bird—
[d] no birth, no pregnancy, no conception!
12 [e] Even if they bring up children,
I will bereave them till none is left.
[f] Woe to them
when [g] I depart from them!
13 Ephraim, [h] as I have seen, was like a young palm [1] planted in a meadow;
but [e] Ephraim must lead his children out to slaughter. [2] 14[†] Give them, O LORD—what will you give?
Give them [i] a miscarrying womb and dry breasts.

15 Every evil of theirs is in [j] Gilgal;
there I began to hate them.
Because of the wickedness of their deeds
I will drive them out of my house.
I will love them no more;
all [k] their princes are [l] rebels.

16 Ephraim is stricken;
[m] their root is dried up;
they shall bear no fruit.
Even [n] though they give birth,
[e] I will put their beloved children to death.
17[†] [o] My God will reject them because they have not listened to him;
[p] they shall be wanderers among the nations.

HOSEA 10 [†] [q] Israel is a luxuriant vine that yields its fruit.

The more his fruit increased,
    [r] the more altars he built;
as his country improved,
    he improved his pillars.
2 Their heart is false;
    now they must bear their guilt.
The LORD [1] will break down their altars and destroy their pillars.

3 For now they will say:
    [s] "We have no king,
for we do not fear the LORD;
    and a king—what could he do for us?"
4 They utter [t] mere words;
    with empty oaths they make covenants;
so [u] judgment springs up like poisonous weeds
    [v] in the furrows of the field.
5 The inhabitants of Samaria tremble for [w] the calf [2] of [x] Beth-aven.
Its people mourn for it, and so do its idolatrous priests—those who rejoiced over it and [y] over its glory—for it has departed [3] from them.
6 [z] The thing itself shall be carried to Assyria as tribute to [a] the great king. [4] Ephraim shall be put to shame, and Israel shall be ashamed [b] of his idol. [5]

7 [c] Samaria's king shall perish like a twig on the face of the waters.
8 The high places of [x] Aven, [d] the sin of Israel, shall be destroyed.
[e] Thorn and thistle shall grow up on their altars,
and [f] they shall say to the mountains, "Cover us,"
    and to the hills, "Fall on us."

9[†] From [g]the days of Gibeah, you have sinned, O Israel;
there they have continued.
Shall not the war against the unjust [6] overtake them in Gibeah?
10[†] [h]When I please, [i]I will discipline them, and nations shall be gathered against them when they are bound up for [j]their double iniquity.

11[†] Ephraim was a trained calf that [k]loved to thresh, and I spared her fair neck;
but I will put [l]Ephraim to the yoke;
[l]Judah must plow;
Jacob must harrow for himself.
12 [m]Sow for yourselves righteousness;
reap steadfast love;
[n]break up your fallow ground,
for it is the time to seek the Lord,
that he may come and [o]rain righteousness upon you.

13 [p]You have plowed iniquity;
you have reaped injustice;
you have eaten the fruit of lies.
Because you have trusted in your own way and in the multitude of your warriors, 14 therefore [q]the tumult of war shall arise among your people,
and all your fortresses shall be destroyed,
as [r]Shalman destroyed Beth-arbel on the day of battle;
[s]mothers were dashed in pieces with their children.
15 Thus it shall be done to you, O [t]Bethel, because of your great evil.
At dawn [a]the king of Israel shall be utterly cut off.

The Lord's Love for Israel

HOSEA 11 [†] [u]When Israel was a child, [v]I loved him, and out of Egypt I [w]called [x]my son.

2[†] [y]The more they were called,
the more they went away;
[z]they kept sacrificing to the Baals and burning offerings to idols.

3 Yet it was [a]I who taught Ephraim to walk;
I took them up by their arms,
but they did not know that [b]I healed them.
4 [c]I led them with cords of kindness,[1]
with the bands of love, and [d]I became to them as one who eases the yoke on their jaws,
and [e]I bent down to them and fed them.

5[†] [f]They shall not[2] return to the land of Egypt,
but [g]Assyria shall be their king,
[h]because [i]they have refused to return to me.
6 [j]The sword shall rage against their cities, consume the bars of their gates,
and devour them [k]because of their own counsels.
7 My people are bent [l]on turning away from me,
and though [m]they call out to the Most High,
he shall not raise them up at all.

8[†] How can I give you up, O Ephraim?
How can I hand you over, O Israel?
[n]How can I make you [o]like Admah?
How can I treat you [o]like Zeboiim?
[p]My heart recoils within me;
my compassion grows warm and tender.
9 I will not execute my burning anger;
I will not again destroy Ephraim;
[q]for I am God and not a man,
[r]the Holy One in your midst,
and I will not come in wrath.[3]

10[†] [s] They shall go after the LORD; [t] he will roar like a lion;
when he roars,
his children shall come trembling [u] from the west;
11 they shall come trembling like birds [v] from Egypt, and [w] like doves [x] from the land of Assyria, and I will return them to their homes, declares the LORD.
12[†] [4] Ephraim [y] has surrounded me with lies,
and the house of Israel with deceit,
but Judah still walks with God and is faithful to the Holy One.
HOSEA 12 Ephraim feeds on the wind and pursues [z] the east wind all day long;
they multiply [y] falsehood and violence;
[a] they make a covenant with Assyria, and [b] oil is carried to Egypt.

The LORD's Indictment of Israel and Judah

2[†] [c] The LORD has an indictment against Judah and will punish Jacob according to his ways;
he will repay him according to his deeds.
3[†] [d] In the womb he took his brother by the heel,
and in his manhood he strove with God.
4 He strove with the angel and prevailed;
he wept and sought his favor.
[e] He met God [1] at Bethel, and there God spoke with us—
5[†] the LORD, the God of hosts,
[f] the LORD is his memorial name:
6 "So you, [g] by the help of your God, return,
[h] hold fast to love and justice, and wait continually for your God."

7 A merchant, in whose hands are [i] false balances,

he loves [j] to oppress.
8 Ephraim has said, "Ah, but [k] I am rich;
I have found wealth for myself;
in all my labors [l] they cannot find in me iniquity or sin."
9 [m] I am the LORD your God
from the land of Egypt;
I will again make you [n] dwell in tents,
as in the days of the appointed feast.

10 [o] I spoke to the prophets;
it was I who multiplied [p] visions,
and through the prophets gave parables.
11 [q] If there is iniquity in Gilead,
they shall surely come to nothing:
[r] in Gilgal they sacrifice bulls;
[s] their altars also are like stone heaps [t] on the furrows of the field.
12 [u] Jacob fled to the land of Aram;
there Israel [v] served for a wife,
and for a wife he guarded sheep.
13 By [w] a prophet [x] the LORD brought Israel up from Egypt, and by a prophet he was guarded.
14 [y] Ephraim has given bitter provocation;
so his Lord [z] will leave his bloodguilt on him [a] and will repay him for his disgraceful deeds.

The LORD's Relentless Judgment on Israel

HOSEA 13 [†] When Ephraim spoke, there was trembling; [b] he was exalted in Israel,
but he incurred guilt [c] through Baal and died.
2 [†] And now they sin more and more,
and [d] make for themselves metal images,
idols skillfully made of their silver,
[e] all of them the work of craftsmen.

It is said of them,
“Those who offer human sacrifice [f]kiss calves!”
3 Therefore they shall be [g]like the morning mist or [g]like the dew that goes early away, [h]like the chaff that swirls from the threshing floor or [i]like smoke from a window.

4[†] But [j]I am the LORD your God
from the land of Egypt;
[k]you know no God but me,
and [l]besides me there is no savior.
5 [m]It was I who knew you in the wilderness,
in the land of drought;
6 [n]but when they had grazed, [1] they became full,
[o]they were filled, and their heart was lifted up;
[o]therefore they forgot me.
7[†] So [p]I am to them like a lion;
[q]like a leopard I will lurk beside the way.
8 I will fall upon them [r]like a bear robbed of her cubs;
I will tear open their breast,
and there I will devour them like a lion,
[s]as a wild beast would rip them open.

9[†] He destroys [2] you, O Israel, for you are against me, against [t]your helper.
10 [u]Where now is your king, to save you in all your cities?
Where are all your rulers—
those of whom [v]you said, “Give me a king and princes”?
11 [w]I gave you a king in my anger,
and [x]I took him away in my wrath.

12[†] The iniquity of Ephraim is [y]bound up; his sin is [y]kept in store.
13 [z]The pangs of childbirth come for him,

but he is an unwise son,
for at the right time he does not present himself
[a] at the opening of the womb.

14[†] [b] Shall I ransom them from the power of Sheol?
[b] Shall I redeem them from Death?
[c] O [d] Death, where are your plagues?
[c] O [d] Sheol, where is your sting?
[e] Compassion is hidden from my eyes.

15 Though [f] he may flourish among his brothers, [g] the east wind, the wind of the LORD, shall come,
rising from the wilderness, [h] and his fountain shall dry up;
his spring shall be parched;
it shall strip [i] his treasury of every precious thing.
16 [3] Samaria [j] shall bear her guilt, because [k] she has rebelled against her God;
they shall fall by the sword;
[l] their little ones shall be dashed in pieces,
and their [m] pregnant women ripped open.

A Plea to Return to the LORD

HOSEA 14 [†] [n] Return, O Israel, to the LORD your God, for [o] you have stumbled because of your iniquity.
2[†] Take with you words and return to the LORD;
say to him,
“Take away all iniquity;
accept [p] what is good,
and we will pay with bulls
[q] the vows [1] of our lips.
3 [r] Assyria shall not save us;

[s] we will not ride on horses;
and [t] we will say no more, 'Our God,'
to the work of our hands.
[u] In you the orphan finds mercy."

4[†] I [v] will heal their apostasy;
[w] I will love them freely,
for my anger has turned from them.
5[†] [x] I will be like the dew to Israel;
[y] he shall blossom like the lily;
he shall take root like the trees [z] of Lebanon;
6[†] his shoots shall spread out;
his beauty shall be [a] like the olive,
and his fragrance like Lebanon.
7[†] They shall return and [b] dwell beneath my [2] shadow;
they shall flourish like the grain;
they shall blossom like the vine;
their fame shall be like the wine of Lebanon.

8 O [c] Ephraim, what have I to do with idols?
It is I who answer and look after you. [3]
I am like an evergreen cypress;
[d] from me comes your fruit.

9[†] [e] Whoever is wise, let him understand these things;
whoever is discerning, let him know them;
for the ways of the LORD are right,
and [f] the upright walk in them,
[f] but transgressors stumble in them.

Study Notes for Hosea

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:1–3:5 Biographical: Hosea's Family. The unfaithfulness of Hosea's wife, Gomer, and her eventual restoration to him, are a parable for the Lord's relationship to Israel.

FACT

Hosea comes from the same verb as "Joshua" and "Jesus," meaning "to save" or "to deliver." The message of the Bible is one of salvation for people of all different ethnicities and backgrounds all around the globe.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:1 The name Hosea comes from the same verb as "Joshua" and "Jesus," meaning "to save or deliver."

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:2 take to yourself a wife of whoredom. The word translated "whoredom" throughout the book describes various kinds of sexual misconduct. In Hosea it generally refers to a married woman being unfaithful to her husband, which is why it provides a picture of Israel's unfaithfulness to the Lord, her husband (compare 2:5). The tragedy of Hosea is the tragedy of a marriage that began well but went bad. And so it was with the Lord and Israel.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:3–9 Hosea's wife bears children, and God gives them prophetic names. The text suggests that Hosea was in fact the father of Gomer's first child (bore him, v. 3).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:4 Jeroboam II (v. 1) was the fourth king of the dynasty begun by Jehu in 841 B.C. The house of Jehu is probably parallel to house of Israel. This would mean that the blood of Jezreel refers to the events of 1 Kings 21: Ahab permitted the murder of Naboth, a man loyal to the Lord, in order to take his vineyard in Jezreel. Thus, this verse introduces the ongoing confrontation between Baal and the God of Israel in the rest of the book.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:6 The name of Gomer's second child, No Mercy, probably means that Hosea denies that he is the father. Hosea does not have the affection that a father would have for his own children.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:8–9 The birth and naming of another child by Gomer reinforces what was seen with No Mercy's birth. Not My People means he is not Hosea's son. for you are not my people, and I am not your God. The name symbolizes a breaking of the marital bond that God had made with Israel at Sinai (Ex. 6:7; Lev. 26:12).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:10 God intends to restore his people, based on the promises of the Abrahamic covenant: the number of the children of Israel shall be like the sand of the sea (Gen. 22:17; 32:12). Israel's salvation must be gained just as Abraham's was: salvation by grace through faith and not by works of the law (Gen. 15:6; Rom. 4:1–3).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 1:11 the children of Judah and the children of Israel shall be gathered together. The hostility between Judah (the southern kingdom) and Israel (the northern kingdom) had a long history, beginning in 1 Kings 12:16–24.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:1–13 Hosea uses the legal process of an offended husband against his wife as a picture of God's plans for dealing with Israel's rebellion.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:1 Hosea hopes the Israelites will respond to the promise contained in this verse. The verse begins with a command (Say to your brothers), as does the following verse. Both serve as a motivation for Israel to return to her God. Israel can look forward to receiving a new name: no longer will they be "No Mercy" and "Not My People."

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:2 Perhaps the declaration that she is not my wife, and I am not her husband should be read as a threat, rather than an actual divorce. Otherwise, Hosea would have no right to issue the warnings and threats that follow. The marriage between God and Israel has not ended. The covenant made with Israel contains a way for Israel to be restored. She only needs to put away her whoring from her face, and her adultery from between her breasts.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:4–5 they are children of whoredom. Here is a clear rejection of fatherhood. The Lord, like Hosea, is as a husband wronged and injured by infidelity.

FACT

Public humiliation was a standard punishment for adultery in the ancient world (2:3). Rather than follow that custom, however, Hosea sought to reclaim his wife. This is a picture of the Lord, who seeks to reclaim his people even when they forsake him.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:6 Therefore. This is the first of three "therefores" in this chapter (see vv. 9, 14). It is spoken in response to the mother's uncontained lust. The eighth-century prophets (including Hosea) truly believed that Israel's sins could be forgiven and the nation could be restored.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:8 she did not know. Israel's failure to "know" the Lord is a key idea in the book (vv. 8; 4:1, 6; 5:4; 6:3; 8:2; 13:4, 5). that it was I who gave. Israel's prosperity was a gift from the Lord, not from Baal.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:14–23 Hosea describes God's plan to restore his "marriage" with Israel.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:14 With this third therefore (compare vv. 6, 9), it becomes clear that the reason Israel is punished is to bring her to repentance. allure . . . speak tenderly. The Lord will woo his estranged wife away from her adulterous lovers with the language of courtship (Ruth 2:13; Isa. 40:2).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:15 The Valley of Achor, where Achan was cursed (Josh. 7:25–26), will become a place for hope.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:16–17 you will call me "My Husband," and no longer will you call me "My Baal." The Hebrew word for "Baal" and one of the words for "husband" are virtually the same. Israel treated Baal (their false god) as if he were God (their covenant husband). In the future, they will know their true God.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:19 I will betroth you to me. The marriage agreement is established by paying a bride price to the bride's father (2 Sam. 3:14). The bride price that the Lord will pay for Israel is righteousness, justice, steadfast love, and mercy. Only the Lord can offer such things (Ex. 34:6–7).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 2:21–23 And in that day, that is, when the marriage is again consummated, Israel's former difficulties will be reversed: grain, wine, and oil will be replenished (compare vv. 5, 8–9). No Mercy will receive mercy (compare 1:6; 2:4), and Not My People will again be God's people (compare 1:9).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 3:1–5 Hosea returns to his marriage, which is still an image for God and Israel. Israel's hope, like Judah's, lies with the house of David.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 3:1 Though the name of this woman is not stated, she is Gomer, Hosea's wife. It is Israel, the adulteress, that the Lord pursues, not another people. Hosea is to retrieve his adulterous wife so that Israel will clearly know that the Lord still loves her, his spiritually unfaithful wife.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 3:2 Bought her probably means that Hosea redeemed Gomer from slavery, though the exact custom is unknown.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 3:3–4 You must dwell as mine has the force of a command. The separation of Gomer/Israel will lead to her purification, rededication, and renewal. This separation will mean giving up those things that led to Israel's spiritual unfaithfulness: king and prince, who failed in keeping Israel faithful to the Lord (see 1:4; 8:4); sacrifice, which they offered to the Baals (see 11:2; 13:1–2); the cult pillar (see 10:2), popular in Canaanite religion; the ephod, which was improperly used as a tool for magical ceremonies; and household gods, idols prohibited from Israel's religion (Judg. 17:5; 2 Kings 23:24; Zech. 10:2). The Lord's removing these things, far from being incompatible with his love, is a major aspect of it.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 3:5 To call David their king is significant for the northern kingdom, which has been rebelling against the house of David for two centuries. They must return in order to be full participants in God's covenant with David (2 Sam. 7:8–16). It is from the house of David that the ultimate king for God’s people will come, as indicated by the term the latter days (see Isa. 2:2). God has a glorious future in store for his people.

HOSEA

Hosea ministered to the northern kingdom of Israel during the latter half of the eighth century B.C., the most difficult time the nation had ever faced. Israel had forsaken the Lord and was worshiping Baal instead. Hosea understood that this was why the Lord intended to judge the nation. God commanded Hosea to marry, but warned him that his wife would be unfaithful to him. Hosea married Gomer, who indeed became unfaithful to him. When Gomer left Hosea, God instructed him to reclaim her. This would be a sign to the people that, though their sins were shameful, the Lord still loved Israel, his spiritually unfaithful wife. Hosea’s marriage to Gomer, her unfaithfulness, and their eventual restoration were thus a parable of the Lord’s relationship to Israel. (Hosea 3:1–5)

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:1–14:9 Accusations, Warnings, and Promises for Israel. In the rest of the book, Hosea details the aspects of Israel’s life that show her unfaithfulness to the Lord, urges her to repent, and reveals God’s commitment to his people, despite their unfaithfulness.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:1–19 The Lord continues to prosecute his case against unfaithful Israel.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:1–2 The Lord’s charges against Israel are presented in the vocabulary of a lawsuit (a controversy), a setting used by other eighth-century biblical prophets (compare Isa. 3:13–15; Mic. 6:2). The charges are offenses against God’s law, particularly violations of the Ten Commandments. Faithfulness and steadfast love are attributes of God in Ex. 34:6. Genuine knowledge of God in the hearts of his people will produce a character like his.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:5 Your mother is a reference to Israel (2:4–5). Hosea’s symbols of Israel include a mother, children, and a bride.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:6 The people are the focal point in this chapter (see vv. 1, 12, 15). God refers to them as "my people" throughout (vv. 8, 12). The priests were responsible for teaching the people God's laws (see Lev. 10:11; Mal. 2:6–7), but they had failed miserably. As a result, the people lacked knowledge of God's laws and his ways.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:10–11 they shall play the whore. By worshiping Baal.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:12–13 These verses describe breaking God's laws by following Canaanite religious practices. inquire of a piece of wood. They would ask for guidance from an idol carved out of wood. led them astray. Like sheep following a wicked shepherd. Therefore your daughters play the whore. There is a connection between following a false religion (which is spiritual adultery, vv. 12–13a) and the immoral conduct (physical adultery) of the next generation ("Therefore," v. 13b; compare v. 6). The parents turned away from God, and as a consequence he allowed their daughters and other young women (your brides) to stray into sexual immorality.

FACT

The piece of wood mentioned in 4:12 refers to the wooden idols worshiped by Canaanites. God's people had sunk so low that they would even "inquire of a piece of wood" rather than seek guidance from the Lord.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:14 I will not punish your daughters. Perhaps spoken in sarcasm, as if to say, how can anyone blame them when the whole people is unfaithful? sacrifice with cult prostitutes. An unfaithful spouse is grouped alongside those who participate in sexual activity at pagan places of worship.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 4:15 Judah is warned not to follow Israel's example, though eventually Judah did. Several shrines that might entice Judah are named.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:1–14 Israel's rulers have led the way into unfaithfulness.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:1 Hear this, O priests . . . O house of Israel . . . O house of the king. Both royal and religious leaders are addressed. Mizpah in Gilead and Tabor, a mountain in the Valley of Jezreel, marked high points in Israel's past. Mizpah was the home of Jephthah (Judg. 10:17; 11:33), and Tabor was the scene of Barak's victory (Judg. 4:14). These revered sites became a net spread upon Tabor. The image of a net, a device used for catching birds, depicts the Israelites as the prey of priests and royalty.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:10 like those who move the landmark. To move a neighbor's boundary marker is forbidden (Deut. 19:14; 27:17). Land-grabbing violates God's intention that all the people are to enjoy the land he gave them, and it creates a wealthy, power-abusing class. my wrath like water. The word for "wrath" suggests the image of overflowing fury (compare Isa. 14:6).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:13 When Ephraim saw his sickness, and Judah his wound. Using physical infirmities to describe spiritual corruption is common in the OT prophets. Notice how frequently Hosea links Israel/Ephraim and Judah: 1:11; 4:15; 5:12–14; 6:4; 8:14; 10:11; 11:12.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 5:15–6:3 The Lord will "return" to his place, expecting the people to "return" to him.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:2 After two days he will revive us. Even after the punishment described in v. 1, the Lord can heal his people. on the third day he will raise us up. Hosea is not writing specifically about Jesus here, but this picture of Israel's death and resurrection sets the pattern for what eventually will be accomplished in and through Christ (compare Luke 24:46).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:4–7:3 Israel's sins are worse than simply violating the law: they repudiate the gracious covenant that is the foundation of their life and hope.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:5 my judgment goes forth as the light. God's light exposes Israel's idolatry.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:6 Rather than burnt offerings, God desires real participation in the covenant by his people, here expressed as steadfast love and knowledge of God (see note on Amos 4:4–5).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 6:7 But like Adam they transgressed the covenant. “Covenant” appears four other times in Hosea (2:18; 8:1; 10:4; 12:1). Twice it refers to breaking a covenant (6:7; 8:1). Israel is like Adam, who disobeyed God (Gen. 2:16–17; 3:17).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:2–3 The actions described in ch. 7 illustrate that Israel shows no sorrow for their sin. By their evil they make the king glad describes acts that please royalty, perhaps by assassinating potential rivals.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:4–16 Hosea compares Israel to an oven (vv. 4–7), a half-baked cake (vv. 8–10), a silly dove (vv. 11–12), and a treacherous bow (vv. 13–16), thus describing their passion for evil, their foolishness, and their uselessness.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:4–7 These verses compare adulterers with an oven. In v. 4, the heated oven represents a quiet passion that does not go out even though the baker ceases to stir the fire. In v. 6, the oven is a restrained passion that unexpectedly and violently erupts; it blazes like a flaming fire. In v. 7, the oven represents a consuming passion that will devour . . . rulers and all their kings. This may refer to the assassinations of four of the last six Israelite kings.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:8 mixes himself with the peoples. Israel’s spiritual unfaithfulness has made it no different from the pagan nations. a cake not turned. That is, half-baked, not fit for eating.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:14–15 gash themselves. Probably to call on Baal (see 1 Kings 18:28).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 7:16 Egypt here represents all foreign powers but refers specifically to Israel’s time of slavery in Egypt (Exodus 1–12). Like other historical references in Hosea, the name mourns the reversal of Israel’s fortunes.

FACT

To describe the Israelites as a treacherous bow (7:16) means that they were undependable and even dangerous to those who relied on them. If a bow was improperly stored when not in use, the dry Mediterranean heat would make it brittle, causing it to snap and injure its user.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:1–14 The people of Israel may claim to know and love the Lord, but their deeds prove otherwise.

FACT

Worship God alone! Worship of the calf idol (8:6) violated the First and Second Commandments: "You shall have no other gods before me," and "You shall not make . . . a carved image . . ." (Ex. 20:3–6). Believers are to worship the Creator God, rather than created things.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:1 The trumpet is a bugle used to alert the community to danger and summon it to religious festivals. The vulture is a symbol of an aggressor, possibly the Assyrians. House of the LORD probably refers here to the Lord's land (compare 9:4, 15).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:2 Chapter 8 is a response to Israel's cry. It is untrue for the people of Israel to say they know God (see 2:8; 5:4; 11:3). What follows are accusations that expose Israel's idolatry, corrupt politics, and false worship.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:4 kings . . . princes. The leaders are not the Lord's choice, and these rulers are not godly. I knew it not. The people had never asked God for guidance before choosing these leaders.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 8:5–6 I have spurned your calf, O Samaria. These verses respond to v. 3, "Israel has spurned the good." As the calf-idol in Aaron's day was pulverized, so this idol shall be broken to pieces (compare also 2 Kings 23:15).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:1–9 God will punish Israel by sending her people away from the land, to a place where they will not be able to make offerings to the Lord.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:3 The failure of crops is not the only outcome of Ephraim's spiritual adultery; exile from the land is another consequence.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:6 they are going away from destruction. They think they are safe, but Egypt shall gather them. Other disasters are described in the rest of the verse.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:9 As in the days of Gibeah refers to the events in Judges 19–21, where God brings judgment on Gibeah and the tribe of Benjamin (Judg. 20:35) for their cruel violence (Judg. 19:22–26; compare Hos. 10:9).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:10–11:11 Hosea uses four more comparisons to describe Israel: grapes in the wilderness (9:10–17), a luxuriant vine (10:1–10), a trained calf (10:11–15), and a toddler (11:1–11), all of which stress God's past care for them, their reckless ingratitude, and the unavoidable consequences.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:10 Like grapes in the wilderness. . . . Like the first fruit on the fig tree. The unexpected discovery of grapes in the desert or the first figs of the season is delightful. I saw your fathers. Another reference to the nation's early history. But like Hosea's marriage, that cherished relationship lasted for only a short time. they came to Baal-peor (see Num. 25:3; compare Ps. 106:28).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:14 A miscarrying womb would be the opposite of the fruitfulness the people sought in Baal worship.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 9:17 wanderers among the nations. They will be exiles.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:1–2 For the image of Israel as a vine, see Ps. 80:8–16; Jer. 2:21; Ezek. 15:1–8; 17:1–10. The more his fruit increased, the more altars he built. That is, altars to Baal: the more Israel prospered, the more they sinned. It was just as Moses had warned (Deut. 8:11–14).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:9 the days of Gibeah. See note on 9:9. Israel is in much more trouble now than when the Benjaminites were punished at Gibeah.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:10 When I please, I will discipline them. Israel's discipline and downfall comes from the Lord. To do this, God uses the nations that shall be gathered against them (see Isa. 10:5–6).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 10:11–13 Ephraim was a trained calf is another reference to Israel's beginnings. Israel once loved to thresh in his field (see Deut. 25:4). But now the Israelites have plowed iniquity . . . reaped injustice. Therefore, the Lord must harness Ephraim so that she will sow the seeds of righteousness and plow and reap a crop of steadfast love (compare Hos. 8:7). Ignoring the prophet's appeals will result in a military disaster.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:1 When Israel was a child, I loved him, and out of Egypt I called my son (see Ex. 4:22–23). Matthew 2:15 quotes this verse to show that Jesus is the "Son" of God, the heir of David who embodies Israel's relationship to God (compare 2 Sam. 7:14; Ps. 89:26–27). Hosea portrays the Lord not only as a husband but also as a father (compare Luke 15:11–32).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:2–4 The Lord never stopped loving Israel. Throughout their history, he taught Ephraim (that is, Israel) to walk, and he healed them, as a father does with his child. led them with cords of kindness, with the bands of love. Many commentators think that in v. 4 the image changes to that of a kind farmer with his animals. He removes the yoke and leads the animal, not with harsh ropes (as in 10:11), but with light "cords" and "bands" to guide the animals to their food. Then the Lord, like a gentle farmer, even bent down and fed them. These kind acts provide the basis for a relationship of care, guidance, and obedience. Tragically, the Lord's love was rejected: The more they were called, the more they went away.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:5–7 They shall not return . . . but Assyria. An alliance with Egypt will not save them from Assyria.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:8 How can I give you up? The Lord expresses his unfailing love (compare Isa. 49:15; Jer. 31:20). The Lord is filled with compassion, unlike the lifeless Baals. His affection is stronger than Israel's ingratitude. He cannot bring himself to reject his people, even though they refuse him.

FACT

Admah and Zeboiim were destroyed along with Sodom and Gomorrah (Genesis 18–19; see Deut. 29:23). Though God's rebellious people often deserve the same fate, his compassion restrains him from destroying them (Hos. 11:8).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:10–11 His children shall come trembling . . . I will return them to their homes describes the return of a remnant of God's people from exile.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 11:12–12:1 Ephraim has surrounded me with lies . . . but Judah still walks with God (11:12). Both Judah and the northern tribes (Ephraim) suffered lapses in fidelity to the Lord, but Judah, unlike Ephraim, had some good kings (in particular, Hezekiah). One of the highest points in Judah's history was the victory over the Assyrians when Hezekiah was king (see 2 Kings 18–19, which was 20 years after the northern kingdom fell).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:2–14 Hosea recounts incidents from Israel's past in order to display the Lord's enduring kindness and Israel's stubborn ingratitude.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:3–4 He strove with the angel and prevailed at Peniel (Gen. 32:24–31). There the angel touched Jacob's hip socket and put it out of joint. That divine wounding made Jacob into a new man, Israel.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 12:5–8 Hosea again reminds Israel of their spiritual heritage. memorial name. See Ex. 3:15. God's choosing of Israel is the reason Israel can now return and show love and justice to one another. But Israel's deeds and words (Hos. 12:7–8) reveal they refuse to hold fast and wait continually for their God (v. 6).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:1–8 The man-made gods that Israel worships are nothing compared to their actual God, who is living, active, and true to his word.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:2 who offer human sacrifice. Child sacrifice was part of Baal worship (Isa. 57:5). kiss calves. Kissing is a way of showing submission (1 Kings 19:18). Calf worship was a problem throughout the history of Israel (see Exodus 32; 1 Kings 12).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:4–5 But I am the LORD your God from the land of Egypt. This is a solemn statement that recalls Ex. 20:2. The passing work of the craftsmen who make idols (Hos. 13:2) is contrasted with the God who sustained Israel in the land of drought by his devoted care.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:7–8 lion . . . leopard . . . bear. Images of judgment (see 5:14; Amos 3:12).

FACT

The leopards found in Israel (13:7) were probably Arabian leopards, which weighed only 50 to 60 pounds (23 to 27 kg). They were solitary hunters, eating mostly rabbits, lizards, and occasionally gazelles. Today, there are probably only a few dozen leopards inhabiting the desert regions of Israel.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:9–16 Ephraim, by its stubborn refusal to return to the Lord, rejects the only hope that God offers. Three figures of judgment are pronounced in these verses: the incompetent king (vv. 10–11), the unborn child (vv. 13–14), and the withering wind of God (v. 15).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:12–13 The iniquity of Ephraim is bound up; his sin is kept in store probably suggests that Ephraim holds on to its sins and will not ask the Lord to forgive them. he does not present himself. Ephraim, in its refusal to repent and be healed, is likened to a baby who refuses to be born—which would be most unwise, since it would be fatal.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 13:14 Shall I ransom them from the power of Sheol? In the OT, “Sheol” is a proper name and can be a metaphor for the grave (e.g., 1 Kings 2:6; Ps. 141:7). It can also represent the wicked person’s grim destination after death (see Ps. 49:14–15). The parallel wording with Ps. 49:15 suggests that Hosea sees Ephraim’s “death” as leading to Sheol in the second sense of separation from God. Thus God asks himself whether he should rescue Ephraim from such consequences. O Death, where are your plagues? If the Lord is their strong deliverer, then not even death will be able to terrify them or harm them. In 1 Cor. 15:55 Paul cites part of Hos. 13:14. He views the general resurrection as God’s triumph over bodily death and eternal judgment for the faithful. Sadly, in Hosea’s time Israel rejects the only power that can save her. Thus compassion is hidden from God’s eyes, and Israel faces destruction (vv. 15–16).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:1–9 Hosea finishes his book with a series of moving appeals to the wayward northern kingdom to return to the Lord and find healing and covenant renewal.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:2–3 Take with you words means to know ahead of time what you will say. Hosea then gives the words of confession the people should use before the Lord (vv. 2b–3). These verses include covenant terms that express God’s grace and the people’s gratitude. Take away all iniquity recalls Ex. 34:7 (“forgiving”; compare Ps. 32:5). Pay with bulls the vows of our lips probably describes peace offerings (see Ex. 24:5; Num. 7:88), in which the grateful worshiper enjoys a meal in God’s presence. This is what Israel can expect if they return to the Lord.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:4 Astounding promises follow the calls to repentance to encourage Israel to return. The Lord will heal their apostasy. As noted in 5:13–14, the prophets often depict sin as a sickness and renewal as healing.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:5 Dew was an important source of water for Israel.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:6 his shoots shall spread out. An expanding kingdom is like the growth of a great tree: Israel’s original calling was to spread its influence through the whole world.

HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:7 they shall flourish like the grain . . . like the vine . . . like the wine. Israel again becomes a choice vine, which was her purpose from the beginning (compare 10:1). The landscape described here is an Eden-like paradise, illustrating covenant renewal (compare 2:14–23).

HOSEA—NOTE ON 14:9 The Lord is justified in punishing Israel for ingratitude and covenant breaking. Yet there is a final appeal for the wise, who understand (compare 4:14). Most of the book has addressed Ephraim as a corporate body, but these terms focus on the response of individual Israelites. There are some in Israel who really understand the grace that God offers in his covenant.

c. 500 B.C.?
Prophetic ministry of Joel begins

Author and Date

Little is known about Joel, a prophet from Judah (perhaps Jerusalem). Most scholars date the book after the exile to Babylon (586 B.C.).

Background

Joel calls the inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem to lament and return to the Lord during a time of national disaster. A locust plague has destroyed both wine (1:5, 7, 12) and grain (1:10). This threatens the people’s ability to present offerings in the temple (1:9, 13, 16).

Key Themes

1. Day of the Lord. The dominant theme of the book is the “day of the Lord.” This describes a time when the presence of the Lord brings judgment and/or deliverance and blessing, depending on the circumstances. Therefore, although the “day” results in destruction for the nations, it can also be seen as a time of salvation for God’s people. The Lord remains a refuge in the chaos of judgment (3:15–16).
2. Repentance. If the whole community would cry out to the Lord (1:13–20) and look to him—not merely with external actions but in sincerity and commitment (2:12–13)—then judgment may be prevented. However, the Lord is not bound by the acts of the community (2:14). It is his decision to either send or withhold the destruction by the locusts (1:15), just as the army is his to command (2:11).

3. The Lord in their midst. The reason the Lord will turn from judgment to blessing is to express his covenant-keeping character (2:13, 18–26; 3:18). His promise to dwell in the midst of his people is prominent not only in Joel (2:27; 3:17, 21) but also throughout the OT (Num. 35:34; Isa. 12:6; Zeph. 3:15, 17; Zech. 2:10–11). God restores what the locusts have destroyed (Joel 2:27) and protects Israel as the world crumbles (3:16–17) so that the people will know his presence. This theme is restated at the end of the book (3:21), showing how important it was for Joel.
4. These three themes come together in the promise of the future outpouring of the Spirit (2:28–32). This outpouring is associated with the day of the Lord (2:31) in both its judgmental (2:30–31; see 2:10; 3:15) and its saving (2:32) roles. The outpouring of the Spirit is also related to repentance: those who are saved call "on the name of the LORD" (2:32). The giving of the Spirit is the ultimate evidence of God "in the midst of" his people (Isa. 63:11; see Hag. 2:5).

Outline

I. The Judgment against Judah and the Day of the Lord (1:1–2:17)
    A. Locust invasion: forerunner of the day of the Lord (1:1–20)
    B. Army invasion: the arrival of the day of the Lord (2:1–17)
II. The Mercy of the Lord and Judgment against the Nations (2:18–3:21)
    A. Mercy: the Lord responds by restoring his people (2:18–32)
    B. Judgment: the Lord's judgment against the nations and his dwelling with his people (3:1–21)

The Setting of Joel

c. 500 B.C.?

Though there is much debate about the date of Joel's prophecies, it is likely that they occurred during a national calamity sometime after Judah returned from exile in Babylon.

The Global Message of Joel

The central message of Joel, as is so often the case in the prophets, is that of salvation amid judgment. And in Joel both judgment and salvation are worldwide in nature. Judgment is global in the sense that, throughout Joel, judgment will come upon Israel (Joel 1:15; 2:2, 11) as well as upon the nations of the world (3:2–3). Salvation is global in the sense that God will one day pour out his Spirit "on all flesh" (2:28), so that "everyone who calls on the name of the LORD shall be saved" (2:32).

Joel in Redemptive History

The memory of Eden. In Eden, God brought forth a flourishing, vibrant paradise. Food and drink were plentiful. Plants thrived. Mankind and animals dwelt in happy unity. Above all, God dwelt in perfect fellowship with his people. After the fall, in which this flourishing shalom was broken on every level, God began the great historical work of restoring his people. When the Lord describes the Promised Land as "flowing with milk and honey," for example (Ex. 3:8, 17), these are terms that would have been understood by the Jews as describing a restoration of Eden (see Joel 2:3; 3:18).

The undoing of creation. Accordingly, time and again throughout the prophets divine judgment is described as an undoing of what flourished in Eden. Joel's prophecy is filled with this kind of imagery. Joel 1 describes an invasion of locusts as undoing precisely what had been done in creation: "The fields are destroyed, the ground mourns, because the grain is destroyed, the wine dries up, the oil languishes" (Joel 1:10). The cattle and the sheep are starving (1:18, 20). And just as light dawned on the world in creation, so blackness covers the earth in this undoing of creation: "The sun and the moon are darkened, and the stars withdraw their shining" (2:10; compare 2:2; 3:15).

The day of the Lord. All these signs of judgment are summed up in Joel's repeated reference to "the day of the LORD" (1:15; 2:1, 11, 31; 3:14). Joel identifies the day of the Lord with the invasion of locusts, which utterly destroy everything in their path. This is the judgment coming upon Israel due to their sin. Yet even amid this sin, God will spare those who repent and turn to him (2:12–14). God “will restore to you the years that the swarming locust has eaten” (2:25).

Eden regained. This promise of divine restoration culminates in Joel’s prophecy that God will pour out his Spirit at some future time “on all flesh” (2:28–32). This prophecy was fulfilled on the day of Pentecost in Acts 2, when God poured out his Spirit on a multitude of different nations (Acts 2:16–21). The prophecy will be brought to final completion and will achieve its ultimate purpose when the saints worship Christ in heaven, the “ransomed people for God from every tribe and language and people and nation” (Rev. 5:9). There, Eden will be regained once and for all (Rev. 22:1–5), this time without any possibility of corruption.

Universal Themes in Joel

Judgment on godless nations. After recounting the swarms of locusts that will plague Israel in Joel 1, and then promising final restoration for Israel in Joel 2, the prophecy turns its focus in the third chapter to the nations. The theme throughout Joel 3 is God’s righteous judgment on the godless nations of the world. “I will gather all the nations and bring them down to the Valley of Jehoshaphat. And I will enter into judgment with them there” (Joel 3:2). Whatever injustices the nations of the world got away with then or are getting away with today, especially injustice toward his own people, God promises to bring such evil into judgment.

God’s far-reaching grace in the midst of judgment. In Exodus 34, God revealed himself to Moses as “a God merciful and gracious, slow to anger, and abounding in steadfast love” (Ex. 34:6). This foundational description of the Lord is picked up throughout the rest of the Old Testament, including at Joel 2:13: “Return to the LORD your God, for he is gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and abounding in steadfast love.” The promise of restoration in Joel 2 then culminates in the prophecy that God will pour out his Spirit on all flesh and that “everyone who calls on the name of the LORD shall be saved” (2:32). Centuries later, the apostle Paul quoted Joel 2:32 in Romans to emphasize the universal scope of the gospel of grace (Rom. 10:12–13).

True repentance. As has happened so often down through the history of God’s people, Israel in Joel’s day was performing the appropriate actions for worship externally, but their hearts were far from God. “‘Yet even now,’ declares the LORD, ‘return to me with all your heart, with fasting, with weeping, and with mourning; and rend your hearts and not your garments’”

(Joel 2:12–13). The tendency to try to get by on mere ritual is common to fallen human nature, and wherever the church exists in the world it must guard against this.

The Global Message of Joel for Today

Joel's prophecy has much to say to the global church today. Indeed, in Joel we find the message of the whole Bible in a nutshell: salvation amid judgment.

Judgment is inevitable. Indeed, in light of God's justice and holiness, it would be wrong of God not to judge. Judgment will come both upon all those who reject God outright as well as on those who claim to know him yet who have resisted true repentance, choosing instead to worship him in a merely formal, external, and hollow way. Divine justice will overtake every unrepentant sinner, regardless of class, ethnicity, or culture. Injustice will be defeated, and the Lord will establish his righteous reign.

Yet salvation awaits all who sincerely call upon the Lord. He welcomes into his family those who truly cry out to him, whether they come from the most religious or from the most ungodly background. To all those around the world who trust in the Lord and what he has done in Jesus Christ for the salvation of sinners, God will grant full and free forgiveness of sins. More than this, he will pour out his own Spirit on them. And one day God will finally bring all his people into a restored new creation, a return to Eden: "And in that day the mountains shall drip sweet wine, and the hills shall flow with milk, and all the streambeds of Judah shall flow with water; and a fountain shall come forth from the house of the LORD" (Joel 3:18).

JOEL 1 [†]The word of the LORD that came to Joel, the son of Pethuel:

An Invasion of Locusts

2[†] [a]Hear this, [b]you elders;
give ear, [b]all inhabitants of the land!
[c]Has such a thing happened in your days,
or in the days of your fathers?
3[†] [d]Tell your children of it,
and let your children tell their children,
and their children to another generation.

4[†] What [e]the cutting locust left,
[f]the swarming locust has eaten.
What the swarming locust left,
[g]the hopping locust has eaten,
and what the hopping locust left,
[h]the destroying locust has eaten.

5[†] Awake, you drunkards, and weep, and [i]wail, all you drinkers of wine,
because of [j]the sweet wine,
for it is cut off from your mouth.
6[†] For [k]a nation has come up against my land,
[k]powerful and beyond number;
[l]its teeth are lions’ teeth,
and it has the fangs of a lioness.
7[†] It has laid waste my vine and splintered my [m]fig tree;
it has stripped off their bark and thrown it down;
their branches are made white.

8[†] Lament like a virgin [1] [n]wearing sackcloth for the bridegroom of her youth.
9[†] [o]The grain offering and the drink offering are cut off from the house of the LORD.

[p] The priests mourn,
  [p] the ministers of the LORD.
10[†] The fields are destroyed, [q] the ground mourns,
because [r] the grain is destroyed, [r] the wine dries up,
  the oil languishes.

11 [s] Be ashamed, [2] O tillers of the soil;
  wail, O vinedressers,
for the wheat and the barley,
  [t] because the harvest of the field has perished.
12 The vine dries up;
  [u] the fig tree languishes.
Pomegranate, palm, and apple,
  all the trees of the field are dried up,
and [v] gladness dries up from the children of man.

A Call to Repentance

13[†] [w] Put on sackcloth and lament, [p] O priests;
  [x] wail, O ministers of the altar.
Go in, [w] pass the night in sackcloth,
  [p] O ministers of my God!
[y] Because grain offering and drink offering are withheld from the house of your God.

14[†] [z] Consecrate a fast;
  [z] call a solemn assembly.
Gather [a] the elders and [a] all the inhabitants of the land to the house of the LORD your God, and cry out to the LORD.

15[†] Alas for the day!
[b] For the day of the LORD is near,
and as destruction from the Almighty [3] it comes.
16 Is not the food cut off before our eyes,
[c] joy and gladness
from the house of our God?

17[†] [d] The seed shrivels under the clods; [4]
the storehouses are desolate;
the granaries are torn down because [e] the grain has dried up.
18[†] How [f] the beasts groan!
The herds of cattle are perplexed because there is no pasture for them;
even the flocks of sheep suffer. [5]

19[†] To you, [g] O LORD, I call.
[h] For fire has devoured
the pastures of the wilderness, [h] and flame has burned
all the trees of the field.
20 Even the beasts of the field [i] pant for you because the water brooks are dried up, [h] and fire has devoured
the pastures of the wilderness.

The Day of the LORD

JOEL 2 [†] [j] Blow a trumpet in [k] Zion;
sound an alarm on [k] my holy mountain!
Let all the inhabitants of the land tremble, for [l] the day of the LORD is coming; it is near,
2 [m] a day of darkness and gloom,
[m] a day of clouds and thick darkness!

Like blackness there is spread upon the mountains
[n]a great and powerful people;
[o]their like has never been before, nor will be again after them through the years of all generations.

[3][†] [p]Fire devours before them,
and behind them a flame burns.
The land is like [q]the garden of Eden before them, but [r]behind them a desolate wilderness,
and nothing escapes them.

[4][†] [s]Their appearance is like the appearance of horses, and like war horses they run.
[5] [t]As with the rumbling of chariots,
they leap on the tops of the mountains,
like the crackling of [u]a flame of fire devouring the stubble, [n]like a powerful army drawn up for battle.

[6] Before them peoples are in anguish;
[v]all faces grow pale.
[7][†] Like warriors they charge;
like soldiers they scale the wall.
They march each on his way;
they do not swerve from their paths.
[8] They do not jostle one another;
[w]each marches in his path;
they burst through the weapons and are not halted.
[9] [x]They leap upon the city,
they run upon the walls,
[y]they climb up into the houses,
[y]they enter through the windows [z]like a thief.

10[†] [a]The earth quakes before them;
the heavens tremble.
[b]The sun and the moon are darkened,
and the stars withdraw their shining.
11[†] [c]The LORD utters his voice before [d]his army,
for his camp is exceedingly great;
[e]he who executes his word is powerful.
[f]For the day of the LORD is [g]great and very awesome;
[h]who can endure it?

Return to the LORD

12[†] “Yet even now,” declares the LORD,
[i]“return to me with all your heart,
[j]with fasting, with weeping, and with mourning;
13[†] and [k]rend your hearts and not [l]your garments.”
Return to the LORD your God, [m]for he is gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and abounding in steadfast love;
[n]and he relents over disaster.
14[†] [o]Who knows whether he will not turn and relent, and [p]leave a blessing behind him, [q]a grain offering and a drink offering for the LORD your God?

15 [r]Blow the trumpet in Zion; [s]consecrate a fast;
call a solemn assembly;
16[†] gather the people.
[t]Consecrate the congregation;
assemble the elders;
[u]gather the children,
even nursing infants.
[v]Let the bridegroom leave his room,

and the bride her chamber.

17[†] [w] Between the [x] vestibule and the [y] altar
[z] let the priests, the ministers of the Lord, weep and say, “Spare your people, O Lord, and make not your heritage a reproach,
a byword among the nations. [1]
[a] Why should they say among the peoples, ‘Where is their God?’”

The Lord Had Pity

18[†] [b] Then the Lord became jealous for his land
[c] and had pity on his people.
19 The Lord answered and said to his people, “Behold, [d] I am sending to you grain, wine, and oil, [d] and you will be satisfied;
and I will no more make you a reproach among the nations.

20[†] “I will remove the northerner far from you,
and drive him into a parched and desolate land,
his vanguard [2] into [e] the eastern sea,
and his rear guard [3] into [f] the western sea;
[g] the stench and foul smell of him will rise,
for he has done great things.

21[†] “Fear not, O land;
be glad and rejoice,
for [h] the Lord has done great things!
22[†] Fear not, [i] you beasts of the field,
for [j] the pastures of the wilderness are green; [k] the tree bears its fruit;
the fig tree and [k] vine give their full yield.

23 [l]“Be glad, O children of Zion, and [l]rejoice in the LORD your God, for he has given [m]the early rain for your vindication;
he has poured down for you abundant rain,
[m]the early and [n]the latter rain, as before.

24 “The threshing floors shall be full of grain;
the vats shall overflow with wine and oil.
25[†] I will restore [4] to you the years that [o]the swarming locust has eaten,
[o]the hopper, [o]the destroyer, and [o]the cutter,
[p]my great army, which I sent among you.

26 [q]“You shall eat in plenty and be satisfied, and praise the name of the LORD your God,
who has dealt wondrously with you.
And my people [r]shall never again be put to shame.
27[†] [s]You shall know that I am [t]in the midst of Israel, and that [u]I am the LORD your God [v]and there is none else.
And my people [r]shall never again be put to shame.

The LORD Will Pour Out His Spirit

28[†] [5] [w]“And it shall come to pass afterward, that [x]I will pour out my Spirit on all flesh; [y]your sons and [z]your daughters shall prophesy, your old men shall dream dreams,
and your young men shall see visions.
29 [a]Even on the male and female servants in those days I will pour out my Spirit.

30[†]“And I will show [b]wonders in the heavens and [b]on the earth, blood and fire and columns of smoke. 31 [c]The sun shall be turned to darkness, [d]and the moon to blood, [e]before the great and awesome day of the LORD comes. 32[†]And it shall come to pass that [f]everyone who calls on the name of the LORD shall be saved. [g] For in Mount Zion and in Jerusalem there shall be those who escape, as the LORD has said, and among [h] the survivors shall be those whom the LORD calls.

The LORD Judges the Nations

JOEL 3 [†] [1] “For behold, [i] in those days and at that time, when I restore the fortunes of Judah and Jerusalem, [2][†] [j] I will gather all the nations and bring them down to the Valley of Jehoshaphat. And [k] I will enter into judgment with them there, on behalf of my people and my heritage Israel, because they have scattered them among the nations and have divided up my land, [3][†]and [l] have cast lots for my people, and have traded a boy for a prostitute, and have sold a girl for wine and have drunk it.

[4][†]“What are you to me, [m] O Tyre and Sidon, and all [n] the regions of Philistia? Are you paying me back for something? If you are paying me back, [o] I will return your payment on your own head swiftly and speedily. [5]For [p] you have taken my silver and my gold, and have carried my rich treasures into your temples. [2] [6][†]You have sold [q] the people of Judah and Jerusalem to the Greeks in order to remove them far from their own border. [7][†]Behold, I will stir them up from the place to which you have sold them, and [o] I will return your payment on your own head. [8]I will sell your sons and your daughters into the hand of the people of Judah, and they will sell them to the [r] Sabeans, to a nation far away, for the LORD has spoken.”

[9][†] Proclaim this among the nations:
[s] Consecrate for war; [3]
stir up the mighty men.
Let all the men of war draw near;
let them come up.
[10][†] [t] Beat your plowshares into swords,
and [t] your pruning hooks into spears;
let the weak say, “I am a warrior.”

[11] [u] Hasten and come,
all you surrounding nations,
and gather yourselves there.

[v] Bring down your warriors, O LORD.
12 Let the nations stir themselves up and come up to [w] the Valley of Jehoshaphat; [x] for there I will sit to judge
all the surrounding nations.

13[†] [y] Put in the sickle,
[z] for the harvest is ripe.
[a] Go in, tread,
[a] for the winepress is full.
The vats overflow,
for their evil is great.

14[†] Multitudes, multitudes,
in the valley of decision!
For [b] the day of the LORD is near
in the valley of decision.
15 [c] The sun and the moon are darkened,
and the stars withdraw their shining.

16[†] [d] The LORD roars from Zion, and [d] utters his voice from Jerusalem,
[e] and the heavens and the earth quake.
But the LORD is [f] a refuge to his people,
a stronghold to the people of Israel.

The Glorious Future of Judah

17[†] [g] "So you shall know that I am the LORD your God, [h] who dwells in Zion, [i] my holy mountain.
And Jerusalem shall be holy,
and [j] strangers shall never again pass through it.

18[†] "And in that day
[k] the mountains shall drip sweet wine, and the hills shall flow with milk,

and [l] all the streambeds of Judah shall flow with water;
[m] and a fountain shall come forth from the house of the LORD and water the Valley of [n] Shittim.

19[†] [o] “Egypt shall become a desolation and [p] Edom a desolate wilderness, [q] for the violence done to the people of Judah,
because they have shed innocent blood in their land.
20[†] [r] But Judah shall be inhabited forever, and Jerusalem to all generations.
21[†] [s] I will avenge their blood, blood I have not avenged, [4] [h] for the LORD dwells in Zion.”

Study Notes for Joel

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:1–2:17 The Judgment against Judah and the Day of the Lord. This first part of Joel introduces the Lord's judgment in the form of a locust infestation, drought, and the coming of a great army. These events on the "day of the LORD" are followed by a call to seek the Lord.

1:1–20 Locust Invasion: Forerunner of the Day of the Lord. The first unit (vv. 1–14) describes the devastation that has come upon Judah. This is the reason for the call to lament in the second unit (vv. 15–20).

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:1 The word . . . came to. This message is from God. The prophet is given the privilege of delivering that message to the people.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:2 Elders likely refers to older members of the community.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:3 Tell your children. See Deut. 6:4–9.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:4 The locust is a kind of grasshopper. Under the right conditions they travel in large swarms and destroy all plant life in their path (cutting . . . swarming . . . hopping . . . destroying).

FACT

The desert locust has been a destructive force that has plagued agricultural production for thousands of years. Winds from the Sahara have been known to carry them across oceans. Their devastation of crops often leads to famine. Joel compares them to a great army.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:5 drunkards, drinkers of wine. Both groups are unaware of the coming chaos. They will have no sweet wine to drink when the locusts destroy the vines.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:6 Locusts are compared to a nation, powerful as a great army.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:7 The vine and fig tree are symbols of a prosperous and peaceful life for Israel, which the Lord who provides it sees as his property.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:8 bridegroom of her youth. The people are called to grieve as deeply as a betrothed virgin whose promised husband dies before they are married.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:9 offering. Nothing is left for the offerings that accompany the daily burnt offering (see Lev. 1:3–17). priests mourn. Their loss is personal, since they would ordinarily eat a portion of the offering.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:10 ground mourns . . . oil languishes. Joel poetically personifies these things as experiencing grief. The presence of grain, wine, and oil is evidence of God's covenant blessing, and their absence is evidence of his judgment.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:13 The commands to put on and lament imitate the actions of the virgin (v. 8). The priests lament because the offering is withheld.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:14 Consecrate and gather are further tasks for the priests. a fast . . . cry out. Old Testament fasts are a sign of mourning, repentance, and humility. They are a way of seeking God's help.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:15 The day of the LORD is a major theme in Joel. It can refer to a particular act of judgment, like the devastation of the locusts, or it can refer to the future final judgment. "That day" can also be a blessing. For God's people, it is also associated with his presence, blessing, and salvation.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:17 seed shrivels . . . clods. The precise meaning of these three words is uncertain. Nevertheless, it is clear from what follows that a drought has also come upon the land.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:18 the flocks of sheep suffer. Creation suffers because of Israel's guilt.

JOEL—NOTE ON 1:19–20 To you, O LORD, I call. The devastation brought by the Lord can be relieved only by him.

2:1–17 Army Invasion: The Arrival of the Day of the Lord. Joel describes the coming of an army, whose arrival may yet be prevented by a wholehearted return to the Lord. Verses 1–11 describe the coming of this great army, and vv. 12–17 describe the command to return to the Lord.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:1 Zion is the place of the Lord's throne. The name can refer to the temple area or to all of Jerusalem.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:3 Fire devours . . . flame burns. The army is associated with destructive fire. like the garden of Eden . . . a desolate wilderness. The destructive power of this "great . . . people" (v. 2) can only be compared to the devastation of God's original creation by mankind's fall (Genesis 3).

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:4–5 like . . . horses. Joel compares the threatened locust plague to a powerful army.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:7–9 they do not swerve. . . . They do not jostle. This army cannot be moved from its assigned course.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:10 quakes before them . . . tremble. . . . darkened. Only the day of the Lord could produce this effect on the earth. In many cases in the Prophets, the Hebrew verb for "tremble" was associated with the end of the age and God's final judgment.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:11 utters his voice. Thunder is associated with the events of v. 10. his army. The force that brings such dread and terror is under God's command. He who executes probably refers to the army, which carries out the Lord's command.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:12 Yet even now . . . return. There is still time for the people to repent.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:13 Rend your hearts is an expression of internal anguish. This response, along with wholehearted devotion (v. 12), is similar to the circumcised heart described in Deut. 30:6.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:14 Who knows. The sovereign God acts according to his own purposes. Turn and relent suggests that the Lord, in keeping with his revealed character, will bring blessing instead of disaster.

JOEL

The name Joel means "Yahweh is God." Little is known about the prophet, who was probably from Judah. It is likely that he ministered during a national calamity sometime after Judah returned from exile in Babylon. The primary theme in the book of Joel is the "day of the LORD"—a time when the presence of the Lord will bring both judgment and deliverance. Joel teaches that, while the day of the Lord will bring destruction on the nations, it will also be a time of salvation for God's people. Judah will be the means through which God pours out his Spirit on all people (2:28–32), and he will preserve them against all who seek to destroy them. (Joel 2:11–14)

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:16 Consecrate the congregation. As in 1:14, all members of the community assemble for worship, preparing to call upon the Lord with a fast. Even nursing infants and newlyweds are required to participate.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:17 The place of prayer was between the entrance to the temple and the altar. Your people is an appeal to God's covenantal care for his people. A byword means a common saying, often used in scorn. See also ESV footnote.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:18–3:21 The Mercy of the Lord and Judgment against the Nations. The change from prophetic utterances to more of a conversational tone marks the beginning of the second half of Joel.

2:18–32 Mercy: The Lord Responds by Restoring His People. The Lord answers the prayer of v. 17. He restores the reputation of his people (vv. 18–20), the land (vv. 21–27), and his presence through pouring out the Spirit (vv. 28–32).

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:18 jealous. Jealousy here is a deep devotion that leads the Lord to intervene, saving his people for the sake of his own glory.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:20 The northerner is probably a final apocalyptic enemy of Israel. The words vanguard . . . rear guard show that destruction is complete and final.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:21 The “foul smell” (v. 20) of corpses is all that remains of the great enemy. This contrasts with the great things done by the Lord, whose acts of salvation are the reason for the command to fear not.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:22 The Hebrew verb represented by are green is found elsewhere in Scripture only at Gen. 1:11. Perhaps Joel wants his readers to imagine the restoration of the land to an Eden-like state.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:25 Being human often means bearing loss. Yet the same Lord who brings disaster when his people sin is also the Lord of mercy and abundant grace. He is fully able to give back what was taken: I will restore to you.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:27 You shall know. The great purpose of the nation’s trauma is that they will know God’s presence, know that he is the covenant-keeping God, and know that he will remove their shame.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:28–29 pour out my Spirit. Just as God will send life-giving rain (vv. 18–27), so also will he pour out his Spirit on his people in the future. all flesh. All God’s people will share this experience. All will prophesy and dream dreams and see visions.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:30–31 Some scholars believe that the events of judgment described here, which did not take place at Pentecost (see notes on Acts 2:17; 2:19–21), will still take place sometime in the future, at the return of Christ. Others believe that these verses should be understood as prophetic symbolism for God’s judgment, and that no specific literal fulfillment is intended.

JOEL—NOTE ON 2:32 everyone. Salvation is extended beyond the devastation caused by the locusts. calls on the name. Paul quotes this in Rom. 10:13. He understood these verses to describe events in the messianic age, when Jews and Gentiles alike would be saved.

FACT

The sun shall be turned to darkness could be describing a solar eclipse, but more broadly this refers to the disintegration of the cosmos, which was understood by Jews to be a sign of God's judgment. Note that when Jesus was on the cross, the earth became dark for three hours, indicating God's judgment (see Mark 15:33).

3:1–21 Judgment: The Lord's Judgment against the Nations and His Dwelling with His People. The Lord provides reasons for judgment (vv. 1–8), a description of the climactic judgment on the day of the Lord (vv. 9–16), and certain hope of the Lord dwelling with his people (vv. 17–21).

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:1 In those days recalls the events of 2:28–32, particularly the day of the Lord.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:2 all the nations. That is, all oppressors of God's people. Valley of Jehoshaphat refers to a place of final judgment. Scattered refers to deportation associated with exile.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:3 cast lots for my people. In order to take them away as slaves.

FACT

Slave trading (3:3) was a big business during wartime. Prisoners of war were regularly sold to slave dealers, who often took them far from their native lands. Most likely they would then be sold to the highest bidder.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:4 Tyre and Sidon were Phoenician cities along the Mediterranean coast. Relations between Israel and Phoenicia were occasionally good. Philistia, on the other hand, was a longtime enemy of Israel. I will return your payment on your own head. God will judge, or pay back, the Phoenicians and Philistines for stealing Judah's silver and gold.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:6 sold . . . to the Greeks. Both the Philistines and the Phoenicians are accused of selling slaves to the Edomites.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:7–8 stir them up. The enslaved will become the enslavers. Sidon was destroyed by Artaxerxes III in 343 B.C., and Tyre was defeated by Alexander the Great in 332. Sabeans. Most commentators identify this people as inhabitants of the land of Sheba or Saba, located far away in southern Arabia.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:9 Consecrate. The nations are told to spiritually prepare themselves for war, unaware that the Lord of heaven and earth is their opponent.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:10 Beat your plowshares into swords. The warfare preparation is so thorough that agricultural tools must be transformed into weapons. the weak. The great need for soldiers means that even those unfit for battle must become warriors.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:13 harvest is ripe. . . . winepress is full. . . . vats overflow. The nations' evil is compared to grain and wine, and judgment to harvest and wine making. Their evil is full-grown. It is time to harvest (that is, to judge).

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:14 Multitudes. All the people of the world, standing before the Lord for judgment. valley of decision. The Valley of Jehoshaphat (see note on v. 2). the day of the LORD is near. The nations will soon be judged.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:16 roars . . . utters his voice. God's voice alone causes the world to quake. refuge, stronghold. Amid the confusion, the people of God are secure.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:17 you shall know that I am the LORD your God. Judgment and salvation lead to knowledge of the covenant Lord and the removal of the people's shame. Zion stands for the promise of God's presence among his people. Jerusalem shall be holy. Where God is present, all is purified. strangers. Those who do not worship the Lord.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:18 in that day. That is, the day of the Lord (2:2; 3:1). wine . . . milk . . . water. This and other descriptions of God's provision recall the earlier absence of these things. a fountain . . . from the house of the LORD. Compare Ezek. 47:1–13.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:19 Egypt and Edom were ancient enemies of Israel, representing all of those opposed to God’s people. Desolation was prophesied against Egypt and Edom. The nations shed, that is, “poured out” blood, but the Lord will “pour out” his Spirit.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:20 The Lord’s residence in Zion ensures that his people live in unending security.

JOEL—NOTE ON 3:21 The verse brings together the two primary themes of Joel: judgment on the day of the Lord, and the fact that the Lord dwells in Zion.

Introduction to Amos

Timeline

793/781 B.C.	c. 760 B.C.	722 B.C.
Reign of Jeroboam II begins	Prophetic ministry of Amos begins	Fall of Israel

Author and Date

Amos was not a prophet by profession (see 1:1; 7:14–15) but nevertheless was entrusted with bringing a message from the Lord to the northern kingdom of Israel. He prophesied sometime between 793–739 B.C., probably nearer the end of that period.

Theme

The theme of Amos is the universal justice of God. The Israelites clearly expected a “day of the Lord” when all their enemies would be judged (1:2–2:5). What they were not prepared for was that they too would be judged (2:6–9:10). In fact, they would be held more accountable than their neighbors.

Purpose, Occasion, and Background

After about 780–745 B.C., the Assyrian Empire was unable to continue the pressure it had put on the nations of the Canaanite coast during the previous century. At this same time, both Judah and Israel were blessed with fairly stable governments. As a result of these two factors, the two nations (especially Israel) were experiencing a time of wealth and prosperity. But what the Israelites saw as the beginning of a new “Golden Age” was really the end for them. It was Amos’s unhappy task to tell them of God’s coming judgment. Within just a few years Israel would no longer exist as a nation. They would continue to exist as a scattered people only by God’s unmerited grace (9:11–15). “The day of the Lord,” far from being a day of blessing, was going to be a day of darkness. By 722 B.C. Assyria would regain its strength, and the Israelites would be conquered and exiled.

Key Themes

1. The Lord is the Creator of the universe. Therefore his ethical norms are universal, and all people are subject to judgment in light of them.
2. Justice and righteousness in the treatment of other people are the key evidences of a right relationship to the Lord.
3. Religious observances in the absence of social justice are disgusting to God.
4. Israel's covenant with the Lord did not guarantee special protection for them when they broke that covenant. Rather, it meant that they would be held to a higher standard of obedience.
5. Thus, the "day of the LORD" would not be a time of miraculous deliverance for unrepentant Israel. Rather, it would be a time of terrible destruction.
6. A faithful remnant of Israel would be preserved and would someday see glorious restoration and blessing.

The Near East at the Time of Amos

c. 750 B.C.

Amos likely prophesied to Israel during the decades just before the fall of Samaria to the Assyrian Empire. The resurgence of this ancient empire dominated much of the politics of the ancient Near East from the time of Jeroboam until the end of the seventh century B.C. Assyria would eventually engulf nearly the entire Near East, from Ur to Ararat to Egypt.

The Global Message of Amos

The message of Amos lands on the global church today with as much force and necessity as it landed on the people of God 2,700 years ago. The key idea in Amos is that God is just and impartial and will judge not only the nations but also his own people for their life of ease and apathy amid human suffering. To prosperous nations around the world today, and particularly prosperous Christians in those nations, the prophecy of Amos is a clear call for active engagement with the poor and afflicted, especially among God's people.

Amos in Redemptive History

The purpose of prosperity. God created humanity to flourish. When sin entered the world, the ground was cursed so that only through toil and hardship would mankind's work prove fruitful (Gen. 3:17–19). Yet in his great kindness, or as a hint of the prosperity to come in the new earth, or to test his people, or for other reasons, God often allows human beings to flourish in terms of material prosperity. During such times of prosperity, God's people are called to embody his character, gladly extending mercy, compassion, and generosity to those in need. God had called Abraham in order that his descendants, the children of Israel, might exercise precisely such mercy and justice, so that they would be a light to the nations of the world (Gen. 12:1–3; compare Amos 3:2).

Israel's misuse of prosperity. In Israel and Judah during the eighth century B.C., at the time of Amos's prophecy, the people of God were prospering materially. Yet as was so often the case down through Israel's history, they failed to love one another as they had been called to do (Amos 3:10; 5:7, 12; 8:4). God had redeemed Israel in mercy from Egypt (2:10; 3:1), and the Israelites were now to act in mercy toward one another accordingly. Yet, lazily indulging in God's gift of prosperity, their worship of God had turned hollow (5:21–23; compare 4:4–5) and heartfelt concern for one another had withered (2:6–7).

Judgment for Israel's lack of mercy. Because of all this, the Lord will exile his people (Amos 5:27; 7:17) and will bring upon them the "day of the Lord," a day of climactic judgment. More than any other prophet, Amos describes this coming day of judgment in terms of darkness. “Why would you have the day of the LORD? It is darkness, and not light. . . . Is not the day of the LORD darkness, and not light, and gloom with no brightness in it?” (5:18, 20; compare 4:13; 5:8). Toward the end of Amos we even hear the Lord say regarding the day of final judgment, “I will make the sun go down at noon and darken the earth in broad daylight” (8:9).

Ultimate prosperity in the new earth. In the next verse we are told that this cosmic darkening will be linked with mourning that is “like the mourning for an only son” (Amos 8:10). This is an arresting passage in Amos’s prophecy because it describes precisely what took place when Jesus hung on the cross seven centuries after Amos lived: the earth grew dark at noon, for three hours, signifying God’s judgment, as an only son, God’s only Son, perished (Mark 15:33; John 3:16). Amos’s prophecy then concludes with a deeply comforting promise of restoration through faithfulness to David (Amos 9:11–15). Through this restoration God’s people will be reinstated in the land, and “the mountains shall drip sweet wine, and all the hills shall flow with it” (9:13).

On the cross, Jesus experienced the judgment of the prophetic day of the Lord for all those around the world who trust in him. These believers “from all tribes and peoples and languages” (Rev. 7:9) will one day enter into the lavish abundance described in Amos 9, a restored paradise, a new earth—a true and final Eden.

Universal Themes in Amos

God’s impartial justice. The Lord does not overlook injustice on the part of his own people simply because they are his. Indeed, God’s covenant relationship makes justice and righteousness in the lives of his people all the more crucial, for they are representing the Lord to the nations (see Rom. 2:17–24). Thus when his people “trample on the needy and bring the poor of the land to an end” (Amos 8:4), God will certainly not exempt them from the judgment that such selfishness deserves. Amos reminds the global church of the commitment to justice that is embedded in the very character of God.

The dangers of wealth. “Woe to those who are at ease in Zion,” say the Lord in Amos 6. “Woe to those who lie on beds of ivory and stretch themselves out on their couches . . . who drink wine in bowls and anoint themselves with the finest oils” (6:1, 4, 6). Not only are God’s people living in luxurious ease, however, but in their self-satisfied greed they are also trampling on the needs of the poor, dealing deceitfully in business transactions, and profaning the sabbath to make more money (8:4–6). Such is the tendency of the human heart when prosperity comes. While material prosperity is a blessing from the Lord (Prov. 10:22) and is appropriately earned by those who work diligently and wisely (Prov. 21:5), the accumulation of wealth tends to lead to a variety of temptations and sins (1 Tim. 6:9–10). Material wealth is to be received gratefully and yet must never displace God as the center of our affections—and the main practical way to keep wealth in its proper place is to be generous toward those in need, especially in light of the generosity God has shown us in Christ (2 Cor. 8:9; compare 2 Cor. 9:11).

The Global Message of Amos for Today

The prophecy of Amos carries an urgent message for the global church in the twenty-first century. Where God has brought material blessing to his people through honest hard work and diligence, such blessing should be received gratefully and enjoyed. Yet in light of massive worldwide needs such as poverty, lack of clean water, malnutrition, and inadequate medical care, material blessing granted to some believers must go out to those parts of the world where help is needed. To do anything less is to tragically imitate the people in Amos’s day who neglected the poor among them. Such neglect deserves, and will receive, God’s judgment.

The church must never presume upon God’s favor. His justice is universal. He will deal in perfect justice with those who claim his love and compassion but fail to extend that love and compassion in concrete ways to others. As those who have been shown mercy, may we as the church universal love our neighbors, both near and far, with the radical, self-giving love shown to us in the gospel. “Be imitators of God, as beloved children. And walk in love, as Christ loved us and gave himself up for us” (Eph. 5:1–2).

AMOS 1 [†]The words of Amos, who was among the [a]shepherds [1] of [b]Tekoa, which he saw concerning Israel [c]in the days of [d]Uzziah king of Judah and in the days of [e]Jeroboam the son of Joash, king of Israel, two years [2] before [f]the earthquake.

Judgment on Israel’s Neighbors

[2][†]And he said:

[g]“The LORD roars from Zion and utters his voice from Jerusalem; [h]the pastures of the shepherds mourn,
and the [i]top of [j]Carmel withers.”

[3][†]Thus says the LORD:

[k]“For three transgressions of [l]Damascus, and for four, [l]I will not revoke the punishment, [3]
because they have threshed [m]Gilead with threshing sledges of iron.
[4][†] [n]So I will send a fire upon the house of [o]Hazael, and it shall devour the strongholds of [o]Ben-hadad.
[5][†] I will [p]break the gate-bar of [l]Damascus, and cut off the inhabitants from the Valley of [q]Aven, [4] and him who holds the scepter from [r]Beth-eden;
and the people of [s]Syria shall go into exile to [t]Kir,”
says the LORD.

[6][†]Thus says the LORD:

[k]“For three transgressions of [u]Gaza,
and for four, I will not revoke the punishment,
because [v]they carried into exile a whole people to deliver them up to Edom.
[7] So I will send a fire upon the wall of [u]Gaza,
and it shall devour her strongholds.

[8] I will cut off the inhabitants from [w] Ashdod, and him who holds the scepter from Ashkelon;
I will turn my hand against Ekron, and the remnant of the Philistines shall perish,” says the Lord GOD.
[9][†]Thus says the LORD:

[k]“For three transgressions of [x] Tyre,
and for four, I will not revoke the punishment,
because they delivered up a whole people to Edom,
and did not remember the covenant of brotherhood.
[10] So I will send a fire upon the wall of [x] Tyre,
and it shall devour her strongholds.”

[11][†]Thus says the LORD:

[k]“For three transgressions of [y] Edom,
and for four, I will not revoke the punishment,
[y]because he pursued his brother with the sword
[z] and cast off all pity,
[a] and his anger tore perpetually,
[a] and he kept his wrath forever.
[12] So I will send a fire upon [b] Teman, and it shall devour the strongholds of [c] Bozrah.”

[13][†]Thus says the LORD:

[k]“For three transgressions of the [d] Ammonites,
and for four, I will not revoke the punishment,
because [e] they have ripped open pregnant women in [f] Gilead, that they might enlarge their border.
[14] So I will kindle a fire in the wall of [g] Rabbah, [h] and it shall devour her strongholds, with shouting on the day of battle,
[h] with a tempest in the day of the whirlwind;
[15][†] and [i] their king shall go into exile,

he and his princes [5] together,”
says the LORD.

AMOS 2 [†]Thus says the LORD:

[k] “For three transgressions of [j] Moab,
and for four, I will not revoke the punishment, [1]
because [k] he burned to lime
the bones of the king of Edom.
[2] So I will send a fire upon Moab, and it shall devour the strongholds of [l] Kerioth, and Moab shall die amid uproar,
amid shouting and the sound of the trumpet;
[3] [m] I will cut off the ruler from its midst, and will kill [m] all its princes [2] with him,”
says the LORD.

Judgment on Judah

[4][†]Thus says the LORD:

[n] “For three transgressions of Judah,
and for four, I will not revoke the punishment,
because [o] they have rejected the law of the LORD,
and have not kept his statutes,
but [p] their lies have led them astray,
those after which their fathers walked.
[5] So [q] I will send a fire upon Judah, and it shall devour the strongholds of Jerusalem.”

Judgment on Israel

[6][†]Thus says the LORD:

[n] “For three transgressions of Israel,
and for four, I will not revoke the punishment,
because [r] they sell the righteous for [s] silver,

and the needy for a pair of sandals—7 [†] those who trample the head of the poor [t] into the dust of the earth and [u] turn aside the way of the afflicted; [v] a man and his father go in to the same girl,
so that my holy name is profaned;
8 they lay themselves down beside every altar on garments [w] taken in pledge, and in the house of their God they drink
the wine of those who have been fined.

9 “Yet [x] it was I who destroyed the Amorite before them, [y] whose height was like the height of the cedars and who was as strong as the oaks; [z] I destroyed his fruit above and his roots beneath.
10 [a] Also it was I who brought you up out of the land of Egypt
[b] and led you forty years in the wilderness, [x] to possess the land of the Amorite.
11 And I raised up some of your sons for prophets, and some of your young men for [c] Nazirites.
Is it not indeed so, O people of Israel?”
declares the LORD.

12 “But you made the Nazirites [d] drink wine, and commanded the prophets, saying, [e] ‘You shall not prophesy.’

13 “Behold, I will press you down in your place, as a cart full of sheaves presses down.
14 [†] [f] Flight shall perish from the swift,
[f] and the strong shall not retain his strength,
[g] nor shall the mighty save his life;
15 he who handles the bow shall not stand, and he who is [h] swift of foot shall not save himself,
[i] nor shall he who rides the horse save his life;

[16] and he who is stout of heart among the mighty shall flee away naked in that day,”
declares the LORD.

Israel’s Guilt and Punishment

AMOS 3 [†][j] Hear this word that the LORD has spoken against you, O people of Israel, against the whole family that I brought up out of the land of Egypt:

[2] [k] “You only have I known of all the families of the earth; [l] therefore I will punish you for all your iniquities.

[3][†] “Do two walk together, unless they have agreed to meet?
[4] Does a lion roar in the forest,
when he has no prey?
Does a young lion cry out from his den,
if he has taken nothing?
[5] Does a bird fall in a snare on the earth,
when there is no trap for it?
Does a snare spring up from the ground,
when it has taken nothing?
[6] [m] Is a trumpet blown in a city,
and the people are not afraid?
[n] Does disaster come to a city,
unless the LORD has done it?

[7] “For the Lord GOD does nothing [o] without revealing his secret to his servants the prophets.
[8] The lion has roared;
who will not fear?
[p] The Lord GOD has spoken;

who can but prophesy?”

9[†] Proclaim to the strongholds in [q] Ashdod and to the strongholds in the land of Egypt, and say, “Assemble yourselves on [r] the mountains of Samaria, and see the great tumults within her,
and [s] the oppressed in her midst.”
10 “They do not know how to do right,” declares the LORD,
[t] “those who store up violence and robbery in their strongholds.”

11Therefore thus says the Lord GOD:

[u] “An adversary shall surround the land and bring down [1] your defenses from you, and [v] your strongholds shall be plundered.”

12Thus says the LORD: [w] “As the shepherd rescues from the mouth of the lion two legs, or a piece of an ear, [x] so shall the people of Israel [y] who dwell in Samaria be rescued, with the corner of a couch and part [2] of a bed.

13[†] “Hear, [z] and testify against the house of Jacob,” declares the Lord GOD, [a] the God of hosts, 14[†] “that on the day I punish Israel for his transgressions, [b] I will punish the altars of Bethel, and [c] the horns of the altar shall be cut off and fall to the ground.
15[†] [d] I will strike [e] the winter house along with [f] the summer house, and [g] the houses of ivory shall perish, and the great houses [3] shall come to an end,”
declares the LORD.

AMOS 4 [†] “Hear this word, [h] you cows of Bashan, who are [i] on the mountain of Samaria, [j] who oppress the poor, [j] who crush the needy, who say to your husbands, ‘Bring, that we may drink!’

[2][†] [k]The Lord GOD has sworn by his holiness that, behold, the days are coming upon you, [l]when they shall take you away with hooks,
[l]even the last of you with fishhooks.
[3] [m]And you shall go out through the breaches,
each one straight ahead;
and you shall be cast out into Harmon,”
declares the LORD.

[4][†] [n]“Come to Bethel, and transgress;
to [o]Gilgal, and multiply transgression; [n]bring your [p]sacrifices every morning,
your tithes every three days;
[5] offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving of [q]that which is leavened, and proclaim [r]freewill offerings, publish them;
[s]for so you love to do, O people of Israel!”
declares the Lord GOD.

Israel Has Not Returned to the LORD

[6][†] “I gave you cleanness of teeth in all your cities, and [t]lack of bread in all your places, [u]yet you did not return to me,”
declares the LORD.

[7] “I also [v]withheld the rain from you when there were yet three months to the harvest; [w]I would send rain on one city,
and send no rain on another city;
one field would have rain,
and the field on which it did not rain would wither;
[8] so two or three cities [x]would wander to another city to drink water, and would not be satisfied; [u]yet you did not return to me,”
declares the LORD.

9 [y] “I struck you with blight and mildew;
your many gardens and your vineyards,
your fig trees and your olive trees [z] the locust devoured;
[u] yet you did not return to me,”
declares the LORD.

10 “I sent among you a pestilence [a] after the manner of Egypt;
I killed your young men with the sword, and [b] carried away your horses, [1]
and [c] I made the stench of your camp go up into your nostrils; [u] yet you did not return to me,”
declares the LORD.

11 “I overthrew some of you,
[d] as when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah, and you were [e] as a brand [2] plucked out of the burning;
[u] yet you did not return to me,”
declares the LORD.

12 “Therefore thus I will do to you, O Israel;
because I will do this to you,
prepare to meet your God, O Israel!”

13 [†] For behold, [f] he who forms the mountains and creates the wind, and [g] declares to man what is his thought, [h] who makes the morning darkness,
and [i] treads on the heights of the earth—[j] the LORD, the God of hosts, is his name!

Seek the LORD and Live

AMOS 5 [†] Hear this word that I [k] take up over you in lamentation, O house of Israel:

2 [†] “Fallen, no more to rise, is [l] the virgin Israel;

forsaken on her land,
 with none to raise her up."

[3]For thus says the Lord GOD:

"The city that went out a thousand shall have a hundred left,
and that which went out a hundred shall have ten left to the house of Israel."

[4]For thus says the LORD to the house of Israel:

[m]"Seek me and live;
 [5][†] but do not seek [n]Bethel, and do not enter into [n]Gilgal or cross over to [o]Beersheba;
for [n]Gilgal shall surely go into exile,
 and [n]Bethel shall come to nothing."

[6] [m]Seek the LORD and live,
 [p]lest he break out like fire in the house of Joseph,
 and it devour, with none to quench it for [n]Bethel, [7][†] O [q]you who turn justice to wormwood [1]
 and cast down righteousness to the earth!

[8][†] He who made the [r]Pleiades and Orion, and turns deep darkness into the morning and [s]darkens the day into night, who [t]calls for the waters of the sea [t]and pours them out on the surface of the earth,
[u]the LORD is his name;
[9] [v]who makes destruction flash forth against the strong,
 so that destruction comes upon the fortress.

[10][†] [w]They hate him who reproves [x]in the gate, and they [y] abhor him who speaks the truth.

[11] Therefore because you [z] trample on [2] the poor and you exact taxes of grain from him, [a] you have built houses of hewn stone,
but you shall not dwell in them;
[a] you have planted pleasant vineyards,
but you shall not drink their wine.
[12] For I know how many are your transgressions and how great are your sins—you who afflict the righteous, who [b] take a bribe,
and [c] turn aside the needy [x] in the gate.
[13] Therefore he who is prudent will [d] keep silent in such a time, [e] for it is an evil time.

[14][†] [f] Seek good, and not evil,
that you may live;
and so the LORD, [g] the God of hosts, will be with you,
as you have said.
[15] [h] Hate evil, and love good,
and establish justice [x] in the gate;
[i] it may be that the LORD, the God of hosts, will be gracious to the remnant of Joseph.

[16][†]Therefore thus says the LORD, [g] the God of hosts, the Lord:

“In all the squares [j] there shall be wailing, and in all the streets they shall say, ‘Alas! Alas!’
They shall call the farmers to mourning and [j] to wailing those who are skilled in lamentation, [17] and in all vineyards there shall be wailing, for [k] I will pass through your midst,”
says the LORD.

Let Justice Roll Down

[18][†] Woe to you who desire [l] the day of the LORD!

Why would you have the day of the LORD?
[m] It is darkness, and not light,
19 [n] as if a man fled from a lion,
and a bear met him,
or went into the house and leaned his hand against the wall,
and a serpent bit him.
20 [m] Is not the day of the LORD darkness, and not light, and gloom with no brightness in it?

21[†] [o] "I hate, I despise your feasts, and I take no delight in your solemn assemblies.
22[†] [p] Even though you offer me your burnt offerings and grain offerings,
I will not accept them;
and the peace offerings of your fattened animals,
I will not look upon them.
23 Take away from me the noise of your songs;
to [q] the melody of your harps I will not listen.
24 But let justice roll down like waters,
and righteousness like an ever-flowing stream.

25 [r] "Did you bring to me sacrifices and offerings during the forty years in the wilderness, O house of Israel? 26 [s] You [t] shall take up Sikkuth your king, and Kiyyun your star-god—your images that you made for yourselves, 27[†] [u] and I will send you into exile beyond Damascus," says the LORD, whose name is [g] the God of hosts.

Woe to Those at Ease in Zion

AMOS 6 [†] [w] "Woe to those who are at ease in Zion, and to those who feel secure on [x] the mountain of Samaria, [y] the notable men of [z] the first of the nations, to whom the house of Israel comes!
2[†] Pass over to [a] Calneh, and see,
and from there go to [b] Hamath the great;
then go down to [c] Gath of the Philistines.

[d] Are you better than these kingdoms?
Or is their territory greater than your territory,
[3] [e] O you who put far away the day of disaster
[f] and bring near the seat of violence?

[4][†] “Woe to those [g] who lie on [h] beds of ivory
[g] and stretch themselves out on their couches, and eat lambs from the flock
[i] and calves from the midst of the stall,
[5] [j] who sing idle songs to the sound of the harp and like David [j] invent for themselves instruments of music, [6][†] [k] who drink wine in bowls and [l] anoint themselves with the finest oils, but are not grieved over the ruin of Joseph!
[7] [m] Therefore they shall now be the first of those who go into exile, and the revelry of those who stretch themselves out shall pass away.”

[8][†] [n] The Lord GOD has sworn by himself, declares the LORD, the God of hosts:

“I abhor [o] the pride of Jacob and hate his strongholds,
[p] and I will deliver up the city and all that is in it.”

[9]And [q] if ten men remain in one house, they shall die. [10]And when one’s relative, [r] the one who anoints him for burial, shall take him up to bring the bones out of the house, and shall say to him who is in the innermost parts of the house, “Is there still anyone with you?” he shall say, “No”; and he shall say, [s] “Silence! We must not mention the name of the LORD.”

[11] For behold, the LORD commands, and [t] the great house shall be struck down into fragments,
and the little house into bits.
[12][†] Do horses run on rocks?

Does one plow there [1] with oxen?
[u] But you have turned justice into [v] poison
[u] and the fruit of righteousness into wormwood [2]— 13 [†] you who rejoice in Lo-debar, [3] who say, [w] “Have we not by our own strength captured Karnaim [4] for ourselves?”
14 [†] “For behold, [x] I will raise up against you a nation, O house of Israel,” declares the LORD, the God of hosts;
“and they shall oppress you from [y] Lebo-hamath to the Brook of [z] the Arabah.”

Warning Visions

AMOS 7 [†] [a] This is what the Lord GOD showed me: behold, [b] he was forming locusts when the latter growth was just beginning to sprout, and behold, it was the latter growth after the king’s mowings. 2 [†] When they had finished eating the grass of the land, I said, “O Lord GOD, please forgive!

[c] How can Jacob stand?
He is so small!”
3 [†] [d] The LORD relented concerning this:
“It shall not be,” said the LORD.

4 [a] This is what the Lord GOD showed me: behold, the Lord GOD was calling [e] for a judgment by fire, and it devoured the great deep and was eating up the land. 5 Then I said, “O Lord GOD, please cease!

[c] How can Jacob stand?
He is so small!”
6 [d] The LORD relented concerning this:
“This also shall not be,” said the Lord GOD.

7 [†] [a] This is what he showed me: behold, the Lord was standing beside a wall built with [f] a plumb line, with a plumb line in his hand. 8 And the LORD said to me, [g]“Amos, what do you see?” And I said, “A plumb line.” Then the Lord said, “Behold, I am setting [f]a plumb line in the midst of my people Israel;

[g]I will never again pass by them;
9 [h]the high places of Isaac shall be made desolate, and the sanctuaries of Israel shall be laid waste, and I will rise against [i]the house of Jeroboam with the sword.”

Amos Accused

10[†]Then Amaziah [j]the priest of Bethel sent to [k]Jeroboam king of Israel, saying, “Amos has [l]conspired against you in the midst of the house of Israel. The land is not able to bear all his words. 11For thus Amos has said, “‘Jeroboam shall die by the sword, and [m]Israel must go into exile away from his land.’”

12[†]And Amaziah said to Amos, [n]“O seer, go, flee away [o]to the land of Judah, and [p]eat bread there, and prophesy there, 13but [q]never again prophesy at Bethel, for [r]it is the king’s sanctuary, and it is a temple of the kingdom.”

14Then Amos answered and said to Amaziah, [s]“I was [1] no prophet, nor a prophet’s son, but [t]I was a herdsman and a dresser of sycamore figs. 15[†] [u]But the LORD took me from following the flock, and the LORD said to me, ‘Go, prophesy to my people Israel.’ 16 [v]Now therefore hear the word of the LORD.

“You say, [n]‘Do not prophesy against Israel, and [w]do not preach against the house of [x]Isaac.’

17[†] [y]Therefore thus says the LORD:

“‘Your wife shall be a prostitute in the city, and your sons and your daughters shall fall by the sword, and your land [z] shall be divided up with a measuring line;

you yourself shall die in an unclean land,
and [m] Israel shall surely go into exile away from its land.'"

The Coming Day of Bitter Mourning

AMOS 8 [†] [a] This is what the Lord GOD showed me: behold, a basket of summer fruit. 2 And he said, [b] "Amos, what do you see?" And I said, [c] "A basket of summer fruit." Then the LORD said to me, [d] "The end [1] has come upon my people Israel;

I will never again pass by them.
3 [e] The songs of the temple [2] [f] shall become wailings [3] in that day,"
declares the Lord GOD.
[g] "So many dead bodies!"
"They are thrown everywhere!"
[h] "Silence!"

4 Hear this, [i] you who trample on the needy and bring the poor of the land to an end, 5 [†] saying, "When will [j] the new moon be over,
that we may sell grain?
And [k] the Sabbath,
that we may offer wheat for sale, that we may make [l] the ephah small and the shekel [4] great and deal deceitfully with false balances, 6 that we may buy the poor for [m] silver and the needy for a pair of sandals and sell the chaff of the wheat?"

7 The LORD has sworn by [n] the pride of Jacob:
"Surely [o] I will never forget any of their deeds.
8 [p] Shall not the land tremble on this account, and everyone mourn who dwells in it, [q] and all of it rise like the Nile, and be tossed about [r] and sink again, like the Nile of Egypt?”

9[†] “And on that day,” declares the Lord GOD, [s] “I will make the sun go down at noon and darken the earth in broad daylight.
10 [t] I will turn your feasts into mourning and all your songs into lamentation;
[u] I will bring sackcloth on every waist
[u] and baldness on every head;
[v] I will make it like the mourning for an only son and the end of it like a bitter day.

11[†] “Behold, the days are coming,” declares the Lord GOD, “when [w] I will send a famine on the land—
not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, [x] but of hearing the words of the LORD.
12 [x] They shall wander from sea to sea,
and from north to east;
they shall run to and fro, to seek the word of the LORD, [y] but they shall not find it.

13[†] [z] “In that day the lovely virgins and the young men shall [a] faint for thirst.
14 Those who swear by [b] the Guilt of Samaria, and say, ‘As your god lives, O Dan,’
and, ‘As [c] the Way of [d] Beersheba lives,’ they shall fall, and never rise again.”

The Destruction of Israel

AMOS 9 [†]I saw the Lord standing beside [1] the altar, and he said:

[e] “Strike the capitals until [e] the thresholds [f] shake, [g] and shatter them on the heads of all the people; [2] and those who are left of them I will kill with the sword; [h] not one of them shall flee away;

not one of them shall escape.

2[†] [i]“If they dig into Sheol, from there shall my hand take them;
[i]if they climb up to heaven,
from there I will bring them down.
3 If they hide themselves on [j]the top of Carmel, from there I will search them out and take them;
[k]and if they hide from my sight at the bottom of the sea,
there I will command the serpent, and it shall bite them.
4 [l]And if they go into captivity before their enemies, there I will command the sword, and it shall kill them;
[m]and I will fix my eyes upon them for evil and not for good.”

5 The Lord GOD of hosts,
he who touches the earth and [n]it melts,
and all who dwell in it mourn,
[o]and all of it rises like the Nile,
[o]and sinks again, like the Nile of Egypt;
6 [p]who builds his upper chambers in the heavens and founds his vault upon the earth; [q]who calls for the waters of the sea and pours them out upon the surface of the earth—[r]the LORD is his name.

7[†] “Are you not like [s]the Cushites to me,
O people of Israel?” declares the LORD.
[t]“Did I not bring up Israel from the land of Egypt, and [u]the Philistines from [v]Caphtor and the Syrians from [w]Kir?
8 Behold, [x]the eyes of the Lord GOD are upon the sinful kingdom, and I will destroy it from the surface of the ground, [y]except that I will not utterly destroy the house of Jacob,”
declares the LORD.

9 “For behold, I will command, [z] and shake the house of Israel among all the nations
as one shakes with a sieve,
but no pebble shall fall to the earth.
10 All the sinners of my people shall die by the sword, who say, [a] ‘Disaster shall not overtake or meet us.’

The Restoration of Israel

11[†] “In that day [b] I will raise up the booth of David that is fallen and repair its breaches, and raise up its ruins
and rebuild it as in the days of old, 12[†] [c] that they may possess the remnant of Edom and [d] all the nations who are called by my name,” [3] declares the Lord who does this.

13[†] “Behold, the days are coming,” declares the Lord, [e] “when the plowman shall overtake the reaper and the treader of grapes him who sows the seed; [f] the mountains shall drip sweet wine,
and all the hills shall flow with it.
14 [g] I will restore the fortunes of my people Israel, and [h] they shall rebuild the ruined cities and inhabit them;
[i] they shall plant vineyards and drink their wine,
and they shall make gardens and eat their fruit.
15 [j] I will plant them on their land, [k] and they shall never again be uprooted out of the land [l] that I have given them,” says the Lord your God.

Study Notes for Amos

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:1 Superscription. The first verse identifies the book's speaker, audience, and time frame. Amos addresses Israel during the time covered in 2 Kings 14:23–15:7. This is the period between the beginning of the reign of Jeroboam II (796 B.C.) and the death of Uzziah (739). More specifically, it is two years before the earthquake (Amos 1:1). Zechariah, like Amos, mentions an earthquake "in the days of Uzziah king of Judah" (Zech. 14:5). This statement is significant because it emphasizes the historical reliability of the book and its message. Shepherds were near the bottom of the social order, and yet God chose Amos to prophesy against Israel's wealthy, unbelieving leaders. (See, however, the ESV footnote. If Amos was in fact a "sheep breeder," he may have been a prosperous businessman.) Tekoa was a small village southeast of Bethlehem in Judah.

FACT

Earthquakes were a very real danger in ancient Palestine, as is true around much of the earth today. The Jordan River Valley runs along the northern end of the famous Great Rift Valley, which extends all the way to the southernmost part of Africa. Earthquakes occur all along this valley. The findings of archaeologists suggest that the earthquake mentioned in 1:1 was one that the Israelites would not have soon forgotten.

1:2–6:14 Oracles of Judgment. Amos delivers a series of messages from God showing that neither Israel's neighbors (1:2–2:5) nor Israel herself (2:6–6:14) can escape the consequences of their actions.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:2–2:5 At this time the area now called Palestine was inhabited by seven other small nations besides Israel. All of them were in danger because of Assyria's push toward Egypt. But Amos showed that what was about to befall them would not come from Assyria but from the Creator of all the earth. These judgments on Israel's Gentile neighbors are a reminder that God's moral standards are not merely for Jewish or Christian people but for all people, whether they have them in written form or simply written in their hearts and consciences (see Rom. 1:18–32; 2:14–15).

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:2 Despite Israel's rejection of Jerusalem as the only appropriate place of worship, that was still the place from which God's voice of judgment issued to all the earth. Carmel. Perhaps an allusion to the encounter between the Lord and Baal, when the Lord struck the top of Mount Carmel with fire, demonstrating that he alone is God (1 Kings 18:36–39).

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:3 three transgressions . . . four. This poetic device expresses totality (compare Prov. 30:15, 18, 21). It introduces the judgment on all seven neighboring nations (Amos 1:6, 9, 11, 13; 2:1, 4), and upon Israel as well (2:6). One way of separating grain kernels from their hulls was to put all the grain in a pile and then have oxen pull threshing sledges of iron around on the pile. Amos says Syria has treated the people of Gilead as though they were nothing but a pile of grain, crushing them into the ground.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:4 Ben-hadad, son of Hazael, was king of Syria at the beginning of the eighth century B.C. (see 2 Kings 13:24). Fire is the means of judgment on these seven nations.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:5 The wooden city gates were fastened shut with a heavy wooden gate-bar across them. If that bar were broken, an invading army could enter the city. Kir is the ancestral home of the Syrians (9:7). It is probably somewhere to the northeast of Mesopotamia. Thus they were being sent back as a conquered people to where they started.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:6–8 All the five cities of the Philistines except Gath are named in this judgment oracle. Rule of the region went back and forth among the five cities depending on which ruler happened to be strongest at the time. Philistia was southwest of Jerusalem, on the Mediterranean coast.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:6 they carried . . . to Edom. It is not known precisely what event this refers to. It may be a prediction of Jerusalem's fall to Babylon in 586 B.C., when Edom actively helped the Babylonians subdue Judah (see Obad. 12–14). This would then mean that the Philistines were the Edomites' partners in that. But more probably it refers to something that had taken place in Amos's lifetime in the continuing struggles between the Judeans and the Philistines (see 2 Chron. 26:6–7).

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:9–10 Tyre was northwest of Israel, on the Mediterranean coast. With its fine harbor and easily defended island fortress, it dominated the sea trade of the eastern Mediterranean (see Isaiah 23; Ezekiel 26–28). Tyre is accused of the same act as the Philistines (Amos 1:6), but it was more terrible in their case because it involved the betrayal of a covenant of brotherhood. This may refer to the covenant between Solomon and Hiram (1 Kings 5:12), or perhaps to that between Ahab and Eshbaal of Sidon (1 Kings 16:31).

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:11–12 Edom was southeast of Judah, around the southern end of the Dead Sea. Descended from Esau, the Edomites were longtime enemies of Israel (Num. 20:14–21). Here Edom is judged for its mercilessness and anger.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:13–15 The Ammonites lived east of the Jordan River between Syria to the north and Moab to the south. Their territory did not extend all the way west to the Jordan, so they were in constant conflict with the tribes of Reuben and Gad in an effort to extend their border westward to gain control of the desirable region of Gilead where the two Israelite tribes lived. The sin of the Ammonites was the viciousness and brutality of their attacks, without pity even for pregnant women. Ammon's capital city of Rabbah (see Deut. 3:11) is present-day Amman, Jordan.

AMOS—NOTE ON 1:15 exile. When Assyria conquered a nation, they deported the leadership and imported people from elsewhere into the area. This was done to discourage rebellion by the conquered people and to minimize the differences throughout their diverse empire.

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:1–3 Moab was Ammon's neighbor to the south, perhaps included here because Moab and Ammon were both descended from Lot through his daughters (Gen. 19:37–38). Moab's sin was against neither Israel nor Judah but its southern neighbor Edom. This shows that these judgments are based not on ethnicity but on the universal justice of God.

FACT

Amos begins with judgments from the Lord on Israel's neighboring nations: Damascus (Syria), Gaza (Philistia), Tyre (Phoenicia), Edom, Ammon, and Moab (1:2–2:5). God holds all nations accountable for their actions.

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:4–5 Unlike the other nations, Judah is not judged for inhumanity to others. It is judged according to the law of the LORD (Ex. 24:8).

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:6–6:14 In the introduction to this section (2:6–16), Amos shows that Israel, far from being better than its neighbors, is even more worthy of condemnation. This is followed by four extended addresses: 3:1–15; 4:1–13; 5:1–17; and 5:18–6:14.

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:6–7a They sell the righteous perhaps refers to giving false witness for money, but it might also refer to selling into slavery someone who was in debt for something as insignificant as a pair of sandals (compare Lev. 25:39–43). Instead of helping the afflicted as the law commanded (Ex. 23:6–8), the wealthy Israelites were crushing them (see also Amos 8:6).

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:7b–8 Sexual immorality is an insult to God the Creator (my holy name is profaned). Garments taken in pledge refers to a poor person's cloak that was given to a money-lender as security for a loan. It was to be returned to the poor person at night, since he or she probably had no other covering (Ex. 22:26).

AMOS—NOTE ON 2:14–15 The swift will not be able to run away from coming destruction, and the strong and mighty warrior will not be able to withstand it.

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:1–2 Hear this word introduces the first three messages against Israel (3:1; 4:1; 5:1). Israel and Judah believed that their role as God's chosen people would protect them from harm (see note on 5:18–20). Amos says the very opposite is true. Precisely because God has known Israel as he has known no other nation, he judges Israelites by a higher standard (see Luke 12:48).

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:3–8 With a series of questions, Amos shows that disaster is coming for Israel. In nature, certain sequences of events lead to predictable outcomes. If a lion roars (vv. 4, 8), then it has probably taken, or is about to take, its prey. Likewise, since the Lord God has announced judgment, then judgment will surely come.

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:9–11 Israel's capital city Samaria was a powerful stronghold. It was on a high hill (mountains), in a place that was easy to defend. But it was also just off the great highway that connected Egypt with Assyria. If Samaria fell to the Assyrians, there was nothing to prevent the destruction of the Philistine cities (represented by Ashdod) and of Egypt itself.

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:13 The term God of hosts was popular among the later prophets. "Hosts" here would ordinarily signify troops of soldiers, so the term expresses God's unlimited power.

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:14 Bethel was associated with Jacob and his vision (Gen. 28:10–22). It was close to the border between Israel and Judah. Thus, Jeroboam I chose it as a worship site for his new religion (1 Kings 12:25–33). Amos chose this as the place to deliver his prophecies (Amos 7:12–13) because it represented the corruption of the true religion (4:4–5). The horns of the altar were at the four corners on top of the altar (Ex. 27:2). They represented a place where God's protection was available (1 Kings 1:50; 2:28). Now, however, the horns of Bethel's altar would provide no protection.

AMOS—NOTE ON 3:15 All of Israel's social injustice is represented by the sin of accumulating large amounts of property (see also Isa. 5:8). This violated the covenant, which said a family's land was a permanent gift from God to that family, not to be taken from them. Amos condemns wealth created through mistreating the poor (Amos 4:1). He also condemns unfair business practices (5:7, 11, 12; 8:4–6) and living in luxury without caring for the needy (5:12; 8:4–6). He also notes the lack of concern for sin (6:4–6) and the lack of true faith (5:21–23).

FACT

The winter house and summer house. Many wealthy Samarians had two homes. One would be in the warmer, southern regions while the other was built in the cooler north (3:15). This extravagance made it all the more obvious that Amos was justified in his criticism of the wealthy people who ignored the needs of the poor.

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:1–13 This second oracle (see note on 2:6–6:14) is composed of three parts. In 4:1–5, Amos expands somewhat on the points made in 3:14–15: the sins of self-indulgence and oppression (4:1–3) and of false religion (vv. 4–5). In vv. 6–11, the Lord describes all the ways in which he has appealed in vain for the Israelites to return to him. As a result, they will come face to face with the infinite Creator in all his power (vv. 12–13).

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:1 Bashan was rich pastureland northeast of the Sea of Galilee. The cattle there tended to be plump and healthy. Amos compares the women of Samaria to those cattle. Even women oppress the poor and crush the needy.

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:2–3 These verses describe what will happen to the wealthy and self-indulgent women of Samaria (v. 1) when it falls to the Assyrians. They will be dragged out through the broken-down walls (breaches) with fishhooks, like a fisherman dragging a fish out of water. The reference to hooks may be literal. Some Assyrian illustrations seem to show captives being taken away with ropes attached to rings in their noses.

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:4–5 With bitter sarcasm, Amos criticizes religious activity at Bethel and Gilgal (see Josh. 4:20; 10:43). Far from securing forgiveness for transgression, this activity was itself sin! The Israelites might love to engage in such worship, but it only disgusted God (Amos 5:14–15, 21–24). The prophets often seem to dismiss sacrificial worship, but the context of such prophecies shows that they are concerned that all worship be the result of true faith.

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:6 The people had cleanness of teeth because they had no food to cling to their teeth! yet you did not return to me. Even though God had sent various natural and social disasters, the people would not turn back to him.

AMOS—NOTE ON 4:13 Israel is about to come face to face with the Creator of the universe, the LORD, the God of hosts (see note on 3:13).

FACT

The blighting of crops (4:9) was a serious problem for farmers because there was no known way at the time to stop it. Dry winds would blow up from the Sahara at hurricane-like speeds. These dusty winds sucked all moisture out of plant life, leaving the plants themselves brown and wilted.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:1–17 Although they face imminent destruction, God still pleads with his people to return to him.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:1 lamentation. Neither the prophet nor God takes delight in these messages of doom. Like mourners at a funeral, they grieve at what lies ahead for the unrepentant people.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:2 Virgin Israel expresses the special value God places on Israel.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:5–6 Israel should seek the LORD in the ways he has commanded, not in the pagan practices found at Bethel, Gilgal, and Beersheba.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:7 For governments, justice involves a just use of power and maintaining a proper judicial system. For individuals, justice involves honest business dealings and faithfulness in keeping one’s word. Both governments and individual citizens should be especially concerned with protecting the poor and the weak from those with greater wealth and power.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:8–9 Amos contrasts the limitless glory of the Creator with the things worshiped at the pagan-influenced shrines in Bethel, Gilgal, and Beersheba.

FACT

Constellations like the Pleiades and Orion (5:8) were important to pagan cultures, which worshiped them as gods. Images of them could be found on seals and scrolls throughout the ancient Near East. Prophets like Amos believed that these constellations were not gods, but rather were evidence of the scope and majesty of God’s creation.

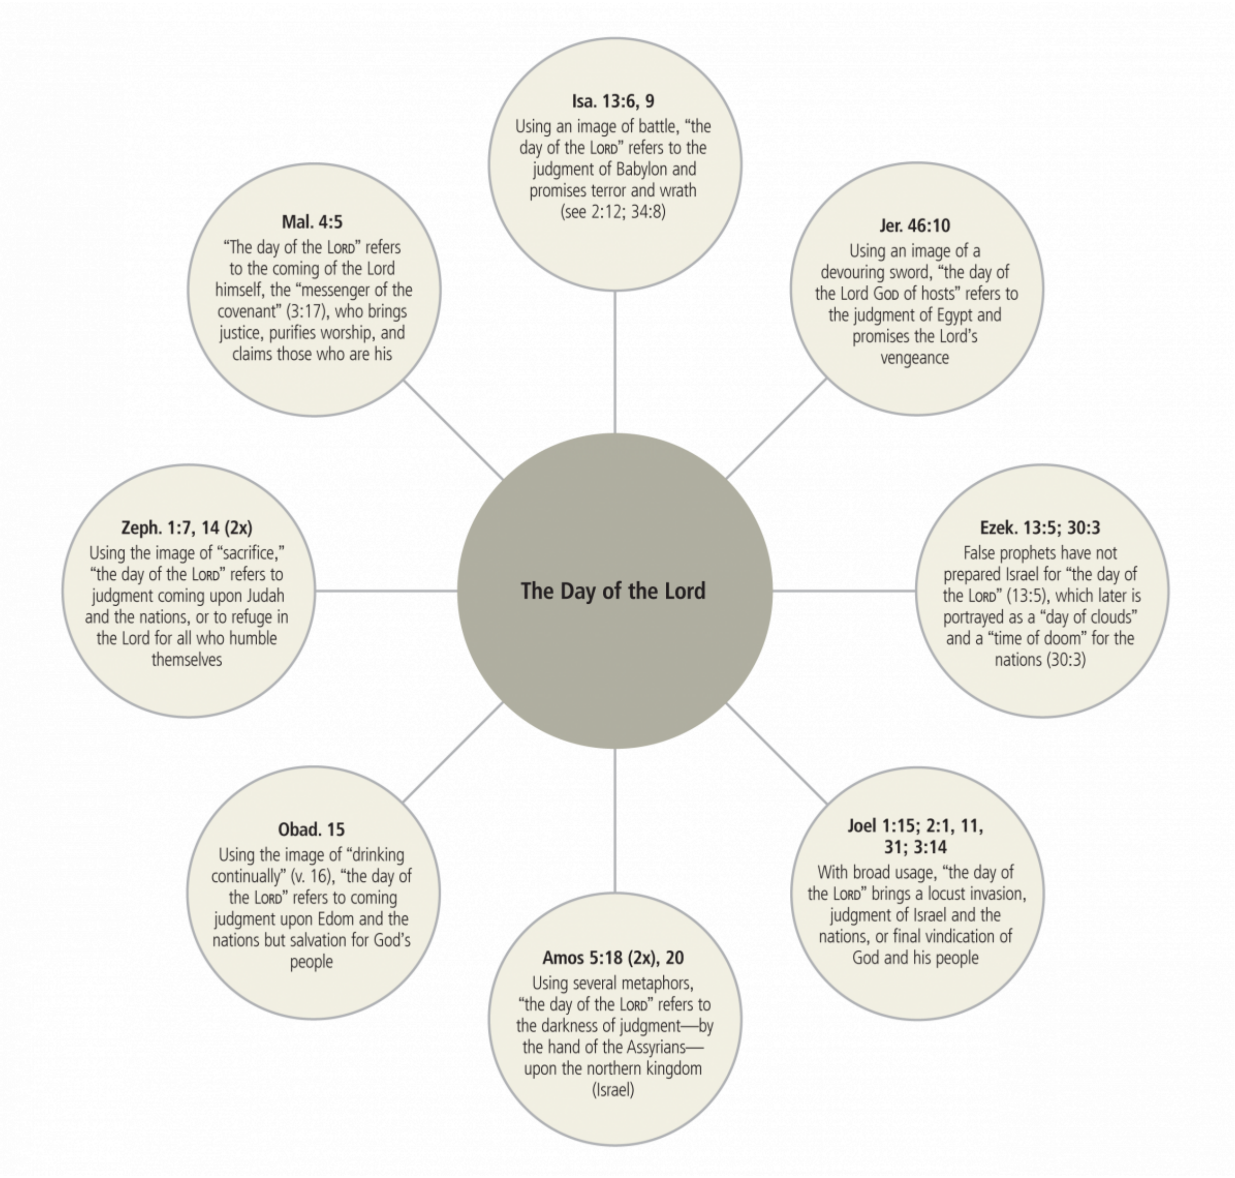
AMOS—NOTE ON 5:10 reproves in the gate. The walled cities of the ancient Near East had covered gatehouses with multiple sets of gates. If the enemy broke through one gate, they were immediately confronted with another. During times of peace, all the gates would be open. The gatehouse would provide a shady place where the old men of the city could observe events, and where they could decide the legal cases brought before them. But in Israel, justice was going to the highest bidder. See also vv. 12, 15.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:14–15 God appeals to his people again (compare vv. 4–7). In that evil time (v. 13), they should seek good for those around them. If they do so, there may be hope for the nation, even at that late hour.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:16–17 Although Israel could have returned to God, they would not. As a result, Amos announces that a great funeral cry of wailing . . . mourning . . . lamentation (see v. 1) will go up all over the land from the streets of the cities to the vineyards in the countryside.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:18–6:14 This fourth message (see note on 2:6–6:14) gives details about the kinds of sins that will provoke Israel’s “funeral” as a nation (see note on 5:16–17). Three times the funeral cry of “Woe” appears: 5:18; 6:1; 6:4. Each woe introduces another category of sin.

The Day of the Lord in the Prophets



Isa. 13:6, 9
Using an image of battle, “the day of the LORD” refers to the judgment of Babylon and promises terror and wrath (see 2:12; 34:8)

Jer. 46:10
Using an image of a devouring sword, “the day of the Lord GOD of hosts” refers to the judgment of Egypt and promises the Lord’s vengeance

Ezek. 13:5; 30:3
False prophets have not prepared Israel for “the day of the LORD” (13:5), which later is portrayed as a “day of clouds” and a “time of doom” for the nations (30:3)

Joel 1:15; 2:1, 11, 31; 3:14
With broad usage, “the day of the LORD” brings a locust invasion, judgment of Israel and the nations, or final vindication of God and his people

Amos 5:18 (2x), 20
Using several metaphors, “the day of the LORD” refers to the darkness of judgment—by the hand of the Assyrians—upon the northern kingdom (Israel)

Obad. 15
Using the image of “drinking continually” (v. 16), “the day of the LORD” refers to coming judgment upon Edom and the nations but salvation for God’s people

Zeph. 1:7, 14 (2x)
Using the image of “sacrifice,” “the day of the LORD” refers to judgment coming upon Judah and the nations, or to refuge in the Lord for all who humble themselves

Mal. 4:5
“The day of the LORD” refers to the coming of the Lord himself, the “messenger of the covenant” (3:17), who brings justice, purifies worship, and claims those who are his

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:18–20 Historically, this is the earliest known use of the expression the day of the LORD. The phrase also occurs in the prophetic works of Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Joel, Obadiah, Zephaniah, and Malachi (see diagram). The people of Amos’s day may have used the term to refer to the time when the Lord would intervene and put Israel at the head of the nations (possibly based on Deut. 32:35–37). But Amos, and all the prophets after him, clarify what it will mean for the Lord to visit his people: if they are unfaithful, it will mean judgment. In Amos, “the day of the LORD” points to the coming judgment on the northern kingdom (Amos 5:27). In Zephaniah, it points to judgment on Judah. Other prophets use the term to signal God's punishment of other nations. In some cases, the prophet uses the term to refer to something farther in the future (Mal. 4:5; and probably in Joel 2:31). All of this indicates that the "day" is not unique but may be repeated as circumstances call for it. New Testament authors apply the term to the return of Christ (1 Cor. 1:8; 2 Pet. 3:10).

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:21 God hates Israel's religious feasts and solemn assemblies, their offerings (v. 22), and songs (v. 23) because of their persistent sinful conduct (see note on 3:15). He rejects their perversion of worship at Bethel (see note on 3:14). He despises the absence of justice and righteousness in their conduct toward one another (5:24).

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:22 I will not accept them. The Israelites may seem to be worshiping God, but he knows they do not love and obey him.

AMOS—NOTE ON 5:27 Exile beyond Damascus is exactly what happened (2 Kings 17:6). This is a startling prediction, since Assyria was comparatively weak in Amos's time.

AMOS

Amos was a shepherd from the Judean town of Tekoa, a "herdsman and a dresser of sycamore figs" (7:14). He prophesied primarily to the northern kingdom of Israel during a time of political stability and great wealth. As they often did, the people of Israel saw this prosperity as a sign of God's blessing. But God used Amos to tell them that this was not the case. Much of the nation's wealth had been acquired by oppressing the poor, and so their insincere worship was disgusting to God. Israel had rejected its calling to be a place where God's righteousness and justice was demonstrated to the world. Because of their unfaithfulness, the Israelites would be punished severely. God would remain faithful to his people, however, and would restore what had been destroyed. Peace and blessing would come to Israel—and the world—through the coming of the Messiah. (Amos 5:18–24)

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:1 Amos included the Judeans in his warning (see 2:4–5). Both Zion (Jerusalem, the capital of Judah) and Samaria (the capital of Israel) were strong fortresses, easily defended. But God's people should never be confident in their own power.

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:2 Stronger cities than either Jerusalem or Samaria had already fallen. Among these were Calneh, in south-central Mesopotamia (see Gen. 10:10); Hamath, in Syria to the north of Israel; and Gath, a Philistine city southwest of Israel.

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:4–7 Instead of grieving over their sins, the wealthy Israelites were treating themselves to the very best of life's pleasures. It was these people whom the Assyrians would take first into exile (v. 7).

FACT

Only the very wealthy could afford to eat the tender meat of calves from the midst of the stall (6:4). These animals were set aside from other livestock and fed a strict diet of the more costly grains like barley in order to fatten them up. This fattening process ensured that the animals would bring a higher price when sold at the market.

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:6 Wine in bowls and finest oils are further indications that all restraint was gone. The wealthy cared extravagantly for their own bodies but cared nothing for the needs of others. The two main tribes in Israel were Ephraim and Manasseh, descended from Joseph.

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:8 sworn by himself. See Heb. 6:13.

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:12 Perverting justice and righteousness is as unnatural as horses choosing to run on rocks or a farmer planting crops on a rock pile.

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:13 Lo-debar and Karnaim were two cities on the east side of the Jordan. Both cities were in areas that were in constant dispute with Syria. It is likely that Israel had succeeded in recapturing them from Syria, and that this was a cause for Israelite self-confidence.

AMOS—NOTE ON 6:14 Amos says the little victories of v. 13 will be nothing compared to the destruction that is to come. Lebo-hamath was in the far north, in the valley between the Lebanon and the Anti-Lebanon Mountains. The Brook of the Arabah is in the valley in the far south between the Dead Sea and the Gulf of Aqaba. The Assyrian conquest would cover the whole land, not just a few isolated cities.

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:1–9:15 Visions of Judgment. In the final section of the book, Amos turns from speech to sight. He tells of visions he has received from God that confirm the nation's situation. The first is a vision of inescapable judgment (7:1–9). This vision is frighteningly confirmed by the prophet's experience with the priest of Bethel (7:10–17). The second vision is of Israel's terrible end (8:1–14). The last is of the Lord standing at the altar of sacrifice (9:1–15). This vision has two parts. The first continues the theme of judgment (9:1–10), but the second sounds a note of hope (9:11–15).

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:1–9 God reveals to Amos in three pictures that there is no hope for Israel. In response to the first two, Amos pleads for mercy for the nation (vv. 2, 5), and God twice graciously relents (vv. 3, 6). But the third picture is so convincing that Amos sees there is no hope and therefore makes no intercession. God has repeatedly shown mercy to his erring people, only to have them continue in their complacency toward him. Sooner or later, their time will be up.

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:2 please forgive. In spite of the severity of all that Amos had said, he took no pleasure in the people's suffering. He pleaded earnestly that God would show mercy.

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:3 The LORD relented. Like Amos, God does not desire to destroy his people. He is very patient (see Ex. 34:6). He has promised to relent in response to repentance (see Jer. 8:5–10; compare Jonah 3:10–4:2).

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:7–9 The third picture that God showed Amos was of a plumb line held against a wall. A plumb line is a string with a weight fastened to its end. When the string is placed beside a wall and the weight is allowed to hang freely, it will show whether or not the wall is perfectly vertical. If the wall is leaning and it is not fixed, it will eventually collapse. Compared to the Mosaic law, the plumb line according to which the wall of Israel was built, it is clear that the nation is so far out of line that the collapse cannot be prevented. Israel is hardened in sin; thus, in this case, Amos does not ask God to relent.

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:10–17 If the plumb line according to which Israel was constructed was the Law, then the priesthood should have held Israel accountable to it (Deut. 33:10; Mal. 2:6–7). But the priesthood itself was corrupt (see 1 Kings 12:31 for how the first King Jeroboam had ruined the priesthood for the northern kingdom). Thus, there was no external standard being applied by which Israel's true condition could be recognized and corrected. The end truly was at hand.

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:10 The reference to Amaziah the priest shows that a representative of the established religious leadership opposed Amos's prophecies. Amaziah's words to the king (Amos has conspired against you) were a lie.

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:12–13 When Amaziah called Amos a seer, his intent may have been to show contempt. The term suggests, what was true, that Amos is not a member of the royal guild of prophets, who, since they were paid by the king, would say only what the king wanted to hear. Thus Amos had no standing in the king's sanctuary.

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:15 the LORD took me . . . the LORD said to me. Amos was prophesying on God's authority.

AMOS—NOTE ON 7:17 All the honor that Amaziah prized so highly would be taken from him. These terrible punishments would happen because he rejected God's word through Amos.

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:1–14 In powerful word-pictures, Amos describes the final end of Israel.

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:1–2 The Hebrew terms for summer fruit and end sound alike, so this is probably a wordplay. "Summer fruit" signified the last of the harvest. The long summer of God's patience has finally come to an end, and there has been no harvest of repentance.

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:5–6 Real worship of God in the new moon and Sabbath festivals would have resulted in compassion for the poor and the needy.

Throughout the OT, the false balances used by dishonest merchants are a symbol of injustice (e.g., Lev. 19:35–36; Prov. 20:10; Mic. 6:10–11).

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:9–10 Israel's destruction will be so terrible that even nature will go into mourning, with the sun hiding its face. This is similar to the darkness that covered the earth when God's only Son died on the cross (Mark 15:33). Darkening can serve as a symbol of judgment (Joel 3:15; see also Rev. 6:12; 8:12).

FACT

The annual flooding of the Nile (8:8) took place from the months of June to September. Monsoon rains from the mountains to the south would overflow the banks of the Nile, bringing with it the fertile silt from the river. Crops could then be sown in October and harvested in February. This cycle went on for thousands of years until 1970, when Egypt completed construction on the Aswan High Dam, which captures the floodwaters for hydroelectric power.

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:11–12 Israel had rejected the words of the LORD from Amos. They will go into exile, where there will be no word from the Lord at all. In its absence they will find that the revelation from God had been their most precious possession. they shall not find it. People who have repeatedly rejected God's words will suddenly be unable to find clarity as to what God is saying.

AMOS—NOTE ON 8:13–14 Israel had depended on their paganized ideas of Yahweh, represented by the idols at Samaria and Dan, or on the ancestral tradition of Yahweh at Beersheba (see 5:5 and note on 5:5–6), but they would find that these pseudo-Yahwehs were no good at all. Jeroboam had established one of his improper worship sites at Dan (1 Kings 12:29–30). Since Beersheba was in Judah, it is not clear what its significance was for the northern tribes. Perhaps they made pilgrimages there, remembering its association with the patriarchs (Gen. 21:14–19, 31; 26:23, 33; 46:1–5); perhaps they felt that there was a special power available there. the Guilt of Samaria. Those who worship anything other than God will be judged for their unfaithfulness.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:1–15 This final vision has two parts, one negative (vv. 1–10) and the other positive (vv. 11–15). God considers worthless all the sacrifices the Israelites had given in an attempt to manipulate him on their behalf, while bringing reproach upon his name with their sinful lives. Therefore God would demand their own lives as sacrifices (vv. 9–10). But God's ultimate purpose in judgment is never destruction; it is always restoration. So vv. 11–15 depict a day when Israel, again recognizing David as its true king (v. 11), would be restored to its land.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:1 Capitals are the tops of columns, and thresholds are the bases. Mentioning the two together enfolds the totality of the temple structure. Revelation 20:11–15 uses this image of no escape to describe the last judgment.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:2–3 Two groups of opposites: Sheol (the underworld) vs. heaven; and Carmel (the mountaintop) vs. the bottom of the sea. In short, there is no place between these extremes to escape God.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:7 Cushites (or Nubians), who lived south of Egypt, were considered to be living at the end of the world. All peoples are under God's care.

FACT

The Cushites (9:7) lived in the Sudan region, south of Egypt. As far as the Israelites were concerned, the land of Cush was located at the end of the world. Amos mentions the Cushites here to say that even those who live in faraway places are under the Lord's providential care.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:11–15 In contrast to the mighty temple of Israel that God would smash to the ground (v. 1), the fragile booth of David (v. 11) would be repaired. The reminder that Israel's well-being depends on the descendants of David would come with special force to Amos's northern audience, who had rejected the Davidic king. God has committed himself to bless his people, and eventually the world, through the family of David (2 Sam. 7:15–16; Ps. 72:17).

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:11 In that day reminds the reader of the day of the Lord that the Israelites confidently expected. If there was to be punishment instead of blessing (see 5:18–20 and note), that did not mean it was to be God's final word. This time, the day will be a blessing to the people.

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:12 The nations . . . called by my name connects with the nations described in vv. 7–8. Israel has a special place among the nations, but it is a place of mission, not simply of privilege. In Acts 15:16–17, James cites Amos 9:11–12. He understands this passage to indicate that "all the nations" (that is, Gentiles) are included in God's blessings, as God had promised to Abraham (Gen. 12:3).

AMOS—NOTE ON 9:13 When God restores the land, it will be amazingly productive and will not need to rest for a moment. As soon as the reaper has harvested one crop, the plowman comes right behind planting another one, and as soon as someone sows the seed, the grapes grow so rapidly that the treader of grapes comes to pick the ripe grapes and gather them for the winepress. This is a beautiful poetic image of a land like the garden of Eden—with fruitfulness that is free from the curse (Gen. 3:17–19; compare Amos 4:6–10).

Introduction to Obadiah

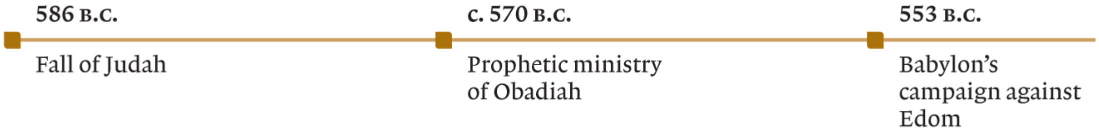
Timeline



586 B.C.
Fall of Judah
c. 570 B.C.
Prophetic ministry of Obadiah
553 B.C.
Babylon's campaign against Edom

Author and Date

The book of Obadiah records a prophetic “vision” given by the Lord to a man named Obadiah. The only thing known about this prophet is his name. The book was probably written in the first half of the Babylonian exile, after 586 B.C. (when Babylon destroyed Jerusalem) and before 553 (when Babylon attacked Edom).

Background

The people of Jerusalem experienced God’s judgment (v. 16a) when the Babylonians invaded and “cast lots for Jerusalem” (v. 11). The Edomites were descended from Jacob’s brother Esau and were Israel’s eastern neighbors. They should have assisted Israel during the crisis. Instead, they sided with the foreign invaders and even took advantage of Israel’s difficulty (vv. 10–14).

Holy Zion had been defiled, and God’s people were publicly shamed. Israel was devastated by the exile. Does Israel have a future? Will Zion be defiled forever? Will the plan for Abraham’s offspring to bring blessing to the world come to nothing? Will Edom and the hostile nations triumph? Is God indifferent to all of this?

Obadiah proclaimed God’s word in response to this situation. The message of Obadiah essentially spells out what Lamentations 4:22 announces: restoration for Zion but doom for Edom.

Theme

Edom, together with all other nations that oppose Israel's God and his people, will experience God's judgment (vv. 1–15). God's own covenant people have been judged by their exile already. God will restore them (vv. 16–21). The book ends with the promise of the kingdom of God.

Key Themes

1. Enemies will be put to shame because of their opposition to God's people (v. 10).
2. Every proud human effort at security will ultimately fail before God's coming judgment (vv. 1–9).
3. God's justice is strict and fair, with the punishment corresponding to the sins (v. 15).
4. Reunited Israel will experience God's deliverance (vv. 16–17), possess the Promised Land, and defeat and rule over Edom (vv. 17–21).
5. In the future, Yahweh will definitively establish his eternal kingdom (v. 21).

Outline

I. First Announcement of Judgment to Edom (vv. 1–4)
II. Second Announcement of Judgment to Edom (vv. 5–7)
III. Announcement of Judgment, Accusation, and Warning to Edom (vv. 8–15)
IV. Promise of Restoration and Victory to Israel (vv. 16–18)
V. Promise of Restoration and Yahweh's Kingship (vv. 19–21)

The Setting of Obadiah

c. 570 B.C.

Though various dates have been given for the prophecy of Obadiah, it was most likely written sometime after the fall of Jerusalem to the Babylonians in 586 B.C. but prior to the fall of Edom in 553. Obadiah condemned the Edomites, who were descendants of Jacob's brother Esau, for attacking the Judeans during the Babylonian crisis rather than assisting them.

The Global Message of Obadiah

Obadiah in Redemptive History

When Babylon invaded Judah in the sixth century B.C., Edom, directly to Judah's east, sided with the Babylonians and even gloated over Judah's destruction (Obad. 12). Since the Edomites were descendants of Jacob's brother, Esau, this betrayal by Edom was especially painful to God's people. While other prophets condemn Israel for their faithlessness, Obadiah's prophecy has nothing negative to say to God's own people. The focus is on Edom and the divine judgment that will come upon her.

The prophecy of Obadiah addresses key questions that would have been raised by God's people in this tumultuous time of defeat and exile. What will become of God's plan and promise to bless all nations through Abraham and his descendants? Will the godless nations of the world triumph? Will God's covenant with his people come to an end? How does God's faithfulness to Israel fit with his righteous justice that must be executed toward a people who have so often proven faithless? The message of Obadiah is that despite Israel's sin, God will judge those who afflict his people (Obad. 1–15) and he will restore his people (vv. 16–18), who then will be an everlasting blessing to the whole world (vv. 19–21).

From the vantage point of the New Testament era, we can see that the ultimate way in which both God's justice and his mercy are vindicated without compromising either is at the cross of Christ, where God's justice was satisfied even as his mercy was most clearly seen. With Jesus Christ, the kingdom of the Lord was established (Obad. 21; compare Mark 1:14–15). One day Jesus will come a second time and that kingdom will come in its fullness (Rev. 11:15; 12:10), and the sinners of all nations who have been redeemed by the blood of Christ will worship him forever in the new earth (Rev. 5:9–10).

Universal Themes in Obadiah

The danger of pride. Throughout the Bible we are taught that God opposes pride but is drawn to humility (Prov. 3:34; Isa. 66:1–2; Luke 1:51–52; James 4:6, 10; 1 Pet. 5:5–6). Pride was precisely Edom's problem, as identified in Obadiah 3–4: "The pride of your heart has deceived you, you who live in the clefts of the rock, in your lofty dwelling, who say in your heart, 'Who will bring me down to the ground?' Though you soar aloft like the eagle, though your nest is set among the stars, from there I will bring you down, declares the LORD." Pride is a universal human problem, not restricted to any particular class or ethnicity—indeed, in many ways it is the root of all human sin (see 1 Tim. 3:6).

Divine retribution. "As you have done," says the Lord in Obadiah 15, "it shall be done to you; your deeds shall return on your own head." It is a great and glorious truth that the God of the Bible is a God of love (e.g., 1 John 4:16–19). But this must never obscure the equally biblical truth that he is a God of unswerving justice who will do only what is right and just (e.g., 2 Thess. 1:5–10). This is a severe and sober caution for those who oppose the people of God, yet it also gives great hope to God's people as they experience affliction of various kinds around the world. Whatever is done to them by those hostile to the gospel will one day be repaid by God himself.

The universal kingdom of God. The closing verses of Obadiah ring with the glorious promise of a spreading international kingdom under the people of God, "and the kingdom shall be the LORD's" (Obad. 21). The New Testament and the coming of Christ begins the fulfillment of this promise as the gospel explodes out from Jerusalem "to the end of the earth" (Acts 1:8). God's people, reviled and persecuted both in Obadiah's day as well as around the world today, "shall reign on the earth" (Rev. 5:10).

The Global Message of Obadiah for Today

Obadiah provides deep consolation for believers everywhere. As global Christians suffer "trials of various kinds" (James 1:2), they can rest content in a God of perfect justice who will not let injustices committed against his own people go finally unpunished. More broadly, God will act justly toward those around the world today who spurn the dignity of the unborn or elderly, or who squander opportunities to defend the helpless.

The kingdom of the Lord prophesied in Obadiah is a kingdom into which believers have been graciously and irreversibly ushered (Heb. 12:28), under a king who will never leave them nor forsake them (Heb. 13:5). Yet this is presently an embattled kingdom. One day, this will not be so. The glory that is coming on the sons and daughters of God in the new earth will be perfect and everlasting. Shame, tears, and rejection will be over (Rev. 21:4). Joy will have dawned. We await that day with eager hope.

OBADIAH 1 [†]The vision of Obadiah.

Edom Will Be Humbled

Thus says the Lord God [a] concerning Edom:
[b] We have heard a report from the Lord,
and a messenger has been sent among the nations:
“Rise up! Let us rise against her for battle!”
2[†] Behold, I will make you small among the nations;
you shall be utterly despised. [1] 3 [c] The pride of your heart has deceived you,
you who live in the clefts of the rock, [2]
in your lofty dwelling,
[d] who say in your heart,
“Who will bring me down to the ground?”
4 Though you soar aloft like the eagle, though your nest is set among the stars,
from there I will bring you down,
declares the Lord.

5[†] If [e] thieves came to you, if plunderers came by night—
how you have been destroyed!—
would they not steal only enough for themselves?
If [e] grape gatherers came to you,
would they not leave gleanings?
6 [f] How Esau has been pillaged, his treasures sought out!
7[†] All your allies have driven you to your border;
those at peace with you have deceived you;
they have prevailed against you;
[g] those who eat your bread [3] have set a trap beneath you—
[h] you have [4] no understanding.

8[†] [i] Will I not on that day, declares the Lord, destroy the wise men out of Edom,

and understanding out of [j] Mount Esau?
9 And your mighty men shall be dismayed, [k] O Teman, so that every man from [j] Mount Esau will be cut off by slaughter.

Edom’s Violence Against Jacob

10 [†] [l] Because of the violence done to your brother Jacob, shame shall cover you,
[m] and you shall be cut off forever.
11 [n] On the day that you stood aloof,
[o] on the day that strangers carried off his wealth and foreigners entered his gates [p] and cast lots for Jerusalem, you were like one of them.
12 [†] [q] But do not gloat over the day of your brother in the day of his misfortune; [r] do not rejoice over the people of Judah
in the day of their ruin; [s] do not boast [5]
in the day of distress.
13 [t] Do not enter the gate of my people
in the day of their calamity;
[t] do not gloat over his disaster
in the day of his calamity;
[u] do not loot his wealth
in the day of his calamity.
14 [v] Do not stand at the crossroads to cut off his fugitives;
do not hand over his survivors
in the day of distress.

The Day of the LORD Is Near

15 [†] For [w] the day of the LORD is near upon all the nations.
[x] As you have done, it shall be done to you;
your deeds shall return on your own head.

16[†] [y]For as you have drunk on [z]my holy mountain, so all the nations shall drink continually;
they shall drink and swallow,
and shall be as though they had never been.
17[†] [a]But in Mount Zion there shall be those who escape, and it shall be holy,
[b]and the house of Jacob shall possess their own possessions.
18 [c]The house of Jacob shall be a fire, and the house of Joseph a flame,
and the house of Esau [d]stubble;
they shall burn them and consume them, [e]and there shall be no survivor for the house of Esau,
for the LORD has spoken.

The Kingdom of the LORD

19[†] Those of [f]the Negeb [b]shall possess [g]Mount Esau, and those of the Shephelah shall possess [h]the land of the Philistines;
they shall possess the land of Ephraim and the land of [i]Samaria, and Benjamin shall possess Gilead.
20 The exiles of this host of the people of Israel shall possess the land of the Canaanites as far as [j]Zarephath, and the exiles of Jerusalem who are in Sepharad shall possess the cities of the Negeb.
21[†] [k]Saviors shall go up to Mount Zion to rule [g]Mount Esau, and [l]the kingdom shall be the LORD’s.

Study Notes for Obadiah

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 1 Thus says the Lord GOD was a common expression among the prophets, indicating that the prophet reports God's own words. Rise up! God is calling the nations to go to war against Edom (compare Isa. 13:2–5).

FACT

A call to arms. Alliances and treaties in the ancient world were important in times of war, just as they are today around the globe. Allies supported each other by combining forces against the enemy. Messengers could be sent to allies requesting soldiers, supplies, and even intelligence on enemy troop movements and strength. In vv. 1–14, Obadiah warns Edom that it will be destroyed by its former allies.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 2–4 Edom is insignificant among the nations. Just as Edom gloated over Judah (vv. 12–13), so other nations disrespect Edom. This contrasts with Edom's own pride. The Edomites dwell in the mountainous region east of the Arabah, with elevations up to 5,000 feet (1.5 km) above sea level. Their inaccessible location has given them false hopes of security.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 5–6 Edom will be thoroughly destroyed, with nothing remaining.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 7 The past-tense verbs speak about a future event as though it were already completed (compare vv. 5–6). Just as Edom betrayed its own brother Jacob (vv. 10, 12), so Edom's own allies will turn against it. Those who eat your bread is a term for allies, since treaties were often sealed by covenant meals (compare Ps. 41:9).

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 8–9 On that day refers back to vv. 1–7 and looks toward "the day of the LORD" in v. 15. Neither Edom's political skill nor its military strength can provide national security (compare Jer. 49:7, 22).

Teman is the name of Esau's grandson (Gen. 36:9–11). Here it refers either to Edom as a whole or to its southern region. Mount Esau. Another name for Edom.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 10–11 On the day that you stood aloof . . . you were like one of them criticizes the Edomites for failing to give military support to neighboring Jerusalem when it was wrongfully attacked.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 12–14 These verses spell out Edom's violent acts. The Edomites took advantage of Judah's situation during the Babylonian crisis (Ps. 137:7; Ezek. 25:12–14; 35:1–36:7).

OBADIAH

The only thing known about the prophet Obadiah is his name, which means "one who serves Yahweh." The book of Obadiah is an indictment against the nation of Edom, who took advantage of Judah during the Babylonian crisis. Rather than come to Judah's aid, the Edomites gloated over the nation's demise, looted valuables, and sold captives as slaves. Their actions were particularly shameful since the Edomites were descendants of Esau and thus brothers to the people of Judah. Edom is the target of Obadiah's prophecy of doom because it is a shameful example of hostility toward God's people. Even though Jerusalem's fall was a result of the nation's unfaithfulness—and Edom was one of God's tools for bringing judgment—the Lord punished those who oppose his people. (Obadiah 10–11)

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 15 The Edomites should stop harming God's people because (For) the day of God's universal judgment is near. On the day of the LORD, see note on Amos 5:18–20; see also The Day of the Lord in the Prophets.) As you have done. The link between misdeeds and judgment shows the punishment to be appropriate, fair, and deserved.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 16 As you have drunk is a common biblical metaphor (compare Isa. 51:17–23; Jer. 25:15–29; Ezek. 23:31–34; Rev. 14:10). Experiencing God's wrath is like getting drunk on wine that brings pain and destruction instead of joy.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 17 Mount Zion is the place where Yahweh dwelt among and for his people. Those taking refuge in him will be delivered from the coming wrath (Isa. 14:32). Zion's blessings were available to Gentiles (1 Kings 8:41–43; Isa. 2:2–4). Their own possessions is a reference to the Promised Land, as clarified in Obad. 19–20.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 19–20 All of Israel, including the exiles far away, will return. Much of the Promised Land was lost over the years, but all of it will be regained.

OBADIAH—NOTE ON 21 Saviors. Those appointed by God to deliver the people and bring just government. The Lord has always been King over the nations (v. 1), but here the prophet promises God's future rule from Mount Zion, that is, Jerusalem. Jesus will rule over the whole earth when he returns (Matt. 25:34).

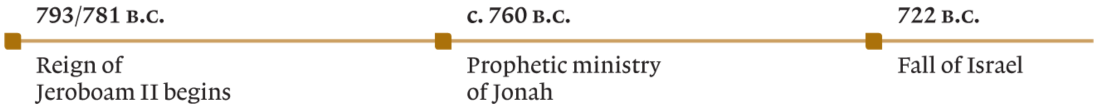
Introduction to Jonah

Introduction to Jonah

Timeline



Author and Date

Jonah prophesied during the peaceful and prosperous time of Jeroboam II (2 Kings 14:23–28), who ruled in Israel (the northern kingdom) from 782 to 753 B.C. This was a time when Assyria was not a threat to Israel.

Overview

The Lord called Jonah to go to the great Assyrian city of Nineveh to pronounce judgment on it. Jonah attempted to escape the Lord’s calling by sailing from the seaport of Joppa to Tarshish, which was probably on the shores of the western Mediterranean. Eventually he obeyed the Lord and traveled overland to Nineveh.

Theme

The primary theme in Jonah is that God’s compassion is boundless, not limited just to “us” (Jonah and the Israelites) but also available for “them” (the pagan sailors and the Ninevites).

Key Themes

1. God is in sovereign control over all events on the earth.
2. God is determined to get his message to the nations.
3. People need to repent from sin in general, and from self-centeredness and hypocrisy in particular.

4. God promises that he will forgive when people repent.

Outline

The story of Jonah includes seven episodes, with the first three paralleled by the second three. The final episode stands alone as the climax of the story:

I. A. Jonah’s commissioning and flight (1:1–3)
II. B. Jonah and the pagan sailors (1:4–16)
III. C. Jonah’s grateful prayer (1:17–2:10)
IV. A'. Jonah’s recommissioning and compliance (3:1–3a)
V. B'. Jonah and the pagan Ninevites (3:3b–10)
VI. C'. Jonah’s angry prayer (4:1–4)
VII. D. Jonah’s lesson about compassion (4:5–11)

The Setting of Jonah

c. 760 B.C.

Jonah prophesied during the prosperous time of King Jeroboam II of Israel (2 Kings 14:23–28). During this time the Assyrians were occupied with matters elsewhere in the empire, allowing Jeroboam II to capture much of Syria for Israel. The Lord called Jonah to go to the great Assyrian city of Nineveh to pronounce judgment upon it. Jonah attempted to escape the Lord’s calling by sailing to Tarshish, which was probably in the western Mediterranean. Eventually he obeyed the Lord and went to Nineveh, at the heart of the Assyrian Empire.

The Global Message of Jonah

The theme of Jonah is God's saving mercy toward the nations of the world. The Lord's compassion is not only for insiders like Jonah and Israel but also for outsiders like the Ninevites. Jonah vividly displays the heart of mercy God has for all people groups of the world, even those known for their godlessness. If only they will repent, God's compassion is available to any persons from any nation or ethnicity.

Jonah in Redemptive History

God's global intent. God called Adam and Eve to "be fruitful and multiply and fill the earth and subdue it" (Gen. 1:28). This commission was hindered with the fall into sin, but was given in grace once more to Noah and then to Abraham and the patriarchs (Gen. 8:17; 9:1; 17:20; 28:3; 35:11). Abraham, however, was called not only to be fruitful and become "a great nation" but also to "be a blessing" so that "in you all the families of the earth shall be blessed" (Gen. 12:2–3). Abraham and his children were to be a channel of divine blessing to the whole world.

Built into the Old Testament story from very early on, then, is God's desire to reach the ends of the earth with his goodness and saving mercy. Israel was not called out and chosen by God solely for her own sake—she was called out so that she might bring blessing to the nations (Isa. 42:6–7; 49:6). Part of the tragedy of Israel's persistent faithlessness and idolatry over many generations was their ethnocentrism: they turned their focus inward rather than spreading divine blessing to the nations around them. Paul speaks of Israel's failure in this regard many times, as in his letter to the Romans (Rom. 2:1–29). Jesus too addresses the Jewish failure to bring God's blessing to the nations, as in the parable of the tenants (Matt. 21:33–46; compare Luke 24:47; John 10:16; Acts 1:8).

Jonah's role in God's global intent. This inward focus of Israel is also seen in Jonah. The prophet at first refuses to go to Nineveh, the godless Assyrian city, because, he says, "I knew that you are a gracious God and merciful, slow to anger and abounding in steadfast love, and relenting from disaster" (Jonah 4:2). Jonah failed to see that God's compassion was for all people; the very "steadfast love" he had received in the belly of the great fish (2:8) was the “steadfast love” he did not want to share with the nations (4:2), yet which they desperately needed, and which God stood ready to give to them.

With the coming of Christ, the blessing of God finally begins to flood out to the nations. Indeed, Jesus’ commission at the end of Matthew’s Gospel picks up and extends the commission given to Adam and Eve to be fruitful and subdue the earth, multiplying not only physically but also spiritually (“make disciples of all nations”; Matt. 28:19). And one day the blessing experienced by the Ninevites will be fulfilled in cosmic proportions as Jesus Christ is worshiped by a “ransomed people for God from every tribe and language and people and nation” (Rev. 5:9).

Universal Themes in Jonah

The compassion of God. This is the key theme of Jonah. It is the note on which the book ends, as the Lord asks a despondent Jonah, “Should not I pity Nineveh, that great city, in which there are more than 120,000 persons who do not know their right hand from their left, and also much cattle?” (Jonah 4:11). God’s merciful compassion is not restricted to insiders. His mercy is for all who repent. Divine compassion is shown not to those who think they deserve such compassion but to those who receive it with repentance and humility—as the Ninevites did.

God’s sovereign purposes. God does whatever it takes—from a storm at sea to a great fish to the miraculous response of repentance by the Ninevites—to bring his boundless compassion to the nations. As Jonathan said to his armor bearer, “nothing can hinder the Lord from saving by many or by few” (1 Sam. 14:6). God delights to invite his people’s glad participation in what he is doing in the world, yet he is not bound by their obedience or disobedience. No matter how God’s people respond, God will accomplish his saving purposes for the world.

The universal need for grace. The Ninevites needed grace for their wickedness. But Jonah, the insider, the prophet, also needed grace. He was shown grace in the belly of the fish, and yet his heart remained stubborn even at the end of the story. He is resentful, refusing to feel the same pity for Nineveh that he felt for a small plant (Jonah 4:5–10). In short, he is a sinner—a hard-hearted man who is in need of mercy, the same mercy that God extended to the Ninevites. The steadfast love shown to Israel is needed by Israelites just as much as by the godless nations to whom Israel was called to bring it. The story stops where it does precisely in order to make this point.

The Global Message of Jonah for Today

The message of Jonah is an urgent call for the global church to extend to others the compassion they themselves have received.

One way we do this is through tangible acts of love such as financial generosity, hospitality, sharing of resources and personal possessions, and advocacy on behalf of those in need politically or socially. One thinks, for instance, of the alarming rate at which human trafficking and slavery are spreading. Such horrors demand active advocacy.

A second and even more crucial way we can extend compassion to others is through the spoken word, just as Jonah did (Jonah 3:3–4). Mindful of the “steadfast love” God has shown to us in Christ, we speak to others of the same steadfast love that is available to all the peoples of the world, regardless of class, ethnicity, or any other socially defining marker. The gospel of Christ crucified is that which is “of first importance” (1 Cor. 15:3), and we gladly and courageously pass it on to those who have not heard it.

We speak the gospel to lost people with confidence, knowing that the results are in God’s hands. Humanly speaking, no one in Nineveh was less likely to respond to Jonah’s preaching than the king. But God sovereignly caused Jonah’s preaching to pierce the hearts of the Ninevites, “from the greatest of them to the least of them,” including the king (Jonah 3:5–9)!

Jonah Flees the Presence of the LORD

JONAH 1 [†]Now the word of the LORD came to [a] Jonah the son of Amittai, saying, [2][†]“Arise, go to [b] Nineveh, that [c] great city, and call out against it, [d] for their evil [1] has come up before me.” [3][†]But Jonah [e] rose to flee to [f] Tarshish from the presence of the LORD. He went down to [g] Joppa and found a ship going to [f] Tarshish. So he paid the fare and went down into it, to go with them to [f] Tarshish, [h] away from the presence of the LORD.

[4][†]But [i] the LORD hurled a great wind upon the sea, and there was a mighty tempest on the sea, so that the ship threatened [j] to break up. [5]Then the mariners were afraid, and [k] each cried out to his god. And [l] they hurled the cargo that was in the ship into the sea to lighten it for them. But Jonah had gone down into the inner part of the ship and had lain down and was fast asleep. [6][†]So the captain came and said to him, “What do you mean, you sleeper? Arise, [k] call out to your god! [m] Perhaps the god will give a thought to us, that we may not perish.”

Jonah Is Thrown into the Sea

[7]And they said to one another, “Come, let us [n] cast lots, that we may know on whose account this evil has come upon us.” So they cast lots, and the lot fell on Jonah. [8]Then they said to him, “Tell us on whose account this evil has come upon us. What is your occupation? And where do you come from?
What is your country? And of what people are you?” [9][†]And he said to them, “I am a Hebrew, and I fear [o] the LORD, the God of heaven, [p] who made the sea and the dry land.” [10]Then the men were exceedingly afraid and said to him, “What is this that you have done!” For the men knew that [h] he was fleeing from the presence of the LORD, because he had told them.

[11]Then they said to him, “What shall we do to you, that the sea may quiet down for us?” For the sea grew more and more tempestuous. [12]He said to them, “Pick me up and hurl me into the sea; then the sea will quiet down for you, [q] for I know it is because of me that this great tempest has come upon you.” [13]Nevertheless, the men rowed hard [2] to get back to dry land, but they could not, for the sea grew more and more tempestuous against them.

[14]Therefore they called out to the LORD, “O LORD, let us not perish for this man’s life, and [r] lay not on us innocent blood, [s] for you, O LORD, have done as it pleased you.” [15][†]So they picked up Jonah and hurled him into the sea, [t] and the sea ceased from its raging. [16][†]Then the men feared the LORD exceedingly, [u] and they offered a sacrifice to the LORD [v] and made vows.

A Great Fish Swallows Jonah

[17][†] [3] And the LORD appointed [4] a great fish to swallow up Jonah. [w] And Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights.

Jonah’s Prayer

JONAH 2 [†]Then Jonah prayed to the LORD his God from the belly of the fish, [2][†]saying, [x] “I called out to the LORD, out of my distress, and he answered me;

[y] out of the belly of Sheol I cried,
[z] and you heard my voice.
[3][†] [a] For you cast me into the deep,
into the heart of the seas,
and the flood surrounded me;
[b] all your waves and your billows passed over me.
4 [c] Then I said, ‘I am driven away from your sight;
[d] yet I shall again look upon your holy temple.’
5 [e] The waters closed in over me [f] to take my life;
the deep surrounded me;
weeds were wrapped about my head [6][†] at the roots of the mountains.
I went down to the land whose bars closed upon me forever;
yet you brought up my life from the pit,

O LORD my God.
[7] When my life was fainting away,
I remembered the LORD,
[g] and my prayer came to you,
into your holy temple.
[8][†] [h] Those who pay regard to vain idols
[i] forsake their hope of steadfast love.
[9] [j] But I with the voice of thanksgiving will sacrifice to you;
what I have vowed I will pay.
[k] Salvation belongs to the LORD!"

[10]And the LORD spoke to the fish, and it vomited Jonah out upon the dry land.

Jonah Goes to Nineveh

JONAH 3 [†]Then the word of the LORD came to Jonah the second time, saying, [2]"Arise, go to [l] Nineveh, that great city, and call out against it the message that I tell you." [3][†]So Jonah arose and went to Nineveh, according to the word of the LORD. Now [l] Nineveh was an exceedingly great city, [1] three days' journey in breadth. [2] [4][†]Jonah began to go into the city, going a day's journey. And he called out, "Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown!" [5] [m] And the people of Nineveh believed God. [n] They called for a fast and [o] put on sackcloth, from the greatest of them to the least of them.

The People of Nineveh Repent

[6][†]The word reached [3] the king of Nineveh, and [p] he arose from his throne, removed his robe, covered himself with sackcloth, [q] and sat in ashes. [7][†]And he issued a proclamation and published through Nineveh, [r] "By the decree of the king and his nobles: Let neither man nor [s] beast, herd nor flock, taste anything. Let them not feed or drink water, [8]but let man and [s] beast be covered with sackcloth, and let them call out mightily to

God. [t] Let everyone turn from his evil way and from [u] the violence that is in his hands. 9[†] [v] Who knows? God may turn and relent [w] and turn from his fierce anger, so that we may not perish."

10[†]When God saw what they did, [x] how they turned from their evil way, [x] God relented of the disaster that he had said he would do to them, and he did not do it.

Jonah's Anger and the LORD's Compassion

JONAH 4 [†]But it displeased Jonah exceedingly, [1] and [y] he was angry. 2[†]And he prayed to the LORD and said, "O LORD, is not this what I said when I was yet in my country? [z] That is why I made haste to flee to Tarshish; for I knew that you are a [a] gracious God and merciful, slow to anger and abounding in steadfast love, and [a] relenting from disaster. 3[†] [b] Therefore now, O LORD, please take my life from me, [c] for it is better for me to die than to live." 4And the LORD said, [d] "Do you do well to be angry?"

5[†]Jonah went out of the city and sat to the east of the city and [e] made a booth for himself there. He sat under it in the shade, till he should see what would become of the city. 6[†]Now the LORD God appointed a plant [2] and made it come up over Jonah, that it might be a shade over his head, to save him from his discomfort. [3] So Jonah was exceedingly glad because of the plant. 7But when dawn came up the next day, God appointed a worm that attacked the plant, so that it withered. 8When the sun rose, God appointed a scorching [f] east wind, [g] and the sun beat down on the head of Jonah so that he [h] was faint. And he asked that he might die and said, [c] "It is better for me to die than to live." 9[†]But God said to Jonah, [i] "Do you do well to be angry for the plant?" And he said, "Yes, I do well to be angry, angry enough to die." 10[†]And the LORD said, "You pity the plant, for which you did not labor, nor did you make it grow, which came into being in a night and perished in a night. 11And should not I pity [j] Nineveh, that great city, in which there are more than 120,000 persons who do not know their right hand from their left, and also much [k] cattle?"

Study Notes for Jonah

1:1–3 Jonah's Commissioning and Flight. This episode records Jonah's call to prophesy and his flight from that call. Two questions drive the plot: (1) What will happen to the Ninevites? and (2) What will happen to Jonah?

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:1 Son of Amittai means "son of my faithfulness." Jonah will remain the object of God's faithful love.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:2 Nineveh was on the east bank of the Tigris River, more than 500 miles (805 km) northeast of Israel. Great is used 14 times in Jonah. Nineveh was an important city (see 3:3). evil. The Ninevites were evil, and they were headed for disaster (see ESV footnote).

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:3 Tarshish was somewhere in the western Mediterranean—the opposite direction from Nineveh. From the presence of the LORD is repeated to emphasize Jonah's reason for going to Tarshish. Went down is also a euphemism for death (e.g., Gen. 37:35). Each step away from the presence of the Lord is one step closer to "going down" to death.

FACT

Tarshish was probably a city on the western shores of the Mediterranean Sea, which would have represented the very western edge of the known world in Jonah's time. Jonah foolishly thought this far-off land would take him "away from the presence of the LORD" (1:3).

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:4–16 Jonah and the Pagan Sailors. These verses tell of Jonah's encounter with pagan sailors. It raises the question, Who truly fears the Lord—Jonah, or the pagans? At the beginning and end the sailors "fear" (vv. 5, 16); in the middle Jonah claims to "fear" the Lord (v. 9) while the sailors actually fear (v. 10a).

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:6 Arise, call out echoes God's command in v. 2. not perish. A pagan, not Jonah, is concerned that people not die.

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:9–10 made the sea. God created the very seas Jonah tries to use to flee. Jonah knows now that he cannot escape God's presence (v. 3).

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:15 The sailors' actions are in harmony with God's. As God had hurled the wind onto the sea (vv. 4–5) to start the storm, the sailors now hurl Jonah into the sea to stop the storm (v. 12).

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:16 feared the LORD exceedingly. What started as a general fear (v. 5) grew into an intense fear (v. 10) and matured into the fear—that is, the reverent worship—of the Lord (v. 16).

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:17–2:10 Jonah's Grateful Prayer. Jonah's prayer (2:2b–9) is framed by an introduction (1:17–2:2a) and a conclusion (2:10).

JONAH—NOTE ON 1:17 appointed. This is the first of four uses of "appoint" that highlight God's sovereign control over creation (compare 4:6–8). Fish is a general word for a sea creature, which cannot be identified further. However, a large whale such as a sperm whale could easily swallow a man whole. three days and three nights. This likely describes the actual number of days, or parts of three days (compare 1 Sam. 30:12; 2 Kings 20:5, 8). The number three has associations with return from death or near-death. Perhaps this is why Jesus compared the time between his own death and resurrection to Jonah's time in the fish (Matt. 12:40).

JONAH—NOTE ON 2:1 Finally, Jonah prayed. He did not pray for God to save the pagan sailors, but he did thank God for saving him.

JONAH—NOTE ON 2:2 Sheol refers to the realm of the dead. Jonah did not literally pray from Sheol but describes his near-death experience (see Ps. 30:2–3).

JONAH—NOTE ON 2:3–4 you cast me. Jonah knew that God was working sovereignly through the sailors (1:15).

JONAH—NOTE ON 2:6 you brought. Jonah's salvation was by grace alone.

JONAH—NOTE ON 2:8–9 Salvation belongs to the LORD. Jonah knows that God is the sovereign source of salvation (see 4:1–4).

3:1–3a Jonah's Recommissioning and Compliance. The fourth episode parallels 1:1–3 and focuses on the question, "What will happen to the Ninevites?” (see note on 1:1–3).

FACT

Nineveh was located along the Tigris River, across from what is now the city of Mosul in northern Iraq. Its location at the intersection of important trade routes made it strong and wealthy.

JONAH—NOTE ON 3:1–2 The second time underscores God’s determination to get his message to the Ninevites and to use Jonah to take it to them.

JONAH—NOTE ON 3:3b–10 Jonah and the Pagan Ninevites. The fifth episode parallels the second (1:4–16) and focuses on how the pagan Ninevites, just like the pagan sailors, respond to God’s word. The structure follows the pattern of repentance found elsewhere in the OT: (1) message of divine judgment (3:3a–5); (2) account of human repenting (vv. 6–9); and (3) record of divine relenting (v. 10). Compare 1 Sam. 7:3–14; Joel 1–2.

The City of Nineveh

Nineveh, which was situated at the confluence of the Tigris and Khoser rivers (modern-day Mosul, Iraq), was first settled in the seventh millennium B.C. According to the Bible, Nimrod was the founder of the city (Gen. 10:11). Major excavations took place under the direction of Henry Layard from 1845 to 1854. The diagram pictures the results of those excavations, especially as they reflect the period of the Assyrian Empire (1420–609 B.C.). Around 1000 B.C. there occurred a great revival of Assyrian power, and Nineveh became a royal city. It was a thriving city during the first half of the first millennium, and contained such luxuries as public squares, parks, botanical gardens, and even a zoo. One of the great archaeological finds of the period is the library of King Ashurbanipal (669–627 B.C.; called Osnappar in Ezra 4:10). The size of the city was approximately 1,850 acres. The book of Jonah reflects the flourishing nature of Nineveh at this time (3:1–5). Nineveh eventually fell to the Medes and Babylonians in 612 B.C. The invading armies dammed the rivers that supplied water to the city, causing a flood that broke through one of the perimeter walls, giving the foreign armies access to the city.

JONAH—NOTE ON 3:3b an exceedingly great city (see 1:2; 3:2; compare ESV footnote, “a great city to God”). Nineveh is important to God and will receive his great compassion. three days’ journey in breadth. The phrase may refer to the time it would take Jonah to walk across the city, preaching his message.

JONAH—NOTE ON 3:4 Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown! Although the warning sounds like a promise, a condition was implied. If the people repent, God will relent (see v. 9; 4:2).

JONAH—NOTE ON 3:6 The word that reached the king of Nineveh was the "word" of the Lord (see 1:1; 3:1, 3). The "king of Nineveh" was probably not the king of Assyria, since Nineveh was not an Assyrian capital in Jonah's day.

JONAH—NOTE ON 3:7–8 issued a proclamation. It is likely that v. 5 and vv. 6–9 are in topical rather than chronological order. By putting the people's response ahead of the king's order, the author underscores that they are responding to Jonah's message, not just to the king's command. The Ninevites each turn from his evil way, whereas the Israelites did not (see 2 Kings 17:13–14).

JONAH—NOTE ON 3:9 Who knows? expresses hope that God may turn and relent. The phrase we may not perish marks the third time a pagan has been concerned that people not perish (compare 1:14 and note on 1:6).

JONAH—NOTE ON 3:10 turned from their evil way, God relented of the disaster. "Evil" and "disaster" translate the same Hebrew word (see note on 1:2). The repetition of the same word shows the close connection between human action and divine response. God did not carry out the threatened disaster, because the Ninevites repented of their evil (see note on 3:4).

JONAH

God called the prophet Jonah to travel to the city of Nineveh and to speak out against it. Nineveh was an Assyrian city, part of an empire known for its cruelty, that had long threatened Israel. The last thing Jonah wanted was for these particular people to experience the mercy and compassion of the God of Israel. Therefore he rejected the Lord's call and tried to travel as far as he possibly could in the opposite direction from Nineveh! After three days and three nights in the belly of a large fish, however, Jonah repented and went to Nineveh. He delivered a prophetic message against the city, just as the Lord had commanded. Much to Jonah's surprise, the people of Nineveh repented, and the Lord relented from his plans to destroy them. Jonah learned that God is ready to show mercy to all who will turn their hearts to him. (Jonah 3:6–10)

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:1–4 Jonah's Angry Prayer. The sixth episode parallels the third (1:17–2:10) and focuses on Jonah's self-centeredness and hypocrisy. Both episodes have the same structure: (1) Jonah "prayed to the LORD" (1:17–2:1a and 4:1–2a); (2) Jonah's prayer (2:1b–9 and 4:2b–3); and (3) "the LORD spoke/said" (2:10 and 4:4).

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:1 it displeased Jonah exceedingly. In the previous episode (see 3:10) the pagans got rid of their "evil" and God got rid of the "disaster" he had threatened. The pagans are in harmony with God, but Jonah is not. He is now characterized by "displeasure" (or "evil").

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:2 This is Jonah's second prayer. The repetition of prayed to the LORD (see 2:1) invites the reader to compare the two. gracious God . . . relenting from disaster. Ironically, this great confession of God's compassionate nature (see Ex. 34:6–7; Ps. 145:8) is the cause of Jonah's anger. When Jonah received steadfast love, it filled him with thanksgiving (Jonah 2:8). When God extended the same love to the Ninevites, it filled Jonah with anger.

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:3 My life translates the Hebrew for "my soul," and to live translates the Hebrew for "my life." These two expressions occur in Jonah's first prayer, where he is grateful that his "life" was brought up from the pit (2:6) and that his fainting "life/soul" was revived (2:7). When God extends the same mercy to the Ninevites, Jonah wishes his "life" and "soul" to be taken.

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:5–11 Jonah's Lesson about Compassion. The seventh and final episode has no parallel and thus stands out as the climax of the story.

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:6 the LORD God appointed. This is the second use of the verb "appoint" (see note on 1:17). Discomfort (or "evil"; see ESV footnote and note on 1:2) refers both to Jonah's outer "discomfort" and to his inner "evil." Jonah was exceedingly glad. The grammar of this phrase is identical to that at the beginning of 4:1 ("It displeased Jonah exceedingly"). This highlights the contrast between Jonah's anger at the salvation of the Ninevites and his joy at his own salvation.

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:9 angry for the plant. God questions the justice of Jonah's anger over the destruction of the plant (v. 4).

JONAH—NOTE ON 4:10–11 perished. Finally Jonah expresses concern over something perishing. Sadly, it is only the plant, not the 120,000 people who do not know their right hand from their left, which means that they were untaught regarding moral or spiritual issues.

FACT

The population of Nineveh after the time of Sennacherib's reign (704–681 B.C.) was close to 300,000, over twice as many people as in Jonah's time. This huge population increase was due primarily to Sennacherib making Nineveh the capital of the Assyrian Empire. He created new streets and open spaces for trade and built his famous "palace without rival." These attractions would have drawn thousands of people to live in Nineveh.

c. 742 B.C. Prophetic ministry of Micah
722 B.C. Fall of Israel
715 B.C. Reign of Hezekiah begins

Author and Date

Micah prophesied during the reigns of the Judean kings Jotham (750–735 B.C.), Ahaz (735–715), and Hezekiah (715–687). This was about the same time as Hosea and Isaiah, though Micah may have served somewhat later. The length of Micah's public activity may have been about 20 to 25 years.

Theme

The theme of Micah is judgment and forgiveness. The Lord, the Judge who scatters his people for their sins, is also the Shepherd-King who in covenant faithfulness gathers, protects, and forgives them.

Purpose and Background

Micah writes to bring God's "lawsuit" against his people (3:8). He indicts Samaria and Jerusalem for their sins (1:2–7). Both Assyria (5:5–6) and Babylon (4:10) stand ready to carry out God's judgment. The reigns of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, along with the increasing threat of Assyria, provide the broad background for Micah.

Micah lists specific sins of both the northern and southern kingdoms. These sins include idolatry (1:7; 5:12–14); the seizure of property (2:2, 9); the failure of civil leadership (3:1–3, 9–10; 7:3), religious leadership (3:11), and prophetic leadership (3:5–7, 11); offering sacrifice without truly repenting (6:6–7); and corrupt business practices and violence (6:10–12).

Key Themes

1. The Lord's character and the people's sins demand judgment (1:2–5; 2:3; 6:1–2, 9–11). God's "sentence" upon his people comes in the form of an oppressor (1:15; 4:11; 5:1, 5–6) and by means of covenant curses (6:13–15) caused by covenant unfaithfulness (6:16).
2. A Shepherd-King will gather and deliver a faithful remnant of people (2:12–13; 4:6–8; 7:14, 18). This deliverer, functioning as a new David, will come from the very region that was then under Assyrian control (5:2–5a).
3. Practicing justice and mercy shows covenant faithfulness (6:8; compare Matt. 23:23).
4. The Lord is the focus of worship. The nations will come to Zion to learn of the true Lord and to live in peace (Mic. 4:1–5; 7:12; compare Isa. 2:2–5).
5. Grace flowing from the Lord's steadfast love (Mic. 7:18–20) overcomes the penalty due to sin (7:8–9). Forgiveness is possible because of God's faithfulness to his promises (7:20).
6. God's saving acts in the past (6:4–5; 7:14–15) provide hope for his saving acts in the future (7:19–20).

The Near East at the Time of Micah

c. 740 B.C.

Micah prophesied to Israel and Judah from the time just before the fall of Samaria through the time of King Hezekiah of Judah. Micah saw the destruction of Israel by Assyria. He probably also saw the Lord's dramatic rescue of Jerusalem from the Assyrians during Hezekiah's reign.

The Global Message of Micah

"Who is a God like you?" (Mic. 7:18). This question is the note on which the prophecy of Micah ends, and it is also a rough translation of the very name Micah. The theme that resounds throughout this book is the mercy of which God's people are assured despite their faithlessness, especially the faithlessness of their leaders. "Who is a God like you, pardoning iniquity and passing over transgression for the remnant of his inheritance?" God will pass over his people's sin because of his covenant promises.

At the heart of those covenant promises is God's sovereign purpose of mercy to the nations. "It shall come to pass in the latter days that the mountain of the house of the LORD shall be established as the highest of the mountains, and it shall be lifted up above the hills; and peoples shall flow to it, and many nations shall come and say, 'Come, let us go up to the mountain of the LORD'" (Mic. 4:1–2; compare Isa. 2:2–3). God is on a mission to extend his steadfast love to all those who call on his name, from every people group all around the world.

Micah in Redemptive History

The story line of the Bible is one of creation, fall, redemption, and consummation. God created all things good. He lived with Adam and Eve in perfect fellowship and harmony. In our father Adam, however, we all rebelled (Rom. 5:12–19). Humanity fell into corruption and sin, bringing the whole cosmos with us (Rom. 8:19–22). From early on, however, God has promised to be with his people and to enable them to overcome their spiritual enemy, the devil and his forces (Gen. 3:15). Redemption has begun, climaxing in Christ, in whom "all the promises of God find their Yes" (2 Cor. 1:20). All who trust him are adopted into God's family, united to Christ, indwelt by the Spirit, forgiven their sin, and restored to God. One day, when Christ comes again, all will be set right and God's people will be vindicated.

God's indictment of Israel. Micah's prophecy advances this story line by focusing on some of the results of the fall, recounting a series of sins among God's people in the generations between Adam and Christ. Having been called to bless the whole world (Gen. 12:1–3), the sin problem for which Israel was meant to be an instrument of healing has instead infected them just as it has the rest of the world. God's people are idolatrous (Mic. 1:7; 5:12–14), oppressive to the vulnerable in society (2:2, 8–9), and dishonest in their business dealings (6:9–12). In particular, the leaders of Israel, both civil and religious, are corrupt (3:1–11; 7:3).

God's overflowing redemption. But God has not left his people there. He has determined to save a remnant (Mic. 2:12; 5:7; 7:18), in faithfulness to his covenant promises. We are a fallen people.But God is a God of redemption. And this redemption is for all peoples. At the heart of Micah is the promise that one day the nations of the world will flow to Zion—to Jerusalem—to worship the one true God. Yet with the coming of Christ, the stream of nations flowing to Jerusalem became reversed: now, God's people flow out from Jerusalem to the ends of the earth (Acts 1:8), bringing God's blessing to the nations.

Universal Themes in Micah

The gracious restoration of God's people. Despite their sin, God will send a ruler to "shepherd his flock in the strength of the LORD" (Mic. 5:2–4; compare John 10:11). "And they shall dwell secure, for now he shall be great to the ends of the earth. And he shall be their peace" (Mic. 5:4–5). This ruler, from a whole-Bible perspective, is Jesus Christ (Matt. 2:5–6). And the peace he won for believers extends, Micah says, "to the ends of the earth." The restored people of God, when we take into view all of human history, is not simply a restored ethnic Israel but a restored humanity from all the nations of the earth, as anticipated in Micah 4:1–5. This restoration is beautifully expressed in the words of worship that close Micah's prophecy: "Who is a God like you, pardoning iniquity and passing over transgression for the remnant of his inheritance? He does not retain his anger forever, because he delights in steadfast love. He will again have compassion on us; he will tread our iniquities underfoot" (Mic. 7:18–19).

Compassion and advocacy for the oppressed. God is not pleased when his people perform ritual sacrifices but fail to pursue compassion and justice. "'Will the LORD be pleased with thousands of rams, with ten thousands of rivers of oil? Shall I give my firstborn for my transgression, the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?' He has told you, O man, what is good; and what does the LORD require of you but to do justice, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with your God?" (Mic. 6:7–8).

Performing external acts of worship while neglecting the needs of those around us is an offense to God.

The Global Message of Micah for Today

Three of the great themes of the Bible form the backbone of Micah: divine judgment of sin; merciful restoration due to God’s covenant faithfulness, achieved through a coming Shepherd-King; and the compassion that God’s people must accordingly demonstrate to a watching world.

All three of these themes are sources of strength to the church worldwide today. Those feeling overwhelmed by the spiritual warfare in which they are embattled can be heartened by God’s determination to set all wrongs right at the end of history. Those feeling the weight of their sin and the sharp pain of regret are given strong hope in the steadfast love of the Lord of mercy. And all God’s people are reminded that formal exercises of worship, though they are helpful means of expressing heartfelt praise to God, can never replace the crucial role of justice and compassion for our neighbors. We to whom God has shown such lavish compassion are compelled by love to extend compassion to the defenseless and disadvantaged all around us.

Micah opens with a call to all the nations to pay heed to what God is doing: “Hear, you peoples, all of you; pay attention, O earth, and all that is in it” (Mic. 1:2). And the book closes with a declaration that people from everywhere will come to the Lord, even from the hated nations of Assyria and Egypt (7:12), while other nationalities who have remained impenitent tremble at the sight of God’s people (7:15–17). From beginning to end, Micah resounds with a message of salvation through judgment not only for Israel but for all the nations of the world. He is a refuge to all.

MICAH 1 [†]The word of the LORD that came to Micah [a] of Moresheth [b] in the days of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, which he saw [c] concerning [d] Samaria and Jerusalem.

The Coming Destruction

2[†] [e] Hear, you peoples, all of you; [1]
[f] pay attention, O earth, and all that is in it, and [g] let the Lord GOD be a witness against you,
[h] the Lord from his holy temple.
3[†] For behold, [i] the LORD is coming out of [j] his place, and will come down and [k] tread upon the high places of the earth.
4[†] And [l] the mountains will melt under him,
and the valleys will split open,
like wax before the fire,
like waters poured down a steep place.
5[†] All this is for [m] the transgression of Jacob and for the sins of the house of Israel.
[n] What is the transgression of Jacob?
Is it not [d] Samaria?
And what is [o] the high place of Judah?
Is it not Jerusalem?
6[†] Therefore I will make [d] Samaria [p] a heap in the open country, a place for planting vineyards, and I will pour down her stones [q] into the valley and [r] uncover her foundations.
7[†] All [s] her carved images shall be beaten to pieces, [t] all her wages shall be burned with fire,
and all her idols I will lay waste,
for from [t] the fee of a prostitute she gathered them,
and to the fee of a prostitute they shall return.

8[†] [u] For this I will lament and wail;
I will go [v] stripped and naked;
I will make lamentation [w] like the jackals,

and mourning [x]like the ostriches.
9[†] [y]For her wound is incurable, and it has come to Judah;
it has reached to the gate of my people,
to Jerusalem.

10[†] [z]Tell it not in [a]Gath;
weep not at all;
in Beth-le-aphrah
[b]roll yourselves in the dust.
11[†] Pass on your way, inhabitants of Shaphir, [c]in nakedness and shame;
the inhabitants of Zaanan
do not come out;
the lamentation of Beth-ezel shall take away from you its standing place.
12[†] For the inhabitants of Maroth wait anxiously for good, because disaster has come down [d]from the LORD to the gate of Jerusalem.
13[†] Harness the steeds to the chariots, inhabitants of [e]Lachish;
it was the beginning of sin
to the daughter of Zion, for in you were found
[f]the transgressions of Israel.
14[†] Therefore you shall give parting gifts [2]
to [g]Moresheth-gath;
the houses of [h]Achzib shall be a deceitful thing to the kings of Israel.
15[†] I will again bring [i]a conqueror to you, inhabitants of [h]Mareshah;
the glory of Israel
shall come to [j]Adullam.

16 [k] Make yourselves bald and cut off your hair,
for the children of your delight;
[k] make yourselves as bald as the eagle,
for they shall go from you into exile.

Woe to the Oppressors

MICAH 2 [†] [l] Woe to those who devise wickedness and work evil [m] on their beds!
When the morning dawns, they perform it,
because it is in the power of their hand.
2 [†] They covet fields and [n] seize them,
and houses, and take them away;
they oppress a man and his house,
a man and his inheritance.
3 [†] Therefore thus says the LORD:
behold, against [o] this family I am devising disaster, [1] from which you cannot remove your necks, and you [p] shall not walk haughtily,
[q] for it will be a time of disaster.
4 [†] In that day [r] they shall take up a taunt song against you and moan bitterly,
and say, “We are utterly ruined;
[s] he changes the portion of my people;
[s] how he removes it from me!
[t] To an apostate he allots our fields.”
5 [†] Therefore you will have none [u] to cast the line by lot in the assembly of the LORD.

6 [v] “Do not preach”—thus they preach—
[w] “one should not preach of such things; [x] disgrace will not overtake us.”
7 [†] Should this be said, O house of Jacob?
[y] Has the LORD grown impatient? [2]
Are these his deeds?

Do not my words do good to him who walks uprightly?
[8][†] But lately [y]my people have risen up as an enemy;
you strip the rich robe from those who pass by trustingly with no thought of war. [3] [9] The women of my people you drive out from their delightful houses;
from their young children you take away
my splendor forever.
[10][†] [z]Arise and go,
for this is no [a]place to rest, because of [b]uncleanness that destroys with a grievous destruction.
[11][†] If a man should go about and [c]utter wind and lies, saying, “I will preach to you [d]of wine and strong drink,” he would be the preacher for this people!
[12][†] I will surely assemble all of you, O Jacob;
[e]I will gather [f]the remnant of Israel;
I will set them together
like sheep in a fold, [h]like a flock in its pasture,
a noisy multitude of men.
[13][†] [i]He who opens the breach goes up before them;
they break through and pass the gate,
[j]going out by it.
Their king passes on before them,
[k]the LORD at their head.

Rulers and Prophets Denounced

MICAH 3 [†] And I said:
[l]Hear, you heads of Jacob
and rulers of the house of Israel!
[m]Is it not for you to know justice?—
[2][†] you [n]who hate the good and love the evil,

[o] who tear the skin from off my people [1]
and their flesh from off their bones, 3 [p] who eat the flesh of my people,
and flay their skin from off them,
and break their bones in pieces and chop them up like meat in a pot, like flesh in a cauldron.

4[†] [q] Then they will cry to the LORD,
but he will not answer them;
[r] he will hide his face from them at that time,
because they have made their deeds evil.

5[†] Thus says the LORD concerning [s] the prophets who lead my people astray, [t] who cry “Peace”
when they have something to eat, but declare war against him who puts nothing into their mouths.
6[†] Therefore [u] it shall be night to you, without vision, and darkness to you, without divination.
[v] The sun shall go down on the prophets,
and the day shall be black over them;
7 [w] the seers shall be disgraced,
and the diviners put to shame;
[x] they shall all cover their lips,
for [y] there is no answer from God.
8[†] But as for me, [z] I am filled with power, with the Spirit of the LORD, and with justice and might,
to declare to Jacob [a] his transgression and to Israel his sin.

9[†] [b] Hear this, you heads of the house of Jacob
and rulers of the house of Israel,
[c] who detest justice and make crooked all that is straight, 10 [d] who build Zion with blood and Jerusalem with iniquity.

11[†] [e] Its heads give judgment for a bribe;
[f] its priests teach for a price;
[g] its prophets practice divination for money;
[h] yet they lean on the LORD and [i] say,
“Is not the LORD in the midst of us?
[j] No disaster shall come upon us.”
12[†] Therefore because of you
[k] Zion shall be plowed as a field;
Jerusalem [l] shall become a heap of ruins,
and [m] the mountain of the house [n] a wooded height.

The Mountain of the LORD

MICAH 4 [†] It shall come to pass [o] in the latter days that the mountain of the house of the LORD
shall be established as the highest of the mountains,
and it shall be lifted up above the hills;
and peoples shall flow to it,
2[†] and many nations shall come, and say:
“Come, let us go up to the mountain of the LORD,
to the house of the God of Jacob,
that he may teach us his ways
and that we may walk in his paths.”
For out of Zion shall go forth the law, [1]
and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.
3[†] He shall judge between many peoples, and shall decide for strong nations far away;
and they shall [p] beat their swords into plowshares,
and their spears into pruning hooks;
nation shall not lift up sword against nation,
neither shall they learn war anymore;
4[†] [q] but they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree,

[r] and no one shall make them afraid,
[s] for the mouth of the Lord of hosts has spoken.
5[†] For [t] all the peoples walk each in the name of its god, but [u] we will walk in the name of the Lord our God forever and ever.

The Lord Shall Rescue Zion

6[†] [v] In that day, declares the Lord,
[w] I will assemble the [x] lame and gather those who have been driven away and those whom I have afflicted; 7 and the lame I will make [y] the remnant,
and those who were cast off, a strong nation;
and [z] the Lord will reign over them [a] in Mount Zion
from this time forth and forevermore.

8[†] And you, O tower of the flock, hill of the daughter of Zion,
to you shall it come,
the former dominion shall come,
kingship for the daughter of Jerusalem.

9[†] Now why do you cry aloud?
[b] Is there no king in you?
[c] Has your counselor perished,
that [d] pain seized you like a woman in labor?
10 [e] Writhe and groan, [2] O daughter of Zion, like a woman in labor,
for [f] now you shall go out from the city and dwell in the open country;
you [g] shall go to Babylon.
There you shall be rescued;
[h] there the Lord will redeem you from the hand of your enemies.

[11][†] Now [i] many nations are assembled against you, saying, “Let her be defiled, and [j] let our eyes gaze upon Zion.”
[12][†] But [k] they do not know the thoughts of the LORD;
they do not understand his plan,
that [l] he has gathered them as sheaves to the threshing floor.
[13][†] Arise and thresh, O daughter of Zion,
for I will make your horn iron,
and I will make your hoofs bronze;
you shall beat in pieces many peoples;
and [m] shall devote [3] [n] their gain to the LORD,
their wealth to [o] the Lord of the whole earth.

The Ruler to Be Born in Bethlehem

MICAH 5 [†] [1] Now muster your troops, O daughter [2] of troops;
siege is laid against us;
with a rod [p] they strike the judge of Israel
on the cheek.
[2][†] [3] [q] But you, O Bethlehem Ephrathah, who are too little to be among the clans of [r] Judah, from you shall come forth for me
one who is to be [s] ruler in Israel, [t] whose coming forth is [u] from of old,
from ancient days.
[3][†] Therefore he shall give them up [v] until the time when she who is in labor has given birth; then [w] the rest of his brothers shall return to the people of Israel.
[4][†] And he shall stand [x] and shepherd his flock [y] in the strength of the LORD, in the majesty of the name of the LORD his God.

And they shall dwell secure, for now [z] he shall be great to the ends of the earth.
5[†] And he shall be [a] their peace.

[b] When the Assyrian comes into our land and treads in our palaces, then we will raise against him seven [c] shepherds
and eight princes of men;
6 they shall shepherd the land of Assyria with the sword, and the land of [d] Nimrod at its entrances;
and he shall deliver us from the Assyrian [b] when he comes into our land and treads within our border.

A Remnant Shall Be Delivered

7[†] Then [w] the remnant of Jacob shall be in the midst of many peoples
like dew from the LORD,
like showers on the grass,
which delay not for a man
nor wait for the children of man.
8 And [w] the remnant of Jacob shall be among the nations,
in the midst of many peoples,
like a lion among the beasts of the forest,
like a young lion among the flocks of sheep, [e] which, when it goes through, treads down and tears in pieces, and there is none to deliver.
9 Your hand shall [f] be lifted up over your adversaries, and all your enemies shall be cut off.

10[†] And [g] in that day, declares the LORD, [h] I will cut off your horses from among you and will destroy your chariots;
11 [i] and I will cut off the cities of your land and throw down all your strongholds;

12[†] and I will cut off [j] sorceries from your hand,
and [k] you shall have no more tellers of fortunes;
13 and [l] I will cut off your carved images and [m] your pillars from among you, [n] and you shall bow down no more to the work of your hands;
14[†] and I will root out your [o] Asherah images from among you
[i] and destroy your cities.
15[†] And in anger and wrath [p] I will execute vengeance on the nations that did not obey.

The Indictment of the LORD

MICAH 6 [†] [q] Hear what the LORD says:
Arise, plead your case before the mountains,
and let the hills hear your voice.
2 [r] Hear, you mountains, [s] the indictment of the LORD, and you enduring foundations of the earth,
for the LORD has an indictment against his people,
and he will contend with Israel.

3[†] “O my people, [t] what have I done to you?
[u] How have I wearied you? Answer me!
4[†] For [v] I brought you up from the land of Egypt and [w] redeemed you from the house of slavery, and I sent before you Moses,
Aaron, and [x] Miriam.
5[†] O my people, remember [y] what Balak king of Moab devised, and what Balaam the son of Beor answered him,
and what happened from [z] Shittim to Gilgal, that you may know [a] the righteous acts of the LORD.”

What Does the LORD Require?

6[†] [b] “With what shall I come before the LORD, and bow myself before [c] God on high?

Shall I come before him with burnt offerings, with calves a year old?
7 [d] Will the LORD be pleased with [1] thousands of rams, with ten thousands of rivers of oil?
[e] Shall I give my firstborn for my transgression, the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?”
8[†] He has told you, O man, what is good;
and [f] what does the LORD require of you but to do justice, and to love kindness, [2] and to [g] walk humbly with your God?

Destruction of the Wicked

9[†] The voice of the LORD cries to the city—and it is sound wisdom to fear [h] your name:
“Hear of [i] the rod and of him who appointed it! [3] 10[†] Can I forget any longer the treasures [4] of wickedness in the house of the wicked, and the scant measure that is accursed?
11 Shall I acquit the man [j] with wicked scales and with a bag of deceitful weights?
12 Your [5] rich men are [k] full of violence;
your inhabitants [l] speak lies,
and [m] their tongue is deceitful in their mouth.
13[†] Therefore I strike you with a grievous blow, [n] making you desolate because of your sins.
14[†] [o] You shall eat, but not be satisfied, and there shall be hunger within you;
you shall put away, but not preserve,
and what you preserve I will give to the sword.
15 [p] You shall sow, but not reap;
you shall tread olives, but not anoint yourselves with oil;
you shall tread grapes, but not drink wine.
16[†] For you have kept the statutes of [q] Omri, [6] and all the works of the house of [r] Ahab;

    and you have walked in their counsels, that I may make you [s] a desolation, and your [7] inhabitants [s] a hissing;
    so you shall bear [t] the scorn of my people.”

Wait for the God of Salvation

MICAH 7 [†] Woe is me! For I have become [u] as when the summer fruit has been gathered, as when the grapes have been gleaned:
there is no cluster to eat,
    no [v] first-ripe fig that my soul desires.
2 [w] The godly has perished from the earth, and [x] there is no one upright among mankind;
[y] they all lie in wait for blood, and [z] each hunts the other with a net.
3[†] [a] Their hands are on what is evil, to do it well;
    [b] the prince and [c] the judge ask for a bribe,
and the great man utters the evil desire of his soul;
    thus they weave it together.
4[†] The best of them is [d] like a brier,
    the most upright of them a thorn hedge.
The day of [e] your watchmen, of your punishment, has come;
    [f] now their confusion is at hand.
5 [g] Put no trust in a neighbor;
    have no confidence in a friend;
guard [h] the doors of your mouth from her who lies in your arms; [1] 6 for [i] the son treats the father with contempt, the daughter rises up against her mother,
the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law;
    [j] a man’s enemies are the men of his own house.
7[†] But as for me, I will look to the LORD;
    [k] I will wait for the God of my salvation;
    my God will hear me.

8[†] [l] Rejoice not over me, O [m] my enemy;
[n] when I fall, I shall rise;
[o] when I sit in darkness,
the LORD will be a light to me.
9[†] [p] I will bear the indignation of the LORD because I have sinned against him, until [q] he pleads my cause and executes judgment for me.
[r] He will bring me out to the light;
I shall look upon his vindication.
10[†] Then [s] my enemy will see,
and shame will cover her who [t] said to me,
“Where is the LORD your God?”
[u] My eyes will look upon her;
now she will be trampled down
[v] like the mire of the streets.

11[†] [w] A day for the building of your walls!
In that day the boundary shall be far extended.
12 In that day they [2] will come to you,
[y] from Assyria and the cities of Egypt,
and from Egypt to [z] the River,
[a] from sea to sea and from mountain to mountain.
13[†] But [b] the earth will be desolate because of its inhabitants, for the fruit of their deeds.

14[†] [c] Shepherd your people [d] with your staff,
the flock of your inheritance,
who dwell alone in a forest [e] in the midst of [f] a garden land; [3] let them graze in Bashan and Gilead as in the days of old.
15[†] [g] As in the days when you came out of the land of Egypt,
I will show them [4] marvelous things.

16[†] [h] The nations shall see and be ashamed of all their might;
[i] they shall lay their hands on their mouths;
their ears shall be deaf;
17 [j] they shall lick the dust like a serpent,
like the crawling things of the earth;
[k] they shall come trembling out of their strongholds;
[l] they shall turn in dread to the LORD our God,
and they shall be in fear of you.

God’s Steadfast Love and Compassion

18[†] [m] Who is a God like you, [n] pardoning iniquity and passing over transgression [n] for the remnant of his inheritance?
[o] He does not retain his anger forever,
because he delights in steadfast love.
19[†] He will [p] again have compassion on us;
[q] he will tread our iniquities underfoot.
[r] You will cast all our [5] sins into the depths of the sea.
20[†] [s] You will show faithfulness to Jacob and steadfast love to Abraham, [t] as you have sworn to our fathers from the days of old.

Study Notes for Micah

1:1 Superscription. Rather than being identified by his father or family (compare Joel 1:1; Jonah 1:1), this prophet is identified by a location, “Micah of Moresheth.” Moresheth was about 22 miles (35 km) southwest of Jerusalem. Micah is never referred to as “prophet,” but the source of his power is described as the “Spirit of the LORD” (Mic. 3:8).

FACT

Moresheth, where Micah lived, was a small village 22 miles (35 km) southwest of Jerusalem. It was one of the many military outposts set up to secure the kingdom’s borders.

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:2–2:13 The Announcement of Judgment on Israel and Judah. The first major section describes (1) God’s punishment of Samaria and Judah (1:2–16); (2) abuses and abusers of Yahweh’s land (2:1–11); and (3) God’s promise to gather Jacob (2:12–13).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:2 Hear. This verb marks the beginning of each of the book’s major divisions (1:2; 3:1; 6:1). witness against. The Lord will provide evidence against Samaria (Mal. 3:5).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:3 Yahweh is coming out for battle (compare Isa. 26:21; Zech. 14:3). Canaanite shrines were located on high places (see note on 1 Kings 3:2).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:4 mountains will melt. Compare Ps. 97:5; Nah. 1:5. The undoing of creation forewarns of the undoing of Samaria (Mic. 1:6–7).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:5 Jacob . . . house of Israel. The whole nation will be judged (2:12; 3:1, 8–9).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:6 I will shows the Lord’s intention to act (vv. 7, 15; 2:3, 12; 4:6–7, 13; 5:10–15; 6:14; 7:15). Samaria a heap. A similar fate awaits

Jerusalem (3:12). uncover her foundations. The judgment of public shame (compare 4:11; 7:10).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:7 All her carved images . . . wages . . . idols. Yahweh's judgment will be extensive. fee of a prostitute. The spiritual infidelity of the city is like the actions of a prostitute (compare Judg. 2:17; Ezek. 16:33–36).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:8 go stripped and naked. Wearing sackcloth (Gen. 37:34) and covering one's head (2 Sam. 15:30) usually signified mourning. This may be a more intense mourning, or else an image of going into exile (compare Isa. 20:3–4). jackals . . . ostriches. Judah is pictured as a land destroyed (Isa. 34:13; Jer. 50:39).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:9 It has reached probably refers to the yet-to-be-identified "disaster" (v. 12).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:10–15 The names of the towns and the words describing the disasters sound alike. Micah uses wordplay to reveal the various disasters Judah will face when its towns are captured by the Assyrians.

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:10 Tell it not in Gath. Micah wants to prevent either sympathy or rejoicing from outside observers over the coming destruction (compare 2 Sam. 1:20). Beth-le-aphrah could be translated "House of Dust." roll yourselves. Those under judgment must give full expression to their grief.

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:11 Shaphir sounds like "beautiful" and contrasts with nakedness and shame. Zaanan sounds like the Hebrew for "come out." In fear, the trembling inhabitants do not come out for battle. Beth-ezel ("House of Taking Away") expresses lamentation that the village was "taken away," that is, destroyed.

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:12 Maroth conveys the concept of bitterness. Thus, a "bitter" town longs for good. The disaster from Yahweh, who "will come down" (v. 3), has come down to Jerusalem's gate (compare v. 9).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:13 The Hebrew for steeds sounds like Lachish. Ironically, the people are urged to harness horses to chariots not to fight but to flee.

FACT

Micah's list of disasters (1:10–15) is based on a series of word plays. For example, the city name Beth-le-aphrah means "House of Dust," and its inhabitants will mourn "in the dust" (1:10). Lachish sounds like "steeds," and they will flee on their steeds (1:13).

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:14 Moresheth-gath. The name is associated with the phrase "one who is betrothed" (Deut. 22:23). Assyria will receive a dowry (that is, parting gifts), along with the bride (that is, Moresheth-gath). Achzib sounds like "deceitful" (compare Jer. 15:18). The kings of Israel, expecting Achzib to provide revenue, will be deceived.

MICAH—NOTE ON 1:15 The Hebrew for conqueror sounds like Mareshah and is often used to describe Israel's taking of Canaan. Those who formerly conquered the Canaanites will now themselves be conquered. glory of Israel . . . Adullam. David fled to Adullam, where he was pursued by Saul (1 Sam. 22:1; 2 Sam. 23:13). Now David's descendants likewise flee from a hostile conqueror.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:1 in the power of their hand. Attention shifts from cities and people to those who do evil because they have the authority and ability to carry out their schemes.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:2 covet . . . seize . . . take . . . oppress. Taking land and property (his inheritance) from the weak was a violation of the covenant (Ex. 20:17) and a primary reason for judgment against Ahab's house (1 Kings 21; see Mic. 6:16).

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:3 against this family. The entire community is accountable for the sins of its leaders. a time of disaster. See Amos 5:13.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:4 taunt song. These oppressors had seized property from the defenseless (vv. 1–2). Now the apostate (the Assyrians?) will seize their land and they will be mocked for their losses.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:5 you will have none. The dishonest land-grabbers are excluded from the inheritance they denied to others (v. 2).

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:7 The people thought that a God of grace could never bring the disaster mentioned in vv. 3–5.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:8–9 These acts are similar to the abuses detailed in vv. 1–5. my people . . . an enemy. The accusation of hostility is supported by three examples of enemy-like conduct in war.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:10 Arise and go . . . no place to rest. The uncleanness of their injustice has denied rest to others, and so the Lord demands that the people be exiled from their own place of rest.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:11 preach . . . of wine. The people welcomed “preaching” that emphasized overindulgence. They did not want to hear that they were violating God’s standards.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:12–13 The first main section ends with the Shepherd of Israel gathering his sheep into the protective fold and leading them out as their triumphant King.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:12 assemble . . . gather . . . set . . . like sheep. The descriptive actions portray Yahweh as a protective shepherd.

MICAH—NOTE ON 2:13 opens the breach. The picture shifts to a king leading his army out (they break through) from an enclosed city. king . . . before them . . . LORD. The identity of the Shepherd-King who leads the people into battle is fully revealed.

3:1–5:15 The Present Injustice and the Future Prospect of Just Rule in Jerusalem. The second section focuses on the corrupt leadership in the house of Israel (3:1–12). Jerusalem’s restoration among the nations is promised (4:1–7) and accomplished (4:8–5:15).

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:1–2a Is it not for you to know justice? Those given judicial responsibility should delight in God’s law and understand what is right.

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:2b–3 tear . . . eat . . . flay . . . break . . . chop. The imagery of cannibalism symbolizes the destructive violence of the leaders against the oppressed (compare Ps. 14:4; 27:2; Prov. 30:14).

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:4 he will not answer . . . he will hide his face. As part of their fair sentence, those who would not hear the cries of the people will now find that God will not hear them.

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:5 Peace . . . war. Profit-seeking prophets proclaim that all is well, as long as they receive what they ask for.

FACT

The business of prophecy. The life of a prophet was not an easy one, and few could carry out its rigorous demands. False prophets, however, could do very well for themselves because they charged money for their prophecies. Not surprisingly, these “paid prophecies” usually favored the person paying for them (3:5).

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:6–7 no answer from God. God does not give his word to the false prophets. As with the civil leaders (v. 4), God’s silence is part of their sentence.

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:8 But as for me distinguishes Micah and his unpopular message from that of the false prophets.

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:9–12 This third oracle of judgment adds priests to the previously addressed civil rulers (vv. 1–4) and false prophets (vv. 5–8).

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:9 detest justice. The rulers were supposed to know and do justice (compare vv. 1, 8), but instead they find it repulsive. make crooked. These judicial leaders make corrupt decisions.

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:11 heads . . . priests . . . prophets. All the leaders give the people the results they desire, in exchange for payment. lean on the LORD. They expect God to save them, even though they are living sinful lives.

MICAH—NOTE ON 3:12 because of you. As the leaders had built Jerusalem with injustice and violent acts (v. 10), so they are responsible for its "unbuilding." mountain of the house. This sets up a contrast with "mountain of the house of the LORD" (4:1). The temple without the Lord's presence is simply a structure on a hill.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:1–7 Jerusalem and its temple, once destroyed (3:12), are exalted as a source of instruction, justice, and righteousness (4:1–5). The weak become strong under Yahweh's rule (vv. 6–7). Verses 1–5 are almost identical to Isa. 2:1–5.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:1 in the latter days. Micah envisions a new era in which Jerusalem's fortunes are reversed. See note on Isa. 2:2 for the time of "the latter days." shall flow to it. Rather than streaming to false gods (compare Jer. 51:44), the nations will worship the Lord.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:2 out of Zion shall go forth the law. The teaching of God's ways will go from Jerusalem to all nations.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:3 They shall beat their swords into plowshares looks forward to a time "in the latter days" (v. 1) when armies or weapons are no longer needed (see note on Isa. 2:4).

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:4 vine . . . fig tree. A key OT image of peace and prosperity (compare 1 Kings 4:25; Zech. 3:10). The military title LORD of hosts (that is, of armies) emphasizes God's power to bring about these events.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:5 but we will walk . . . forever. In contrast to the pagan nations, the people of God walk together, united to their King (v. 2).

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:6–7 God promises to gather his exiled people to Zion, where they will submit to him as their King. In that day. See v. 1; 5:10.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:8–5:15 As the kingdom is established (4:8), the focus moves from distress and salvation (4:9–5:1) to messianic intervention and victory (5:2–6). The remnant both blesses and curses the nations (5:7–9), and the Lord obliterates idolatries from his people (5:10–15).

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:8 tower of the flock . . . former dominion. As David ruled from Jerusalem, so a new king will rule once more. daughter of Zion. Jerusalem’s inhabitants.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:9 Is there no king in you? Human kings cannot save the people.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:11 nations are assembled. The specific setting is probably the Assyrian attack in 701 B.C. (see 5:5). defiled . . . gaze. The gathered forces express their desire to defile Jerusalem’s holy temple and expose it to public scorn.

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:12 his plan . . . he has gathered. The nations have assembled themselves (v. 11), and yet it is Yahweh who brings them to his threshing floor. War is pictured as a harvest, which is often a picture of judgment (e.g., Jer. 51:33; Matt. 13:30; Rev. 14:15).

MICAH—NOTE ON 4:13 Arise and thresh. Zion is pictured as an invincible ox treading grain. Lord of the whole earth. The Lord controls everything.

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:1–15 A new hope for Israel, and for the whole world, comes by means of a new David. His deeds are praised (vv. 1–6) and the influence of the Israelite remnant among the nations is described (vv. 7–9). The chapter concludes with the Lord removing all the idols his people had worshiped (vv. 10–15).

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:1 Now. As earlier (4:9, 11), this word signals distress for Zion. Wordplay between muster your troops and daughter of troops suggests Zion is unable to establish an army to defend itself. siege. Probably that of Sennacherib (701 B.C.). strike the judge of Israel. A metaphor of humiliation for Israel’s king, who is now under siege (2 Chron. 32:10).

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:2 But you. Both here and in 4:8, these words signal renewed kingship. Bethlehem, where David was born (1 Sam. 17:12), is located in Ephrathah. too little. The unlikely choice of David as king foreshadows the unlikely choice of Bethlehem as the hometown of the greater David, the Messiah. Matthew 2:6 shows that Jewish scholars of Jesus' day read this as a prediction of the Messiah's birthplace (see John 7:42). The Messiah's coming forth (or "origins") is from of old, from ancient days. The Messiah's lineage confirms that the ancient covenantal promises made to David still stand (see 2 Sam. 7:16).

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:3 he shall give them up. Israel will be ruled by others. his brothers shall return. The Messiah will unite Israel.

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:4 he shall stand and shepherd. The Messiah's rule and protection of Yahweh's flock are accomplished by Yahweh's authority and power. dwell secure . . . ends of the earth. God's greatness ensures that those who return (v. 3) will live without fear.

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:5–6 True peace among people is achieved by the Messiah, who overcomes conflict (compare Eph. 2:14). The Assyrian represents the enemies of God's people. seven shepherds . . . eight princes. This traditional formula (compare Eccles. 11:2) expresses a parallel between the Messiah's actions and those who faithfully lead in his place. This is seen in the main verbs they shall shepherd . . . he shall deliver.

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:7–8 delay not . . . nor wait. Like dew and rain, the remnant of Israel will help other people. God will make this happen. goes through, treads . . . tears . . . none to deliver. The remnant will also defeat its enemies.

FACT

The land of Nimrod (5:6) included Assyria and other parts of Mesopotamia. Nimrod was the son of Cush and was a "mighty hunter before the LORD" (Gen. 10:8–14). Many cities of the region claim him as their founder.

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:10–11 in that day. See 4:1, 6. The Lord will answer the prayer implied in the wording of 5:9: he will cut off things that compromise the holiness of his people. horses . . . strongholds. Armies and fortresses, rather than the Lord, were often relied on as security against external enemies (compare Isa. 31:1; Hos. 8:14).

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:12–13 sorceries . . . tellers of fortunes. Seeking occult knowledge was forbidden to Israel (Deut. 18:10, 14). your carved images . . . your pillars. See Mic. 1:7; Rom. 1:22–23.

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:14 Asherah images are wooden images of the Canaanite fertility goddess.

MICAH—NOTE ON 5:15 execute vengeance. The Lord alone, as the sovereign ruler, has the right to rescue his people and punish the nations that did not obey. The nations that return to the Lord receive instruction (4:1–2), while those that will not submit to his rule receive destruction (5:15).

6:1–7:20 The Lord's Indictment and Restoration of His People. The Lord's indictment against his people is delivered (6:1–8), and the crisis within the covenantal relationship is described (6:9–7:7). Micah expresses trust that the Lord will defend his people (7:8–13). The Lord will shepherd his flock with compassion (7:14–20).

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:1–2 Hear (see also 1:2; 3:1). In this “covenant lawsuit,” Micah summons the participants to the trial: Israel, the Lord himself, and the entire created order. case . . . indictment. Words that suggest a legal proceeding (compare 7:9; Isa. 41:21; 50:8). Micah invites the Lord to present his case against the people. The jury consists of the mountains and the foundations of the earth.

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:3 my people. The Lord presents his case. He reminds Israel of its covenantal relationship with him. Answer me! challenges the Israelites to prove their charge that the Lord has wronged them.

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:4 I brought you up . . . redeemed you . . . sent before you. The Lord directed the events surrounding the exodus (compare Amos 3:1–2).

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:5 The mention of Balak and Balaam (Numbers 22–24) reminds Israel that the Lord wants to bless rather than curse them. remember . . . that you may know. Faith is strengthened in the present by remembering God’s covenant-keeping deliverances in the past. The people of Israel crossed the Jordan from Shittim to Gilgal on the final portion of their journey (Joshua 2–4). At Shittim the covenant was broken (Num. 25:1–9), and at Gilgal it was renewed (Joshua 5).

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:6–7 LORD . . . God on high. The covenantal Lord is also the transcendent God. Shall I give . . . ? The proposed sacrifices increase in value and absurdity, ending with an outrage (ten thousands of rivers of oil . . . my firstborn). Micah is exposing an attitude that wrongly sees sacrifice as an entry fee, rather than as an avenue for God to administer grace and forgiveness to the repentant (see note on Amos 4:4–5).

FACT

God has always been the same. The last verses of Micah describe God the Father as forgiving, compassionate, faithful, and loving (7:18–20). Jesus Christ, who is God the Son, is the living embodiment of these characteristics.

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:8 The Lord wants his people to respond to his redemptive acts with justice, kindness, and faithfulness (walk humbly) (see Matt. 23:23; compare Deut. 10:12–13; Isa. 1:11–17). On the meaning of “justice,” see notes on Isa. 42:1; Jer. 22:3; Amos 5:7. your God. The complement to “my people” (Mic. 6:3, 5).

Rather than being identified by his father or family, Micah is identified by a location: he is called “Micah of Moresheth” (1:1). The town was 22 miles (35 km) southwest of Jerusalem. Micah’s call to prophetic ministry is not recorded, and he is never referred to as “prophet,” but he is said to be speaking according to the “Spirit of the LORD” (3:8). The name “Micah” means “Who is like Yahweh?” Similarly, at the end of the book, Micah asks, “Who is a God like you?” (7:18). Both Micah’s name and his writings emphasize the matchless character and actions of the Lord. Micah announces God’s judgment on Israel for its unfaithfulness, yet he also proclaims God’s promise of great blessing through a Messiah—a prophecy fulfilled in Jesus Christ (5:1–15; Eph. 1:3–14). (Micah 6:8)

MICAH—NOTE ON 6:9–7:7 The Lord’s “lawsuit” continues. The city and its people are indicted for specific crimes (6:9–12); the divine sentence is delivered (6:13–16); and the consequences are envisioned (7:1–6).
